WELCOME

Iowa . . . where friendliness is a way of life, welcomes you to 56,000 square miles of "good living". For its citizens and visitors Iowa offers a wealth of historical and scenic areas, exciting travel discoveries, unique attractions and exceptional educational, business and recreational opportunities. Iowa's gently rolling, bountiful farmland produces a tenth of the nation's food supply and contributes $4 billion annually to the state's economy. More than one-fourth of America's top 500 industrial corporations have Iowa based operations with an annual output of nearly $12 billion. Industry . . . Agriculture . . . Education . . . Business . . . Transportation . . . Culture . . . Recreation . . . Hospitality . . . Iowa affords the best.

COVER Cover Picture: Iowa's four distinct seasons provide a stimulating, healthy year-'round climate for abundant living.
Spring: Tulips, lilacs, many varieties of wild flowers and a verdant landscape highlight a typical Iowa spring.
Summer: Iowa's rich soil produces more wealth than all the world's gold mines and its long, sunny, summer days offer unlimited opportunities for outdoor recreation.
Autumn: In Iowa autumn is something else. With its warm, lazy days, crisp, cool nights and gorgeous changing scenery, fall is the time for fairs and festivals, major college football and the nation's finest pheasant hunting.
Winter: Excellently maintained highways provide Iowans and visitors with boundless opportunities to enjoy the state's invigorating winter season.
Iowa . . . spacious . . . uncrowded . . . pollution-free . . . where living is really living.

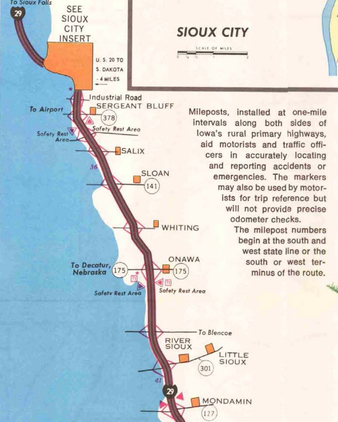
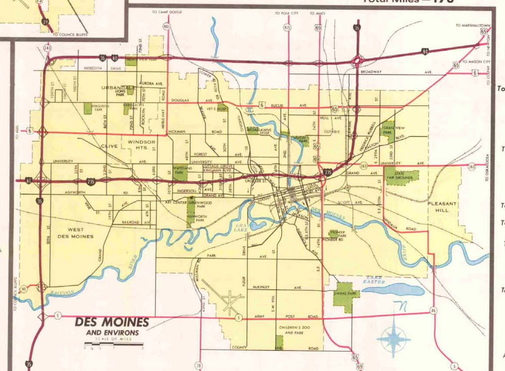
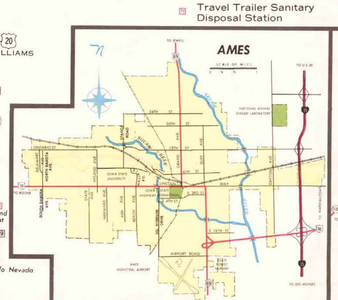
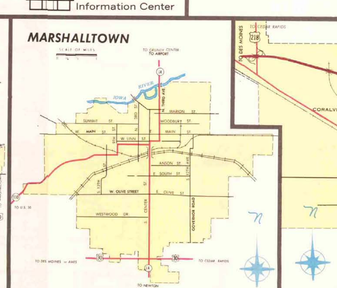
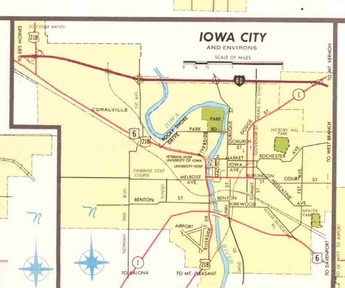
Mileposts, installed at one-mile intervals along both sides of Iowa's rural primary highways, aid motorists and traffic officers in accurately locating and reporting accidents or emergencies. The markers may also be used by motorists for trip reference but will not provide precise odometer checks. The milepost numbers begin at the south and west state line or the south or west terminus of the route.

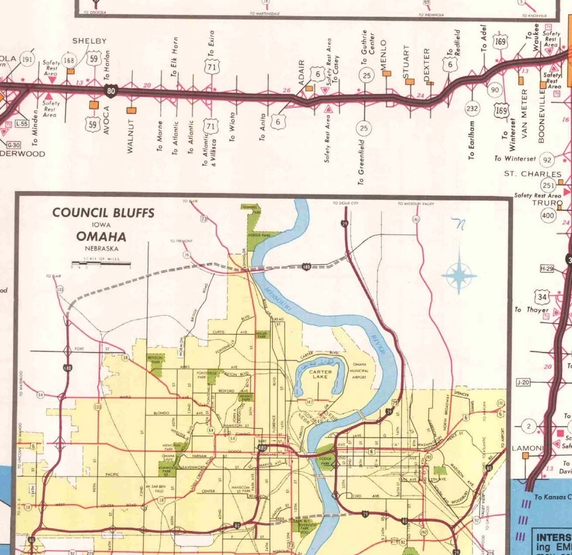


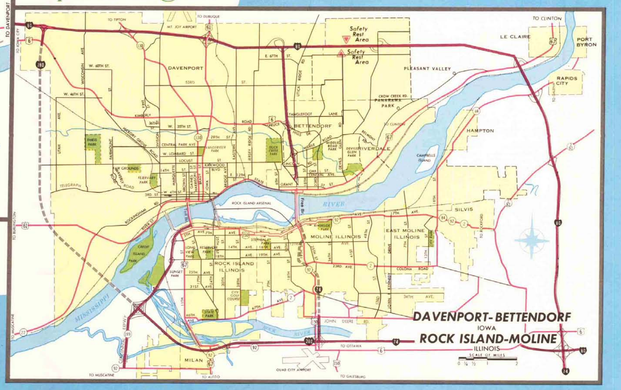












INTERSTATE EMERGENCY SERVICE—Motorists requiring EMERGENCY service on Iowa's Interstate system may call Iowa Highway Patrol District 1 Headquarters in Des Moines—Collect. Phone 515-281-5114 or 5115.
