COMETS, CHANGE & CONSUMERS: TRADING UP TO PREMIUM BRANDS

*Comets, importing change of times and state,
Brandish your crystal tresses in the sky.*

*William Shakespeare
Henry VI*

Comet Tabur was recently discovered as it streaked northward across the evening sky. Perhaps the celestial observance imports a change in the state's liquor wholesale distribution system.

Regardless of whether you believe in the prognostic power of comets, the Iowa Alcoholic Beverages Division will soon launch a pilot project altering the manner in which alcohol excise taxes are assessed.

I. VARIABLE MARK-UP RATE.

Effective March 1, a variable mark-up rate (VMR) will be applied within the vodka category. The tax rates will vary by volume.

While odd sizes (e.g. 50ml, 100ml, 200ml and 375ml) will be marked up at 75% of the price paid by the state, popular sizes (750ml, 1L and 1.75L) will range from 60% to 40% with two-point intervals. The exact price points for each size and interval are set forth in the table on the next page and the new wholesale prices are listed in this issue, starting on page 17.

The new rates are a departure from the current tax escalation method. Since 1987 – the year state liquor stores closed – the Division has applied a straight mark-up on liquor. Initially set at 55%, the excise tax rate has been at 50% of the state's cost since the first quarter.

That method of taxation has had a marked impact on consumer demand and preference in Iowa. Four of Iowa's Top 10 selling brands, for instance, are inexpensive, value vodkas that retail for around $5.

To illustrate the point, assume a consumer is shopping for a 750ml bottle of 80-proof vodka. If that person opts for a $5 value brand, the state collects an excise tax of $1.33. If a premium vodka priced at $30 were selected instead, the excise tax collected would be $8 – a difference of $6.67 or fivefold the lower tax rate. Same alcohol, same social consequences, but a stark difference in the tax imposition.

The present tax method, because of the tax escalation factor, clearly influences consumer demand and interferes with free-market forces. Similarly, the existing tax system reduces overall income potential. As consumers lower their preferences in response to the escalating excise tax, effectively trading consumers down, retailers make less profit and the state collects less tax. Better to earn 40% on a $30 sale than 50% of $5 for instance.

II. PRICE COMPRESSION.

A major consequence of the VMR, therefore, is price compression. On average, the price of a 750ml bottle of vodka at the new 60% rate will increase by approximately 30¢ (less than 2¢ per 1½ oz. serving). A similar sized premium spirit at the reduced 40% rate, because of the higher product price, will drop by roughly $3. Thus, closing the price gap between the two extremes while, at the same time, reducing a consumer impediment to trading-up in the market.

The state intends to work closely with suppliers to further compress prices. Discussions with key suppliers have already been initiated to encourage additional price support on premium products. The overall goal is to reduce shelf price on high-end goods by at least $5. The benefit to consumers, as well as on-premise accounts, is obvious.

III. CONSUMER TREND.

A second and related VMR benefit is to capture on the recent consumer trend in favor of premium brands. Again, by reducing the barriers to trading consumers up to top-shelf liquor, the state and retailers alike increase revenues without a corresponding increase in per capita consumption.

The state will monitor the retail market closely to assure that savings are, in fact, passed on to consumers. The benefit to retailers, like the state, comes from reducing the price impediment to enhance purchases. The VMR will not succeed if retailers pocket the difference. Competition in the marketplace, however, will best assure that consumers realize the savings.

IV. INTRA-STATE COMPETITION.

A third benefit will be to aid Iowa retailers along the border to be price competitive with out-of-state liquor stores. Under the current arrangement, consumers occasionally cross state lines in search of lower-priced spirits.

Admittedly, Iowa's alcohol excise tax rate is high in comparison to the surrounding states. While those states impose a flat gallonage tax, ranging from a high of $5.03 (Minnesota) to a low of $2.00 (Missouri), Iowa has an equivalent gallonage tax of $14.41. In fact, Iowa's alcohol excise tax ranks 5th highest in the United States.

STATE EXCISE TAX RATES

Having grown up in an Iowa border community, I'm fully aware of intra-state competition. I've personally witnessed Iowans purchasing spirits at out-of-state liquor stores and, in the past year, I've price-shopped spirits in those retail outlets. The VMR program will help border retailers compete for business with retailers on the other side of the border.

V. IMPACT ON BAR OWNERS.

Special consideration was given to on-premise accounts. In establishing the various price points for liter bottles, a popular size for bars, attention was given to avoid any adverse financial impact overall. The net loss to the state, if liter sales remain constant from last year, would be $25,000.

For all sizes combined, the impact on price is relatively neutral. In fact, if a class "E" retailer were to purchase one bottle of every vodka code available through the state, the net savings would be $42.46. Again, the state's gain comes from trading consumers up to premium brands.

VI. CLOSING.

Finally, retailers need not be concerned. If the pilot project fails to produce additional revenue for their businesses, similar results will likely be experienced by the state. As a charter agency initiative, the goal is to enhance state revenues without increasing consumption.

If successful, the VMR program will be expanded into other categories. Over the next few months, the state will watch closely to measure the economic impact of the pilot project. Of course, program continuance and expansion will be predicated on revenue enhancement.

I once heard it said that the only person that truly appreciates change is a baby in a dirty diaper. While I certainly understand the natural resistance to change, I simply ask that the VMR program be given a fair opportunity in the marketplace.

Will the Variable Mark-Up Rate program succeed? Perhaps the answer can be found in the sky.

IRISH AYES

WHEN IT COMES TO IRISH BEVERAGES, THE AYES HAVE IT.

By Michael Sherer, a Seattle-Based Writer and Consultant Specializing in Beverages and Foodservice
Note: This excerpt is printed with permission from the January/February 2003 issue of StateWays —the Beverage Alcohol Merchandising Magazine for Control States.

It's said that everyone's Irish on St. Patrick's Day. Could it be that people are angling to wear those "Kiss me, I'm Irish" buttons? Or more likely, it could be that people just want a taste of one of the extraordinary spirits that hail from the Emerald Isle. The fact is you don't have to be Irish to enjoy Ireland's bounty.

Ireland may be small, but like most countries it's known for many things, Irish whiskey, Irish cream, and stout among them. Guinness and Baileys, for example, are two of the most widely recognized and biggest brands in the world. Irish whiskeys such as Jameson are gaining back the respect and awareness they once had.

Many people's perception of Ireland is that of a quaint land of leprechauns and shamrocks. The real Ireland, however, has become tremendously popular. Ireland has had one of the fastest-growing economies in Europe for several years, and it is now a hot vacation spot for people from around the world. . . . "All things Irish continue to be hot," said Larry Kass, director of communications for Heaven Hill Distilleries. "It's an international trend. I think there are more Irish pubs in Italy than in Ireland."

When discovering Irish culture, of course, more and more consumers are experiencing spirits that are a part of that heritage.

When discovering Irish culture, of course, more and more consumers are experiencing spirits that are a part of that heritage.

WHISKEY'S ROOTS

Whiskey, in fact, has its roots in Irish culture. Anyone who appreciates a sip of good bourbon, Scotch, rye, or Canadian whisky owes a debt of gratitude to the Irish monks who first distilled uisce beatha in the Middle Ages. Ireland is still home to the world's oldest licensed distillery.

Though the island nation once boasted more than 2,000 distilleries, Ireland's distilling industry almost disappeared entirely at one point. The combination of a British trade embargo and Prohibition in the United States put most Irish whiskey distillers out of business. When Americans developed a taste for imported whiskey, it was for the Scotch that U.S. servicemen drank while stationed in England during World War II.

Now, however, Irish whiskey is growing faster than any other whiskey style. The category, though the smallest among all whiskeys, grew more than 11 percent nationwide in 2001, according to Adams Liquor Handbook 2002. In the control states, the category gained 6.7 percent for the last 12 months ending August 30, 2002. As awareness grows, it's poised for continued growth.

"Consumers are recognizing that Irish whiskey is a premium product," said Alan Lewis, senior vice president of sales and marketing at C&C International (the company that owns Tullamore Dew Irish Whiskey, Irish Mist, and Carolans Original Irish Cream; the brands are imported, distributed, and marketed in the United States by Allied Domecq). "It had a bad reputation as a harsh, hard-to-drink whiskey. Consumers are now learning that it's even smoother than Scotch because it's triple-distilled."

Triple distillation is just one reason many consider Irish whiskey more approachable than other styles. Most Irish whiskey is made with barley that is dried in kilns instead of over open peat fires, making it less smoky than Scotch or bourbon, too, which is aged in charred oak barrels (though many Irish whiskeys are finished in bourbon barrels). And most Irish whiskeys are blends, giving a master distiller the ability to create a particular taste profile. That approachability is one of the reasons Irish whiskey is gaining ground.

“For the last five to seven years a lot of people gravitated toward white spirits,” Agdern said, “but there’s been renewed interest in the past few years in whiskey brands, cocktails like Manhattans, bourbons, single malts, deluxe blends, and Irish. Jameson, and Irish whiskey in general because of its taste profile, is very attractive to younger drinkers coming from white spirits. It’s an easy switch.”

Irish whiskey’s appeal to younger drinkers . . . is moving it out of Irish pubs and into the mainstream.

number of new expressions that have hit the market. Like distillers of small batch bourbons and single malt Scotch, Irish distillers are experimenting with their products and beginning to introduce new products. Some of these are products that have been around for some time but simply haven’t been available here.

CREAM RISES

Irish creams also are experiencing good growth. Though category growth slowed for a while due in part to consumer concerns about health and fitness, sales of most brands are back on track. The category has grown more competitive, though, with the entry of creams from other countries. Recent additions like Amarula, Tia Luso, and Cruzan Rum Cream may make it more difficult to give brands shelf space. Irish creams continue to dominate, however.

As consumers find new uses for Irish creams, sales will likely continue to grow. “Creams taste good, and they’re a bit of an indulgence,” said Susan Overton, director marketing at Heaven Hill, which imports O’Mara’s. “It’s not just an after-dinner drink. People keep thinking of new ways to mix it in drinks like the Cream Tini, Mudslides, and coffee drinks. It's an easy access product, something that's not so much an acquired taste, which is partly why sales of these products have increased 80 percent in the past five years." Irish Mist, Ireland's classic liqueur, is taking a new tack to move out on its own. Like a few of its peers, Irish Mist is hoping to convince consumers, particularly younger drinkers, that it isn't just an after-dinner drink. "We're using a nouveau strategy to help create more awareness and usage," said C&C

International's Lewis. "The brand also has been repackaged to make it more contemporary and relevant."

"Un-Mist-akable" cocktails like the Mist Opportunity . . . or Maker's Mist . . . have been developed to demonstrate mixability and make the brand more memorable.

While the upcoming St. Patrick's Day holiday reminds us we're all Irish one day of the year, producers remind us that we don't have to be Irish to enjoy Irish beverages. And as the growing popularity of Irish whiskey and Irish cream attests, retailers can benefit from sales all year round.

Versatile, Mixable Gin

Every home bar needs at least one bottle of gin. You will reach for this tantalizingly aromatic beverage time and time again for sipping, either neat or on the rocks (over ice), and to use in a wide variety of mixed drinks. Gin blends well with other ingredients, making it a bartender's delight for creating flavorful mixed drinks.

Have fun discovering which brand or brands of gin you prefer. While all of them contain at least a hint of juniper berries, one of the beverage's basic ingredients, the closely guarded secret blend of extracts of leaves, seeds, roots, and barks used in processing makes each brand distinct. Take time to savor the unique aroma and taste of several brands—both on their own as well as in some of the classic mixed drink recipes below.

Store bottles of gin in a cool, dry place away from direct light. Once a bottle is opened, the shelf life is about two years.

Basic Martinis

Before you start mixing a martini, ask if your guest prefers it wet (sweet), dry, or very dry; stirred or shaken; straight up or on the rocks; with an olive (with or without pimento) or cocktail onion. Use one of the basic martini recipes below and adjust the ingredients and mixing method to suit his or her taste.

Basic Straight-Up Martini

1½ ounces chilled gin
Generous dash dry vermouth
Generous dash sweet vermouth
Olive or cocktail onion
Pour the gin into a mixing glass or shaker half filled with ice; add dashes of dry and sweet vermouth (vary the amount of vermouth depending on if your guest prefers a dry or wet/sweet martini). Stir or shake gently to mix and immediately strain into a chilled cocktail glass. Garnish with an olive or onion on a pick.

Basic Straight-Up Dry Martini

2 ounces chilled gin
½ ounce dry vermouth
Olive or cocktail onion
Pour the gin and vermouth into a mixing glass or shaker half-filled with ice; stir or shake gently to mix and immediately strain into a chilled cocktail glass. Garnish with an olive or onion on a pick.

Basic Straight-Up Very Dry Martini

2-2½ ounces chilled gin
Dash dry vermouth
Olive or cocktail onion
Pour the gin into a mixing glass half filled with ice; add a dash of vermouth. Stir or shake gently and immediately strain into a chilled cocktail glass. Garnish with an olive or onion on a pick.

Gibson

2-2½ ounces gin
½-1½ teaspoons dry vermouth
Cocktail onions
Pour the gin and vermouth into a mixing glass half filled with ice; stir well and strain into a chilled cocktail glass. Garnish with 1 or 2 cocktail onions on a pick.

Gin and Soda

2 ounces gin
Club soda
Lemon wedge
Fill a highball (collins) glass with ice; pour in the gin and fill the glass with club soda. Garnish with the lemon wedge.

Gin and Tonic

2 ounces gin
Tonic water
Lime wedge
Fill a chilled highball (collins) glass with ice; pour in the gin and fill the glass with tonic water. Squeeze the lime wedge over the drink before dropping it into the glass.

Gin Sour

3 ounces gin
1 ounce freshly squeezed lemon juice
*1 teaspoon sugar syrup**
Lemon or orange slice
Maraschino cherry
Combine the gin, lemon juice, and sugar syrup in a shaker half filled with ice; shake vigorously and strain into a chilled sour glass. Garnish with either a lemon or orange slice and a maraschino cherry.

Orange Blossom

1½ ounces gin
1 ounce freshly squeezed orange juice
Orange slice
Combine the gin and orange juice in a shaker half filled with ice; shake vigorously and strain into a chilled cocktail glass. Garnish with the slice of orange.

Singapore Sling

1½ ounces gin
½ ounce cherry-flavored brandy
Freshly squeezed juice of half a lemon
2 dashes Benedictine
1 dash grenadine
Club soda
Lemon wedge
Combine the gin, brandy, lemon juice, Benedictine, and grenadine in a shaker half filled with ice; shake vigorously and pour into a chilled highball (collins) glass. Fill the glass with club soda. Garnish with the lemon wedge.

Tom Collins

3 ounces gin
1½ ounces freshly squeezed lemon juice
*1½ ounces sugar syrup**
Club soda
Maraschino cherry
Fill a chilled highball (collins) glass with ice. Add the gin, lemon juice, and sugar syrup; stir well to mix. Fill the glass with club soda, and garnish with the maraschino cherry.

* To make sugar syrup dissolve about 1 cup of sugar in 1/2 cup of water in a saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium-high heat, stirring frequently; reduce the heat and simmer for a few minutes, stirring frequently, until the syrup thickens. Store the syrup in an airtight container at room temperature.

TRADER VIC'S.

BEN BURFORD

With an initial investment of $700, Victor "Trader Vic" Bergeron opened his pub in Oakland, California in 1932. Originally called "Hinky Dinks", Trader Vic's bar was renamed after the man himself in 1937. Soon after, it was remodeled to incorporate the theme of a tropical paradise, and Trader Vic's Bergeron's good-humored nature and expertise in cocktails and Polynesian food soon made Trader Vic's one of the most popular watering holes in California. It was here that Trader Vic invented the original Mai Tai, an innovative rum cocktail. The exotic Polynesian atmosphere and menu at Trader Vic's brings in visitors from around the world.

In the coming decades, Trader Vic's would expand its operation clear across America to the East Coast, with over 25 restaurants around the world. Queen Elizabeth II ate at the original Trader Vic's in 1983, and restaurants are now open in Bangkok, Germany and Japan. Even though Victor Bergeron, Trader Vic himself, died in 1984, his family and descendants still manage the restaurant chain to this day.

Basic Paradise Cocktail

- 1-2 ounces gin
- 1-1½ ounces apricot-flavored brandy
- 1-1½ ounces freshly squeezed orange juice
- ½ ounce freshly squeezed lemon juice, if desired

Pour the brandy, gin, orange juice, and lemon juice (if desired) into a shaker half-filled with ice; shake vigorously and strain into a chilled cocktail glass.

Trader Vic's Original Mai Tai Recipe

Mix the following ingredients together:

- 2 ounces 17-year-old Jamaican rum
- ½ ounce orgeat (almond syrup)
- ½ ounce orange curacao
- Juice of one fresh lime
- ¼ ounce rock candy syrup
- Lime slice for garnish
- Sprig of mint for garnish

Shake ingredients and pour into an ice-packed glass.

Garnish with lime and a sprig of mint.

Jim Beam® Black is the HIGHEST RATED WHISKEY

The Beverage Testing Institute, world renowned for their knowledge of fine spirits, rated Jim Beam Black highest among leading North American whiskies for its overall nose, depth of flavor and finish. It took eight years in a charred new oak barrel to create the rich texture and extremely smooth flavor found in the best bourbon ever to bear the Beam family name. Enjoy.

Top 5 Bar Movies

Cocktail (1988) – Tom Cruise, Bryan Brown, Elizabeth Shue

Tom Cruise stars as Brian Flanagan, a young New Yorker fresh out of the army. After weeks of pounding the streets in search of a job, he learns that without a college degree, a career in business is impossible. Enter Doug Coughlin, played by Bryan Brown, who gives Flanagan a part-time job as a bartender. After learning the tricks of the trade, the two become the most famous barkeeps in New York. One of Tom Cruise's first starring roles, Cocktail is the definitive bartender's movie.

Casablanca (1942) – Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, Paul Henreid

Rick Blaine (Humphrey Bogart) lives a comfortable and cynical life, running a night club in 1940's Casablanca. But when World War II comes to town, Rick comes face to face not only with nazis, but their target's wife – Ilsa, who ran out on him in Paris so many years ago. With historical performances by Bogart and Ingrid Bergman as Ilsa, Casablanca is one of American cinema's greatest achievements. In a bar.

Coyote Ugly (2000) – Piper Perabo, John Goodman, Maria Bello

Piper Perabo plays Violet, an aspiring, down-on-her-luck songwriter in New York. After all her efforts to break into the recording industry fall flat, she takes a job at a local bar. Coyote Ugly is a club exclusively owned by a group of beautiful women who revel in driving the customers wild. A fun romp, Coyote Ugly also stars John Goodman as Perabo's protective father.

Swingers (1996) – Jon Favreau, Vince Vaughn, Ron Livingston

Six months ago, Mike (Jon Favreau) ended a six-year relationship with his girlfriend in New York. After moving out to L.A. to jump-start his acting career, Mike meets up with several friends, old and new. Their quest: find Mike a new girl among the thousands in L.A.'s club scene. Swingers chronicles Mike's perilous journey through the bars, clubs and dance halls of L.A. as he tries to leave his past behind him. A definite must for anyone on the rebound, Swingers is well-written and a great bar-hopping movie.

St. Elmo's Fire (1985) – Ally Sheedy, Judd Nelson, Andrew McCarthy, Rob Lowe, Demi Moore, Emilio Estevez

Starring nearly every member of the 1980's Brat Pack, this film follows a group of friends who always come together at their favorite bar, St. Elmo's Fire. Alec is about to marry Leslie but can't stay faithful to her; he confides in his friend Kevin, whom he thinks is gay; Kevin, however, has a crush on Leslie. Wendy's parents want to marry her off to a family friend but she has a crush on Billy, who is busy chasing after Jules – who also thinks Kevin is gay. Got that?

BE A RESPONSIBLE HOST

BECKY DENNY

Whenever you serve alcoholic beverages, be aware of the immediate effects of alcohol consumption and play it safe on the number of drinks you offer each person.

Help your guests drink responsibly:

- Always offer food with drinks.
- Never “push” a drink on anyone.
- Provide a variety of nonalcoholic beverages so no one feels awkward or left out if they do not have a mixed drink, wine, or beer.
- Avoid serving additional drinks to an intoxicated person.
- Select a designated driver.
