Help Students Fulfill Their Hopes and Dreams, Even During Tough Economic Times

This year, education leaders at nearly every level know that the New Year will bring with it the challenge of addressing budget cuts. Governor Chet Culver recently signed an executive order calling for a 1.5 percent across-the-board cut to state general fund appropriations made for the current 2009 fiscal year.

The Revenue Estimating Conference (REC) had revised its revenue estimates, and the Governor called for the reduction in an effort to meet the requirement that the state have a balanced budget. Other measures include previously announced budget cuts specifically for state agencies, including the Iowa Department of Education.

I provided you estimates for reductions in foundation aid in a December 18 email and the Iowa Department of Education continues to work on categorical fund estimates. We will continue to provide you with updates and information as it becomes available. I encourage you to contact the Department if you have any questions.

While we delve into the work of how we handle these reductions, I ask you to consider the opportunity that lies within this challenge. When leaders are charged with making tough decisions, it can be a clarifying moment; making sure that resources are focused to the extent possible on improving student learning.

I acknowledge that this does not ease our burden as administrators, but it does allow us to choose the road of hope, instead of despair.

Our students must know that at all times — even when faced with challenges — we focus on fulfilling their hopes and dreams for the future.

Iowa’s GED On-Demand Initiative Receives National Attention

Iowa’s GED On-Demand initiative has garnered national attention with an article recently printed in the New York Times Business Section.

The article was a part of a series about innovative efforts to increase the skills of the workforce. The GED On-Demand initiative utilizes on-demand television technology to make it easier for Iowans without a high school diploma to prepare for the General Education Development (GED®) tests.

The initiative was launched October 1, 2008 through a partnership between the Iowa Department of Education, Iowa’s 15 community colleges, Iowa Public Television, and Mediacom.

For more information on the initiative, please visit http://www.readiowa.org/GED/geddemand.html or contact Helene Grossman at 515-281-3640 or helene.grossman@iowa.gov.

Districts Encouraged to Monitor Guideway Completion to Meet 8th Grade Plan Requirements

With the passage of SF 2216, students and schools are moving toward an electronic portfolio system for career planning.

Beginning with the current 8th grade class (graduating class of 2012-2013), districts must ensure each student completes a career planning process that includes interest assessments, a course plan, a parent approval, and a summary of these components.

The easiest way for a student to complete the electronic portfolio is to use the state-designated career information system, Iowa Choices® (the web portal is www.ihaveaplaniowa.gov).
A section, called “the Iowa Guideway” in both Choices Explorer and Choices Planner, directs the student to complete the step-by-step state-mandated components for their student career planning portfolio. The student portfolio is attached to their school and school district.

With student completion of the Guideway, all required school career planning data is automatically reported by the vendor to the Iowa Department of Education, so no other reporting is necessary for the school.

For training on Choices, please contact the Iowa College Student Aid Commission, which manages the career information system in Iowa. Training schedules are electronically available on the left content bar on the website, www.ihaveaplaniowa.gov, or by calling the College Aid Commission at 877-272-4456.

For more information, please contact Linda Berg at linda.berg@iowa.gov or 515-242-5032.

Change Made to the Quality IEP Website

In response to education stakeholders, the Iowa Department of Education (DE) has made a slight change in one of the examples given on the Quality IEP (Individualized Education Program) website located at www.iepquality.iowa.gov.

The DE had used one-on-one paraprofessional as an example of a supplementary aid or service in the “Services, Activities and Supports” section on the Quality IEP website. The DE has changed this example to “appropriate adult assistance as determined by the student’s IEP team.” This change clarifies that the IEP team is to make the decision regarding adult assistance for students with special education needs.

Please contact Sharon Hawthorne at sharon.hawthorne@iowa.gov or Kiersten Hensley at kiersten.hensley@iowa.gov with any questions.

Iowa Alternate Assessment Process

The process for assessing students using the Iowa Alternate Assessment (IAA) started in September and will end on March 31st.

The Iowa Alternate Assessment measures student performance in reading, mathematics, and, for some students, science and is for students with the most significant cognitive disabilities. Participation is determined by IEP (Individualized Education Program) teams.

Teachers and building administrators have been sent information about completing the process and the timelines. For 2008-2009, the Iowa Department of Education has articulated exclusion rules, found in the attached memo.

If you have questions about the assessment process, please refer to the “IAA Teacher Directions Step-by-Step PowerPoint,” which can be found at http://www.iowa.gov/educate/content/view/461/926/1/5/index.php?option=com_content&task=view&id=461&Itemid=1576

For further information, please contact Steve Maurer at 515-281-3576 or steve.maurer@iowa.gov.

Training on New Restraint and Physical Confinement and Detention Rules to be Repeated

Due to hardware problems and in light of demand, the Iowa Department of Education will repeat its ICN (Iowa Communications Network) training on the new rules regarding restraint and physical confinement and detention.

The ICN is scheduled for January 15, 2009 from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m., with locations listed in the attached document.

New Family and Consumer Science Statewide Articulation Agreement

In order to assist students interested in studying early childhood education, representatives from various education groups have finalized the process of developing a new statewide articulation agreement in the area of early childhood education studies. The agreement is “ECE 107 Introduction to Early Childhood Education.”

In addition, the group — representing the community colleges’ Early Childhood Alliance and family and consumer sciences (FCS) instructors from the secondary level — has revised the articulation agreement for Child Growth and Development, which has been re-titled “ECE 170 Child Growth and Development.”

Both agreements include a grid illustrating a comparison between the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) standards for professional preparation and Interstate New Teacher Assessment and Support Consortium (INTASC) standards. The grid is expanded from the grid used in “Preparing Early Childhood Professionals: NAEYC’s Standards for Associate Degree Programs.”

In addition, course competencies have been cross-walked with the Family and Consumer Sciences (FCS) national standards and the integrated career and technical student organization association, Family, Career, and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA).

Iowa High School Summit Organizers Seek Feedback

More than 1,100 secondary teachers, administrators, and learning partners from the Iowa Department of Education and Iowa Area Education Agencies (AEAs) attended the 5th Iowa High School Summit held in December. Despite another year of inclement weather during the event, attendees gained challenging insights and practical applications for increased rigor, relevance, and relationships.

Attendees are encouraged to provide feedback to the summit’s planning committee during the month of January 2009 by completing a brief survey located at:
http://www.aae13.org/programs_services/surveys/ia/summitV.htm

Handouts and PowerPoint presentations from the summit are also available at:

IOWA CORE CURRICULUM

Match Up Assessment Plans with the Iowa Core Curriculum

When it comes time to measure the gains from the Iowa Core Curriculum (Core Curriculum), standardized tests offer an excellent starting point. Iowa schools have long relied on the Iowa Tests of Basic Skills and Iowa Tests of Educational Development to assess student achievement and hold their districts accountable for student learning.

“The Iowa Tests will continue to play an important role,” says Judy Jeffrey, director of the Iowa Department of Education. But a district also may need to expand its mix of assessment tools and tests. Districts must be sure assessments plans support the higher learning called for by the Core Curriculum. It calls for rigorous, student-focused learning as well as a different portfolio of skills, including employability skills for the 21st century, and financial, health, and technology literacy.

“The learning we’re seeking through the Core Curriculum cannot be easily measured on standardized tests,” notes Jeffrey, “and there won’t be any one assessment that evaluates all parts of the Core Curriculum.”

The Core Curriculum raises the bar on all students’ achievement — no matter the career path — and helps educators focus on teaching the most essential lessons. Thus, assessments must evaluate how well students have mastered those critical, higher-level thinking skills.

“This is about students doing real intellectual work, rather than just covering content,” Jeffrey says. Districts will be expected to conduct a detailed local examination to determine what steps are needed to fully align their assessment plans with the Core Curriculum’s essential concepts and skills. Options might include using some of Iowa Testing Programs’ new end-of-course exams for key high school subjects. Math and science are already in the field; language arts and social studies should arrive in 2009. The Department also is working with Iowa Testing on a new writing test for elementary, middle, and high school students that will align with the essential concepts and skills for literacy.

The Department is not touting a one-size-fits-all assessment solution for Iowa schools. Each district is unique and with local leadership must craft the right recipe for satisfying the Core Curriculum goals. But professional development efforts will help guide school districts as they analyze their portfolio of assessment tools and develop a new strategy for meeting the critical goals of the Core Curriculum.

The assessment path

Assessment plans nest in layers. At each level, educators must ask: What do we need to know? What do families need to know? What data is needed to make wise decisions about student learning?

Open Enrollment Transportation Assistance 2008-2009

When students open enroll to another district and his/her family qualifies for transportation reimbursement under income guidelines, the amount of eligible reimbursement is $397. Transportation assistance is only available to families that open enroll between contiguous districts.

The cost of transportation reimbursement incurred by the resident district should be deducted from the tuition sent to the receiving district for a student that is open enrolled. If the application for transportation assistance is filed after the beginning of the school year, the cost of providing the transportation should be prorated.

If a parent/guardian qualifies for school transportation assistance, the resident district has the authority to determine how the transportation assistance will be provided. The type of transportation assistance is not a parent/guardian choice. The resident district may meet its statutory obligation in one of three ways:

- The resident district may provide transportation for the pupil(s) to a stop on the bus line of the receiving district.
- The resident district may allow the receiving district to enter the resident district to pick up the pupil(s) if the receiving district requests this arrangement. If either the sending or receiving district does not approve the arrangement, the resident district is still obligated to provide transportation assistance.
- The resident district may provide a parent/guardian with a cash reimbursement at $397 per child, per year for up to four children per family. The maximum number of children can include only one secondary child and up to three elementary children.

TRANSPORTATION

'Best of the Best' Competition Helps Recognize School Transportation Personnel

The Iowa Department of Education, in association with the Iowa Pupil Transportation Association and the school bus dealers in Iowa, will be helping to sponsor the “Best of the Best” competition on April 18, 2009.

This is a program to help recognize school bus technicians/mechanics for the important role they play in school transportation. The competition will include both a written knowledge exam plus a “hands on” competition to determine the “best of the best” in Iowa.
The winner of this competition will then proceed on to the national competition to be held later in the year. The national winner will then receive an award at the national transportation conference next fall.

For information on how to get your school bus technicians/mechanics entered in this event, contact Owen Freese at owen.freese@iowa.gov or Max Christensen at max.christensen@iowa.gov

RE: Iowa Alternate Assessment (IAA) for Students with the Most Significant Cognitive Disabilities

The alternate assessment process has been on-going in schools since September of 2008. The steps of the Iowa Alternate Assessment Process that are well-underway are:

- Teachers provide information about student characteristics through the Student Profile process
- Teachers generate student performance on academic tasks aligned to grade level content standards using the IAA Rating Scales
- Teachers and administrators review student performance and discuss supports teachers need to make links between instruction for students with severe cognitive disabilities, and grade level content standards through the assurance process

The steps which need to be completed and timelines, are:

- Teachers report on student performance to generate a score and performance level: March 1-31, 2009
- Teachers and administrators review each student’s performance. Building administrators attest that the Iowa Alternate Assessment process was adhered to (IAA Assurance Process): Assurance form due April 15th
- Teachers provide parents with reports of student performance on the IAA: April/May, 2009
- Teachers complete a validity survey on consequences of the alternate assessment and areas in which professional development is needed: April/May, 2009

For the 2008-09 school year students in the Iowa Alternate Assessment will be counted as “exclusions” under the following conditions:

a) If the Department receives a rating scale but no assurance form, the Department will contact the teacher and building administrator. If no assurance form is received, the child is counted as an exclusion for participation and performance.
b) If an assurance form is received but a rating scale was not completed for a student, teachers will have one week to produce ratings. However, if the teacher does not have data from throughout the school year to rate the student, and waits until after April 1 to generate data, the teacher did not follow the IAA process set forth, the student will be counted as an exclusion for participation and performance. If no data were maintained by the teacher prior to April 1, the decision on exclusion is not appealable.

c) If the Department receives neither an assurance form nor a rating scale for a student from which student demographic data were entered in Fall of 2008, the Department will prompt the teacher for data or explanation of why the data will not be forthcoming (moved, deceased, staffed into general assessment). Students without explanations and for whom Iowa Testing Program data are not found in Project EASIER, will be counted as exclusions for participation and performance.
