North Central Office Hours with Jay

Happy National Library Week!

Hello all,

I want to say I have been so appreciative of all of your support during our weekly Open Office Hours.

We have been holding these every Thursday at 1:30 and I have been so encouraged to see you all band together to talk about the issues we all are facing and exchange ideas during this time.

I was very thankful for the feedback last week to the 25 or so of you who showed up and talked about technological challenges that are facing your libraries.

I wanted to mention that we are now DELAYING the office hour by half an hour to accommodate the Association of Rural and Small Libraries' meetings that are happening just before this time. I would encourage you to register for those as well if you wish. They will be having around three more sessions of those going forward.

You can sign up here and of course it is free and online using zoom just as just about everything we are doing now! <https://arsl.info/covid/>

So Please NOTE: Our Open Office hours will be held at 2 PM Every Thursday until this crisis is over. The next one will be held TODAY, April 23rd.

They will be at this link: <https://zoom.us/j/5152814499>
