LIBRARY COMMISSION STATE OF IOWA

LIBRARIES IN WAR TIME.

Library work of all kinds, whether commission, public or special library, has been affected by war conditions and the vitality of libraries is being tested by their adaptability to the new demands being made upon them.

Happily for the sponsors of our public libraries they are responding to these demands in a manner that is giving the library a place in the community life which it has never held before.

This report for the Commission and the libraries of the state will therefore be a report of the effect of the war upon normal library activities and the new activities growing out of the demands of the times.

LIBRARY CONDITIONS OF THE STATE.

Free Public Libraries. As might naturally be anticipated, the focus of attention both public and individual upon the war and the resulting local activities connected therewith, has interferred with that concentration of interest which is necessary in the inauguration of library projects and the vote of communities for tax support.

The number of communities therefore which have made library beginnings with a vote for the establishment of a tax supported library has been small, but five have taken the step during the biennial period, viz.: Parkersburg and Sutherland in 1916, Corydon and Montezuma in 1917, and Mediapolis in 1918.

This gives a total of 136 free public libraries in Iowa on July 1, 1918, including the endowed libraries at Webster City and Whiting. The total number of volumes in these libraries is 1,160,625.

Two of these towns were in counties where no free public library had previously existed, viz., Parkersburg in Butler county and Corydon in Wayne, reducing the number of such counties in the state to five. (The distribution of libraries by counties will be found among the statistics in this report.)

The number of county seats without libraries is unchanged, being 17.

A public library exists in every city of the first class in Iowa (with population of 15,000 or over), and in all but seven of the cities of the second class (with population between 2,000 and 15,000). There are free public libraries also in 25 of the towns of the state with population less than 2,000. This leaves 85 cities or towns with population of 1,000 and over without public library privileges, which indicates room for library growth after the war is over—seven of these being in towns with a population of 3,000 or more.

LEEDS BRANCH—SIOUX CITY PUBLIC LIBRARY—CARENGLIA BUILDING.

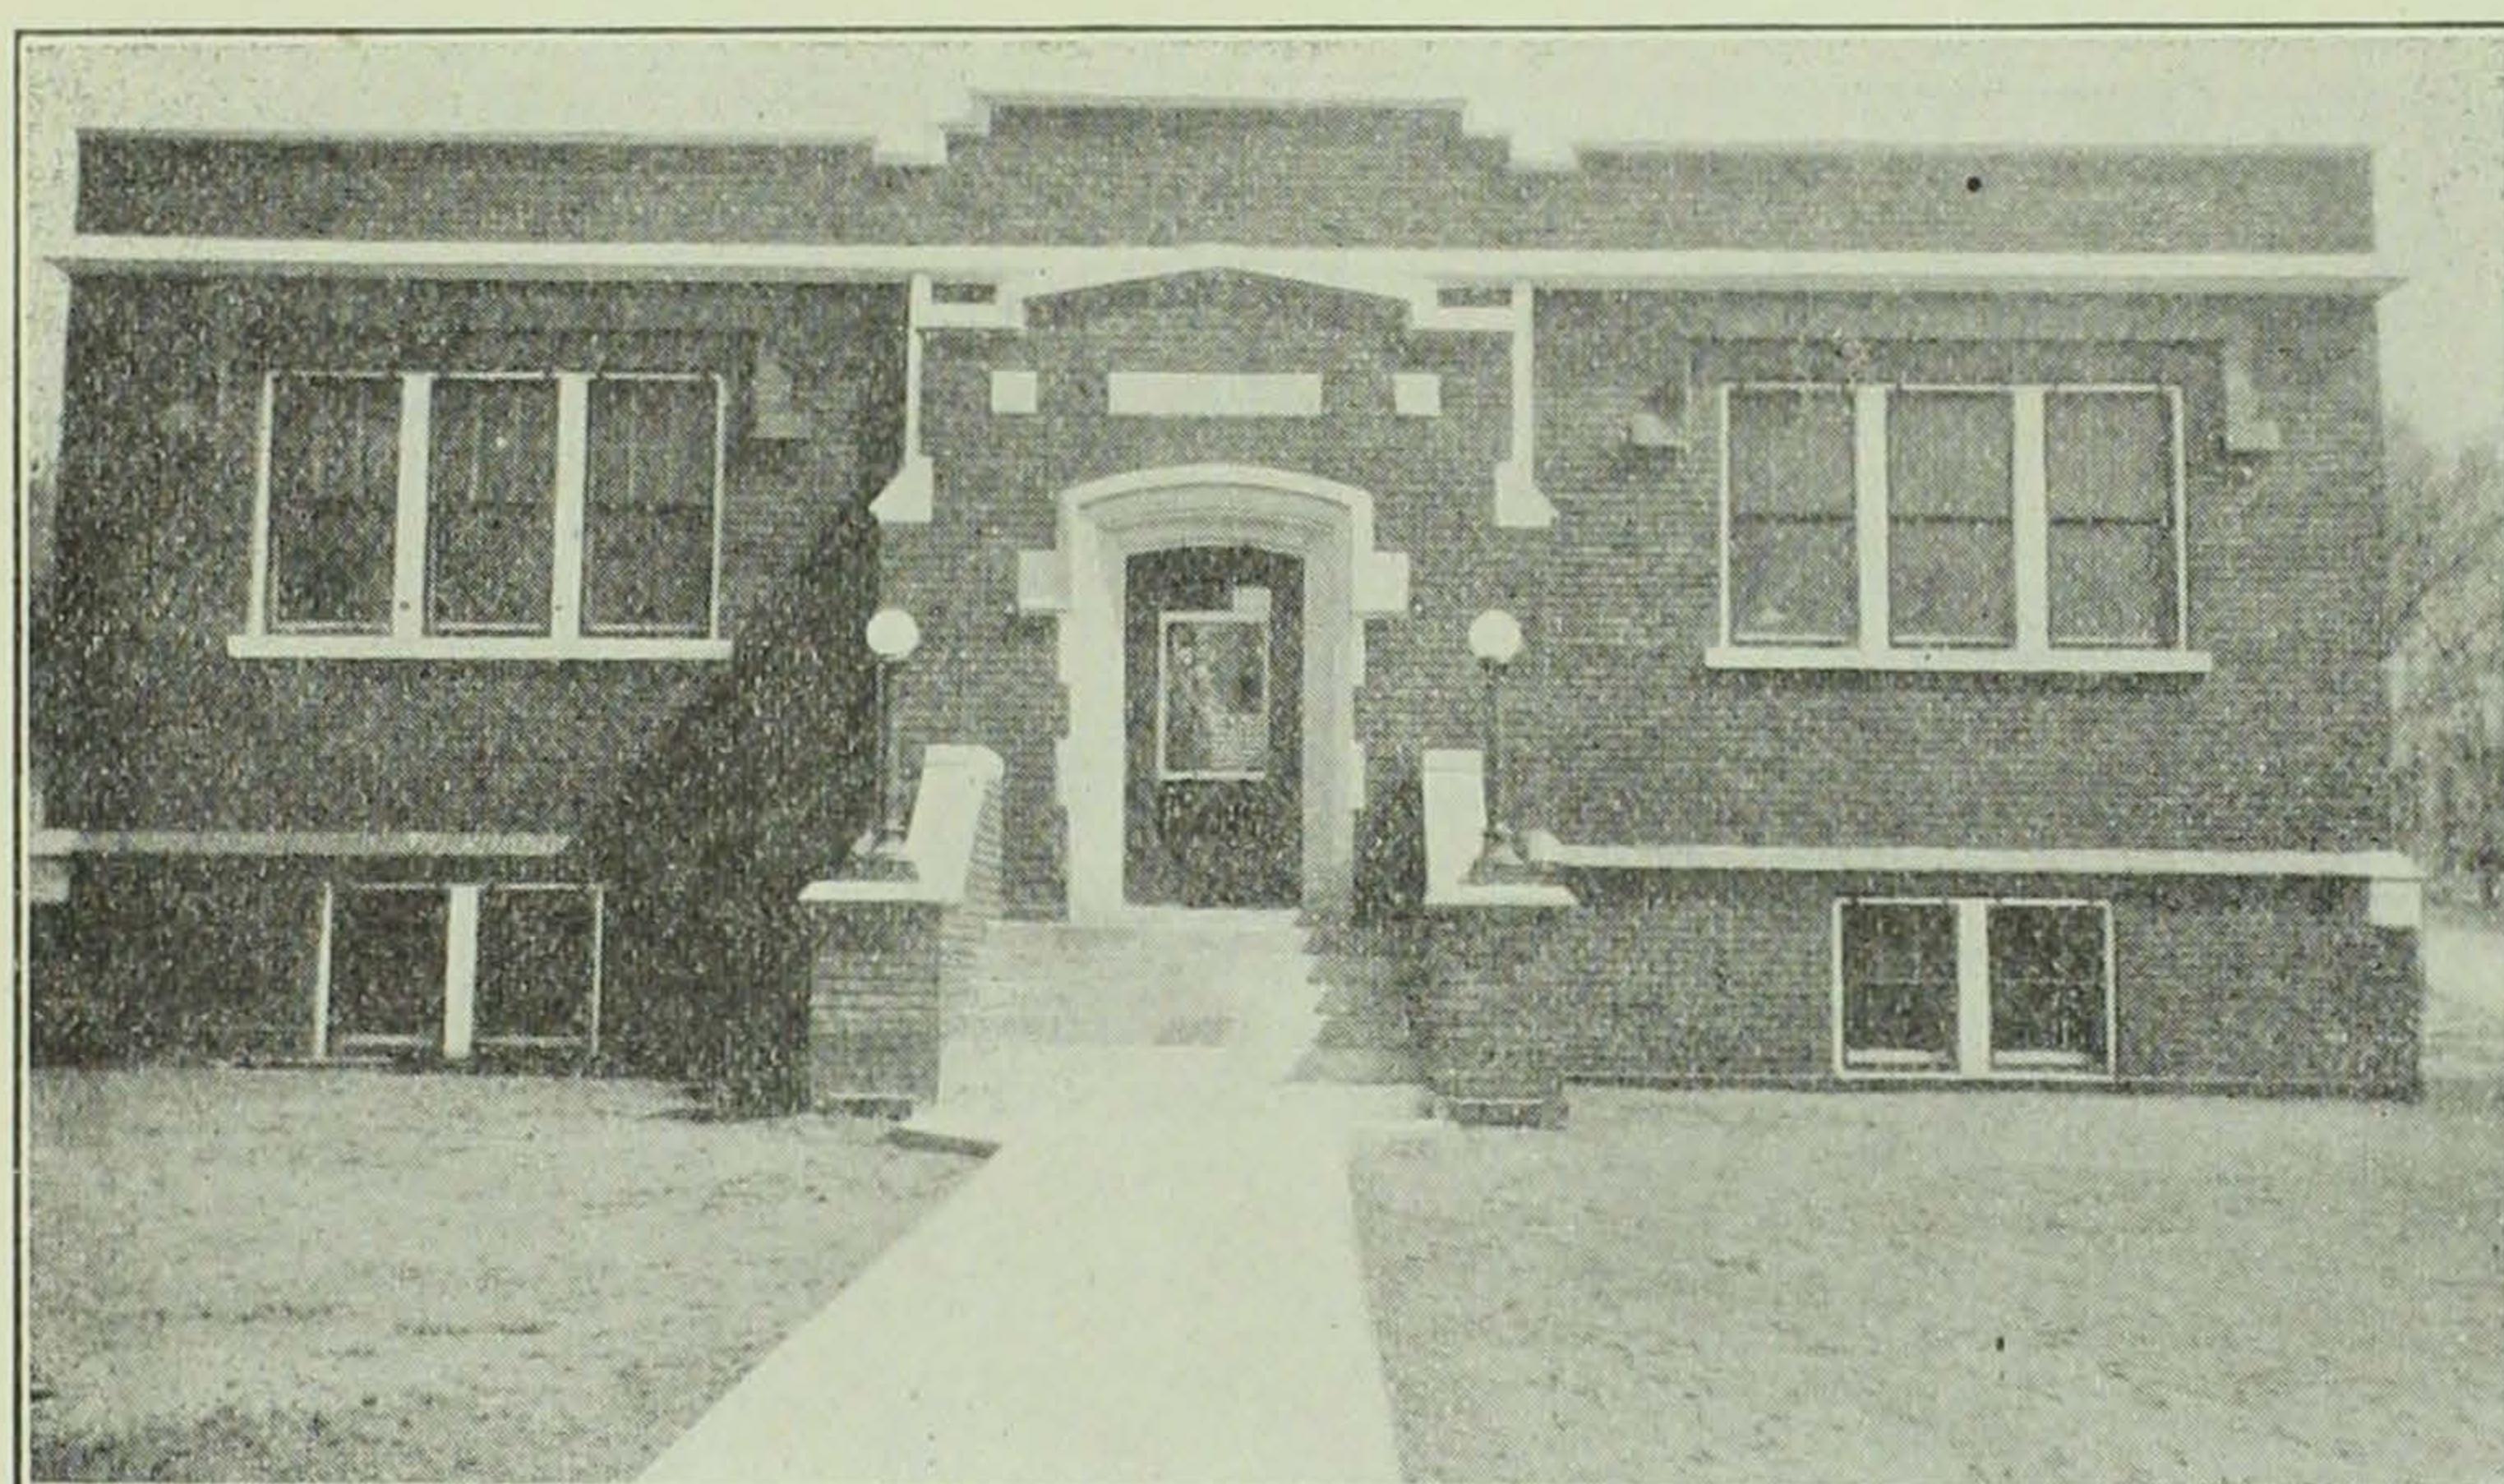

Library Buildings. Seven Carnegie buildings have been opened during the past two years, namely, in 1916, at Greenfield, costing $7,500; in 1917, at Bedford, Sibley and Leeds Branch, Sioux City, costing $10,000 each, and Reinbeck, $6,000, and in 1918, at Britt, costing $8,000, and Clear Lake, $8,500. In addition a $12,000 building with equipment, the gift of Mr. Henry Crist to the town of Belmond, was dedicated in 1917.

Four towns have received assurance of gifts for buildings from the Carnegie Corporation, and two at least are in process of construction and will probably be opened before the close of the year, viz., at Corydon and Montezuma. These gifts were made before the entrance of the United States into war, and will probably conclude our library building activities until the war is over.

Association or Subscription Libraries. War interest monopolizes the attention to the extent that but few new association libraries have been started, though a few have made more or less successful beginnings, and these and others we hope may become tax supported with the return to normal interests.

Publicity. The former methods of publicity in bringing the libraries to the notice of the public have not been entirely abandoned, but the libraries have found that their best publicity has come to them through their library war work.

*MALVERN PUBLIC LIBRARY—CARNEGIE BUILDING.

LIBRARY WAR SERVICE.

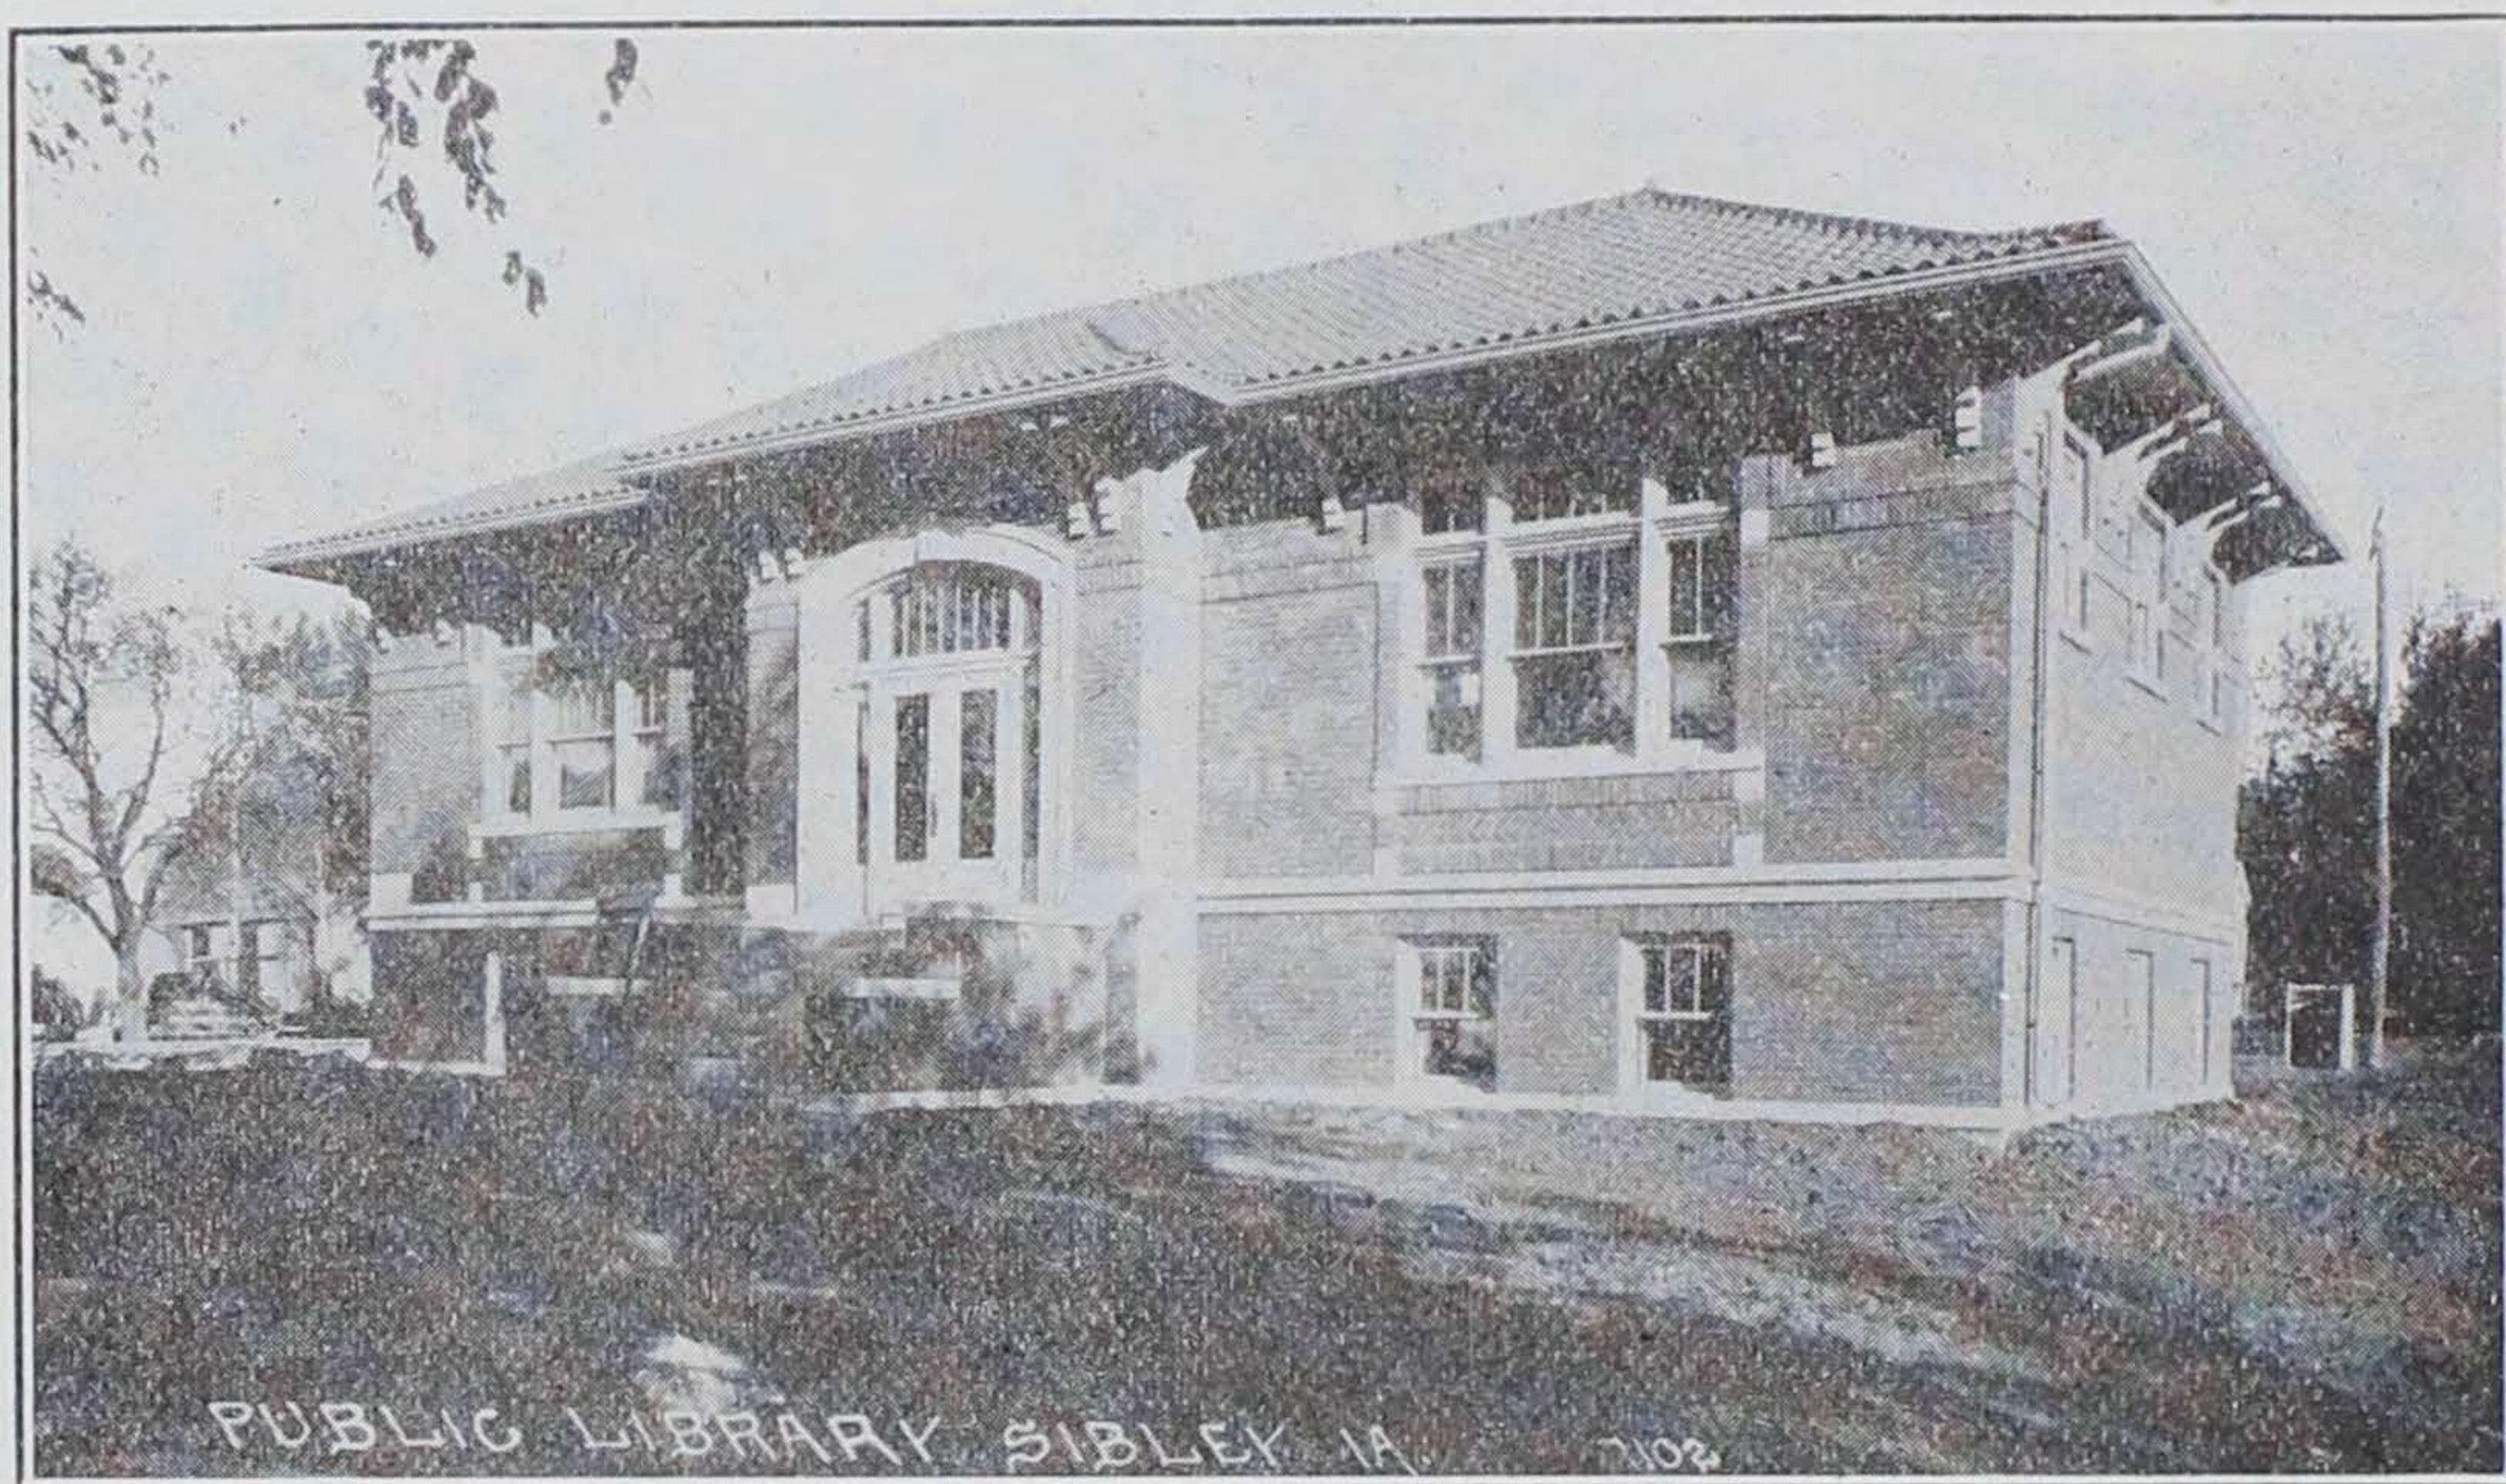

Camp Libraries. An account of camp library work and Iowa's contribution thereto will appear later under a separate heading.

War Books. To create and supply a demand for war material of all kinds, the provision, advertising and display of books and pamphlets on all phases of the war was of course the first and has been the constant effort on the part of all libraries. Maps have been constantly on display, newspaper clippings posted and magazine articles listed and advertised.

Red Cross. Rooms in basements and second stories of many library buildings in the state have been vacated and turned over for Red Cross work and the hum of knitting and sewing machines disturb the library quiet, but women are finding their way to the libraries who had never before entered their doors, and the library is becoming more of a community center than ever before.

Food Conservation. Libraries have been called upon by the United States Food Administration to assist in giving publicity to food conservation, and a Library Director was appointed for that purpose in each state. The Secretary of the Iowa Library Commission was asked to act in that capacity for Iowa, and the libraries have responded generously to requests made through her for display of posters, distributions of pamphlets and exhibits of various kinds, and have co-operated with County Food Demonstrators.

Liberty Bonds. Few, if any, libraries have sold Liberty Bonds in the library building, though posters have been displayed and applications distributed.

War Savings Stamps. In addition to the display of posters and distribution of advertising material, a number of libraries have sold Thrift Stamps in considerable amounts in the children's rooms, various ingenuous devices being used to stimulate the interest.

Children's Work. Knitting and the making of scrap books, trench candles, etc., have been carried on in the children's department of many libraries and the story hour utilized for patriotic purposes.

Record of Local Soldiers. Libraries, being by law designated as the depository for local history material, it has seemed that they might naturally assume the task of collecting records of local soldiers for their communities where it was not being done by some other organization or institution, and where such was the case that the library should so co-operate as to become the local depository of such records, and a number of libraries are assuming this work.

CAMP LIBRARY WORK AND IOWA'S CONTRIBUTION THERETO.

On the entrance of the United States into war and the mobilization of troops in training camps, the American Library Association recognized a call to new service on the part of libraries, and at the request of Secretary Baker, through the Commission on Training Camp Activities, gladly assumed the responsibility of supplying books and reading matter to our soldiers and sailors in training in this country and on the seas or overseas.

For this, book and money were needed and both, the people of the country have given generously, nor has Iowa been less generous in her response.

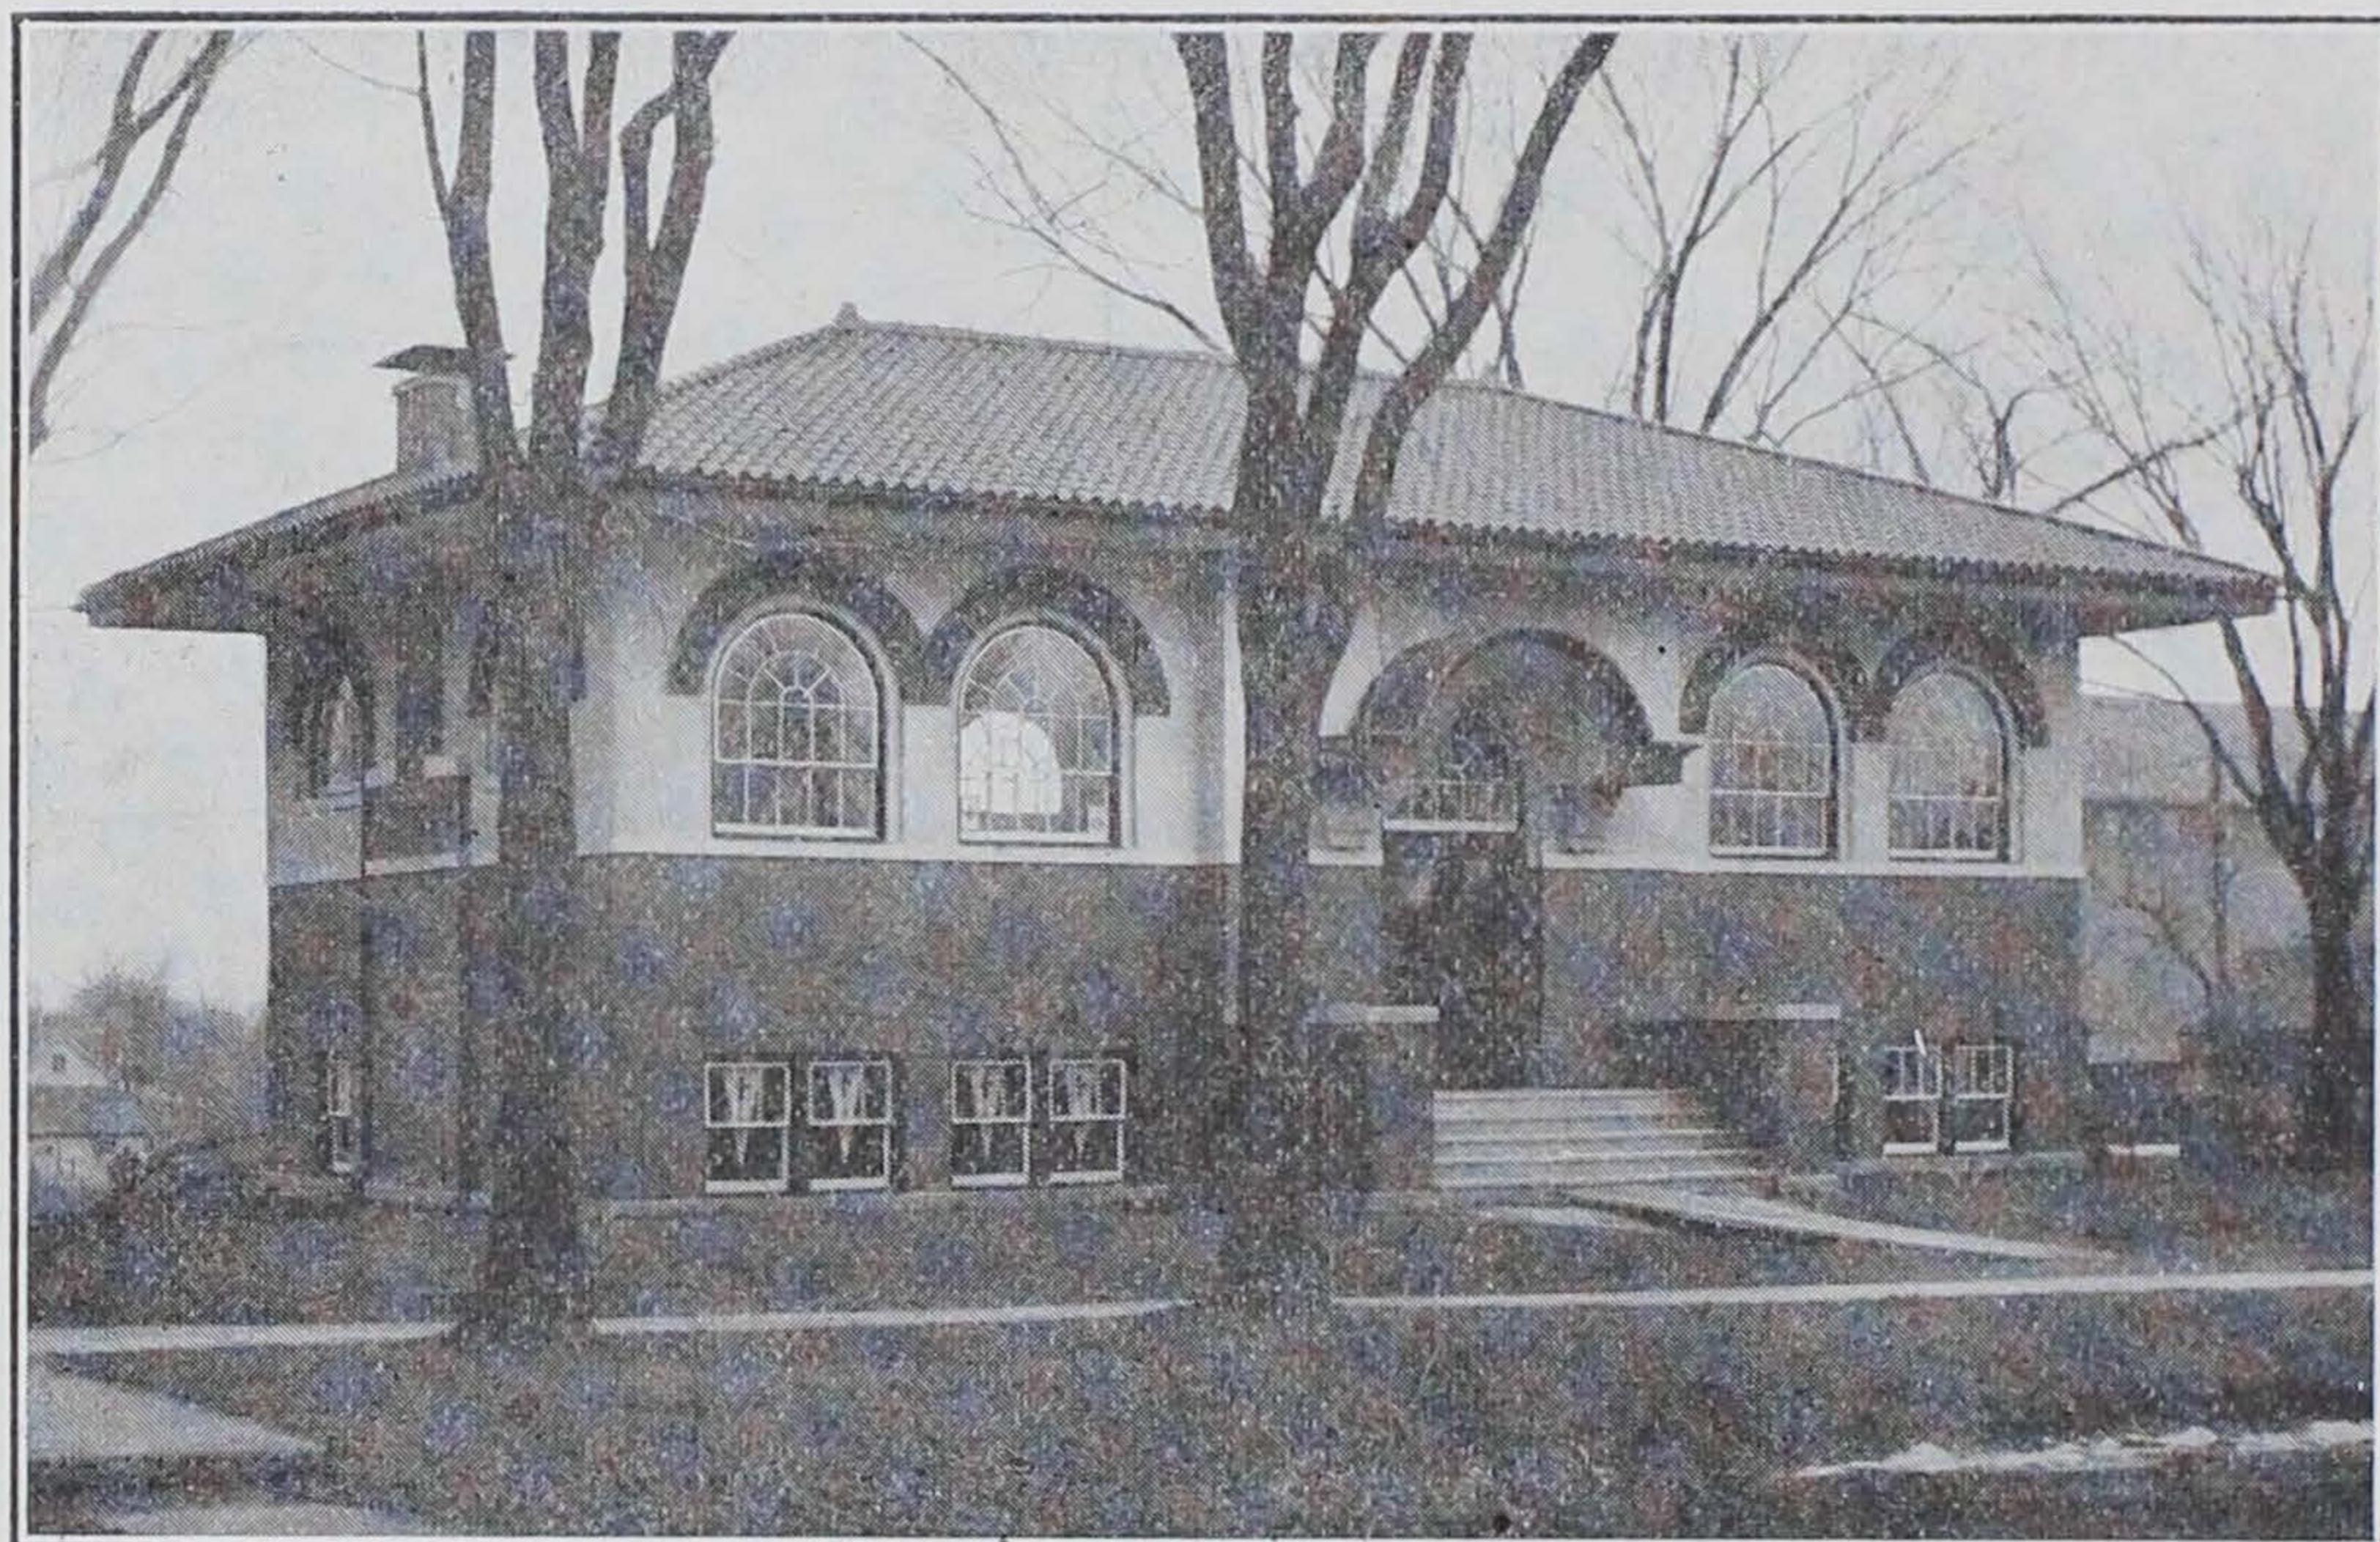

Book Collection. Two campaigns for the collection of books have been carried on. In the first Iowa gave 24,000 and in the second over 100,000, and in both the Secretary of the Library Commission acted as State Director and the publicity material used in the campaigns, as well as material for preparation of the books for use was distributed through the Commission office. The work of collection was done largely by the libraries, though women's clubs and P. E. O. chapters gave valuable assistance.

A list of donations by towns might be given but would require too much space. The books have been sent to the various camps as follows:

Camp Dodge	38,763
Fort Des Moines	2,570
Camp Cody	6,461
Camp Bowie	9,673

Camp Shelby	638
Rock Island Arsenal	1,330
Kelly Field	7,024
Camp MacArthur	3,450
Camp Logan	371
Overseas	23,271
Location not reported	815

Library War Funds. A campaign to secure $1,000,000 for camp library work was conducted in the fall of 1917, with Mr. Johnson Brigham as state director for Iowa. The Secretary of the Iowa Library Commission co-operated heartily in this work, sending out the publicity, material, etc., from the Commission office. Thirty-six thousand dollars was raised in Iowa. A second campaign will occur in November.

Librarians in Camp Library Service. Sixteen Iowa librarians have given more or less time to work in camp or hospital libraries or at Headquarters, Washington, D. C. While we rejoice that Iowa has been able to contribute thus generously of her library workers, it must be remembered that the personal contribution of those who have remained at their posts and carried the extra burdens imposed by a decreased staff is just as great and the credit due them just as large as to those who have the interest and inspiration which comes from outside work.

IOWA LIBRARY COMMISSION.

Extension and Supervision. With the preoccupation of interest in other directions, less help has been called for in the inauguration of new libraries, but especial attention has been given by the Secretary to the necessity for maintaining a high standard of efficiency and service on the part of public libraries already in operation.

MOUNT AYR PUBLIC LIBRARY—CARNEGIE BUILDING.

A Library Efficiency Test has been prepared by the Secretary and used to advantage in her visits to libraries. Ninety-three library visits were made during the biennial period.

Organization. Help has been given by the trained library organizers to 35 libraries in the state. Seven of these were new public libraries and eight association libraries, ten those in operation for sometime but not employing trained librarians, and three high school libraries. In addition seven libraries were assisted in installing a dictionary catalog. A vacancy in the position and shortage of other help in the office requiring the assistance of the organizer prevented a larger amount of work of this character being done, and a number of requests are now on file in the office which will soon receive attention.

Staff. Miss Reba Davis has continued in charge of the Traveling Library, with the exception of three months' leave of absence without pay for camp library work. Miss Mary Marks continues as Reference Librarian.

The position of organizer has been filled by Miss Gretta Smith and Miss Hazel Clark, and, after a vacancy of six months, Miss Emma Boyer is at present holding the position. Miss Hazel Clark and Miss Eunice Cooper, the present incumbent, have served as cataloger.

Miss Emma Holt, as clerk and stenographer, was followed by Miss Trix Turley, and, upon her marriage, by Miss Bertha CLEAR LAKE PUBLIC LIBRARY—CARNEGIE BUILDING.

Barker. Miss Ruth Holt succeeded Miss Lewis as stenographer for the Traveling Library.

Miss Florence Price, Miss Louise Wilson and Miss Pearl Jones have filled the position of Record Clerk, and Miss Ruth Gass, Miss Pearl Jones, Miss Madge Vest and Miss Ona Brockett that of General Assistant.

The experiment of using two high school boys for one-half day each as Shipping Clerks has proved most satisfactory, as the salary is too small to long retain a young man for full time.

A high grade of work has been done by the entire staff, and most of the positions require trained expert assistants. But the salaries allowed by the legislature are much lower than are paid by Commissions in other states or by public libraries for similar positions, and difficulty is always experienced in filling vacancies which for the same reason are likely to occur with greater frequency in the future.

This with the fact that salaries in the Commission are lower than in other state departments for positions requiring even less special preparation and the increased cost of living makes increases necessary in several positions for the efficiency of the service to the state.

A balance in the salary fund has been accumulating for several years because the assigned salaries have not equaled the amount allowed by law for that purpose. The balance now amounts to $3,628, and its use would allow increases in several positions without any increase in the appropriation. This matter is especially called to your attention and that of the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform.

Publications. With the close of 1916 the Iowa Library Quarterly completed its seventh volume and an index to this volume was issued.

One new leaflet has been added to the list which appears in the report 1914-16, viz., Books That Travel, being a description of the Traveling Library condensed in the interest of economy. Lists for the second and third grades have been added to the graded reading lists. Blanks are furnished as in the past for use of libraries in compiling their reports and for other purposes.

Library Meetings. Six district meetings were held as usual in the spring of 1917—the meeting places being Storm Lake, Ames, Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Fairfield and Corning. Owing to the increase in the number of libraries, it seemed wise to the Executive Board of the Iowa Library Association at its meeting in December, 1917, to increase the number of districts to eight, and meetings were held in the spring of 1918 at Oskaloosa, Muscatine, Des Moines, Red Oak, Denison, Manchester, Mason City and Cherokee. The topics discussed at these meetings were naturally the war activities of the libraries. The attendance and interest in these meetings increases each year.

The 1916 meeting of the Iowa Library Association was held at Hotel Colfax and the 1917 meeting at Iowa City. Des Moines has been selected as the meeting place for 1918, that the librarians of the state may have the opportunity of visiting the camp and hospital libraries at Camp Dodge and Fort Des Moines.

The Secretary did not attend the conference of the American Library Association at Louisville in 1917, but in 1918 she was asked to tell "What the Iowa Library Commission is doing to help win the war" as an illustration of what is being done by the Commissions of the country.

COMMISSION WAR WORK.

Like the libraries of the state, the Library Commission has been called upon to take its part in war activities, the Secretary taking the place of director of libraries in the work outlined elsewhere.

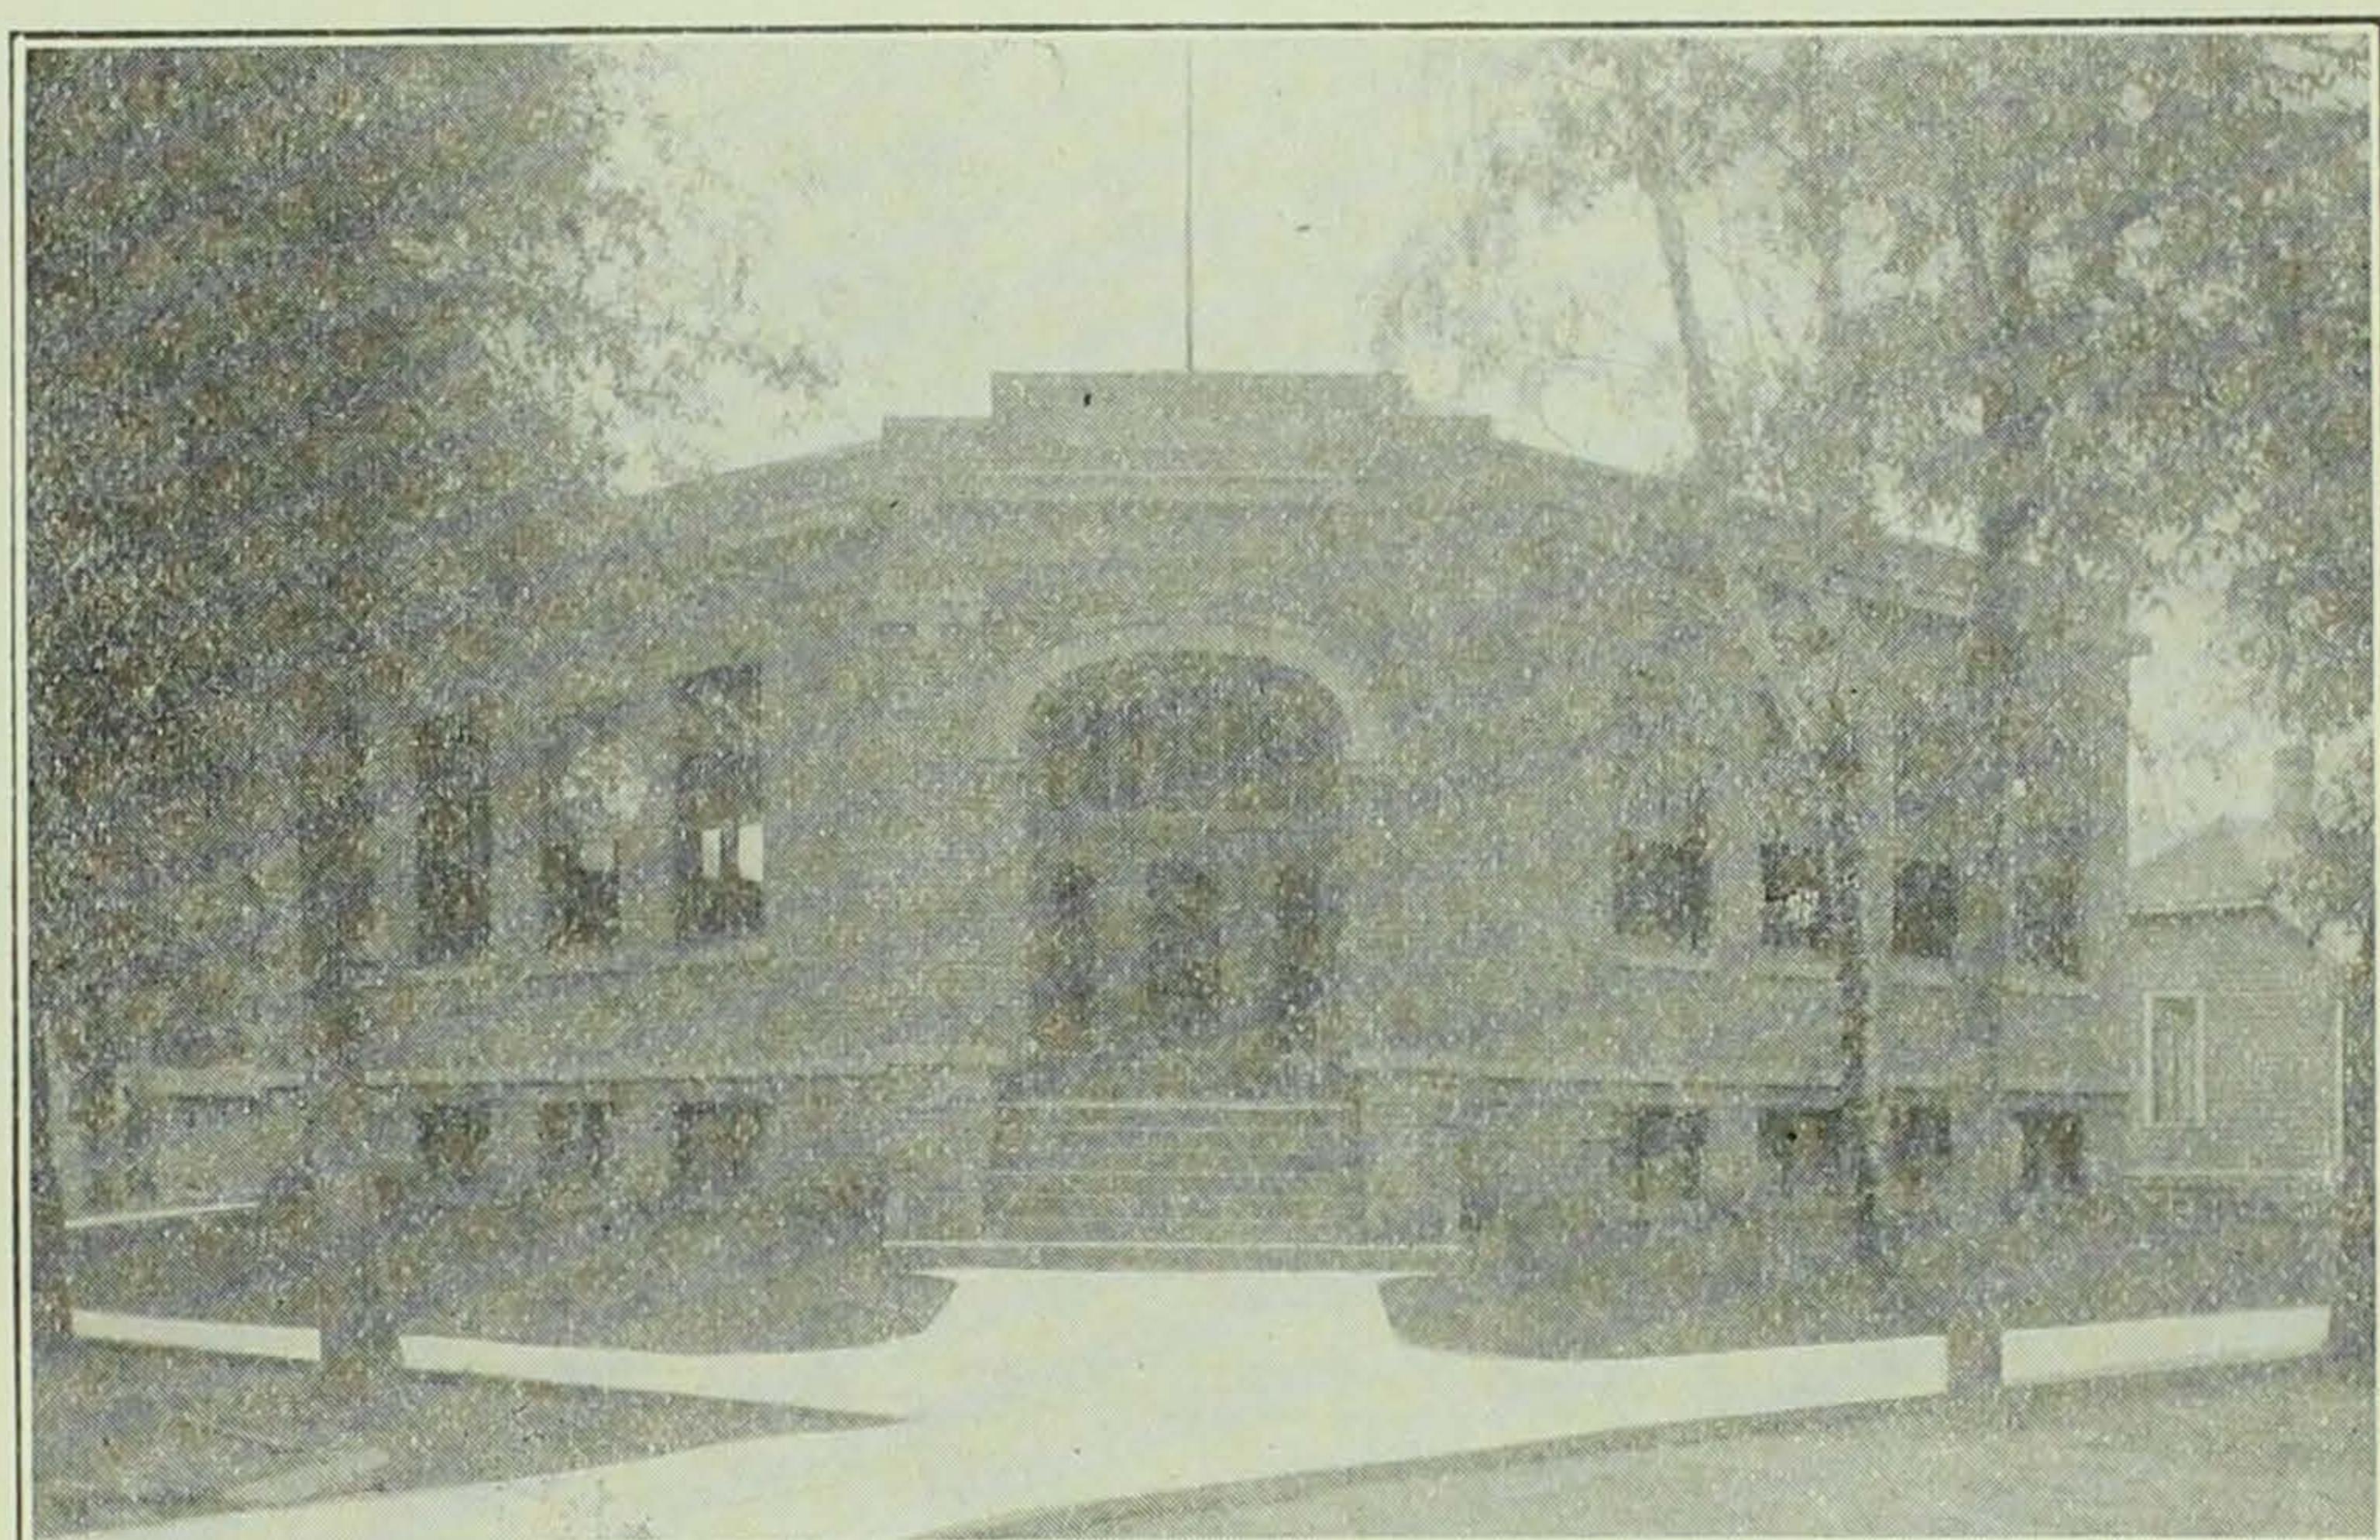

Many of the books collected in the state for the camp libraries have come to the Commission office, where they have been sorted, book plates, cards and pockets placed in the books, and the books repacked and shipped to the camps designated by the War Service Committee of the American Library Association. This has taken much time on the part of all assistants, particularly those of the Traveling Library.

Magazines for distribution to the camps have also been sent to the Commission to be sorted and reshipped. This also has required time.

The part taken in the War Fund Collection has already been noted.

In Food Conservation the Secretary has acted as distributor of large quantities of posters and pamphlets on this subject and as director of the work of the libraries. This is educational work and legitimately belongs to the libraries.

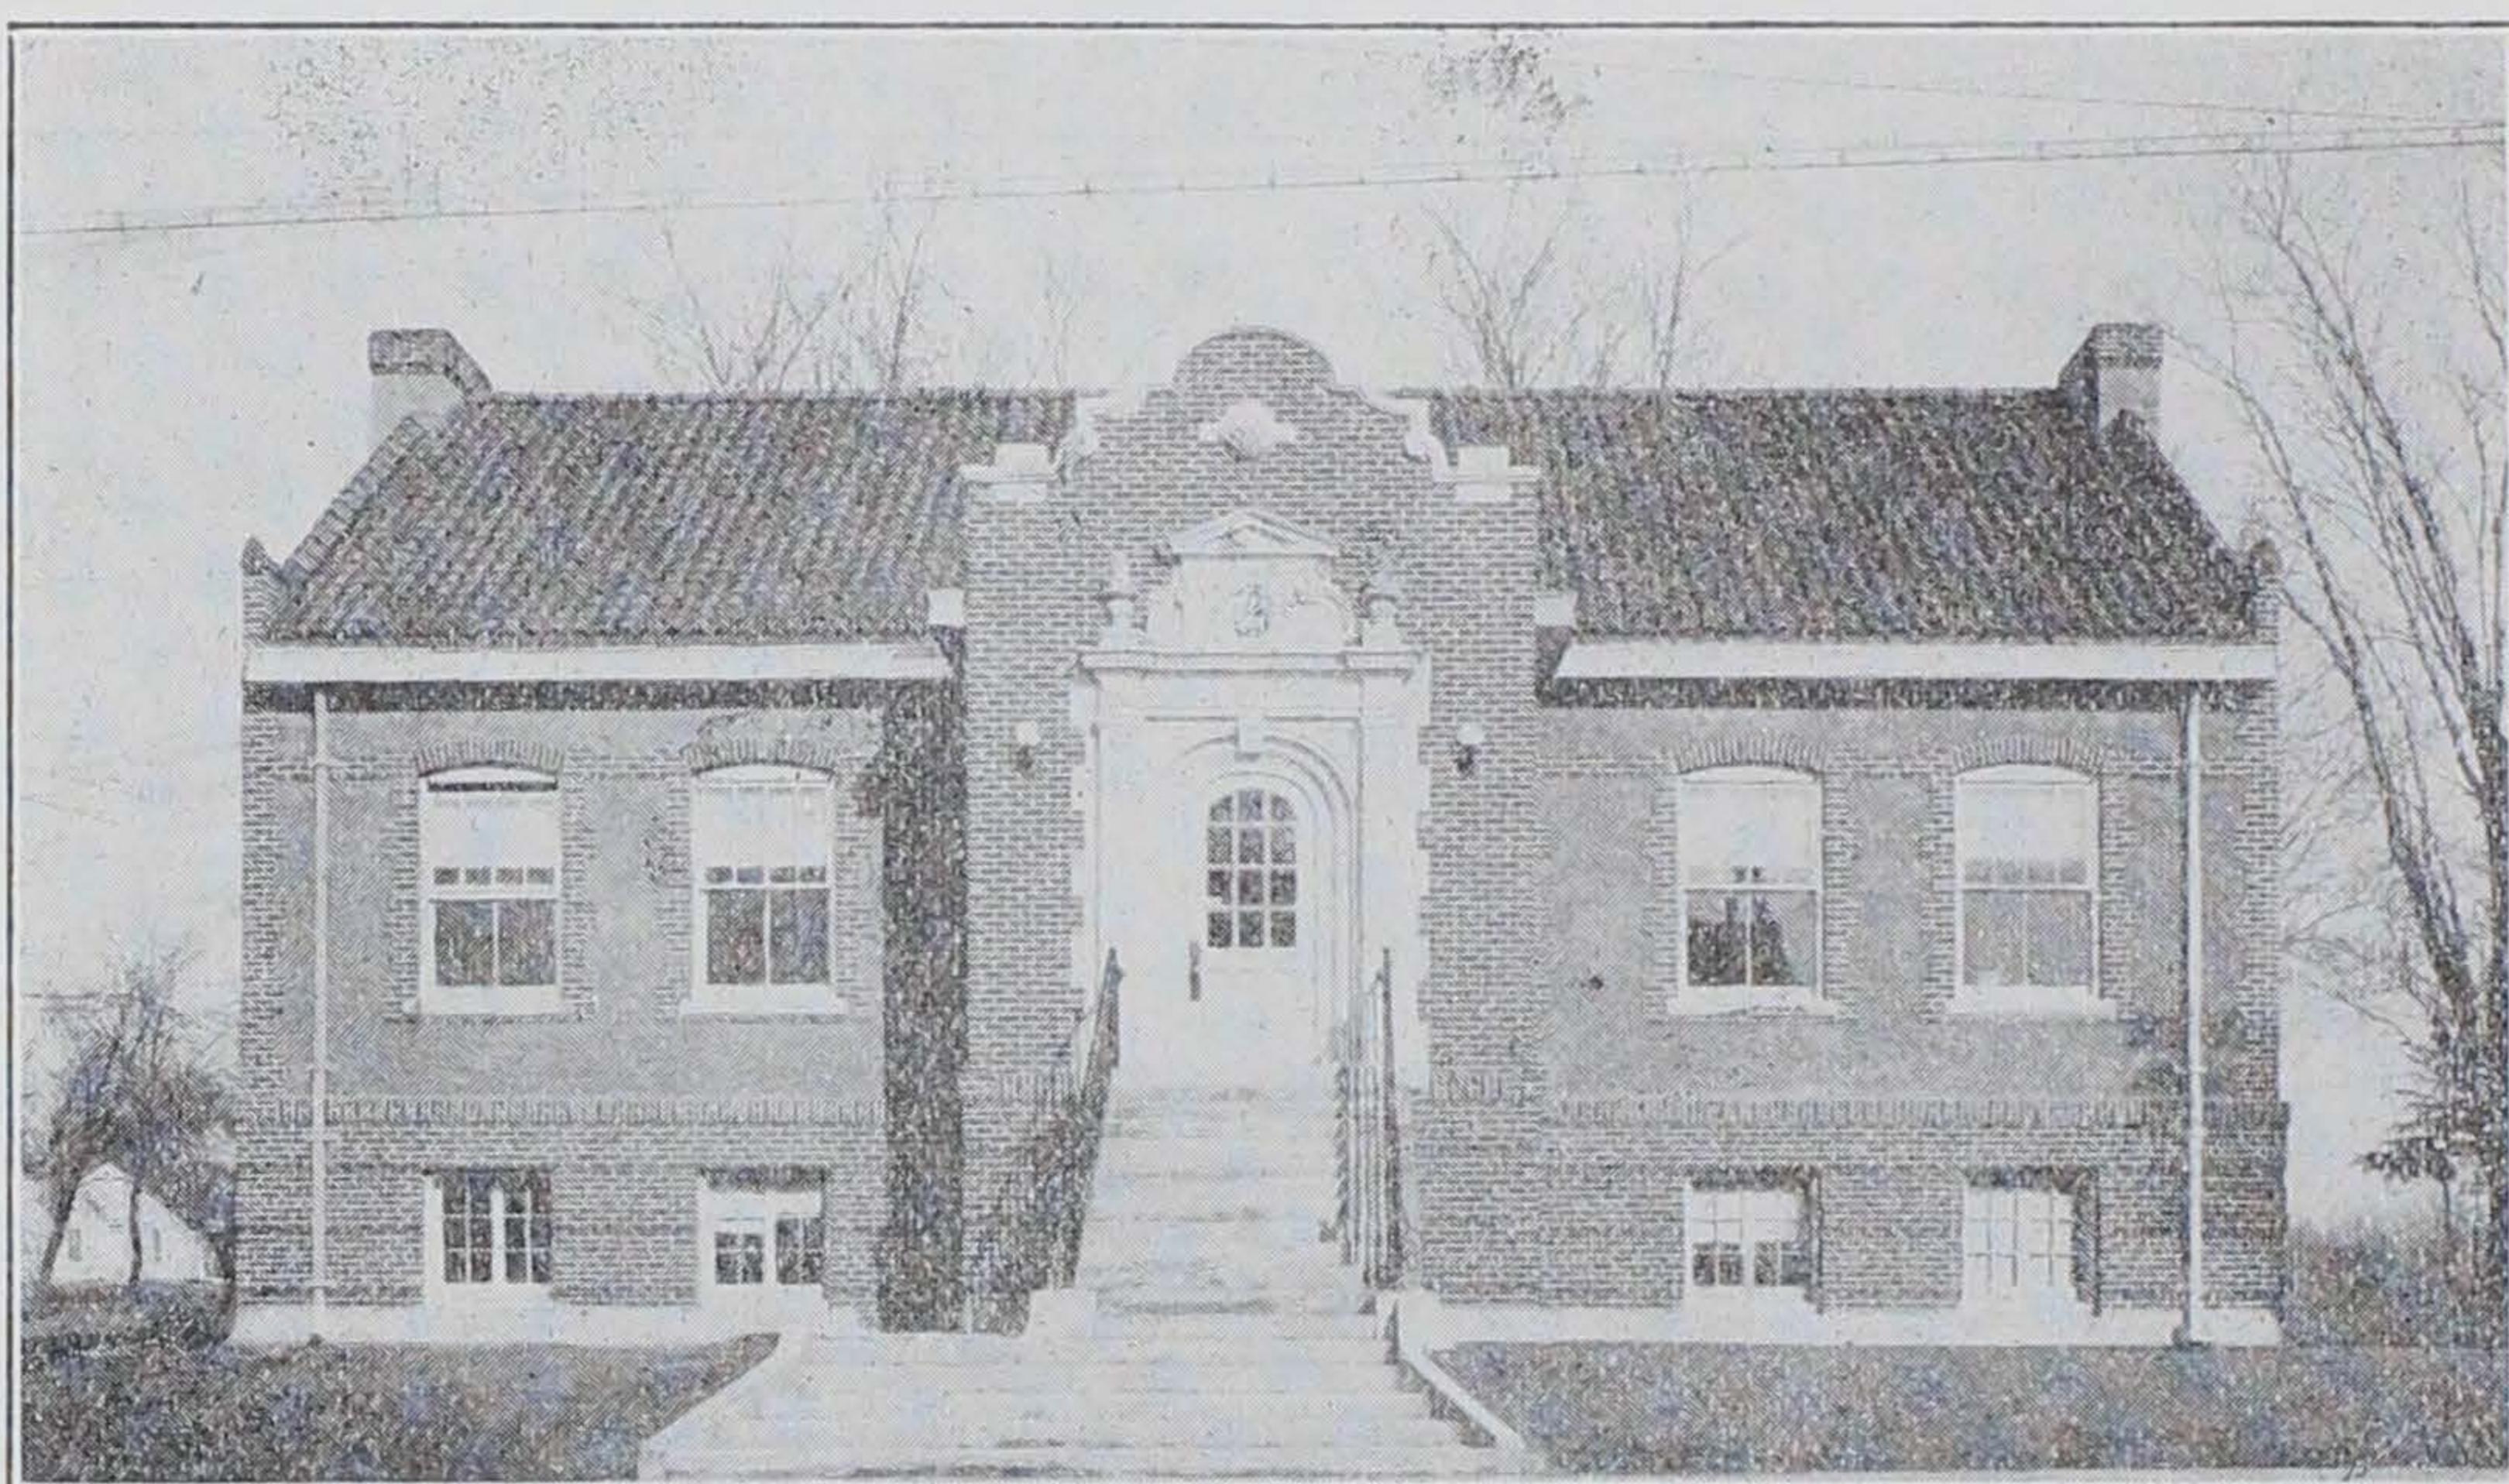

A beautiful Traveling Poster Collection, "Saving and Serving with Hoover," loaned by the Des Moines Women's club, has been circulated through the Traveling Library to the communities of the state.

Books and pamphlets on the war in all its phases and study club outlines on war and kindred subjects have also been provided and circulated and lists of books prepared and suggestions for buying given. A list of pro-German books was also compiled for the guidance of the libraries in removing such books from their shelves. The State Fair Exhibit was made a War Activity Exhibit in addition to the advertisement of Traveling Library work.

The Secretary has spoken publicly on book collections and food conservation at various women's clubs and library meetings, as well as exhorted the libraries to increased efforts in her personal visits.

All of which has been done, not at the expense of the regular work, but in addition thereto.

BEDFORD PUBLIC LIBRARY—CARNEGIE BUILDING.

Detailed Statements. The total annual appropriation for the work of the Library Commission is $15,000. This covers all the activities of the Commission, Traveling Library, extension, salaries, traveling expenses, etc. Inasmuch as the law provides that all accounts and expenditures must be audited and allowed by the State Executive Council, the detailed statement of expenditures is given in the printed records of the council.

TRAVELING LIBRARY

The Traveling Library now numbers 35,254 volumes, a part of which are arranged in fixed groups of fifty books each for general reading by children and adults. The balance constitutes an open shelf or general loan collection from which selected groups on special subjects are made upon application. These requests come from clubs and other organizations, schools, churches and individual borrowers.

Perhaps the use of the Traveling Library by the latter class of borrowers has increased more greatly than any other during the past two years, both in recreational and more serious reading. Such borrowers are from communities without library facilities and to supply their needs is an important part of the Traveling Library work.

In this connection might also be mentioned the work done with libraries in the smaller towns with incomes too small to afford the purchase of all the books called for. The libraries are urged to borrow from the Traveling Library to fill such requests and many libraries take advantage of this privilege.

With the growth of the community center idea, the Traveling Library is playing an important part by the loaning of fixed groups for general reading, supplemented by subject collections as desired.

Of interest also is the good work done in many communities by the ministers, who not only borrow books from the Traveling Library in fixed groups and otherwise, but promote their reading in various ways. Schools are large borrowers and a collection specially selected for their use is maintained.

The Traveling Library enjoys the co-operation of the county agricultural agents, some of whom keep collections of books from the Traveling Library in their offices both for their own use and for reloaning to families of their counties.

In addition to books, the following material is also available through the Traveling Library:

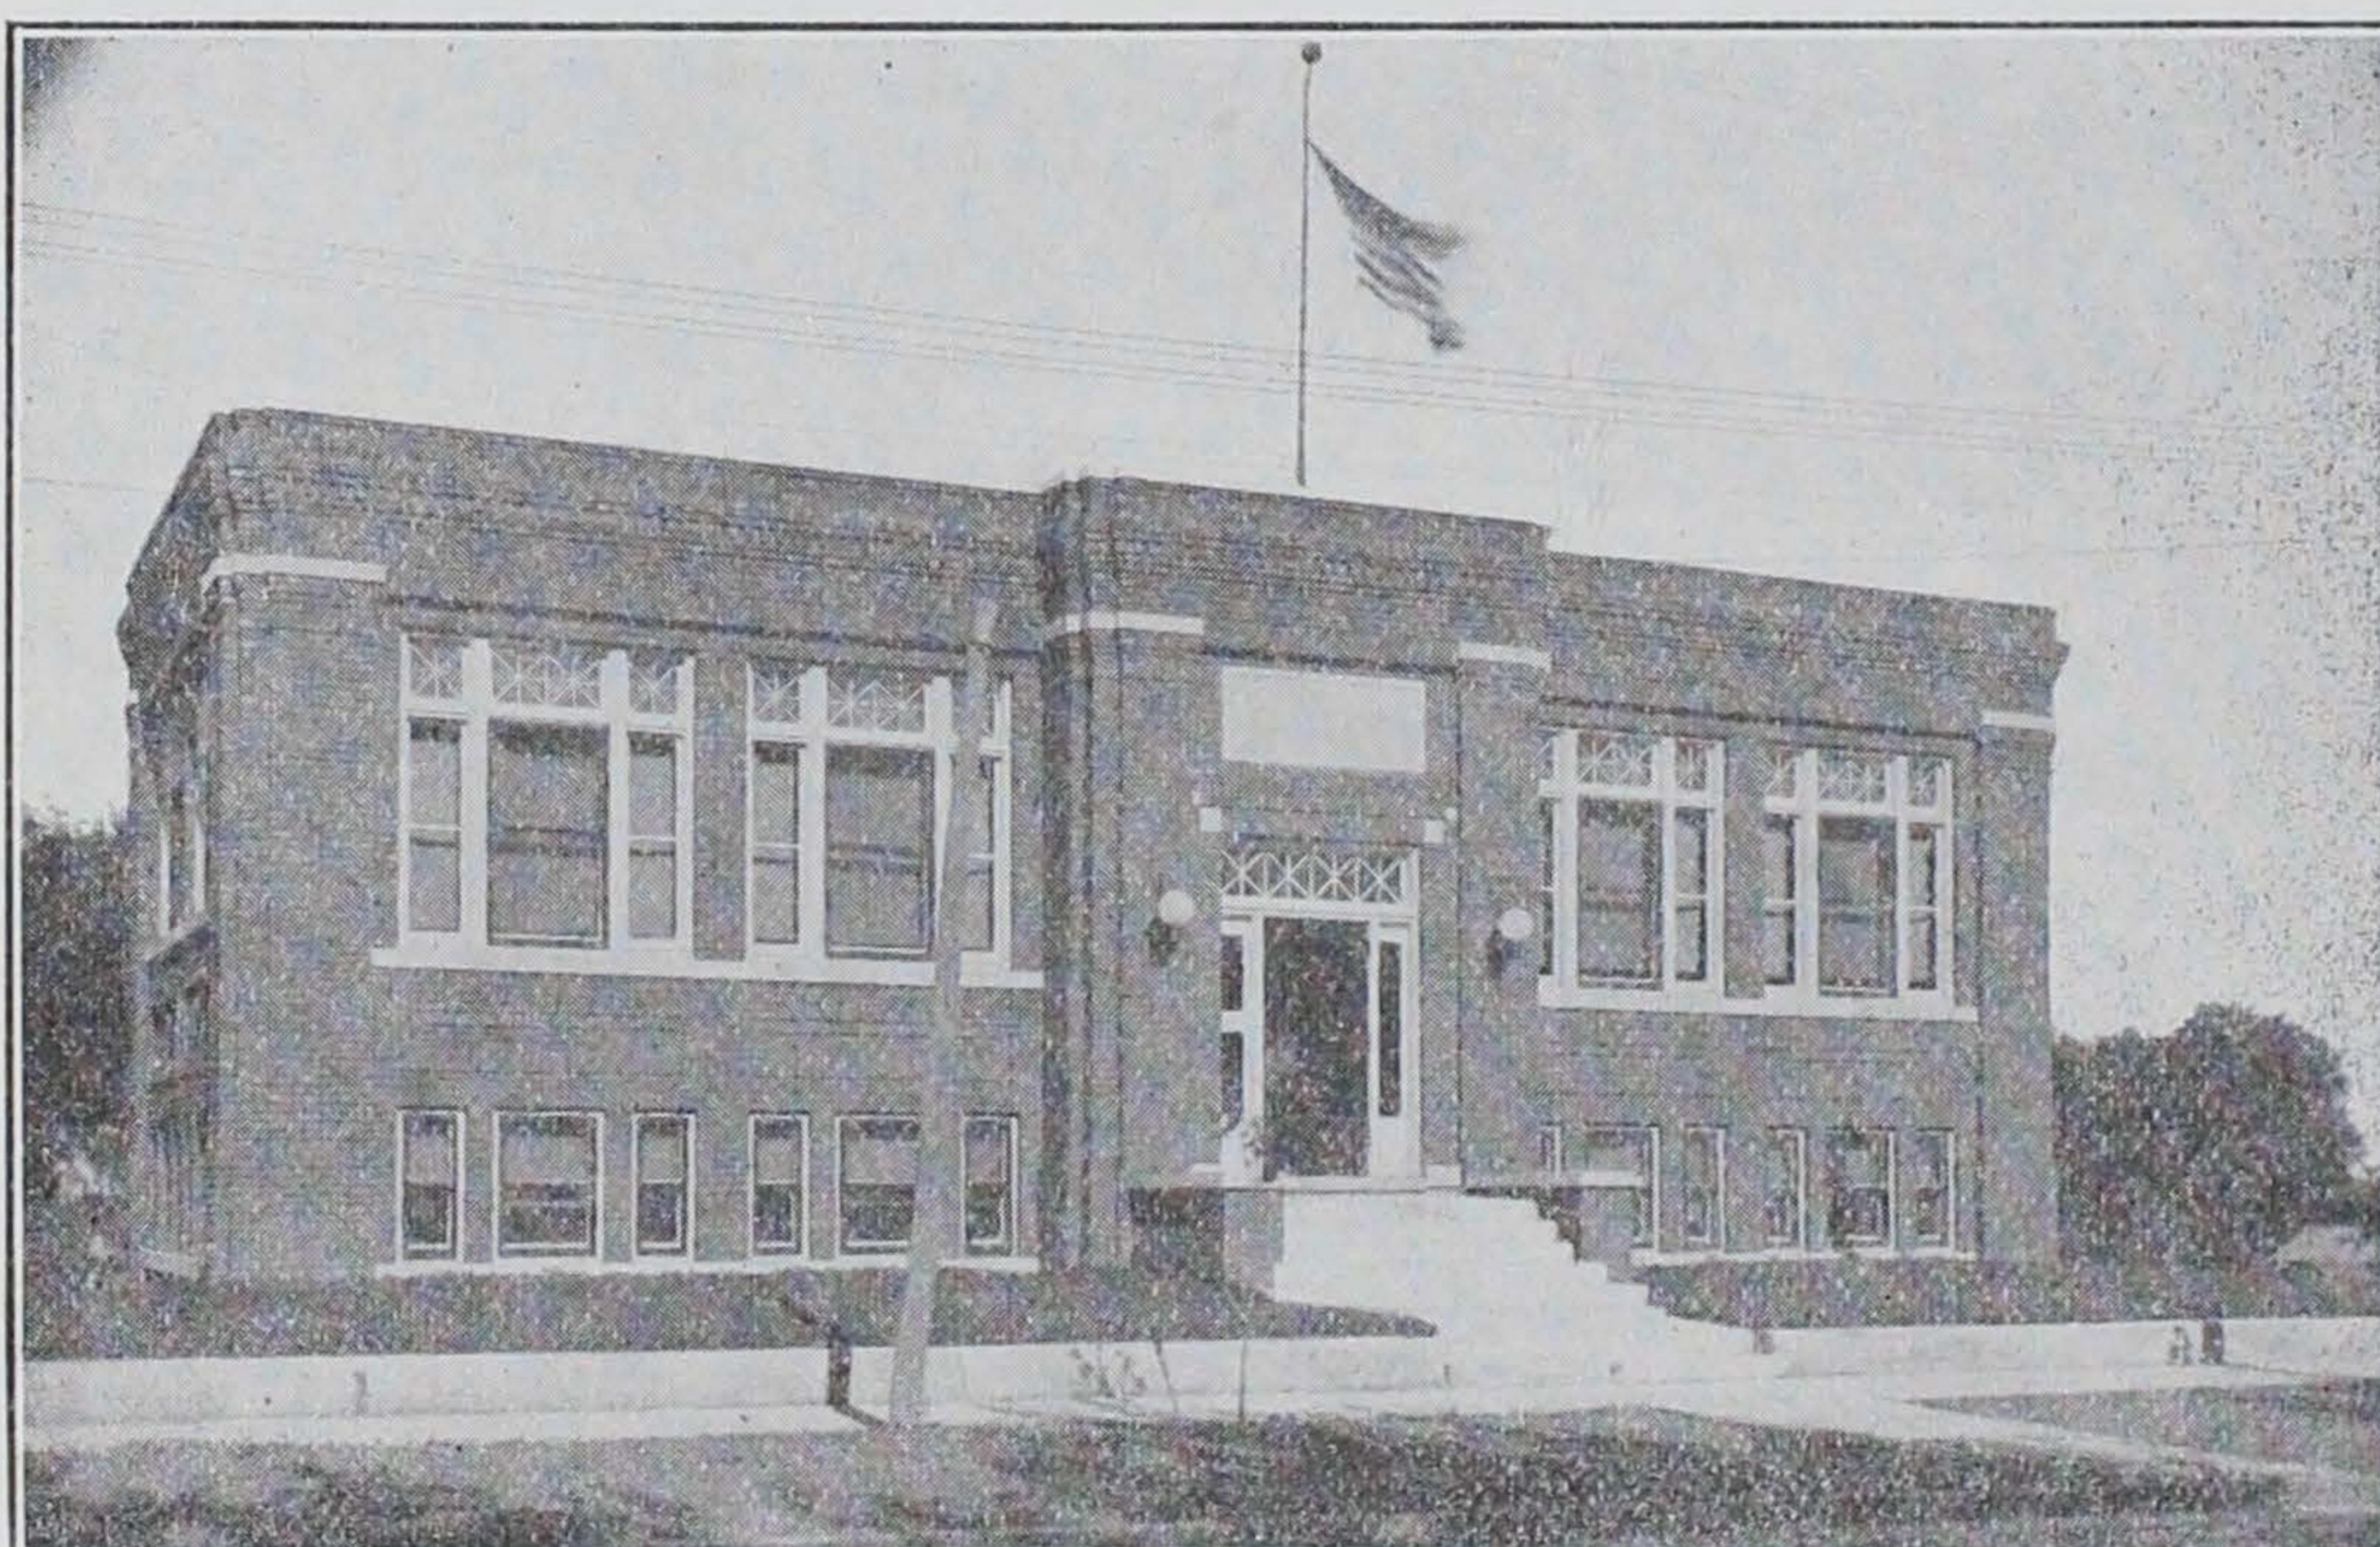

Study Club Outlines. To assist in the arrangement of programs, a collection of study club outlines is maintained in co-operation with the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs. Outlines are available on almost all literary and current topics likely to be called for.

Debate Material. Each year, at the request of the High School Debating League, a list of reference material is prepared on the subject selected for the year and the material is then provided by the Traveling Library and loaned to the high schools belonging to the league. Material for debatae work on other subjects is also supplied to schools and colleges.

Books for the Blind. The Traveling Library provides the only source in the state from which books for the blind may be borrowed. These are in New York Point and are carried through the mails without charge.

Picture Collections. No additions have been made to the picture collections circulated by the Commission, which consist both of framed pictures for exhibit purposes and smaller pictures for study use.

Circulation. All material from the Traveling Library is loaned free of charge except for transportation. Books are loaned for three months, outlines and pictures for two weeks, and with all but the pictures the time may be extended on application.

GREENFIELD PUBLIC LIBRARY—CARNEGIE BUILDING.

Many of the requests coming to the Traveling Library are not for specific titles or groups, but for material on subjects requiring more or less research through books and periodicals and taking the full time of a reference assistant.

The selection and ordering of books, the making up of the fixed groups, their preparation for circulation, the keeping of accurate and careful record of their loan and return, the granting of extension and the mending and repairing done in office and the correspondence growing out of the requests received are included in the work of the various assistants.

In addition to all this during the past year, the work of receiving, preparing for use, repacking and reshipping the books for the camps coming to the Commission office has been largely done by the Traveling Library force.

SUMMER SCHOOL

In order to assist librarians of the state to render more efficient service in their libraries, thus raising the standard of librarianship, a course in library training is given each year by the State University of Iowa as a part of its summer session. In this the Library Commission co-operates most heartily, lectures on library administration and other subjects by the Secretary forming a part of the instruction.

This course is not offered as a substitute for full training given by the regular library schools, but as a partial preparation for those unable to avail themselves of the regular school work. The course lasts for six weeks each summer, and includes such instruction and practice in library methods as time permits.

There are at present 96 graduates of the Iowa Summer Library School at work in libraries of the state and the number is increasing each year, the class of 1918 being unusually large by reason of the large number of changes which have occurred from the acceptance on the part of librarians of other positions offering larger salaries than are paid by Iowa libraries.

In 1917 the school was under the direction of Miss Harriet E. Howe of Western Reserve University, with Miss Blanche V. Watts as instructor in cataloging and classification, Miss Grace Shellenberger in children's work, Miss Julia A. Robinson, library administration and miscellaneous lectures, and Miss Ada Nelson, revisor and minor subjects. The class numbered twenty-two with one special student.

In 1918 Miss Blanche V. Watts served as director, teaching cataloging and reference work, Miss Grace Shellenberger, children's work, Miss Julia A. Robinson, library administration and book selection, Miss Jane E. Roberts, classification, and Miss Clara Abernethy, revisor and minor subjects. The class numbered twenty-seven with five special students.
