INTRODUCTION

During the 1982-1983 school year the Department queried library media workshop attenders about what would be most helpful to them in the area of library skills. Most people felt that one or more publications would be most helpful. A large number also recommended a workshop.

Of the kinds of publications requested the majority wanted specific ideas or "lessons" to provide variety in their own library skills program. Many also requested a library skills curriculum guide.

The Department began its response by preparing "Mini-Bib 11, Library Media Skills". This bibliography listed a sampling of commercial and professional association publications addressing one of the stated concerns. This bibliography was issued in the Spring of 1984.

The second task the Department is undertaking as a response to these requests is the publication of this sampler of library media skills teaching ideas. It is similar in approach to the Round Robin sponsored by the elementary school group of the Iowa Educational Media Association several years ago. As in that Round Robin, ideas were solicited from practicing library media specialists and are published basically unedited.

Also, as in the case of the Round Robin, future volumes will be issued if there is sufficient interest.

Ideas were submitted by both elementary and secondary school library media specialists. They appear in random order. The compiler welcomes your suggestions and your contributions for future volumes.

CARD CATALOG RACE

CARD CATALOG RACE
Materials: Two catalog drawers removed and set on an table or desk; chalkboard or paper to keep score

Directions: Divide class into two teams. (as evenly as possible)
Have the teams make two separate lines facing the table with the drawers placed on them. When the teams are ready, call out what type of card they are to find. The first two students "race" to the drawers and find the type of card. When they have found it, check to see if it is correct if it is, that team scores a point. The other student who did not find the correct card or not as quickly will then look until he finds one. This is done to check understanding. Continue this until everyone has gotten at least one turn.

I have done this with fifth grade on up to junior high students. They seem to really enjoy the game. I have used many different types of information. Such as finding the different types of cards (title, author, etc.) Also where to find certain info on the card such as:

Find where the page numbers of the book is listed.
Find the publishers name.
Find the copyright date.
I use this game at the close of the unit and as a review before giving any type of test over the unit material covered.

CLASSIFICATION MATCH

Nevada, Iowa 50201

CLASSIFICATION MATCH

One half the class is handed cards with book titles. The other half is given cards with classification numbers from the Dewey Decimal System.

The object of the game is to match the book titles with the proper class numbers. The entire class can judge if the match is correct. If it isn't, a second, or even third match may be tried, with the librarian intervening to correct mistakes when necessary.

Care must be taken to choose titles which are clear cut examples of each of the classes in the Dewey Decimal System.
(Appropriate for 5 th and 6 th grade level)

EGG HUNT

Nevada Middle School
Nevada, Iowa 50201

EGG HUNT
This contest may be used in the spring and it is a good review of what has been learned during the year.

Questions are printed on eggs made of colored construction paper and laminated. Students find answers by using the card catalog, Dewey Decimal numbers, parts of a book, dictionary, or encyclopedia.

Homerooms may compete against other homerooms as well as individuals against individuals. Placing questions in Easter baskets adds to the fun of the contest. I take two library periods for each class participating in the Egg Hunt.
(Appropriate for 5 th and 6 th grade level)

INDIVIDUALIZED LESSONS FOR CHILDREN'S MAGAZINE GUIDE
Marie Knaphus
Nevada Middle School
Nevada, Iowa 50201

INDIVIDUALIZED LESSONS FOR CHILDREN'S MAGAZINE GUIDE
One needs copies of the index for each student or pair of students. Ten questions for each issue are typed on a $4^{\prime \prime} \times 6^{\prime \prime}$ card and clipped to the magazine. Students find answers to the questions and then check their answers against those typed on the reverse side of the cards or on answer sheets kept by the librarian.

This type of lesson can be used just as effectively to teach Reader's Guide.
(Use at 5 th or 6 th grade level)

PERIODICALS

Learning Objectives:

1. To become familiar with the variety of magazines found in the library.

Information Covered:

1. Importance of magazines as sources of information on a wide variety of subjects.

Method of Instruction:

1. Examination of the periodicals found in the library. (see attached worksheet)

Evaluation:

1. Written assignment.

PERIODICALS

Periodicals as sources of current information are indispensable to you for research on contemporary subjects. Magazine articles present a wide variety of the latest, most up-to-date information in brief and readable form. Back issues are a valuable source for researching events and trends in the past.

Use the periodicals section of the library to answer the following questions.

1. Name two SPORTS magazines that the library subscribes to.
$\qquad$
2. List three magazines that are devoted to general news. $\qquad$
$\qquad$
3. Name two specialized magazines devoted to SCIENCE. $\qquad$
$\qquad$
4. What is the date of the oldest issue of TIME magazine? $\qquad$ Who or what is on the cover of that issue? $\qquad$
5. Name two magazines that are primarily concerned with helping the consumer be informed on products and materials.
$\qquad$
6. Name a magazine limited in scope to what is going on in Congress?
$\qquad$
7. Name two magazines that contain reviews of books.
$\qquad$
8. Name a magazine that is devoted to BUSINESS or FINANCE. $\qquad$
9. Name a specialized magazine in the area of HISTORY. $\qquad$
10. Name a magazine specializing in articles on HEALTH. $\qquad$
11. Examine a National Geographic magazine and list two points describing it, for example, its content and format.
$\qquad$
$\qquad$
12. Name a magazine limited in content to articles and pictures of Iowa.
$\qquad$
13. Give the title of any magazine you read regularly. $\qquad$ Describe the magazine briefly and tell why you like it. $\qquad$
$\qquad$
$\qquad$
$\qquad$

LEARNING TO USE THE LIBRARY
Sister M. Auxilia Eulberg
Seton Grade School

LEARNING TO USE THE LIBRARY
First and foremost, there must be consistency in the cataloging of books, how else can you teach a library's organization?

A library is a place of culture, hence there must be respect for people, for books and other property. The library is a quiet place where one can concentrate, where one can expect to find a certain book and not be disappointed because someone is holding it way overdue.

A very proper means of learning how books are classified is a large poster in library and/or classrooms indicating the various categories:

000 General
100 Philosophy
200 Religion
300 Sociology
400 Learning of languages 43 German
47 Latin
500 Pure science: Biology, chemistry . . .
600 Useful Arts: Business, agriculture, cooking . . .
700 Fine arts: Music, painting and drawing, dancing . . .
800 Literature
900 History (including biographies)
A great means of learning how to use the library catalog is an explanation of how catalog cards are made. For this, ordinary typed catalog cards may be shown through the opaque projector, or tagboard cards perhaps $25^{\prime \prime} \times 15^{\prime \prime}$ with large printing could be used, each illustrating one of the various types of cards. For example, in commenting on the book "The Lost Lakes; a story of the Texas Rangers" by Catherine Peare, the call number could first be explained and how it is found, why this card is called author or full-entry card, what is meant by tracing, etc. The subject card, with TEXAS RANGERS on top line, second indention and capitalized, is next explained. The title card needs but little explanation.

It may be good here to indicate why every word in the title is not capitalized--only the first word of the title and proper nouns and adjectives. Also to be considered here might be the short forms of the months as used in "The Readers' Guide": Ja for January, F for February, etc.

After all the catalog cards for one book have been cited, mention might be made of a few important rules for filing, for example, that the articles $\underline{a}$, an, and the are not considered when they're at the beginning of the top line; that numbers are to be filed as if spelled out: "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea"; that Mr. and Mrs. are filed as if spelled mister and mistress.

Students who help with filing (leaving the cards on the top of the rod for checking purposes) and who place returned books on the shelves learn much by doing.

LIBRARY MEDIA SKILLS PRACTICES ON THE APPLE MICROCOMPUTER
I developed four programs using a set of Teacher's Utilities disks created by MECC (Minnesota Educational Computing Consortium). The program provides drill-and-practice or multiple choice questions on the following:

1) Identification of authors, titles, and subjects
2) The Dewey Decimal System
3) Use of sources: i.e., encyclopedia, dictionary, magazines, card catalog.

Copies of the print-outs of the programs follow. The Dewey Decimal Lesson and the Card Catalog Lesson have worked very well with second and third grades. The Media Center Terms program is more appropriate for fourth, fifth, and sixth grades.

USING THE READERS' GUIDE
Larry Turbot
Crestion Senior High School
Creston, Iowa 50801

USING THE READERS' GUIDE
Here's an idea using the READERS' GUIDE TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE. In addition to other activities published for use with the Readers' Guide, I have discovered that this simple exercise can tell me and the English classroom teacher whether or not the student can really pick up the Guide and use it. It can be prepared easily. Any number can be prepared for the same volume and it can be corrected quickly. Yet, it can prove to be a challenge to most any student.

This exercise is used a part of a unit to introduce our media center to the sophomore level English classes. Here is a copy of one of the lessons. If you care to find the answers, I have used Volume 42 (March 1982 to February 1983) READERS' GUIDE TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE (unabridged).

USING THE READERS' GUIDE

Find at least one magazine entry (unless otherwise directed) for each of the following. Take down the name of the magazine, the title of the article, the page on which it's found and the date of publication.

NOTE: Use the Readers' Guide, Vol. 41.

1. You need a book review of J. D. Salinger's THE CATCHER IN THE RYE.
2. You are looking for an article on legal requirements of student discipline codes. Do we subscribe to this magazine?
3. In what magazine did you find an article on rabbits titled "There's No Safe Time for the Snowshoe"?
4. If you need a number of articles on sailing, to what other subject areas might you be directed?
5. You have to find an article dealing with students and drugs.
6. You need a review of the movie RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK.

If you tried the exercise, you noticed that in a few cases you found more than one answer. Obviously, any of the answers might do. More often though, you were directed to a specific entry with a specific answer. One nice thing about this exercise, you can ask the student to use the Guide any way you wish by the way you write the item!

To write the items, simply turn through the Guide. In each exercise I try to include items that will ask the student to use the book review section, the cross-reference items, and the film reviews. Other than that, you can simply point to any entry in the Guide and write your item.

ABC DOT-T0-DOT

I have used this worksheet with kindergarten, first and second grades. This is used to reinforce/remind the students that alphabetical order is important in the library. I have the kindergarten and first graders copy the title and author's name from the story that I have read to them that class period. The second graders pick a book from the shelf and copy that title and author after they have completed the dot-to-dot.

TELEPHONE DIRECTORY
Erica MacBeth
Winfield Mt. Union High School
Winfield, Iowa 52659

TELEPHONE DIRECTORY

The third graders can practice alphabetical order while they fill out the telephone directory with their classmates names and phone numbers. A look in several real phone books with last names first will help. This ties in with the study of the card catalog - authors listed alphabetically last names first. This takes two short class periods of about 20 minutes each.

THE READER'S GUIDE TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE
Larry E. Vickroy
New London High School
New London, Iowa 52645

THE READER'S GUIDE TO PERIODICAL LITERATURE
The Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature is sometimes hard to teach as a Library Unit. I have taught this to a Learning Disabilities Class by first using what I consider a regular entry which consists of:

1. Topic
2. The Title Of The Article
3. Author or Writer
4. Name of the Magazine
5. Volume Number
6. Pages
7. Date

I have made a photocopy of a typical page out of the Reader's Guide. There are 19 numbers. Each example may have one or more different items other than a regular entry. For each one the student gives that is correct, he or she receives 5 points extra credit. The entries are cut out, folded, and placed in a small box. Each student draws one at random.

1. This one is illustrated.
2. There is a Month and Year listed, but no date.
3. This is a see or a cross reference.
4. There are thre items in this entry
a. Joint Author
b. Illustrated
c. Continued
5. Cross Reference on a Joint Author
6. Continued on more than one page and a See Also below
7. There is a Bibliography listed
8. There are Portraits shown
9. See or a Cross Reference
10. See Also or Cross Reference with several headings
11. Information listed according to States or Countries

RESEARCH SPEECH
UNIT II
SPEAKING FROM OTHER SOURCES

For the next few weeks you are going to be involved in a research project that will require extra effort.

Here is a list of topics for you to consider for research. They are grouped by major subject areas followed by sub-topics under each area. If you have an idea for a topic that is not listed here, suggest it to your instructor after you have considered these topics. Since the requirement for a topic in this unit is that it be controversial, it must have a point of view. That is, there has to be an argument about it that can be either pro or con.

Choose a topic in which you have a strong interest since you will spend much time studying that topic. In fairness to that topic, approach it with an open mind and be willing to consider all points of view.

The Requirements:

1. Topic
a. current
b. controversial
2. Sources
a. 3 magazines
b. 1 book
c. 1 newspaper
d. 1 interview
e. 1 reference
1.) phone call
2.) magazine
3.) TV
4.) radio
5.) personal

1. Health

Because of the increasing choices a person has in the treatment of an illness and the uncertainty over the definition of life and death, this subject area has become controversial. Possible topics include:

Alzheimer's Disease
Heart Attacks
Suicides
Venereal Diseases
Contraception
Death and Dying
Food harmful to your health
Toxic Shock Syndrome
Anorexia Nervosa
Dreams and Sleeping Disorders

Anger
Growing old
Transplants

Artificial Heart
Schizophrenia
Shyness
Life After Life
Mental Disorders
Depression
Smoking
Dieting and Fad Diets
Workaholics
Stress and Anxiety SID-Sudden Infant Death Epilepsy Hypnosis
2. Ecology, Conservation and Wildlife Problems

Since the early sixties, ecology and conservation have been topics of considerable interest. Renewed interest has resulted in hope for endangered species and the clean-up of our land and water. The battle is not over yet. Have the laws become too strict or not strict enough? Possible topics include:

Soil Conservation Recycling Program Land Pollution
Air Pollution
Acid Rain

Water Pollution
Wildife Conservation
Endangered Wildlife Automobile Pollution

Energy Crisis
Nuclear Power
Alternate Energy Sources-wind, water, solar, nuclear

3. Sex and Modern Day Society

A man who had a sex change operation continues to play professional tennis. A survey in an Ann Landers column indicates that many parents now wish they had not had any children. Homosexuals demand (and get) rights they had not been able to receive before. Serious choices face this generation in their attitude toward sex and its place in modern society. Topic choices for this subject include:

Pornography and the law
Homosexual behavior
Transvestites
Male/female Roles

Genetic Engineering
Test Tube Babies
Cloning Prostitution

Gene Design for Children
Life as a Single
7. Sports

Even sports is not without controversy. While some sports fans argue about who the best fighter is, or who the all time best ball player is in sports, there are true controversial subjects being argued. At the current time these topics are being discussed by knowledgeable sports writers and fans:

The rise of violence in sports
The high priced or overpaid athlete
Emphasizing sports in our society
Drug use in sports

Effect of television and cable
systems on sports
Olympics (future of)

8. Social Problems

A society is as strong as its participants. Within any society there are many viewpoints and solutions to problems that confront that society. This topic in some way affects our lives and our attitudes. Some topics even have sub-topics. The many ideas available include:

Individual rights. vs. majority rights
Human rights
Feminist movement
The changing interpretation of the law
Gun Control
Teenage pregnancies
Ku Klux Klan
Commercialization of TV for children
Volunteer army vs. draft
The American family
Divorces
Prisons and their problems
(a) the rights of prisoners
(b) prison conditions
(c) riots
(d) prisons in lowa

Capital Punishment

(e) Moonies
(f) Born again
(g) Electronic evangalism
(h) Jonestown
(i) Spiritualism $\qquad$
Child pornography
Wife abuse
Childbearing techniques
9. Crime and Criminals

This subject has fascinated or repulsed students ever since the research series began. What crimes should be more severely punished? Do we know enough about crime and its causes to make effective cures? Possible topics include:

| Rape | Shoplifting | Violence in America |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| Arson | Mass murders | Terrorism |
| Street crime | Manson and the family | Vandalism |
| White collar crime | Police corruption | Computer crimes |
| Assassinations | Kidnapping | Juvenile crime |

10. Governmental Problems

Mistrust of government, a declining interest in voting and a lack of leadership at all government levels are indications of the problems within our government that lead to these topics:

The Watergate affair
Corruption in government
Inflation and the government
Illegal aliens
Welfare system
Foreign affairs

Court system
Reagonomics
Nuclear arms race
Primary system of nomination for Presidents
Chemical warfare
11. Other topics

Lasers
Twins
Farm problems

LIBRARY SEARCH
Under the following headings are the most frequently used sources of information in our library. During the next two days answer the questions below and get some hands-on experience with the materials at your disposal in the high school library. Your main purpose is to find the sources and refresh your memory on how to use them efficiently.

Put your answers on your answers on the other sheet under the same headings. Start anywhere. You need not start at the top.

LIBRARY SEARCH
Instead of a test over the use of sources of information in the library, we ask you to fill out the sheet below by $\qquad$ .
A. Write an "I Learned" statement about the Search. In doing this library detective work, I learned

I also learned

Example: I learned that my sophomores didn't know as much as I thought about using some of the many sources available to them in our library.

I also learned that there was still much for me as a teacher to learn about some of the less common sources.
B. Of the many sources we examined, name three you feel will be most valuable to you during high school:
2.
3.
C. Comment on your group. How did they work together?
D. On the back, make a comment on the overall effectiveness of this project.

MAGAZINE CHECKOUT

I have found that this magazine slip expedites the checking out of periodicals from our media center. In former years, I experienced the "havoc" of trying to check out periodicals after the bell has rung for the next period.

I do not have any check-out cards, etc. in the issues of the periodicals. Upon borrowing a magazine, the student circles the identifying information-using one slip per issue of magazine. If so desired, these slips could be accumulated to see the usage of periodicals. At the circulation desk, divisions are made to separate the slips by title of magazine. This provides an easy method of checking in the periodicals.

CLASS.IFICATION OF BOOKS
Carol Porter
Fort Dodge Community Schools
Fort Dodge, Iowa 50501

CLASSIFICATION OF BOOKS
Purpose: 1. To identify fiction, non-fiction and easy book call numbers.
2. To arrange call numbers in the proper order.

Number: Small group or whole class
Materials: Oak tag, envelope, brown wrapping paper (can use any color)

1. Make a chart holder from a $9 \times 12$ oak tag.

2. Fold $9 \times 12$ wrapping paper so it makes shelves. There can be more than three shelves.
3. Attach to oak tag holder. Staple or paste along edges.
4. Paste a regular size envelope on the back. Use these to store call numbers.
5. Make oak tag call numbers for easy books, fiction and non-fiction books.

Put these in envelope.

Easy Fiction

Use: 1. Identify all easy book call numbers from the envelope.
2. Put them in order as they would be on the book shelf.
3. Do the same with fiction and non-fiction numbers.

Each child has a chart and it is easy to move around to check their work.

CARD CATALOG

CARD CATALOG

Materials: Overhead projector, pen, 3 transparencies
Purpose: 1. To identify information on the catalog card.
2. To present the three ways to locate information in the card catalog.

Number: This can be done with a small group or the entire class

Ask the following questions and as each is answered, put the information in the correct place on the catalog card.

1. Who would like to be an author? It isn't hard to be an author, we only need your name. Notice how we put the last name first (discuss).
2. What title should we use. It can't be one that some other author has used. Make up a new one.
3. Now we need an illustrator. Who likes to draw pictures. Use the abbreviation illus. and discuss.
4. The publisher is needed. Discuss what the publisher does with the book. (Child's last name)
5. The city where is it published. (Fort Dodge)
6. Copyright date--The children decide. Sometimes it is really old and sometimes very new. The copyright needs to be discussed.
7. How many pages shall we have in this book?
8. What kind of book is it, fiction, non-fiction, or easy? How can we tell? (Need to consider the title and how many pages)
9. Discuss the fact that we only use capital letters for the first word and proper names. Point out this is different than what we learn in language.

In this group we will assume the children names are: Angie Spike, Ronald Young, Dawn Krug, Jeremy Hanson, Kevin Grady, Vicki Smith, Erin 01 son and Amber Anderson.

Kr Krug, Dawn

Amber's dog; illus. by Jeremy
Hanson. Grady Publishing Co.,
Fort Dodge Iowa Fort Dodge, Iowa 45 p. illus.

1. DOG STORIES I. Title
2. Discuss title cards.

Use another transparency and put the title in the correct place.
11. Discuss what the subject of the book is.

Use another transparency and put the SUBJECT in the proper place.
Discuss it could have more than one subject.
Point out we know it is a subject and not the title because it is all capital letters.

In addition you can:
Make several catalog cards on transparencies using children's names.
The children are eager to see their own name and will look carefully for information.
