

IOWA WINDOW TINTING STANDARDS

- Front windshield: Must have at least 70% light transmittance.
- Front-side windows: Must have at least 70% light transmittance.
- Back seat side windows: any tint darkness can be used.
- Rear window: any tint darkness can be used.

WINDOW TINT SHADE EXAMPLES

Iowa law prohibits the operation of a motor vehicle with a front windshield, or front-side windows, that do not meet a standard of transparency of 70% or more light transmittance.

Medical exceptions can no longer be approved under Iowa law.

Previously approved medical exemptions: Medical exemptions approved on or before July 4, 2012 may apply to operators or passengers of motor vehicles. The medical exemption is only valid if the window tint exemption Form 432020 is carried in the vehicle, the vehicle being driven is the same vehicle as when the form was initially issued, and the form properly documents:

- The customer's name.
- The medical need for reduced transparency.
- The signature of an authorized medical provider.

For more information, please contact Motor Vehicle Division Central Programs at central.vehicle@iowadot.us.

WINDOW TINT FAQ

Question: I was recently diagnosed with a light sensitive condition. Can I obtain a medical exemption from the 70% standard?

Answer: No. Medical exemptions shall not be granted after July 4, 2012. However, many nearly transparent UV-blocking window films for vehicles are on the market. Visit skincancer.org for more information.

Question: I lost my medical exemption Form 432020. Can I obtain a replacement?

Answer: Yes. If the form was previously approved, the Vehicle and Motor Carrier Services Bureau will provide replacement forms to your authorized medical provider upon request.

Question: What happens if law enforcement issues me a ticket for a window tint violation?

Answer: A ticket issued by law enforcement must be addressed through the court system. Any questions about the ticket should be sent to law enforcement or as explained on the ticket.

Question: Why did I receive a notice of suspension of my registration and plates due to a window tint violation?

Answer: Under Iowa Code 321.101(1)(b), law enforcement may send the Iowa DOT a request to suspend your registration and plates for operating a mechanically unfit or unsafe vehicle. Law enforcement may send this request even if you have never received a ticket. The Iowa DOT will send you a notice with the date your suspension will be effective. You will also receive a form that contains your vehicle information and an area for a law enforcement agency to certify your window tint complies with Iowa law. You will have 20 days to appeal the suspension or to return the certified form that your window tint is now in compliance. Refer to your notice of suspension for additional information.