PREFACE

Career Education -- Is it good for kids? -- That's a question that has prompted many of us to search for a greater understanding of the concept and to reassess the types of experiences our educational programs provide. This search is resulting in a growing commitment to assure curriculum objectives and activities that provide career education experiences for all students.

A research project, Unifying a Career Education Theme in the Curriculum through Teacher Inservice Activities, was initiated in 1972 through the Iowa Department of Public Instruction. The purpose of the effort was to research, define, and describe possible approaches for implementing career education through teacher concept development and commitment.

The project was sponsored by the Iowa Department of Public Instruction in cooperation with the Mason City Community School District. Values clarification workshops and a variety of occupational experiences for teachers were followed by curriculum development workshops, K-12.

"Goals and Objectives for Implementation of Career Education Grades 7-12" is an outcome of a 1973 summer workshop. It provides sample methods, materials, and evaluations for each of the goals developed in project workshops. Through such curriculum development, opportunities may be provided for students to experience values clarification and self-awareness clarification as they relate to the world of work.

Publications were developed as part of the responsibility of project participants and staff to provide visibility to the findings and accomplishments of the project. These guidelines and instructional materials are provided at this time to assist local school personnel interested in initiating programs, services, and activities for their students.

INTRODUCTION

CAREER EDUCATION AND THE MASON CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT

Though career education should not and cannot be considered a panacea, we would be foolhardy not to regard it as a concept that seems to offer the best opportunity for charting a new direction, or to providing an uplift for what many lay people and educators feel to be a rather faltering educational process. All we have to do is look around us and listen carefully to our critics who tell us that the educational process does not seem to be related to the real world or to preparing our young people for both creating and living in a future.

So many seem to misunderstand what should be a very broad concept and frequently define career education as a program, a course, a method, or a specific operational gimmick. Some of these people have been turned off by the concept, while others tout it as the process by which we can save education from disaster, or at least reduce education's big problems to small ones. Both groups are probably wrong.

Actually, career education is a very broad concept which provides a vehicle for a new emphasis or direction for education which can assist us in providing expanded options for young people.

The concept draws on what we know about learning, about curriculum, about human nature, and about our society so that what we do is more closely related to the needs of the individual and of our society. It is a concept for making formal and informal learning through subject matter, through activities, through a variety of experiences in the school and in the community more worthwhile and more realistic to every student's self-development and to their personal and career goals.

There need be no question of our commitment as a school district to the career education concept. We have as a prime responsibility the development and the implementation of the concept for students of all academic and intellectual abilities from all socio-economic strata, interested in all occupational and career fields whose instruction is provided within all departments, at all levels, and in all of our buildings. "All" is inclusive and does suggest that career education should offer something for everyone. Consider, please, three of the attitudes or characteristics normally associated with career education: worth, responsibility, and productivity. Worth for one's self and for others, acceptance of responsibility, and the realization of the need to be productive are attitudes which should not be limited to any segment of our student body or our populace.

"Careers" in its very broad sense has meaning for all people whether it be for the architect or the carpenter, the sales manager or the salesman, the homemaker or the wage earner, the nurse's aide or the physician, the student or the teacher. Those of us in education cannot practice our art without relating what we are attempting to do to some greater purpose that will have significant, lifelong meaning for both the student and for our society. The career education concept offers the most likely opportunity to provide this meaning. Career education should assist each of us to personalize education as well as to individualize education.

- Dr. Roderick Bickert, Superintendent Mason City Community School System

RATIONALE

Because work is paramount to the personal and economic needs of most Americans, the disinterest in work or the employment in meaningless work tasks or the absence of work opportunities are becoming increasingly significant problems. Some manifestations of these problems are readily apparent in the disregard for personal and public property, crime and delinquency, alcoholism and drug addiction, careless workmanship, and disenchantment in and rejection of the work ethic.

As a means of dealing with this concern, it is essential to approach it in a preventative, comprehensive manner. The foundation of our approach must be a new and more vital emphasis on value systems, attitudes, and the personness of each individual. Through career education as a facet of our present educational program in Mason City, we can begin to implement and facilitate the much-needed changes.

Although definitions of career education are as diverse as they are abundant, the commonality in these definitions is the coupling of career education to the world of work. In an effort to alter in a positive manner anti-social attitudes and values, it is imperative to broaden the definition of "work" from a narrowed, one-dimensional notion simply termed the 8-to-5 grind to a multi-dimensional concept. In expanding the definition of work, it is important to redefine what is meant by work. For our purposes work will be defined as "any activity that produces something of value for oneself and/or other people."

PROCEDURE

Fifteen Mason City teachers and two facilitators were involved in the writing of behavioral objectives allowing the incorporation of career education concepts within the framework of secondary curricula. For the past two summers each of these teachers has participated in a summer career education workshop. The entire group decided on six basic goals. The members were then divided into three sub-groups with the basic task of formulating the behavioral objectives of two of the goals. The task of the facilitators was essentially two-fold: to serve as sounding boards throughout the formulation of each group's objectives and to maintain an updated edition of the entire project.

The following compilation is an attempt to provide opportunities through which students may begin to experience value clarification and self-awareness clarification as they relate to the world of work. The broadbased goals and objectives on the secondary level coupled with teacher creativity and ingenuity can assist the student to develop self-awareness, economic awareness, and career awareness.

I. AWARENESS OF SELF AND ONE'S PLACE IN SOCIETY

OBJECTIVE: To further self-acceptance through an awareness and understanding of how others feel about him and how he feels about others, the student will...

5) describe individual differences and identify factors accounting for these differences

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use these activities to achieve this goal and its objective: these are only samples. They should be modified to fit student and/or class needs.

SAMPLE ACTIVITIES:

- Role-play situations involving conflicting values and have class offer possible selections. (Ex. His best friend has something that doesn't belong to him.)
- 2) Using a scale of 1 10, rank two friends (or relatives) on the following traits:
 - a. dependability
 - b. sense of humor
 - c. responsibility
 - d. courtesy

- e. patience
- f. tolerance
- g. cheerfulness

I. AWARENESS OF SELF AND ONE'S PLACE IN SOCIETY

OBJECTIVE: To further self-acceptance through an awareness and understanding of how others feel about him and how he feels about others, the student will...

1) describe his personal contributions to social organizations.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use student-prepared summaries to evaluate this goal and its objective: This is only a sample. It should be modified to suit the student or class needs.

SAMPLE ACTIVITIES:

- The student will write an autobiography emphasizing his personal contributions to social organizations (family, school, church, Boy Scouts, athletic teams, etc.).
- 2) The student will make a list of five (5) responsibilities that he now assumes at home or away and twenty (20) others that he might assume.

SAMPLE EVALUATION: 2) Conference

I. AWARENESS OF SELF AND ONE'S PLACE IN SOCIETY

OBJECTIVE: To promote self-acceptance through an awareness and understanding of his developing strengths, values, needs and interests as they relate to work roles, the student will...

- 2) relate his strengths to school and work roles
- 4) relate his individual values and needs to the school and work roles.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use a conference to evaluate this goal and its objective: Use the suggestion below as a model conference that might be adapted to your emphasis.

SAMPLE CONFERENCE QUESTIONS:

The conference would be between student, parent and teacher. Other school personnel may be included as needed. The conference would involve three phases. Following are sample questions:

- 1) Information from parents
 - a. What home responsibilities does the student have?
 - b. What is his behavior at home?
 - c. How do the parents handle similar situations in the home?
 - d. Have there been any changes in the home environment?
- 2) Performance in class (teacher information)
 - a. How many days has he been absent?
 - b. What is his class attitude?
 - c. How does he apply himself?
 - d. What is his achievement level? Is he using his ability?
- 3) Goals for students
 - a. What can we reasonably set as a goal for the student?
 - b. What is his responsibility?
 - c. What is the teacher's responsibility?
 - d. What is the parent's responsibility?

SAMPLE EVALUATION: 5) Pencil and Paper Test, Teacher-made

I. AWARENESS OF SELF AND ONE'S PLACE IN SOCIETY

OBJECTIVE: To determine how his values and goals in life will be relevant to his life style, the student will...

 recognize varied life styles of ethnic, cultural, civic and religious groups.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use pencil and paper tests to evaluate: Use this form of evaluation as a model that might be adapted to your emphasis. Write the directions for using this form of evaluation as they apply to your particular assignment.

SAMPLE PENCIL AND PAPER TEST, TEACHER-MADE:

The student, having read a chapter on Folk and Urban Communities, will answer these questions:

- 1) What was the Neolithic Revolution? Why was it important?
- What is meant by isolation? How does it affect intelligence, personality, adjustment, and social participation?
- 3) How does the social participation of rural people differ from that of city dwellers? Cite examples.
- 4) What conditions keep the American farmer from fully absorbing the urban culture around him?
- 5) Summarize the chief differences between farmers and urbanites in ideas, attitudes and habits.
- 6) Explain why world culture is more and more coming under urban domination.

OBJECTIVE: To increase awareness of alternatives in life, the student will ...

 identify the opportunities for continuing education in and out of the classroom: broad course choices for world of work, recreation, and cultural advancement; reentry courses, world of work, travel, vocational-technical schools, trade schools, apprenticeship, degree colleges, and universities.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to construct check lists to evaluate this goal and its objectives: 1) Use the following resources available in the counseling offices: DOT, OOH, and OVIS; 2) using the following two sample check lists, write directions for the check list as they would apply to the emphasis desired by the teacher.

SAMPLE CHECK LISTS:

Apprenticeship (as an opportunity to continue education)

Do you have the requirements to enter the apprenticeship program? Circle the proper choice:

1) Minimum educational requirements:

high school diploma Yes No background courses Yes No

- 2) Score on GATB Test:
 at least 110 in Math Yes No
 at least 90 in Yes No
 spatial relationships

II. AWARENESS OF ALTERNATIVES IN LIFE

OBJECTIVE: To increase awareness of alternatives in life, the student will...

2) investigate the present and potential future career opportunities available to him.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use interview to evaluate this goal and its objectives:

- 1) Use the suggestion below as a model interview form that might be adapted to your emphasis.
- Indented lists are possible answers that might be expected depending upon the careers being investigated.
- 3) Write the directions for using the interview form as they apply to your particular assignment.

SAMPLE INTERVIEW:

- 1) Why are you interested in your career choice?
 - a. social status
 - b. financial gain
 - c. security
 - d. opportunity for advancement
 - e. little emotional stress
 - f. personal interest
 - g. recognition
 - h. fringe benefits: insurance, vacation, pension
- 2) What qualifications are needed for your career choice?
 - a. education
 - b. special skills
 - c. work background
 - d. personal-physical: weight, height
- 3) What do you feel is the future potential of your career choice?

SAMPLE EVALUATION: 2) Conferences - Both Parent and Student

II. AWARENESS OF ALTERNATIVES IN LIFE

OBJECTIVE: To increase awareness of alternatives in life, the student will...

 identify the opportunities for continuing education in and out of the classroom: broad course choices for recreation, cultural advancement, and the world of work; reentry courses, travel, vocational-technical schools, trade schools, apprenticeship, degree colleges, universities, and the world of work.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use parent-student conferences to evaluate awareness of alternatives in life by identifying the opportunities for continuing education: The following model which is mandatory for all eighth grade students could be used with other students. The materials used could be altered to fit the emphasis desired.

SAMPLE STUDENT-PARENT CONFERENCE:

Following the cumulative record interpretation and the administration of the OVIS, the parent, student, counselor conference is scheduled by the student.

At the time of the scheduling, the student is given a copy of the description of the ninth grade courses to share with his parents in anticipation of his ninth grade scheduling.

During the parent, student, counselor conference the student interprets to his parents his permanent record, his growth in basic skills, and his identified interests (lack of interest) in the world of work. Student, then, makes selection of courses for ninth grade.

SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS: 9) Cumulative Record Interpretation

II. AWARENESS OF ALTERNATIVES IN LIFE

OBJECTIVE: To increase awareness of alternatives in life, the student will...

 identify the opportunities for continuing education in and out of the classroom: broad course choices for recreation, cultural advancement, and the world of work; reentry courses, travel, vocational-technical schools, trade schools, apprenticeship, degree colleges, universities, and the world of work.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use cumulative record interpretation as a method to increase awareness of alternatives in life by identifying the opportunities for continuing education: Teacher recommends the student to the counselor or the student makes his own appointment with the counselor.

SAMPLE CUMULATIVE RECORD INTERPRETATION

- Counselor and student together look at student's cumulative folder.
- "Open the door" to the discussion by asking the student about his future plans.
- Look at the record of attendance and promptness.
- Ask student to explain the pattern, if there is one.
- Ask such questions as Does a good attendance record make a difference to you in school?

Would it make a difference if you were on a job?

- Interpret the importance of attendance to his career choice.
- Then, have the student analyze his attitude and application and project their impact on the world of work.
- Identify progress in basic skills through a study of the ITBS record graph.
- The culmination of the conference is having the student experience whether his achievement is commensurate with his potential.

SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS:

14) Independent Study

28) Supervised Study

21) Reading

12) Interview

8) Computer Assisted Instruction

16) Movies, Filmstrips, Videotape

II. AWARENESS OF ALTERNATIVES IN LIFE

OBJECTIVE: To increase awareness of alternatives in life, the student will...

- identify the opportunities for continuing education in and out of the classroom: broad course choices for recreation, cultural advancement, and the world of work; reentry courses, travel, vocational-technical schools, trade schools, apprenticeship, degree colleges, universities, and the world of work;
- 2) investigate the present and potential future career opportunities available to him.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use a variety of methods and materials as an activity to identify career opportunities:

Students could be assigned the activity as an independent study or supervised study.

The activity would be used in a social studies class.

The teacher and/or students would prepare an interview form.

Resources would include historical materials, library resources, and a film entitled, "Preparing for Jobs of the '70's." This film is available from Guidance Associates, Harcourt, Brace and World, Pleasantville, New York 10570

Computer studies are available for employment projections.

SAMPLE ACTIVITY USING A VARIETY OF METHODS AND MATERIALS:

Have the students develop a list of obsolete jobs, dead-end jobs, status quo jobs, and bright future jobs using:

- a. historical sources
- b. interviews with senior citizens and current workers
- c. old print materials
- d. current employment projections
- e. film entitled, "Preparing for Jobs of the '70's"

III. DEVELOPMENT OF POSITIVE ATTITUDES TOWARD WORK

OBJECTIVE: To seek personal fulfillment through one's own achievement, the student will...

 describe how various occupations would provide a means of expressing his personality and satisfying his psychological needs.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use these methods and materials to achieve these goals: These are only suggestions. They should be modified to suit the individual needs of student and class.

SAMPLE ACTIVITIES:

 As a part of a thematic unit of contemporary literature, records, poetry, and short stories would be included as core materials.

Students would have an opportunity to contribute poems, records, and short stories of their choosing which show characters or ideas that depict his own personality.

How may his personality and needs be satisfied by various jobs?

How are the needs of people in various occupations met by the music they listen to, the short stories they read, the poetry they read, etc.?

What occupations suggested by literature would express his personality and satisfy his psychological needs?

- 2) Bring a record or poem that you enjoy. Why do you enjoy this record?
- 3) In what way/ways does the business use music as a part of its business? What use is made of posters or other art forms?

SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS: 2) Posters

III. DEVELOPMENT OF POSITIVE ATTITUDES TOWARD WORK

OBJECTIVE: To seek personal fulfillment through one's own achievement, the student will...

 relate how several occupations would provide a means of expressing his personality and satisfying his psychological need.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use this poster idea as a method of achieving this goal and its objective: This is only a sample. It should be modified to suit the student or class need.

SAMPLE ACTIVITY:

Make a chart showing any three favorite school subjects, the skills or abilities they reflect, and occupations they may lead to. How would these occupations express his personality and psychological needs? SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS: 2) Bulletin Board

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to evaluate a student on his observation during a released time visitation: Use the suggestion below, which is used in Distributive Education, as a model; adjust the direction to the student to fit the purpose of the released time visitation.

SAMPLE OBSERVATION:

To the student: You are to report to a store and buy an article. Observe how well the salesman demonstrates the product to sell it. Fill in the following chart and hand to your instructor tomorrow.

Positive things you observed Constructive suggestions to about salesmanship improve the salesmanship

SAMPLE EVALUATION: 6) Self-Assessment

IV. KNOWLEDGE OF AND EXPERIENCE IN WORK SETTINGS AND OCCUPATIONS

OBJECTIVE: To increase knowledge of and experience in work settings and occupations, the student will experience the basic requirements of all workers: attendance, punctuality, adaptability to authority, health and safety practices, and legal requirements.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use self-assessments to evaluate this goal and its objective: The sample questions could be used for student self-assessment of attendance, punctuality, and adaptability to authority. Teachers using this method of evaluation would write questions and directions for their use to obtain the emphasis they desired. Students would use the services of the counselors and their cumulative folder to assess their attendance record.

SAMPLE SELF-ASSESSMENT:

Secondary attendance record: (By the time the student is in high school, this should show his pattern).

- 1) How many days were you absent each year from school?
- 2) What were the reasons for your absence?
- 3) How often were you tardy each year?
- 4) If you are habitually tardy, why?

Adaptability to authority in the home:

- 1) How well do you relate with your parents or guardians?
- 2) What concerns do you have relating to them?

Adaptability to authority in school:

- 1) What kind of authority do you expect from your teachers?
- 2) How do those teachers that you respect most indicate authority to you?

Adaptability to civic authority:

- 1) How do you regard the authority of elected and appointed officials?
- 2) Have you ever come into conflict with the law?
- 3) If so, how did you feel about the decision that was made?
- 4) How do you regard the authority in organizations or groups of which you are a part?

Note: Health and safety practices and legal requirements could be added in the same way as the above requirements.

SAMPLE EVALUATION: 7) Staffing

IV. KNOWLEDGE OF AND EXPERIENCE IN WORK SETTINGS AND OCCUPATIONS

3) participate in work simulations and/or on-the-job training experiences outside the classroom: volunteer work (e.g., candy striper), released time visitations, Distributive Education, Trades and Industry, Office Education, Agricultural Occupation Employment Experience, Health Occupations, Work-Study, Work Release, or part-time jobs.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use staffing to evaluate this goal and its objectives: Use the suggestion below, which is from Distributive Education as a model; adjust the personnel and time to fit the simulation being evaluated.

SAMPLE STAFFING:

Student, training sponsor, and teacher-coordinator meet together at least twice a semester. Discuss progress made by the student in designated areas pertaining to his on-the-job training at his training station.

SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS: 3) Business Games

IV. KNOWLEDGE OF AND EXPERIENCE IN WORK SETTINGS AND OCCUPATIONS

OBJECTIVE: To increase knowledge of and experience in work settings and occupations, the student will...

 participate in work simulations in the classroom: contract plan, selection of alternative objectives for a unit of study, school paper, shop projects, library assistants, annual staff, school council or committees, volunteer assistants, or classroom companies.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use business games as a method to increase knowledge and experience in work settings: The following sample is an example of a classroom company used in business education in the study of the stock market. It could be used with one class or a number of classes buying and selling from each other. The use of this sample would depend upon the emphasis the teacher intended to make.

SAMPLE BUSINESS GAME:

 Organize four or five companies with fictitious names to motivate students, such as Crank and Holler Phone Company: Backfire Motors, North of the South Railroad, or Dry Cell Electronics.

Give each student equal stock and toy money. List stocks on the board and give each a fair value based on the amount of money involved in the game.

At the end of the class period, select by drawing the amount of increase or decrease of each stock value for the day. Give students five minutes at the end of the period and until the next class meeting to buy and sell. At the next class meeting, there will be another drawing for stock quotation. Time allotment for the game should be five days.

Class discussion center around the issues involved, people, terms, and cautions.

Ultimate goal is to have all students sold out by the last day of the game. Some may have sold out ahead of that time.

Caution: Students must be reminded that the value and fun of the game will be destroyed if they steal from each other and that the stock and money should be regarded as real so that they accept the responsibility for it.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use demonstration followed by buzz groups as a method to have students participate in work simulations: The following sample is used by Distributive Education students and could be used as a model for other classes. The student is given two days to prepare his demonstration. This demonstration method could be evaluated by 4) observation as it is being presented if the teacher wished.

SAMPLE DEMONSTRATION:

To the student:

Sell a product of your choice (which has been approved by the teacher) to some member of your class. You will be given a maximum of eight minutes of time to complete the sale.

Follow the demonstration by a buzz group session in which positive suggestions and constructive criticism are given to improve future demonstrations.

2) participate in work simulations in the classroom: contract plan, selection of alternative objectives for a unit of study, school paper, shop projects, library assistants, annual staff, school council or committees, volunteer assistants, or classroom companies.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use handicrafts as a method to have students participate in work simulations in the classroom: The following sample could be applied to any class depending upon the emphasis and resourcefulness of the students and teacher.

SAMPLE HANDICRAFTS:

Industrial Arts classes, as a shop project, produce a simple product for sale or produce a gift for a civic project such as toys for the Christmas party for the handicapped.

IV. KNOWLEDGE OF AND EXPERIENCE IN WORK SETTINGS AND OCCUPATIONS

OBJECTIVE: To increase knowledge of and experience in work settings and occupations, the student will...

 experience the basic requirements of all workers: attendance, punctuality, adaptability to authority, health and safety practices, and legal requirements.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use role-playing followed by buzz groups as a method to experience the basic requirements of workers: Using the following sample, write directions or give directions orally as they apply to your emphasis. The problem could be changed so as to experience any of the basic requirements.

SAMPLE ROLE-PLAYING AND BUZZ GROUPS:

To the student: You are the manager of a small business. One of your workers calls in sick at five minutes of eight. Your business opens at eight o'clock.

- a) What do you say to him over the phone?
- b) What do you do to fill his place at opening time?
- c) What action do you take when he returns to work?

Role-play the part of the manager.

Follow the role-playing by having students discuss the decisions made and the reasons for making them. This could be done in small buzz groups. Groups could share their decisions.

SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS: 6) Collage

IV. KNOWLEDGE OF AND EXPERIENCE IN WORK SETTINGS AND OCCUPATIONS

OBJECTIVE: To increase knowledge of and experience in work settings and occupations, the student will...

 experience the basic requirements of all workers: attendance, punctuality, adaptability to authority, health and safety practices, and legal requirements.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use collage as a method to know the basic requirements they are to experience as workers: Use newspapers and magazines as resource materials. Use the following sample; write directions as they apply to your emphasis.

SAMPLE COLLAGE:

Have students collect news articles and pictures showing conformity or non-conformity to the basic requirements of all workers. Assemble them as a collage.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use on-the-job as a method to have students participate in on-the-job training: The sample below is used with Trades and Industry students at the senior class level half-days for the entire school year. It could be modified and used for shorter periods of time at any grade level.

SAMPLE ON-THE-JOB:

Students, in their junior year, fill out a job application. They are then interviewed by the teacher-coordinator. Each student obtains recommendations from four or five of his high school teachers. These recommendations along with his application are sent out to prospective employers.

The summer following the junior year, interested employers contact the teacher-coordinator. The student then calls the employer, arranges for an interview, and is either accepted or rejected for the senior school year. The process continues until all students are placed in the program. Students rejected by the close of the summer do not enter the program.

Students in the program attend school half-days and work on the job the other half. The employer and his place of business become the teacher and the school. The teacher-coordinator assumes the role of liaison between employer and the school, and between the student and the employer. The student has a class with the teacher-coordinator for which he is given one credit toward graduation. One credit for graduation plus pay for the work is given on-the-job.

AND

METHODS AND MATERIALS

SAMPLE EVALUATION: 1) Check List

V. DEVELOPMENT OF SKILLS FOR CAREERS

OBJECTIVE: To demonstrate responsible behavior

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS: This is simply an example for teachers to show how this objective may be evaluated. They should add to or delete from the check list as they feel necessary for their classroom.

SAMPLE CHECK LIST

Frequently Seldom Never

- 1) listens without interrupting
- 2) refrains from derogatory language
- 3) is punctual
- 4) demonstrates self-discipline
- 5) respects property of others
- 6) offers helpful suggestions
- 7) practices safety in judgment
- 8) is courteous to peers
- 9) follows specified directions
- 10)
- 11)
- 12)

SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS: 20) Practice and Drill

V. DEVELOPMENT OF SKILLS FOR CAREERS

OBJECTIVE: To develop communication competencies, the student will...

1) improve his listening skills.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to construct exercises of practice and drill for this goal and its objective: Using the following as samples, devise exercises as they relate to a specific field or classroom.

SAMPLE ACTIVITY:

- 1) Picture Story. The teacher distributes various pictures around the classroom so that each student has his own picture. The teacher begins a story with something like:

 Once upon a time a little girl....Each student then adds to that beginning with something relevant to the picture he has. As the story progresses around the room, it must be both sensible and pertinent to the picture being included.
- 2) Bus Stop Story. The teacher tells the following to the class: (The students may not take notes).

On a rainy day in May, an empty Mason City mini-bus stops at the corner of Indiana and State Streets to pick up twelve students (three of which are girls, one those is Norwegian). As the bus proceeds on its route, two girls exit at Grupp's Grocery and four boys take a seat on the bus. As the bus goes by the Villa Apartments, one boy becomes ill and is let off. (Include as many stops, entrances, and exits as you wish). How many stops did the bus make?

- 3) A B C Game. Our family is going on a vacation; on our tour we will take....
 - a) apple
 - b) bear
 - c) candy
 - d) dandelion

Each student must repeat what the others have stated and add his own according to the next letter. If he fails to repeat all, he is out of the game. SAMPLE METHODS AND MATERIALS:

12) Field Trips

14) Independent Study

17) On-the-Job

21) Reading

V. DEVELOPMENT OF SKILLS FOR CAREERS

OBJECTIVE: To develop communication competencies, the student will...

3) describe in written form how knowledge and/or skills acquired in different subjects relate to various career goals.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use independent study through field trips, on-the-job taining, and reading as methods for this goal and its objective: Use the resources available in the Media Center, Counseling Offices, and public relations brochures of a firm in which the class has interest.

SAMPLE ACTIVITY:

Your employer has requested that you do research within the firm to discover what tasks are available there that could be performed by a 14, 15, or 16 year old.

VI. REFORMULATION OF A TENTATIVE CAREER CHOICE

OBJECTIVE: To reformulate a tentative career choice, the student will...

 continually reassess his personal needs, values, limitations, abilities and interests as they relate to the changing world of work.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to use a debate format as a method for this goal and its objective: Use the resources available in the Media Center. Write directions for the debate as they would apply to the subject and the emphasis desired in the debate.

SAMPLE DEBATE QUESTIONS:

- Resolved: Television presents a realistic portrayal of specific careers (possible programs to view: Room 222, Dr. Welby, Mannix).
- 2) Resolved: Shoplifting affects all consumers.
- 3) Resolved: Possession of material goods brings happiness.
- 4) Resolved: Abortion should not be legalized.
- 5) Resolved: ALL IN THE FAMILY is a more realistic portrayal of American life than is THE WALTONS.

5) Buzz Groups

VI. REFORMULATION OF A TENTATIVE CAREER CHOICE

OBJECTIVE: To reformulate a tentative career choice, the student will...

3) apply the decision-making process regarding job choice.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS wishing to construct case problems or buzz groups as a method for this goal and its objective: Using the following as a sample of role-playing/simulation, devise sample stories as they relate to a specific field.

SAMPLE ACTIVITY:

Charlie was a varsity wrestler in high school and graduated near the top of his class. His grades in science and math were A's. Charlie claims to have an interest in people and would like a career where he could help people. His father is a partner in a construction firm and his mother is a hair-dresser who has her own shop. Charlie's teacher and his high school counselor feel that he has the ability to go to medical school. His parents would like to see Charlie become a physician. Charlie, however, wants to become a male nurse. How do you feel the following people will react to Charlie's decision?

Charlie's mother Charlie Charlie's coach
Charlie's father Charlie's girlfriend Charlie's best friend

RESOURCE MATERIAL
SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY*

^{*} Material compiled by Terry Brennan, Senior High School Librarian

The following list is a printout of the card file on the Career table in the Senior High School Library. This file contains the location designation of the permanent materials (books, tapes, lengthy pamphlets, and magazine articles) housed within the library. Also available for student use are the Chronicle Guidance Occupational Library in a small file cabinet and a less formal, four-drawer file of free pamphlets and newspaper clippings which we have obtained.

If you can add items to any of these collections—articles encountered in your reading, career materials which you believe we should order—we would appreciate your letting us know.

Please give this list some attention and, more importantly, exposure to your students.
