Iowa Law Enforcement Academy
PROFESSIONALISM THROUGH TRAINING

Vision:

The Iowa Law Enforcement Academy provides the best basic, specialized, and leadership training to Iowa peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators.

Mission:

“Professionalism Through Training.”

Guiding Principles:

The Academy’s guiding principles include:

- Service;
- Teamwork;
- Excellence;
- Ethics; and
- Professionalism.

Core Functions:

The Academy’s core functions include:

Providing basic training to peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators;

Providing specialty and instructor training to peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators;

Providing leadership training to peace officer, jailer, and telecommunicators administrators and command staff; and

Providing administrative functions, to include employment testing, oversight, inspection, review, and compliance.

PROFESSIONALISM THROUGH TRAINING

A Year in Review: the Academy in Fiscal 2011

Approximately 6,000 peace officers in Iowa are currently certified, as well as about 1,500 reserve officers. Jailers (some of whom are certified peace officers, while some are civilian correctional officers) and about 1,300 telecommunicators in the state are also mandated by the Iowa Administrative Code, Section 501, to be trained at various levels. In FY 2011, the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy trained 160 officers for their basic certification, and oversaw two intermediate and three regional academies, who in sum trained 96 officers. Ten officers became certified peace officers through examination in FY 2011, and 73 reserve officers underwent training via online learning modules. A total of 843 jailers and 300 telecommunicators obtained basic and specialty training in FY 2011. Additionally, 1,284 peace officers completed specialty, instructor, or recertification of instructor qualifications in FY 2011. Furthermore, 161 command staff members from jails, telecommunications, or law enforcement received leadership instruction. In sum, in addition to the five basic law enforcement courses, the Academy held, at various locations around the state or at the Academy, a total of 96 law enforcement training events for instructor certification/recertification and specialty training events, four basic jail training events and 23 specialized training, six basic telecommunicator training events and 40 specialty events, and four leadership training opportunities.

The Academy remains committed to bringing cutting edge programming to law enforcement, jailers, and telecommunicators across Iowa, as evidenced by partnerships with the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the Secret Service, the Midwest Counterdrug Training Center, Northwestern University's Center for Public Safety, and many others. The Academy is looking forward to growing its presence within the law enforcement community as the "go-to" resource by also serving as a bulletin board for training around the state.

A history of the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy

The Iowa Law Enforcement Academy was created by an act of the Iowa legislature in 1967 with the purpose to improve law enforcement to professional status. The specific goals were to maximize training opportunities for law enforcement officers, to coordinate training and to set standards for the law enforcement services. The Academy establishes minimum standards for Iowa peace officers and grants officers certification. The Academy has the responsibility to decertify or to suspend an officer's peace officer certification when necessary. Furthermore, the Academy is responsible for providing basic and in-service or specialty training for all county and city jailers as well as telecommunication personnel. Finally, the Academy is also tasked with establishing standards and training requirements for reserve peace officers.

After ten years of work, in 1967 the legislature passed what is now known as Iowa Code Chapter 80B, which created the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy and the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy Council. Specifically, this code sets forth that the Academy must set standards, regulate law enforcement, grant officer certification for those persons successfully completing training, as noted above. In the first three years, the Academy was under the auspices of the Department of Public Safety. However, in 1970, the Legislature made the Academy an autonomous department and placed it under the Office of the Governor, who appoints the Director. Since its inception, the Academy has been served by five directors: John F. Callaghan, 1968-1983; Ben Yarrington, 1983-1993; Gene W. Shephard, 1993-2002; E.A. "Penny" Westfall, 2002-2011; and Arlen Ciechanowski, 2011- present. The Governor's Office also appoints members of the Academy Council for four-year terms. Please refer to Appendix A for a list of the FY2011 Academy Council.

The first Academy building - what is known as the administrative building - was built on Camp Dodge property on nine acres designated to it from an Act of the U.S. Congress in 1969. The addition, which now houses the rest of the Academy, was built in 1974. Various remodels and updates have occurred over the years, but the building remains remarkably intact and functioning.

Current day, located within Camp Dodge in Johnston, Iowa, the Academy provides residential training sessions varying in length from the current 14-week peace officer basic training to day long or four hour specialty or in-service seminars. The Academy can provide housing for 112 persons at any time; often, while a basic peace officer academy is in session, others attending jailer or telecommunicator training events may be in residence as well. The Academy building itself consists of dormitory rooms, classrooms, a cafeteria providing three meals per day, a physical fitness room, photography and video production studio, and a library with computers, printers, and Internet access, as well as administrative offices. The Academy shares firearms ranges and tactical facilities with the Iowa National Guard on Camp Dodge. Additionally, the Academy has partnered with the Des Moines Area Community College to utilize its driving track in Ankeny for basic driving and skid car training, and travels to Newton's Iowa Speedway for additional skill courses.

PROFESSIONALISM THROUGH TRAINING

Appropriations

Just as many other departments are facing budgetary constraints over the past few years, so too is the Academy. What is unique about the Academy, perhaps, is that it has three funding streams: general fund allocations from the General Assembly, revenues charged for specific training, and federal grants. The Academy continues to see that law enforcement and other agencies across the state continue to tighten their respective belts and delay or limit hiring of new personnel, which then negatively impacts the revenues generated by the Academy. Additionally, due to growing deficits at the national level, the federal grants received by the Academy may be decreasing in upcoming years.

As shown below, the appropriations made to the Academy by the Legislature has decreased over the past five years:

Fiscal Year	State General Fund Allocation
FY2007	$1,289,562
FY2008	$1,322,103
FY2009	$1,166,033
FY2010	$1,048,430
FY2011	$868,698

Academy Personnel

For FY2011, the Academy's Organizational Chart can be found at Appendix A. A brief discussion is needed, due to the large volume of changes occurring in FY2010, which then impacted FY2011, and changing gubernatorial leaders and resulting changes for the Director and the Academy Council.

In the spring of 2010, several long-term employees retired under the special SERIP retirement program in the areas of psychologist, legal instructor, jail instructor, and general law enforcement instructor. The psychologist position was first filled by a contract employee, and in the fall of 2010, was filled with the hire of Cyndee Davis. For about the first quarter of 2011, the legal position was vacant, and later filled by Jamie Bowers, who resigned in July 2011. Throughout FY2011, the jail instructor program area was addressed by hiring two contract employees with jail experience to coordinate this training arena. For about five months in FY2011, the general law enforcement instructor position was filled by David Sieg. That position remains unfilled due to budgetary constraints in FY 2012, but full-time permanent employees were later hired in FY2012 to the jail instructor and legal instructor positions.

In November 2010, Terry E. Branstad was elected to the Office of Governor, and took office in January 2011. A few months later, Academy Director Penny Westfall retired, and Arlen Ciechanowski was appointed as the Director of the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy. New Academy Council members were appointed by Governor Branstad and confirmed by the Senate as well.

Iowa Law Enforcement Academy

PROFESSIONALISM THROUGH TRAINING

Training Program Areas

The Iowa Law Enforcement Academy continues to be the foundation upon which peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators have come to trust. It is the agency to which the reserve and certified peace officers and the approximate 500 police departments, sheriffs' offices, and state agencies turn to not only for training events but also as a resource for advice and counsel.

Basic peace officer training events

The Academy normally conducts six basic law enforcement academies (or "classes") annually. What began as a four week training program in 1968 has expanded to the current-day 14 week program at the Academy. As many as 45 officers may be enrolled per class; however in FY2011, as counties and municipalities hire fewer officers, deputies, and county conservation officers, the Academy held five classes totaling 160 officers. The Iowa Department of Public Safety, Cedar Rapids Police Department, and the Des Moines Police Department held basic training academies during this time period as well, training 24, 17, and 14 individuals, respectively. Under the code, the Academy has oversight and review of these "regional training academies." Additionally, Hawkeye Community College and Western Iowa Community College, which are designated as "level II academies," similarly are under the purview of the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy, per the Iowa Code. In their eight-week programs, the colleges certified 20 and 21 persons, respectively, in FY 2011.

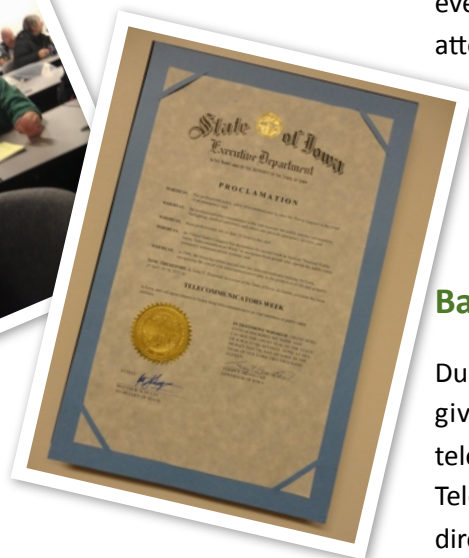

Through its online learning module system, the Academy also provided learning opportunities to 73 reserve officers in FY 2011. The reserve officers provide a valuable service to the citizens of Iowa, and the Academy is working in new directions to continue to effectively provide raining. Over 400 reserve officers are certified, as of FY2011.

Basic jail training events

The Iowa Law Enforcement Academy is responsible for setting the minimum training standards for the training of city and county jailers. In FY 2011, the Academy held four 40 hour basic jail training events, with 118 individuals in attendance, and held one ten-hour basic temporary holding facility training event, with eight individuals in attendance.

Basic telecommunicator training events

During the 1996 legislative session, the Academy was given the responsibility for providing training to telecommunicators (sometimes known as dispatchers). A Telecommunicator Training Board was developed by the director, in accordance with Iowa Code Section 7E2.(3) to assist in the planning, coordination, and delivery of this training. In FY 2005, additional representation from the northwest, southwest, northeast, and southeast parts of the state increased the number of those serving on the board. In FY 2011, six 40 hour basic telecommunicator training events were held, with a total of 108 in attendance.

Specialized or specialty training events

For peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators, the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy offers a variety of training opportunities. For example, a large portion of the training involves instructor certification or recertification courses. These individuals are then certified to train in their subject area at their own agencies, and frequently return to the Academy to assist instructors. For example, individuals from over 100 agencies brought their expertise to the Academy and provided assistance as guest instructors in FY 2011. For this year, 847 individuals attended instructor or recertification classes such as precision driving, standardized field sobriety testing, open sight rifle, defensive tactics, firearms instructor, TASER, sub-machine gun, and Radar/Lidar.

Other specialized training ranges from bicycle patrol officer, child abduction response and search protocols, ASP baton, crime scene photography, Mental Health First Aid, Media Relations, Oleoresin Capsicum, collision investigation, advanced telecommunicator, Verbal Judo, communications training officer training, Heartsaver AED, First Aid, and CPR, temporary jail holding facility training, and jail medication management courses. A large variety of topics are offered at the in-service level (typically four or eight hours, at a location outside of the Academy) to peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators. Additionally, grant-funded areas of Violence Against Women and the Governor's Traffic Safety Bureau provides for instructors to teach domestic violence, sexual assault, strangulation, OWI, and other special in-service topics. Guest agencies such as the Iowa Department of Public Safety's Iowa State Patrol provided instruction in areas such as collision investigation, and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms conducted a post-blast investigation training. The Academy continues to be appreciative of great partnerships with these and many agencies in the state of Iowa.

Leadership training events

The Academy proudly introduced in FY 2010 and continued in FY2011 its Five Star Leadership Program. In order to provide leadership foundations for the advancement of innovational strategies in Iowa law enforcement agencies, the Academy developed a program which consists of five distinct leadership offerings, including the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, the FBI-LEEDA, International Chiefs of Police, the National Sheriff's Association, and Iowa Law Enforcement. Each of these unique opportunities range in length between three and five days at a time, and costs may range between free and $650 per registrant, depending on the course. During FY2011, in November 2010, 28 command staff from police departments, sheriff's offices, and state law enforcement agencies gathered off-site for a seminar hosted by the FBI-LEEDA for three days. Academy instructional staff Kim Wadding and Samantha O'Hara provided an ending working group and wrap-up for the seminar's learning. Additional leadership opportunities continue to be scheduled for FY2012 and FY2013, by popular demand from the field.

Upon invitation of the Academy, the Northwestern University's Center for Public Policy again held its 40-hour first line law enforcement supervision course on grounds. This highly-regarded and requested course was attended by 29 officers and command staff from agencies across the state.

Academy instructor Craig Matzke provided jail training to sheriffs and jail command staff/ administrators in February 2011, off-site in Johnston, Iowa, to a total of 88 attendees. Additionally, Academy instructor Nancy Brady led leadership instruction to a class of 16 at a communications supervisor management course off-site as well in March 2011.

Iowa Law Enforcement Academy

PROFESSIONALISM THROUGH TRAINING

Administrative Program Areas

The Iowa Law Enforcement Academy provides a variety of other useful services to the law enforcement, jailer, and telecommunicator communities in Iowa.

Pre-employment physical fitness testing services

The Academy normally conducts six basic law enforcement academies annually; however, in FY 2011, only five academies were held due to low enrollments. Prior to each entry into the basic law enforcement training academy, all applicants (hired by their agencies or sponsored-but-not-yet-hired) complete physical fitness testing on the Iowa State University campus. Many agencies also send officers to assist in the testing of these large numbers of individuals.

Prior to the start of the regional academy classes or the Level II academies at the two community colleges, Academy staff travel to proctor the testing events. Additionally, some agencies also request that Academy staff tests their candidate at the Academy, prior to their pre-academy physical fitness test at ISU. This individualized testing is a service performed between six and 12 times annually. In FY2011, this service was requested seven times.

Psychological Services

The Academy has a psychologist on staff who conducts POST cognitive testing, MMPI testing and evaluations for sworn peace officers, civilian jailers, communication specialists, and reserve peace officers. The testing is conducted at the Academy or off-site, upon request of the agency.

In FY2011, the psychologist (a contract employee and later Cyndee Davis) held four trainings to certify individuals as "proctors," that is, to be able to proctor examinations in their agencies. This same year, 55 POST tests and 507 MMPI-II examinations were administered at the Academy by the contract psychologist.

The Academy makes referrals and provides a list of mental health professionals who are experienced in working with law enforcement officers in handling problems both on and off duty. This includes exposure to critical incidents, chemical dependency, relationship difficulties, and other challenges.

MMPI-2
(Minnesota Multiphasic

The Academy provides information about fitness for duty assessments including specific guidelines for conducting assessment and refer to qualified mental health professionals. The Academy participates in critical incident stress debriefings and can provide information upon request about other debriefing teams across Iowa.

De-certification of Iowa officers

Under the Iowa Code, Section 80B, the Iowa Law Enforcement Academy Council shall revoke a peace officer's or reserve peace officer's certification for the following reasons:

1. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer pleads guilty to or is convicted of a felony.
2. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer manufactures, sells, or conspires to manufacture or sell an illegal drug.
3. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer pleads guilty to or is convicted of domestic abuse or other offenses stemming from domestic abuse.

The Law Enforcement Academy Council may revoke or suspend a law enforcement or reserve peace officer's certification for the following reasons:

1. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer has been discharged for "good cause" from employment as a law enforcement officer.
2. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer leaves or voluntarily quits when disciplinary action was imminent or pending which could have resulted in the law enforcement officer being discharged for "good cause."
3. The law enforcement officer has failed to reimburse the employing agency for costs incurred by that agency in achieving certification training for the officer when the officer leaves that agency and is employed by another law enforcement agency within a period of four years following completion of the certification training.
4. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer certifies to a material false statement in document required by the Academy.
5. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer falsifies or makes misrepresentation on an employment application.
6. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer testifies falsely in any court of law or administrative hearing.
7. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer fails to comply with in-service training requirements.
8. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer pleads guilty to or is found guilty of a felony or a crime involving moral turpitude.
9. The law enforcement officer or reserve peace officer is decertified in any other state where the officer may be certified.

The Academy Council has historically entrusted the duty of investigation into these potential de-certification matters to the Academy. At times, the Assistant Director or designee have completed these duties. On average, between 10 and 30 referrals are forwarded by the Attorney General's representative to the Academy for review and investigation. Components include review of the formal investigation reports, internal policy violations, and/or criminal law violations in concert with the requirement set forth by the Code. Once these steps are concluded, the results are forwarded to the Academy Council for their consideration. In FY 2011, ten officers were decertified by the Academy Council. In other words, they no longer have peace officer status in the state of Iowa.

Iowa Law Enforcement Academy PROFESSIONALISM THROUGH TRAINING

Special Project Areas

The Academy is committed to partnering with other agencies, in order to increase service delivery and quality of training for Iowa's peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators. Here is a sampling of noteworthy new collaborations.

Department of Corrections

Until the spring and summer of 2010, the Academy had two maintenance/repairer staff positions. Both staff members retired under a special state of Iowa incentive provision. As these staff members were tasked with daily maintenance as well as janitorial functions for the Academy staff as well as the students housed and trained in the Academy, it was a loss to not be able to fill these positions due to budget constraints.

After many staff members helping out for months, a plan was put into place in April 2011 to begin a partnership with the Iowa Correctional Institution for Women in Mitchellville to hire two to four inmates per day to provide general housekeeping and janitorial functions. A senior instructor was tasked with supervising the workers and being the point of contact for the Department of Corrections. At the end of FY2011, this instructor was promoted to Assistant Director, and has continued these duties. This arrangement has continued to meet the needs of the Academy, attendees, and the Department of Corrections.

Camp Dodge Maintenance Agreement

Again, due to the retirement of full-time Academy personnel in this area, in FY2011, the Academy began a partnership with the National Guard at Camp Dodge for assistance in the physical and systems maintenance of the Academy building itself. As a result of this agreement, and billing for services rendered as opposed to the salaries and benefits of a staff member, costs were limited and services have increased. For example, Camp Dodge maintenance workers replaced items ranging from air handling system filters to installing new thermostats throughout the building. Estimates for repair and replacement of the 40-year old roof have been ongoing, and leaks have been addressed in a timely fashion.

Snow removal and lawn care duties have also been taken on by the maintenance agreement, which has improved the look of the building overall.

Department of Transportation

The Academy increased the collaboration with the Iowa Department of Transportation during this time. In May 2011, the Director of the Motor Vehicle Enforcement Division within the DOT began to advise the Academy's Director of a possible transfer of seized forfeiture assets, to the Academy to be used to improve the training of law enforcement officers and DOT motor vehicle enforcement officers. Discussions began in earnest, and monies have been approved to renovate the classroom space known as "Classroom 3 and 4" to make one large superior training space, and provide for the update of classrooms 1 and 2, usually used most of the year for the basic law enforcement training academy classes. The planning, bidding, and contracting process for these projects will begin and be complete in FY2012.

Midwest Counterdrug Training Center

Also located on Camp Dodge, the Midwest Counter Training Center provides free counterdrug training to law enforcement officers in the Midwest and the Northwest United States. Specifically, their mission is to provide the highest quality training at the lowest possible cost to all those involved in the fight against illegal drugs. In terms of the scope of this federally-funded program, the Center provided courses and training to nearly 19,000 individuals in FY2011. In the spring of 2011, the Academy began to more closely partner with MCTC formally. Some of MCTC courses have been held in the classrooms at the Academy, and the Academy has benefitted from the use of their training rooms as well. Additionally, in April 2011, MCTC provided much technical assistance and training to the Academy's administrative staff, as the Academy purchased and began to adopt the same sophisticated, on-line registration system utilized by MCTC. The Academy was able to go "live" with this new, easier, more stream-lined online registration program in FY2012, increasing the ease of registration and viewing course selections for the thousands of Iowans served by the Academy.

Iowa Law Enforcement Academy

PROFESSIONALISM THROUGH TRAINING

Conclusion: Strengths and Challenges

The Iowa Law Enforcement Academy provides a variety of other useful services to the law enforcement, jailer, and telecommunicator communities in Iowa.

Strengths

Based upon reviewing of past practices, the Academy has focused upon basic and specialty training opportunities for peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicators. Accordingly, in FY2010, the academy developed the First Star Leadership program, and has continued that program with an offering in FY 2011. More are scheduled for FY2012 and FY2013. The Academy is continuing to grow the program statewide. Future goals include developing similar multiple-step programming for jailer and telecommunicator command staff, in a much different format that which is currently offered to them.

The Academy continues to embrace technology to increase service to the Iowa peace officer, jailer, and telecommunicator communities, from projects such as the new online-course catalog and registration system, to recommending the addition of wireless “hotspots” in the classrooms, especially for specialty and leadership training events. Additionally, current Academy staff are being tasked with determining the efficiency and possible utilization of web-based educational delivery platforms. In FY 2012, this exploratory study on online learning by the Academy will be complete.

In the spring of 2011, new leadership at the Academy determined that a curriculum review of the basic peace officer academy training program must be conducted. As part of that early research process, the Director and others traveled to the Kansas Law Enforcement Training Center, in order to learn in depth about that similar training agency’s curriculum as well as program strengths and weaknesses. Continued collaboration on the project of the curriculum review will continue into FY2012 and possibly FY2013.

The Academy collaborates with outside federal, state, and local agencies and participates in numerous teams, task forces, working groups, and conferences. Not only is the law enforcement, jail, and telecommunicator communities served by the results of these groups, but Iowans from different disciplines and the public both benefit from the cross-training, collaboration, and networking from the events. The seminars “Responding to Victims of Strangulation: A Team Approach” (June 2011) and “Mark Wynn: Responding to Domestic Violence” (January 2011) are but two examples of large, multidisciplinary conferences upon which Academy staff worked.

Challenges

Just as many other departments are facing budgetary constraints over the past few years, so too is the Academy. What is unique about the Academy, perhaps, is that it has three funding streams: general fund allocations from the General Assembly, revenues charged for specific training, and federal grants. The Academy continues to see that law enforcement and other agencies across the state continue to tighten their respective belts and delay or limit hiring of new personnel, which then negatively impacts the revenues generated by the Academy. Additionally, due to growing deficits at the national level, the federal grants received by the Academy may be decreasing in upcoming years. As shown previously, the allocations made to the Academy by the Legislature have decreased in the past several years.

FY2011 revealed it to be a time of transition: the Director and Assistant Director positions were filled; the role of psychologist was filled after a time in which a contract employee was utilized; the jail instructor position was filled with two contract employees; and the legal instructor resigned after a time in which it was not filled. FY2012 begins with a search for a full-time permanent employee for the jail instructor and the legal instructor positions.

The agencies served by the Academy deserve an expanded cadre of highly-trained, multi-dimensional instructional staff for basic, specialty, and leadership training across peace officers, jailers, and telecommunicator training events. Time and costs have been a barrier to increase the level of credentialing and certification for the current staff of Academy instructors.

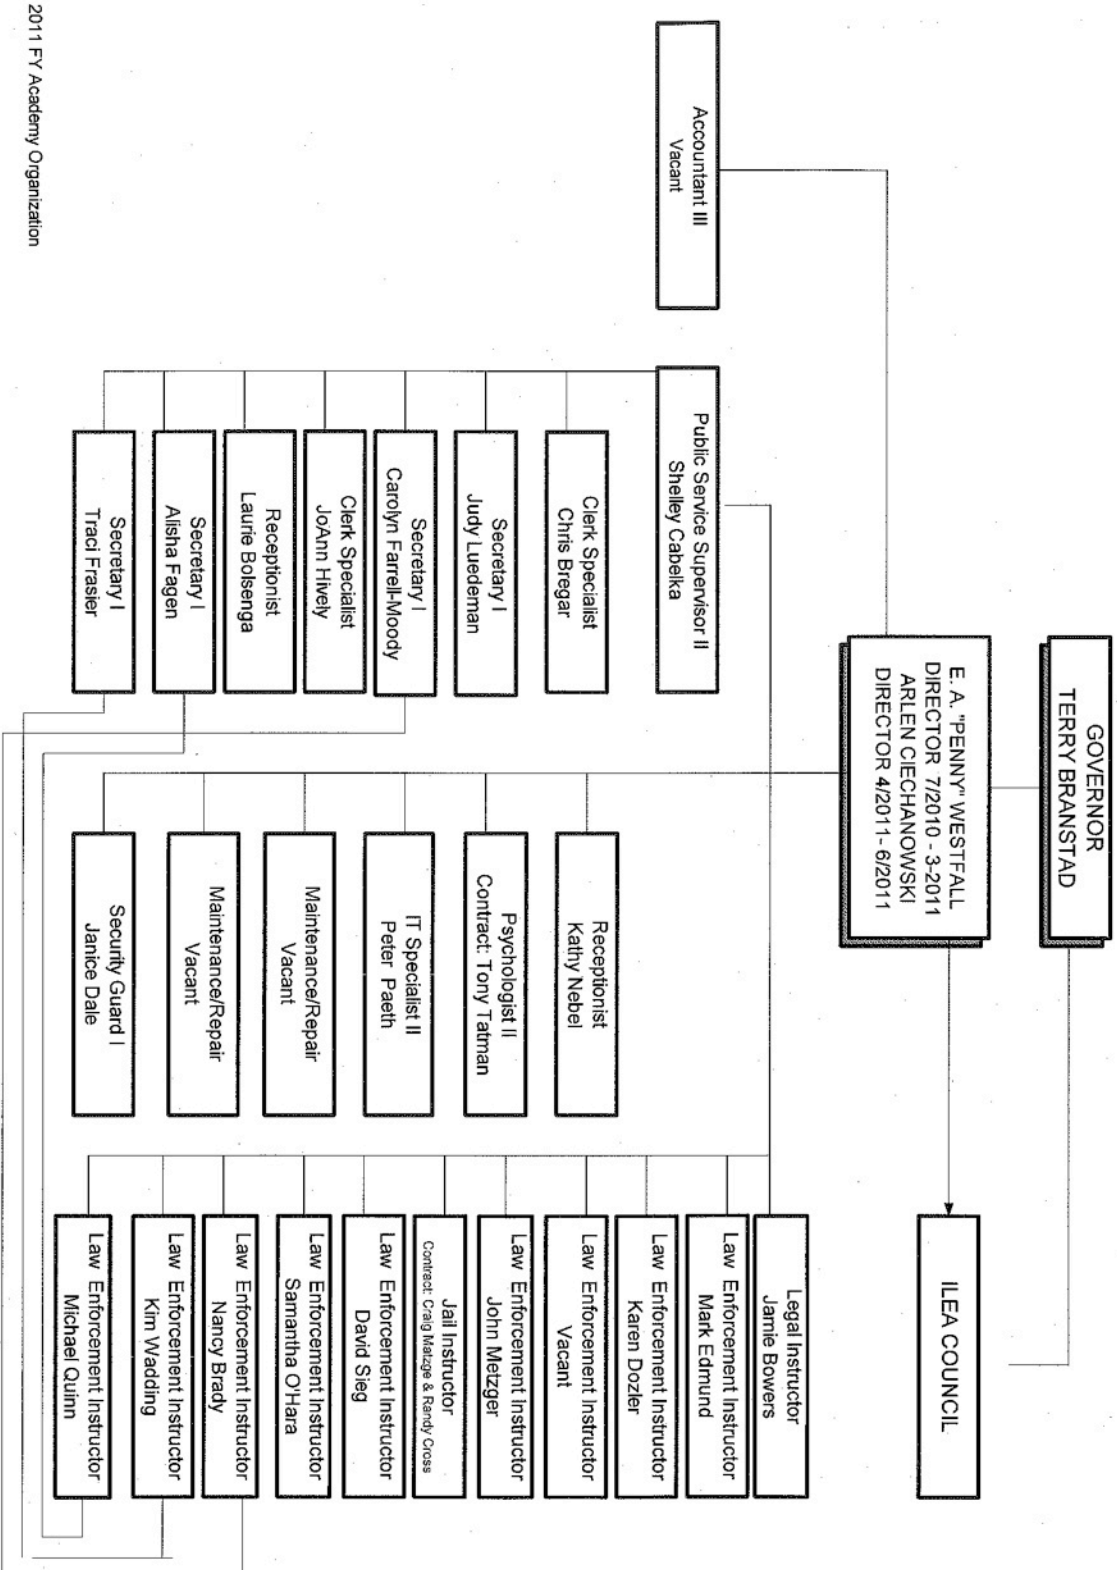

The Academy's long-range goal of a new facility would improve the transferability of skills in the learning environment.
