ANNOUNCEMENT

Communication Services for the Deaf is now accepting applications for Project Endeavor

“Communication Services for the Deaf has opened a new contact center and is starting to qualify deaf and hard-of-hearing consumers for Project Endeavor, a two-year project that allows low-income deaf and hard of hearing to purchase discounted equipment such as laptops, high-speed Internet access and life-skills training.

For the cost of $230, consumers receive a new notebook computer along with a 12-month 3G/4G wireless Internet access plan at no additional cost. Participants can keep the computer after the two-year project ends.

Deaf and hard of hearing consumers who can verify a bilateral hearing loss of 40db or greater should contact the Project Endeavor contact center at 877-NETME77 (voice), 877-403-4596 (TTY), 550-4056 or 644-7399 (VP), and 782-8446 (fax). The contact center also can be reached via e-mail at info@projectendeavor.com.”

ANNOUNCEMENT

This information, Visual Smoke Detectors for Deaf and Hard of Hearing is posted and available on the Iowa State Fire Marshal's website: http://www.dps.state.ia.us/fm/main/smoke_detector_project/index.shtml

Conventional smoke alarms can't fully address the needs of people who are deaf or hard of hearing and who can't rely on the sound of a conventional alarm to alert them to smoke or fire. Today, safety device manufacturers and vendors offer visual smoke alarms that use sound and strobe lights to alert people to fires in the home. These specialized alarms are more expensive than regular smoke alarms.

The Office of Deaf Services within the Department of Human Rights has a long term goal to develop a visual smoke alarm distribution program for deaf and hard of hearing Iowans. In November 2001, 30 participants who were either deaf or hard of hearing or had a family member who couldn't hear volunteered and did a needs assessment survey. As a result, the outcome shows that 63% don't have visual smoke alarms and 17 families had at least two deaf members per household.

The Office of Deaf Services encourages families with deaf or hard of hearing children and hearing children of deaf parents to fill out the Smoke Detector Project Survey. According to the Department of Education's report, "Data on Iowa Students who are Deaf or Hard of Hearing," November, 2008, shows 3320 students in Iowa. It is recommended when filling out the survey to add how many people are deaf or hard of hearing in your home.

Status Form for Deaf/Hard of Hearing

The Office of Deaf Services and State Fire Marshal are working together on the needs of visual smoke alarms for the families with deaf or hard of hearing members. This voluntary status form will help get the funding for these specialized alarms.

This will also help local fire departments follow up with these families and help collect the optional surveys. This is a voluntary form which deaf and hard of hearing community members can send to the local fire department in their community. It is important to let the firefighters know if you move and/or this information changes.
