STARTING YOUR OWN BUSINESS.

Virtually every business in the United States was started by a man who had ambition, know-how and courage. This can be seen everywhere you go in America.

There have been many immigrants arriving in the United States for a number of years. Many of these people decided to become successful entrepreneurs. Today's refugees from Indochina could duplicate these past examples.

The development of your own business has many advantages such as increased employment and a decrease in federal support needed for the refugees. The greatest asset to owning your own business is the feeling of pride and accomplishment.

Understandably, a small business venture can be a risk. There are, however, people who can help you get your feet on the ground. There are two federal government agencies- The Small Business Administration (SBA) and the office of Minority Enterprise of the Department of Commerce- that can be of help to you.

There are other specialists who can help you in the highly technical aspects of opening a business. You will need the advise of bankers, attorneys, insurance brokers, and accountants.

There are certain steps you must take before you can open your doors to the public if you want to be successful.

First, you must find the financial assistance necessary to enter into business. In a past newsletter, I discussed how to obtain a personal loan. The SBA and other organizations may be easier to get a loan from than a bank or other financial institution. I have listed below some other lending programs.

1. State and local Development Company Loans.
2. Loans to Small Business Investment Companies.
3. Licensees organized to assist economically-disadvantaged entrepreneurs.

After securing financial assistance, it is necessary for the businessman to translate his vision into a working operation. He should plan out his expenses, nature of the proposed business and the expected sales volume. The businessman with the most realistic plan stands the best chance of success.

There are many different ways to own a business. You may form a partnership, may own it yourself (called sole proprietorship), or form a corporation where there are many partners.

The successful businessman must become aware of the income tax structure and government regulations that influence his business. Local, State and federal regulations put control on business. The smart entrepreneur knows the laws and regulations that he is expected to abide by.

Another important consideration is choice of location. This will depend on the type of goods and services you plan to make available.

Small businesses, sensitive to the slightest loss, need to be well insured. Several types of insurance policies are necessary, such as : Property insurance, Casualty insurance, Life insurance and Workmen's Compensation insurance. Before you open your business, be sure to discuss each of these programs with your insurance agent.

Accurate accounting methods are an absolute necessity to the proper management of a business, no matter how small. If you are aware of modern booking methods, utilize your knowledge to the best of your ability. If you have no knowledge, it is advisable to hire an accountant to prepare your books for you.

Finally, the only way people will learn of your new business is through the use of advertising. Small businessmen should make advertising costs a permanent part of their business budget.

There are over 11 million businesses in the United States. Last year alone, almost 500,000 new businesses were founded. You are not alone in seeking this gratifying experience and if you take advantage of the special programs available to you, you should build a healthy and prosperous business.

CORRECTION!

In Newsletter #5, I mentioned the " Consumer Protection Commission" or " Consumer Affairs" as the places to go if you feel you've been taken advantage of by a business. This is incorrect.

In such an instance, call the State Attorney General's office or your county Attorney's Office. If they cannot help you, they will direct you to somebody who can.

FREE ENGLISH CLASSES!!!!

The Des Moines Public Schools will be having a "Learning to Speak English, Summer School Program" for the Indochinese. The program will be from June 9 through July 23 at East and North High Schools in Des Moines.

Classes will be from 8:00 a.m. to noon and are available to those between the ages of 6 and 20. For more information, check with the school principal.

GARDENING.

Many Iowans plant home gardens which provide fresh vegetables and flowers throughout the spring and summer. Gardening provides enjoyable and often profitable means of relaxing and working outdoors.

If you have a large family, a home garden can help your food budget considerably but you should count on canning and freezing the produce if you expect to save money on your groceries during the winter months.

To start a garden, clear away any brush or leaves left from the winter. When the soil is dry enough, hoe or plow it to the depth of a foot or more. You then rake it and may want to use fertilizer. Tools, fertilizer, seeds, and other accessories can be obtained at any hardware store or nursery. If you have any questions, ask the attendant at the store as they are happy to give you advice.

NOTICE TO NON-ENGLISH SPEAKING TAI DAM.

An interpreter must be present at all times with the family (including parents) during treatment at the Des Moines Health Center. This includes the interview, health history, and other such treatment that is indicated.

This is being done in hopes of ending some of the trauma the children are going through while undergoing treatment at the Center.

The Des Moines Health Center has indicated that any non-English speaking family brought to the Center without an interpreter will probably not be seen on that day and will have to be rescheduled for another appointment when an interpreter is available.

BICENTENNIAL FESTIVAL.

This is the bicentennial of the United States and the celebrations are abundant in Iowa.

Polk County is organizing a racial/ethnic cultural festival in which the Tai Dam Committee will participate.

The festival will take place on the State Capitol grounds in Des Moines on Saturday, May 22nd from noon till 7:00 p.m.

On the same day, from 8:30 to midnight, there will be dances performed at the Hyatt House Hotel, 6215 Fleur Drive in Des Moines. There is a $1.50/ticket charge for the dance festival.

The Tai Dam Committee has invited all Tai Dam families and sponsors to attend the festivals. For more information, contact Mr. Houng Baccam. Telephone- 515-281-3109

SUMMER PICNIC!

There will be a picnic on June 16th at 5:00 pm in Gender,
Iowa for all of the Indochinese refugees living near that area.

This is a good chance to meet other Tai Dam and Vietnamese living in your vicinity.

THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SYSTEM- STATE GOVERNMENT (Last in a series).

Each State has its own government and constitution. They are also divided into three separate branches-the Executive, Legislative and Judicial- and they function in the same way the Federal branches do.

The constitution for each state, such as Iowa, provides for a general plan for that State's government. Because different States have different needs, each State's constitution is unique only to that state.

The State's constitution declare the final authority of the people living in that state. However, because the Federal or United States Constitution is the supreme law of the land, every state is bound by it and all state constitutions and laws must agree with it.

The chief executive of the federal government is the President of the United States, as you may recall. The chief executive in each state is the 'Governor'. Iowa's Governor is Robert Ray.

The governor's qualifications and term in office are determined by the State Constitution.

The governor, together with his executive officers, enforces the laws of that state.

Each state also has its own Senate, House of Representatives and Judicial branch. Their functions are similar to those of the federal government except they apply only to one state instead of a whole nation.

One of the most important services of a state is the protection of the health of its people. Most states have laws requiring that doctors, nurses, and persons who sell drugs have licenses.

State governments do many things to help educate their citizens. Each state sets certain standards of education for its school systems. It passes laws that require children to attend school. Public elementary and high schools are free.

The state also protects the lives and property of the people through the use of the police. The police provide for the safety, comfort and convenience of its people.

Basically, the state cares for its own problems. Most roads are under the control of local governments and the repairing of these roads is paid for by the state.

Every day, in many ways, the state is part of the lives of its people. They must help the state by obeying the laws, paying the taxes, working for better laws and supporting the police in carrying out their duties. Each state is only as good as the people who live in it.

This concludes the series on the American Political system. I hope you have enjoyed it and benefited from it. If you have any questions, call me and I will either answer them or direct you to someone who can.
