Jacobs of Calhoun presented the name of Hon. Edward H. Cunningham of Buena Vista, as candidate for Speaker, preceding such nomination with the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE—It is my honor and privilege to propose for your consideration a candidate to preside over your deliberations during the coming days of this session, and while the office is one of great importance, the gentleman whose name I shall suggest is eminently qualified for its various duties and obligations. He has been educated in the school of labor, and has succeeded by painstaking effort. In his private life he has avoided easy ways, and has risen because of merit. Despising no problem because it was perplexing, his vision has constantly rested on the goal of results, and his purpose has been constantly fixed on the prize of substantial achievement.

To the service of the state he brought the qualities of character distinguishing him in private life, and in the past two sessions of the General Assembly responsibility rested on his shoulders, and no burden was shirked because it was irksome at times. Scorning the specious pretense of the moment, he co-operated with generous and sympathetic loyalty in every movement of enduring progress and knowing the difficulties and embarrassments that often attend men in their journey from the lot of farmer boy to a position of influence and usefulness among men of affairs, the diligent labors of his mind have been devoted to the advocacy of measures that justice might be safeguarded, that burdens might be equalized and that a broader and larger opportunity might come to every boy and girl in the state of Iowa.

If the philosophy of the poet, that we build the rounds of the ladder on which we climb, applies to a people, it will not be to the credit of this House if its accomplishment under his speakership is not better and more enduring than the past for we stand on the topmost round of past achievement and with experience our guide. For almost three score years and ten this state has journeyed along the pathway of its great career without a stain or shadow on its name and under the leadership of the gentleman from Buena Vista may we emulate the past, and may it be said in later years that this membership wrote the best and cleanest pages of our statute books.

I express my sincere esteem for the ability and character of the gentleman from Buena Vista, the Honorable Edward H. Cunningham, in which I know a united membership joins, and I move his election as speaker of the House.

Upon being sworn and assuming the chair, Speaker Cunningham made the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN OF THE HOUSE—I believe that I am qualified to say that the most mellowing influence that can be brought to bear upon human conceit is a recognized sense of responsibility. I, at this moment, feel greatly humiliated at the thought of what the consequences might be should I, in my ability, fail to measure up to the responsibility that devolves upon me as the Speaker and presiding officer of this House. It would be expected that I should acknowledge my appreciation of the honors that have been conferred upon me. This, of course, I am glad to do, and I shall endeavor to merit the confidence reposed in me. I am conscious of the fact that my words at this time will but further add to my embarrassment should my future conduct fail to harmonize with those standards of fairness and justice that your present action demand of me.

As presiding officer of this House, it is my duty to recognize the rights of every member and this I shall do so far as I am able, with absolute impartiality.

Here in our legislative hall we meet upon a common ground; we differ in our politics and differ in our opinions; but we meet today recognizing these differences and yet each charitably inclined towards the others. We are all imbued with the same spirit, we all possess the same ambitions and are seeking the same results. We want legislative results not only permanent and beneficial in character, but in true harmony with the progress and advancement of our people and our commonwealth. We are a unit in the belief that we are here to legislate in the interests of the people of our State—a people who, when judged by the conception they have of the duties and responsibilities devolving upon them as citizens of this State, are the equal, and I dare say, the superior of any equal number of people in this nation.

Iowa is populated by a people who are distinctively a producing class. The business interests of the state are numerous and varied, but our prosperity along commercial lines is based upon the stability and productiveness of our Iowa farms. This, naturally, leads to the conclusion that the dominant interests of this State are, and always have been, its agricultural interests. Iowa, at this time, has a productive possibility capable of caring for and keeping in comfort, twenty million of people, and yet, we have within our borders but a few in excess of two million. Iowa is thus recognized as a strong factor in the solution of the problems of life's economy. This, then, is our present glory: We are conscious of that sense of satisfaction that comes to all in knowing that we are the real benefactors of mankind, but we should not rest content with this knowledge, and assume an air of self-satisfied indifference, but should have an eye single to the creating of such policies of State, and the making of home life and its environments so congenial as to attract to our midst and make a part of our very being those millions of people that our state is capable of caring for. We cannot truly say that we have lived up to our privileges and our opportunities until our home consumption more nearly equals our production, and by so doing we could prove to the world that the men and women of this generation are true to the obligations imposed upon them by preceding generations and are honestly endeavoring to lead this commonwealth up to higher grounds and on toward that destiny which must eventually mark the heights of human endeavor.

That you will be able to accomplish all that we desire, we do not contend, but it is unquestionably our duty to accept conditions as they confront us and to honestly endeavor to administer them so as to merit the confidence reposed in us by a confiding constituency—a constituency who are deeply sensitive with regard to the manner in which they discharge the responsibilities of their citizenship and who demand that each year this commonwealth shall become a more fitting expression of the integrity and honesty of purpose of its citizens. I am a firm believer in the progress of the human race. I believe that legislation in our legislative assemblies should be truly progressive and at no time out of harmony with the sentiment and the true characteristics of the people of our State.

Progress in the government of a people as well as progress with the individual, to be lasting and really beneficial, must of a necessity be safe and sound, for no proposition that does not return adequate credits for expenditures incurred can be said to be a sound policy, not counting the cost in money, nor the credits in material wealth alone, for we should give credit for the beneficial results from any policy that tends to promote our spiritual, social, moral and material well being. Taking these into consideration, if we find the status of our people to be one tending towards things conducive to better homes, better business policies, better manhood and better womanhood and the burdens of State not unduly excessive, we may well conclude that we are proceeding along safe lines, but to foster or encourage policies of State that impose undue hardships on our people can never be said to be sound or conducive to good citizenship. for no people will for a considerable length of time retain respect for such government. It is well, then, that we always proceed with caution to that end that the fountain head of our prosperity shall not run dry. It has been said, and well said, that a people are blessed and raised to higher levels, or temporarily cursed, according as how the men on whose shoulders rests the responsibility are able to meet the problems that confront them and use them for the benefit of humanity.

Preceding General Assemblies have set for you a high standard of efficiency, but I have the utmost confidence in the ability and judgment of the members of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly. I have no fear that the name of our fair State and the interests of Iowa will suffer at your hands.

In conclusion, gentlemen. I give you renewed assurance that I am deeply sensible to the trust you have conferred and so far as my intelligence directs me, I shall refrain from abusing your confidence.

I invoke your considerate judgment on my actions and in return I promise you my best efforts. Gentlemen, I now await your pleasure.

E. H. CUNNINGHAM.

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE—There is no question that has occupied the mind of man more than the question of what is worth while.

About us in this commonwealth of ours we see men bending every energy of mind and body in the accumulation of wealth; others strive in the world of science; others for political power and some only for the good of mankind. The thing that is most worth while to us as individuals, that comes closest to us, is the worth of a friend. It has been said: there is no value that exceeds that of a true friend.

To those of you who are new members, you will have a great opportunity here in this House of making friends. We have here a better chance than most anywhere else of seeing what there is in one another.

I once knew an old lady, one of those homely, motherly old souls, who in spite of lack of education and cultured surroundings, used to say, you never "quite know a fellow until you have summered him and wintered him." To this she might well have added the experience of a session in the lower house.

I wish to nominate for the office of speaker pro tem, the gentleman who at the last session occupied this seat on my right, and when you know him you will find him as I found him, fair and square on all propositions. If he is with you on a proposition he will give it his strongest support. If he is against you in matters of legislation he can oppose you without prejudice.

In this office I am sure that you will find him as I found him, fair and square, and it is with pride that I place before you for the office of speaker pro tem the name of Henry L. Brady of Dallas county.

Shankland of Polk moved that a committee of three be appointed to notify the Senate that the House is ready to receive it.

Motion prevailed.

The Speaker appointed as such committee, Shankland of Polk, Bruce of Floyd, Kelso of Jackson.

THIRTY-FIFTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY, JANUARY, 1913.

BIENNIAL MESSAGE OF THE GOVERNOR.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly:

The constitution makes it the duty of the Governor to transmit to every regular session of the General Assembly a message with reference to the conditions of the state and recommending such things as he shall deem expedient. If I shall attempt to discuss in your presence the many matters of importance to which in my judgment you should direct your attention during the present session of your honorable body, it will require a message of considerable length, and I therefore, in the beginning beg indulgence for such time as may be necessary to a proper understanding of the subjects herein referred to.

In my opinion, few, if any, sessions of your honorable body have ever been confronted with so many important measures, as will be presented to you in the course of your deliberation, and none have had better opportunity for doing a vast amount of valuable service for the state. Many of the more important subjects that will come before you, have been considered by special commissions during the time since the adjournment of the last session of the General Assembly, and have been reported upon, some in the form of bills, while other measures have been so thoroughly considered at other sessions of the legislature as to render them more easy of solution by you. I know of nothing that should in any way interfere with the work of this session. It seems, therefore, that we may reasonably expect an unusual amount of valuable legislation at your hands, and I congratulate you that you enter upon your duties under such favorable circumstances.

CONDITION OF THE TREASURY.

I am pleased to be able to say to you that the finances of the state appear to be in a very satisfactory condition. On the first day of January of the present year the balance in the treasury standing to the credit of the general fund amounted to $971,672.11. Deducting the Fish and Game fund and the automobile tax, leaves the net balance, in round numbers, $730,600, as against $645,000 on January 1, 1911, after making like deduction, and $299,600 January 1, 1909.

The biennial report of the Auditor of State shows that on July 1, 1912, there was in the state treasury to the credit of the general fund $818,000 after deducting the Fish and Game fund and Automobile tax. The Auditor estimates that the receipts from July 1, 1912, to July 1, 1915, will amount to $13,482,000, making the total assets $14,300,000. He estimates the expenditures from July 1, 1912, to July 1, 1915, to be $12,350,000. To this should be added $650,000 to meet expenditures between July 1, 1915, and October, 1915, during which time the state's income will be small. These two items taken together make a total of expenditures of $13,000,000, which would leave $1,300,000 available for extraordinary expenditures during the biennial period ending June 30, 1915. It will be unsafe to appropriate a larger amount than this unless you make provision for increasing the State's income sufficient to meet any excess in appropriations.

THE CAPITOL GROUNDS.

A comprehensive scheme for enlarging the capitol grounds should be adopted by you and plans made for the eventual acquiring of the lands to be added to the present holdings of the State. I would recommend that the State buy all of the grounds lying between East Ninth and East Twelfth Streets, beginning at Capitol Avenue and extending to the railroad tracks at the foot of the hill to the south. The grounds thus acquired, lying south of Walnut Street, should be parked and beautified, and upon them should be placed the Allison monument and such other monuments as may be erected in the future, and when the state shall build an executive mansion, it should be placed upon the high point of ground to the southeast of the capitol building. Upon the block immediately east of the state house and south of Capitol Avenue, should be located a judicial building. I would also suggest that when the time comes that it is necessary to make any considerable improvement in the State's power plant, it would be wise to consider moving it to the foot of the hill, south and southwest of the state house, where it could be reached by a switch, thereby saving the large amount of money that is annually paid for hauling coal with teams and wagons, and also getting rid of the dirt and smoke and the somewhat unsightly appearance of a heating plant immediately in front of the capitol building.

In suggesting the enlargement of the capitol grounds, I wish to say that the owners of some of the lots included in that which I have referred to, have already expressed a willingness to sell the same and some have submitted a price for their holdings. I want also to say that at two or three different times efforts have been made to secure a change of grade in some of the streets about the state house, which change would have a very material effect upon the surroundings, if additional lands are to be acquired. The council has each time objected to these changes and asked the parties interested therein to wait and take the matter up with you with a view to securing co-operation between the city of Des Moines and the State in some general plan of improving the state house surroundings, and I recommend the appointment by you of a committee to take this matter into consideration and co-operate with the officials of the city to the end suggested.

In my opinion the State might profitably dispose of Governor's Square, allowing the city to purchase it for a park if so desired, and invest the proceeds in lands above suggested for purchase.

JUDICIAL BUILDING.

The demand for more room for the accommodation of the various officers and commissions of the State seems imperative. We now have the Dairy and Food Commissioner and the State Veterinary Surgeon quartered in the old brick building across the street east from the state house, which building is poorly equipped and ought to be vacated. The State Board of Education, the State Fire Marshal, the Commerce Counsel, the Rate Department and the Oil Inspector have been occupying committee rooms and are now temporarily located, some with other departments in this building and some in the Historical Building.

In order to furnish needed room it has been suggested that an office building be erected. Some such arrangement should be made, but in my opinion the logical thing to do would be to erect a Judicial Building, remove the Supreme Court and all of its correlated departments out of the state house and bring all administrative officers and commissions together in this building. By this method the Supreme Court, the Clerk of the Court, the Attorney General, the Law Library and the Commerce Counsel would be removed from this building and the quarters occupied by them would be released for the use and accommodation of other officers and commissions. The library room is of the height of two full stories and could be converted into two stories, the upper of which would be accessible from either elevator at the gallery floor.

By the above arrangement 19,000 square feet of floor space would be released for use which is practically the equivalent of a four-story building 100 feet long by 50 feet wide.

I believe the above would be the logical division of departments to make, inasmuch as it would bring the court and the legal department of the state into one building and all executive officers into the other. This has been done and is being done in a number of states. It has the indorsement of our Supreme Court and in my opinion is the plan that should be adopted.

ELEVATORS.

The old hydraulic elevators in the State House continued to give so much trouble that the Executive Council became alarmed lest some accident might result from their operation. It was deemed advisable to replace them with electric machines. In order to meet the expense incident to this change it became necessary to use the money appropriated by the omnibus appropriation bill of the last session of the General Assembly for the installation of elevators in the north and south wings of the building, the Attorney General holding that said appropriations might properly be so used. The new elevators cost $3,000 each.

SOLDIERS' HOME-COMING.

A year or more ago it was suggested to me that it would be appropriate to have a home-coming for all surviving soldiers who went from the State of Iowa into the service of their country during the war of the rebellion. The time was too short to make preparation for such a home-coming during the year just passed. It is now proposed to observe such an occasion during the present year in connection with the state encampment of the G. A. R., which encampment will be held in the City of Des Moines some time during the summer.

I most heartily and earnestly concur in this movement and recommend that some appropriate preparation be made for this occasion and that an appropriation be made by you to assist in defraying the expenses thereof. Not only men who went from Iowa into the service, but hundreds and possibly thousands of others would engage in these exercises. It ought to be made a great occasion for the old soldiers whose years, at most, cannot be many.

PROVIDENTIAL CONTINGENT FUND.

The Thirty-fourth session of the General Assembly appropriated $50,000 as a providential contingent fund to be expended under the provisions of section 170 of the Code. I recommend that you renew this appropriation. Under an opinion of the Attorney General it has been held that this fund may be used for various purposes, such as paying the expenses of the National Guard when called out to suppress riots, for the restoration of state property when destroyed by unavoidable cause, etc., so that it cannot properly be regarded any longer as a providential fund. While not calling into question the correctness of the opinion I want to suggest that the section of the Code should be so amended as to make it clear as to just what use is to be made of this fund and the term by which it is designated should conform to the uses for which it is intended. The law should also be amended so that the expenses of the Guard when on riot duty could be paid from the general fund of the treasury. A single conflagration or disaster might make it necessary to expend the entire amount of the appropriation herein referred to and leave the Governor without any means of meeting guard expenses as herein contemplated except by calling the legislature into special session. And again, since it is provided that the so-called providential contingent fund can only be expended by unanimous consent of the members of the Executive Council any one member of that body refusing to agree to the payment of guard expense from this fund could hold the claims up and prevent their payment or compel the Governor to call the General Assembly into session. While it is not probable that such a contingency as this would ever arise the possibility of it ought not to exist.

NATIONAL GUARD.

In my message of two years ago I expressed it as my opinion that the National Guard had attained to a degree of efficiency never before equalled. I think I am warranted in again saying that the efficiency of the Guard has never been so great as at the present time.

Within the last four years there has been a great revival of interest with reference to quarters for the companies so that of the forty-eight companies constituting the four regiments of the guard thirty-three are now provided with permanent quarters, many of which were erected for the exclusive benefit of the companies themselves and others have been so arranged as to meet their needs and requirements.

Early in the summer of 1910 I found it necessary to call out six companies of the Fifty-fourth regiment in charge of Major Ball under the direction of General Logan to suppress rioting in connection with the general strike among the button workers at Muscatine. The conduct of the guard was exemplary and the work done by the companies was very effective and commendable. This service covered a period of sixteen days.

INSURANCE, BANKING, ETC.

Conditions in the State with reference to insurance and banking have been quite satisfactory during the last two years. There are now reporting to the department 1,049 banks and trust companies as against 950 two years ago, and the deposits have increased from $247,000,000, June 30, 1910, to $285,000,000 September 11, 1912.

There have been no great conflagrations during the year and the mortality among our people has been about normal.

The Auditor of State in his biennial report recently filed with me again recommends that a system of examination of county accounts and records be established and to this recommendation I want to give my approval. It seems to me that the number of defalcations and irregularities that have occurred during the last few years will impress upon you the importance of the above suggestion.

MINING AND LABOR DEPARTMENTS.

The entire chapter of the Code relating to mines and mining in the state was revised during the last session of the General Assembly and I am pleased to say that under the new law things have worked out in a very satisfactory manner. There have been no serious disasters and the merits of the statute enacted I think have fully justified the revision of the law.

The Labor Department of the State is in a most excellent condition and I commend the Commissioner upon his faithful and wise administration of the affairs of the office. Some revision of the laws will be asked and requests will be made for extending the service of the department. One of the most important matters with reference thereto is that of changing the law with regard to employment agencies so as to eliminate what is known as the "padrone" system.

In my opinion the powers and authority to inspect hotels should be transferred to and made a part of the duty of the Labor Commissioner. It is wholly unnecessary to have two sets of men traveling over the state when the work of inspection herein referred to could be performed equally as well and at a much less expense by the Labor Commissioner and his deputies who of necessity must visit all parts of the State in the performance of other duties.

I recommend a careful consideration of the matters herein referred to.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

While the Health Department of the state seems to show a more satisfactory condition than heretofore, I am still of the opinion that the executive head of the department should be the man in immediate charge of the office. Under a system similar to that now in vogue this, of course, would be the secretary. The present incumbent in that office has proven himself to be a very capable and efficient public servant. I want again to recommend that the members of the Board be placed upon a salary and that the Board be made advisory rather than directory. I believe a plan of reorganization similar to that presented to the last session of the General Assembly would render the department more efficient.

HOG CHOLERA.

Again our State has been visited by a severe scourge of hog cholera. The value of the animals that have died during the last year is estimated at not less than $12,000,000.00. The most effective, and in fact, so far as I am aware, the only remedy that seems to check or prevent the spread of this disease, is what is familiarly known as the serum method of treatment. There has been appropriated $8,000 biennially for the manufacture of serum in this State. This has been wholly inadequate to meet the demand during the last few months so that large quantities have had to be shipped in from other states. I recommend a larger appropriation and better preparation for the manufacturing and distribution of serum to the end that in the future we may be able to avoid the great loss that has resulted from the spread of disease among swine.

Statistics also show a tremendous loss in the value of the swine produced in the State by reason of the prevalence of tuberculosis. It is generally believed that this disease among swine is largely due to its prevalence among cattle, and in order to eradicate it from the one it will be necessary to eradicate it from the other also.

Dourine has also been found to exist among the horses in a few localities of the state, but has been closely quarantined and seems fairly well under control.

You will, no doubt, be called upon to legislate so as to enable the authorities of the State to better regulate and control these as well as other diseases among animals.

BEE INSPECTION.

Most of us, I presume, have regarded the bee industry of the State as a matter of no particular consequence. I must confess that I have been surprised to learn that there are perhaps forty thousand people in the state who are more or less extensively engaged in the handling of bees, and that the value of the honey produced is estimated as exceeding one million dollars. This industry is being badly injured and in fact its existence is threatened by what is termed "foul brood." We have a law creating the office of Bee Inspector, but for some reason no appropriation has been made to meet the expenses and pay the salary of such official.

It has been suggested that the matter of bee inspection and nursery inspection be combined, that an appropriation sufficient to meet the requirements of both be made and that the work be placed in the hands of the State Entomologist. I hardly feel sufficiently informed on the subject to recommend that this be done, but the plan seems to me to be feasible and I recommend it to you for consideration. I do wish, however, to urge upon you the making of ample provision for ridding our State of "foul brood" which is prevalent in many parts of the State and which is rapidly destroying the bee industry.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The question of weights and measures is becoming of great importance to the people of our State and since the matter of testing scales has been lodged with the Dairy and Food Commissioner and other states have clothed that official with authority as to the subject of weights and measures, I recommend that he be made the superintendent of weights and measures in this State. I also recommend that the laws upon these subjects be so revised as to make them more effective and bring them up to date.

The dairy interests of the State have grown to such an extent that we now rank first of all of the states in the production of butter and are making very satisfactory progress in other lines of dairying and stock raising. Much of the work that has been accomplished during the last four years is due to the aid given by the State in the way of appropriations made.

During this session you will, no doubt, have presented to you measures intended to better the sanitary conditions of the state, not only as relates to dairying, but with reference to the health of the people of the state and with especial reference to food products. It is universally conceded that a proper observance of sanitary law is the most potent factor in the establishment and maintenance of a healthful condition, both among men and animals. I feel assured, therefore, that you will give due regard to the necessity for the enactment of better laws upon the subject of sanitation.

AGRICULTURE AND HORTICULTURE.

Without going into details with regard to the Department of Agriculture and Horticulture, I desire to say that very satisfactory progress has been and is being made in each and that as far as is consistent with other interests of the State, you should continue to aid and encourage them.

You will be asked for an appropriation for the erection of a woman's building upon the State Fair Grounds, to be used not only as an art building, but as an auditorium for lectures and for other purposes tending to the promotion of the moral, social and intellectual advancement of the people of the State. In considering improvements to be made, you should give thoughtful consideration to this request. We should not overlook the necessity and importance of promoting the welfare and strengthening the citizenship of the State. The request for the erection of a woman's building is with a view to accomplishing these results, and I desire to give it my hearty approval.

In this connection, I wish to call your attention to the fact that the Federal Government has established a Child Welfare Department or Bureau, and that the subject is being very generally considered in many states of the Union. Certainly there can be no more important subject than the welfare—physical, mental and moral—of our children, and Iowa could do herself no greater honor than to be the first state in the Union to place upon her statute book a law establishing a Child Welfare Department or Bureau as a permanent branch of our State Government.

STATE FIRE MARSHAL.

The Thirty-fourth session of the General Assembly enacted a law creating the office of State Fire Marshal. The law has been in operation now a year and a half. The results have been very satisfactory and in my opinion the vigorous manner in which Fire Marshal Ole O. Roe and his assistants are enforcing the law will greatly reduce the number of incendiary fires throughout the State. From July 1, 1911, when the law took effect, up to the present time more than 3,700 fires have been reported to the Marshal's office, of which more than 175 were suspected as being of incendiary origin, and have been investigated. As a result of these investigations four persons have been convicted and sent to the penitentiary, two were given jail sentences, one was sent to the insane asylum, one to the boys' industrial school, two to the hospital for inebriates, two were fined, one was acquitted and eleven indictments are now pending.

Nearly five hundred buildings have been inspected and many orders have been issued with regard to removing the danger of fire incident to the unsafe conditions found to exist.

STATE SHERIFF.

It has been suggested that there is need of a state official or officials who, under the direction of the Governor, could be sent into any part of the State to make investigation where crime has been committed and to assist the Governor and the Attorney General in enforcing the laws. Several occasions have arisen during the last year where such an official might have accomplished great good and some instances have arisen where, beyond question, his services would have been of value to the state. In the case of the murder at Villisca, one of the foulest crimes ever committed in this or any other state, aside from the limited reward that the Governor may offer, the State was without any direct means of assisting in apprehending the murderer. However, in order to do all that was within our power we employed for several weeks a detective from the W. J. Burns detective agency and paid him for his time and expenses out of the Attorney General's contingent fund and I reimbursed the Attorney General from the Governor's Counsel fund. While this is an unsatisfactory way to transact business we felt that we were operating entirely within the law and that every citizen of the State would approve what was done. The suggestion of a state official to act in the capacity above mentioned is worthy of your consideration and I recommend that provision be made so that the power of the State will be strengthened either as above provided or in some other effective manner.

COMMERCE COUNSEL.

The Thirty-fourth session of the General Assembly created the office of Commerce Counsel and made appropriations for the use of the Counsel and the State Board of Railroad Commissioners in matters pertaining to interstate and intrastate commerce. The results obtained with reference thereto have been much more satisfactory than in the past, and I feel assured that the creation of the office of Commerce Counsel has been fully justified. I am convinced, however, that the power and authority of that official should be enlarged. He should be made the legal adviser of the Board of Railroad Commissioners. He should also have charge of proceedings in the courts where injunctions are brought against the Commission to restrain it from enforcing its rules or orders or where actions are brought by the Commission for the enforcement of such rules or orders. He should also be clothed with authority to appear and have charge of and prosecute all cases ordered by the Board of Railroad Commissioners or brought by the Counsel himself before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In making the above suggestions there is no thought to in any way limit or interfere with the power of the Attorney General with reference to these matters. His authority being constitutional could not be interfered with by a statutory enactment, but any law to be enacted should be so drawn as to fully recognize his authority with reference to the matters under consideration.

ARBITRATION OF DISPUTES.

I want again to call your attention to the necessity for the enactment of a law requiring disputes between employer and employe to be submitted to arbitration before a strike or lockout can be ordered. This matter was called to the attention of the Thirty-fourth session of the General Assembly, but the necessity for action did not seem to impress itself upon the members of that body. Since then we have had a number of disputes and disagreements, some of which have resulted in strikes of a more or less serious character. In some instances the disagreement arose over matters of a trival nature which ought to have been adjusted without difficulty. I most earnestly urge upon you the necessity for legislation with reference to the matter herein suggested, both in the interest of the employe and the employer, and also in the interest of the general public which is often inconvenienced and injured by these industrial disturbances. This is a subject of far-reaching importance and you ought not to adjourn without enacting a law with reference to it. I can not urge this upon you too strongly. You will find both in Canada and in Australia as well as in some of the states, statutes bearing upon this subject which apparently have worked fairly well and which may be made the basis of laws to be here enacted.

AN IMMUNITY STATUTE.

Near the close of the last session of the General Assembly there was presented and passed through the House a measure designed to strengthen our laws for the prevention of combinations in restraint of trade or for the fixing of prices of commodities. The bill failed in the Senate during the closing hours of the session. Without an immunity statute it is very difficult to secure evidence sufficient to justify the bringing of an action even when it is generally conceded that unlawful combinations exist. I recommend that our laws be amended in substantial harmony with the provisions of the bill above referred to.

LAW ENFORCEMENT.

In my inaugural address of four years ago I stated that events that had recently occurred had brought forth a demand for law enforcement and that the matters referred to had reference to violations of the liquor statutes of the State.

The Thirty-third General Assembly, then in session, enacted what are commonly known as the Cosson removal statutes, which statutes, in my opinion, have done much to bring about a wholesome regard for all laws of the state, and especially for the liquor laws, so that I feel warranted in saying that perhaps at no time in the State's history have these laws been better observed than at present.

From the Iowa Official Register and from other sources, it appears that in September, 1908, saloons were being operated in forty counties of the State and that there was a total of sixteen hundred and twelve in operation. Recent statistics show that there are at present only thirteen counties where saloons generally exist, that there is one county which has saloons in two cities only and nine counties which have saloons in only one city each, while there are seventy-six counties that have no saloons at all, and the total number in the state is only seven hundred and thirty-one.

This shows the largest extent of "dry" territory and the smallest number of saloons for many years if indeed not at any time in the history of the State since it attained to any considerable size in population.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION.

Again I want to call your attention to the need of better laws with reference to regulation and control of public utilities and to the creation of a public utilities commission. It is not necessary to enter into a lengthy discussion of this subject. That you can find in my message of two years ago. What I want to do here is to urge that this question be taken up early so that it cannot be said in the closing hours of the session that "There is not sufficient time to properly consider the matter." I would recommend the Crist Bill of the last session of the General Assembly as a basis from which to work, making any changes therein that may be necessary to meet the conditions and requirements of our State. Let no man offer the excuse that he opposed a measure because it contained objectionable features unless he can, in good faith, show that he tried to secure the elimination or modification of such provisions as do not meet with his approval.

The bills considered during the last two sessions of the Legislature went to defeat largely by reason of the opposition of officials of certain cities who as an excuse for that opposition set up the false claim that the measures were designed to aid corporations. It might better be said to have been the selfish opposition of public officials who feared a curtailment of some of their powers and the removal of a convenient campaign issue. What we need in the regulation of corporations and the guarding of the interests of the public, is a commission that is well qualified for the work to be done, has the courage of its convictions and is so far removed from local influences as to be fearless in the performance of duty. With such a commission we may expect efficient service from public service corporations, and not until we have such a commission.

INSTITUTIONS UNDER THE BOARD OF CONTROL.

It will not be possible for me to go into detail with regard to the many institutions under the management of the State Board of Control, but there are some things in connection with most all of them to which I wish to call your attention and then most earnestly request of you a careful perusal and consideration of the recommendation made by the Board in its report, which is now available for your inspection and use.

I think I ought, however, to say that as compared with the educational institutions of the state, the institutions under the charge of the Board of Control fared rather badly at the hands of the last session of the legislature, consequently, the necessities of those institutions are greater at this time by reason of the fact that they were in some respects neglected two years ago. This is not stated by way of criticism, because I do not believe that the educational institutions received more than they should have had, but the institutions under charge of the Board of Control which did not receive adequate appropriations two years ago will necessarily require more liberal appropriations at your hands.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

Among other things, the Board is asking for a definite amount for the maintenance of the Soldiers' Home rather than that it should depend upon a per capita allowance as at present. This I think will readily appeal to you when you have in mind that the number of inmates of the Soldiers' Home will very soon, in all probability, decrease at quite a rapid rate so that it will either be necessary to make much larger per capita allowance or to provide for a fixed monthly amount to be used for maintenance. I cannot impress upon you too strongly the duty which rests upon you as members of the Legislature in making every provision for the proper care and support of the veterans of the Civil War and their wives, who by reason of age, infirmity or lack of funds by which to support themselves have found homes in our State Institutions.

ORPHANS' HOME.

At the Orphans' Home at Davenport appropriations are asked for to erect an addition to the hospital and also for the erection of a school building. I wish to say in this connection that upon my last visit to this Institution I was impressed with the very crowded conditions of the school and what seemed to me to be an imperative demand for more school room. The work in the school and the management of the institution are of a very high order, but more room is badly needed and I urgently recommend that provision be made for at least three or four additional rooms or for a separate building for lower grades, as is recommended by the Board of Control.

SCHOOL FOR DEAF.

There is little that I need to state with regard to the School for the Deaf except that small appropriations for many purposes are requested but the aggregate is not large and the necessities of the institution in this respect are not so great as at the other institutions of the state. Two years ago I recommended that the School for the Deaf and the School for the Blind be transferred from the Board of Control to the State Board of Education. The latter was transferred but the former was not. The deaf people of the state and those persons whose children are sent to the institution feel that it ought to be taken out of the group of penal and charitable institutions and classed with the educational institutions. There is much merit in what they have to say and I suggest that you give it due consideration.

INSTITUTION FOR FEEBLE MINDED.

At the Institution for Feeble Minded Children an appropriation sufficient to complete the girls' cottage will be asked for. The foundation of this building has already been put in and it is necessary in order to complete the structure that a sufficient appropriation be made therefor.

TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIUM.

A medical building is asked for at the Tuberculosis Sanatorium. This is needed not only in order to meet the requirements of the institution as at present, but in anticipation of any enlargement upon our method of conducting this Sanatorium. I believe the results obtained have fully met the expectations of those interested in the management as well as those who have observed the workings of the institution. The receiving quarters are inadequate and if the best results are to be had from the maintenance of an Institution of this character it should be so extended as to furnish treatment and a home for patients in advanced stages of consumption as well as in the incipient stages. In fact the danger of the spread of disease by those in advanced stages of consumption is very much greater than those in the incipient stages. In my opinion the scope of the work at this Institution should be enlarged as is herein suggested.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

At the Industrial School for Boys an appropriation is asked for in order that the administration building may be reconstructed so as to use a portion of it for a gymnasium.

At the Industrial School for Girls at Mitchellville no large appropriation is asked for any particular item and the aggregate of appropriations is small.

HOSPITALS FOR INSANE.

At the Hospital at Mt. Pleasant and at the Hospital at Clarinda appropriations are asked for the erection of a Psychopathic Hospital.

At Independence an appropriation is asked for the erection of a cottage for patients afflicted with tuberculosis.

At Cherokee an appropriation is asked for the erection of a home for employes.

Several of these hospitals are badly crowded but it seems to me that at least two of the items herein mentioned are deserving of especial consideration. That is, buildings for the segregation of tubercular patients and homes for the employes to which they may go for rest and relaxation after their day's work in caring for the patients has been completed.

The items herein referred to with reference to the above Institutions are only a few of the many which will come before you for consideration.

I wish to add that in general our State Institutions are in a very satisfactory condition and I feel warranted in commending the supervising officers as well as those in charge of the Institutions of the State.

FORT MADISON.

Some months ago there was a good deal of complaint regarding the prison and prison management at the Penitentiary at Fort Madison. I had the complaints carefully investigated by the Board of Control, investigated most of them myself and had the President and Secretary of the State Board of Health inspect the prison as to its sanitary condition. At a still later date I asked the Attorney General, assisted by Judge M. A. Roberts of Ottumwa and Hon. Parley Sheldon of Ames to make an investigation of the complaints and report the same to me. The result of it all was that nothing was reported that justified any serious complaint except such as necessarily attached to an old, and in many respects, out-of-date institution, which the Board of Control is trying to modernize as fast as can be done with the funds and means at hand. The new cell house is being constructed and when done will afford an opportunity to reconstruct the old cell house and to a great extent remove any just cause for complaint from that source.

An appropriation is asked for by the Board of Control for the completion of the cell building. The feeling among the prisoners at this time is much better than formerly, discipline has improved, and things are moving along apparently without friction and in a satisfactory manner.

ANAMOSA.

In my general discussion of prisons and prison management and the employment of prison labor I have stated what I think ought to be done for the Anamosa Institution. I only wish to say here that conditions at the reformatory aside from what I have elsewhere stated, are quite satisfactory and the management is capable and efficient.

EPILEPTIC COLONY.

Two years ago I discussed at some length the necessity for the establishment of an Epileptic Colony. Without assuming to discuss it again I wish to say that the needs for such an institution are even greater today than ever before and in my opinion the next eleemosynary institution that is established should be a home or colony for epileptics. An appropriation is this year asked for by the Board of Control for the establishment of an Institution of this character and I want to give it my most hearty approval and endorsement.

KNOXVILLE.

Two years ago I felt compelled to say to the 34th session of the General Assembly, that conditions at the Hospital for Inebriates were so unsatisfactory that we might well consider abandoning the Institution.

Since that time conditions have changed so that the present management is deserving of congratulations. However, there is still opportunity for great improvement and the Superintendent believes that in order to make the Institution a recognized success and put the question of the advisability of maintaining it, beyond a doubt it should be made dual in character. That is, there should be a hospital for the treatment of those who need treatment and there should be a work house, or custodial building within an enclosure or walls for those who need reformation rather than treatment.

This suggestion is very much in line with what I proposed two years ago and I want to recommend it to you for consideration and adoption.

COMMITTEE TO VISIT STATE INSTITUTIONS.

Again I want to urge upon you the suggestion made in my message of two years ago, that you create a Committee which during the sixty or ninety days preceding the convening of the session of the General Assembly shall visit and study the needs of our various State Institutions. With due regard for the members of this body I am compelled to say that in my opinion the ordinary junket to the institutions, by committees appointed as heretofore, means little if anything more than a visit with the superintending officer and a hurried look at the Institution. It cannot result in any great amount of good or furnish any valuable information. You should appoint a special Committee and give it time to make a thorough study of the needs of the Institutions in order that you may better understand them when they come before you for consideration.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The law creating the State Board of Education took effect July, 1909. As with all other changes from an established custom there has been more or less criticism with regard to the management of our Institution under this Board and yet the Institutions themselves have prospered and flourished. The attendance at each of the schools under the control of this Board, I am informed, shows a considerable increase. The Board in its recent report, filed with me as Governor of the State, has made a number of recommendations and has announced its purpose to transfer the Engineering Department from Iowa City to Ames and the Domestic Science Department and the Liberal Arts Department from Ames and Cedar Falls to Iowa City. These proposed changes have brought many protests and vigorous opposition exists with reference to them. The Board has based its action upon its own judgment and the advice of men skilled in educational affairs and in the management of Educational Institutions.

Without expressing an opinion as to the wisdom of the proposed changes I wish to say to you that before taking such steps as will override the judgment of the governing body of these institutions the most careful and painstaking consideration should be given, not only to the immediate effect of the changes proposed, but to the ultimate interest and welfare of the State and also of the Institutions. I recommend to you a careful perusal and study of the Board's report and also of the reasons assigned for its action.

The needs of the various Educational Institution will be presented to you by the Board and its Finance Committee and to these needs I also ask your attention.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

You will have no subject to deal with which demand more careful consideration than that of Public Schools.

At the session of the State Teachers Association in 1911 an appropriation of $2,000 was made from the funds of the Association to meet the expense of a Commission appointed to investigate Public School conditions in the State and report its findings to the Association. That Commission is known as the "Better Iowa Schools Commission." It has spent much time in considering what might be done to better the condition of our schools and has made its report which will be available for your use and which I most highly commend to you for consideration.

One of the strong features of the report is that bearing upon the question of consideration of territory or enlarging the unit for school purposes. I think I can do no better than to quote in part from a discussion of this subject by our State Superintendent of Public Instruction in which he says: "The existence of rural sub-districts and rural independent districts, especially the latter, is a hindrance to securing better school facilities in the State. The unit of organization should be sufficiently large in order that the taxing unit will not only support good schools below the eighth grade, but also a high school department, offering from two to four years' work bearing a close relationship to the interests and industries of the community. The small rural independent district not only affords a territorial area too small to provide a proper educational unit, but it is too small for community purposes as a school unit. A rural high school building located at the center of the township would provide a good place for the educational, social and recreational activities of the community, and our aim should be for such a center for every community in Iowa. The rural high school is just as essential to a complete system of education for the country as is the town high school to a complete system of education for the town. The rural independent district embraces too small a territory to support a high school because of the small number of resident pupils. The adoption of an area to consist of not less than the Congressional township, is the most important need of legislative action today relating to schools "The consolidated schools offer a partial solution to the teacher problem. A less number of teachers will be required and better wages will be paid. There will be better qualified teachers who will make the work of teaching more nearly a permanent occupation."

It must be apparent to all who have given consideration to school matters that we have not been giving as much attention to the strengthening of the lower grades in our schools as should be given. Perhaps 90% of the school children of the State never go beyond the eighth grade. Something should be done to keep more pupils in school until they complete the public school course. So far as the country pupils are concerned, I believe this can be done by enabling them to study the branches that relate more directly to the things in which they are interested and to which they will in all probability turn their attention in the future, viz.: Agriculture, Horticulture, Manual Training, Home Economics and Domestic Science. Both the State Superintendent and the Better Iowa Schools Commission say in their reports that answers to inquiries sent out by them indicate that there is a general demand for the teaching of these subjects in the country schools. You should make it possible to meet this demand.

Every suggestion of enlarging the size of our school districts and transporting pupils suggests the necessity for improving our highways. That subject I have discussed elsewhere and will, therefore, not further consider it here.

I want most heartily to endorse the recommendation for doing all that can be done to better equip teachers for the work which is expected of them and to induce them to continue in the work, and to this end I endorse the recommendation to authorize contracts, with teachers, not only superintendents, but other teachers as well, for a period longer than that now permitted. This of itself should tend to cause teachers to continue in the work. I know from experience that the uncertainties which arise, at the end of each school year with regard to re-employment are not only sources of worry and annoyance to teachers, but cause them to want to obtain other employment where such uncertainties do not exist.

I want also to endorse the suggestion regarding the increase of salary of the State Superintendent and the recodification of the school laws, the merits of both of which I think will be so apparent to you that they need no discussion.

It is not possible for me to refer to all of the many phases of the school question which demand attention and I therefore invite you to a careful study and consideration of the suggestions and recommendations made by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and to the report of the committee on Better Iowa Schools.

MORE NORMAL SCHOOLS.

If we are to accept the opinions of those who are engaged in school work and who make a study of school questions as to what is needed to advance the interests of the Public Schools, and especially of the rural schools, I think we will be forced to the conclusion that we need more and better facilities for the training of teachers, that is, teachers for grade work, as well as for high school work. This being true it naturally follows that we need more Normal Schools. This thought is suggested and emphasized not only by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Better Iowa Schools Commission but by the State Board of Education. I want to give my endorsement to the suggestion and to recommend that you take such steps as will eventually result in the establishment of at least two or three more Normal Schools to do that kind of work which is necessary to properly equip the common school teachers for the duties which they are expected to perform.

REVISION OF TAX LAWS.

One of the most important matters that will come before you for consideration will be that of the revision of our laws relating to revenues and taxation. At the last session of the General Assembly provision was made for the appointment of a special commission to consider the question here referred to and to report its findings to this session of the Assembly in order that you might be better able to enact such changes in our laws as would make them more just and equitable. That report has been presented to each of you in the form of a printed volume. I want to commend the Commission for the splendid work that it has done and to request of you the most careful consideration of the recommendations contained in the report. It will be impossible for me to go into detail in a discussion of the report and recommendations, but there are some features of them that I want to consider with you.

It is proposed by the Commission that property be assessed at its actual value, instead of twenty-five per cent of such value. Reference is made in the report to the fact that every State in the Union except Alabama lists property at its supposed actual value and that all other States except Illinois, Idaho, Nebraska, and Iowa assume to assess property at full value and hence the conclusion is reached that the Commission is fully warranted in recommending that a change be made in the laws of this State. However, in order to prevent a large increase in taxes by reason of the change in the basis of assessment it is proposed and provided that the levies now provided by statute for various purposes shall be correspondingly reduced.

It is also proposed to change the method of assessing bank stocks, making such stocks assessable at full value and assessing the surplus and undivided profits in such banks upon the same basis that moneys and credits are now assessed. By this means it is hoped not only to reach a more equitable assessment but to encourage banks in building up a strong surplus.

It is further proposed that the Constitution of the state be so amended as to permit or require public service corporations, especially transportation companies, to pay their taxes direct into the state treasury. This subject I called to the attention of the last session of the General Assembly. It is well worthy of your consideration. A number of states have such a law and with a law of that kind enacted in this state some of the vexing questions with which we now have to contend would be removed, especially the question of equalizing between counties, which is one of the difficult if indeed not impossible matters and from which many inequalities arise. There is not a wide difference in the amount of taxes now paid by transportation companies and the amount paid by the counties into the state treasury, so that a change of this character need not seriously disturb the state or the counties as to the amount of taxes raised.

It is proposed by the report of the tax commission and by the bill which it has prepared to change in some respects the machinery for administering the tax laws. Instead of the Executive Council of the State acting as a board of assessment and review those duties are to be transferred to a permanent tax commission with powers somewhat broader than those now lodged with the Council. After ten years of experience as a member of the Council I feel warranted in saying to you that under our present system it is not possible for the Council to perform its duties as a board of assessment and review in a satisfactory manner. The proposed commission is to consist of three members to be appointed by the Governor, confirmed by the Senate, and to serve for a period of six years. There is also to be a county assessor and local assessors but no township board of review. The county assessor is to have authority to review the work of the local assessors, making such changes or alterations therein as he may deem necessary and his work is subject to review by the county board of supervisors. The first county assessor is to be appointed by the Board of Supervisors and thereafter the office is to be filled by election as other county officers are elected.

These are only a few of the more important parts of the report and the bill that will come before you, but I desired to call them to your attention because I feel that they demand especial consideration.

The commission has re-written the entire chapter on revenue and taxation, so that when you have finished your work, if the proposed measure is adopted, you will have a single statute rather than the old law with amendments.

MONEYS AND CREDITS.

The Executive Council in fixing the levy for state purposes for the year 1912 necessary to bring in $2,500,000 required by Chapter 190, Acts of the 34th General Assembly, found it necessary to increase the levy from 3 and 3-10 mills for general state purposes to 3 and 4-10 mills. The necessity for this increase appears to be directly traceable to the change in the law with reference to the assessment of moneys and credits.

For the year 1911 the taxable value of the moneys and credits listed in the state amounted, in round numbers, to $42,500,000, which, under a 3 and 3-10 mills levy yielded to the state an income of $140,000. For the year 1912 the actual value of moneys and credits listed was, in round numbers, $188,700,000, which upon a levy of five mills, that provided for by the law enacted by the last session of the General Assembly, would yield an income of $943,500. Of this amount the state receives about 1-14th part, or an income of substantially $67,000, showing a loss to the state of about $73,000. In order to make up this loss it was necessary to add 1-10 of a mill to the general levy for state purposes.

I am not ready to say that the present statute on the assessment of moneys and credits should be repealed, as there may be advantages resulting from interest rates, etc., that compensate in part at least for the loss of taxes, but I am of the opinion that the enactment of the law fixing a flat rate of five mills upon the dollar upon moneys and credits and the repeal of the tax ferret law at the same time was of questionable propriety, for the reason that the change in the method of assessment of moneys and credits has not brought upon the tax books the added amount of these items that was predicted. The law has not, however, been tried long enough to make certain what will be its final effect.

DIRECT INHERITANCE TAX.

Again I want to recommend the enactment of a law taxing direct inheritances. So many states have adopted a law of this character that it has become a recognized legitimate source from which to derive revenue. I should exempt ordinary estates from the operation of the law and would increase the tax with the increased value of the estate.

Perhaps half of the states of the Union now tax direct inheritances. Iowa ought no longer to neglect the adoption of such a statute but should keep pace with the adjoining states, four at least of which have such a law.

LAND AND PERSONAL CREDIT ASSOCIATIONS.

I desire to call your attention to the question of land and personal credit associations as they are organized and operated in some European countries, not for the purpose of making recommendation with reference thereto but because the President of the United States regarded the subject of sufficient importance to render it expedient for him to invite the Governors of the various states into a conference with him on the 7th ultimo, to consider it. These organizations are co-operative and mutual and are instituted for the purpose of enabling land owners and others engaged in agricultural pursuits to obtain loans upon long time, at low rates of interest and payable in small amounts at stated intervals. The exact form of the organizations varies in details in different countries but all have for their purpose the same object.

In some countries the land credit associations assume the form of land mortgage banks where instead of lending money direct to the borrower the banks turn over to him debentures which he sells or which the bank sells for him in order to obtain the desired funds with which to prosecute his business pursuits.

The personal credit associations based their loans largely upon the character and industry of the borrower rather than upon his ability to furnish security. This being true it necessarily follows that the membership of the associations must be limited, both as to numbers and territory, in order that the members may have an intimate acquaintance with each other so as to determine who should and who should not be admitted to membership.

The above merely suggests the plan of operation. To go into a detailed discussion of the subject at this time would be impossible. These concerns do not, however, seem so easy of organization and operation as is the ordinary co-operative organization for carrying on other forms of business. Suffice it to say that Hon. Myron T. Herrick, the Government's representative abroad in the study of this question says, in his report: "The organization of land credit, however, is a very complicated task, especially since the idea is new in the United States, and involved in a tangle of conflicting state laws, and antiquated land registration and taxation system and foreclosure procedures. Many changes, amendments, and additions would have to be made in respect to all of these before the way could be made clear for the formation of land mortgage banks."

It is generally conceded that in order for the land mortgage banks to succeed in this country uniform laws with reference thereto should be adopted by the several states, so that as a matter of fact the first step in the process of establishing the land credit system here should be co-operation between the various states in the formation of a uniform law to be enacted by them. This is insisted upon by Mr. Herrick as being necessary before any effort is made to establish these institutions.

I do not desire to make any recommendation as to legislation with reference to this subject as I am not fully convinced that conditions in our state where we have so many banks, where so many farmers are interested in banks, and where farm and personal loans are so readily obtainable give evidence that there is sufficient demand or need for this new form of credit institutions to warrant action at this time. It is a question which needs careful and thorough investigation before being acted upon and it is with that end in view that the subject is called to your attention.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT.

The subject of workmen's compensation is so broad and comprehensive that the report of the Commission appointed by me as a result of the action taken by the last session of the General Assembly is entitled to your very careful consideration. The fact that a number of states have enacted Workmen's Compensation Acts and that other states and the Federal Government are considering the advisability of such enactments indicate that there is no need of discussing the advisability of enacting such a law in this state.

The comprehensiveness of the report submitted by the Commission is evidence of a thoughtful appreciation of the magnitude of the work entrusted to it and the fact that I am suggesting modification of some provisions of the proposed law must not be construed as an unfriendly criticism of the Commission's work nor a minimizing of the results of its labors. The Commission deserves the highest commendation for the faithful and able service it has rendered both in the report made and the bill prepared. However, this being an entirely new subject of legislation I feel sure that you will welcome a full and free discussion of it. To this end I have conferred with Mr. S. H. Wolfe, one of the most able and widely known actuaries of the country, and as a result of our deliberations and conclusions I submit the following:

The bill recommended by the majority of the Commission, as I understand its provisions, makes the application of the Compensation act compulsory upon all employers having more than five employes, and also to all of the employes of the state, counties, municipal corporations, school districts, and cities under special charters or commission form of government without regard to the limitation of five employes, except that either the employer or employe may decline to come under its provisions by filing a notice of rejection with the Iowa Industrial Commission. If an employer declines to come under the law he is deprived of the important defenses of contributory negligence, assumption of risk and fellow servant, in the event that suit be brought against him by an employe. If, however, the employe is the one who has rejected the terms of the act, the employer shall have the right to use any or all of said defenses.

The benefits payable to the injured workmen within the act consist of medical and hospital services during the first four weeks of disablement, and funeral benefits not to exceed in either instance, $100, compensation in the event of death at the rate of 60% of his average weekly wages, with a maximum of $12.00 and a minimum of $5.00, payable to his dependents for 300 weeks, compensation to the employe himself for temporary, partial or total disability, and specific amounts for various enumerated dismemberments.

For the purpose of securing the payment of benefits an unincorporated association, known as the Employers' Indemnity Association, is to be created, membership in which is compulsory upon all of the employers coming within the act. It will be the duty of the Board of Directors within ninety days after Part III of the act becomes effective, to call the first meeting of the members of the Association by mailing to each member at his place of business a notice in writing. The Board of Directors is charged with the important duty of grouping the members in accordance with the nature of the business and the degree of the risk of injury, and with adopting rules and regulations and premium rates subject to the approval of the Iowa Industrial Commission. The Iowa Industrial Commission is to consist of three members to be appointed by the Governor by and with the consent of the Senate from names of persons furnished and recommended by the Supreme Court.

The bill also provides for the creation of a reserve fund and for re-insuring certain amounts of the risks. These are of the salient features of the bill which I wish to discuss in order that we may have a better understanding with reference to them.

It will be noted that the act applies only to employers who have five or more employes, the reason given by the Commission for this limitation being, that where but five persons are employed the hazards are not as great, and farm hands and domestic servants would, in effect, be excluded. It would seem to me that this provision works an injustice on the operatives of many small plants who are deprived of compensation benefits because their employer does not have five employes, although the hazard and exposure may be much greater than in a neighboring plant where a larger number of employes are engaged.

Then again, an employer might have three employes for six months in the year and ten during the busy season. If this limitation as to five employes becomes a law would his employes be covered during the entire year or not? It seems to me to be both unnecessary and unwise to insert this limitation.

Although the bill provides for an enforced membership by each employer in a mutual association created by the State it would appear from section 10, part I, that the injured workman is to hold his employer directly liable for the compensation payments and for this purpose each claimant is given a lien upon all the property of his employer. If we are going to require the employer to join this association and to pay any premium which may be fixed by the Industrial Commission, why should we hazard his commercial credit by the creation of a general lien of this kind? Should not the injured workman look to the association for the payment of his benefits since he elects to come within the provisions of the act? In fact one of the great advantages of this proposed plan over the English and the New Jersey systems is that it substitutes collective responsibility (as typified by the association) for the individual responsibility of the employer. The method suggested by me has been adopted in other states.

While I believe that the act should be made compulsory, and therefore the avoidance of its provisions should be made difficult, I am not in sympathy with that provision which requires an employer or an employe to renew his rejection within thirty days before the termination of one year after it has been originally filed. The enforcement of this provision would work unintentional hardship upon the employes in that it would require them to keep track of the lapse of time for the purpose of knowing whether the employer was still under the law and whether their rights were still preserved. I am of the opinion that this provision will cause great confusion in the administration of this act, and would therefore recommend that a rejection be effective not for one year, but until waived.

The bill provides that compensation shall start on the fifteenth day after injury and that the employer shall be required to furnish surgical, medical and hospital services and supplies for the first four weeks after the injury. It is quite apparent that in order to prevent malingering, it is necessary to provide that no compensation shall be paid during the first two weeks, and it seems entirely proper that during that time the employe should receive medical and surgical attention at the expense of the employer. If, however, from the fifteenth day on the employer is required to pay a certain percentage of the employe's wages, whether the injury is the result of negligence on the part of the employer or the employe's own fault, it seems to me that a fair consideration for the rights of both parties would require that when the compensation begins the employer's liability to meet the expenses of medical and hospital services and supplies should cease. Otherwise, malingering would be encouraged and other abuses might arise.

The act provides for the payment of 60% of the average weekly wages, both to total dependents in case of death and to the workman himself in case of disability. There is danger that the payment of so large a per cent might furnish an incentive for malingering. It is my understanding that 50% of the average weekly wages is the amount allowed in most other states and has been found to work very satisfactorily.

The bill further provides that the Governor shall appoint a commission from among persons recommended by the Supreme Court after publication of the names recommended in at least six newspapers in as many different cities in the state, he being required to heed any written protest that may be filed against any person so recommended. While the purpose here no doubt is to remove from political influence the selection of members of the Commission, I fear that we may by this provision simply transfer the possible political pressure from the Governor to the members of the Supreme Court, and that we will encourage manifestations of personal prejudices by suggesting the filing of written protests. I do not think that any Governor would be found wanting in the selection of proper appointees, and to provide for the Supreme Court acting as a preliminary appointive body, would introduce an innovation which might have dangerous and unfortunate tendencies. I am therefore of the opinion that the members of the Commission should be appointed by the Governor upon his own initiative as are the members of other commissions. The bill provides a term of ten years for members of the commission which, in my opinion, is entirely too long. I would suggest a limit of four or six years at most.

By Part III the bill creates a monopoly inasmuch as it requires any employer who wants to pay compensation benefits to his injured employes to become a member of an Employers' Indemnity Association. He is not allowed to come within the act and take his insurance with any other concern. The effect of this attempt to limit the form of insurance protection will, I am afraid, defeat the very purpose of the act by encouraging the employers to retain their personal freedom by remaining without the act and securing their liability insurance from other sources.

Then too, the Board of Directors, within ninety days after Part III of the act becomes effective, is required to send a written notice to every employer of labor in the state having five or more employes, and who has not served the statutory notice of his rejection of the provisions of the law. How is this Board to know who are members of the Association? It has been estimated that the number sought to be brought under the law would be at least fifteen thousand. Assuming that the required notice has been sent and that all have come within the law, where will the Board of Directors obtain a sufficient number of qualified and experienced insurance actuaries, underwriters, managers and clerks to immediately perform the highly technical labor of properly insuring and handling fifteen thousand risks, together with the necessary scientific work of grouping them in accordance with the nature of the business and of the degree of the risk of injury, intelligently inspecting each and every one of the fifteen thousand risks, in order that no injustice may be done any employer as respects his rate of premium, attend to the usual and inevitable correspondence, collect the premiums and pay on an equitable basis the benefits prescribed? I am afraid that the first days of its existence would render the condition of the Association so chaotic that its further continuance would be a practicable impossibility. It seems to me, therefore, that for the sake of the Association, as well as the employers of the state, we should adopt a course similar to that now being followed in Massachusetts, where those who have elected to come within the act, are required to carry insurance, either in the Massachusetts Employers Insurance Association, which is similar in its purpose to the Employers' Liability Association proposed by this bill, or in an authorized insurance company. In this way a practical test of the superiority of the two methods will be had, for if the Association can furnish better and cheaper protection than can the other organizations, all of the employers will eventually become members; if, on the other hand, the services of the Association are not as satisfactory as those furnished by other concerns, no employer ought to be compelled to join it.

The manner in which the concluding part of Section 50, Part III, is drawn will yield results not in accordance with usual insurance practices. It is a well recognized fact that the more distributed the risks, the less is the necessity for reinsurance. It would appear to be the intention of this section to require a larger amount of reinsurance as the membership increases. As just stated, this is contrary to the logic of insurance. The method to be followed in reinsurance is likewise vague, and it is difficult to see how it can be carried out by the Association. I am of the opinion that the matter of reinsurance could with perfect safety be left with the Board of Directors.

Section 51 states that the contingent liability of all the members shall be liable for the payment of any claim against the association or its members. I find no other reference in the bill to a contingent liability, and it seems to me that some definite limit should be prescribed for this. To leave the contingent liability unlimited would cause employers untold anxiety, would affect their credit, would be unjust, and would no doubt cause many to reject the terms of the statute.

Section 30 of Part III of the bill provides that in all cases where arbitration is resorted to a member of the Commission shall act as chairman of the arbitration committee. If the Association should assume the proportions contemplated by the act I fear that it would be wholly impossible for the members of the Commission to act in such capacity without neglecting other duties incumbent upon them. I would suggest that the Commission select the third member of the arbitration committee and that the findings of the committee be subject to review by the Commission.

Section 41 of Part II provides that members of the Commission may be removed by the Governor for becoming financially interested in any enterprise coming under or affected by this act. If that is the only cause for which members may be removed it is too limited. Members should be subject to removal for misconduct, malfeasance or nonfeasance in office, as well as for other justifiable reasons.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT.

The question of improving the highways of the state is one not only of general interest but of practical importance. Three years ago I called a good roads meeting to be held in Des Moines and to be composed of county officials, and representative men of the various counties and of the commercial organizations of the state. The meeting was well attended and much interest was manifest, but there were divergent views and a wide difference of opinion as to the methods to be pursued. However, an organization was formed and annual meetings thereof have been held with increasing interest. Great good has been accomplished and harmony of action has resulted. The recent session of this organization has with practical unanimity recommended and through its committee will present to you several important matters of which I ask your careful consideration, and among which are the following:

To submit to the people of the state at the next general election the question of a bond issue for road improvements.

The levy of a one mill tax for state aid in the improvement of highways.

The establishment of a county engineer in each county by the Board of Supervisors thereof, subject, however, to the approval of the State Highway Commission.

A classification of rural highways.

A compulsory drag law, non-divertible drag fund and simplifying and making effective our present laws on road dragging.

A recodification of the road laws of the state.

Heretofore I have emphasized the importance of properly dragging, grading and draining the roads and making use of materials at hand, because I did not believe that our people were ready for anything more; and also because those things constitute the first principles in the construction of any kind of roads. By the above means we have greatly improved the highways in almost all parts of the state, but I believe we have now arrived at a period when, without in any degree lessening our efforts along the lines of improvement above suggested, we ought to begin the construction of permanent roads of stone, gravel, etc. As evidence of the fact that there exists a great deal of sentiment with reference thereto I have had presented to me by Mr. F. J. Tishenbanner of Gilmore City, contracts signed by individuals and commercial organizations representing every city and town along the entire length of the road from Des Moines to Spirit Lake, a distance of more than two hundred miles, the signers of which agree to have hauled and deliver on the road free of charge, crushed stone sufficient to construct a stone road along the entire length of the route, if the stone is furnished to them at the various railway stations without cost. If this expression represents the feeling of the people of the state generally, and I have no reason to believe that it does not, something ought to be done to afford opportunity for using this volunteer labor. It has been suggested that bonds be issued to aid in the construction of permanent roads. There certainly could be no harm in submitting the question of a bond issue to the people to let them decide whether they want to issue bonds or not. It has also been suggested that a general tax levy of one mill be made. This would not be burdensome but would yield, on the basis of our present valuation, only about three-quarters of a million dollars. This is only about fifty per cent in excess of the amount that is now raised by the license on automobiles and inasmuch as a great deal of the value of the automobile license is practically lost because of the wide distribution that is made of it I would suggest that instead of a one mill levy you so amend the law as to place the expenditure of the automobile fund in the hands of a central authority.

If we are to undertake the construction of permanent roads it is necessary that we have a permanent and active State Highway Commission and this commission should have charge of the expenditure not only of the automobile license but of any other funds which the state may raise or provide for aid in road improvement. If the automobile license is to be thus used it would be immediately available, whereas the return from a tax levy would not be available until 1914.

In my discussion of the employment of prison labor I have suggested the use of convicts in road building and also in furnishing and preparing stone to be used in highway construction. If you will, therefore, provide for the use of the automobile license or provide some other funds for paying the freight on material with such volunteer labor as has been above suggested in delivering the stone on the roads and with convict labor for use in building them many miles of permanent road may be made at a very low cost. Means should also be provided for the purchase of asphalt or other material to be used as a binder, as it is generally conceded by those best informed in the matters of road construction, that loose stone or gravel will not resist the wear incident to automobile travel.

I trust that you will give the subject of better roads most thoughtful consideration and write into our laws some effective legislation with reference thereto.

PARDONS AND PAROLES.

In the application of the penal statutes of the state no more perplexing question arises than that with regard to the time and the circumstances under which pardoning or parole powers should be exercised. To the individual who has given but a passing thought to the subject, it may seem to be an easy matter to reach a conclusion as to when clemency ought or ought not to be extended, but no such easy conclusion can or should be reached by the public official whose duty it is to pass upon these matters and who must take into account not only the individual upon whose behalf clemency is asked, but all of the circumstances surrounding the commission of the crime, the previous record or conduct of the individual, his family history, the effect that a pardon or parole will have upon the community where the crime was committed and upon the public in general, the effect that it will have upon other convicts and indeed many other matters that often have a bearing upon the situation.

I think sometimes when criticism is directed at the pardoning power of the State or at the Board of Parole that many of the above suggestions are overlooked. I further believe that much of the opposition that exists as to the application of the so-called indeterminate sentence law is due to the fact that it is not understood and that critics have in reality not given careful consideration to the subject of paroles.

To abandon our present system and return to the old method of lodging pardoning and parole powers exclusively with the Governor, would be to return to a system under which it is absolutely impossible for the Governor to learn, in any but the most superficial and unsatisfactory manner, the real merits of most of the cases that he would be required to pass upon. Time alone would render a careful investigation wholly impossible. In addition to the great amount of time that I have given to these matters during the past year, the three members of the Board of Parole have spent an average of nearly two hundred days each and the entire time of the Secretary of the Board, the parole agent, the help of the office of the Board and most of the time of the pardon clerk of the Governor's office have been given to matters of pardon and parole.

Instead of contemplating a return to the old system I want to most urgently recommend that the entire time of the members of the Board be required and that it be equipped in a manner that will enable it to pursue its work in the most effective manner.

In my message of two years ago I said to the session of the 34th General Assembly, "I believe the time is coming when neither courts nor legislatures will concern themselves with the length of time of service of criminals, except as to those guilty of murder. Legislatures will determine the character of crimes for which criminals shall be committed to prison. Courts will determine the question of guilt and boards of parole and pardon will determine how long the convict shall be incarcerated. In other words, the Board of Parole will become a branch of the court. This I believe to be the ultimate and proper sphere of a Board of Parole, when the system reaches a degree of greater development and perfection." I want now without qualification to say to you, and in this I am strongly supported by the judgment of the Board of Parole, that in my opinion the time is now here when both the maximum and the minimum limitation as to term of sentence should be thrown off as to all crimes except as to murder, forcible rape and treason.

The minimum means little at most, for the Board can entirely disregard it, and in many instances where men have proven themselves to be habitual offenders and where the character of crime is of a serious nature the maximum is too short. The principle involved, alone, would lead me to the conclusions which I have reached. If a Board is to be entrusted with power to say that the maximum time fixed by law is too long for some prisoners to serve, it ought also to be empowered to say that it is too short a term for some other offenders. Then, too, some of the absurdities in our statutes are sufficient justification for suggesting a change. To illustrate: knowingly uttering a forged instrument, no matter of how little value, carries with it a maximum penalty of fifteen years, while embezzlement by a public official even though the amount embezzled be ten thousand times as great, carries a penalty of only ten years and the crime of manslaughter carries a penalty of only eight years. In other words, to pass a forged check, even of the value only of one dollar carries a maximum penalty of fifteen years, while to kill a man and be found guilty of manslaughter carries a penalty of only eight years. These are only suggestive of the many indefensible provisions that appear in our penal statutes.

Let Iowa be genuinely progressive and lead the way in the matter of unlimited sentences by writing into our laws a provision in harmony with what has been said and in my opinion it will not be a decade until such a law will appear in the statutes of a large majority of the states.

The Board of Parole has been much more liberal in the exercise of clemency during the last biennial period than formerly. It has paroled 337 from the penitentiary and the reformatory and has paroled three before commitment, making a total of 340 paroles granted from July 1, 1910, to July 1, 1912, as against 221 during the three years preceding July 1, 1910. The average during the former period was less than seventy-four per year, while during the last two years the average was 170 per year. In addition to the above, the Board recommended to me for pardon, parole or commutation of sentence, fifty-one cases, all of which have been acted upon in harmony with the recommendations. The increase in the number of paroles has operated to increase the number of violations of parole to the extent of something less than five per cent over what it was for the three year period heretofore referred to.

During the two years ending December 31, 1912, I granted six pardons, forty-seven paroles, twenty-six commutations, suspended fifty-five jail sentences, remitted forty-four fines and two forfeitures, restored 232 to citizenship, and revoked six suspensions. Most of the pardons, commutations and restorations were upon recommendation of the Board of Parole.

PRISONS AND PRISON LABOR.

During my incumbency in office, I have given a great deal of study to the subject of prisons, prison management and the employment of prison labor and yet I want to say to you that I approach the subject with hesitancy, fully realizing that I have by no means mastered it and also realizing that superficial information as to so difficult a matter is likely to lead to wrong conclusions.

In studying the subject under consideration, I have consulted the best prison authorities that I have been able to meet, not mere theorists, but practical men who are themselves engaged in the work that I am here considering; have advised and counseled with the Board of Control of our State and have visited many prisons, prison farms and road camps, and I feel warranted in saying that no matter what you may do, you will not be able to remove all of the objections that exist with regard to prison management and the employment of convict labor.

There are many fascinating and attractive changes that I might suggest to you, but I want if possible to outline a course of action that will not only be practical and desirable, but that is within the range of possible accomplishment.

First of all, let me say that I am not and never have been in favor of our present contract system, and yet no such abuse exists with regard to it as has been alleged. I want also to say, that the tasks required of the men employed upon the contracts are by no means as exacting and arduous as those required in some of the states where prisoners work upon state account.

I am in favor of prison farms and yet if we had a farm, no matter of what size, we would still be confronted with difficulties, and would still find unsatisfactory conditions that would have to be met. I am in favor of working prisoners upon the highways, and yet the road camp is not without its objectionable features. What then shall we do to meet the popular demand, as well as the real needs of our prisons?

Most important of all, you should make Anamosa a real reformatory. You should do that because you know it to be right and should not hesitate and falter because you fear that by the installation of the necessary industries you will be confronted with opposition. It is assumed that the labor people are opposed to these suggested changes, but the labor people of the state as a class, are not opposed to the establishment of such industries and trade schools at the reformatory as are necessary to teach and instruct convicts so that they may be able to find employment upon their release from prison. In establishing industries and schools they should not be of such magnitude as to become real competitors with free labor, but you owe it to the young men confined in our penal institutions to furnish them an opportunity to make good when they are released. The fact that we have not now a well equipped reformatory at Anamosa, is because former sessions of your honorable body have lacked courage to provide the necessary equipment.

In connection with this institution, as a part thereof and as a necessary adjunct to a reformatory, I should enlarge the present farm to one of at least one thousand acres. This, according to the best estimate that I have been able to obtain from those in charge of prison farms and from our own wardens, would profitably employ about fifty men in addition to those employed about the buildings in caring for the stock, cooking and taking care of the quarters for the men.

I should likewise equip a gang of twenty-five to fifty men from this institution for work on the highways and would thus employ them during the season of the year when it is proper to do road work.

By these means from one hundred to one hundred and twenty-five men could be employed in the fields and in the road camp for perhaps eight months in the year and be returned to the walls during the winter season to learn the trades and attend school. In my opinion that is the largest number that should be employed in work other than in the trades and industries, if we are to carry out the reformatory ideas already written into our laws with regard to Anamosa.

Ft. Madison should be maintained as a penitentiary where the older and more hardened criminals should be sent not only for reformation, but to atone for the crimes which they have committed. This institution is not well located, but with a new cell house well on the way to completion, and other improvements contemplated, in my opinion it would not be wise to abandon it at this time.

One of the first things with which you will be confronted as to this institution is what to do with the contracts now in force. Before telling you what in my opinion should be done, let me say to you that the very worst thing that could be done would be to abolish these contracts without making necessary provisions for employing the men at other work. As to the contracts themselves, they should either be permitted to continue to the date of their expiration, and then not be renewed, or if sooner abolished, the state should acquire the plant and continue the work at least of the farm tool industry on state account. The prisoners who cannot be trusted without the walls must have employment, and I do not now know of anything better than the industries already established.

I would also enlarge the farm at this prison until it shall comprise from twelve to fifteen hundred acres, thus making it possible to employ about one hundred men, including those necessary to take care of buildings, do the cooking and attend to the chores about the farm. Whatever number of convicts would then be left who could be trusted to work without the walls, I would organize into gangs of from twenty-five to forty for work upon the highways and to furnish them and men engaged upon the farm employment during the season of the year when road work cannot be done and when men cannot work in the fields, I would recommend the establishment of plants for the manufacture of farm machinery and possibly also binding twine. The warden informs me that he could very profitably employ a gang of men for about one month each winter cutting and putting up ice for commercial purposes, and this I would recommend he be permitted to do.

By enlarging the farms in connection with each of the prisons, we could, in my opinion, obtain every benefit that would be derived from a separate state farm, we would avoid the necessity for the establishment and maintenance of a separate institution with another warden and added officials, we could feed and equip the men from the present state store houses, we would have them, except those in road camps, in close proximity to the present institutions to which they could be easily and quickly returned for insubordination or infraction of the prison rules, and to which they could be assembled for chapel, Sunday school and day school work, which are usually neglected on separate state farms. It must be expected that in adopting a system that makes trusties out of a large number of convicts and gives them more freedom and employment without the walls, there will be a much larger number of escapes. This has been the experience of other states—it will be with us.

In order to encourage discipline and to reduce the tendency to run away, I would recommend that additional good time be allowed the men who work on the roads and on the farms and to the men who work within the walls upon state account, I would allow pay for overtime.

I should also authorize the Board of Control and the wardens to work out some plan by which a part of the earnings of the men could be used to support those dependent upon them.

As to the men employed in road work, they might be furnished to the counties at a stipulated amount per man to do such work as the Board of Supervisors might direct or could be employed by the state in building state highways, but in either event the counties in which the work is done should be required to pay a reasonable price therefor and the prisoners should always be in control of prison officials and superintendents in the employ of the State.

COUNTY CONVICTS.

I would abandon the county jail as a place of confinement for convicts, except as to those whose term of sentence is too short to warrant transporting them to a state jail or work house. For the purpose of punishing and reforming all other convicts, except those committed to the penitentiary or the reformatory, I would establish at least two and better three or four state work houses. In locating these institutions I would keep in mind their accessibility from various parts of the state, but would locate them where there is an abundance of stone suited to the construction of stone roads; would establish stone crushing plants and employ the convicts in quarrying and crushing rock for the construction of highways. Some of the men together with the men from the penitentiary and the reformatory above referred to, although I would not work the county and state convicts together, could be employed eight or nine months each year in building permanent roads. Thus we would establish a system of highway construction that would soon result in many miles of permanent roads in our state. I would not permit any of the stone crushed at any of the state's plants to be sold for commercial purposes or used for anything except improving the highways, unless it be for erecting state buildings, but would furnish stone free of cost to counties that would pay the freight and use the stone for road building.

I would authorize the railroad commission to permit the railway companies to fix special rates, within the state, for transporting the men engaged in road work and for hauling stone to be used for said purposes, so as to encourage as far as possible the betterment of our highways. I would equip these state work houses with land enough, but not more than would be necessary to raise vegetables, provisions, etc., to feed the prisoners.

The reasons for recommending the establishment of these work houses, it seems to me need only be suggested in order to be appreciated. Idleness breeds crime. The average county cannot furnish employment for its convicts. Many of our jails are wholly unfit to confine people in and some people are wholly unfit to be confined with others, but cannot be segregated in the ordinary county jail. Then too, the moral effect of taking the criminal to a state institution where he is compelled to work out a fine, rather than to idle his time away in a local jail, would do much to prevent repeating of offenses. Nothing would have so potent an influence for good upon the common drunk or the vagrant as to send him to a state institution, give him a good bath and require him to "earn his bread by the sweat of his face" for a few weeks or even months. I would convert the muscle that is now going to waste in idleness and laziness about the ninety-nine jails of the state, into good roads over which law abiding citizens of the state may travel, thereby making the convict earn his own living rather than to tax the law abiding citizen to support the criminal while he passes his time in idleness. Then, too, many crimes are committed for which a jail sentence does not seem to afford sufficient punishment and yet which scarcely seemed to merit a commitment to the reformatory or the penitentiary. Persons guilty of such offenses, should be sent to a state work house, where in all probability they would be more readily reformed than in one of the prisons.

WOMEN CONVICTS.

In my opinion the women's prison should be removed from Anamosa, or at least it should be separated from the men's institution and be removed to such a distance as to render communication between the men and the women impossible, which is not true at present. Then too, it should be made a reformatory to which women would be sent who now escape punishment because judges and jurors do not want to commit them to the present institution. As I understand it, we now have a law providing for a woman's reformatory, but no appropriation has been made to enable the board to establish it.

HOW RAISE THE MONEY.

I have herein outlined a system of reform for our penal institutions that would require time and the expenditure of a large amount of money to bring about. The question now arises, where are we to get the funds necessary to make these changes? I would answer that for the building of the state work houses and the establishment and installation of new industries at Anamosa and Ft. Madison, I would make direct appropriations and would provide for the erection of two of these work houses at once. For the purchase of lands, I would provide a millage tax to cover a period of years such as we now have for our educational institutions. I would abolish the 1-10 of a mill levy now provided for the Iowa State Teachers' College at Cedar Falls, which I think is no longer needed for that institution, would transfer it to the purpose above suggested and would add to it at least 1-10th of a mill. I should permit the Board of Control to at once purchase lands in anticipation of this income and pay for them as the money from the millage tax is received.

WARDEN'S SALARY.

Before leaving this subject, I want to suggest better pay for the wardens. The amount of pay which they receive is less than is paid in most states, is wholly inadequate for the responsibilities and duties to be performed, and when a vacancy occurs in the office it is very difficult to get good men to consider accepting the position. I want, also, to again say that the wardens' tables should be furnished just as the tables of the superintendents of other institutions are furnished. It is wholly unjust to require the wardens to furnish their own tables and to meet the expenses incident thereto by reason of public demands, which is true, at least in part, at the present time.

RESOLUTION REGARDING ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATORS.

The second session of the Sixty-second Congress passed a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people. As you are aware, it is necessary for the amendment to be ratified by three-fourths of all of the states before it becomes effective. You will here find the proposed amendment set out in full and the document itself will be transmitted to you at a later date:

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two-thirds of each House concurring therein.)

That in lieu of the first paragraph of Section three of Article I of the Constitution of the United States, and in lieu of so much of paragraph two of the same section as relates to the filling of vacancies, the following be proposed as an amendment to the Constitution, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the Constitution when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states:

'The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the Senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.'

CHAMP CLARK,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

J. S. SHEERMAN,
Vice President of the United States and President of the Senate.

I hereby certify that this joint resolution originated in the House of Representatives.

SOUTH TRIMBLE,
Clerk."

I might here say that some states have questioned the regularity of the passage of the resolution by Congress, alleging that it should have received a vote equal to two-thirds of the full membership of each house, and that it did not receive such a vote, and also alleging that if adopted in its present form, it would interfere with the rights of the states in the regulation of suffrage, registration and elections. I do not desire to comment upon either of these points, but simply call them to your attention to show some of the reasons assigned for opposition to the measure.

I have never opposed the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, nor have I been convinced that such method of election would remove all the abuses that have been found to exist or would prove as popular as many seem to think. If, however, the plan is to be tried let it be done in the proper manner, that is, by amending the Constitution of the United States.

ONE TERM IN OFFICE.

There is before the Congress of the United States a measure the purpose of which is to extend the term of the President of the United States to six years and render him ineligible to succeed himself. I am in favor of the adoption of such a measure, and in this connection I wish also to say that in my judgment it would be wise to amend our state constitution so as to provide for a four year term for the Governor and render him ineligible to succeed himself at least without the intervention of one or more terms.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS AND THE SHORT BALLOT.

Again I want to suggest a modification of our primary election law, not with any view to abandoning the primary principle, but for the purpose of simplifying the statute and making it more effective as well as more satisfactory.

I cannot understand the process of reasoning by which men justify themselves in advocating the primary election upon the theory that the people should have the right to name each and every candidate for a public office and at the same time favor the enactment of what is known as the "short ballot" statute. The short ballot contemplates the election of only a few of the more important officers and have them appoint all minor officers and commissions. Let me quote from some of President-elect Wilson's arguments as presented by him in a paper read only a short while ago, as follows:

"We have given the people something so vast and so complicated to do in asking them to select all the officers of government that they cannot do it."

"There must be a preliminary process of selection, of nomination, of preparing the tickets as a whole, unless there is to be hopeless confusion, names put up at haphazard and nobody elected by a clear majority at the end."

"He (the voter) cannot possibly make himself acquainted with the individual claims of the men whose names appear on the long ballots."

"A few conspicuous names upon it, candidates for the greater offices, he may have heard about, a candidate for Congress or the Governorship of his state, but the rest are mere names to him."

"We actually as a matter of fact and of experience, put them (the people) in control only when we make only the chief, the really responsible offices elective, allow those whom we elect to appoint all minor officials, all executive agents."

This is as different from the primary election idea as it was presented to and adopted by us a short time ago as two theories can differ, and yet many of the advocates of the one claim also to favor the other. It clearly shows the instability of the average individual and the growing tendency to take up with anything that suggests a change.

What we should have done at first and what we ought now to do is to make the primary applicable to United States Senators, Governor and possibly Lieutenant Governor and name candidates for the remaining state offices in a convention composed of delegates selected at a primary. There is no need of the short ballot at election time if we will relieve the people of the responsibility of making nominations in the primaries where it is wholly impossible for them to acquaint themselves with the various candidates. The remedy ought to be made as to the primary and not as to the general election. There never has been a primary held in this state but what the freakishness of the system, as now applied, has been apparent, and as practical men you ought to so amend the law as to make it possible for the people to do and do intelligently what is required of them. Preserve the primary principle but make the statute reasonable and workable so that it can be successfully and intelligently applied.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

For many years the subject of extending to the women of the state the right of suffrage has been prominent in the halls of our legislature. Nine or ten states have already adopted laws granting the privilege of voting to women as well as to men. It is one of the reform movements which in my opinion will eventually be adopted by most of the states. I doubt not that sooner or later it will be submitted to the people of our own state in the form of an amendment to the constitution, and I can see no good reason why steps looking to that end should not be taken by you. If it were possible to get anything like a universal expression from the women as to their desires with reference to it, I should say let them express themselves, but since this seems impracticable, I recommend that you take such action as is necessary to bring the matter before the voters of the state for determination.

PREFERENTIAL PRIMARY.

Much has been said about a primary for the selection of delegates to the national conventions of the various political parties and to afford the voters an opportunity to express their preference as to presidential candidates. Such a provision would be in entire harmony with the primary idea of making nominations for office but, in the enactment of a law, it should be kept in mind that national conventions being voluntary associations cannot be controlled by state legislation, and in order to make such a law effective it must be made to conform to the rules of said conventions. So far as I am aware the rules of the conventions of most parties now recognize the congressional district, and not the state as the unit, so that any law to be enacted, if it is to comply with present conditions, should be so drawn as to permit the congressional district to select and instruct its own delegates rather than to attempt to instruct delegates by a vote of the state at large, except as to the delegates at large.

If, however, representation in national conventions is to be based upon the number of votes cast by the party in the various states it is difficult to understand how the congressional district can be continued as the unit unless each district is to be given one delegate and an added number if the vote in the district is sufficient to entitle it to more. This method has been adopted in many instances with reference to county and state conventions.

That the basis of representation should be changed, I think will be generally conceded and I want to assure you that I am in favor of such a change.

In view of the uncertainties as to what condition will confront us at the time of selecting delegates to the next national conventions I would suggest that you adopt some method of selecting delegates that will, if possible, meet any conditions that are likely to exist. This I believe can be done by providing that a primary be held throughout all of the counties of the state, by all parties, upon the same day and between the same hours.

Permit the voters of each party to express their preference for presidential candidates and to elect delegates from the entire state or from the state and the congressional districts by direct primary vote or to elect delegates to state and district conventions for the election of delegates to national conventions. Leave the method to be adopted optional with the party, to be determined by the rules of its national convention. If the party recognizes the state as the unit the preferential vote throughout the state should be regarded as a vote of instructions to the entire delegation, but if the congressional district is taken as the unit the vote of the district should be regarded as instructing the district delegates and the vote throughout the entire state as a vote for instructions to the delegates at large.

In my opinion either of the above methods preserves and recognizes the principle of the primary and affords an easy method by which the people can express a preference for candidates. I know of no rule of any party convention but what would be met by some one of the methods above suggested.

IN CONCLUSION.

Now that the time has come when I shall very shortly retire from office I want to thank you and through you the people of the State for the recognition that has been given me in electing me to two of the very important offices of the State and permitting me to serve therein for a period of ten consecutive years. I have endeavored at all times to render the best service that I could. Many things that I have desired to see accomplished have not been accomplished but most of them are outlined in the message which I have just read to you and I hope that they may be enacted into law during this session. In retiring from the position of Chief Executive of the State I leave with you my very best wishes, not only for a successful session of your honorable body, but for a successful administration for my successor in office.

The President announced that the time had arrived for the canvass of the votes cast for the offices of Governor and Lieutenant Governor at the election held November 5, A. D. 1912, and announced as teller on the part of the Senate, Senator Francis of Dickinson, and as assistant tellers, Senators Jones of Montgomery and Crow of Monona.

Speaker Cunningham announced as teller on the part of the House, Representative Huff of Hardin, and as assistant tellers Representatives Craig of Madison and Scholz of Clayton.

The President further announced that in accordance with the statute, Tellers Senator Francis and Representative Huff would constitute the judges of said canvass.

The Speaker then opened the returns in the presence of the joint convention and the tellers proceeded to canvass the vote for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, of the State of Iowa, at the election held Tuesday, November 5, 1912.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

House met pursuant to adjournment, Speaker Cunningham in the chair.

Whitney of Woodbury, acting on behalf of the old members of the House, presented to retiring Chief Clerk C. R. Benedict, a gold watch in recognition of his splendid service to the members of the General Assembly, making the following remarks:

MR. SPEAKER—One of the dear things, one of the compensating things, one of the things that make it worth while to be here on the floor of this House, is the dear and delightful association we make. Somehow, in some manner, in some way, one man's life grows into and becomes a part of our own life. Somehow, in some way, in some manner, we unconsciously take a man's moral and mental size and learn to love him and to trust him. The blossoms of the valley know not what becomes of their odor, nor do we know what becomes of the sweet incense coming up from a strong character, always helpful, always manly, always clean, but we do know it abideth forever. The new members will make these associations. The old members hope to make new ones but they cannot forget the old. Rush Benedict has been a dear, kind, helpful friend to all of us. Nothing can be more unanimous than the feeling of genuine, manly love and respect which the old members feel for their retiring chief clerk. This little function has been prepared alone for the old members. It is not selfishness, but the old association with this man is just a little too sacred to divide with any one else. The old members, now, are going to send their hearts down to the desk and when our hearts get there we want Rush to carry them away, all of them, anywhere and to any place upon the broad mother earth to which time and fate may carry him. And wherever he may go, in whatever channels his life work may flow, we wish him well and that all good things may come to him and to his.

Koontz of Johnson made the following remark:

MR. SPEAKER—It is with a degree of pleasure, with a tinge of sadness, that I arise to endorse the sentiments of the gentleman from Woodbury. It has been my privilege and pleasure for many years to have been associated with our retiring Chief Clerk Benedict. On every and all occasions he has been the friend of the afflicted; the afflicted are the new members of the House of Representatives. I came here many years ago, a boy in legislative matters, from Johnson county. I got acquainted with Mr. Benedict and much of my success I have gained largely through his influence and instruction. No matter where he goes, no matter what he does, no member will ever forget him. I do not know that I can say any more on this occasion, but "Got bless him."

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR GEORGE W. CLARKE.

Members of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly and Fellow-Citizens:

I acknowledge my very great indebtedness to the people of Iowa. The obligation at this moment profoundly impresses me. It is not with any sense of triumph that I enter upon the duties of the office into which I am this day inducted, but with a deep sense of its duties, the wide possibilities of its influence and my inability to approach the ideal of fitness and performance. If I can but be the servant of all, if I can with the help of others contribute something to the common good, if I can assist in making Iowa more distinguished still among the States for the desirableness and wisdom of her laws and the cleanness of her political life, that will be something. Responsibilities sober a man. A consciousness of confidence reposed in one quickens his sense of fidelity. No betrayal can come without disappointing, even wounding the finest sensibilities of life. No man can give the highest measure of service until he has lost himself. "He that loseth his life shall find it." I think this is just as true in politics as in religion. The rugged, rocky, thorny ways of life, if traveled for human betterment, are the paths upon which falls the sunshine of everlasting peace.

I am not unmindful of the circumstances of my election. It is unseemly to boast, but if it were not I should have nothing of which to boast. I want to extend to the gentlemen who contested the election with me my congratulations upon the fact that they were such men, as could command the greater preference of so many, many thousands of our fellow-citizens. Notwithstanding this fact, I now venture to invoke the good will and support of all of the people of the State. Perfection of discernment and infallibility of judgment are not the endowments of any man, and, therefore, in dealing with conflicting interests and opinions I shall inevitably make mistakes. I expect to be held to a high order of accountability and that I do not shun, only let judgments be just and proceed from unselfish view-points. I shall regard myself as the servant of all of the people, without regard to factionalism or political or religious convictions. The Governor's office will be open to every one—the rich man and the poor man, the white man and the black man, the man from the mahogany desk and the man from the depths of the coal mine, the woman in rich apparel and the poor widow thinly and cheaply clad. There shall be no distinction in Iowa citizenship, except that which lies between a decent life, honest purposes, courageous effort and a disregard of all that goes to make a meritorious life. In other words, neither money nor position can confer distinction apart from character.

The thought which seems to underlie practically all present-day political discussion is the thought of the good of all. It is the thought, as it seems to me, that government is not alone for governing, but for the betterment of the conditions of the governed. It was Locke, the English philosopher, who said "government is for the good of mankind," and Herbert Spencer said that is the best definition of government I know of. It is the same thought which in this day exalts human rights above property rights, or, as it is expressed in another way, puts the man above the dollar. It is a part of the age-long fight to bring men to an equality of rights and equality of opportunity—to the point where what a man is to do or be will be determined by his own initiative, his own energy, his faith in himself and his desire to do and be unhampered by what other men are doing or by the way they do it. In still other words, to the point where men shall not take hold of life or the business affairs of the world in such way as to despoil another of his opportunity or take more from him as a reward for their superior foresight and organizing skill than is just and fair. Of course, there is always to be considered the difference in ability. "One star differeth from another star in glory," and ability, energy, masterfulness, genius must have their reward or the world will lose irretrievably. Nobody thinks of supplying brains or a remedy for natural worthlessness or viciousness. But very many think that superiority must not exploit inferiority—that advantage of position must not be used to despoil the man on the outside. As, for instance, there must be no issuance of watered stocks, men must pay fairly and justly on actual investment, that so far as may be human life must have healthful, safe places in which to work at a fair wage and reasonable hours, that in the interest of the future manhood and womanhood of the State child life must be protected. Or that where property rights, the dollar, and human rights or justice conflict, right and justice must take precedence. That is, government, as it has been defined, must stand for the good of mankind. Not for the good of a few, not for some special interest, not for granting a particular privilege, but denying these, stand for the common good and betterment.

It would be interesting, if time permitted, to enter upon a study of the events that have brought so prominently and forcibly to the front the political, or rather, the public economic thought referred to. Perhaps I may suggest, briefly, that it seems to me to be the supplanting of Individualism by Collectivism. I say nothing here as to the desirability of such result. Individualism in its extremist phase certainly existed in the United States up to a few decades ago. Politically, the American was nothing if not an Individualist. All of his political training, his surroundings, his life, contributed to that result. He went forth to conquer a continent of unbounded resources, the depository of untold wealth. Its riches—the soil, the forests, the mines—he took them and wasted them as civilization swept across the continent. They enabled him to be sufficient unto himself. He could stand alone. Politics went in much the same way. Political standards often were not lifted very high. While the individual was moving ever further west taking what he could, the railroads were spanning the continent and reaching every part of the country. Great corporations were organizing everywhere and were laying their hands upon the resources and business of the country. Competition, unrestrained and ruinous, was crippling the railroads and depriving the country through which they ran of much of their advantage. Industrial corporations were likewise fighting the competitive battle to the detriment, as I think, both of themselves and the consumer. Then began the combinations, for no other purpose than to eliminate competition, constantly becoming greater and greater and the trust in all its tremendous strength, both in the industrial world and in government, arrived—for business had projected itself into government and laid hold of it with an ever-tightening grasp—for it was property and not human rights that had first place in the public mind at that time. New, improved and wonderful machinery was everywhere making its advent into industrialism. Humanity was astounded at the progress in this respect, within seventy-five years surpassing all the combined centuries of human history before. It was the era of rebates and discriminations between places, business and individuals on the part of the railroads. The public domain was gone, the forests had largely disappeared, the soil had been depleted as “westward the star of empire took its way.” Organization was everywhere—organization to meet organization. Where could individualism find a footing as against all this? Of what consequence was the individual workman with the great trust with its thousands of employes and whose owners and managers he did not know, never saw and never could see. The individual employee of the great railway system was as nothing. The individual farmer was absolutely helpless. Finally the whole country stood abashed. We call it an awakening—a restlessness, a dissatisfaction pervading all civilized lands; for in the great countries of Europe machinery was pushing out the hand workers by thousands and combining and trust-making was going on there as here and for the same reasons. It was the departure of Individualism. The doctrine of laissez faire lost its place in political economy. Political economists who adhered to that doctrine are no longer regarded as authority. If that doctrine is to be adhered to, then the individual is to be submerged or become the victim of Collectivism. But the truth is that the general government and the State as well must add their strength to the weakness of the individual or classes of individuals, especially if unorganized, so that they may become equal to the combination with which they must deal. Otherwise, it seems to me, we lose that of which we have boasted so long, "Equality before the law." This lack of power of the individual or the local community to deal on equal terms with the combined power, and this being deemed a fundamental right, has led to the aphorisms' "Human rights above property rights." "The man above the dollar," "Social and industrial justice."

While I believe present conditions have had their genesis and growth in the way stated, I also believe any thoughtful man will say that, on the whole, conditions of human existence in this country are better than were ever seen in any country at any other time in human history. No man would change this for any other day he has ever seen or read of. We need but realize that we have come upon a new period in the unfolding of the years. Human life is under, or is rapidly passing under, new conditions. It may be said "The former things are passed away, behold I make all things new." There are men yet living who have seen all things made new. We are in a transition period. In the long flight of the years the new day has come upon us suddenly while we were eating and drinking and making merry. We are struggling to adjust ourselves to the new conditions. The overwhelming power of the "big" men, "big" in their relations to the wealth and business of the country, has called our attention to the common, the average man, to the common good. The let-alone political philosophy has become obsolete. There must be regulation and control in the interest of the public welfare. We are beginning to feel that the interest of each man is the interest of every other man. That the destiny of our country is inseparably bound up with the relations of our citizenship to each other. All must go up together or we shall all go down together. A broader, deeper and more humanitarian spirit is taking hold of the world. We are beginning to feel that we are our brother's keeper. "Every fellow for himself and the devil take the hindmost" is a spurned sentiment of a day that has gone. The sentiment of the brotherhood of mankind is beginning to pervade the world, hastened, providentially perhaps, by the events I have referred to. We have reached the point, I think, brought about by present day conditions when we realize that there never can be a contented people where there is inequality of rights or opportunity or where the work or occupation of a man or set of men is beset with hazards that they must bear alone that a common good may be enjoyed. A brief study of events and conditions enables us to understand the philosophy of current political or, rather, economic thought. The necessity for strong collective action becomes apparent. I use the word Collectivism in an entirely different sense from Socialism. The proud independence of the individual is gone. His old relation to Industrialism is gone because he faces a new Industrialism, and his relation must be a new one. The law fitting old conditions is inadequate to the new. All these things naturally suggest, for instance, which I sincerely hope will be passed at this session. The commission authorized by the last general assembly, after a thorough investigation and study of the subject, has reported a bill for consideration at this session. So far as I have been able to discover wherever the subject has had thorough and dispassionate study the same conclusion has been reached by both employer and employee, and that is that the industrial world today presents such entirely different conditions from that of, say, seventy-five years ago, that the principles of law then and since for the most part applied in Iowa with reference to industrial accidents are entirely inadequate, inapplicable, unjust and wasteful to both parties. In order that we may enjoy the conveniences, comforts, even luxuries, brought to human conditions by the wonderfully rapid development of modern Industrialism there is the annual inevitable sacrifice of human life and the great army of the maimed. And this sacrifice falls upon those least able to bear it from a pecuniary standpoint. The lives of these people are along dangerous, hazardous lines and they are taking the risks for us all, bearing the burdens that a common good may be enjoyed by those who assume no risks. Justice dictates, the commonest feelings of humanity demand and the sentiment of our universal brotherhood cries out, "Bear ye one another's burdens." And so they ought to be laid upon us all as a part of the cost of production. The maimed man and his family now bears it. Often he is poor. He cannot fight his damage suit on its long, long way through the courts. All he can do is to stake a large share of a possible recovery for a lawyer and start on the journey. Whatever the result, it is a great waste both to the plaintiff and defendant, this game of chance, and to the people in the maintenance of courts. And it is all with reference to a matter about which there ought to be no litigation at all. It is simply a business matter that ought to be promptly and as fairly adjusted as the nature of the matter would permit. And that is the result proposed by a workman's compensation act. It must be said that many great manufacturing industries and some public service corporations, recognizing these facts, have evolved plans for avoiding them which often seem just alike to employer and employee. While it is true, I think, that it is almost, if not quite, the settled conviction of the business world and of political economists that there should be an adjustment of industrial accident cases through such an act as proposed, yet it is on all hands admitted to be a problem most difficult indeed of solution—difficult to reach a result just and fair to all concerned. It should not be approached in any spirit of vindictiveness. Prejudice should be dismissed. There should be no striving after advantage on either side. The only question is, what is fair, just and right with reference to this great problem. Our manufacturing industries are growing wonderfully and it must be remembered that they must compete with conditions in other States. If we could have conditions that would invite manufacturing capital it would be of great advantage. But material development must not be at the expense of human rights and justice. Iowa, in line with the most enlightened thought, should make the best solution possible at this time of this question.

A WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT,

The great growth of Collectivism naturally suggests also a

PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL.

The doctrine of laissez faire can have application only in the long run at the expense of the public welfare. The state has the power to control all public service corporations, but, it seems to me, that its intervention should only be to supervise and regulate in the interest of the common good. The local municipality should govern and control so far as it can. But there come times when it is not equal to the situation. It is weaker than the corporation. The smaller cities especially often cannot cope with the syndicate. It has not and cannot obtain the experts and legal ability and has no organized power. The State should add her strength to the weakness of the weak and bring about equality. No conditions should ever be allowed to exist that place an individual or group of men at a disadvantage in dealing with a combination of men and money and especially with corporate organization authorized by the State to render a public service. I believe it is the duty of the State to do that which it is impracticable for the local authorities to do and to bring to their aid efficient help in the matter of valuation of plants, reviewing of rates, examination of books, cost of maintenance and such like to the end that the public have good service at fair rates in the matter of public necessities, water, light, heat and transportation. The State ought to exist for the good of its citizenship. I think this legislature can render a great public service by passing a well-considered public utilities bill, and that it ought to do it.

THE GOOD ROADS PROBLEM.

For thirty years the discussion of the good roads problem has been going on in the State. Many of the Governors of the State within that time have called attention to the question and some of them have urged constructive legislation. Some progress has been made both in the way of better laws and in the improvement of the highways, but the most that has been accomplished is an aroused public sentiment in favor of better roads—perhaps in favor of permanent roads. Iowa will have permanent roads whenever she wants them. She will have better rural schools whenever she wants them. She will not have either before. Legislation awaits public sentiment—generally aroused, organized public demand. The next great era in the development of western civilization is going to be called by the historian The Era of Permanent Road Building. We are now at the very threshold of that era. We are face to face with the problem. No State can longer allow herself to be handicapped by mud. The economic waste is enormous. Not in the future can there be such a thing as a really great up-to-date State without good permanent roads. The great cheapening of the cost of transportation to the markets of the country waits on permanent roads. The instant great increase in the value of lands awaits the coming of the permanent road. There can be no complete solution of the country life, problem in advance of the permanent road. The consolidated rural school will go halting and crippled until the permanent road passes the door. This is an ideal that will be realized in the future. How far distant it is depends upon the people of the State. This General Assembly ought, it seems to me, to take hold of the problem with the end in view to ultimately realize this ideal. Nothing could contribute more to the greatness of the State and the welfare of all of the people. All that is done hereafter in the improvement of our roads ought to be with the view of permanency. Permanent culverts and bridges. Permanent systems of drainage. Permanent establishment of grades—all with the view of eventually receiving the permanent road. With this purpose in view the law should provide for the appointment of a county engineer. He should be thoroughly competent and not necessarily a resident of the county where appointed. There should also be created a permanent highway commission, composed of expert road men and engineers with such powers and duties in the way of the preparation of plans and specifications, estimates of costs, advertising for bids and general supervision and control as may, after careful consideration, be deemed wise. I can see no reason why provision should not be made for a referendum to the people of the question as to whether bonds of the state should be issued for the purpose of raising money for permanent road building. It would not incur a great expense to determine whether or not the people are ready to enter upon this work which would add more than anything else to the greatness of the State, and it would at least be of great value in causing universal discussion of the subject which must always precede any movement involving the change of long established methods and of thought. In the meantime our road laws, which now exist in a disconnected and patchwork form, should be revised, re-written and strengthened for the purpose of securing the best possible temporary roads and for devising methods of administration looking to the coming of the permanent road. Selfish interests clinging to old methods and advantages, may be found in covert opposition. Permit me to suggest that you look carefully to this, as I know you will, to the end that private interests may not prevail as against the common good.

COUNTY MANAGEMENT.

One cannot discuss the road question without the whole question of county management being suggested. It, however, is not intended to do more than make a suggestion. I have not had opportunity to work out any definite plan, although I feel there is much room for improvement. The administration of the affairs of the county ought to be organized with just as much skill and with just as much purpose to secure the highest efficiency as a great business corporation organizes its business. The county and the State as well are entitled to have their business conducted along the lines of up-to-date methods and such as have been demonstrated in the business world as absolutely essential to success. Perhaps it is not an exaggeration to say that thousand of dollars might annually be saved to every county in the State and much more efficiency in its affairs secured if the money and property were that of a corporation managed by its skilled and expert agents. No man having regard to his success in the management of a large enterprise would be content to give it widely separated scraps of his time, nor would he engage at the same time in other business taxing his energies and abilities to the utmost. An individual or a corporation having so much invested and such varied interests would manage them through a skilled expert giving his entire time. It is not always the fault of the Boards of Supervisors that better results are not obtained, because they have their private business and are paid to give only meager attention to the public business. Any other business conducted in the same way would be an utter failure. It seems to me that it would be well to consider the question of creating the office of business manager of the affairs of the county. After the analogy of the corporation the stockholders—the people—should elect the board of directors—the supervisors—and they should appoint a county business manager who for an adequate salary should devote his whole time to the affairs of the county under the general supervision of the directorate who should be held to the highest responsibility for his competency as a business man and an expert in connection with all matters of county business. He might be clothed with some of the powers now conferred upon the board and the township trustees. He should be the supervisor of and the purchasing agent of all supplies for the county. He should understand the use of concrete and the building of bridges. He should act in an advisory capacity in all drainage district matters so far as the county may be concerned and he might at the same time be the county engineer referred to in the good roads discussion. He should be consulted in all matters of contract requiring expert knowledge. Wherever the interests of the county go his duties should take him. Such a man would save to the county many thousands of dollars annually. No man now studies the county business to master it. No man could master it in less than all of his time. The county business manager or whatever name you might give him, would have the opportunity and every incentive to attain the mastery. Until some such methods are introduced it can hardly be otherwise than that the business of the counties will be done in an uneconomic and unsatisfactory way. The methods of fifty years ago will no longer do.

TRAFFICKING IN OFFICES.

Within the last twelve years the State has made commendable progress in eliminating money and other corrupting influences from our elections. We are insisting all the time that our democracy should become more and more democratic. There is much talk about the opportunity and right of every voter to express his choice among candidates for nomination and election. This choice ought to be the free, unbiased, unpurchased, honest choice of the elector or democracy is making no progress. There are more ways of purchasing votes than with money and some of these are more corrupting. Nothing can be more degrading to public life, nothing can be more demoralizing to the public conscience, nothing can be more destructive of public virtue than the conception that public offices or positions are something to be traded and trafficed in—used as a political asset to enable one to gain political preferment. The people have the right to demand that a candidacy proceed upon merit whether it be much or little. They have the right to insist that they be not tricked out of a high order of competent, disinterested public service by deals or that if they must accept a low order of incompetent service that they themselves be responsible for it after a fair fight in an open field. It is far more reprehensible to secure influence and preferment by promise of place than by the promise of money. When one uses money he uses that which belongs to him, but when he is trafficking in offices he is bartering with that which does not belong to him but to the people as their agencies in government and depriving them of their right, untrammelled, to select their own agents or to have them appointed for merit and not in redemption of promises to farm out the public service to whomsoever would enter into a deal or conspiracy for place. It is a part of the political creed of the country to insist upon publicity as the panacea for our troubles with “big business” and yet we go into a political contest sometimes with a number of “gentlemen’s agreements” hidden away somewhere in the dark. There are compelling reasons for publicity in both cases, but no more in the one than the other. These practices are corrupt and ought to be forbidden. The law ought to make it a crime for any candidate for any county or state office prior to his nomination or election to promise, either directly or indirectly to support or use his influence in behalf of another for any position, place or office, or to promise either directly or indirectly to name or appoint another to any place, position or office, in consideration of such other supporting him or in any way using his influence to secure his nomination, election or appointment. The law requiring the report of campaign expenses ought to be amended by adding to it, in substance: And I further state that I did not at any time, either before my nomination or after, either directly or indirectly, in consideration of support, promise to support, or use my influence for, or to appoint any person to any place, position or office whatsoever. Such a statute would be as easily enforced as any other of our corrupt practices acts. The mere fact that such practices are condemned by the law would be of great value and this General Assembly ought to enact such a provision as an expression of its high political ideals.

THE SHORT BALLOT.

The results of our primary elections, and general elections as well, show that not many more than half of the voters of the state participate in the primary at all and that in both elections the numbers voting decrease as they pass down the ticket from the more to the less important offices. At the primary elections it has not been unusual to have a difference between the total vote for governor and for lieutenant governor and secretary of state, ranging from ten to nearly twenty-five thousand with the difference growing wider with the offices further down. The same result is seen in general elections. When the comparison is made with the vote for presidential electors the discrepancies are much greater. This would seem to indicate that the public interest centers around the contest for the most important offices, that the candidates for these come to be known, that these offices are representative offices and stand for or may inaugurate certain definite policies in which the people are interested. The other candidates do not become so well known, they are not seen to so great an extent in the campaign, Their offices are administrative. No public policy is involved in the administration of them. There are so many of them, State and county, that amidst the pressing duties of life it is not possible for many voters to inform themselves as to the merits of the candidates and hence thousands do not vote at all and many more thousands simply vote at a guess and let it go at that. Hence the argument for the short ballot and more appointive offices as conducive to better and much more efficient government. Students of good government are everywhere advocating the principles of the short ballot. To such an extent have they gone as to tersely express the principle in this way: "When you want representation, elect. When you want administration, appoint." Progressive thought for, by far the greater part, advocates this principle. The appointing power being made responsible for results, responsibility is located and concentrated. By electing, responsibility is dissipated, incapable of definite location. By appointment administration by experts and a high order of efficient public service may be secured. I invite your careful consideration of this subject to the end that this reform may take deeper root in this State. We already recognize the principle in that the Board of Control, Board of Education, Board of Parole, Dairy and Food Commissioner, Commissioner of Labor, Commerce Counsel and others are appointive positions. Would anybody think of making them elective or the football of politics? Does not the same or a greater reason obtain for making the office of Railroad Commissioner appointive? Is there any reason why the Supreme Court should not appoint its own clerk and reporter? Should not the Superintendent of Public Instruction be appointed? The list might be extended further as the principal grows and becomes well understood.

SCHOOLS.

When one comes to the consideration of the question of rural schools he finds he is face to face with a problem almost impossible of solution. And yet that affords no reason why we should not grapple with it. We read everywhere of the decline of the rural school and we constantly hear it deplored in public speech. From the district school of forty years ago with its attendance of forty pupils ranging in age from five to twenty-one years, the rural school has declined to the school of ten children and very frequently to less. Formerly there was the enthusiasm of numbers at least. The young men and women were there. They are no longer there. It is said that ninety-five per cent of the boys and girls never reach the high school. They never will under present conditions. This must be said especially of the country boy and girl. There are no high schools in the country and the necessities of farm life almost preclude the farm boy from the town high school. He cannot start in with the opening of the schools in the towns the first of September and if he could he could not continue after the first of March. The scarcity of farm labor and the absolute necessity of the farms in gathering crops and in preparing for them and planting and cultivating absolutely forbid. Thus deprived of several months of school at both the opening and close of the school year he cannot keep up with the classes, becomes discouraged, if he has commenced at all, and quits. If he cannot come to the high school in town then the high school must go to the country. This suggests almost necessarily the consolidation of the country schools. I see no escape from this as the ultimate result. It seems to me also that it is a "consummation most devoutly to be wished." But it cannot be brought about in a day. Such reforms require a long period of agitation and the patient efforts of men and women of large vision and devoted to the common good. The consolidated school with its work in all the grades it seems to me could be maintained at a less expense than the nine schools of the townships as now organized. In place of the little cheerless school houses, poorly equipped, no modern conveniences, have one three-to-five-room building centrally located, with an up-to-date system of heating, lighting, ventilating and water supply. Here there could be some inspiration for both teacher and pupil. Here would be the stimulus, excitement and interest that come from numbers. Here would come relief from the monotony and loneliness of the teacher with her half dozen little children by the daily association with other teachers. Here could daily come the refining influence of music and song. Here would come the daily supervision, management and inspection by the principal of the school. The grounds should include three or four acres for reasons that your mind will readily suggest. The school building could easily become the social and intellectual center of the community. Here could be public gatherings, lectures and entertainments of all kinds. No one would be far from it in this day of the automobile and in the era of good roads upon which we fervently hope we are entering. Away from the diversions of the town it would be an ideal place to lay the foundations of sturdy character, intellectual and physical strength and useful citizenship in the young men and women of Iowa. In this direction the concensus of opinion of the competent men and women who have given the subject earnest and sympathetic study, lies the solution to a considerable degree of both the country school and rural life problem. This cannot be brought about by compulsion. I fully realize that. I wish, however, that a plan could be devised by which any township could voluntarily consolidate her schools and that such plan could be enacted into law at this session. If the township as a unit, be thought to be too large, then a smaller territory might be taken as a basis, but it seems to me the township is not too large. Of course regard should be had for the course of rivers and streams through townships.

The course of study in the rural school should be related to the life of the country. It should be in terms of the things right next to the boy and girl. Everything should have interesting practical relation to what the boy and girl see done every day in the life about them and to what they see, hear and do themselves. Not abstractions but concrete applications and illustrations constantly. The training should have intimate relation to what men and women have to do in the world—this as well as cultural. There should be vocational instruction. The township school might have small side buildings for this purpose. The school should be an interesting place. To illustrate: Geography should relate to the country round about, grammar to what the boys and girls are saying, arithmetic to loads of corn, cords of wood, acres of land, tons of hay, bushels of potatoes and loans of money. I should not follow the readers; I should have Joel Chandler Harris' Uncle Remus stories, Earnest Thompson Seton's animal stories, Cooper's The Deerslayer, The Spy, The Pioneer, The Pathfinder. Roosevelt's Winning of the West, Prescott's Conquest of Mexico and of Peru and Biography in profusion as I approached the upper grades. For such schools once planted over this State good, competent teachers could be found but the rural school as it is now never will be any better. Young men and young women simply will not give themselves to teaching under present conditions for more than a few terms as a temporary makeshift. There is little use in training teachers unless we have conditions under which trained men and women will teach. It is my conclusion that the consolidation of rural schools to some extent at least with a course of study applicable to and interesting to the child and boy and girl mind and absolutely inseparable from the life we live is the only hope and must lie at the very foundation of any improvement in our rural schools. I earnestly hope, therefore, that this session will not close without the law being so written as to make such results voluntarily possible. I know that sixteen sections of land may now consolidate, but the law can be greatly improved.

May I not suggest, also, that the best thought of the day seems to have reached the conclusion that provision ought to be made for District Agricultural and Manual Training Schools, including Domestic Science. The distance from the public school to the agricultural college is a long one but if the school referred to were found on the way for a period of training it would be of inestimable value. I invite your serious consideration of this question.

OFFICE OF SCHOOL TREASURER ABOLISHED.

I am advised that we now pay school treasurers $175,000 annually. This is a needless waste of the people's money. The office ought to be abolished and provision made authorizing the county treasurer to pay all warrants drawn on school funds.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The preservation of the public health is a matter of the greatest importance. Thirty-two years have passed since the law was enacted creating a State Board of Health. There has been little legislation since and none that makes it possible for the board to be a really efficient instrument for the public good. In the beginning $5,000.00 was appropriated annually and it has never been increased, but of this the secretary's salary, $2,400.00, all the contingent expenses of his office, the expenses of the board and all costs of printing are paid. It is manifest that there can be nothing of consequence left to enable the board to meet the demands made upon it by a great State. There have been epidemics of typhoid fever and other scourges in the state but the board when called upon could do nothing in the way of making investigations because it had no funds. I am advised that in one district there are thirteen towns now known to have impure water supply. In view of the progress made by medical science in the last ten years in the ability to detect the cause of disease, in view of the advance that has been made in sanitary engineering with reference to water supply and sewage and garbage disposal and to the end that prompt action may be taken to prevent the spread of communicable diseases and that there may be prevention of the pollution of water supplies and to the end that better sanitary conditions generally may be brought about especially in our towns, I suggest that there ought to be, after careful consideration and consultation with experts in sanitary science, a re-writing of the law relating to the whole subject and an appropriation made commensurate with the importance of it. While talking about the conservation of our soil, forests, mines and water power, we ought not to forget the necessity of conserving the lives and health of the people.

HOG CHOLERA.

Every few recurring years the state is ravaged by hog cholera. Millions of dollars have been lost by this scourge. It is estimated that fifteen millions of dollars have been lost to the farmers of the state during the last year. The hog industry is one of the greatest sources of wealth the state has. It is now claimed that this is a preventable disease. It is of great public interest that the loss of such vast sums be prevented. It is doubtless beyond the power of the individual to protect himself. The matter therefore, becomes one of public concern. I therefore urge upon you to investigate the subject thoroughly and enact such provisions and make such an appropriation as in your judgment will afford relief.

PENITENTIARY REFORM.

The question of a reform in the management of our penal institutions is one which for some time has commanded the attention of our people. Personally, I am ready to say that the contract labor system ought to be abolished. It is a system of slavery. It is an exploitation of men on the part of the State for the benefit of a contractor. It is taking hope out of the lives of men and returning them to society embittered against it. It neither cares for the health, improves the morals nor has any tendency to reform the men, but results quite otherwise. It is an economic absurdity. It is a fine thing, however, for the manufacturer to have the State furnish him a plant fully equipped with machinery, heat, light, power, clothe and feed the men, and turn them over to him for twenty-five to sixty-four cents per day. When, in addition, is taken into consideration the great cost to the State in the administration of the criminal law, the maintenance of the penal institutions, the hardships and suffering of the families of the imprisoned men the absurdity becomes more glaring. These men ought to work and so should the men committed to our jails for misdemeanors. A plan ought to be devised whereby they could be put to work. Men are saved through work and there absolutely is no other means of salvation for them. Besides, every man owes to society all that he can do whether he is in or out of prison. He ought to have the same wage in prison that he could earn if out at the same work. He ought to pay back to the state out of his wage the expense of his conviction. Then his family, if he has one, should receive a good portion, he receiving the balance. He ought to be rewarded according to his effort. Hope ought to be kept alive in him. He ought not be taught to hate the State. There ought to be classification and segregation of criminals. As many as possible ought to have outdoor work. I favor the penal farm and think this legislature ought to take steps toward the establishing of one. The experience of many States is to my mind conclusive in favor of it. Many of them are conducted at a fine profit to the State as is shown by the very admirable and exhaustive report of the committee not long ago appointed by Governor Carroll to investigate, among other things, the general management of the penitentiary at Ft. Madison. I presume it will be placed on your desks. I make it a part of what I have to say upon this subject and commend it to your thorough study. It seems to me its conclusions are sound and the evidence upon which they are based overwhelming. I commend also to your equal consideration the report and discussion of the subject by Judge Robinson of the Board of Control.

PRESIDENTIAL PREFERENCE PRIMARY.

If the people are competent, and they are, to select their candidates for Governor to be voted for at the general election they certainly are equally competent to express their preference as to presidential candidates and I think they ought to have the opportunity to do so. The people, through the representatives of each of the political parties of the State, assembled in convention, have declared in favor of a presidential preference primary law. There is, therefore, so far as this question is concerned, but one thing to do and that is to enact such a law. Platform pledges should not be simply high-sounding phrases for the purposes of a popular campaign and then to be ignored afterward. I am sure after careful consideration and debate a wise conclusion will be reached as to what form this law in obedience to the demand of the people shall take.

What I have just said with reference to platform declarations applies with equal force to the question looking ultimately to in this State. The last political conventions all declared, two directly, one indirectly, perhaps, in favor of referring to the people the question of so amending the constitution as to confer upon women the equal right with men to vote. The referendum ought to be made. If these conventions have voiced the sentiment of the people there should be no trifling with it. There may be some question as to whether women in general desire the ballot, but in view of these platform declarations that is not the question before this General Assembly. If platform makers have been insincere, (I do not believe at all they have been) but if they have let them be taught the great virtue of sincerity. Go to the voters on the question. Let them speak at the next general election.

REFORM OF COURT PROCEDURE.

The question of reform in the matter of both the civil and criminal procedure of our courts has become a matter of the greatest importance. It is engaging the attention of the best legal minds of the country. The procedure, as it is witnessed every day in our courts, as the trial drags along its weary way before a helpless judge is such as almost to create a feeling of disgust. As to civil procedure it suggests what a relief a conciliatory court, such as they have in Germany, would be. What a saving of time and money. On notice the parties might appear before a judge, or voluntarily submit to his jurisdiction, who without reference to technical procedure or technical rules of evidence, or even lawyers, might in an hour or two or a half day at most elicit the facts, tell the parties what the law applicable to the facts is, what they ought and what they ought not to have done and what the judgment is and, if no settlement accordingly, enter up the judgment. Little expense, little time, no burden to the people. In this way could be done in a few hours what would take the machinery of our courts as the law is now administered, several days to do. Such a court might be established with a proper jurisdiction it seems to me to the great relief of our present courts and I am sure in other ways.

As to the examination of jurors for the trial of a cause: Every lawyer has seen days of time taken, has heard of months being consumed. And yet I doubt if a lawyer of experience could be found who would not say that in nine cases out of ten the jurors finally selected were no better than those first called into the box. The absurdity of examining minutely into the life of a man from childhood must be apparent. It should not be permitted. The court should be given control and as but few questions are pertinent and necessary but few should be allowed. Indeed I incline to the opinion that perhaps it would not be unwise to place the whole matter of examining jurors as to their qualifications in the hands of the court.

The law ought to provide that all exceptions to instructions should be taken before they are read and no others considered or allowed.

I believe the law ought to provide for majority verdicts in civil cases.

It seems to me the time for taking appeals ought to be greatly shortened. I see no reason why the law should make the procedure of a cause through the courts interminable.

On appeal prejudice should not be presumed on slight error. The rule should be that there should be no reversal unless the court could say the jury was probably misled by the error of the trial court. Perfection in the statement of the law, clear, precise technical nicety of statement is sometimes difficult and doubtless never disturbs the mind of the juror. He views the case as a whole, observes the instructions in their general drift and renders his verdict. Close, critical study of instructions seldom, if ever, I presume, takes place. The law should provide that no judgment shall be set aside or reversed or new trial granted on account of error of the court or error in any matter of pleading or procedure unless it shall appear that the error complained of has injuriously affected the substantial rights of the parties.

I have for many years thought that there is no longer any justifiable reason for the existence of the grand jury. It should be abolished.

The law forbidding counsel to comment on the fact that the defendant in a criminal case declines to become a witness in his own behalf and give such explanation as he can of the facts produced tending to establish his guilt should be repealed. It is entirely just to him to suppose that if he could explain he would do so.

TAXATION.

In view of the thorough investigation and exhaustive report made by the commission provided for by the last General Assembly with reference to the subject of taxation which will be before the legislature for careful consideration little need be said. That there is need for a thorough revision and re-writing of our laws on the subject I think is conceded by every one who has given the matter consideration. With what the commission has recommended I am in thorough accord and sincerely hope that this session will not adjourn without accomplishing much along this line of much needed legislation. The deficiency, indeed the practical failure, of our laws on this subject has been the occasion of recommendations by Governors and discussions by state treasurers for very many years. It is time to act. Our system has broken down. There is no such thing as uniformity. There are glaring inequalities everywhere. Equality of sacrifice is the very first demand of a just system of taxation. But there is no equality between individuals, or taxing districts. No equality between counties in payment of State taxes. A farm of equal value to another in the same county will be assessed at two or three times the value of the other. Horses and cattle, after years of improvement, often are not assessed as much per head as were the "scrubs" of forty years ago and in some counties will be assessed at twice as much as in others. It follows that some are bearing double the burden of taxes borne by others on the same actual values. Property should be assessed at its fair actual value. It is not possible to reach the ideal but so far as possible there should be equality in the bearing of public burdens. That is not even approached in our State. Our method is a failure which might be demonstrated in many other ways. It is not that the burden of taxation shall be increased but that as nearly as is practicable there shall be equality of sacrifice. If property were assessed at actual value and methods were adopted for finding and assessing hundreds of thousands of dollars that now escape, the rate of taxation could be greatly diminished. Our rate of taxation because of our methods is very high. Capital may have been frightened away from our State on this account. Here is matter to be kept in mind in considering the matter of taxation. We must build up our State. It should be an inviting field for capital under just conditions. Conditions in Iowa should not be such as to place our industries and our capitalists at a disadvantage when compared with conditions in other States with which they must compete. If I could say anything that would add to the weight and influence of the report of the commission I would do so. I sincerely commend it for its thoroughness. I commend it for the new methods it proposes for the administration of our tax laws. I commend it because its conclusions have been proved to be wise and workable by the actual experience of other States.

"BLUE SKY LAW."

I said in the beginning that government is for the good of mankind. It would be for the good of thousands of our people if their savings were protected from the fake promoters, the confidence men, who sell to confiding people stocks in airy, worthless, far-distant schemes that have no semblance of real value. Every man knows from his own observation that hundreds of thousands of dollars are lost to the people annually in this way. I have seen estimates placing it at $10,000,000. Kansas was wise ahead of her sister States in providing in substance that when stocks and bonds are offered for sale the banking department must be satisfied that they are a reasonably good investment and a permit secured before they can be offered to the people. I commend this wise law as a basis for similar legislation here.

THE CAPITOL GROUNDS.

The subject of the extension of the capitol grounds is a matter that should have consideration. The day is now here when these grounds surrounding us should be more spacious and they should be made more beautiful. They do not meet the material demands of the present and for the future they will be entirely inadequate. The future should ever be in mind. We build for those who are to come after us. We should have a vision of what Iowa is to do and be. In the extension of the grounds regard should be had for a better setting of the capitol. The whole question of the enlargement and location of buildings and monuments should at once be placed in the hands of the best landscape artist that could be found with instructions to prepare a plan commensurate with the needs and ideals of a great, progressive and cultured people. It cannot all be done at once but a beginning can be made. Every day of postponement only makes the realization more expensive and difficult. What is done should be in accordance with a plan to end in both utility and great artistic beauty.

AGRICULTURE AND DAIRY INTERESTS.

It is the land that must sustain all other interests. Iowa is unsurpassed in the fertility of her soil and there lies one of her greatest future possibilities. All that has been done in the past is but a beginning. Anything intended to promote our agricultural interests should command serious attention. Public lands are gone. The population of the country is increasing more than a million annually. The soil must meet the demands of the oncoming millions. Earnest, sincere patriotic men are trying to devise ways and means. If legislation will assist—lend a hand. Here I want to say that I have been requested to call attention to the weed law, I gladly do so. It should be strengthened.

The encouragement given to our dairy interests heretofore by the legislature has wonderfully stimulated that industry. No other single industry has made such rapid progress. Its product in the last few years has doubled over and over to the enrichment of the people in money and productivity of soil. If further legislation is needed to protect it, spare it not. The benefit is to all the people.

MANUFACTURING.

Our manufacturing industries are growing rapidly. Already I am advised by the Secretary of the Manufacturers' Association we have $225,000,000 invested in 6,000 factories, employing 72,000 wage earners and using 220 million dollars worth of material annually with an annual output worth $335,000,000. Located in the heart of the American continent between two of the greatest rivers in the world, with a soil not excelled by any other of equal extent on the globe, surrounded by the teeming millions of the not distant years, Iowa as an agricultural and manufacturing State, great also in her citizenship, appears in the vision of the future in inspiring and indescribable splendor. Down yonder at Keokuk where her civilization first began to take root is nearing completion one of the greatest triumphs of engineering which human history has yet recorded. The great Father of Waters which for unmeasured ages has wasted his vast energy as he swept on to the sea has been harnessed and his power captured for the lighting and heating of cities, for giving power to manufacturing plants, for the whirling of unnumbered spindles, the grinding of the grains of the Great Valley and the rapid transportation of the people. Manufacturing in Iowa will receive a great impetus there.

The 35th General Assembly has before it the opportunity to make for itself a most distinguished place in Iowa history. I doubt if ever before a more inspiring program ever presented itself in this State. The subjects for consideration nearly all go to the matter of the betterment of human conditions. They touch the life of the people. They suggest the passing of the old day and the bright dawning of the new. They suggest the loosening of the grasp of human selfishness and the extension of the hand of sympathy and brotherhood. I think the State should concern itself about the betterment of human beings, about the protection of human welfare. I feel that the State ought to be humane. The state ought to be a great moral force in the world. "Righteousness exalteth a nation." The State must be a positive good. It must have a conscience. Our prosperity must be built upon the happiness, education and welfare of each man. Business and human betterment can increase together if these problems are rightly taken hold of. What an impetus can be given to the State this winter. Why not move Iowa to the head of the column? It can be done if every man will lose himself in his devotion to the common good. He that would be great must be the servant of all. "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted"—exalted in the strength and consciousness of right things done. It is up to the men of this legislature. The people have trusted you. They have believed in you. It is demanded of a servant that he be faithful. The people want these things done. Will the 35th General Assembly rise to its great opportunities? So far as the Executive can properly do so I want to lend a hand. And so dismissing factionalism, forgetting party, remembering only the common good, let us enter upon the work before us.

Selection by Midwestern Male Quartette—Messrs. Louis Gerhardt, Forest Geneva, Otto Jellison, Webb Pelton.

Music by T. Fred Henry's orchestra.

The minutes of the joint session were read and approved.

Senator Clarkson of Monroe moved that the joint convention be dissolved.

Motion prevailed.

The House reconvened, Speaker Cunningham in the chair.

That section one (1) of article three (III) of the Constitution of the State of Iowa be amended to read as follows: "The legislative authority of the state shall be vested in the General Assembly, consisting of a Senate and House of Representatives, both to be elected by the people, but the people reserve to themselves the power to propose laws and amendments to the Constitution, and to enact or reject the same at the polls, independent of the General Assembly, and also reserve at their own option the right to approve or reject at the polls any act, item, section or part of any act of the General Assembly. The first power hereby reserved by the people is the initiative and such numbers of the qualified voters as may be fixed by the General Assembly, from time to time, to be not less than twelve per cent (12%) or more than twenty-two per cent (22%) of the legal voters of the state, shall be required to propose any measure by petition, and every such petition shall include the full text of the measure so proposed. The veto power of the governor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to by the people. All elections on measures referred to the people of the state shall be held at the biennial regular general election, and all such measures shall become a law or part of the Constitution when approved by a majority of the votes cast thereon, and not otherwise, and shall take effect from and after the date of the official declaration of the vote thereon by proclamation of the governor, but not later than thirty days after the vote has been canvassed. This section shall not be construed to deprive the General Assembly of the right to enact any measure. The whole number of votes cast for the Secretary of State at the regular general election last preceding the filing of any petition for the initiative or referendum shall be the basis upon which the number of legal voters necessary to sign such petition shall be counted. The Secretary of State shall submit all measures initiated by or referred to the people for adoption or rejection at the polls in compliance herewith. The petition shall consist of sheets having such general form printed or written at the top thereof, as shall be designated or prescribed by the Secretary of State; such petitions shall be signed by qualified electors in their proper persons only, to which shall be attached the resident address of such person, and the date of signing the same. Such petition, so verified, shall be prima facie evidence that the signatures thereon are genuine and true, and that the persons signing same are qualified electors. The Secretary of State shall print and distribute to each voter in the state entitled to vote on the measures to be submitted, not less than three months previous to the time of voting, a pamphlet containing the titles of the measures to be voted upon as they will appear upon the official ballot, together with the full text of the measures to be submitted; and also arguments for and against measures submitted, according to details which shall be provided by law. The style of all laws adopted by the people through the initiative shall be, "Be It Enacted by the People of the State of Iowa." The initiative and referendum powers reserved to the people by this section are hereby further reserved to the legal voters of every city, town and municipality as to all local, special and municipal legislation of every character in and for their respective municipalities. The following message was received from the Governor, and on motion of Larrabee of Fayette was ordered printed in the Journal.

SPECIAL MESSAGE TO THE MEMBERS OF THE THIRTY-FIFTH
GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA.

In view of the fact that our industrial interests are rapidly developing and that as the State grows older our manufacturing and public utilities interests will much more largely enter into and affect the life of the people, and in view of the fact also that the relations of employer and employe in the State are now by far the greater part satisfactory and amicable so that a fair, just and unprejudiced consideration of the subject may be had, I have thought it best to especially call your attention to the necessity and wisdom of enacting at this session what might be termed an industrial disputes act.

It seems to me that only slight reflection is necessary to convince any intelligent person of the necessity and great usefulness of such a law if just and wise in its provisions. Strikes and lockouts inevitably entail loss upon both parties to the controversy and often lead to violence and much suffering. The public, in no wise to blame, is frequently put to great inconvenience and loss. The public, therefore, has an interest in the matter and the subject becomes at once of great public concern. While the right to strike is everywhere recognized as a lawful right, on the other hand it must be recognized that it is the duty of the State to protect the public welfare and that it cannot allow any of its citizens on either side of the controversy to conduct themselves in such a way as will necessarily bring loss and suffering upon the public, which is in no wise to blame for the conditions or fact bringing about the dispute. The wise thing, therefore, to do, in my judgment, is to prepare for the unsatisfactory condition before it arises and thus avoid, if possible, all the loss, the suspension of business and work, the bitterness and hatred engendered and possible violence to property and persons which is incompatible with any just and proper administration of government.

If a law can be enacted by which labor can at once have a full and fair consideration of its grievances by an impartial tribunal, it seems to me that in its own interest and in the interest of the public and good citizenship such a law would meet with its approval. The employers, I think, would regard it as a natural and proper result of modern industrial conditions. There may be some question as to whether submission of disputes should be compulsory but public opinion would be a very powerful compelling force. So it would also in enforcing the judgment of the tribunal. If labor desires to be fair, if employers desire to be just and fair, if neither fears investigation upon the merits of the question at issue, then both ought to unite in helping to secure a law that would first of all proceed to an informal hearing before a disinterested tribunal and thus avoid by an amicable and just settlement the unhappy consequences so often experienced. I invite the support and good will of these classes of our citizenship. I urge upon legislators to give this subject prompt consideration. Consider what are to be future conditions in this State. Let us be wise in time. For its great helpfulness I suggest a close study of the Canadian Industrial Disputes Act. It has proved to be workable and of great value. I urgently recommend that you enact such a law.

Respectfully submitted this 21st day of January, A. D. 1913.

G. W. CLARKE,
Governor.

The committee appointed to notify Senator Kenyon of his election returned, and Mr. Kenyon was escorted to the Speaker's station, and after being introduced by President Harding, made the following remarks:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JOINT ASSEMBLY—I have not come fifteen hundred miles for the purpose of making a speech, but merely to express to you my deep appreciation of the honor conferred and the confidence reposed in me by this election, and to return my heart-felt thanks to you and through you to the people of the State of Iowa.

Two years ago, upon a similar occasion, which it seems to me was marked by rather more deliberation than this election, I made the only pledge for that campaign on my part; and that was, to serve the people of this state to the best of my ability, regardless of faction, and regardless of politics. And I have tried faithfully to keep that pledge; and the pledge of the past is likewise my promise for the future: To serve the people of this state, regardless of politics, and I may say absolutely regardless of political party.

Partisanly narrow is he who refuses in legislative halls or in the halls of Congress, to vote for good measures, because forsooth they do not originate in his political party, or to vote against good measures because they may originate in the opposing party. Public welfare in this country is vastly more important than party welfare, and in the next four years, speaking for myself alone, I propose to do everything in my power to help make the administration of Mr. Wilson a success. (Applause.) I do not mean by that a partisan success, but a success where he stands for those things that make for human welfare and for human rights; that which brings about the greatest happiness to the greatest number. And when he is right upon those propositions, he is going to have my active support.

You men are engaged in a great work, as we are in Congress, and in the next few years are to be worked out great problems that will challenge the best thought of this nation; fortunate is that man who, even in a humble way, can be a part of this great work that is going forward in this nation for social and industrial justice. It may as well be recognized that there must be, and every thinking man must see it, a broader participation in the prosperity and industrial welfare of the land by the average every-day toiler; a larger share in the wealth which his labor creates; and in the halls of Congress, and in legislative assemblies, human rights and human welfare are to be the chief concern of legislation in the next few years.

Just one thing more: I want to make another pledge to the people of Iowa. It is true oftentimes in national politics and in the halls of Congress, that men spend a part of their time in doing things to bring about their re-election. That is never true in state legislatures, but it is true in Congress; that is one of the baneful facts of our political life, and I want to say that I am going on in a course mapped out in my own mind, to fight a battle in legislative halls for human rights, for moral laws, for decency in our political affairs, against every species of graft and corruption, and for laws that will help the toiler of the nation, absolutely regardless of whatever effect it may have upon me in the future. (Applause.) I take no thought and shall take no thought for any political tomorrow. I had rather be in the Senate six years absolutely thoughtless of my future, than to be there twelve or eighteen years worrying about what may happen in political life.

I did not intend to make a speech. I intended to utter the sentiment of thanks in my heart. Having done that, I will not delay the proceedings longer.

The Journal of the joint convention was then read and approved.

Senator Webber of Wapello moved that the joint convention be dissolved.

Motion prevailed.

House reconvened.

On motion of Grout of Black Hawk, the House adjourned until Thursday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

JANUARY 23, 1913.

To His Excellency, the Governor of Iowa, and to the Honorable Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, Now Assembled:

GENTLEMEN—As the Secretary of the Iowa State Board of Health, I desire to submit to your honorable body a report made to the Iowa State Board of Health, herewith attached.

It is earnestly requested that it be carefully considered by your honorable body.

Very respectfully,

GUILFORD H. SUMNER,
Secretary.

(SEAL.)

JANUARY 21, 1913.

To the Members of the Iowa State Board of Health:

I wish to submit a report upon the condition of the water supply of the city of Des Moines, examination of which has been made by myself and assisted by Prof. C. N. Kinney, State Chemist of the Board of Health, and Prof. L. S. Ross, Assistant State Bacteriologist.

We find the same to be potable and safe to use for drinking and other purposes. In view of the fact that two years ago the water was reported in a bad condition, I deem it wise that you submit this statement to both branches of the Legislature now in session in order that they may know its true condition.

I deem it also best to state in this connection that there is no meat, milk or food inspection in the city of Des Moines, and consequently great care should be exercised in the use of meats, unless they are thoroughly cooked, and milk which should either be pasteurized or should come from cattle which have been tested and known to be free from tuberculosis.

The above suggestions are most respectfully submitted for the approval of the Board and the careful consideration of the members of the Legislature during the present session of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly.

Very respectfully,

G. A. HUNTOON,

(SEAL.)

Member Seventh Health District.

The following named persons assembled at the desk, took and subscribed to the following oath:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Resolved by the House, the Senate concurring, That the attention of the Iowa State Board of Education is respectfully called to the following:

First. That since the action of the State Board of Education ordering the removal of Domestic Science from the State College at Ames to the State University at Iowa City; the elimination of Engineering from the State University and centering the same at the State College at Ames, and the discontinuance of the last two years of the work of the Teachers College at Cedar Falls, there has arisen much opposition to such action of the State Board on the part of the people of Iowa, and many educators and persons of wide experience and devotion to the educational interests of Iowa have expressed the opinion that the Board erred in its action, and that the effects of such action will be injurious to the several institutions and the cause of education in Iowa;

Second. That grave doubts also have arisen as to the legality and constitutionality of the action of the Board, and many legal authorities of a character to command respect and consideration have expressed opinions holding that such action on the part of the Board is without legal authority and in some particulars is in conflict with the organic law of the State;

Third. That if the General Assembly should adjourn without action and later the courts should hold that the action of the Board was illegal and without constitutional authority, these several colleges and departments affected by the action of the Board would be without financial support for the ensuing two years and on that account would be demoralized and irreparably injured; therefore,

Be it further resolved by the House, the Senate concurring, That the Iowa State Board of Education be advised and is respectfully requested to rescind its action of October 8, 1912, as cited above, relative to such colleges and departments of the three institutions, and to so amend its budgets and recommendations to the governor and to this General Assembly as will give to such colleges and departments such support as they would have received if such action had not been taken.

Laid over under rule 34.

President Harding announced the joint convention duly organized, with a quorum of members present.

President Harding introduced Mrs. Trout, president of the Illinois Women Suffrage Association, who addressed the joint convention as follows:

MEMBERS OF THE IOWA LEGISLATURE—You have a great many things in Iowa to be proud of, and you have a splendidly governed city here in Des Moines, but it has always seemed strange that Iowa, so progressive and so intelligent, seemingly—I know because I am a native of Iowa—should have been so slow about granting equal suffrage to its women. The explanation, however, is simple. We are so much like that profound looking gentleman, who when asked the source of his seeming tremendous wisdom, said: "Sometimes I sit and think and think and think, and sometimes I only sit." Alas! too many of us only sit; sit in darkness, surrounded by old prejudices and old ideas, and never brush them aside and let in the light.

Some good natured, thoughtless people say they would be willing to grant equal suffrage to women when all the women asked for it.

As a matter of record, a larger proportion of women have already asked for the ballot than of any class of men who have ever been granted the franchise, but the masses of the people seldom ask for things. We are, as a class, conservative, fearful and perhaps a little lazy, and we would rather drift along old ways than to make the effort to turn aside into new and better ones.

It is often stated that women's place is in the home. No one denies it. And no stronger suffrage argument was ever uttered. There is nothing in the world a woman loves so much as her home, unless, perhaps, it is the man who with her helps to make that home. Then, why in the name of common sense and of justice is she not given the power to help protect that home? And the only weapons that can be used for that purpose in a democratic form of government, is the ballot.

We women in asking for the ballot, do not want to take away any rights from the men, but we know that we could help them and give so much better and more valuable service to our state and to our nation, and to our homes if they would give to us the ballot. It is only a case of reciprocity, after all.

Some people object to equal suffrage because they claim women should not vote because they cannot go to war. It is unnecessary, perhaps, to state what a certain general said not long ago—"If all of the men who are physically unable and who do not or cannot go to war, were disfranchised, our polling places would be as lonesome as a sea-bathing resort in December."

Putting all this aside, if every man in the country could go to war, we women do not want to go to war, but we do not want to be forced to send to war our fathers, our brothers, our husbands, our sons, those who are far dearer to us than our own lives. We do not want to be forced to send them away by government in which we have no voice.

Some people object to equal suffrage because they fear that if women were allowed to handle that dangerous piece of paper called a "ballot," they would grow coarse and masculine. because they would be associated in such a horrible and degrading way with men. Still women ride in our cars and in our autos every day, side by side with men, and seem to enjoy it. They work in our stores, teach in our schools, side by side with men. They go to church, side by side with men. They even live under the same roof with men, and yet this constant association has failed to make them either coarse or masculine. But, voting is, of course, different.

Some people are opposed to equal suffrage because they fear the so-called bad women's vote. As a matter of record in the states and countries where women can vote today, very few of these poor women of the underworld want to register and let their names and places of residence be publicly known. Then they constitute such a small proportion of all the women. They constitute a fractional part of one per cent of the women of Denver. They constitute about that same percentage of the women of Chicago. Some say, however, bad men vote. Then why not bad women? Those who have studied the situation claim that many of these poor women—thirty-three and one-third per cent of whom commit suicide every year—under the privacy and protection of the Australian ballot system, as an atonement, perhaps, and with the hope of saving other women a fate like their own, would vote for good men and good government. Some of us are willing to trust them, for no amount of sin, disease and suffering can ever entirely obliterate a spark of divine in either man or woman.

Some say, however, they object to equal suffrage because they claim that women might grow quarrelsome and inharmonious if they were given the ballot, because they lack the perfect self-control of man. This argument is unanswerable. We all know the perfect harmony that has prevailed in our political world during the recent presidential campaign. Some of our political leaders today emulate the "lion and the lamb" of the prophecy, and "lie down together." At least they accuse each other of doing so. Women might possibly draw their own conclusions from such inspiring examples. Many people condemn the English suffragists for demanding their freedom in a rather forceful way. How much better, instead of condemning, it would be to deplore the conditions that make the present situation in England possible. We must not forget in looking at this English problem that the English women who are today struggling for their liberty, are the daughters of Englishmen who resorted to similar methods, not in the far distant past, in order that English men might be free.

With eighty thousand young girls, thousands upon thousands of them sacrificed every year in a horrible and atrocious white-slave traffic—with industrial conditions in many places that cripple and destroy human life, with human woe and human suffering on every side, shall woman, the mother of the race, remain forever silent? No, a thousand times, no. For she knows that back of all of this misery, all of this disease and suffering, there is a cause, and that cause directly or indirectly is a sin. And what causes a large preponderance of the sin of the world? The double moral standard for men and for women, and no amount of medical science, no religion, no philosophy of any kind, can save the world until men and women stand equal in the sight of man, as they do in the sight of God, and we have common political and common moral standard for women and for men. But old rotten beliefs falling to pieces—thank God—from their own corruption, cry out to us, "this is impossible." Men and women are so different. Men are intellectually stronger than women, but women are morally stronger than men. If men are today intellectually stronger than women, it is not because they are naturally or inherently stronger, but because they have had centuries of opportunity and education denied to women. And, if women today are morally stronger than men—and it is quoted to prove this, that less than five per cent of all the criminals are women—but if this is so, it is not because they are naturally or inherently better, but because the world has for centuries demanded higher moral standards of the women than it has of men. But, what right has the world to establish this double moral standard?

It is absolutely impossible for men and women to be fundamentally different. They must have similar hopes; similar aspirations; similar ideas of purity. For every man is just as nearly related to his mother as to his father, and every woman is just as nearly related to her father as she is to her mother, and we are all children of the one Infinite Father.

Lack of equal suffrage is a menace and a danger to the growth and permanent prosperity of any nation. Granting equal suffrage will not bring the millenium, not all at once. Women are not angels. Think how homesick they would be if they were. But in a government of the people, by the people, for the people, people can be translated only as fair-minded men and women, and many of our greatest men have stood for qual suffrage. Lincoln said, "I go for all the people, sharing the privileges of this government, to assist in bearing its burdens, by no means excluding women." Good never can come out of evil, and we are never going to be even approaching towards permanent better conditions while we have a fundamental wrong at the core of our government. Equal suffrage is the next step forward.

It does not really matter so far as ultimate results are concerned whether or not I believe in equal suffrage, because it is coming anyway. But it does matter to us individually whether or not the right or wrong side of any great vital moral can be within every suffrage state. With Montana, South Dakota and New York just passing suffrage amendments, with a world-wide interest in this movement everywhere, why should Iowa wait until the very last minute to jump into the "band wagon?" Why does not Iowa make history today that it will be proud to point to in the years that are to come? Why does not Iowa, this great state of Iowa, lead the way, and be the first state bordering the great Father of Waters, to grant equal suffrage to women?

Journal of the joint convention was then read and approved.

On motion of Senator White of Iowa, the joint convention was dissolved.

The House reconvened, Speaker Cunningham in the chair.

Irene Kahle took and subscribed to the following oath:

I do solemnly swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and of the State of Iowa, and that I will faithfully perform the duties of my office to the best of my ability, so help me God.

Irene Kahle.

On motion of Ring of Linn the House adjourned until Wednesday at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

“Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two-thirds of each house concurring therein,)

That in lieu of the first paragraph of Section three of Article I of the Constitution of the United States, and in lieu of so much of paragraph two of the same section as relates to the filling of vacancies, the following be proposed as an amendment to the Constitution, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the Constitution when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states:

The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the Senate, the Executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the Executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.'

HERBERT A. HUFF,
Chairman of Committee.

Larrabee of Fayette, chairman of committee on Appropriations, submitted the following report:

THE STATE FINANCES.

The finances of the state are in excellent condition, the revenue fund balance in the state treasury is ample, and the income from sources other than direct taxation is continuously on the increase. The condition of the revenue fund, from which all the general expenses of the state government are paid, may therefore be said to be in a very satisfactory condition.

It has been the constant aim and endeavor of this department to industriously and persistently prosecute the collection of the state's revenue, and it is my pleasure to report a highly satisfactory condition of affairs in respect to this matter.

The great majority of the present county officials collecting state revenue have been exceedingly prompt in adjusting their obligations. No litigation has been necessary to procure settlements with county officials, and there are no prospective losses, so far as these offices are concerned.

The tables in this report for the fiscal years 1911 and 1912, showing the receipts of revenue, make it clear that almost half the revenue, upon which the state and her large institutions are maintained, is derived from license taxes, from corporations, federal aid to Soldiers' Home, payments by counties for the maintenance of their insane or other unfortunates in state institutions, fees accruing in the several state offices, inheritance and insurance taxes, and a few minor items. It is an interesting and perhaps significant fact that the proportion of revenue collected in the form of direct taxes is growing smaller. Thus, during the period ending June 30, 1898, the per cent raised by direct tax was 76.4; in 1908, 56 per cent; in 1910, 53.8 per cent; and in 1912, 50.6 per cent. The reduction of direct taxation is the result of legislation making more general the taxation and fees of corporations, and collateral inheritance and insurance taxes.

The cost of maintaining the state government is now four million, one hundred fifty thousand dollars a year, and of that sum two million, three hundred thousand dollars is raised by direct taxation, and the remainder comes from insurance and other corporation taxes, taxes on inheritance fees, miscellaneous receipts of state institutions, etc.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

A condensed statement of the receipts and expenditures for the biennial period from July 1, 1913, to July 1, 1915, may not improperly be given in this connection. The detailed estimates will be found in statements No. 4 and No. 5.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS.

Amount on hand July 1, 1912, less Hunters' License and Automobile Tax	$ 818,000.00
Less Hunters' License and Automobile Tax to counties...	13,532,000.00
	<hr/>
Total	$14,350,000.00

ESTIMATED EXPENDITURES.

From July 1, 1912, to July 1, 1915, less Hunters' License and Automobile Tax	$12,400,000.00
Cash balance in treasury July 1, 1915, necessary.....	650,000.00
Amount available for extraordinary appropriations by the Thirty-fifth General Assembly	1,300,000.00
Total	$14,350,000.00

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS.

Statement No. 4 shows my estimate of the general revenue receipts for the period from July 1, 1913, to July 1, 1915, to be $9,057,000. This, added to receipts from July, 1912, to July, 1913, and balance on hand July 1, 1912, makes a total of $13,532,000, which estimate is based upon a levy sufficient to produce $2,500,000 per year from taxations and such receipts from other sources as the past and future seem to justify.

I believe this estimate is conservative, and do not think it safe to anticipate more without an increase in the amount to be raised by direct tax. Adding the above amounts to the cash in the hands of the state treasurer, making no deduction for outstanding warrants on the first day of July, 1912, namely $818,000, makes the total available resources of the state from July 1, 1912, to July 1, 1915, less Hunters' License and Automobile Tax to counties, $14,350,000.

ESTIMATED EXPENDITURES.

Statement No. 5 shows my estimate of the ordinary expenditures of the state for the period from July 1, 1913, to July 1, 1915, based upon the present general laws and the expenditures during the last fiscal period, amounts to $7,765,000. This, added to the expenditures from July, 1912, to July, 1913, makes a total from July, 1912, to July, 1915, of $12,400,000. This does not include any special or extraordinary appropriations which may be made by the Thirty-fifth General Assembly. To this, however, should be added $650,000 as a necessary balance to be left in the treasury on July 1, 1915, to meet state's obligations to second payment of taxes, October 1, 1915, making a total of $13,050,000, which deducted from the total estimated resources of $14,350,000, leaves a net prospective surplus for the purposes of extraordinary appropriations by the Thirty-fifth General Assembly of $1,300,000.

WHEREAS, There appears to exist in the minds of the editors of certain publications throughout the state that the Honorable J. M. Brockway, a distinguished member of the House of Representatives of Iowa from Louisa county, as the chairman of the committee on Roads and Highways, is obstructing the cause of good roads legislation before said committee, and

WHEREAS, Certain publications have deemed it their duty to condemn Mr. Brockway for his stand on proposed road legislation and have classed him as a reactionary on matters of road legislation, and

WHEREAS, The evident intention of said publications seems in the minds of the members of this body to be to discredit Mr. Brockway before his co-laborers in the legislature and the citizens of the state, and

WHEREAS, The present status of all legislation pertaining to roads has as yet not reached the stage of being drafted and therefore merely a matter of conjecture, therefore

Be it Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Iowa,

That we hereby express our utmost confidence in the wisdom, judgment and integrity of the Honorable J. M. Brockway and be it further

Resolved, That we hereby denounce as unjust, unreasonable and wholly unwarranted the attacks that have been made upon him by the press throughout the state, and be it further,

Resolved. That in the opinion of this representative body that such attacks as have been made under the guise of friendliness to the cause of good roads for Iowa, have had a larger tendency to hinder the good roads movement than have all the reactionary sentiments that have as yet been voiced, and be it further

Resolved. That a copy of these resolutions be printed in the Journal of the House and that the chief clerk be hereby ordered to furnish a copy of same to the daily press of the state.

Motion prevailed, and the resolution was unanimously adopted.

MR. SPEAKER—Your committee on Constitutional Amendments, to whom was referred House Joint Resolution No. 5, a joint resolution proposing to amend the constitution so as to provide for the initiative and referendum within the state, beg leave to report they have had the same under consideration and have instructed me to report the same back to the House with the recommendation that the same be amended by the following substitute amendment:

Joint Resolution No. 5, to Amend the Constitution Relating to Legislative Authority; Providing for the Initiative and Referendum with Reference to the Enactment of Laws, or Laws Enacted by the General Assembly and Amendments to the Constitution.

Be It Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

That the following, designated as section one, be, and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to section one (1), of article three (III)—Legislative Department—of the constitution of the state of Iowa, which, when agreed to by this, the Thirty-fifth General Assembly, shall be referred to the Thirty-sixth General Assembly and, if by it agreed to, shall be referred to the qualified electors of the state of Iowa and, if approved and ratified by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon, it shall be valid as a part of the constitution of the state of Iowa, as amended, and, when said section one (1), of article three (III), is so amended, to read as follows:

“SECTION 1. The legislative authority of this state shall be vested in a General Assembly, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives, and the style of every law shall be, ‘Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the state of Iowa,’ but the people reserve unto themselves the right and power to propose laws and amendments to the constitution, to enact, approve or reject the same at the polls, independent of the General Assembly, and reserve the right and power to approve or reject any item, section or part of an act enacted by the General Assembly, except otherwise provided by this section. The General Assembly shall fix the number of qualified electors required to propose the enactment of any proposed law or amendment to the constitution, which shall be not less than twelve (12%) per cent nor more than twenty-two (22%) per cent of the qualified electors of the state. Every proposed law or amendment to the constitution by the people shall be presented by petition signed by the required number of qualified electors, addressed to and filed with the secretary of state not less than one hundred fifty (150) days before the general election at which the measure shall be submitted. The proposed enactment shall contain a full text thereof, with title and enacting clause.

If the proposed measure be to enact a law, the enacting clause shall be as follows: 'Be it enacted by the people of the state of Iowa.'

If the measure proposed be an amendment to the constitution, the enacting clause shall be as follows: 'Be it resolved by the people of the state of Iowa.'

The right and power to initiate and enact laws shall be restricted within the same constitutional limitations as apply to the General Assembly. The required number of qualified electors required to exercise the right and power to require an act passed by the General Assembly to be referred for approval or rejection shall be fixed by the General Assembly, but shall not be less than ten (10%) per cent nor more than twenty (20%) per cent. Petitions therefor shall be addressed to and filed with the secretary of state within ninety (90) days from the final adjournment of the General Assembly which passed the act to which the petition is addressed, and shall contain a full text of that part of the act to be referred; but such right and power shall not extend or apply to an act passed by the General Assembly relating to the preservation of the public peace, public health or appropriations for the support and maintenance of the Department of State and state institutions. A petition addressed to a part of any act shall not delay the remainder from becoming operative, but shall only suspend such portion of the act to which the petition is addressed.

Until the General Assembly enacts a law fixing the per cent of qualified electors required for petition, the required per cent shall be as follows:

For the initiative proposing a law, fifteen (15) per cent;

For the initiative proposing an amendment to the constitution, fifteen (15) per cent.

The whole number of votes cast for secretary of state at the regular general election past preceding the filing of petition shall be the basis for the number of legal voters required to sign such petition.

The veto power of the governor shall not apply or extend to any measure initiated and enacted by the people, nor so much of any act enacted by the General Assembly and approved by the people.

All measures for proposed laws or amendments to the constitution under the initiative, or referred under the referendum, shall be submitted to the people for adoption or rejection at the regular biennial election, and shall become a law or a part of the constitution, as the case may be, when approved by a majority of the voters whose votes are cast thereon, and not otherwise; and shall take effect from and after the date of official declaration of the vote thereon by proclamation issued by the governor, which shall be not later than thirty days after the vote has been canvassed by the state canvassing board for that purpose, composed of the governor, secretary of state and attorney general, and certificate thereof made not later than December first following the election.

The petition contemplated by this section shall consist of sheets having such general form, printed or written, as shall be prescribed by the secretary of state, and shall be signed by the required number of qualified electors, in their proper persons only, to which shall be attached the resident addresses of such persons signing the petition and the date of signing. To each of such petitions, which may consist of one or more sheets, shall be attached and made a part thereof an affidavit of some qualified elector that each signature thereon is the signature of the person whose name it purports to be, and that, to the best of the knowledge and belief of the affiant, each of the persons signing said petition was, at the time of signing, a qualified elector. Such petition, so verified, shall be prima facie evidence that the signatures thereon are genuine and true, and that the persons signing the same are qualified electors of the state of Iowa.

Immediately upon the filing of a petition for the submission of a proposed bill to the voters, the secretary of state shall submit the bill to the supreme court for its opinion upon the constitutionality thereof, which shall be rendered within twenty (20) days, and if the court finds that the proposed measure conflicts with the constitution of the United States or the state of Iowa, the proposed measure shall not be submitted until corrected to conform with the court's opinion.

Until the General Assembly shall provide by law a method of procedure of printing, distributing and submitting proposed measures, the secretary of state shall, ninety (90) days preceding the general election at which the measure will be voted upon, cause to be printed any and all measures for or to which petition has been filed, in pamphlet form, containing the full text thereof, with the title and enacting clause, together with arguments for and against the same, within the limits prescribed by the secretary of state. The number printed shall be not less than one for each voter voting at the last general election preceding the filing of the petition, which shall be delivered to the county auditor of each county.

For each voter in each voting precinct of each political party, voting at the last general election, the auditor of each county shall deliver one copy to each precinct committeeman of each political party in the county.

The secretary of state shall submit all measures petitioned therefor to the people for adoption or rejection at the polls in compliance herewith; but the right and power reserved to the people shall not operate to deprive or limit the power of the General Assembly to enact laws.

The initiative and referendum powers reserved to the people by this section are hereby further reserved to the legal voters of every city, town and municipality as to all local, special and municipal legislation of every character in and for their respective municipalities, in so far as applicable and within the powers of the municipal government to enact. The manner of exercising the said powers shall be prescribed by general laws, except that cities, towns and municipalities may provide for the manner of exercising the initiative and referendum powers as to their municipal legislation within the power of the municipal government to enact; but in such cases not more than ten (10%) per cent of the legal voters may be required to order the referendum, nor more than fifteen (15%) per cent to propose any measure by the initiative in any city, town or municipality.

If conflicting measures submitted to the voters of the state or municipality shall be approved by a majority of the votes severally cast thereon, the measure receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall become law as to all conflicting provisions.

This section of the constitution shall be, in all respects, self-executive.

SEC. 1-2. Each elector voting at the election when the foregoing constitutional amendment is submitted, and desirous of voting for or against said amendment, shall deposit in the ballot box a ticket, whereon shall be printed or written the words, 'For the amendment to section one (1), of article three (III) of the constitution, providing for the initiative and referendum,' and 'Against the amendment to section one (1), of article three (III) of the constitution, providing for the initiative and referendum,' and shall indicate his approval or rejection of the proposition by placing a cross (X) after one of such sentences. The vote cast for the adoption or rejection of said amendment shall be canvassed and the result determined in the manner provided by the laws of the state of Iowa for the canvass of votes for representatives in Congress." and when so amended the bill do pass.

WHEREAS: No material relief by accessions from the ranks of regular normal school and college graduates can be expected under present rural salary and town competitive conditions; and,

WHEREAS: The erecting and equipping of a normal school plant is a very considerable expense in itself and entails large annual appropriations thereafter; and,

WHEREAS: The demands upon the state treasury for educational purposes are already far in excess of our regrettably meager available revenue; therefore,

Be it resolved, That such funds as would otherwise be diverted to the establishment, equipment, and maintenance of additional state normal schools will serve the state more effectively if used in furthering the scope and efficiency of the courses of normal training already established and to be established in our various high schools, and should be so used.

Des Moines, Iowa, February 20, 1913.

Dear Sir:—

I assume you are vitally interested in your schools, and unless you take immediate action a proposed "book-agents' law" will be thrust upon you by the present state legislature.

The present school book law was passed in 1891. It provides that the voters of any county may adopt county uniformity of school books and place this power in a county board of education consisting of the county superintendent, county auditor and the board of supervisors, who must contract every five years for all the school books used in the county.

Immediately after this law was passed 36 counties voted to adopt county uniformity of text books for their public schools. During the past twenty years, although all the remaining counties, including your own, have voted one or more times on the question of county uniformity, only eighteen other counties have adopted the plan proposed in the law, the remaining forty-five counties by a vote of the people declared against a law which so often proved unsatisfactory in counties having county uniformity and which did not permit them to go back to the former system.

These forty-five counties secure all the benefits of county uniformity by co-operation in the selection of books, as is by the county board plan, and with less attendant evils. The school book companies do not think that books are changed often enough and have a strong lobby in Des Moines working for the passage of a bill known as House File No. 262, by Craig, and Senate File No. 131, by Chase, which makes it compulsory in the forty-five counties that do not have county uniformity to adopt a uniform series of text books at once and every five years thereafter; it takes from the voters of each county the power to decide this matter for themselves.

Compulsory county uniformity if passed will not give to the county board of education any power to control the retail prices of books that is not now possessed by the local school boards under the present law.

A law that will compel 99 counties of the state to adopt text books every five years will certainly be a good thing for school book publishers, but at the expense of the patrons of the schools who "pay the bills."

One bill, wider in scope, and consequently more objectionable, known as House File No. 114, by Kulp, provides for state-wide uniformity of text, the selection of books being left to a commission consisting of the state superintendent, the governor, the state auditor, the state treasurer and the secretary of state. This measure in various forms has been defeated over and over again by our legislatures during the past twenty years. Noted educators do not approve it. It gives inferior books in binding, material and educationally. It is adopted in a few of the southern states where the race question largely controls the people in matters of self-government.

If school book concerns are so interested in compulsory county uniformity, what might be their interest in state wide adoption?

A hearing on the above bills will be held before the House School committee on the 21st and 26th of this month, so if you are opposed to these bills, and the scheme of school book lobby, will you kindly circulate the enclosed petition among the voters of your neighborhood, and send one copy to your representative and one copy to your senator (each signer to sign both) and also get as many as you can to write personal letters to your senator and representative not later than the 24th.

Yours truly,

C. E. AKERS,
Former Co. Supt. Polk. Co.
Box 355, Des Moines, Ia.

JOS. E. MEYER,
Secretary.

SENATE MESSAGE CONSIDERED.

Brady of Dallas called up concurrent resolution relative to the adoption of the rules of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly, and moved that the House refuse to concur in Senate amendments.

Motion prevailed, and House refused to concur in Senate amendments.

Greene of Clinton offered the following:

RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS: It would be a lamentable state of affairs if the members of the General Assembly, through possible secretive methods of conducting committee meetings, should cease to be representative of the people in the true sense of the word and thereby develop a system of autocracy which would be un-American; and,

WHEREAS: It is the duty of every member of the General Assembly of the state of Iowa to act and vote in regard to all public questions on their merit instead of for political effect or personal advantage; and,

WHEREAS: The legislative department of our government should be one of, for and by the people and cannot be conducted in that true sense if the representatives of the people legislate or block legislation in accordance with the will of the few rather than in harmony with the expression of the many; therefore,

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Iowa, That all sessions of committees representing this body be open to the public and votes of the committees be recorded in the Journal of the House, thus providing a record by which the representatives may be justly held accountable to their constituents; and,

Be it further resolved, That the press of the state is hereby invited to indulge in the broadest criticism and in all possible ways aid the people of the state in arriving at correct information concerning the procedure of this Assembly.

Laid over under Rule 34.

Scholz of Clayton offered the following concurrent resolution, asked unanimous consent for immediate consideration, and moved its adoption:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS: By authority of a concurrent resolution an invitation has been extended to James Wilson, for sixteen years secretary of agriculture, to address a joint convention of the Senate and House; and,

WHEREAS: It having been ascertained that Mr. Wilson will be able to address a joint convention of the Senate and the House on Friday, March 14, 1913; therefore,

Be it resolved by the House, the Senate concurring, That a joint convention of the Senate and House be held in the hall of the House of Representatives on Friday, March 14, 1913, at eleven o'clock A. M. for the purpose of hearing an address by James Wilson, in which address he will review his sixteen years' service as secretary of agriculture.

CONSIDERATION OF BILLS.

On motion of Bruce of Floyd, House File No. 98, a bill for an act to amend the law as it appears in section two thousand seven hundred thirty-four-b (2734-b) supplement to the code, 1907, relating to the qualifications of county superintendent, with report of committee recommending passage as amended, was taken up and considered.

Kingland of Winnebago offered the following amendment and moved its adoption:

MR. SPEAKER—I move as a substitute amendment to committee report that House File No. 98 be amended by striking out all of said bill following the enacting clause, and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

SECTION 1. That section two thousand seven hundred thirty-four-b (2734-b) of the Supplement to the Code, 1907, be and the same is hereby amended by striking out all of the first three lines, and the first four words of the fourth line, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

“The county superintendent, who may be of either sex, shall be the holder of a regular five year state certificate or a life diploma, and after the year 1918, shall have had at least five (5) years’ experience in teaching or superintending.”

EXPLANATION OF VOTE.

I desire to explain my vote on this amendment. I want the qualifications for county superintendent to be the very highest that we can consistently make them, but I believe that in 99 cases out of 100 the person who holds a five year state certificate has also had at least two years' work of normal or college training above the high school, and if the 100th person has succeeded through his own efforts in qualifying himself for a state certificate and has demonstrated his ability by doing so, I am willing that he too should be eligible to the office of county superintendent.

I therefore vote aye on the amendment.

WALTER P. JENSEN.

Bruce of Floyd moved that the rules be suspended, the bill be considered engrossed, and read a third time now, which motion prevailed, and the bill was read a third time.

By striking out the last paragraph before the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

“WHEREAS, The proceedings of the town council and town officers of said town of Sheldahl, Iowa, in granting said franchise and in submitting the granting of said franchise to the voters of said town at an election held for such purpose, did not comply with the law in such cases made and provided in that the records of said town council do not show that three distinct readings were had, and in that it appears that the ordinance granting said franchise was not read on three different days, and in that it appears that the notice given to the electors of said town of the special election to vote on the granting of said franchise, did not distinctly describe the ordinance providing for the granting of said franchise except by reference thereto and said ordinance was not incorporated in said notice, and in that said notice provided that the polls should be open from 1 o'clock to 5 o'clock P. M., and in that said polls were not open during hours prescribed by law for the keeping of the polls open at such election; and,

“WHEREAS, Doubts have arisen as to the legality and sufficiency of the records and proceedings of the said town council and town officers of said town because of the matters and things above referred to; now therefore,”

By striking out the words “legalized and”, being the second and third words of the last line of section 1, and by striking out the period (.) at the end of said section and inserting a comma (,) in lieu thereof, and by adding the following words immediately following said comma: “the same as if all provisions of law relating to the granting of said franchise had in all respects been strictly complied with.”; and when so amended the bill do pass.

ADDRESS OF PROF. COOLEY.

Mr. President, Members of the Senate and House of Representatives and General Assembly.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—I appreciate fully the compliment of being asked to address this assembly of my native state on the important question of vocational education. You have conferred a great honor upon me and the body of men I represent by calling upon me to address you. I feel my inability to satisfy your expectations, but I could not refuse your kind invitation tendered in so complimentary a way. I hope I may be able to answer some of the questions you are asking about the future of the coming generations. I am profoundly interested in the question and my experience both as a teacher and as a mechanic and a business man give me some advantages in considering this question. I have tried to supplement this experience by an investigation of other peoples whose situation compelled them to study the question when we were driving blindly ahead relying upon our almost limitless natural wealth and native energy and ability. The time has come, however, to us—as it will to all others—when we must conserve both our natural and our human resources. This means we must develop a system of vocational schools that will be as much concerned with the education of our mechanics and farmers as we are with the training of our professional men. This is not only a duty to the state you represent, but a right of the rising generation in this great democracy.

Odin, a Servian sociologist, a representative of the rising Balkan state that is now fighting for "a place in the sun," for a right to develop her natural and human resources free from the horrible tyranny of the Turk, demonstrated to the world that the percentage of ability in a people was the same in each and every class thereof; that the apparent differences were due to differences in environment, in education, using the word in its broadest sense. The correlary of this demonstration is that it is the duty of every society to offer advantages to every class in society sufficient to conserve and develop this ability; that no nation can succeed in the industrial and commercial competition of this world who neglects this duty. I found the Germans quoting Odin and urging that they could never hope to succeed in their struggle for industrial and commercial supremacy while they continued to neglect this conservation of human ability in all classes of society, both in the world of learning and the humbler walks of life among their mechanics and their farmers. My study abroad convinced me that the Germans are fully as much concerned with opening a way to the top as we in America are, in this "land of the free and home of the brave." Their way of meeting this problem is different from ours, has less of "the devil take the hindmost" about it, but is fully as intelligent. This will explain my apparent enthusiasm for German systems of education, where efficiency is considered a necessary complement to democracy.

Lester Ward says: "Each age of the world's history stands on a platform erected by all past ages. It is true that all the members of society use to a certain extent of the products of past achievements, but in no other sense do those members stand on the elevated platform who do not actually possess the heritage of the past. Now, as a matter of fact, it is only the intelligent classes who really possess what I have called this heritage."

The results of the meditations and investigations of past ages form an inheritance for the whole human race. Some of this inheritance does inevitably filter down through and reach the lower strata of society; but much remains practically the inheritance of the few who have the time and the means to enter into their inheritance through education of various sorts, including that of the schools. Many do not avail themselves of opportunities to share in this inheritance on account of lack of time, lack of means and lack of inclination for serious study, due to a failure to appreciate the value of this inheritance; many on account of actual inability, mental, moral or economical.

The whole human race is interested, however, in the equitable distribution of this inheritance as its greatest benefits result from its general distribution, rather than from its monopolization by the few. Knowledge is power, but it is social power only when society generally is in possession of it. When confined to a few it may be a social curse, as the monopolization of material wealth often is. Society is sound to the core only when all parts are equitably nourished from this common fund and no organ, however humble, is starved into weakness and inefficiency.

This conception of society as an organism does not presuppose that all its members will be able to utilize these opportunities to the same extent or in the same way, but it does presuppose that all have an access to this common fund of the race long enough to enable them to get the substance they require for their healthy development and to enable them to perform their functions efficiently. Society as a whole must provide such opportunity for all its members as a means of self-preservation.

This means as a practical proposition that access to this common inheritance must not be closed to ninety per cent of our children when they are barely fourteen years of age, just at the time when they most need guidance and instruction, just at the time when character building really begins, and just when they should be objects of special attention in our educational plans. Whether the youth appreciates the need of further education or not is not the question. Society must appreciate it and provide for it by extending the compulsory period of education to cover the years of development between fourteen and eighteen, even for those compelled to devote most of their time and energy to bread-winning. One of the blunders of civilized countries, a blunder that has led to an enormous increase in the number of youthful vagabonds and criminals, has been to neglect him and to act as though there were a sharply defined line separating the child from the man; as though it were a wise educational policy to care for him systematically up to fourteen and then leave him abruptly and absolutely to the tender mercies of the factory and street.

Society cannot, therefore, continue to expend vast sums of money for high schools and universities and neglect the ninety per cent who go into vocational life with only elementary school training without repudiating the reasons usually given for having schools of any sort as a public charge. If self-preservation through the training of the character of the future citizen is the justification for spending public money for schools, the state must enter the entire field of vocational education, and must provide for all—the artisan, the professional man, the farmer and the merchant. Justice to the individual, as well as self-preservation of the state demands it. As Frederick Paulsen puts it: "We must build upon our elementary schools as a fundamental form of schools a new finishing educational institution, or give to the elementary school instruction its necessary conclusion in a vocational high school, a school whose problem will be the carrying of general education for vocational activity forward and making it fruitful." We have already done this for the professional and managerial classes by means of high schools and colleges and universities, but we have not provided for the great mass of our youth who enter vocational life at fourteen. It will be the educational problem of the twentieth century—as Frederick Paulsen says—to do this, to complete our system of common schools.

The problem of legislation is, therefore, to provide a system of schools which shall give opportunity to all our youth during the years of development between fourteen and eighteen, during the years of adolescence. A small per cent of our youth do now continue school in high schools and colleges until maturity and later, sometimes too long for their own and their country's good, as they postpone their entrance into vocational life until their power of adaptation begins to wane and their success in practical life is imperiled. Our problem is to extend the opportunities for vocational education to all during this adolescent period, a problem which we cannot longer defer if we hope to conserve our human resources and to hold our place in the van of civilized nations.

It will be impossible under present conditions to offer opportunities covering an equal amount of time to all members of society. A great majority must begin their vocational life at about the age of fourteen, although many begin this life sooner than necessary. For such youth the most important type of vocational schools will be the vocational continuation school, which demands from six to ten hours a week of the time of youth between fourteen and eighteen. Such schools should be day schools, well equipped and well managed by teachers and officials who will adapt them to the needs of all. They can be made to fit each trade or occupation, and can be organized both in country and city. They constitute the most universal useful form of vocational school, and are more important to us as a nation than any system of secondary schools as they reach from five to ten times as many of our youth at this critical point.

It will be the problem of these continuation schools to use the short period of time at their disposal to prepare the pupil for vocational life, including both technical and general training. In these schools we shall consider first the newly awakened needs and interests of the youth. We shall recollect that there is a limit to the amount of instruction along academic lines that they are ready to receive; that if we attempt to keep them in this new type of school and repeat the same kind of instruction as they received during eight years of childhood, we shall disappoint a majority of them, and leave them bored, sullen and obstinate. If we wish to hold them longer, we must arouse their interests by connecting the school instruction with their vocation. Through this interest, we may hope to succeed in giving them an all-around training that will not only make them more efficient bread-winners, but better men and better citizens.

These schools then must unite themselves as closely as possible to the vocation. The mountain-moving desire for earning money—as Dr. Kerschensteiner has excellently expressed it—is the best means of attracting the young at this age. When we have their living interest we can work upon them in an educational way. Ennui is ever one of the worst sins in our schools. We must grasp real life vigorously in our continuation school; we must proceed from observation, from experience; and we must not separate, as is often necessary in the elementary school, the development of the capacity in our pupils from its application to practical work, but must seek directly to develop the powers through activity and practice.

From this it is clear that we shall not teach subjects as subjects. We are not organizing a school of learning. The question before us is always what material will advance the youth in his vocation; how can it be made useful for his education; how can we heighten his joy in work and his consciousness of duty in connection with the petty problems of daily life and create a fruitful foundation for his moral and civic development. This moral and civic education must grow out of his work in vocational life, of his life in the community. It is to be developed out of the simple relations of the family, of the school and the workshop. Work of this character is all important from the standpoint of citizenship and it cannot be given during the years of childhood on account of immaturity.

These schools should be administered with the distinct purpose of developing personal efficiency in the vocation, and through efficiency and joy in work to develop social efficiency—to train the man and the citizen. They should cover the period between fourteen and eighteen, be compulsory in the daytime, free, practical and covering all kinds of vocational activity.

A system of vocational schools should include voluntary continuation schools for youth over eighteen who wish to pursue technical training further in either day or evening schools, which should provide opportunities for preparation for high schools of all sorts, as well as for practical industrial business life. They should aim at the development of ambitious youth into efficient workmen, good men and women, and good citizens.

Part-time schools should be provided wherever desired where the student is employed part of the time (usually about one-half), in a factory, the remainder of the time being given to instruction in a school furnished and supported by the state. The shop will provide the severely technical part of the training, the school supplementing it by such instruction in English, mathematics, art and science as will develop industrial intelligence and make better all-around men and citizens. Such schools will be successfully in specially favored communities where employers take a deep and practical interest in the education of their employes, but such schools cannot be depended upon to provide vocational instruction for the great majority of our youth.

America should have schools providing vocational instruction for the full time of the students, and undertaking in a course of two years to prepare for apprenticeship or for practical work in the various occupations, such as agriculture, commerce, or home-making. They may include:

1. Schools which offer courses to youth who are unable to enter apprenticeship on account of immaturity, but who wish to acquire such preliminary knowledge of some vocations as will enable them to shorten the time of actual service as an apprentice. In America there are many who believe that one or two year courses, preparatory to entrance into the shop or factory, are especially important, as they bridge over the gap between the time of leaving school at fourteen and the usual time of entering into apprenticeship at sixteen.

2. Schools which will impart vocational instruction to both boys and girls between the years of fourteen and sixteen who enter the industries without the training of an apprenticeship. Such schools—especially those for the women's trades—have already demonstrated their efficiency in the east. The Manhattan Trade School in New York and the Boston Trade School for Girls have been very successful in preparing girls between fourteen and sixteen for practical vocational life.

3. Schools for youth of both sexes who wish to enter upon commercial pursuits. A practical course of two years should enable them to take good positions on leaving the school. Courses far superior—both from a cultural and a practical point of view—to those given in our modern business colleges can be offered and be completed in the time proposed. The public should provide them.

4. Schools should be opened which offer courses in home-making, including sanitation, cooking, sewing, care of children, care of sick, and subjects related to home economics. In many communities special subjects—such as care of a dairy, and preserving of fruit and vegetables, may be taught. "Home-making" should not be taken in any narrow sense of the word, but must be as broad as the field of the home in modern life. In the judgment of the writer this should include some training in art and music.

5. Agricultural winter-schools. There are some special features to be mentioned in connection with this special type of schools as planned for youth in the country. These youth are not able to attend school during the entire ten months of school instruction in the ordinary town or city. They must put in the summer months in work on the farm. These schools should be open for five or six months of the year, in the daytime, and should furnish industrial, business, and agricultural training.

The courses should be two years in length, and the vocational subjects should be taught by men and women, trained technically and practically in agriculture. During the summer months such men or women should be employed as itinerant teachers in visiting the students of the school at their home work on the farms, in consulting with and advising parents on scientific and business questions, and in giving lectures and demonstrations on practical subjects connected with farming.

In addition to the itinerant teachers from the agricultural winter-schools, there should be a permanent staff of itinerant teachers who give special scientific advice and instruction to the farmers of the district served. These teachers should specialize in some line of agricultural work, such as live stock, small grains, swine, dairying, horse-raising, bee-keeping, garden vegetables, fruits, or business. One of the principal advantages of this system of schools over the ordinary agricultural departments in high schools is the close touch between teachers, pupils, and parents—both in the school and on the farm.

In connection with such agricultural winter-schools there should also be conducted evening agricultural continuation schools for persons older than eighteen. Such classes should be under the same general management and direction as the agricultural winter-schools, and should be supplied with practical teachers. The courses, in addition to some academic work, should pay especial attention to the academic, technical and business needs of the pupils to be served.

These schools will necessarily be day schools, managed by specially trained teachers seeking special practical ends, and treating subjects as they are related to the vocational life of the pupils. They must, therefore, be administered and controlled largely by men and women from practical life for whom and with whom the youth will be associated in vocational life. As these schools are radically different from the ordinary ones in purpose, methods and scope of work, special machinery must be provided for organizing and administering them. These schools aim at vocational efficiency and can secure it only by the closest possible cooperation of the persons carrying on the vocation—the employers and employes. As the vocation is the center of interest, rather than any subject or subjects, persons must administer these schools who know the vocations from the standpoint of both employer and employe.

It will be futile to expect the ordinary teacher who has been trained to teach subjects in a systematic thorough-going way, to select and teach the portions of these subjects that have a direct practical bearing upon vocational life. Such teachers cannot possibly select these portions of the subject. Experience has shown, however, that no such controlling body has been entirely successful in the past that has not included teachers. There is no place in any educational institution—whether school or shop—where skill in handling youth, skill and facility in analyzing and developing subjects is not important. Then, too, the educator will be the one who will be most apt to look beyond the immediate practical aim of securing mechanical efficiency to the ultimate end of training the man and the citizen. Without the practical man the school will not keep in touch with actual life conditions; without the educator, they will waste the time and strength of the pupils by ill-considered methods of instruction, and will be dominated too completely by the vocational aim. We require men and citizens as well as workmen, and we cannot secure them without the united effort of both the practical men and the educators.

To recapitulate, in legislation providing for vocational education we should aim first at reaching all members of society, should attempt to offer opportunity for a finishing education to every one—both men and women. Second, such a scheme should take into consideration that the period covered is that of adolescence, when the enormous physical, mental and moral changes are taking place in the youth, and when the standards of social and personal efficiency will be made or marred.

It is the period of idealism, of adventure, of criticism, of restlessness under control. Through the activities of the vocation and the theoretical instruction related to it we must secure both economic and social efficiency, must attempt to train the man and the citizen as well as the mechanic.

We must realize in administering these schools the economic as well as the cultural value of the training in the ordinary school arts. Third, in organizing and administering these schools we should include both the man from the industries and the man from the school. We must have both. The practical men and women, however, should be given the more prominent place as experience shows that such schools have been successful only when they have been administered by the class of men and women for whom and with whom the youth will be associated during his vocational life.

It is plainly impossible to provide in the present system of elementary and secondary schools the instruction recommended. Separate schools are necessary whose equipment, corps of teachers, and board of administration must be in the closest possible relation to the occupations. In such schools the application of general education to vocational work can be made only by men who know the vocations. The boards of education administering such institutions must give them far greater attention on the practical side than the ordinary boards of education need to do in the case of academic schools. No corps of teachers can be expected to keep up with all the latest developments in vocational life. This must be the special problem of the boards of practical men administering the schools.

These schools must not in any way be regarded as substitutes for the present forms of schools. The present system is doing a necessary work, and ought not to be disturbed, except to perfect it. The new type of school is a supplement to the old one, an attempt to carry further and apply general education to the practical problems of life.

Such a system of schools will require a special tax to support it. The present school revenues are insufficient for the present needs of the schools. No part of this general school revenue should be set aside for the support of a system of vocational schools. A special tax one-half raised by the community served, and one-half provided in the shape of a state grant when authorized by Commission on Vocational Education, should be provided for the support of these vocational schools.

Such schools should be separate, independent, compulsory day schools, supported by special taxes, carried on usually in special buildings, administered by special boards of practical men and women, taught by specially trained practical men from the vocations, and securing the closest possible co-operation between the school and the factory, the school and the farm, the school and the counting room, or the school and the home. Adaptation and co-operation are the watch-words for the new type of schools.

A BILL FOR AN ACT to Authorize and Empower the Governor of the State of Iowa to Issue Land Patent, Attested by Secretary of State, to and in Favor of Albert Husa, Conveying Certain Real Estate Located in Johnson County, Iowa, and Described More Particularly as Lot Seven (7), Block Fifty-five (55), Iowa City, Iowa.

On the 29th day of December, 1839, lot seven (7), block fifty-five (55), in Iowa City, Iowa, was sold to C. Swan for forty-one dollars ($41), as shown by the record of original sales of lots in Iowa City, Iowa. Final payment was made therefor on the 31st day of May, 1841. On the same date certificate of final payment was issued to the said C. Swan. C. Swan failed to present his final certificate and no land patent was issued for said lot. Prior to 1845 the said lot was listed for taxes and on the 4th day of March, 1848, was reported to the district court of Iowa in and for Johnson county for delinquent taxes. Due notice was given according to law and the lot was afterwards sold for taxes. A tax deed was issued to George W. Brandon, who, together with his grantees, has been in possession of said lot since the 4th day of April, 1848. Albert Husa is now the record and equitable owner of said lot, holding by a direct chain of title since 1848, and since which date the property has been occupied in good faith. Valuable improvements have been made thereon from time to time by the owners thereof in the belief that a land patent had been issued therefor, and that said tax title was of full validity.

WHEREAS: The above is a complete and correct statement of fact regarding the ownership of the above described real estate, now, therefore,

Be It Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

SECTION 1. That the governor of the state of Iowa and the secretary of state be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to issue to the said Albert Husa a land patent in the usual form to lot seven (7), block fifty-five (55), of Iowa City, Iowa, which shall constitute an absolute conveyance of all rights, title and interest which the state of Iowa may have in and to said premises. Provided, however, that this act shall not affect in any way pending litigation.

A BILL FOR AN ACT to Authorize and Empower the Governor of the State of Iowa to Issue Land Patent Attested by the Secretary of State to and in Favor of John Vesely, Conveying Certain Real Estate Located in Johnson County, Iowa, and Described More Particularly as Lot Six (6), Block (9), County Seat of Johnson County, Iowa.

Lot six (6), block nine (9), county seat of Johnson county, Iowa, was on the 14th day of January, 1846, conveyed by the United States to the commissioners of Johnson county, Iowa, for county seat purposes. Johnson county, Iowa, sold the above described real estate to I. B. Hollingsworth, who paid the full consideration therefor, but who failed to secure from the said Johnson county deed therefor. Prior to June 1, 1858, the said lot was listed for taxes and on said date was sold for taxes to Le Grand Byington. On the 21st day of March, 1878, the above described property was conveyed by sheriff deed to Benjamin Owen, who together with his grantees, has been in possession of said lot since the 21st day of March, 1878. Jno. Vesely is now the record and equitable owner of said lot holding by a direct chain of title since 1878, and since which date the property has been occupied in good faith. Valuable improvements have been made thereon from time to time by the owners thereof in the belief that the property had been fully conveyed by Johnson county Iowa, and that the tax title referred to above was of full validity.

WHEREAS: The above is a complete and correct statement of facts regarding the ownership of the above described real estate, now, therefore,

Be It Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

SECTION 1. That the governor of the state of Iowa and the secretary of state be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to issue to the said John Vesely a land patent in the usual form to lot six (6), block nine (9), county seat of Johnson county, Iowa, which shall constitute an absolute conveyance of all rights, title and interest which the state of Iowa may have in and to said premises. Stokes of Plymouth submitted the following statement and asked that it be printed in the Journal:

MR. SPEAKER—I rise to a question of personal privilege. This General Assembly is being flooded with petitions which come in answer to circulars issued by one J. W. Johnson, who connects the Iowa State Grange with the opposition to a tax commission of the state. In these circulars are misstatements and misrepresentation of fact. I am a member of the Grange. Mr. Johnson is not connected with this organization and does not represent it in any wise. The Grange does not use methods which this man employs. The Grange stands for the building up of the interests of the farmers by all proper and lawful means. It stands for equal treatment to all and special privileges to none.

Be it Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

SECTION 1. The board of educational examiners shall be the board of trustees of the teachers' annuity fund herein created. They shall annually, at the proper time, certify to the state executive council the amount of tax, not exceeding two-tenths of a mill on the dollar, necessary to meet the requirements of the fund; and the state executive council shall levy such tax upon all the taxable property within the state at the time, and in the manner, of the levy of other state taxes. All moneys derived from taxes so levied and all moneys received as dues hereinafter provided and all moneys received from grants, donations, and devises for the benefit of such fund shall constitute a fund to be known and designated as the teachers' annuity fund, which said fund shall be under the control of the board of trustees, and shall be devoted exclusively to and for the purposes herein enumerated. The fund shall be a state fund, and shall be deposited with the treasurer of the state. The board of trustees shall upon the retirement of the annuitant certify to the auditor of state, the name of the teacher, the amount of the annuity and the amount said teacher has contributed to the teachers' annuity fund. The auditor of the state shall draw on the said fund, warrants payable to the annuitant for the amount certified as provided herein.

SEC. 2. The teachers' annuity fund shall be kept and preserved as a separate fund. The auditor of state with the advice and consent of the board of trustees created hereby shall invest any surplus left in the fund at the end of the fiscal year not necessary for immediate use in carrying out the provisions of this act, in interest bearing bonds of the United States, of the state of Iowa, or of any county, township or municipal corporation of the state of Iowa, or in mortgages on unincumbered real estate within this state. Said fund may be loaned by the county auditor on lands within the county where application for such loan is filed. Each loan shall be made for at least one year and not more than ten years, evidenced by promissory notes bearing not less than five (5%) per cent interest per annum payable annually. Delinquent interest or principal to draw interest at the rate of eight (8%) per cent. The amount loaned to any one person or company shall not exceed five thousand ($5,000) dollars and in no case shall exceed fifty (50%) per cent of the appraised value of the real estate, exclusive of improvements, by which such loan is secured. All application to borrow from the teachers' annuity fund shall be made to the auditor of the county in which the land is situated with which it is proposed to secure such loan. The county auditor shall cause an abstract of title to be prepared and the lands to be appraised at the borrower's expense, by three disinterested freeholders of such county. The said appraisers shall be paid as compensation for their services the sum of two and 50-100 ($2.50) dollars per day and mileage. The county auditor shall be paid by the borrower the sum of three ($3.00) dollars for each loan made. The lands shall be appraised at their value in the market in the ordinary course of trade and the appraisers shall make return to the county auditor under oath. Such return shall show the value of the land without improvements, the kind of buildings thereon, and the value of any such buildings and the value of any other improvements upon such lands. Upon receipt of an application to borrow from such fund, the county auditor shall make requisition upon the auditor of the state for the amount desired. The auditor of state, if there be sufficient funds available, shall so notify the county auditor and upon receipt of a proper application return of the appraisers, note and mortgage securing such loan, together with an abstract showing a good and perfect title to the lands to be vested in the proposed borrower as herein provided, issue his warrant upon such fund to the treasurer of state in favor of such borrower, provided however, that no such warrant shall be issued except when the attorney general, after examination of the abstract of title, shall have found the borrower to have good and perfect title to the lands securing the proposed loan. Any officer, trustee or other person using or misappropriating any part of such funds, or any interest therefrom shall be deemed guilty of felony and punished as in case of embezzlement of other public funds, and any such person and any bond conditioned upon the faithful performance of the duties of any such person shall be liable for any such funds misappropriated with legal interest and costs.

The trustees created by this act shall cause to be prepared blank forms for application for loans, forms of bonds or notes with interest coupons attached, blanks for return of appraisers, mortgage and release blanks, also blank record books wherein the auditor and treasurer of state shall record all loans which record shall show the name of the borrower and his post office address, a description of the real estate securing such loans, the date and amount of the loan, and the date when such loan becomes due, the rate of interest, the date when interest payments become due and the amount of such payments, and such other information as will give a full description of such loan.

Upon payment of any interest, the treasurer of state shall report such payment to the auditor of state, giving the name of the payee, number of the loan and coupon paid, and upon payment of any part of the principal of such loan, the treasurer of state shall issue a receipt for such payment and file a duplicate thereof with the auditor of state.

Whenever any such loan shall have been redeemed the treasurer of state shall certify to the auditor of state such payment giving number of the loan redeemed and the name of the person making such redemption. Upon receipt of such certificates the auditor of state shall prepare a release of such loans which release shall be signed by the auditor of state and countersigned by the treasurer of state and forwarded by mail to the party making such redemption with the auditor of state's warrants for the amount of the necessary recording fee.

SEC. 3. The board of trustees may take by gift, grant, devise or bequest, any money or property, real or personal, or other thing of value for the benefit of the teachers' annuity fund, and such gift, grant, devise or bequest, shall be invested and held as a permanent fund unless otherwise specified by the grantor, and the interest or income from such investment shall be added to the general annuity fund for the payment of annuities.

SEC. 4. There shall be deducted one per cent from the monthly salary of every teacher who may come within the provisions of this act, and who may be credited with not more than ten years' service, and two per cent from the monthly salary of all teachers of more than ten years' service, who may come within the provisions of this act, for the benefit of the annuity fund and the sum of said deductions shall be forwarded monthly to the county treasurer, who shall on the 15th day of each month forward to the state treasurer all moneys belonging to said fund in his hands. The amount of said deductions shall be a part of every teacher's contract unless otherwise provided in this act and shall continue until the expiration of twenty-five years' service, or until a total sum of five hundred ($500) dollars shall have been contributed and the deductions shall then cease. There shall, however, be an additional sum paid by such teacher upon retirement equal to the difference in the amount already contributed and the amount of the annuity to be paid such teacher. This additional sum may either be paid in a lump sum or deducted from the first year's annuity. In determining the first ten years of service for which the one per cent deduction shall be made, the time served outside of the state shall be counted.

After the passage of this act every teacher employed in the public schools of this state during the school year of 1912-1913 upon renewing his or her contract shall be conclusively deemed to undertake and agree to have such assessments deducted from his or her salary, as provided herein, unless said teacher shall file with the board of trustees a written declaration of intention not to come within the provisions of this act. Upon the filing of such declaration the teacher may have until September 1, 1914, but not thereafter, the right to withdraw said declaration and accept the benefits provided herein. No teacher shall be discriminated against on account of refusal to come within the provisions of this act in renewing his or her contract.

SEC. 5. The required term of service to entitle a teacher to share in the benefits of the annuity fund shall be twenty-five years, eighteen years of which service shall have been spent in the state of Iowa. The remaining seven years of the twenty-five may have been spent in the public schools of any other state. After the required twenty-five years of service no credit shall be allowed for time thereafter spent in other than the public schools of Iowa.

SEC. 6. In computing the time of service of a teacher the length of the school year in the district taught shall constitute a year, provided said term shall not be less than six months. In a calendar year beginning July 1st and ending June 30th, credit shall be allowed for one school year only. If a teacher teaches only a fractional part of a year credit shall be given for such fractional part of a year as the time taught shall bear to the school year of such district.

SEC. 7. No period out of school work shall be counted in computing time of service unless such period was, or is, a leave of absence duly granted by the board of directors, and such leave of absence may consist of a whole year, or may consist of periods of leaves of absences but the total sum of such periods shall not exceed one full school year.

SEC. 8. The board of directors shall give to each teacher a certificate at the close of each school year certifying the time of service for that year and the amount contributed to the annuity fund as herein provided, and shall record the same in the records of the district, and such certificate shall be evidence of term of service and contribution to the annuity fund.

SEC. 9. Proof of term of service shall be the certificates given from year to year by the boards of directors as provided herein or it may be established by an affidavit from the teacher and one from the superintendent of schools or a member of the board of directors of each district in which such teacher was regularly employed. In case the superintendent or the members of the school board are deceased, or cannot be reached, the term of service may be established by the affidavits of reputable persons who were residents of the districts at the time of the service and can testify from their personal knowledge, or by such other evidence as the board of trustees may consider conclusive.

SEC. 10. Upon the completion of twenty-five or more years of service as herein provided the teacher shall have the right to retire upon a life annuity equal to fifteen dollars ($15.00) for each year of accredited service, said sum to be paid in twelve equal monthly payments, but such annuity shall not in any case exceed the sum of six hundred dollars ($600). Any teacher who has taught not less than twenty years in the state and has reached the age of sixty years, or any teacher who has taught not less than five years in the state and who has become permanently disabled, shall have the right to retire upon a life annuity of fifteen dollars ($15.00) per year for each year of service accredited, but in estimating such term of service time taught outside of the state will not be counted.

SEC. 11. Any teacher who desires to retire as an annuitant, and who has complied with the provisions of the law, must make written application to the board of trustees, and must have been regularly employed in school work in the public schools of Iowa for a period of five of the seven years next preceding the date of such application. No teacher, however, who has the right to retire shall lose said right by being discharged from his or her position, and may make application and prove his or her rights. Any annuitant subsequently engaged in teaching for twenty (20) or more consecutive school days in any school year, shall forfeit his or her annuity for such time taught.

SEC. 12. Any teacher who resigns after three years of service without the intention of again teaching, may, upon written application to the board of trustees within six months after such resignation and presenting certificates of amount contributed to the annuity fund, be repaid one-half of the sum contributed and in case said teacher reenter public school work he or she shall restore such refund together with four per cent, simple interest in addition to the regular deduction from salary. In the event of the death of a teacher before retirement the entire amount of his or her contribution to the fund shall be paid to his or her estate.

SEC. 13. The word "teacher" as construed in this act shall mean all persons regularly engaged in teaching or administration in the public schools of any state, including city and county superintendents, assistant superintendents, supervisors, principals and teachers.

SEC. 14. No heirs, legatees, creditors or assignees shall be entitled to any part of the fund which shall be created as provided in this act, except as provided for in the death of a teacher, and such fund shall be exempt from garnishment or execution.

SEC. 15. The board of trustees are hereby authorized to retire teachers as provided herein, and to make such additional rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purpose of this act. They are also authorized to employ such clerical assistance as may be necessary to discharge the duties created herein, the same to be paid as provided in section twenty-six hundred and thirty-four-a (2634-a), supplement to the Code, 1907; and when so amended the bill do pass.

Huff of Hardin, from the committee on Contested Elections, submitted the following report:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

Frank Sellman, Contestant,

vs.

David Meredith, Incumbent.

MR. SPEAKER: Your committee on Contested Election appointed by the House to consider the contest of Frank Sellman, contestant, vs. David Meredith, incumbent, consisting of Huff of Hardin, Larrabee of Fayette, Chapman of Guthrie, Scholz of Clayton and Boettger of Scott, respectfully submit the following report to the House.

The initial meeting of the committee was held on the 29th day of January, at which meeting the chairman was authorized to request the speaker and chief clerk to issue subpoenas for the attendance of such witnesses as the contestant and incumbent may request the chairman to have subpoenaed, and also to request the speaker and chief clerk to issue a subpoena for the attendance of H. S. Rayburn, county auditor of Jasper county; said subpoena to require the said auditor to produce and bring with him for the use in the trial of this contest the ballots cast and the poll books used at the last general election held in Jasper county on November 5, 1912. The committee at this meeting also assigned the contest for trial on Friday, January 31st, at two o'clock, P. M.

In compliance with the request of the chairman of the committee, the speaker and chief clerk, did, on the 30th day of January, issue a subpoena directed to H. S. Rayburn, county auditor of Jasper county requesting him to appear at the room of said committee in the State House at Des Moines, Iowa, on the 31st day of January, to give evidence concerning said contest before said committee; said subpoena also required the said Rayburn to produce all ballots voted at the general election held in Jasper county on November 5, 1912, and also all of the poll books used at said election, and the said subpoena was mailed to W. S. Gove, sheriff of Jasper county for service upon the said Rayburn, and on the 31st day of January, the said subpoena was served upon the said Rayburn and return of service made thereon and the same was returned to the chief clerk. The said subpoena is returned with this report marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof.

On the 31st day of January, the committee met pursuant to adjournment, all members of the committee being present, L. A. Wells appearing for the contestant, Frank Sellman, and Jesse A. Miller, Charles S. Wilcox and E. J. Salmon appearing for the incumbent, David Meredith. The contestant and incumbent appeared in person. L. A. Wells, attorney for contestant, read the notice of contest and also the statement of contest of Frank Sellman, and made a preliminary statement to the committee; said petition is attached to this report, marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof. The contestant in his petition alleges that he is qualified to hold the office of representative from the 38th district of Iowa; that at the election held on the 5th day of November, 1912 in the said county and district, the contestant, Frank Sellman, received 2,479 votes and the incumbent, David Meredith, received 2,482 votes as shown by the official counts of the board of supervisors, and the incumbent was declared, on the 13th day of November, 1912, by the said county board* of canvassers to be elected by a plurality of three votes. The contestant further averred in said petition that the board of canvassers, to-wit, the judges and clerks of election, in each and every precinct in said county, committed errors and mistakes in counting said ballots cast in said precincts and in declaring the results of the votes in said precinct and counted and recorded a number of votes for the incumbent which should have been counted for the contestant, and failed to count votes for anybody which should have been counted for contestant, the exact number of votes so erroneously counted for the incumbent that were cast for the contestant and not counted at all that should have been counted for contestant, being to the contestant unknown, but the contestant alleges that if the said error, mistakes and omissions were corrected and the votes so cast in said precincts that were erroneously counted for the incumbent and counted for the contestant, and votes for contestant not counted, were counted for contestant, the contestant would have received more votes in each and every precinct than were declared by the said canvassing board and clerks of election, and the result of the election with reference to said office would have been thereby changed and contestant would have been declared elected instead of the incumbent; that the judges and clerks of said election, in each precinct, counted votes that were in truth and in fact not cast for any candidate for representative: that said judges and clerks of said election counted votes for the incumbent that were represented by ballots that were illegal and should not have been counted for either candidate; that said judges and clerks of election counted sufficient number of votes for the incumbent that were not legally cast for the incumbent and a sufficient number of votes for the incumbent which were legally cast for contestant, and a sufficient number of votes for the incumbent that were represented on ballots that should have been wholly rejected as illegal and failed to count a number of votes which were cast for the office of representative to have changed the result of the election; that the contestant was legally elected representative for the 38th district of Iowa, consisting of Jasper county, by a substantial majority over the incumbent if said errors and mistakes by the board of canvassers had not been committed and if all legal votes cast for the contestant had been counted for contestant, and all illegal votes for the incumbent had been rejected by the board of canvassers and all votes counted that were legally cast for said office. Said petition contains the prayer that the contestant be declared to be duly elected and entitled to said office.

E. J. Salmon read the answer of the incumbent, David Meredith, and made a preliminary statement on behalf of said incumbent. The said incumbent, in his answer, denies each and every allegation made and contained in the various divisions and paragraphs of contestant's petition not admitted the same as if such separate allegations were traversed and denied in their order. Said answer admits (a) that contestant and incumbent were rival candidates for the office of representative as alleged, (b) that contestant was eligible to such office, (c) that incumbent was duly declared elected to said office and certificate was issued accordingly, and that it was determined by the board of canvassers of said district that contestant received 2,479 votes and incumbent 2,482 votes for said office at said election. The incumbent in said answer denies that the judges and clerks of any precinct at said election made any errors or mistakes in counting and recording to him any vote or votes which should have been accredited to contestant, or failed to count any vote or votes for contestant to which he was legally entitled, or counted any vote or votes for incumbent other than such as he had a right to. The incumbent further denies that any illegal ballot or ballots were cast and counted for him in any of the voting precincts in said district county at said election, or that any legal ballot or ballots cast for contestant were rejected or not counted by any election board at any of the said voting precincts as alleged by contestant. The incumbent further denies that any election board in any of the said voting precincts in canvassing and declaring the vote cast for said office of representative erroneously or illegally accredited to incumbent any vote or votes in excess of the number actually and legally cast for him for said office, or illegally or unlawfully rejected any vote or votes lawfully cast for contestant which were not counted for him. The incumbent further specifically denies that contestant was legally elected to said office of representative. For further answer thereto and as other grounds upon which incumbent relies to further establish the validity of his election to the aforesaid office, he alleges, (1) that there were cast for incumbent for said office at said election in each of the voting precincts of said district county, legal votes, the exact number of which are not at this time known to incumbent, which were not counted and returned for him as by law required; (2) that there were cast at said election in each of the several voting precincts of said county, divers votes for said office of representative, the exact number of which are not at this time known to incumbent, which were erroneously and illegally counted and returned for contestant for the reasons following: (a) Said several voters failed to mark their respective ballots by making a cross in the square opposite the name of the contestant. (b) Numerous ballots were marked in such a manner as to constitute identification marks within the meaning of the law. (c) Numerous ballots were so marked that it was impossible to determine the voter's choice for said office. (3) That in Reasnor precinct, Palo Alto township, said county, the election board failed to substantially comply with the requirements of section 1096 of the Code of Iowa in conducting said election; that the poll in said precinct was opened at about six o'clock in the morning and numerous ballots were received and accepted from voters between said hour and the hour of eight o'clock A. M., at which time said poll should have been opened under the law, and that many ballots were received and accepted from divers voters before the election board of said precinct was legally organized. That by reason of the premises, the returns from said precinct, as also the votes cast therein, should be rejected, not counted, and held for naught. (4) That the several election boards in each of the precincts in said district county, in canvassing and declaring the vote cast for the contestant for said office, through mistake and oversight, inadvertently accredited to contestant votes in excess of the number actually cast for him for said office. (5) That incumbent received at said election a majority of all the legal votes cast by the qualified electors of said district, for said office, and he is therefore, duly, as he has been officially declared, elected to said office, and now rightfully holds the proper certificate thereof. (6) The incumbent further avers that the contest herein is frivolous, and not prosecuted in good faith by contestant, as will more fully appear in the further progress of said contest. The said answer is attached to this report, marked Exhibit "C" and made a part hereof.

Thereupon the following stipulation was entered in the record: "It is agreed by and between the parties to this contest that the auditor of Jasper county, H. S. Rayburn, shall have charge of and be the custodian of all the ballots cast in Jasper county at the election held on November 5, 1912, until such time as this committee shall discharge him from such duty. The preliminary proof being waived, it is conceded and agreed by the parties that the ballots now in the custody of H. S. Rayburn, county auditor of Jasper county, Iowa, are the ballots returned to him by the various judges and clerks of election in the several voting precincts in Jasper county, Iowa. Since the return of these ballots to the county auditor, they have been kept by Mr. Rayburn in his of-face; the right to object to any of the ballots of any precinct or township is reserved, if, in opening the sacks containing the ballots, the seals, required to be fixed by the election boards, are found to have been tampered with or broken."

H. S. Rayburn, being sworn by the chairman of the committee, testified as shown by the transcript which is returned with this report, made a part hereof and marked Exhibit "D". At the conclusion of the testimony, the committee made the following order and ordered the same entered in the record: "In conformity with the agreement entered into between the contestant and the incumbent and their attorneys, it is ordered by the committee that the counsel for the contestant and the incumbent are hereby directed to count the ballots cast in Jasper county, Iowa, for representative at the election held on the 5th day of November, 1912, and, so far as possible, to agree upon the number of ballots cast in each precinct for the contestant and the incumbent, and to submit to this committee only such ballots as they cannot agree upon; said count to be in the presence of the county auditor of Jasper county, H. S. Rayburn, and in the presence and with the assistance of Lura Chapman and Jennie R. Gregg, clerks in the House of Representatives; and the said counsel and county auditor and the said clerks are hereby directed not to convey or communicate directly or indirectly to any member of this committee or to any person, the number of votes cast for the candidates on which agreement has been reached until after this committee has determined how the disputed ballots shall be counted."

In accordance with the terms and provisions of said order, the said attorneys and clerks proceeded to count the ballots cast at the general election held on the fifth day of November, 1912, for representative from Jasper county. The said attorneys and clerks continued to count the said votes from day to day until the count of the disputed ballots was completed, as will be shown by reference to the transcript attached hereto and made a part hereof. Upon being informed that the said attorneys and clerks had completed the count of the undisputed ballots and were ready to submit to the committee the disputed ballots for a determination of the question as to whether they, or any part of them, should be counted, the committee met on Monday, February 10th, all members of the committee being present. The attorney for contestant, Mr. Wells, offered in evidence Exhibits "1", "32", "26" and "24". These ballots were offered for the purpose of having the committee determine whether these ballots, and ballots marked in a similar manner, should be counted. One of these ballots was marked by the voter placing a cross in front of the name of one of the candidates for president and a cross in front of the name of the candidates for vice-president on the same ticket. Another was marked by the voter by placing a cross in front of the name of one of the candidates for president without placing a similar mark in front of the name of the candidate for vice-president. Another was marked by placing a cross in front of the party name. A reference to the transcript will show that neither the attorney for contestant nor the attorney for the incumbent had any objection to the ballots offered in evidence providing the committee would hold that all ballots marked in a similar manner should be counted. It was the unanimous opinion of the committee that the ballots introduced in evidence, and all ballots marked in like manner, should be counted, and the attorneys were so notified. Thereupon, the said attorneys and clerks proceeded to count all the ballots which were marked as above indicated in all the precincts in said county.

The incumbent, David Meredith, at this time withdrew all objections to the methods of conducting the election in Reasnor precinct, and conceded that the votes cast in that precinct should be counted.

On the 11th day of February, the committee held a meeting for the purpose of further determining whether certain disputed ballots should be counted. All of the members of the committee were present. The contestant offered in evidence a ballot marked Exhibit "31", and the incumbent objected to Exhibit "31" for the reason that the same is not properly marked according to the statute in its state for the reason that the name of "Frank Sellman" for state representative from the 38th district is written in the blank space provided for that purpose on the Progressive ticket, the same being printed regularly on the Democratic ticket, and that if the voter decided to vote for Frank Sellman, he should have made a cross in the square to the left to Sellman's name as provided by statute.

The contestant offered in evidence Exhibit "63", it being marked by the voter by placing a straight line in the square without placing a line across the same. This ballot was objected to by the incumbent for the reason that it is not marked as required by statute, and under the provision of the statute, the vote should not be counted for the contestant.

After the arguments by the attorneys for contestant and incumbent and after proper consideration by the committee, it was unanimously decided that Exhibit "63", and all ballots marked in a similar manner, be rejected, and by a vote of four to one that Exhibit "31" and all ballots marked in a similar manner should be counted, and the attorneys and clerks were directed to count the said ballots and all ballots marked in like manner in all the precincts in said county.

At the completion of the count of all the ballots cast in said county, including the disputed ballots which were counted under the order of this committee, the contestant conceded that David Meredith, the incumbent, is elected to the office of representative from Jasper county by a majority of seven votes.

On the 12th day of February, the committee held its final meeting, Huff, Scholz and Chapman being present. Mr. Jesse A. Miller, one of the attorneys for the incumbent, appeared before the committee and made a report of the result of the count made by the attorneys and clerks in accordance with the order made by the said committee and the decision of the committee as to how the disputed ballots should be counted. Said report contains the result of the vote on representative by precincts, which report it attached hereto and made a part thereof. Said count discloses the fact that David Meredith, the incumbent, received 2,553 votes, and Frank Sellman, the contestant, received 2,546 votes, giving the incumbent a majority of seven votes.

A motion was thereupon made and carried that the committee recommend to the House of Representatives that as David Meredith did receive a majority of the votes cast at the general election in Jasper county on the 5th day of November, 1912, that he be declared elected, and that he be entitled to his seat for this term.

A complete record of the entire proceedings before said committee is herewith returned and made a part of this report.

The committee, therefore, recommends that David Meredith, the incumbent, be declared elected representative from Jasper county, Iowa, at the general election held on the 5th day of November, 1912, and that he be permitted to retain his seat during the Thirty Fifth General Assembly.

SUPPLEMENTAL REPORT OF COMMITTEE

vs.

David Meredith, Incumbent.

MR. SPEAKER—Your committee appointed to hear the report upon the contest brought by Frank Sellman against David Meredith, submit the following supplemental report:

It is the opinion of this committee that this contest was instituted by the said Frank Sellman in good faith and with the belief that a recount of the ballots would show that he was elected to the office of representative from Jasper county on the 5th day of November, 1912; that in bringing the contest, he has incurred the expense of employing counsel to prepare for the trial of said contest and to represent him during the trial thereof. His attorney, L. A. Wells of Newton, Iowa, was actually engaged ten days in the trial of said contest. The incumbent, David Meredith, was represented by E. J. Salmon of Newton, Iowa, and Jesse A. Miller of Des Moines, Iowa, who were engaged in the trial of said contest for a period of ten days. Both the contestant and the incumbent claim that they are entitled to the allowance of a reasonable amount to reimburse them for fees paid to said attorneys. The committee does not deem it advisable to make any recommendations as to the amount to be paid to the attorneys named above.

H. S. Rayburn, county auditor of Jasper county, was, by order of the committee, made the custodian of the ballots cast in Jasper county on November 5, 1912, during the trial of this contest. Mr. Rayburn, under said order, had the custody of said ballots for a period of ten days, and also expended the sum of two and 40-100 ($2.40) dollars in the purchase of a box in which to ship said ballots to Des Moines, and also paid the sum of four and 40-100 ($4.40) dollars for express upon said ballots. It is the opinion of the committee that Mr. Rayburn should be paid the sum of three ($3.00) dollars per day for the time he had charge and custody of said ballots. He also claims mileage for thirty-five (35) miles, amounting to three and 50-100 ($3.50) dollars. The committee therefore recommends that the said Rayburn be allowed the sum of forty and 30-100 ($40.30) dollars.

This committee also recommends that this supplemental report be referred to the committee on Appropriations for the purpose of fixing the amount of attorneys' fees, if any, to be allowed to the contestant, Frank Sellman, and the incumbent, David Meredith. All of which is respectfully submitted.

vide for statements of net weight, placing the enforcement in charge of the dairy and food commissioner, and to repeal acts in conflict with this act, beg leave to report they have had the same under consideration and have instructed me to report the same back to the House with the recommendation that the same be amended by the following substitute amendment:

The commissioner shall appoint a chief inspector of weights and measures and upon approval of the executive council, such additional inspectors as may be deemed necessary to enforce the provisions of this act. The chief inspector of weights and measures shall receive a salary of not to exceed $1800 per annum and other inspectors provided for, a salary not to exceed $1600 per annum and their salaries shall be paid in the same manner as the salaries of other state officers. M., or as soon thereafter as there are twenty (20) or more ballots in the box as shown by the poll books, the ballot box shall again be unlocked and opened, the ballots removed and counted in the same manner as was done before. This operation may be repeated at intervals during the day. At the close of the canvassing and during its progress, the counting clerks shall compare their tally lists, and together with the presiding judge and counting judges shall certify officially to the correctness of the returns. The presiding judge shall sign officially both part one and part two of the poll books and it shall be his duty also, after the polls close, to assist the counting board in deciding how disputed ballots shall be counted. J. H. ALLEN,

GERRIT KLAY.

Chairman Committee on Retrenchment and Reform.

Report adopted.

The following communication was received from the governor:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly:

The state of Illinois has a commission of four senators appointed to investigate the "white slave" traffic in that state. The lieutenant governor is the chairman of the commission. I am advised by him that it has been found that "rings existing in Chicago work hand in hand with similar rings in Iowa." It is apparent that the Illinois committee can do little, if anything, with its information with reference to "white slavery" in Iowa. Much, however, might be done to stamp out the evil, if it actually exists here, if this state would make thorough investigation through a like commission. It could co-operate with the Illinois commission and, indeed, with other states that might enter upon a crusade against the vice. The evil is a most revolting one. Every effort should be made to obliterate it.

I recommend, therefore, and urge upon you, that you authorize the appointment of such a commission, with, if you think best, a tenure of two years, and that you clothe it with such powers as will enable it to thoroughly investigate the whole subject, directing it to ultimately report its findings and recommend such legislation as it may deem advisable and do any and all such other things as you may think wise in the premises.

G. W. CLARKE,
Governor.

WHEREAS: There have been a large number of petitions relative to various legislation of vital importance to the welfare of the state of Iowa presented to the General Assembly; and,

WHEREAS: Various persons have been lobbying in relation thereto, and question has arisen as to the motive of such petitions and lobbying; be it therefore

Resolved, That a committee be appointed by the speaker of this House, consisting of not less than ten (10) members, to make investigation as to the source of such petitions, persons employed therein, manner of their employment, and the motive inspiring the same.

Said investigation shall extend to all matters upon which petitions have been presented, or lobbying has been done and to such other matters as the committee may deem fit and proper for investigation, except such matters as have heretofore been specifically referred to other committees or may hereafter be committed for investigation.

Said committee is authorized to require the personal attendance of witnesses and any persons may be compelled to appear before such committee as a witness by the service of any order upon such witness, signed by the chairman of such committee.
