Message from Director Beth Skinner, PhD

When I was appointed by Governor Reynolds to take on the responsibility of leading Iowa Corrections, it was the single greatest honor of my life. Since starting in my new role, I've had the ability to travel around the state to meet the people that make up our team, whether they are in the institutions or the community. Having had the chance to meet with hundreds of them, I can say with great confidence that this is an amazing department and is made of some of the strongest professionals in the country.

Working in the prison system is not an ordinary 8 to 5 job. It's all-hours of every day. It's working on the holidays and missing time with family in order to be on your post. It can be stressful and challenging in a wide range of ways. And at the same time, it can be some of the most meaningful work a person can ask for. In Iowa Corrections, we're in the work of keeping people safe, helping take care of each other, and changing people's lives for the better.

I've had the privilege of looking both our most experienced, as well as our youngest officers, in the eye before they go on their shift. I've been able to say to them, as their director, that I appreciate what they do and that I want them to have a safe shift. And to those officers, counselors, nurses, and other support staff that I've been able to meet- I meant what I said every time. Because in our line of work, knowing that your leader sees you, cares about you, and wants to support you is extremely important.

When we look back at the last several years' worth of statistics and data, there are some good things, but there is room for improvement. This is a good thing, because this improvement is a challenge, and in Iowa Corrections, we welcome challenge. We are up to the task.

Over the next year, you're going to see a department that is more focused, rehabilitative, and confident than you've ever seen before. We're training our team, and when we have openings, we're hiring the right people to fill the ranks. This department, and the selfless men and women that work within it, will show this country what good corrections looks like- of that I am sure.

While I am confident in our future, I'm realistic that we may face challenges. We will have hard days. But we'll come together. We'll work to overcome our challenges. We will not be stopped from achieving our goals as a team.

I thank the Governor and the citizens of this state for allowing me to lead this team. And I thank the brave men and women that work in Iowa Corrections for what they're doing to help make Iowa a safer place to live, work, and raise a family. These people are the Iowa Department of Corrections.

Thank you,

Message from The Board of Corrections

As part of our duty as members of the Board of Corrections, we aim to keep our finger on the pulse of what is happening in corrections across the state of Iowa. To accomplish this, we not only hold monthly meetings, but also try to hold these meetings across the state. This is beneficial for two primary reasons: it allows us to see different parts of the corrections system first-hand, and meet the staff that work across the system, it also allows citizens from across the state to learn with us, and voice any questions or concerns they may have related to corrections.

As we traveled the state this last year, one thing has remained abundantly clear to our Board: the men and women that work in Iowa Corrections are among the most professional and hardworking in the nation. Iowa is fortunate to have a system made up of the people that work in this challenging field day after day.

We have been to Clarinda where we learned about the unique bee-keeping and horticulture job-training programs. We've been to Waterloo where we learned about their swift-certain-and-fair pilot programs for high-risk clients. We've been to Mount Pleasant where we viewed a cutting-edge welding simulator in action. We've been to the Iowa Prison Industries headquarters where we heard from incarcerated women about how valuable the skills they've learned are to their future success after incarceration. And in-between, we've heard and learned so much more.

Message from the Board of Corrections, continued

What is clear to us, as a citizen board, is that this department is committed to trying anything and everything that works to give justice-involved individuals the maximum likelihood of success after they are released from prison. The leadership of the department is strong, but always open, honest and accountable to us and other stakeholders. The staff that work in both the institutions and the community are focused, efficient, and hardworking. And while there are some areas the department is striving for improvement, we are confident that improvements will be made under the leadership of the new Director, Beth Skinner.

This last year, two long-serving Board members stepped down from their posts, and their presence at our meetings will be irreplaceable. At the same time, we've added two new board members who have taken on their duties in stride, and have already shown a commitment to help us in fulfilling the duties of this board, and beyond.

We thank the Governor for her continued leadership and commitment to this vitally important agency, the legislature for their willingness to learn about the many things that Corrections does so that they can support the agency in its mission, and the taxpayers of Iowa for trusting Iowa Corrections with its important role in state government.

We understand there may be challenges ahead, but the Iowa Board of Corrections is optimistic about the outlook for Iowa Corrections.

Agency Accomplishments

The Iowa DOC's Office of Victim & Restorative Justice Programs (OVRJP)

Submitted by Mary P. Roche, Director of OVRJP

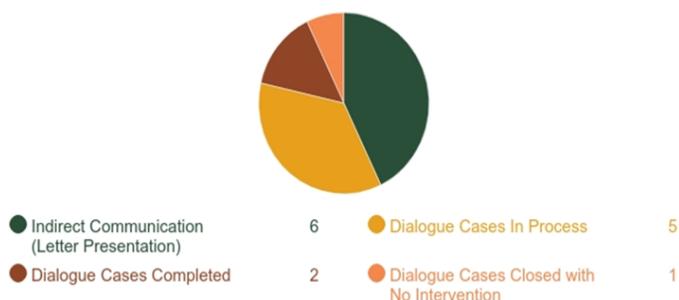

The OVRJP's mission is to provide information, assistance and support to crime victims, staff and other concerned parties administered with respect, compassion and sensitivity. The following highlights some of the services provided to meet this mission:

Victim Offender Intervention Services

VOIS provides victims with opportunities to communicate with an incarcerated individual, probationer or parolee – either directly or indirectly. FY2019 served 14 cases.

Additional Services to Victims:
Offender Apology Letter Bank
Victim Input Statement for Reentry

VOIS Cases
 Direct & Indirect Communication

Over 10,000 victims are registered with the DOC and BOP. This year, 1,640 new registrations were received.

Victim Wrap Around (VWA) is a safety program utilized when an incarcerated individual/parolee poses a threat to the safety of one or more persons. In FY 2019, three VWA's were held and included 15 victims, along with law enforcement, county attorney's offices, local victim advocates and DOC/CBC personnel.

Victims served via the OVRJP 800 phone line:

Staff Victimization and Support Services (SVSS)

SVSS is a peer support program with teams in all DOC Institutions and two active CBC's. They provide support to staff affected by personal or professional crises. This fiscal year, 21 new staff were trained with another training scheduled for July, 2019.

The OVRJP provided 18 trainings to various prison, CBC, community and government agencies and institutions in FY2019. This includes two presentations at the National Association of Victim Assistance in Corrections (NAVAC) conference in Baton Rouge, LA.

The OVRJP was awarded a VOCA grant through the Iowa Attorney General's Office/Crime Victim Assistance Division. This grant will support a new Victim Services Specialist position and will improve victim services through the OVRJP.

Agency Accomplishments

Returning Citizen Reentry Simulation

The Iowa DOC has been involved with the Returning Citizen Reentry Simulation, which was developed by the United States Attorney's office and provided by Central Iowa Works. The simulation is designed to allow participants to gain an understanding of the obstacles individuals face upon release from a term of incarceration. By "living the life" of someone released from prison, participants experience first-hand the barriers and challenges encountered by returning citizens on a daily basis.

During the two hour simulation, participants are assigned the identity of a fictional offender and navigate through a series of events during a month-in-the-life in an effort to successfully reintegrate into the community. They must also meet requirements that are often part of supervision. Each "week" lasts 15 minutes with "transportation tickets" required to move from station to station to overcome obstacles like obtaining identification cards, homelessness, lack of transportation, limited money, paying required court costs, visiting parole officers, seeking employment and applying for assistance when all resources have been exhausted. Participants receive an X for every task not completed within the 15-minute period. Five Xs and you go to court or possibly jail. The simulation lasts between 60 and 90 minutes with approximately 20 to 55 participants.

Next participants complete Partnering for Lasting Change, a training for social workers, DOC staff, judges and attorneys who practice in child welfare and the criminal justice systems. This is a four-hour multidisciplinary training on how to utilize the resources available in each system along with resources developed by the Drake's Incarcerated Parent Representation Program to maximize opportunities for mutual clients to obtain lasting change.

Approximately 605 people have attended these simulations, including DHS, DOC/DCS, attorneys, judges, legislators and others. Feedback has been positive. Additional Reentry Simulations are scheduled for FY2020.

Return Rate to Prison

Performance Measure Highlights

Implementing the Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA)

Why this is important: It's about offender safety. PREA is a federal statute focused on sexual assault and victimization in juvenile facilities, prisons, jails, lockups, and other detention facilities. The goal of PREA is to prevent, detect, and respond to sexual abuser in detention and correctional facilities.

What we're doing about this: All DOC institutions have completed and passed PREA audits that ensure compliance with PREA Standards. Audits are conducted every three years to ensure compliance.

Prison: Substantiated Offender on Offender Non-Consensual Sexual Acts

Prison Suicides

Why this is important: It's about providing basic life care for individuals in custody, and intervening effectively to prevent them from harming themselves.

What we're doing about this: Staff training is key to prevention. Recognizing the warning signs of someone contemplating suicide, and intervening in an emergency situation are essential. Staff training goes beyond these basics to include recognition of and effective communication with individuals who have mental health issues. Regular screening for mental illness and provision of appropriate levels of care ranging from acute units to integration within the general inmate population is also important in reducing suicide incidents.
