Section 1: Introduction

Introduction

This directory has been developed by the Iowa Department of Transportation to provide the public with general information about public transportation providers in the State of Iowa. It also provides the means to access more detailed information as well as to contact public transportation decision-makers.

Public Transit Systems

Iowa is served by 35 public transit systems established by local public officials under Section 324A of the Code of Iowa. There are 19 urban transit systems, each providing transit services in one or more communities of more than 20,000 population. There are also 16 multicounty regional transit systems which provide transit services in all other areas of the state, as well as often assisting the urban systems within their boundaries with specialized transportation services. Iowa has been recognized as a leader in the field of rural public transportation, largely as a result of the provisions in the Code of Iowa which require any agency spending public funds for purchase or provision of passenger transportation services to consolidate or coordinate those services with the locally designated public transit system to assure that the citizens of Iowa receive maximum benefits of all funds spent for this purpose.

In the year ending June 30, 1995, Iowa's public transit systems provided a total of approximately 22.4 million rides. Most of these (18.4 million) were provided by the urban transit systems which operate primarily fixed-schedule/fixed-route schedule bus services on the streets of their communities. The regional transit systems operate mostly demandresponsive services which require passengers to call and schedule rides in advance. Because of the large areas they must cover to service their citizens, the regions ended up operating nearly as many total miles of service providing their 4 million rides as did their urban counterparts.

Intercity Bus

Currently Iowa is served by six private bus companies providing scheduled intercity route services. There are also many companies which operate charter intercity bus services. These categories are both subject to considerable change. Included in this document is a listing of firms registered with the Iowa Department of Transportation's Office of Motor Carrier Services.

Taxis

Taxi regulation is a local responsibility in Iowa. The listing provided here is based upon information collected in the fall of 1995 and is again subject to considerable change.

Local Transportation Planning Agencies

Local officials throughout Iowa conduct an intermodal transportation planning process which includes consideration of public transportation needs and how they fit into the overall transportation needs picture. This process is conducted through a total of 18 Regional Planning Affiliations (RPAs) and 8 Metropolitan Planning Organizations (MPOs), which sometimes share staffing.

State and Federal Contacts

The Iowa Department of Transportation has a number of offices which work with the public transportation industry in different ways. The Planning and Programming Division, primarily through its Transportation Planners, deals with transit planning and funding applications as well as more general transit issues. Project Development Division, through its Office of Local Systems, administers state and federal funding contracts with the public transit systems and deals with issues of contract compliance. The Office of Motor Carrier Services, within the Motor -Vehicle Division, works with the private interctiy and charter bus companies. Federal contacts are primarily concentrated within the Federal Transit Administration. Another possible statewide contact is the state transit association.

The Des Moines Metropolitan Transit Authority (METRO) was honored on June 22, 1995 by the Iowa Department of Transportation as Urban System of the Year for their accomplishments during the 1994 fiscal year. The award was based on a combination of ridership increases and decreases in the cost per ride. METRO's ridership increased 8 percent while the cost per ride dropped 6.5 percent, making the system the most improved urban transit system. K. Steven Spade, General Manager of the system, attributed the improved ridership on METRO's express commuter routes and computer-assisted dispatching.
