Did you know?

March 8 is the last day for Senate bills to be reported out of Senate committees and House bills out of House committees.

Funnel Looming

The first funnel of the 85th General Assembly occurs next Friday, March 8. What does this mean? Legislation has to pass out of at least one committee of one chamber to be considered for further movement. Bills that do not pass out of one committee by next Friday are considered "dead".

There are a few exceptions to the funnel death rule. For example, appropriations bills (bills that deal with funding) are exempt from the funnel deadline. For a full list of exceptions to funnel, click here. This link will take you to the session timetable. Exceptions to the funnel are provided in small print at the bottom of the document.

With the first funnel looming, this week at the Capitol proved to be a flurry of subcommittee activity. This will leave committees with a lot of work in the coming week.

The Department's technical bill advanced through the House Human Resources Committee last week. The Committee adopted the same amendment as was adopted on the Senate side, which means that the bill is identical in both chambers. A successor bill number was assigned in both the House and Senate and the bill is awaiting floor debate. The bill is now known as SF184 in the Senate and HF278 in the House.

Notable events that occurred over the past two weeks of session include the following:

Senate File 36 passed out of Senate Human Resources. The bill is now a committee bill with the successor bill number SF258 assigned. Senate File 258 appropriates funding for an additional local long-term care ombudsman for the certified volunteer long-term care ombudsman program.

Senate File 199 was introduced and passed out of Senate Human Resources. The bill is now a committee bill with the successor bill number SF269 assigned. Senate File 269 mandates the Department of Public Health to coordinate Alzheimer's disease programs.

Senate File 71 passed out of Senate Human Resources. As of the date of this publication, a successor bill number had not been assigned. Senate File 71 is the Medicaid expansion bill.

New bills of interest introduced include the following: SF232 - Direct Care Professionals, HF 217 - Mental Health Advocates, and SSB1192—Mental Health Advocates and Involuntary Commitments. See pages 4-8 for additional information regarding each of the bills discussed on this page.

Budget Targets Released

Both House Republicans and Senate Democrats released budget targets this week. The House Republicans are proposing to appropriate $1.698 billion to health and human services in Fiscal Year 2014. Senate Democrats are proposing to appropriate $1.894 billion. See the chart below for a full comparison of budget targets. Additional details regarding these targets will likely become available in the coming days.

Sequestration

Today marks the deadline for federal sequestration. This means that an order enacting sequestration must be signed by the President of the United States by 11:59 p.m. today. As of the time of publication, the sequestration order had not yet been signed.

Aging Watch has reported cautiously over the last several months as to what the impact of sequestration may be. The bottom line is that the impact is still not entirely clear.

The Department, like many other state and federal agencies, is awaiting additional information regarding the impact amounts and any flexibility that may be allowed. Aging Watch will keep readers informed regarding this issue.

Gray Issues

Joe Sample, Aging and Disability Resource Center Director for the Iowa Department on Aging, was recently interviewed by the Public News Service. The story follows.

No one has any firm information on the number of Iowans with developmental disabilities currently living with elderly parents as caregivers, but some see a potential problem arising as the state's population ages.

What happens to those people when their caregivers die?

Joe Sample is the aging and disability resource center director with the Iowa Department of Aging and a member of the Iowa Developmental Disabilities Council.

"Persons who need a lot of support based on their disability could very well end up in an institutional-based setting," he says. "And as we know the institutional based settings are often times much more expensive than home and community-based services."

Sample says advocates for people with disabilities are already making plans by helping these families make plans for the future.

"Such as somebody who could come and help you with basic needs in the home," he says, "even some home health supports to help individuals get that support in the home, so they can live as long as possible in their preferred environment versus an institutional-based setting."

Sample says thanks to better health care over the years, people with developmental disabilities are also living longer, which means they will require additional care longer.

Aging and Disability Resource Centers (ADRCs) are the place to get accurate, unbiased information on all aspects of life related to community living for adults age 18 or older. An ADRC is a no-wrong door system to access long-term living and community support services. Currently, Iowa ADRCs are still developing. AgingWatch will keep you informed with important developments in ADRCs.

Commission on Aging Member Carole Dunkin

Commissioner Carole Dunkin will soon be in her second year serving on the Iowa Commission on Aging. Carole was born and raised in Davenport and moved to DeWitt fifteen years ago. She and her husband, Richard, raised two children and now have three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Active in her community, Carole serves on the Civil Service Commission in DeWitt and has a rich history of community work that includes being a city council member; Department of Parks and Recreation Commissioner, and a member of the Citizens Police Academy.

Carole is proud to serve on the Commission on Aging and says that working as an intake specialist for a team of neurologists gave her insight into the concerns of people who need supportive services to help them live active, full lives within their communities. Having been one herself, Carole also knows the struggles and joys that come with being a family caregiver while juggling a career. Carole cites both of these experiences as why she became interested in serving on the Commission.

Carole shared that one of her favorite quotes, from writer and activist Betty Friedan, sums up her beliefs on getting older. "Aging is not lost youth but a new stage of opportunity and strength."

Commissioner Dunkin believes that we have made great strides, over the years, in helping older Iowans remain happy, healthier, and living as independent as possible, but cites we have more work to do. "Today we have more activities at the senior centers which help keep older Iowans healthier, both in mind and body, and the home-delivered meals program helps reach those who cannot easily go out or fix meals. We need to continue our work for better transportation (especially in rural areas) to provide better access to medical services and we need to strengthen the dialogue on elder abuse and how to prevent it."

Commissioner Dunkin's term ends in April 2015.

Commission Members

The Commission on Aging is charged with serving as a visible advocate for older Iowans by establishing policies for reviewing and commenting upon all state plans. The Commission is made up of 11 members, seven of whom are appointed by the Governor. At least four of the seven must be 55 years of age or older, and no more than four can belong to the same political party. The remaining four members are Senators or Representatives, appointed by their chamber of the legislature to serve as non-voting members.

March is National Nutrition Month

This is a time to focus on the health benefits of good nutrition. The Older American Act nutrition program provides well-balanced meals targeted to adults who are 60 years of age or older, in greatest economic need and/or social need, with particular attention to low-income minorities, those in rural areas, with limited English proficiency and those at risk for institutionalization.

A recent study shows that for every $25 annual expenditure on home delivered meals for those 65+ there is a decrease of 1% in Nursing Home Low Care needs patients. Kali S. Thomas, Vincent Mor, The Relationship between Older Americans Act Title III State Expenditures and Prevalence of Low-Care Nursing Home Residents(Health Services Research 2012)

Congregate and home-delivered meals support wellness and help facilitate independent living for older Iowans, forestalling premature institutionalization.
