REPORT OF THE BOARD OF PAROLE

This report of the Board of Parole covers the biennial period ending June 30, 1922, and it contains tables and statistics regarding its work for the same period, and in general for the period since the organization of the Board in 1907. The report also contains compilations of criminal statistics as received from the clerks of court of each County of the State.

The most important thing, of course, in connection with this report is the fact that during the last biennial period, the Board salvaged two hundred and nine (209) men from our state prisons and returned them to society as honest, industrious, and law-abiding citizens; and they did not regain this citizenship until after they had been on trial for at least a year on some job within the State, under careful supervision and observation. Besides the number mentioned above, two hundred more who had been released from the prisons during this period were actively reporting to the Board and were in line for final discharge. Of the total of five hundred and seventy (570) paroled during the biennial period, only 26.66% violated the provisions of their parole leading to a revocation of their parole and the issuance of a warrant ordering their return to prison. Of this number of parole violators, only seven were convicted of new crimes, being only 1.2% of the total paroled.

THE INDETERMINATE SENTENCE LAW

One of the things that should be kept in mind in connection with any report or discussion of the Board of Parole, is the fact that the indeterminate sentence law, which was passed in connection with the establishment of the Board fixed a maximum sentence for each crime, and this maximum was supposed to be long enough to adequately punish the most vicious criminal in each class as well as to allow enough time to require him to serve a year on parole during the last year of his sentence. This law made it mandatory for the judge before whom a man appeared for sentence, to pronounce the maximum sentence in each case, leaving the determination of the actual time each man should serve in the penal institution to the Board of Parole. The indeterminate sentence law, therefore, contemplated a parole in each case (except life and treason sentences), and this fact should sufficiently refute the claim of any critic of the parole law that the law or justice is cheated when a parole is issued releasing a man from prison. The law intended that all men should be released from prison on probation and returned to society under close observation, and that he not be given a final release from his sentence until he had proven by an actual trial that he was willing and able to conduct himself properly.

GOOD TIME AND HONOR TIME

A reference to Table IV of this report will show that the Board paroled less than half of all of those released from our two prisons during the last biennial period, and the reason for this departure from the original intention of the law is the fact that subsequent to the passage of the commonly designated indeterminate sentence law, the legislature passed a law which allows prisoners to reduce their sentences by giving them credit for certain "honor time," and this credit, together with their "good time" allowance, so materially reduces the maximum sentence that in the judgment of the Board many of the prisoners are not entitled to a release by parole, and they are therefore released by expiration of sentence.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

In connection with the above law as it relates to this Department, the Board has the following observations and suggestions to make:

We believe that the indeterminate sentence law in this State should be amended to eliminate the maximum sentence and make it mandatory for all judges to commit all prisoners (except cases calling for a life sentence under the present law) to the Anamosa Reformatory and the Fort Madison Penitentiary for an indefinite term, thus leaving it to the Board of Parole to determine the length of time each should serve. The law should also provide the means for the Board to secure advice from trained physicians and psychopaths to determine the physical and mental condition of the prisoner, as well as provide the means for the treatment of cases where treatment is necessary. Such a law would, of course, eliminate the present system of allowing a man good time and honor time.

The reason for the proposal of the above amendment, is the fact that society is not sufficiently protected under the present law from mental and physical defectives who are allowed their freedom by expiration of sentence and who, as in the cases of sexual perverts and epileptics, will commit the same crime again, to the embarrassment of society, and be sent back to prison again and again, without any intelligent effort on the part of the State to either cure them of their malady, or to keep them indefinitely confined. Any law that contemplates any definite sentence in such cases is not based on reason, because the sentencing authority has neither the time nor the means to determine the mental and physical condition of the prisoner at the bar.

ANALYSIS OF TABLES

An analysis of tables numbers I, II and III, shows that during the past four years the Board has very materially decreased the percentage of paroles granted. For instance, in 1918 there were five hundred forty-seven (547) prisoners at Fort Madison, and during that year one hundred seventy-five (175) were released from that institution by parole, making a total of 32% of the total number of prisoners released on parole for that year; while in 1922 there were six hundred forty-five (645) prisoners at the Fort Madison Penitentiary and only sixty-five (65) were released on parole, or a total of 10%, making a reduction in the four years from 32% to 10%. The ratio of reduction is practically the same for the Anamosa Reformatory. The reason for the above was an effort on the part of the Board to combat the crime wave following the World War, and although we realize that this crime wave was entirely natural and to be expected, because of the political unrest and disarrangement, and the economic depression which always has followed and probably always will follow a war of any magnitude, and although we realize that any increase in the measure of punishment on our part could have had little effect on the amount of crime committed because the natural, political and economic reason for the crimes existed and were entirely beyond our control before the punishment began; nevertheless the Board followed during this period what we believed to be the will of the majority of the people of the State in increasing the measure of punishment. It follows, of course, that as the ratio of those granted a parole decreased, the ratio of those denied a parole increased, as may be seen by table number III.

A reference to table number VIII shows that during the biennial period a total of sixty-four (64) parolees absconded and have not been apprehended. It is well to state in this connection that a constant search will be made for these prisoners, and there will be a large percentage of them apprehended and returned to prison in the years to come. It is a common thing for us to apprehend and return men who have been at large for five, seven and ten years.

PROCEDURE OF BOARD

The parole law and the Board of Parole of Iowa have been in existence since 1907, and as the Board is charged with providing its own rules of procedure in conformity with the general provisions of the law, it is natural that there have been many changes in, and additions to, our rules since that time; and as a knowledge of our procedure is necessary to an understanding of our work and the parole law, a brief outline is given here.

In the first place, the Board is concerned only with men committed to the State Reformatory at Anamosa and the State Penitentiary at Fort Madison. When a man is received at either of these institutions, the proper records are made in our office and an investigation of his character and of his crime is commenced immediately. The trial judge and county attorney and the peace officers of the locality from which he was sentenced are requested to furnish us with all available information, as well as to make whatever recommendations they desire. After a man has been confined for about six months, he comes before the Board for a personal interview, at which time we observe his general demeanor, question him regarding his past life, and get his version of the crime committed. He is asked to give names of people to whom we can write to find out about his past life. This interview is recorded by a reporter, and later the Board writes letters to the references given, as well as letters to check the truth of his statements.

After a man has been in the institution for a period of about eleven months, his case comes before the Board for its first determination, and if he is denied a parole at this time he is entitled to have his case reviewed and reconsidered every year until he is either paroled or is released from the prison by expiration of sentence or any other reason. (The above procedure is followed in every case except life cases. It will be noted that all cases receive the same consideration, being acted upon automatically, and it is not necessary for a prisoner to make application for parole to have his case considered.)

PROPOSED LEGISLATION

One very surprising thing in connection with the rehabilitation of men convicted of felonies in this State, is the fact that only one legislature in the history of the State has enacted any laws of any extent along this line, and this was done by the Thirty-second General Assembly in 1907. Because of the importance of this subject, we believe the next legislature should give this matter serious consideration; and as this Board has had fifteen years experience in this line of work, we would like to make some suggestions for future legislation, which we hope you will consider as proper to submit to the next General Assembly for its consideration.

In the first place, we believe that the indeterminate law should be so amended as to eliminate the maximum sentence (except life sentences), and commit all men to prison for an indefinite period, leaving it to the Board of Parole to decide when a man should be released. The law should provide the services of trained psychopaths and physicians, as well as the means to treat cases of mental and physical disorders. As a safeguard to such a grant of power, the Board of Parole should be required to make a full report of all men confined in prison to each General Assembly, giving the reason for the man's detention, and the status of his case.

Secondly, the State should make more of an effort to prevent crime in the first instance, instead of waiting until a crime has been committed before dealing with the individual. One very effective way to do this is to keep men busy, and make it difficult to secure dangerous weapons. There is no question but what an idle man is a potential criminal, and if the State would pass a State vagrancy law and have it executed by a State Department, and at the same time operate a State Employment Bureau, it would be very easy to make men either work or go to jail, and our pool hall loafers would be a thing of the past. This department could very easily administer such a law. At the present time we are operating the largest employment bureau in the State, and the Board could handle this matter with very little additional expense.

Thirdly, we believe that more attention should be given a man while he is confined in the prison. A man should not be discharged from prison until he is strong and healthy in both mind and body. While he is in prison he should be given mental and industrial training, and physical treatment, until he is pronounced a normal individual. In order to do this, it would be necessary to classify these men into about four classes, and they should be kept in their respective class until they are ready to be graduated into the next higher class. To accomplish this, it would be necessary to amend our present system of maximum production prevailing at our state prisons, but in the end we would be turning out a large number of normal men who would not return to prison in such large numbers as they do now, instead of turning out so many chairs, shirts, aprons, bushels of corn, etc., that we now do.

Fourthly, if the legislature is not yet ready to eliminate the maximum sentence law and provide for an indefinite sentence, then it should make some provision to take better care of the man who is released from prison by expiration of sentence. At the present time when a man is released he is given a suit of clothes, a ticket to the place from which he was sentenced, and five dollars in money. When we consider the fact that so many of the men in prison are floaters, men who have no home, friends, or means of support, we can easily see why so many of them return to crime, and return to prison. This condition could be almost entirely eliminated by requiring the Board of Parole to investigate each case before a man is released from prison, to determine if the man has any means of support, and if not, we could get him a job and put him to work in the same manner, and under the same supervision as our men released on parole. In order to require the man to agree to this system, his "good time" and "honor time" credits could be withheld until he showed that he was able to take care of himself, at which time he could be credited with his good time allowance and discharged from his sentence.

Fifthly, the parole law should be amended to allow the Board to parole men outside the State. This provision is especially necessary in the case of young men paroled from Anamosa, whose parents live in other states, and who desire to return to the protecting influences of the home.

Sixthly, the compensation of the members of the Board should be placed on a salary basis of not less than $4,000.00 per annum each. The present per diem compensation is a relic of the early days of the Board, when it was not necessary for the members to give their entire time to the work. The Department should also be provided with an additional agent and an additional stenographer. A reference to table number I will show that the help allowance of this Department has not been increased in proportion to the increase in prison population, and we are in very serious need of the additional help requested.

In conclusion, we want to assure you that we appreciate the cooperation and assistance this Department has received from the Governor and the Governor's office during the past biennial period.

An analysis of the above table and of table No. I shows that the Board of Parole has very materially decreased the percentage of parolers in the past three years and thereby greatly lengthened the average term of imprisonment, for the purpose of combating the crime wave following the war. For instance, in 1915 there were 32% of the total number of prisoners paroled from Ft. Madison, while in 1922 there were only 10% of the total paroled from Ft. Madison. Also, at Anamosa, in 1918, there were 42% of the total number of prisoners paroled, while in 1922 there were only 20% paroled from the same institution.

In addition to the 570 men paroled from the Penitentiary and Men's Reformatory, there were 63 men under the supervision of the Board of Parole during the biennial period who were either paroled by the Board of Parole or by Judges of the District Court after conviction and sentence, but before commitment, to either of the above named penal institutions. Of said total number, 26 have served their parole acceptably and have been discharged therefrom, 12 have been committed to prison under original sentence, because of parole violations, 4 have absconded, sentence of 1 has been suspended by the Governor, and 20 are yet reporting.
