REMARKS BY SPEAKER UPMEYER

Good morning and welcome back to the Iowa House of Representatives.

The first day of session is always something I look forward to.

It is a day full of optimism and enthusiasm, surrounded by family and friends.

I am thankful to my husband, Doug, for being so supportive while I am away from home, serving in Des Moines.

Sara and Chad... I also want to thank you for being here and for bringing Cooper and Claire to share in today's events.

It means so much to have my family's support.

This year we are welcoming 22 brand new legislators.

And with fresh faces come fresh ideas.

I am excited to hear what you have learned from your districts as you met on doorsteps, at the local coffee shops, or at the grocery store.

I also hope you all had some time to catch your breath and relax in the time since the elections concluded.

The legislative session will keep us very busy.

Over the summer, I had an opportunity to visit the Reagan Library and learn more about a man who I have always admired.

President Reagan was a tremendous leader, and much of that could be attributed to the ways he was able to communicate the positive ideals and vision of America to its people.

He believed in the limitless potential of the people of this great country.

As I walked through the halls of the library, I saw one of my favorite quotes from President Reagan...

"There is no limit to the amount of good you can do if you don't care who gets the credit."

This is something that would serve us well as we do our work.

During my time in the Iowa House, legislators have come and gone and issues have varied.

I have been a part of divided government, as well as one-party control under both Republicans and Democrats.

However, during all these changes, one thing has remained constant...

After the election, no matter who is in charge, Iowans expect us to move beyond the partisan gamesmanship and govern.

We have listened to Iowans, heard their priorities, and now, it is time to act.

An issue that comes up consistently is the topic of health care.

Last session, I was proud to see Republicans and Democrats come together and pass a landmark mental health bill that will help Iowans access treatment in their home communities and near their loved ones.

Now that we have made progress in the adult mental health system, let's see what we can do for our young people.

I want to thank Governor Reynolds for bringing together mental health professionals and advocates to identify opportunities for improvement.

Representatives Lundgren and Fry have already begun reviewing these ideas and we look forward to working together to find solutions.

Additionally, we must continue to make the Medicaid system work better for the vulnerable Iowans served by the program as well as those who provide necessary services.

Managed care is a strategy that more than 40 other states have used for years to improve health outcomes, create stability, and ensure sustainability of the program.

There is no reason that we can't be successful as well.

We passed strong oversight and accountability, and it is written into the contracts.

It is time we accept that we cannot go back to the old system, that managed care is here to stay, and we must move forward focused on improvement, outcomes, and success.

It must also be a priority to ensure Iowa's kids are ready for college or a career after graduation.

Iowa families want a first-class education system because they know that a great education is the key to a great life.

Funding for education has increased 765 million dollars since 2011.

That is significant ... and we are proud of these historic investments in Iowa's future.

But we must be vigilant to ensure that those dollars are making their way into the classroom, and being spent in a transparent and accountable way.

We must continue to provide flexibility to our schools ...empowering them to make decisions that fit their communities and their schools.

And it's not just families... Iowa's employers are depending on our schools to prepare the next generation of skilled workers.

We have already seen amazing buy-in from our K-12s, community colleges, and business community to provide students with first-hand, real-world job experience.

Let's continue building on these efforts.

I am also excited to focus on ways we can revitalize rural Iowa.

How many of you have had a conversation with a rural employer who says they can't hire because there simply are not enough homes available for new employees?

How many of you have talked with a young Iowan who loves their small town but doesn't see enough opportunity to stay?

How many of you have heard from entrepreneurs that they can't start a business in our small towns because they lack access to the high-speed internet that is necessary in today's economy?

Maybe it's an employee who has the ability to telecommute and work from home but is hampered by unreliable internet speeds.

Development and growth should not be limited to Iowa's largest cities and counties.

Whether it is expansion of broadband, more opportunities for affordable housing, or encouraging investment in small businesses, we must be intentional in our efforts to push more opportunities to rural Iowa.

Our rural communities are not merely a part of our past, they are the foundation of our future.

As we convene this 88th Iowa General Assembly, remember that you are here to make a difference and better our state for the people we serve.

As Speaker of this chamber, my commitment is to be fair, be honest with you, and ensure that this body functions efficiently and in a transparent manner.

In return, I expect the body to do its work in a respectful and civil way.

We will have our disagreements, but at the end of the day, we are all here to serve our constituents.

Representative Hagenow, Representative Prichard, members of the Iowa House... let's get to work.

REMARKS BY SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE WINDSCHITL

Ladies and gentlemen of the 88th General Assembly thank you for your willingness to serve your fellow Iowans. The sacrifices you have made to get here and that you will continue to make over your time serving Iowans will not go unnoticed. It is an honor to serve my constituents as their voice in this grand chamber. It is an additional honor to serve you, my colleagues as the Speaker Pro Tem. So thank you to all who have provided me this humbling opportunity. I would be remiss if I did not thank my three biggest supporters back home, my wife Ivelisse and our two daughters Anna and Addy for it is our families who truly feel the brunt of the sacrifices we make to serve. So thank you ladies.

While the campaigns were challenging and at times uncertain for many, they are behind us now. The great people of Iowa chose the one hundred of us to work together on their behalf. So let us look forward to what we can accomplish and leave behind campaign rhetoric and divisiveness. While we may not always agree on every policy point we can still work together to craft the best public policy for all Iowans.

Each new session brings with it its own challenges and I look forward to working with each of you to overcome those challenges. The opportunities we have before us to make generational changes should not be taken lightly or passed by. We have the tools at our disposal to make the future better and brighter for generations to come. We also need to remember that the seats in which we sit are not ours, they are borrowed from the constituents who elect us, so let us use our time wisely.

As we move forward in this new General Assembly I would like us to remember that more government is not the answer. I firmly believe that we should be looking for ways to allow our constituents more freedoms and less government. More individual responsibility and opportunity. Less government bureaucracy and burdensome regulations. For true freedom is not really freedom if it must first be sanctioned by government. So let us look for ways to get the government off of our constituents backs and out of their pocketbooks.

Let us continue to improve on the investments in education and expand opportunities for the next generations. Let us restore God-given freedoms and liberties that should have never been regulated away and let us also protect them for generations to come. Let us recognize the gift of life and protect it at every stage. Let us spend the taxpayers dollar wisely and efficiently and when not needed return it to the taxpayer. Let our challenge be to ensure once the final gavel falls that Iowans have more freedoms, have more liberties and their government works for them.

May God bless you all and God bless the great state of Iowa! Now let's get to work.

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER PRICHARD

Good morning, Madam Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the Iowa House. We are assembled here today at the start of the 2019 legislative session to begin the people's work, an honor that I, as well as my Democratic colleagues, are anxious to begin.

I first want to welcome the 22 new members of the Iowa House. Congratulations to each of you. As the new leader of House Democrats, I'm especially proud that we are the first caucus in Iowa history that has a majority of women. It's a remarkable achievement and another step forward making sure that this body reflects the people of Iowa that we represent.

Now, with the election behind us, it is time to set aside petty politics and get to work on improving the lives of all Iowans: urban and rural, affluent and indigent, young and old. If we take one lesson from the recent campaigns, it is that the public is weary of hyper partisan politics. We are here to fulfill a higher purpose and have an awesome responsibility: to be servants of the people of Iowa.

It is also time to remind ourselves that we are all Iowans, first and foremost. United we stand, and divided we fall. We must remember our greatest strength as a state and as a nation is our diversity and openness. Liberty and freedom are more than empty words. They are guaranteed by our laws, and they are the hallmark of our values. Our motto, "Our liberties we prize and our rights we will maintain," must be the words we live by. We will stand and we will fight for these values.

More than a century ago my family immigrated to this state with the desire for a better future. I am fortunate to be a beneficiary of their labor. I am determined to maintain a just state, a state that strives for equality for all, values education and learning, and respects the environment.

But make no mistake about it, the challenges and problems we face are immense. We have a public education system in need of resources, a health care system in crisis, a significant workforce shortage, and soil and water that needs attention if we expect it to sustain in the years to come. We have to balance and prioritize the state budget in a way that reflects Iowa's values while ensuring our tax system is fair and equitable for everyone, not just for corporations and those at the top.

For too long, this Legislature has ignored the challenges Iowa families face today and focused on divisive issues, special interests, and the wealthy. The reality is the challenges we face can't be solved behind closed doors with special interests and without input from the 100 members of this House who were elected to give a voice to their constituents.

That's why this House must be focused on working together to improve the lives of everyday Iowans this year.

Democrats believe it's time to get back to the basics in education, skills training, job creating, and affordable health care for Iowans. We will work to expand access to health care for all Iowans, whether they are urban or rural, rich or poor. We will work to expand educational opportunity and job training for all Iowans, whether they are in the K-12 system, community colleges, universities, or advanced job training programs.

We will fight for the rights of workers to be safe, and to be fairly compensated for their labor. We will demand access to domestic and foreign markets to improve our agricultural economy, while at the same time ensuring the health of our soil and water through sustainable agricultural production that protects our soil, water, and air.

As Representatives we are elected to speak for our home communities and districts. We are also stewards of this great State, its people and its land. When the session has ended, we cannot say, "We could have done more, had we worked together."

As the Leader of the Minority party, I pledge to each of you that we will work in good faith with the Majority party to solve these problems. We look forward to work on the state's toughest issues in a collaborative and meaningful way. Our constituents expect this of us, and our children deserve it.

Thank you.

Representative Hagenow offered the following remarks:

REMARKS BY MAJORITY LEADER HAGENOW

Thank you Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House. It is an honor to welcome you, your families and friends back to the Statehouse to begin the 88th General Assembly.

Speaker Upmeyer, the House of Representatives continues to be blessed by your leadership and it is an honor to serve alongside you.

To my Republican colleagues, thank you for the trust you have placed in me by electing me to serve as your leader. I am excited for what we will be able to accomplish together.

To our new members, congratulations and welcome. While this may be your first time swearing the oath of office that others in this body have sworn many times, each member brings unique ideas, perspective, and experiences – all of which help shape the laws and direction of our state. I look forward to your service.

Leader Pritchard, congratulations on your new role. I look forward to working with you and your caucus. Last General Assembly, over 88% of the bills we passed were bipartisan. I am hopeful we can move that number even higher.

My most important thank you goes to my team at home – my wife, Amanda, and our three children, Owen, Noah and Sophia.

From our work last General Assembly, families and small businesses now keep more of their hard-earned money, schools have record funding and greater flexibility, more Iowans have access to affordable health care, gaps in our mental health system are closing, and workers are accessing innovative training for 21st Century careers.

I have been asked many times, “so much was accomplished the last two years, what’s next?”

While the specifics of “what’s next” will be brought forward through all one-hundred members introducing legislation and ideas and working them through the process, what Iowans can and should expect is this: House Republicans will remain unwavering in our principals.

We will pass a budget that is both fiscally responsible and funds the priority needs of Iowans. Iowans expect us to be responsible stewards of their hard-earned tax dollars, and we will always keep the taxpayers of Iowa in mind through the budget process.

We continue to hear from employers across Iowa that the availability of a skilled workforce is their biggest challenge to growing their businesses. Connecting our K-12 schools with community colleges and local businesses will help assemble the workforce of tomorrow.

Future Ready Iowa is a key part of the solution. We want to continue building off of last year’s bipartisan efforts, and look forward to working with Governor Reynolds and the Senate to take the next step forward.

House Republicans are going to continue to protect and advance our freedoms. Freedom from unnecessary government regulations and overreach into our lives. Freedom for parents to choose the educational setting for their children. Freedom for gun owners, as the right to keep and bear arms is enshrined in our state constitution.

Also, House Republicans will be unapologetic in our fight to protect unborn life.

The people of Iowa have entrusted Republicans with a governing majority in this chamber, in the Senate and in the Governor’s office. It is our responsibility to once again challenge the status quo. It is our task here to continue charting a new course for a brighter future.

May God continue to bless us, our citizens and the great State of Iowa. Thank you Madam Speaker.

GOVERNOR'S CONDITION OF THE STATE MESSAGE

Mr. Lt. Governor, Mr. President, Madam Speaker, legislative leaders, senators, representatives, justices, judges, elected officials, distinguished guests, family, friends, my fellow Iowans:

The job of government, above all else, is to provide for the health and safety of its citizens.

So I want to begin this address by thanking the people who are on the front lines of providing that protection: the men and women who serve in military, law enforcement, and as first responders.

They risk their lives for us. And some of them give the ultimate sacrifice. It was with great sadness that, last week, we laid to rest Clinton firefighter Lt. Eric Hosette. And it is with prayerful hope that we watch Firefighter Adam Cain recover from the same tragic event.

For these men and women, service isn't just part of their job. It's who they are—whether the uniform is on or off.

Take Billy Fox. After graduating from Central College, he enlisted in the Army and joined the special forces. After almost eight years of active service and tours in the Middle East, Billy returned to civilian life.

He began his job search through Home Base Iowa and eventually landed at Vermeer, back home in Pella. He started on the production line and quickly became the head of security, where his instincts to serve and protect would be put to use—in ways that no one would have imagined.

On July 19, a tornado ripped through Vermeer's campus, completely destroying one factory and heavily damaging others. It was devastating. I saw it first-hand the next day. Metal was everywhere; cars were piled on top of each other; and brick walls were leveled.

Yet there was not a single fatality. Not one.

Thanks to Billy's calm and experienced leadership, the 3,000 employees and visitors attending Vermeer's customer appreciation day were safe. Even though an "all clear" was issued by a paid weather service, Billy and his team kept everyone sheltered—and in doing so, saved their lives.

Billy, please stand so that we can recognize your service, leadership, and bravery.

On the same day a tornado struck Vermeer, separate tornadoes ripped through Bondurant and Marshalltown, destroying homes and businesses in their path.

In the days and weeks after, hundreds of volunteers showed up to help clear debris and rebuild.

Last year, we saw the same thing play out again and again across Iowa. In times of need, Iowans came together. Neighbor-helping-neighbor. And often, stranger helping stranger.

Whether it was cleaning up after a flood or a tornado, looking for a missing loved one, or bringing in a harvest after a tragedy, Iowans showed up.

It's who we are, and it's why I am so proud to be your governor.

Join me in recognizing the Iowans who, every day, show acts of kindness, and who truly make this the greatest state in the nation.

For those of us who have the honor to represent these Iowans, it's our job to live up to the example they set. And there's no better time than the Condition of the State and the days that follow to set aside our differences and forge a common vision.

Iowans expect no less.

Working across the aisle isn't an impossible task; we've done it. And by continuing to put Iowans first, we honor four public servants, whose belief in diplomacy, principles, and bipartisanship made an incredible difference in millions of lives.

In 2018, America lost a great leader with the passing of President George H.W. Bush. A man whose legacy is one of service, statesmanship and values, and whose commemoration served as a reminder to all Americans of the nobility of public service.

Iowa mourned the passing of Gov. Robert Ray whose civility, courage and common-sense style of governing set the highest standard for those who followed.

We grieved the passing of Congressman Leonard Boswell, a proud veteran and public servant who willingly reached across the aisle on many issues to make Iowa a better place.

And three weeks ago, we lost legendary Sen. John Culver, whose energy, passion for politics, and timeless wit highlighted the best of Iowa.

If we've learned anything from the passing of these public servants, it's this: Working together, with deep resolve, we can achieve more than we ever dreamed possible.

Last year was another year of significant accomplishments. Together, we: passed the largest income tax cut ever as part of a groundbreaking tax reform package; continued making education a priority by investing a record amount in K-12 schools and our children's future; enacted a collaborative water-quality bill, my first as governor; protected the sanctity of life; provided affordable insurance options to thousands of Iowans; and—with unanimous support—enacted comprehensive mental health reform and the Future Ready Iowa Act.

Indeed, it was a historic year.

As we begin a new general assembly, I'm proud to declare that the condition of the state is strong. Our budget is balanced and our cash reserves are full; wages are going up while unemployment is at an all-time low.

Because of our people and the power of their ingenuity, Iowa is soaring.

I know, however, that not everyone feels that success. I know that in family rooms, workplaces—and even in this chamber—there are Iowans who are struggling, sometimes in silence.

Today, I am asking this Legislature to work with me again to fight for those individuals. To make sure that Iowa's success is every Iowan's success.

One year ago, I stood at this podium and told you that my vision for the future is an Iowa overflowing with opportunity—opportunity for our working families, young people, and our communities, both rural and urban.

A place where it doesn't matter if you're rich or poor, young or old, male or female.

Where your last name and zip code aren't nearly as important as your ability to dream and willingness to reach for it.

A place where, if life got in the way of those dreams, you can make a new start.

And if you've made mistakes, you can find a second chance.

My vision for the future of Iowa hasn't changed. But the future I see isn't around the corner, or after the next election. The future is now. The time is now to deliver on the promises we've made to Iowans looking for a way up.

It starts by taking the next step to prepare Iowans for dynamic careers and lifelong learning.

That's Future Ready Iowa.

At its core, Future Ready Iowa recognizes that there is dignity in meaningful work, that Iowans yearn for the opportunity to better themselves, and that those opportunities exist right here in Iowa.

It directs resources where we need them most. Identifying high-demand jobs like computer programmers and electricians. Educating Iowans about those great opportunities while providing support for individuals seeking those rewarding careers.

We've already started putting the policy into action. Last fall, Future Ready Iowa summits were hosted in 18 communities across the state.

We brought together employers, educators and local leaders, to discuss how communities could use the Future Ready Iowa Act as a springboard to propel Iowans into new careers.

In fact, after one of the summits, the North Scott superintendent decided to launch a Registered Apprenticeship program for advanced manufacturing. Local employers like John Deere and Eagle Engineering already have expressed interest. And students, like Myah Harrington, are eager to sign up.

To encourage education and training beyond high school, Fareway has started a program to help employees pay down their student debt. And Ruan Transportation started a technology apprenticeship program that will give young Iowans yet another great career path.

We will see this play out again and again over the next few years.

Future Ready Iowa is a powerful tool to grow family incomes, meet employer needs and strengthen communities.

The time is now to invest in Iowans and their future. Today, I'm calling on the Legislature to take the next step, to appropriate $20 million to fund the plan we put in place last session.

This investment will take Iowa to the next level. And more important, it will give more Iowans an opportunity to find a rewarding career.

Of course, the road to finding a rewarding career doesn't start after high school. A strong K-12 education system is the foundation of any state, and Iowa has a solid foundation to build upon.

Our schools are filled with innovative teachers, who are making things happen; we have the most extensive teacher leadership and compensation system in the country; a nationally recognized STEM initiative; and we're getting closer to our goal to have students reading proficiently by the end of third grade.

That's just a sample of the critical work that is underway in our state. But there is always more to do.

Kids today are growing up immersed in a world of digital technology. The workforce is continually impacted by innovation and globalization. And we need an education system that adapts to those changes.

Because of our investment in STEM, apprenticeships, work-based learning and computer science, it's happening now across our state.

In August we launched a new program called Computer Science is Elementary. Through STEM grants, this public-private partnership will transform six high-poverty elementary schools into models of computer science instruction by weaving computer coding into the class lessons.

We're also seeing other elementary schools expanding or creating computer science programs.

Clear Lake is expanding coding and other fundamentals for fourth and fifth-graders; Kingsley-Pierson is training teachers to teach computer science; and Indianola is teaching coding to kindergarteners, first- and second-graders.

Iowa students are getting amazing real-world learning experiences.

Like Central Campus in Des Moines, where this week, high-school students will start a semester-long program called NeuroSMART. Through a partnership with Kemin and Des Moines University, and with the support of a STEM Council award, these students will get hands-on experience in the fields of neuroscience and business.

In the gallery today, we have students from Central Campus. Please stand to be recognized. We are excited to see what the future has in store for you.

The budget I'm submitting today proposes over $93 million in additional funding for preschool through high school education, which includes a 2.3% increase in per pupil funding.

I'm also requesting $11.2 million to help districts with disproportionate transportation costs.

And I'm asking for a $1 million increase in STEM funding.

In total, that will bring our preK-12 investment to almost $3.4 billion this year.

That's an investment we can be proud of. But Iowans also know that a quality education can't be reduced to a dollar figure or a percentage increase. It's about one thing and one thing only: How well we prepare our children to succeed.

Over the last eight years, I've been fortunate to travel the nation and the world on behalf of Iowa.

These trips have provided ideas on what we can do better, but they've also given me perspective on what makes Iowa so unique.

From river to river and border to border, Iowa is speckled with vibrant communities, each with its own character and story to tell.

Every 10, 15 or 20 miles, there's another town, with another school brimming with pride, and another Main Street filled with excitement and hope.

These welcoming and unique communities motivate thousands to ride their bikes from the Missouri to the Mississippi each year. They're what gives Iowa its character.

Unfortunately, in some places, that character is fading. We cannot let that happen.

Our communities and Main Streets tell a story to the outside world. My question for each of you is this: How do we want our story to read?

That we've given up, or that we have hope for the future? That we're tired, or full of energy? That we've lost our vision, or are innovative and creative? That we're fading or growing?

As I travel all 99 counties, I've seen the story that many Iowans are writing and the potential to do more.

That's what led me to create the Governor's Empower Rural Iowa Initiative, a partnership between my office and the Iowa Rural Development Council.

Led by Lt. Governor Gregg and Sandy Ehrig, the initiative focused on connecting, investing and growing our rural communities.

I want to thank the Lt. Governor and Sandy for their leadership. And I want to thank the members of the Empower Rural Iowa Initiative for their work in providing the initial recommendations.

It's no secret, we need to keep our rural communities connected if we hope to keep our young people or attract others to Iowa. Over a century ago, a town's proximity to the railroad was key; over the last 100 years, our focus has been on highways and interstates. And, by the way, it's that focus that finally gave us a completed four-lane Highway 20.

Now, though, it's virtual connectivity that has become essential. Businesses, schools, hospitals, and even our combines, rely on high-speed internet.

We have come a long way already. U.S. News & World Report says "the Hawkeye state leads the nation in efforts to bring ultra-fast internet access to every city block and every rural acre." But there's still more to do.

To ensure that every part of Iowa has the same opportunity, I am requesting $20 million, split over two years, for broadband infrastructure. This funding will accelerate expansion and leverage an additional $120 million in private investment for high-speed internet.

Rural communities also can't thrive without access to housing. Businesses in rural Iowa are growing and hiring, but the employees they need won't make the move if there's no place for their family to call home.

I am therefore requesting that we double the amount of workforce housing tax credits that are set aside for rural communities, putting the total at $10 million. I'm also asking that these tax credits be competitive, meaning that they will go to those projects that are well planned, not just first in line.

When it comes to building strong communities, the talent is there. The drive is there. And often, the programs are there, but the coordination isn't.

That's why I'm announcing the establishment of a Center for Rural Revitalization within the Iowa Economic Development Authority. This center will focus on making rural Iowa an even greater priority and give our Main Streets a roadmap for success.

In places like Jefferson, Iowans are already showing that, with ingenuity and drive, our small towns can be as vibrant as they've ever been.

Since 2012, over 100 Greene County residents volunteered more than 29,000 hours to raise funds, write grants and work on committees.

They've transformed downtown Jefferson, attracting 14 businesses and rehabbing dozens of buildings. And recently, voters overwhelmingly approved a bond referendum that will build a new high school that will house a career academy that will feed a new downtown business called the Forge.

The Forge, which is owned by Pillar Technologies, will employ 30 technology consultants, many of them just out of high school. Pillar has successfully brought this same concept to Silicon Valley, Columbus, Ohio, Ann Arbor, Michigan, and recently Des Moines.

And now it's coming to downtown Jefferson.

Why? Because even people in our nation's largest cities can see what rural Iowa has to offer. People like Kevin Scott, the chief technology officer of Microsoft and a group of technology investors who paid a visit to Jefferson just last month.

Not every Iowa town will be home to a new technology consulting firm. But we should help ignite every community with the passion of the people of Greene County, some of whom are with us here today. Thank you for being that spark. Please stand up and be recognized.

Since taking the oath of office, one of my priorities has been to create an integrated and coordinated health care system. We made great strides on that effort last year.

We passed legislation that gave Iowans affordable health care options.

We worked diligently, and still are, to ensure that our Medicaid program is sustainable and focused on patient outcomes.

And we unanimously passed mental health reform, which built on the changes we began in 2013.

And we're seeing results. In a recent report, Mental Health America declared that Iowa's overall mental health system is the seventh best in the nation, and third when it comes to the adult system.

That's before the legislation from last year has been fully implemented.

This year, the mental health regions will continue developing new services. To help sustain them, I've set aside an additional $11 million in my two-year Medicaid budget.

And I'm calling on the Legislature to extend the time the regions have to spend down their capital balances and to increase the percentage of their operating budgets that may be carried from one year to the next.

There may still be more to do, so I'm asking everyone in this chamber to work with me to ensure that we have sustainable funding that will keep our mental health system strong.

Another essential piece of a strong mental health system is having adequate behavioral healthcare providers. To build on the existing psychiatric residency program, my budget proposes to fund four additional psychiatric residencies at the University of Iowa for doctors who will practice in rural communities. And I'm asking the Legislature to appropriate additional money to train nurse practitioners and physician assistants in mental health.

Our efforts aren't over yet. But by working together, we will have the best adult mental health system in the country.

When it comes to our children and their changing mental health needs, we are not as far along.

That's not for a lack of talking about it. We've been doing that for more than 20 years.

It's time to move past the talking phase.

There is no worse pain than that of a child who is suffering in silence. And there is no greater agony than that of a parent who watches helplessly—not knowing where or to whom they can turn.

Diagnosing and healing illness is never guaranteed, but when it comes to physical pain parents know the path to get there. "The doctor will see you now," is usually just a few minutes or hours away.

When it comes to mental health, however, part of the fear and the pain is in not knowing where to begin. In being told "no one provides those services" or "your child is on a wait list, we can see her in two to three months."

We must create a children's mental health system where the path to healing is clearly marked. A system that lets parents know where to begin—and that their child can begin immediately.

That's why, at the end of last session, I signed an executive order creating a children's mental health board. I asked this group of educators, mental health professionals, parents, legislators and children's advocates to devise a plan and create a structure for a children's mental health system.

The board has completed its initial task, and based on its recommendation, I will be introducing a bill that finally creates a children's system that will work in tandem with our adult system.

I'm also calling on the Legislature to appropriate additional money for home- and community-based children's mental health services so that we can eliminate the waiting list that currently exists.

And I'm requesting $3 million to train teachers to better recognize early signs of mental illness.

Creating a comprehensive children's mental health system will take time. But we can and must take action. The days of merely talking are over.

Three years ago, we began to offer apprenticeship programs in our state prisons. The concept isn't hard to understand: Most of our inmates aren't inmates for life. They will reenter society—and when they do, we want them to be successful. Those who can't get a job often find their way back to crime and then back to prison.

So from a public safety perspective, training our inmates is the right thing to do.

But there's more to it than that. As I said earlier, there is dignity in work. There is also beauty in grace.

Talk with someone who, by their own actions, hit rock bottom but decided to turn their life around. Watch their face light up when they tell you about the person who offered them a helping hand. A family member, a friend, or maybe a stranger.

There are few things as powerful as the joy of someone who got a second chance and found their purpose.

If you talk to Michael Willoughby or Steve Shewry, you'll see it. Both men completed an apprenticeship program in prison: Michael prepared to be a computer operator and Steve prepared for a career in welding. Both men committed serious crimes.

Today, both men are star employees at jobs they landed before leaving prison. They were offered a second chance, they took it, and they succeeded.

Frontier Co-Op in Norway and Winger Companies in Ottumwa are the other half of this story. Those are the employers who saw something in Michael and Steve. They looked beyond the rap sheet and found high-quality employees for hard-to-fill jobs.

Too often, employers overlook these skilled workers because of the fear of lawsuits. Let's take that off the table. Our correctional system and parole board are the judge of whether an inmate is ready to be released. Let's not punish employers for offering an offender a second chance. I am also calling on the Legislature to send me a bill that protects employers like Frontier and Winger who hire Iowans with criminal records.

Michael and Steve are with us today. So are Megan Schulte, head of human resources at Frontier, and Jim Keck, general manager of Winger. Thank you for showing us the value of second chances.

Now, more than ever, we need people like Michael and Steve. We have a skilled worker shortage and prisons full of inmates, many of whom will soon re-enter society. Let's get them the skills they need and place them with the Frontiers and Wingers of this state.

To that end, I am announcing today that we are establishing a new home building program at the Newton Correctional Facility. In partnership with the nonprofit Homes for Iowa, this program will provide housing that is needed throughout rural Iowa. And it will provide training for jobs that are in high demand. It's a win-win.

There are other programs across the state that are working to ensure criminal offenders are finding a new purpose.

Through a pilot program, the Department of Corrections is currently working with Iowa Central Community College in Fort Dodge to offer Pell Grants to prison inmates. This program is one of the most successful in the country, with more than 420 students participating, earning an average GPA of 3.5.

I also recently met with a group of Iowans, led by Tim Krueger, who are working to bring a nonprofit organization called The Other Side Academy to Des Moines. It's a two-year residential rehabilitation program that is an alternative to prison or jail. And it operates without government funding, sustaining itself through the businesses run by its participants.

These are just two examples. Together, I believe there is even more we can do.

And we can start with felon voting. Our constitution takes away the voting rights of anyone convicted of a felony. Forever.

Only two other state constitutions have a similar provision, and last November, the people of Florida voted to remove their ban.

Through the power of clemency, the governor can restore those rights, and I have done that 88 times since taking office.

But I don't believe that voting rights should be forever stripped, and I don't believe restoration should be in the hands of a single person.

After the election, an Iowan stopped me at my grandson's basketball game in Waukee. I had restored his rights and he wanted to tell me, in person, how much it meant to him. How, when he stepped into the voting booth, he felt a dignity that had been missing, even after leaving prison.

I don't think this man and others like him who have completed their sentences should have to wait for my say or any future governor's say before they get that dignity back.

Our founders gave us a process to amend the constitution, should the passage of time change our view. Let's begin that process now. I believe Iowans recognize the power of redemption; let's put this issue in their hands.

That's not the only constitutional amendment we should consider.

As it should, our constitution deals extensively with the rights of the accused and convicted. But it never mentions victims.

In all of the focus on second chances and forgiveness, we should never forget about the victims. I know each of you in this room believe that. So let's show it. This year, let's start the process of enshrining victim's rights into the Iowa Constitution. Like 36 other states have done, let's send victims a loud and clear message: We will protect you.

Over the next few months, I look forward to working with all of you to enact these priorities and yours. Whether it's looking for ways to further reform our tax code, or passing legislation that strengthens our health care system, I am excited for what's in store.

We have laid the foundation for a bright future. Let's build on it.

The time is now to finish what we started.

The time is now to cement Iowa's status as the best state in the nation.

The time is now to deliver on the promises we've made to Iowans looking for a way up.

Thank you, God bless you, and God bless the great state of Iowa.

CONDITION OF THE JUDICIAL BRANCH MESSAGE

Mister president, madam speaker, distinguished members of the Iowa General Assembly, Governor Reynolds, Lieutenant Governor Gregg, state officials, colleagues, family, friends, and everyone who joins us this morning to hear the condition of Iowa's judicial system.

Today is the ninth time I have stood before you to report on the condition of Iowa's judiciary. Much has changed since the first time. For my wife Becky and me, our daughter was only a few years into her career as a speech therapist, our son had just started law school, and I had considerably less gray hair. Today, our family has grown with the addition of our four beautiful granddaughters. While we always look for opportunities to be together, when we cannot, today's technology allows us to share special moments in real time. We keep up with milestones and events with family group chat. We share photos of activities an instant after they are taken and respond just as fast with likes and comments. I have even watched my granddaughters in Des Moines and San Antonio while reading them a bedtime story from my living room in Fort Dodge. Technology has opened a new world and fortified the eternal hope of all grandparents for life to be better for their children and grandchildren. It is the same hope Iowans have always wished for each new generation.

Vital Importance of the Courts

I begin my message today where we all stand together united in our hope for the future and with hope my report to you on the work of the courts will strengthen our bond and help move us closer to that more perfect union for our children and grandchildren. As for my gray hair, I am afraid there is no hope.

The law binds all of us in this chamber together. Legislators and judges each hold unique and vital roles in Iowa's legal system. For judges and your justice system, our contribution to the law begins with the disputes Iowans bring into our courts. This work can be as difficult as life itself and every day have direct and real consequences for thousands and, at times, all Iowans. The work may involve a complex business dispute or something as simple as a speeding ticket. It may involve conduct of a young Iowan who has not yet grown up or is growing up in need of help not found in the home or involve an older Iowan no longer able to care for herself in her home. It may involve an Iowan with a physical or mental disability or involve an Iowan with a physical or mental illness. It may involve an Iowan with an alcohol or drug addiction or involve one who deals drugs to others. In each dispute, the justice Iowans deserve is what makes the courts vitally important and drives us to become better.

In past years, I shared with you the ways our court system has been changing to better meet the needs of Iowans. Year after year, our problem solving courts continue to improve the lives of Iowans. Drug courts, mental health courts, veterans' courts, family treatment courts, and juvenile diversion courts bring our judges and community providers together at the center of our comprehensive efforts to resolve the underlying problems of Iowans suffering from mental illness or substance abuse. In the same way, our juvenile court officers are using a systematic approach to help troubled youth and their families address their disruptive choices, reinforce positive behaviors, and in some cases, avoid a criminal record. I have shared powerful stories of families on the verge of destruction reunified and strengthened, children in the pipeline from juvenile court to prison placed on a path to a brighter future, and drug-addicted Iowans who have embraced sobriety and earned a second chance. These stories not only continue to be told across the state but also continue to give shape to the gift of justice.

Essential Work of Juvenile Court Services

In September, I visited the juvenile court services office in Iowa City. There, I met with the juvenile court service team, including their intern named Faith. The team told me the story of a sixteen-year-old girl referred to its office eight years ago. The problems began when she and her mom struggled to communicate. The situation then escalated into physical altercations. This young girl was at risk of losing her home and her dreams. She needed help and so did her mom. With treatment and help from Justin, the juvenile court officer assigned to her, she worked through her problems, reconciled with her mother, and graduated from high school with her dreams intact. She then went on to graduate from the University of Iowa with a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology and will graduate with a Master's Degree in Social Work in May.

The story the team told was Faith's story, the intern I met that day. Faith works in the same juvenile court services office that helped her and her mom, and put her on this path to success. Faith's story demonstrates the importance of juvenile court services. It is an example of how juvenile court officers and community providers across the state work together to use the appropriate levels of treatment and services to help youth and their families avoid the criminal justice system and reach their potential. Yet, this story tells us so much more.

Faith is now there to help others as she was helped, and the lives she impacts will help improve lives for generations to come. If there is any doubt about how justice serves to fulfill our hope of a better life for the next generation, there should be no more. It takes each one of us. It takes faith.

A Culture of Continuous Improvement

Iowans do not need to look far to see how past generations have paved the way for our current achievements and future successes. Iowa has a proud history of successful, multigenerational family businesses that contribute to our great state. Last summer, I traveled to Pella and Sheffield to meet with the leaders of two of Iowa's most successful, multigenerational family businesses: Jason Andringa from Vermeer Manufacturing and Steve Sukup from Sukup Manufacturing. Both companies have grown to the heights of international success, and it did not take me long to understand the reason. I witnessed their culture of continuous improvement, a culture devoted to improving their products and the lives of those who build them.

This successful culture is not unique to business. It is essential for the success of all, including the courts. Like the Vermeer and Sukup companies, and so many others, our court system must focus on where we are going, not where we have been. It is the Iowa way and the way for our courts. Let me explain how we are building this culture, beginning with our business courts.

Business Courts. We are committed to providing a dedicated court with specially trained judges who operate in ways that are compatible with the needs of businesses. Today, I am pleased to announce we have expanded the operation of our business courts so they will be available to more businesses. Since its inception five years ago, the business court program has been under the steady oversight of Justice Daryl Hecht. With his retirement from the supreme court last month, I am pleased Justice Thomas Waterman will now oversee the program. Expanding the business court to more businesses is just the next step. We are committed to exploring other ways to enhance the value of the business courts, especially to farmers and other ag-based businesses. We want a top-notch specialty court that contributes to a flourishing economy by working with Iowa's businesses to resolve their disputes efficiently and fairly.

Criminal Justice System. We are also working on changes to our criminal justice system. Justice Edward Mansfield is leading a task force of prosecutors and criminal defense lawyers to update and improve the rules of criminal procedure as a part of our continuing efforts to achieve greater fairness in the trial process. We also have a committee reviewing court rules governing the imposition and collection of criminal debt. Last year, Justice David Wiggins chaired a committee on jury reform that led to changes now making jury service more efficient and manageable. This is another step to expand Iowans' participation in jury service so all juries reflect their communities. At the same time, we have continued implicit bias training for all judges and court staff.

Our culture of continuous improvement applies to every component of Iowa's justice system, but no more than in the criminal justice system. We hope you know that we are always willing to be a partner with you, and the governor, in discussions to reform the criminal justice system. We can and must work together to ensure Iowa's criminal justice system is fair to all Iowans regardless of wealth, geography, race, or gender.

Court Representation. Our judges and justices are changing too. As mentioned, Justice Hecht retired last year, as did Justice Bruce Zager. Justice Zager's retirement was planned, but, sadly, Justice Hecht retired in December after the cancer he has been valiantly battling took away his ability to meet the demands of his work on the court. Justice Susan Christensen of Harlan joined the court in September, and the process to fill Justice Hecht's vacancy is underway. We welcome Justice Christensen to the court, and I look forward to working with her for many years. I would like us to take this moment to express our appreciation and gratitude to Justice Hecht and Justice Zager for all they have done for our system of justice.

While Justice Christensen is the first new justice on the supreme court in 7½ years, the transition of judges is always occurring throughout our court system. Last year, eighteen judges retired. We are grateful for their service. Yet there is value in the transition of judges, and we are reminded that in the end it is justice that endures.

The new judges are giving us something else that is very important. The new judicial appointments are moving us closer to achieving greater diversity in our judicial ranks. Last year, the number of female and male judges appointed to the bench was equal. I would like to take this moment to thank those who serve on all judicial nominating commissions, and Governor Reynolds, for their commitment to selecting the best people to serve as judges. Iowa's judiciary has a strong, national reputation for fairness and impartiality. We should all be very proud of the quality and the changing face of our judiciary.

New Opportunities to Lead the Nation

The judicial branch is moving forward with our ongoing programs, our new judges, and a commitment to advance justice within a culture of continuous improvement. In doing so, we continue to follow the global expansion of technology that is rapidly shaping the future for all of us. We see the vast potential of technology to improve the operation of our justice system and justice itself. Few understood the benefits and value of a paperless court system when it launched ten years ago. Without those few people, the Iowa court system would not have the first-in-the-nation comprehensive electronic filing system on which lawyers and court users depend. Embracing change is the part of a culture of continuous improvement that is so critical to our success. Today, the age of technology is propelling courts into a new age of justice. With more opportunities to achieve justice than ever imagined, Iowa has new opportunities to lead the nation once again.

Digital Opportunities Initiative. The power of technology has stirred our imagination and allowed us to identify more than 130 critical projects to serve better more Iowans, who are our customers. Our “Digital Opportunities Initiative” contains projects such as electronic search warrants, text messages to defendants and other court users, remote court reporting and interpreting, and online dispute resolution.

Online dispute resolution has started in a few states with promising early results. The State of Utah established an online dispute resolution pilot project for small claims cases that substantially reduced the steps needed to resolve a case. It has streamlined the process and made it more convenient for court users. We want to do the same for the 75,000 Iowans who use our small claims courts each year.

Imagine an online process that will allow Iowans to resolve some of their legal disputes without taking time from work to go to the courthouse. Imagine a time when law enforcement officers will no longer need to drive from the scene of an investigation to a courthouse to request a warrant because judges will be able to transmit search warrants to officers in their vehicles. Imagine a time when defendants receive reminders of their court dates on their phones so there are fewer delays and fewer adverse collateral consequences for defendants who miss appearance dates.

Access to Justice Initiative. We developed many of our technology projects in response to an increase in the number of self-represented litigants in our civil justice system over the last decade. The cost of legal services today is preventing many Iowans with legal problems from obtaining the services of a lawyer. This problem can no longer be addressed by only legal aid programs and relying on lawyers to provide pro bono representation. With help from the Iowa Access to Justice Commission chaired by Justice Brent Appel, our “Access to Justice Initiative” will increase the availability of online access to court information. This will help self-represented Iowans provide the essential information for a judge to adjudicate their disputes fully and fairly. Imagine a time when self-represented litigants in Iowa will be able to access the courts and navigate through the legal system without being disadvantaged because they are unable to afford a lawyer. It is a problem shared across the nation. Imagine Iowa again leading the way to solving it.

Problem Solving Courts Initiative. Technology can also help expand Iowa’s problem solving courts into every county and improve the lives of more Iowans. We currently have no mechanism to collect, track, and analyze data from our thirty-nine specialty courts. The “Problem Solving Courts Initiative” we hope to pursue will enable us to draw data from problem solving courts to identify and develop consistent statewide practices and help ensure we are delivering the best possible outcomes for Iowans and their families. We want to know our work is helping Iowans.

Imagine if every Iowa veteran has access to a veterans’ court, if every Iowan suffering from mental illness has access to a mental health court, if every Iowan suffering from drug addiction has access to a drug court, and if every Iowa family struggling with dependence has access to a family treatment court.

Imagine a coordinated court process that not only holds people responsible for their conduct but also works to identify and resolve the problems of those people ready for help. Some people need to be incarcerated. More people just need help. A justice system must do both.

Rural Courts Initiative. Your justice system is committed to utilizing data and research to make data-driven decisions and policies that promote efficiencies and better services for Iowans. Using data, we have developed other projects that will increase the efficiency of our internal operations. We propose the “Rural Courts Initiative,” which will expand our presence in all ninety-nine counties and allow us to operate more efficiently by removing the artificial barriers preventing clerks in one county from assisting people in another county. We continue to look for new ways to make our clerk offices more efficient while still providing a physical presence in all counties. The judicial branch is committed to providing full-time, full-service access in all ninety-nine counties so Iowans can access their justice system. We see technology as a way to strengthen rural Iowa. Justice is a community responsibility, and a system of justice needs every community. Imagine a revitalized and bustling judicial branch presence in every courthouse in every county.

The Iowa Way: A Vision for the Future

Your justice system provides critical, unduplicated services to Iowans. We have a plan for the future that maintains our core services but maximizes our resources through technology and a physical presence in all ninety-nine counties. We are developing a culture of continuous improvement that is always searching for better ways to provide services to Iowans. We are committed to the transparency and accountability you need from us in order to make informed funding decisions. That is why we will issue an annual report next year with information on where we are succeeding and where there are opportunities for improvement. We will have the report to you by this time next year, with metrics and outcomes of our work. While this report will contain numbers, we promise to see each number as an Iowan to whom we are accountable to deliver on our promise of justice for all. Our annual report will showcase our culture, share our accomplishments and new endeavors, and lay the groundwork for greater justice for all. Imagine a justice system not only committed to achieving justice through its decisions but also using data it collects to advance justice and identify injustices that could not previously be seen.

While we have depended on technology to find improvements in the past, the technological revolution is coming at an unprecedented pace, and it will run us over if we do not get up to speed. Let me illustrate. It took the telephone seventy-five years to reach fifty million users, air travel sixty-eight years, the automobile sixty-two years, and television twenty-two years. Compare that to the four years it took the Internet to reach fifty million users. Facebook did it in 3½ years. Twitter did it in two years and Pokémon Go in nineteen days. It has been suggested that the 100 years of the 21st Century will, when they are concluded, feel more like 20,000 years of progress when compared to the 20th Century.

We simply can no longer proceed into the future thinking it will be a modest linear extension from where we are today. Imagine how my grandchildren will someday read a bedtime story to their grandchildren. New tools and a new understanding of our transforming world truly create an opportunity to do what we could not have previously imagined.

The Iowa way is to improve continuously. It is to plan, with each step taking us forward to the next, with each step as important as the next. Our future can no longer be about taking small steps or standing still. We need to think big and take big steps. Every day, we must seek to achieve what can be imagined.

All of us in this great chamber came into public service to make a difference. So, let us imagine together. Let us imagine what your courts can be and where they can take us in our pursuit to achieve justice for all Iowans. When we have a chance to make a difference we should take it. Let us make that difference together.

General Orr delivered the following Condition of the Iowa National Guard Message:

CONDITION OF THE IOWA NATIONAL GUARD MESSAGE

Good Morning and thank you for your warm welcome.

Governor Reynolds, Lieutenant Governor Gregg, Mr. President, Madam Speaker, legislative leaders, senators, representatives, distinguished guest, family, friends, my fellow Iowans, I am honored to be here this morning to provide an update on the Condition of the Iowa National Guard.

As I begin this morning I want to once again thank Governor Reynolds and Lieutenant Governor Gregg for their strong and enduring support of our Soldiers, Airmen, their families and civilian employers.

Your untiring efforts on behalf of our military is greatly appreciated.

Thank you for attending our send-off and welcome home ceremonies, and thanks for being a part of last week's patching ceremony, where we initiated more than 120 new Soldiers into the Iowa Army National Guard as they begin their journey of service to our State and Nation.

Likewise, I want to thank you, our citizen-legislators, for all you do to support the Iowa National Guard and all Iowans who serve in uniform.

And finally, thanks to the citizens of Iowa for their incredible support, which is absolutely vital to our continued success.

Since our founding nearly 180 years ago, the Iowa National Guard has strived to accomplish every mission assigned, respond without fail to natural and manmade disasters here at home, and deployed abroad to meet the national security needs of our country.

The profession of arms is one of service above self.

No profession asks more of its members than serving ones country in uniform.

We are entrusted with the defense of our nation, the protection of our citizens, and the preservation of our way of life.

As National Guard members we serve both as protectors of our state, and when called, in defense of our nation.

Our legendary Iowa National Guard reputation was earned through the blood, sweat, and hard work of those who came before, and is proudly carried on by those who serve today.

We are committed to preserving this legacy and passing it on to those who step forward to take up the mantle of defending our state and nation in the years to come.

We share common attributes of integrity, courage, competence, and as military professionals, we are defined by our strength of character, life-long commitment to Army and Air Force values, and a dedication to mission accomplishment.

I am so proud to serve with the men and women of the Iowa National Guard, they are true professionals in every sense of the word and who have sworn an oath to defend our state and nation with their honor, with their service, and with their very lives.

Our Soldiers and Airmen are treasures that benefit our society in ways large and small, making a difference every day in their communities and adding value to our state and nation beyond their military service.

Recruiting and retaining quality individuals is our highest priority.

In doing so we must broaden the appeal of military service to include people from across the fabric of our society.

The strength of our Republic depends on willing individuals from every corner of our state, every social economic, and demographic group, and every ethnic background, to step forward and serve alongside their fellow citizens.

As I've reported before and is well documented in the media, the burden of national defense is currently borne by less than one percent of our population.

And nearly 80 percent of those who do serve come from families with multiple generations of military service.

The pride and honor of military service should not be reserved for just those who hail from a tradition of military service.

It is an opportunity that must be available and sought throughout society in order to balance the responsibilities of national defense across all our citizens.

Given the increased emphasis on the operational role of the National Guard, recruiting high-quality men and women is a key component of my readiness mission.

With only three of ten 17 to 24 year-olds eligible for military service, there's concern among military and civilian leaders alike about the readiness of our military forces to defend this nation in the years to come.

In order to sustain a strong democracy and ensure the safety and security of our citizens both at home and abroad, we must encourage young Americans to consider military service as a viable and honorable option.

Experiences gained through military service provides a lifetime of personal and professional benefit.

It provides life and professional skills that translate to a significant lower unemployment rate of 2.7% for veterans, compared to a national average for the general population of 3.5%.

Beyond the practical benefit of gaining marketable skills to better their lives, military service gives young people a chance to serve a cause greater than themselves.

This is something that study after study tells us is critically important to Centennials, a generation of young men and women, who strive to live a life of meaning.

Because of this, our Iowa National Guard motto of “We live here, we work here, we serve here” is more fitting today than ever before.

For those seeking greater meaning in their lives, the Iowa National Guard provides a multitude of opportunities to make a difference.

Our Soldiers and Airmen serve for many reasons:

- To be an integral part of a world class team
- To seek leadership and training opportunities
- To gain hands-on experience working with state-of-the-art technology and equipment
- To graduate debt-free with a two-year, four-year or technical school degree
- To learn an occupational skill that leads to meaningful employment
- To secure their financial future with a military retirement
- To carry on a proud tradition of family service
- Or to just be part of something bigger than themselves.

To do something that 99% of the population will never experience.

No matter the reason, we are grateful for their service and the value they add to the well-being of our state.

As we look around the globe, both here at home and abroad, the challenges we face today are among the most complex and demanding that I have seen in over 40 years of military service.

In order to meet these challenges, we are committed to ensuring the Iowa National Guard remains ready and resourced to accomplish our four core priorities:

- (1) Defending our state and nation;
- (2) Protecting Iowa and the US homeland;
- (3) Building enduring partnerships at the local, state, federal and international levels; and
- (4) And making our communities better places to live.

Defending our state and nation is our number one priority.

We do this by providing ready forces to the President of the United States and the Governor of Iowa when called.

Our state's contribution in providing ready forces is significant.

Since September 11, 2001, the Iowa National Guard has mobilized and deployed more than 19,000 Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen.

There is no doubt that Iowa has done and will continue to do its part to defend our state and nation.

As we sit here today, nearly 300 Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen are deployed supporting overseas contingency operations in US Central and US Southern Command Areas of Operations.

In September, approximately 400 Soldiers assigned to the 248th Aviation Support Battalion from Muscatine, Davenport, Waterloo, and Boone returned home from the Middle East where they provided aviation maintenance and logistical support to a combat aviation brigade.

The 248th received the Army's 2018 Outstanding Aviation Logistics Support Unit award for superior theater-wide support of Operations Inherent Resolve and Spartan Shield, operating at 12 locations across Kuwait, Iraq, Syria, Jordan and Turkey.

An example of the Iowa work ethic our Soldiers and Airmen bring to the fight is that of Captain Joshua Gates from Council Bluffs.

Captain Gates, a company commander with the 248th Aviation Support Battalion, recently returned from his third overseas deployment.

He enlisted in the Iowa National Guard in 1999 and commissioned as a Second Lieutenant through the Iowa National Guard's Officer Candidate School in 2013.

His personal example of service and commitment extends beyond his military uniform.

When not serving his state and nation, Captain Gates serves his community as an Emergency Medical Technician and Firefighter with the Council Bluffs Fire Department.

One Soldier, making twice the difference in and out of his military uniform, CPT Gates please stand to be recognized.

This past year, the Iowa Air National Guard was also fully engaged supporting overseas missions and other active duty requirements.

The 185th Air Refueling Wing in Sioux City deployed more than 200 Airmen to the Middle East where they provided critical support to theater commanders and continue to provide ongoing air refueling support for real-world missions.

The 133rd Test Squadron in Fort Dodge deployed approximately 60 members to the Middle East where they conducted critical testing on Air Force Command and Control systems.

The 132nd Wing in Des Moines deployed nearly 100 Airman around the globe to provide overseas contingency support and continues on a daily basis to support overseas operations from home by performing remotely piloted aircraft missions, intelligence analysis, and cyber security tasks.

While deployed, SSgt Rik Zortman from Avoca, Iowa, spends his spare time creating awareness for cancer and has helped raise close to $10,000 for two organizations fighting childhood cancer, in memory of his son Armstrong, who he lost to this horrible disease.

Known as the human etch-a-sketch, SSgt Zortman runs pre-determined patterns that spells out the names of children affected by cancer on a map.

Since July 2017, he has sketched close to 300 names and has run over 930 miles for this cause.

SSgt Zortman's passion for serving others is a bedrock Iowa National Guard value. SSgt Zortman cannot be with us today, he is currently serving overseas.

Here at home, our second priority is to be the primary military crisis response force for Iowa, and the United States when necessary.

To do this, we capitalize on the experience and capabilities gained from our federal deployments and military training to assist civilian authorities in responding to large scale natural and man-made disasters here in Iowa.

Thankfully, 2018 was a relatively quiet year for our emergency response operations.

We used this time to further plan, prepare, and rehearse for potential disaster response operations on a multitude of scenarios.

Part of these plans include working with other state agencies and several local communities to develop a multi-agency exercise that will occur in Woodbury County later this year.

This exercise will improve our ability to prepare for and respond to complex domestic emergencies.

Another area of increased state support is within the cyber security field.

The 168th Air National Guard's Cyber Operations Squadron, located in Des Moines, is uniquely organized to assist our state with professionally trained cyber-warriors during a potential cyber security attack on critical infrastructure.

The 168th Cyber Operations Squadron works with local, state, and independent organizations to plan and conduct cyber response table top exercises in order to determine potential cyber security vulnerabilities.

Many of those who serve in the 168th Cyber Squadron are part-time Traditional Airmen, working as either IT professionals in civilian companies, public institutions, or are students taking advantage of state educational benefits to obtain higher level cyber security credentials and degrees.

These uniquely skilled cyber warriors are a valuable asset in both their service to our state and nation, and as highly trained IT employees available to our state's companies and public institutions.

A fine example of this is Airmen First Class Josiah Reeves, a farm kid from Maxwell, where he was homeschooled and worked part-time at Hy-Vee before joining the Iowa Air National Guard in 2018.

Growing up, Airmen First Class Reeves had a passion for working with electronics and the technical training offered by the Iowa Air Guard made his enlistment an easy decision.

Airmen First Class Reeves graduated from Air Force tech school this past September and now currently serves full-time with the 132d Wing at the Des Moines Air Base.

The Iowa National Guard provided this Citizen-Airmen training and employment opportunities and next fall he plans to use his education benefits to pursue a STEM focused degree at Iowa State University. Airmen Reeves please stand to be recognized.

Another important domestic support asset we have in the state is the Iowa National Guard's Counterdrug program and Midwest Counter Drug Training Center.

This federally funded program, which has existed since 1989, plays an important role in helping reduce the supply and demand of illicit drugs in the State of Iowa.

In addition, this center provides critical training at no cost to local law enforcement personnel and drug prevention and treatment professionals.

The Iowa National Guard is an important partner in the fight against opioid abuse.

In 2018, the Counterdrug program trained 824 law enforcement officers across the state to properly administer Narcan, the antidote for opioid overdoses.

Through the assistance of Counterdrug specialists, more than one pound of fentanyl, which equates to more than 180,000 fatal doses, and nearly 15 pounds of heroin, were seized and taken off the street in Iowa.

And in 2018, more than $63 million in drugs and $3.5 million in cash and assets were seized from drug dealers in Iowa with the assistance of the Iowa National Guard's Counterdrug program.

Our third priority is building enduring partnerships at the local, state, federal, and international levels.

One of our most important collaborations is through our State Partnership Program with the Kosovo Security Force and the Republic of Kosovo through our whole of society partnering endeavor.

Last May, we participated in Eagle 6, an international disaster response capstone training exercise, with our Kosovo Security Force partners.

This exercise brought together over 8 international countries, 55 Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen, and our Kosovo Security Force partners to test their ability to respond quickly and effectively during an international natural disaster response.

Another vital element to the success of our Kosovo partnership is our whole of society vision, which has expanded this important program of exchanges far beyond the Iowa National Guard into our local communities.

Today, a number of Sister City relationships between cities in Kosovo and Iowa have developed.

The cities of Johnston, Fort Dodge, Norwalk, and Des Moines have all created official partnerships with cities in Kosovo while Sioux City and Dubuque are working to finalize their agreements.

A critical element to the success of our Kosovo partnership is Consul General Xhavit Gashi. General Gashi has been a part of this special relationship from the beginning.

From his time as the Kosovo Security Force Attaché in Washington, D.C., to his work for the last three years as Kosovo's top diplomat in Iowa, General Gashi played a key role in making this partnership the best in the country.

I am honored that he is with us this morning and I am proud to call him a friend and partner. Ladies and Gentlemen, please join me in thanking General Gashi for his tireless work on behalf of his fellow citizens in Kosovo and his friends in Iowa.

My fourth and final priority is working to make our communities better places to live for everyone.

One of the ways we do this is through our collaboration with the Governor's STEM Advisory Council as well as working with Career and Technical Education, or CTE programs.

Unique to the Iowa National Guard, we offer a wide variety of educational and career opportunities for students interested in STEM and CTE career fields.

This past summer we hosted two high school teachers, one from Waukee and one from West Des Moines Valley, for six weeks as part of the State's STEM externship program.

These educators spent time at multiple Iowa National Guard facilities working in a variety of STEM-related career fields to gain firsthand knowledge of how to take an educational STEM standard and apply it in a real-world setting.

The combination of hands-on learning, coupled with strong educational connections, enable these teachers to now engage their students in more meaningful and substantial ways.

Understanding the science behind how a helicopter flies through the air or the mathematical calculations that enable operators to pilot an unmanned aerial vehicle from half a world away, allows students to experience STEM related concepts in action.

An example of this is Senior Airmen Jessica Thomerson, of the 233d Intelligence Squadron, Iowa Air National Guard, who recently supported disaster response planning during exercise PATRIOT NORTH 18 at Fort McCoy and Volk Field, Wisconsin.

While flying missions with the Civil Air Patrol she pioneered a means for transmitting overhead pictures via radio frequency to help first-responders immediately assess damage from natural disasters and access routes to help victims.

Airmen Thomerson, a Des Moines native and current DMACC community college student, takes her real-world experience gained through the military, and uses it to mentor kids studying STEM related topics in the classroom.

Her passion for education and action helps lead STEM engagements that inspire students in learning core concepts while having fun with hands-on projects.

Airman Thomerson provides value to her community, state and nation through her training and service with the Iowa National Guard, Airmen Thomerson please stand to be recognized.

We are able to add value back into our communities because the state has invested in the Iowa National Guard through support of important programs such as the Iowa National Guard Educational Assistance Program, or NGEAP.

NGEAP, which is administered by our friends at the Iowa College Student Aid Commission, provides our Soldiers and Airmen an opportunity to further their education at institutions of higher learning throughout the state of Iowa.

Thanks to your generous support, nearly 1,200 Iowans a year, who choose to serve their state and Nation in the Iowa National Guard, have 100% of their tuition paid at the State Regents' rate to attend Iowa colleges, universities, and community colleges.

Because of the NGEAP program, the Iowa National Guard is able to keep young people in the state while providing them with a high-quality Iowa education.

NGEAP is much more than simply a benefit to our Soldiers and Airmen, it is the beginning of a professional career path that provides opportunities through intensive training, education, leadership and practical experience.

When combined with a life-long commitment to Army and Air Force values, numerous STEM/CTE opportunities, and our committed diversity outreach programs, the Iowa National Guard offers a diverse foundation of education, service, and flexible career choices for young Iowans across the state to consider.

As you leave here today, I ask that you carry our message back to your districts and local communities, share our stories of service, opportunity, and encourage all young Iowans to consider serving in the Iowa National Guard.

As I come to a close, history reminds us that our state and nation will undoubtedly face domestic or international challenges now and in the future, but you can take comfort knowing that the Iowa National Guard is poised to respond when called.

We stand ready to Defend America, at home and abroad, just as we have done continuously since 1839.

I am so very proud of all our service men and women, our rich heritage, and our resolve, as we continue our role in the preservation of the ideals upon which our nation and state were founded.

On behalf of our Soldiers, Airmen, and their families, thank you for this opportunity to provide you with an update on the Condition of the Iowa National Guard.

Thank you ladies and gentlemen.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR REMARKS

Madam Governor, Mr. President, Madam Speaker, members of the General Assembly, elected officials, justices and judges, family, friends, and fellow Iowans...

What an honor it is to stand before you today as this state's 47th lieutenant governor.

Among our state's former lieutenant governors are governors, ambassadors, senators, judges, business leaders, education leaders, and honorable public servants - company I certainly don't deserve, but which I'm incredibly honored and humbled to keep.

The most important thing I want to say today is this: thank you for giving me this opportunity to serve. It's truly the honor of a lifetime to serve the people of Iowa, and I will forever be grateful for this opportunity.

There are a few people I'd like to especially thank.

First of all, to my wife Cari, and my children Jackson and Lauren. Thank you for the silent sacrifice each of you make every day to allow me to serve. Cari not only works full time, but she takes on more than her fair share of the load at home to make things work. I simply could not do this job without her.

No matter how hard I try, Jackson and Lauren see less of their dad than they should. Public service is a sacrifice, but oftentimes the sacrifice is theirs. Jackson and Lauren, my goal is to never lose sight of the fact that my most important job is being your dad. My hope is that you will see the honor and privilege that public service represents, and will someday seek to model that for your own children. Thank you, Cari, Jackson, and Lauren for your unconditional love and support.

To my parents, Larry and Carol. Thank you for being my first supporters, and my champions from day one - whether that's been on the football field, or an even more dangerous arena - politics! Most of all, thank you for giving me a gift that seems to be increasingly rare - a stable home, and a loving family.

And of course, Madam Governor: thank you for placing your confidence in me to serve alongside you in this role. I think one of the reasons Iowans chose you as their governor is because they can see so much of themselves in you. You are undoubtedly "one of us."

But I must say, the things I respect and admire most about you are the things that make you distinctly uncommon. Iowa's only president, Herbert Hoover, famously noted "that the great human advances have not been brought about by mediocre men and women. They were brought about by distinctly uncommon people with vital sparks of leadership.”

Governor, what I admire most is your uncommon strength to overcome challenges; your uncommon grit to persevere; your uncommon record of public service; and, perhaps most uncommon of all, your history-making rise to become Iowa’s first female governor.

You’re the one who shattered that glass ceiling under the golden dome. You’re the one who made it possible for little girls to know that even they, someday, might achieve the highest level of leadership in our state. You’re the one who made history.

That’s a distinction no one else can or will ever hold. You will be eternally uncommon for that accomplishment. I, along with the people of the state of Iowa, will be eternally thankful for that. Will you all please join me in saying thank you to Governor Reynolds?

We are living in a fast-changing economy, and it’s impacting everything around us. I heard a quote recently from an economist which I think captures the scale of it. I’ll paraphrase what he said:

“A billion hours ago, the modern human race emerged. A billion minutes ago, Christianity began. A billion seconds ago, the first PC was released. A billion Google searches ago.... was earlier this morning.”

Yes, technology is changing everything very rapidly - from the way we access and use information, to the way we produce and purchase goods, to the way we connect to one another, to the way we need to educate our children and our workforce, to the very face of our nation and state.

The challenges this changing economy presents may prove to be especially profound in the rural parts of our state - or perhaps they represent our great opportunity.

Governor Reynolds has very clearly made rural Iowa a priority for our administration. I especially appreciate the opportunity she’s given me to lead the Governor’s Empower Rural Iowa Initiative.

Empowering rural Iowa is all about making sure our entire state is positioned to be successful today and in the future.

There is incredible opportunity in our state. As I like to say, in Iowa, you can have it all. You can have a good job, a house with a yard, a very reasonable commute - or no commute at all in our smaller towns. You can live in a safe neighborhood, and you can send your kids to good schools. You can be a meaningful part of your community, and your state.

That’s unique - that’s not true everywhere in our country. In most places, you have to choose among those things.

But in Iowa, you can have all that if you want it. That’s the kind of quality of life and opportunity we need to preserve and expand in every corner of our state - and it’s uniquely available in rural Iowa.

Despite changing demographics, despite changing economics, despite changing technology, together we can position rural Iowa to not just survive in this new economy, but to thrive.

It won't be easy - if it were easy it would already be done. There's no single silver bullet solution - we'd have already found it.

But through hard work and creative thinking and problem-solving, we can make Iowa the place to seek the American dream in this new economy. Where you can have a nice, safe place to live. Where you can attain the education you need to have a career and support your family. And where you can connect to the rest of the world - whether that's to sell your product, monitor your livestock, operate your machinery - or simply to let your kids battle their friends in Fortnite!

There are two paths for rural Iowa as I see it - we can acquiesce to wherever an uncertain future takes us. Or we can fight like heck to make sure that same rural character - that same quality of life and opportunity - exists for our kids and grandkids. As long as Governor Reynolds and I are around, we're going to fight for rural prosperity.

Speaking of the American dream, I'd like to take a moment to talk to you about two individuals who embody that dream for me. More specifically, I'd like to tell you about two mementos I keep that remind me of them, and what they stood for. One is a Bible. The other is a flag.

When I was sworn in a moment ago, I placed my hand on a Bible which was once the property of Lauren Leaders. He was my grandpa, my mom's dad, and the namesake of my daughter Lauren. And he's one of the best men I was ever lucky enough to know.

They say the condition of your soul is in an inverse relationship with the condition of your Bible. Well, Grandpa's soul must have been darn near pristine, because his Bibles were torn to shreds. And not just one Bible. After he passed away, we found boxes full of the Bibles he'd worn down over the years. Dozens of them. The one I used today is circa 2007, one of his last, certainly in the best condition.

The other memento I keep is the American flag that adorned the casket of Glenn Gregg. He was also my grandpa, my dad's dad, a World War II veteran and the namesake of my son, Jackson Glenn. That flag reminds me of the service he so willingly gave for our country.

Serving in the infantry in Europe, he eventually he took a bullet in his leg while fighting along the Belgian-German border. But for some reason, he never received the Purple Heart he earned - and he never said a word about it for nearly 70 years. And the only reason he said anything was because that same gunshot wound from the European battlefield was about to necessitate the amputation of his leg nearly 70 years after the fact. What incredible humility.

He was also a man who - fondly remembering how the United States of America had made sure he had a warm Thanksgiving meal on a cold day on the front lines in 1944 - always insisted on standing for the National Anthem, on his one remaining leg, as if he owed it to the country, rather than the other way around.

We could all afford to be more like Lauren Leaders and Glenn Gregg. I know I could. To set an example for our children and grandchildren on how to live our lives in a Christ-like fashion. To serve others with pride, with dignity, with humility, and grace. To stand for principles larger than ourselves - like faith and American freedom.

So as I humbly enter this role as your lieutenant governor, know that I will strive to exhibit the values represented in those two special mementos - Lauren Leaders' Bible and Glenn Gregg's flag.

Thank you, God bless you, and God Bless this great state we call home.

“This is Me” was sung by Chris Weaver.

Prayer was delivered by Pastor Chuck DeVos, from Lifepoint Assembly of God.

The oath of office was administered to Governor-elect Kim Reynolds by Justice Susan Christensen.

President Schneider presented Governor Kim Reynolds, who delivered the following inaugural address:

GOVERNOR'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Senator Grassley, Senator Ernst, Congresswoman Finkenauer, Congresswoman Axne, Governor Vilsack, Lt. Governor Gregg, Madam Speaker, Mr. Leader, Mr. Chief Justice, justices and judges, legislators, other elected officials, distinguished guests, family and friends:

I am incredibly honored and humbled to stand before you today to take the oath as the first woman elected governor of our great state.

I am grateful for the faith you have placed in me, I am humbled by the generosity you've shown me, and I am eager to serve the people of Iowa.

This is a journey that began over 24 years ago at our kitchen table, when Kevin challenged me to put my ideas into action by running for county treasurer.

Kevin, I'm not sure either of us knew where that challenge would lead, but thank you for that little push and for being a willing partner in this life of public service.

The people of Iowa are truly lucky to have you as their First Gentlemen. Whether it's your work with disabled veterans or your passion for conservation, you have embraced this new role with enthusiasm and purpose. Thank you for being my source of strength, a loving husband, and an amazing father and grandfather.

To our three daughters, Nicole, Jen, and Jess: Thank you for always being there, for believing in me, and reminding me to keep things in perspective.

Ryan, Jason, and Scott, our sons-in-law: Thanks for always saying “Sure we can do that!” when I know you weren’t probably thinking “Really, are you kidding me?”

To our ten active grandchildren: Did you know that being your Grandma is the best job ever? I know I’ve missed a few ballgames and concerts, and that I haven’t seen you as much as I’d like. But please know, there is nothing more important to me than all of you.

Mom and Dad—thank you for raising me in Iowa. My life has been deeply blessed because of it. And thank you for leading by example, showing us through your 60 years of marriage what true devotion and commitment are all about.

To all of my family, I want you to know this: When I’ve succeeded, it’s because I’ve stood on your shoulders. And when I’ve failed, I moved forward because you carried me. I wouldn’t be here today without your love and support.

Lt. Governor Gregg—thank you for your inspiring remarks this morning. Your passion and love of Iowa are contagious. I am grateful for your counsel and friendship.

I am so blessed to stand before you today and address a state I truly love.

In 1948, well after his time as president had passed, Herbert Hoover delivered an address in his hometown of West Branch titled “I am Proud to be an Iowan.” He opened by talking about his parents and grandparents, and of them he said this: “They worshiped God; they did their duty to their neighbors. They toiled to bring their children greater comfort, better education and to open to them a wider opportunity than had been theirs.”

I love that quote. President Hoover was describing his family, but he could have said the same thing of so many Iowans—then and still today.

We worship God; we take care of our neighbors; and we strive to teach our children the same values and give them a life that is better than our own.

It’s that simple. And it’s why Iowa is the best state in the nation.

We may not have snow-capped mountains or white sandy beaches. And we don’t have year-long 70-degree weather. (We’re lucky if we get two weeks of it.)

What we have—what makes Iowa so special—is the character of our people, no matter where they came from.

As your Lt. Governor and now Governor, I’ve been fortunate to travel to all 99 counties every year for eight years. Very few Iowans get that opportunity—though I spot a few others in the crowd who do.

This travel gives me a unique vantage point. I get to see Iowa as a whole, and when I do—when I take a step back, squint my eyes and focus—here’s what I see: one, big small town.

In a small town, residents don’t wait for the government or far-flung strangers to take care of their ailing neighbors; they do it themselves.

When a farmer gets sick, the community drops everything to harvest his crops. When a neighbor loses her job and is struggling to get back on her feet, the town sees her through it; food and clothing are provided, and Christmas presents find their way under the tree.

In a small town, everyone works together and does life together, and because of that everyone takes care of each other.

That's Iowa. Whether it's in Des Moines or Sioux Center, Decorah or Davenport, Iowans exhibit those small-town values. They work hard, but not so much for themselves. They're ambitious, but not at the expense of others.

Last year, I witnessed this again and again. Whether it was cleaning up after a flood or a tornado, looking for a missing loved one, or reaching out to someone who had lost their way, Iowans were flashing their small-town character. They took care of each other.

Over the next four years and beyond, everything we do should be done with an eye towards preserving and strengthening this way of life.

It will not be easy. And it will truly take all of us. Government didn't make Iowa the best state in the nation, and government can't keep it that way.

But too often, across the country, people are looking not to themselves but to government to solve their neighbors' problems. They are focused less on what they can do and more on what they believe someone else is doing wrong.

Social media has become the accelerant for this way of thinking.

The internet has given a voice to millions of Americans. You no longer need a printing press to publish your ideas. A phone in your pocket will do.

That's powerful. But it is also making many of us powerless.

Too many have become dependant on their phones, captives of social media and to the bitterness and pain that exist there.

I see it less here than in other parts of the country. But I see it. And if we aren't vigilant, we will lose our character. We will lose our small-town way of life.

My ask of all Iowans, as we go into the next four years, is that we devote less time to online political arguments and more time to each other. That we don't let a screen steal time from our family and friends, from our communities and schools.

Because here's the thing: If we look up and to each other, we will see that great things are happening in this state. And if we put our energy into action instead of outrage, we will find that there are even greater days to come.

Today, we have the lowest unemployment rate in the nation, more Iowans are working than ever before, and their wages are going up. Iowans have more access to affordable healthcare, and we are beginning to focus as much on our mental health as we do our physical well-being.

Our fields are more productive than they've ever been, and we are harvesting energy from the wind and sun.

Our teachers are connecting the classroom to the real world, and our schools are more innovative than ever. That's preparing our students for success in a changing and dynamic environment.

And we are just beginning. We're doubling our efforts to show young people the opportunities that exist, and we're giving them the skills they need to seize that opportunity when it comes.

Of course, we must do more than just prepare our kids for a career. We have to teach them to be moral, productive members of society. We must instill in them the Iowa values that our parents instilled in us.

That kind of education doesn't just happen in a classroom. It starts at home and must be supported by the community. Our children learn from observing—from watching you and me. So we all play a part. We must all take responsibility for nurturing the character of the next generation.

We must also understand that our education is never over. We are never done learning and we should never stop challenging ourselves.

The economy is changing and the jobs are changing with it. Across Iowa, in cities and small towns, businesses are expanding and help-wanted signs are everywhere. These new jobs pay well, and the careers are rewarding, but they require more skills and training than we've seen in the past.

That presents a challenge, but also an opportunity. Many Iowans are rising to the occasion. They're signing up for apprenticeship programs or going back to school. Employers are stepping up too, creating new scholarships and training programs.

But there are still Iowans who are struggling. They work hard but feel like they can't get ahead. They want something more, but believe that time has passed them by.

For those Iowans, I'm here to tell you it's not too late. I'm living proof of that. Our lives are not set at age 22, 30 or even 50. In Iowa, it's not just our values that are timeless, so are our opportunities.

If we're to be successful in all of this—in educating Iowans young and old, in paving the way for opportunity, and most of all, in keeping our small-town way of life—we must be sure that every part of the state is succeeding.

Iowa is unique in that our people aren't concentrated in one city or even one part of the state. In every part of Iowa—in every corner and in every county—there are vibrant communities with a school, multiple houses of worship, and a Main Street that displays the community's pride.

Iowans live out small-town values no matter where they are—whether it's Cedar Rapids or Red Oak. But those values were born in these rural communities. That's where Iowa's character comes from.

So if we are going to protect that way of life, we must show our sons and daughters that there is a future here for them, and that this future is bright.

As I travel the state, I'm seeing a resurgence in many places. Our young people are coming home, new shops are opening, and the schools are brimming with as much pride as they ever have.

In the months and years ahead, it's my hope that we can ignite that kind of passion in even more communities. That we can connect every part of Iowa to high-speed internet; that we can connect every Iowan to a rewarding career and affordable healthcare; and that we can connect Iowa, our products, and services to every part of the world.

If we do that—if we bring prosperity to every corner—then Iowa will remain the best state in the nation.

That's not to say there won't be challenges ahead. The world is constantly changing—sometimes for the better and sometimes not. We must be prepared to embrace the change that enriches our lives and lets us focus on what's important.

But when it comes to the qualities that define our great State, let's not let the world change us. Let's change the world.

Let's worship God and take care of our neighbors. Let's strive to teach our children the same values, and let's give them a life that is better than our own.

If we do that, we will have lived a life we can be proud of. A life that is worthy of the freedoms we've been given. A life that is truly Iowan.

Thank you, God bless you, and God bless the great State of Iowa.

REPORT OF THE CONTESTED ELECTION COMMITTEE

Madam Speaker and Members of the House:

We, the undersigned members of the committee, to whom was referred the matter of the election contest between Kayla Koether, contestant, and Michael Bergan, incumbent, for the position of Representative for House District 55 of Iowa, submit the following report:

This committee met on January 14, 16, and 24, 2019. All members examined the statements and exhibits presented and submitted by the contestant and the incumbent.

This committee concludes that the relief sought by the contestant is not supported by Iowa Code §53.17, and further lacks support in Iowa Administrative Code 721-21.14(53), and the legislative history surrounding the adoption of HF 2273 in 2016.

It is clear, there exists no legal authority to open and count the twenty-nine ballots in question and thus no right to recanvass or recertify the election. The Winneshiek County Auditor and the Secretary of State have acted in accordance with the law. This committee cannot recommend the House act in violation of the laws that governed the election held on November 6, 2018.

This committee recommends the House dismiss the election contest and agrees with the official certification showing the incumbent, Michael Bergan, to be duly elected to the Office of State Representative from House District 55.

HOLT of Crawford
JACOBSEN of Pottawattamie
WINDSCHITL of Harrison

Wolfe of Clinton moved to substitute the Minority Report of the Contested Election Committee for the Report of the Contested Election Committee.

MINORITY REPORT OF THE CONTESTED ELECTION COMMITTEE

We, the undersigned members of the Committee, to whom was referred the matter of the Election Contest between Kayla Koether, contestant, and Michael Bergan, incumbent, for the position Representative for House District 55 of Iowa submit the following report:

Summary

Both the Iowa Constitution and Iowa Code prescribe the action members of the Iowa House of Representatives must take in this Election Contest: count every vote that is legally cast.

In the Election Contest filed by Kayla Koether in House District 55, there are 29 Iowans--Republicans, Democrats, and No Parties -- who followed Iowa law and mailed their ballot before the November 5, 2018 deadline. However, their votes remain uncounted due to two Republican elected officials, Winneshiek County Auditor Ben Steines and Secretary of State Paul Pate.

Iowa law guarantees the right in open session of the court or tribunal trying the Election Contest to have the ballots opened. Ms. Koether is being denied this right by the Committee.

These facts in this Election Contest are indisputable:

- The ballots were mailed on time according to Iowa law.
- The ballots were received by the County Auditor before the legal deadline.

- The United States post office has already confirmed that the 29 ballots in question all bear an intelligent mail barcode traceable to a date of entry into the federal mail system not later than the day before the Election - thus, the 29 ballots should be counted.

Voting is a fundamental right guaranteed by both the United States and Iowa Constitutions. As State Representatives, we took an oath to “support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Iowa.” Given this, it is the sworn duty of the members of the Iowa House of Representatives to protect the fundamental right to vote for these 29 Iowans.

However, nowhere in the Majority Report filed by Republican members of the Election Contest Committee does it give consideration to or even mention the fundamental right to vote, the Iowa Constitution, or the US Constitution. Instead of arguing to expand citizens’ rights to cast votes, the Majority Report relies on ill informed legal reasoning to deny a fundamental right to 29 citizens.

The Majority Report ignores the equal protection violation that occurred in this Election Contest. While the 29 voters in Winneshiek County still wait to have their votes counted, twelve Fayette County voters in the same situation had their late-arriving ballots counted just days after the Election.

In addition to the callous disregard for the voting rights of 29 Iowans, the Majority Party members of the Committee also violated the due process rights afforded to Iowans and Ms. Koether in our Constitution. They refused to allow the disenfranchised voters, Ms. Koether, or any other witnesses to testify before the Committee.

In refusing to protect the right of Iowans to vote or even conduct a fair hearing to gather facts and testimony, the Majority Report offered in this Election contest is a contrary to the rule of law. We believe members of the Iowa House of Representative must do our sworn duty and follow the law: count every vote.

Standing

This Contest of the Iowa House District 55 (“HD55”) Election between Kayla Koether (“Ms. Koether”) and Representative Michael Bergan (“Mr. Bergan”) comes down to 29 vote-by-mail ballots in Winneshiek County that were validly cast, but have not been counted. The votes include a split of Republicans, Democrats and No Parties. These 29 ballots should be counted because they were cast by eligible voters who followed all applicable laws and placed their ballots in the federal mail system by the deadline prescribed in the Iowa Code. These 29 ballots should be counted because they may change the outcome of the HD55 Election, given that just nine votes separate the candidates.

The Contest Committee Must Follow the Law and Count the Votes

The Iowa Constitution and Iowa Code outline voting rights and rules. The Contest Committee must uphold Iowa law and open and count the 29 ballots. All Iowa voters have a right for their validly-cast votes to be counted, and Ms. Koether has the right to request that the Contest Committee follow the statutory contest procedures to open and count the 29 ballots. (Iowa Code Chapter 57.5) (2018).

Voting is a fundamental right, guaranteed by both the United States and Iowa Constitutions. Chiodo v. Section 43.24 Panel, 846 N.W.2d 845, 848 (Iowa 2014) (citing Devine v. Wonderlich, 268 N.W.2d 620, 623 (Iowa 1978)). “It occupies an irreducibly vital role in our system of government by providing citizens with a voice in our democracy and in the election of those who make the laws by which all must live. The right to vote is found at the heart of representative government and is ‘preservative of other basic civil and political rights.’” Chiodo, 846 N.W.2d at 848 (citing Wesberry v. Sanders, 376 U.S. 1, 17 (1964); Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533, 562 (1964); accord Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 370 (1886)). If the voter follows the voting laws, then his or her vote should be counted. All voters should be treated equally. Here, 29 voters are being treated differently, and by refusing to count their votes, the government is knowingly and intentionally disenfranchising those voters.

These 29 Winneshiek County voters followed the law and held up their end of supporting democracy. The fact that their ballots were received after Election Day does not invalidate the voters’ actions the law already prescribes the last date absentee ballots can be received. Suggesting that this Contest will lead to ballots being returned weeks later is hyperbolic partisan grandstanding. Some have also suggested that these voters should have voted earlier or in person, but blaming the voters undermines the rule of law and decency—especially when these voters’ actions were well within the letter of the law. The legislature and this Committee, should be advocating for the counting of these ballots and defending a fundamental right, not using suspect legal arguments to disenfranchise voting citizens.

Prior District Court action has proven that 29 ballots were in the US postal mail system as confirmed by the intelligent barcodes on the ballots. The Contest Committee should have acted to request the ballots from the Winneshiek County Auditor to be opened and counted to determine the outcome of the Election pursuant to Iowa law.

These 29 voters are being punished because they do not live closer to a postal hub, because the ballots were not delivered prior to Election Day, and because the USPS did not use a stamp-canceling postmark on the ballots. None of these facts, however, renders their ballots in violation of Iowa election law. The Winneshiek County Auditor has confirmed through review of the intelligent mail barcode for each ballot that they were timely placed in the mail. These 29 voters did what they were supposed to do: they voted and they put their ballots into the federal mail system before Election Day. Their fundamental right to vote should not be denied by this Committee. This Contest Committee must follow Iowa law and open and count the ballots.

The Secretary of State’s Handbook that provides guidance to county Auditors states “In order to be valid, ballots received after Election Day must be clearly postmarked before Election Day or bear an intelligent mail barcode traceable to a date before Election Day.” The Secretary of State is refusing to follow his own guidance.

Iowa Code 57.17 (2) is clear...

In order for the ballot to be counted, the return envelope must be received in the commissioner’s office before the polls close on election day or be clearly postmarked by an officially authorized postal service or bear an intelligent mail barcode traceable to a date of entry into the federal mail system not later than the day before the election and received by the commissioner not later than noon on the Monday following the election.

While members of the Majority Party may argue legislative intent, they do not get to assume intent for all 150 duly elected Senators and Representatives.

We find that the Contest Committee failed to follow the Iowa Constitution and requires the Iowa House to follow the law when resolving an Election Contest.

Due Process

The Iowa Constitution gives persons the right to Due Process in civil proceedings. IOWA CONST. ART. I, § 9. The Iowa Constitution further gives candidates for public office the right to contest an election if the results or process are questioned. IOWA CONST. ART. III, § 7. Refusing Ms. Koether the opportunity to present evidence deprives her of her right to due process of law under the Iowa Constitution. In the Interest of A.M.H., 516 N.W.2d 867, 870 (Iowa 1994) (stating a fundamental component of due process is the opportunity to be heard).

The right to Due Process historically has been construed by Iowa courts to allow the parties to a case or controversy to provide evidence to the tribunal trying the case in order to give a full and fair picture of the issues before the tribunal. Id. The laws already provide for parties to contest the Election, and this Committee cannot limit Ms. Koether's constitutional rights. The role of this Committee is to make a fair determination of the outcome of the case.

Oral arguments from counsel are not evidence. Oral arguments are simply an overview of the issues in a case from the attorney's point of view. Without a record of evidence comprised of exhibits and testimony from witnesses, the record in front of the Committee is only hearsay and facts not proven to be accurate or reliable. Without creating a record of evidence, including testimony, this Committee will be unable to make a fully informed, impartial decision because the decision will be based on the attorneys' views of the facts and information. Oral arguments are not intended to be the only evidence a tribunal hears. Oral arguments are intended to be based on the record of evidence presented. Due process allows for the parties to not only present their own evidence, but to refute and contradict the opposing party's evidence to allow the tribunal to make a full and impartial decision on the case or controversy.

Had the Committee acted properly and allowed the parties or Committee members to call witnesses to provide testimony we, as minority members of the Committee, would have called the following:

1. Iowa Secretary of State, Paul Pate.
2. Former State Director of Elections, Dawn Williams.
3. Winneshiek County Auditor, Benjamin Steines and staff or volunteers.
4. Fayette County Auditor, Lori Moellers and staff or volunteers.
5. Iowa State Association of County Auditors, President Travis Weipert.
6. A United States Postal Service Employee.
7. Iowa House District 55 Presumed Representative, Michael Bergen.
8. Democratic Candidate for Iowa House District 55, Kayla Koether.
9. Bouthsakone McCain and her mother.
10. Three Winneshiek County voters whose ballots remain uncounted but were legally cast.

While testimony was not allowed, we do know what some of the disenfranchised voters have said in public statements regarding this Election Contest.

"The people whose votes are being denied have every right to explain their stories to the House Committee, and the Committee has an obligation to hear what we have to say and not to deny that. This is Iowa--these are your neighbors. The Committee should have to explain to me why there's a reason not to count them. Every vote should count. My rights are being trampled. I just want it to be fair. This is America! This isn't some third-world country where they burn ballots that they don't want counted. The House Committee owes it to the people to count every vote. They can't justify not counting the votes." --Bob Wilson from Decorah, Iowa

"As a voter who was not allowed a chance to participate in the election process, I think it's an extraordinary disappointment to be told by the governing body that will decide how to resolve this problematic issue that it is not interested in my participation once again. How can said body make a sound decision without comprehension of context and the impact this problem has on its constituents?"--Liam Murphy

"I was shocked when I heard my vote wasn't counted. I've been living with disabilities since 2002 and have been voting absentee for years. There has never been a problem--until this year. Whether it is a close contest like this one, or not, I still deserve that chance to register my beliefs and my feelings. I am part of the 29 forgotten, or at least marginalized people, who don't seem to have a voice any longer, even though we did everything asked of us in the proper way. Voting is one of the utmost privileges of being an American.

I consider voting to be not only my privilege and responsibility, but also my right as an American citizen. Every vote is important as evidenced in this close contest. I expect the legislature to do the right thing and put partisan politics aside. My vote must be counted and my voice heard, as I did all that was legally required of me. To deny me my constitutional right to participate in this process would be a true injustice. Don't let justice take a back seat to politics. Voting is one of the utmost privileges of being an American, living in a society where, at least until recently, people could own their own destiny." --Kathleen Kuennen

"It's not right that the committee wouldn't make time to hear from us. I was devastated when I got the phone call informing me that Lowell's and my absentee votes hadn't been counted. We mailed them on time. It's not my fault they didn't get a postmark. They have the barcode at the bottom of the envelope that proves whether they were in the post office before the deadline. If they have that barcode, they should be opened and counted.

A few years ago we used to have a polling site right here in Frankville. It closed down, so now we have to go to Decorah. To get to the polling place is about 14 miles. With Lowell being disabled it has been easier for us to vote absentee.

We trusted the system. We trusted that absentee voting would work. It's our right to say who we want in the legislature representing us. When that right is taken away, that's just wrong. The legislature should make sure the votes are opened and counted." --Laura Staake

It's disappointing that the voters, who are the ones being disenfranchised by this Contest Committee did not have a chance to have their voices heard. This Committee's lack of action has set a disturbing precedent for future legislatures to follow. The one hearing and perfunctory report make it clear that the Majority had no intention of giving Ms. Koether or the voters Due Process.

We find the Committee's failure in applying Iowa law, denied the Contestant Kayla Koether and the voters of House District 55 with their due process rights necessary to ensure a proper hearing and consideration of the evidence to properly determine the Election outcome. The Committee Majority refusal to hear evidence shows they acted in haste with their minds clouded by their political power to seek an outcome as they see fit, rather than as led by evidence that was not allowed to be presented to the Committee.

Equal Protection

Unlike the 29 disenfranchised voters in Winneshiek County, twelve Fayette County voters had their late-arriving ballots counted, despite the lack of a postmark. The intelligent mail barcodes on the twelve ballots were not checked, and the dates on which they were placed into the federal mail system was not verified in any way. Because voters were treated differently based on which county auditor counted their votes, there is an Equal Protection violation in the HD55 Election.

The 29 voters in Winneshiek County have the same right to have their vote counted in the HD55 Election as the voters in Fayette County, but they have been denied this right with no consideration by the Winneshiek County Auditor and the Iowa Secretary of State. The Majority Party seems to have no concern about the votes counted in Fayette County, where Mr. Bergan gained a net of two votes. As election officials, county auditors and the Iowa Secretary of State have the explicit duty to carry out the Iowa Constitution and the Iowa Code to ensure that all eligible voters who follow the law are able to exercise their fundamental right to vote. This Contest Committee is now in the position to correct that error and follow Iowa law.

We know that the Secretary of State (Mr. Pate) advised the Winneshiek County Auditor to not count the ballots, even though similarly situated ballots were counted in another County in the House District. However, we also know Sec. Pate has been derelict in his official duties on at least two other occasions when failing to count 5,842 votes in the 2016 General Election and failing to timely file notice on a Constitutional Amendment last year.

Conclusion

The Majority's decision of this Committee to not act in the interest of democratic principles and to not follow Iowa law will have a negative impact in every corner of the state. Voters and constituents will lose faith in their institutions and be forced to settle with the belief that the Iowa House does not value all voters, regardless of party affiliation.

From the beginning the members of the Minority Party have acted in good faith without partisan intention, but simply to have the will of the voters and all votes counted. Count Every Vote. As with custom over the last few years, the Majority Party has put another hurdle in front of voters. Iowans will now worry that their absentee ballot may not be counted even if legally cast, discouraging them from utilizing that method of voting, many of which is their only way of having their voice heard. Between limiting the number of days to vote early and now throwing out 29 legally cast ballot, it is difficult to not jump to the conclusion that the Majority Party wants fewer people voting. The Majority Party is sending a message that they value certain Constitutional Rights more than others.

This Committee recommends the House grant Ms. Koether and the voters of House District 55 their constitutional rights and rights guaranteed in Iowa Code to open and count the ballots that have been legally cast.

ADOPTION OF HOUSE RESOLUTION 6

Hagenow of Dallas called up for consideration House Resolution 6, as follows:

HOUSE RESOLUTION 6 BY COMMITTEE ON ETHICS

1 A Resolution relating to the code of ethics of the
 2 House of Representatives for the Eighty-eighth
 3 General Assembly.
 4 BE IT RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, That
 5 the House Code of Ethics shall be as follows:
 6 HOUSE CODE OF ETHICS
 7 PREAMBLE. Every legislator and legislative employee
 8 has a duty to uphold the integrity and honor of the 9 general assembly, to encourage respect for the law
 10 and for the general assembly, and to observe the house
 11 code of ethics. The members and employees of the house
 12 have a responsibility to conduct themselves so as to 13 reflect credit on the general assembly, and to inspire
 14 the confidence, respect, and trust of the public. The 15 following rules are adopted pursuant to chapter 68B of 16 the Code, to assist the members and employees in the 17 conduct of their activities:
 18 1. DEFINITIONS. The definitions of terms provided
 19 in chapter 68B of the Code apply to the use of those 20 terms in these rules.
 21 2. ECONOMIC INTEREST OF MEMBER OR EMPLOYEE OF
 22 HOUSE.
 23 a. Economic or investment opportunity. A member
 24 or employee of the house shall not solicit or accept
 25 economic or investment opportunity under circumstances
 26 where the member or employee knows, or should know,
 27 that the opportunity is being afforded with the intent

1 to influence the member's or employee's conduct in
 2 the performance of official duties. If a member
 3 or employee of the house learns that an economic 4 or investment opportunity previously accepted was 5 offered with the intent of influencing the member's or

6 employee's conduct in the performance of the official 7 duties, the member or employee shall take steps to 8 divest that member or employee of that investment or 9 economic opportunity, and shall report the matter
10 in writing to the chairperson of the house ethics
11 committee.

12 b. Excessive charges for services, goods, or 13 property interests. A member or employee of the 14 house shall not charge to or accept from a person
15 known to have a legislative interest, a price, fee,
16 compensation, or other consideration for the sale or
17 lease of any property or the furnishing of services
18 which is in excess of that which the member or employee
19 would ordinarily charge another person.

20 c. Use of confidential information. A member or 21 employee of the house, in order to further the member's 22 or employee's own economic interests, or those of any
23 other person, shall not disclose or use confidential
24 information acquired in the course of the member's or 25 employee's official duties. For the purpose of this 26 rule, information disclosed in open session at a public
27 meeting and information that is a public record is not 28 confidential information.

29 d. Employment. A member or employee of the house
30 shall not accept employment, either directly or

1 indirectly, from a political action committee. A
2 member of the house shall not act as a paid lobbyist
3 for any organization. However, this paragraph shall 4 not prohibit a member or employee of the house from 5 working for a candidate's committee, a political
6 party's action committee, or a political action
7 committee which does not expressly advocate the 8 nomination, election, or defeat of a candidate for 9 public office in this state or expressly advocate the 10 passage or defeat of a ballot issue in this state and 11 which is not interested in issues before the general
12 assembly.

13 For the purpose of this rule, a political action
14 committee means a committee, but not a candidate's
15 committee, which accepts contributions, makes
16 expenditures, or incurs indebtedness in the aggregate
17 of more than one thousand dollars in any one calendar
18 year to expressly advocate the nomination, election, or 19 defeat of a candidate for public office or to expressly 20 advocate the passage or defeat of a ballot issue or for 21 the purpose of influencing legislative action.

22 e. Solicitation of employment as lobbyist. A member
23 or employee of the house shall not solicit employment
24 on behalf of the member or employee, or on behalf of

25 another legislator or employee, as a lobbyist while the 26 general assembly is in session.
27 f. Certain goods or services. A member or employee
28 of the house shall not solicit or obtain goods or 29 services from another person under circumstances where 30 the member or employee knows or should know that the

1 goods or services are being offered or sold with the
2 intent to influence the member's or employee's conduct
3 in the performance of official duties. If a member
4 or employee of the house is afforded goods or services
5 by another person at a price that is not available to 6 other members or classes of members of the general
7 public or is afforded goods or services that are not
8 available to other members or classes of members
9 of the general public by another person where the 10 member or employee knows or should know that the other
11 person intends to influence the member's or employee's
12 official conduct, the member or employee shall not take 13 or purchase the goods or services.
14 3. APPEARANCE BEFORE STATE AGENCY. A member or 15 employee of the house may appear before a state agency
16 in any representation case but shall not act as a
17 lobbyist with respect to the passage, defeat, approval,
18 veto, or modification of any legislation, rule, or 19 executive order. Whenever a member or employee of 20 the house appears before a state agency, the member
21 or employee shall carefully avoid all conduct which 22 might in any way lead members of the general public
23 to conclude that the member or employee is using the 24 member's or employee's official position to further the 25 member's or employee's professional success or personal
26 financial interest.
27 4. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST. In order for the general
28 assembly to function effectively, members of the house
29 may be required to vote on bills and participate in 30 committee work which will affect their employment and

1 other areas in which they may have a monetary interest.
2 Action on bills and committee work which furthers a
3 member's specific employment, specific investment, or 4 other specific interest, as opposed to the interests of 5 the public in general or the interests of a profession,
6 trade, business, or other class of persons, shall be
7 avoided. In making a decision relative to a member's 8 activity on particular bills or in committee work, the 9 following factors should be considered:
10 a. Whether a substantial threat to the member's

11 independence of judgment has been created by the 12 conflict situation.

13 b. The effect of the member's participation on 14 public confidence in the integrity of the general
15 assembly.

16 c. Whether the member's participation is likely to 17 have any significant effect on the disposition of the 18 matter.

19 d. The need for the member's particular
20 contribution, such as special knowledge of the subject
21 matter, to the effective functioning of the general
22 assembly.

23 If a member decides not to participate in committee
24 work or to abstain from voting because of a possible
25 conflict of interest, the member should disclose
26 this fact to the legislative body. The member shall 27 not vote on any question in which the member has an 28 economic interest that is distinguishable from the 29 interests of the general public or a substantial class
30 of persons.

1 5. STATUTORY REQUIREMENTS. Members and employees
2 of the house shall comply with the requirements
3 contained in chapters 68B (Government Ethics and
4 Lobbying), 721 (Official Misconduct), and 722 (Bribery
5 and Corruption), and sections 2.18 (Contempt) and 711.4
6 (Extortion) of the Code.

7 6. CHARGE ACCOUNTS. Members and employees of the 8 house shall not charge any amount or item to a charge
9 account to be paid for by a lobbyist or any client of a
10 lobbyist.

11 7. TRAVEL EXPENSES. A member or employee of the 12 house shall not charge to the state of Iowa amounts
13 for travel and expenses unless the member or employee
14 actually has incurred those mileage and expense costs.
15 Members or employees shall not file the vouchers for 16 weekly mileage reimbursement required by section 2.10,
17 subsection 1 of the Code, unless the travel expense was 18 actually incurred.

19 A member or employee of the house shall not file
20 a claim for per diem compensation for a meeting of 21 an interim study committee or a visitation committee
22 unless the member or employee attended the meeting.
23 However, the speaker may waive this provision and allow 24 a claim to be filed if the member or employee attempted
25 to attend the meeting but was unable to do so because 26 of circumstances beyond the member's or employee's
27 control.

28 8. GIFTS ACCEPTED OR RECEIVED. Members and 29 employees of the house shall comply with the 30 restrictions relating to the receipt or acceptance

1 of gifts contained in section 68B.22 of the Code.
 2 The sponsor of a function under section 68B.22,
 3 subsection 4, paragraph “s”, shall electronically
 4 file a registration with the chief clerk of the house
 5 five days prior to the function disclosing the name of 6 the sponsor, and the date, time, and location of the 7 function. The sponsor shall also electronically file a
 8 report of expenditures as required pursuant to section
 9 68B.22, subsection 4, paragraph “s”.

10 9. HONORARIA RESTRICTIONS. Members and employees
 11 of the house shall comply with the restrictions
 12 relating to the receipt of honoraria contained in 13 section 68B.23 of the Code.

14 10. DISCLOSURE REQUIRED. Each member of the 15 house and the chief clerk of the house shall file the 16 personal financial disclosure statements required under 17 section 68B.35 of the Code by February 15 of each year
 18 for the prior calendar year.

19 11. ~~HARASSMENT~~ — ~~SEXUAL HARASSMENT~~ — ~~RETALIATION~~.

20 Members and employees of the house shall not engage in 21 conduct which constitutes harassment, including sexual 22 harassment as defined in section 19B.12 of the Code, or 23 retaliation, or conduct that is prohibited pursuant to 24 the sexual any harassment policy adopted by the house
 25 committee on administration and rules. Harassment is 26 a form of discrimination based on any protected basis,
 27 including race, color, national origin, religion,
 28 sex, pregnancy, physical or mental disability, age,
 29 marital status, veteran status, gender identity, sexual 30 orientation, or any other characteristic protected by

1 law, including the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964,
 2 the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 3 1967, the federal Americans with Disabilities Act of 4 1990, and chapter 216 of the Code. Harassment of an
 5 individual based on any protected basis is unlawful 6 if submission to or rejection of such conduct by 7 an individual is made the basis for an employment
 8 decision affecting the individual or if such conduct
 9 is sufficiently severe or pervasive to create a hostile
 10 work environment. Members and employees of the house
 11 shall not engage in conduct which constitutes unlawful 12 harassment or discrimination based on any protected
 13 basis, or retaliation for reporting harassment or 14 discrimination, threatening to report harassment or 15 discrimination, or participating in a harassment or 16 discrimination investigation.

17 12. COMPLAINTS.

18 a. Filing of complaint. Complaints may be filed by 19 any person believing that a member or employee of the 20 house, a lobbyist, or a client of a lobbyist is guilty
21 of a violation of the house code of ethics, the joint
22 rules governing lobbyists, or chapter 68B of the Code.

23 b. Complaints by committee. The ethics committee
24 may initiate a complaint on its own motion. Committee
25 complaints may be initiated by the committee as a
26 result of a committee investigation or as a result of 27 receipt of any complaint or other information that does 28 not meet the requirements of these rules regarding the 29 form of a complaint but that contains allegations that 30 would form the basis for a valid complaint.

1 c. Form and contents of complaint. A complaint
2 shall be in writing.

3 Complaint forms shall be available from the chief
4 clerk of the house, but a complaint shall not be
5 rejected for failure to use the approved form if it
6 complies with the requirements of these rules. The 7 complaint shall contain a certification made by the 8 complainant, under penalty of perjury, that the facts
9 stated in the complaint are true to the best of the 10 complainant's knowledge.

11 To be valid, a complaint shall allege all of the 12 following:

13 (1) Facts, that if true, establish a violation of 14 a provision of chapter 68B of the Code, the house code
15 of ethics, or joint rules governing lobbyists for which 16 penalties or other remedies are provided.

17 (2) That the conduct providing the basis for the 18 complaint occurred within three years of the filing of 19 the complaint.

20 (3) That the party charged with a violation is 21 a party subject to the jurisdiction of the ethics
22 committee.

23 d. Confidentiality of complaint. The identity of 24 the parties and the contents of the complaint shall
25 be confidential until the time that the committee
26 chairperson and ranking member determine under 27 paragraph "f" that the complaint is sufficient as 28 to form, unless either the complainant or the party
29 charged in the complaint makes the identity of the 30 parties, or the information contained in the complaint,

1 public. The chief clerk of the house and the committee

2 chairperson and ranking member may communicate
3 confidentially with appropriate legislative staff
4 during any stage of the complaint process.
5 e. Notice of complaint. Upon receipt of the 6 complaint, the chief clerk of the house shall promptly
7 notify the chairperson and ranking member of the 8 ethics committee that a complaint has been filed and 9 provide both the chairperson and the ranking member
10 with copies of the complaint and any supporting 11 information. Within two working days, the chief clerk
12 shall send notice, either by personal delivery or by 13 certified mail, return receipt requested, to the person
14 or persons alleged to have committed the violation,
15 along with a copy of the complaint and any supporting 16 information. The notice to the accused person shall 17 contain a request that the person submit a written 18 response to the complaint within ten working days of 19 the date that the notice was sent by the chief clerk.
20 At the request of the accused person, the committee may 21 extend the time for the response, not to exceed ten
22 additional calendar days. A response to a complaint
23 shall not be confidential.
24 f. Hearing regarding validity of complaint. The 25 committee chairperson and the ranking member shall 26 review the complaint and supporting information to 27 determine whether the complaint meets the requirements
28 as to form. If the complaint is deficient as to form,
29 the complaint shall be returned to the complainant
30 with instructions indicating the deficiency. If the

1 complaint is in writing, is sufficient as to form,
2 and contains the appropriate certification, as soon
3 as practicable, the chairperson shall call a meeting
4 of the committee to review the complaint to determine
5 whether the complaint meets the requirements for 6 validity and whether the committee should take action
7 on the complaint pursuant to paragraph "g" or whether
8 the committee should request that the chief justice
9 of the supreme court appoint an independent special
10 counsel to conduct an investigation to determine
11 whether probable cause exists to believe that a
12 violation of the house code of ethics, joint rules
13 governing lobbyists, or chapter 68B of the Code, has 14 occurred. The sufficiency as to form determination
15 and the valid complaint requirements determination
16 shall be based solely upon the original complaint and 17 the response to the complaint. Additional documents
18 or responses shall not be filed by the parties or 19 otherwise considered by the committee prior to a
20 validity determination. The committee shall not

21 receive or consider oral testimony in support of or 22 against a validity determination.
 23 If the committee finds that a complaint does not
 24 meet the content requirements for a valid complaint,
 25 the committee shall dismiss the complaint and notify 26 both the complainant and the party alleged to have 27 committed the violation of the dismissal and the 28 reasons for dismissal. A dismissal for failure to meet
 29 the formal requirements for the filing of a complaint
 30 shall be without prejudice and the complainant may

1 refile the complaint at any time within three years
 2 of the date that the alleged violation took place. If
 3 the dismissal is based upon a failure to allege facts
 4 and circumstances necessary for a valid complaint, the 5 dismissal shall be with prejudice and the party shall 6 not be permitted to file a complaint based upon the 7 same facts and circumstances.

8 g. Action on undisputed complaint. If the committee
 9 determines a complaint is valid and determines no
 10 dispute exists between the parties regarding the 11 material facts that establish a violation, the 12 committee may take action on the complaint under this 13 paragraph without requesting the appointment of an 14 independent special counsel.

15 The committee may do any of the following:
 16 (1) Issue an admonishment to advise against the 17 conduct that formed the basis for the complaint and to 18 exercise care in the future.

19 (2) Issue an order to cease and desist the conduct
 20 that formed the basis for the complaint.

21 (3) Make a recommendation to the house that 22 the person subject to the complaint be censured or 23 reprimanded.

24 h. Request for appointment of independent special
 25 counsel. If, after review of the complaint and any 26 response made by the party alleged to have committed 27 the violation, the committee determines that the 28 complaint meets the requirements for form and content
 29 and the committee has not taken action under paragraph 30 "g", the committee shall request that the chief justice

1 of the supreme court appoint independent special
 2 counsel to investigate the matter and determine whether 3 probable cause exists to believe that a violation of 4 chapter 68B of the Code, the house code of ethics, or 5 the joint rules governing lobbyists has occurred.

7 The report from the independent special counsel
8 regarding probable cause to proceed on a complaint
9 shall be filed with the chief clerk of the house.
10 Upon receipt of the report of the independent special
11 counsel, the chief clerk shall notify the chairperson
12 of the filing of the report and shall send copies of 13 the report to the members of the ethics committee. As 14 soon as practicable after the filing of the report, the 15 chairperson shall schedule a public meeting for review
16 of the report. The purpose of the public meeting
17 shall be to determine whether the complaint should be 18 dismissed, whether a formal hearing should be held on 19 the complaint, or whether other committee action is 20 appropriate. The complainant and the person alleged to 21 have committed the violation shall be given notice of 22 the public meeting, shall have the right to be present
23 at the public meeting, and may, at the discretion
24 of the committee, present testimony in support of or 25 against the recommendations contained in the report.
26 If the committee determines that the matter should 27 be dismissed, the committee shall cause an order to 28 be entered dismissing the matter and notice of the 29 dismissal shall be given to the complainant and the 30 party alleged to have committed the violation. If

1 the committee determines that the complaint should be
2 scheduled for formal hearing, the committee shall issue
3 a charging statement which contains the charges and
4 supporting facts that are to be set for formal hearing
5 and notice shall be sent to the complainant and the 6 accused person.
7 The notice shall include a statement of the nature
8 of the charge or charges, a statement of the time and 9 place of hearing, a short and plain statement of the 10 facts asserted, and a statement of the rights of the 11 accused person at the hearing.
12 j. Formal hearing. Formal hearings shall be public
13 and conducted in the manner provided in section 68B.31,
14 subsection 8 of the Code. At a formal hearing the 15 accused shall have the right to be present and to 16 be heard in person and by counsel, to cross-examine 17 witnesses, and to present evidence. Members of 18 the committee shall also have the right to question
19 witnesses.
20 The committee may require, by subpoena or otherwise, 21 the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the 22 production of such books, records, correspondence,
23 memoranda, papers, documents, and any other things it
24 deems necessary to the conduct of the inquiry.
25 Evidence at the formal hearing shall be received

26 in accordance with rules and procedures applicable to 27 contested cases under chapter 17A of the Code.
 28 The committee chairperson, or the vice chairperson,
 29 or ranking member in the absence of the chairperson,
 30 shall preside at the formal hearing and shall rule on

PAGE 15

1 the admissibility of any evidence received. The ruling
 2 of the chairperson may be overturned by a majority
 3 vote of the committee. Independent special counsel
 4 shall present the evidence in support of the charge
 5 or charges. The burden shall be on the independent
 6 special counsel to prove the charge or charges by 7 a preponderance of clear and convincing evidence.
 8 Upon completion of the formal hearing, the committee
 9 shall adopt written findings of fact and conclusions
 10 concerning the merits of the charges and make its 11 report and recommendation to the house.

12 k. Disqualification of member. Members of the 13 committee may disqualify themselves from participating
 14 in any investigation of the conduct of another person
 15 upon submission of a written statement that the member
 16 cannot render an impartial and unbiased decision
 17 in a case. A member may also be disqualified by a 18 unanimous vote of the remaining eligible members of the 19 committee.

20 A member of the committee is ineligible to 21 participate in committee meetings, as a member of the 22 committee, in any proceeding relating to the member's
 23 own official conduct.

24 If a member of the committee is disqualified or 25 ineligible to act, the majority or minority leader who 26 appointed the member shall appoint a replacement member
 27 to serve as a member of the committee during the period
 28 of disqualification or ineligibility.

29 l. Recommendations by the committee. The committee
 30 shall recommend to the house that the complaint be

PAGE 16

1 dismissed, or that one or more of the following be
 2 imposed:

3 (1) That the member or employee of the house
 4 or lobbyist or client of a lobbyist be censured or 5 reprimanded, and the recommended appropriate form of 6 censure or reprimand be used.

7 (2) That the member of the house be suspended or 8 expelled from membership in the house and required
 9 to forfeit the member's salary for that period, the 10 employee of the house be suspended or dismissed from 11 employment, or that the lobbyist's or lobbyist's

12 client's lobbying privileges be suspended.

13 13. COMMUNICATIONS WITH ETHICS COMMITTEE. After a 14 complaint has been filed or an investigation has been 15 initiated, a party to the complaint or investigation
16 shall not communicate, or cause another to communicate,
17 as to the merits of the complaint or investigation with 18 a member of the committee, except under the following
19 circumstances:

20 a. During the course of any meetings or other
21 official proceedings of the committee regarding the 22 complaint or investigation.

23 b. In writing, if a copy of the writing is 24 delivered to the adverse party or the designated
25 representative for the adverse party.

26 c. Orally, if adequate prior notice of the 27 communication is given to the adverse party or the 28 designated representative for the adverse party.

29 d. As otherwise authorized by statute, the house
30 code of ethics, joint rules governing lobbyists, or

PAGE 17

1 vote of the committee.

2 14. PERMANENT RECORD. The chief clerk of the house
3 shall maintain a permanent record of all complaints
4 filed and any corresponding committee action. The 5 permanent record shall be prepared by the ethics
6 committee and shall contain the date the complaint was 7 filed, name and address of the complainant, name and 8 address of the accused person, a brief statement of the 9 charges made, any evidence received by the committee,
10 any transcripts or recordings of committee action, and 11 ultimate disposition of the complaint. ~~Beginning with~~
12 ~~the 2017 Regular Session of the General Assembly, in In~~ 13 recording the ultimate disposition of a complaint that 14 is dismissed, the information shall include whether 15 the complaint was dismissed due to formal insufficiency
16 or due to a failure to meet the content requirements
17 of a valid complaint. Except as provided in rule
18 12, paragraph "d", the chief clerk shall keep each
19 complaint confidential until public disclosure is made
20 by the ethics committee.

21 15. MEETING AUTHORIZATION. The house ethics
22 committee is authorized to meet at the discretion of 23 the committee chairperson in order to conduct hearings
24 and other business that properly may come before it.
25 If the committee submits a report seeking house action
26 against a member or employee of the house or lobbyist
27 after the second regular session of a general assembly
28 has adjourned sine die, the report shall be submitted
29 to and considered by the subsequent general assembly.

30 16. ADVISORY OPINIONS.

1 a. Requests for formal opinions. A request for a
2 formal advisory opinion may be filed by any person who
3 is subject to the authority of the ethics committee.
4 The ethics committee may also issue a formal advisory
5 opinion on its own motion, without having previously
6 received a formal request for an opinion, on any issue
7 that is within the jurisdiction of the committee.
8 Requests shall be filed with either the chief clerk of 9 the house or the chairperson of the ethics committee.

10 b. Form and contents of requests. A request for 11 a formal advisory opinion shall be in writing and

13 application of the house code of ethics, the joint 14 rules governing lobbyists, or chapter 68B of the 15 Code to any person who is subject to the authority of 16 the ethics committee. Requests shall contain one or 17 more specific questions and shall relate either to 18 future conduct or be stated in the hypothetical. A
19 request for an advisory opinion shall not specifically
20 name any individual or contain any other specific 21 identifying information, unless the request relates
22 to the requester's own conduct. However, any request
23 may contain information which identifies the kind
24 of individual who may be affected by the subject
25 matter of the request. Examples of this latter kind
26 of identifying information may include references to 27 conduct of a category of individuals, such as but not 28 limited to conduct of legislators, legislative staff,
29 or lobbyists.

30 c. Confidentiality of formal requests and opinions.

PAGE 19

1 Requests for formal opinions are not confidential and
2 any deliberations of the committee regarding a request
3 for a formal opinion shall be public. Opinions issued
4 in response to requests for formal opinions are not
5 confidential, shall be in writing, and shall be placed
6 on file in the office of the chief clerk of the house.

14 suspended and the business of the session shall consist 15 solely of those bills or subject matters stated in the

24 When any bill or resolution which has passed one
25 house is rejected or adopted in the other, notice of 26 such action and the date thereof shall be given to the 27 house of origin in writing signed by the secretary of 28 the senate or the chief clerk of the house.
29 Rule 11
30 Code Editor's Correction Bills

PAGE 5

1 A bill recommended by the Code editor which is
2 passed out of committee to the floor for debate by a
3 committee of the house or senate and which contains
4 Code corrections of a nonsubstantive nature shall 5 not be amended on the floor of either house except
6 pursuant to corrective or nonsubstantive amendments
7 filed by the judiciary committee of the senate or 8 the house. Such committee amendments, whether filed
9 at the time of initial committee passage of the bill
10 to the floor for debate or after rereferral to the 11 committee, shall not be incorporated into the bill in 12 the originating house but shall be filed separately.

13 Amendments filed from the floor to strike sections of 14 the bill or the committee amendments shall be in order.
15 Following amendment and passage by the second house,
16 only amendments filed from the floor which strike
17 sections of the amendment of the second house shall be
18 in order.
19 A bill recommended by the Code editor which is
20 passed out of committee to the floor for debate by a
21 committee of the house or senate and which contains
22 Code corrections beyond those of a nonsubstantive
23 nature shall not be amended on the floor of either
24 house except pursuant to amendments filed by the 25 judiciary committee of the senate or the house. Such 26 committee amendments, whether filed at the time of 27 initial committee passage of the bill to the floor for 28 debate or after rereferral to the committee, shall 29 not be incorporated into the bill in the originating 30 house but shall be filed separately. Such a bill shall

PAGE 6

1 be limited to corrections which: Adjust language to
2 reflect current practices, insert earlier omissions,
3 delete redundancies and inaccuracies, delete temporary
4 language, resolve inconsistencies and conflicts,
5 update ongoing provisions, and remove ambiguities.
6 Amendments filed from the floor to strike sections of
7 the bill or the committee amendments shall be in order.
8 Following amendment and passage by the second house,
9 only amendments filed from the floor which strike
10 sections of the amendment of the second house shall be
11 in order.
12 It is the intent of the house and the senate that 13 such bills be passed out of committee to the floor for 14 debate within the first four weeks of convening of a
15 legislative session.
16 Rule 12
17 Amendments by Other House
18 1. When a bill which originated in one house is 19 amended in the other house, the house originating 20 the bill may amend the amendment, concur in full in 21 the amendment, or refuse to concur in full in the 22 amendment. Precedence of motions shall be in that 23 order. The amendment of the other house shall not be 24 ruled out of order based on a question of germaneness.
25 a. If the house originating the bill concurs in the 26 amendment, the bill shall then be immediately placed
27 upon its final passage.
28 b. If the house originating the bill refuses to 29 concur in the amendment, the bill shall be returned to 30 the amending house which shall either:

1 (1) Recede, after which the bill shall be read for
2 the last time and immediately placed upon its final
3 passage; or

4 (2) Insist, which will send the bill to a
5 conference committee.

6 c. If the house originating the bill amends the 7 amendment, that house shall concur in the amendment
8 as amended and the bill shall be immediately placed
9 on final passage, and shall be returned to the other
10 house. The other house cannot further amend the bill.

11 (1) If the amending house which gave second
12 consideration to the bill concurs in the amendment
13 to the amendment, the bill shall then be immediately
14 placed upon its final passage.

15 (2) If the amending house refuses to concur in the 16 amendment to the amendment, the bill shall be returned
17 to the house originating the bill which shall either:

18 (a) Recede, after which the bill shall be read for 19 the last time as amended and immediately placed upon 20 its final passage; or

21 (b) Insist, which will send the bill to a
22 conference committee.

23 2. A motion to recede has precedence over a motion
24 to insist. Failure to recede means to insist; and 25 failure to insist means to recede.

26 3. A motion to lay on the table or to indefinitely
27 postpone shall be out of order with respect to motions
28 to recede from or insist upon and to amendments to 29 bills which have passed both houses.

30 4. A motion to concur, refuse to concur, recede,

1 insist, or adopt a conference committee report is in
2 order even though the subject matter has previously
3 been acted upon.

4 Rule 13
5 Conference Committee

6 1. Within one legislative day after either house
7 insists upon an amendment to a bill, the presiding
8 officer of the house, after consultation with the 9 majority leader, shall appoint three majority party
10 members and, after consultation with the minority
11 leader, shall appoint two minority party members
12 to a conference committee. The majority leader of 13 the senate, after consultation with the president,
14 shall appoint three majority party members and,
15 after consultation with and approval by the minority
16 leader, shall appoint two minority party members to a
17 conference committee. The papers shall remain with the 18 house that originated the bill.

19 2. The conference committee shall meet before
20 the end of the next legislative day after their 21 appointment, shall select a chair and shall discuss the 22 controversy.

23 3. The authority of the first conference committee
24 shall cover only issues related to provisions of the 25 bill and amendments to the bill which were adopted
26 by either the senate or the house of representatives
27 and on which the senate and house of representatives
28 differed. If a conference committee report is not 29 acted upon because such action would violate this 30 subsection of this rule, the inaction on the report

1 shall constitute refusal to adopt the conference
2 committee report and shall have the same effect as if
3 the conference committee had disagreed.

4 4. An agreement on recommendations must be approved
5 by a majority of the committee members from each house.
6 The committee shall submit two originals of the report
7 signed by a majority of the committee members of each
8 house with one signed original and three copies to be 9 submitted to each house. The report shall first be 10 acted upon in the house originating the bill. Such 11 action, including all papers, shall be immediately
12 referred by the secretary of the senate or the chief
13 clerk of the house of representatives to the other
14 house.

15 5. The report of agreement is debatable, but 16 cannot be amended. If the report contains recommended
17 amendments to the bill, adoption of the report shall 18 automatically adopt all amendments contained therein.
19 After the report is adopted, there shall be no more
20 debate, and the bill shall immediately be placed upon 21 its final passage.

22 6. Refusal of either house to adopt the conference
23 committee report has the same effect as if the 24 committee had disagreed.

25 7. If the conference committee fails to reach
26 agreement, a report of such failure signed by a
27 majority of the committee members of each house shall 28 be given promptly to each house. The bill shall 29 be returned to the house that originated the bill,
30 the members of the committee shall be immediately

1 discharged, and a new conference committee appointed in
2 the same manner as the first conference committee.

3 8. The authority of a second or subsequent

4 conference committee shall cover free conference during
5 which the committee has authority to propose amendments
6 to any portion of a bill provided the amendment is 7 within the subject matter content of the bill as passed
8 by the house of origin or as amended by the second
9 house.

10 Rule 14

11 Enrollment and Authentication of Bills

12 A bill or resolution which has passed both houses
13 shall be enrolled in the house of origin under the 14 direction of either the secretary of the senate or the 15 chief clerk of the house and its house of origin shall 16 be certified by the endorsement of the secretary of the 17 senate or the chief clerk of the house.

18 After enrollment, each bill shall be signed by the 19 president of the senate and by the speaker of the 20 house.

21 Rule 15

22 Concerning Other Enrollments

23 All resolutions and other matters which are to 24 be presented to the governor for approval shall be 25 enrolled, signed, and presented in the same manner as 26 bills.

27 All resolutions and other matters which are not to 28 be presented to the governor or the secretary of state
29 shall be enrolled, signed, and retained permanently
30 by the secretary of the senate or chief clerk of the

1 house.

2 Rule 16

3 Transmission of Bills to the Governor

4 After a bill has been signed in each house, it shall 5 be presented by the house of origin to the governor by 6 either the secretary of the senate or the chief clerk
7 of the house. The secretary or the chief clerk shall 8 report the date of the presentation, which shall be 9 entered upon the journal of the house of origin.

10 Rule 17

11 Fiscal Notes

12 A fiscal note shall be attached to any bill or joint
13 resolution which reasonably could have an annual effect
14 of at least one hundred thousand dollars or a combined
15 total effect within five years after enactment of 16 five hundred thousand dollars or more on the aggregate
17 revenues, expenditures, or fiscal liability of the 18 state or its subdivisions. This rule does not apply
19 to appropriation and ways and means measures where the 20 total effect is stated in dollar amounts.

21 Each fiscal note shall state in dollars the 22 estimated effect of the bill on the revenues,

23 expenditures, and fiscal liability of the state or 24 its subdivisions during the first five years after 25 enactment. The information shall specifically note
26 the fiscal impact for the first two years following
27 enactment and the anticipated impact for the succeeding
28 three years. The fiscal note shall specify the source
29 of the information. Sources of funds for expenditures
30 under the bill shall be stated, including federal

1 funds. If an accurate estimate cannot be made, the
2 fiscal note shall state the best available estimate or 3 shall state that no dollar estimate can be made and 4 state concisely the reason.
5 The preliminary determination of whether the bill
6 appears to require a fiscal note shall be made by 7 the legal services staff of the legislative services
8 agency. Unless the requestor specifies the request is 9 to be confidential, upon completion of the bill draft,
10 the legal services staff shall immediately send a copy
11 to the fiscal services director for review.
12 When a committee reports a bill to the floor, the 13 committee shall state in the report whether a fiscal 14 note is or is not required.
15 The fiscal services director or the director's
16 designee shall review all bills placed on the senate
17 or house calendars to determine whether the bills are 18 subject to this rule.
19 Additionally, a legislator may request the 20 preparation of a fiscal note by the fiscal services
21 staff for any bill or joint resolution introduced which 22 reasonably could be subject to this rule.
23 The fiscal services director or the director's
24 designee shall cause to be prepared and shall approve
25 a fiscal note within a reasonable time after receiving 26 a request or determining that a bill is subject to 27 this rule. All fiscal notes approved by the fiscal 28 services director shall be transmitted immediately to 29 the secretary of the senate or the chief clerk of the 30 house, after notifying the sponsor of the bill that a

1 fiscal note has been prepared, for publication in the
2 daily clip sheet. The secretary of the senate or chief
3 clerk of the house shall attach the fiscal note to the 4 bill as soon as it is available.
5 The fiscal services director may request the 6 cooperation of any state department or agency in 7 preparing a fiscal note.
8 A revised fiscal note may be requested by a

9 legislator if the fiscal effect of the bill has been
10 changed by adoption of an amendment. However, a
11 request for a revised fiscal note shall not delay
12 action on a bill unless so ordered by the presiding
13 officer of the house in which the bill is under 14 consideration.

15 If a date for adjournment has been set, then a 16 constitutional majority of the house in which the 17 bill is under consideration may waive the fiscal note
18 requirement during the three days prior to the date set
19 for adjournment.

20 Rule 18

21 Legislative Interns

22 Legislators may arrange student internships during
23 the legislative session with Iowa college, university,
24 or law school students, for which the students may 25 receive college credit at the discretion of their
26 schools. Each legislator is allowed only one intern
27 at a time per legislative session, and all interns must 28 be registered with the offices of the secretary of the 29 senate and the chief clerk of the house.

30 The purpose of the legislative intern program shall

1 be: to provide useful staff services to legislators
2 not otherwise provided by the general assembly; to give
3 interested college, graduate, and law school students
4 practical experience in the legislative process as well
5 as providing a meaningful educational experience; and 6 to enrich the curriculum of participating colleges and 7 universities.

8 The secretary of the senate and the chief clerk of 9 the house or their designees shall have the following
10 responsibilities as regards the legislative intern
11 program:

12 1. Identify a supervising faculty member at each
13 participating institution who shall be responsible
14 for authorizing students to participate in the intern
15 program.

16 2. Provide legislators with a list of participating 17 institutions and the names of supervising professors to 18 contact if interested in arranging for an intern.

19 3. Provide interns with name badges which will 20 allow them access to the floor of either house when 21 required to be present by the legislators for whom they 22 work.

23 4. Provide orientation materials to interns prior 24 to the convening of each session.

25 Rule 19

26 Administrative Rules Review Committee Bills and Rule
27 Referrals

28 A bill which relates to departmental rules and 29 which is approved by the administrative rules review
30 committee by a majority of the committee's members

1 of each house is eligible for introduction in either
2 house at any time and must be referred to a standing
3 committee, which must take action on the bill within 4 three weeks of referral, except bills referred to 5 appropriations and ways and means committees.
6 If, on or after July 1, 1999, the administrative
7 rules review committee delays the effective date of a
8 rule until the adjournment of the next regular session
9 of the general assembly and the speaker of the house
10 or the president of the senate refers the rule to a
11 standing committee, the standing committee shall review
12 the rule within twenty-one days of the referral and 13 shall take formal committee action by sponsoring a
14 joint resolution to disapprove the rule, by proposing
15 legislation relating to the rule, or by refusing to 16 propose a joint resolution or legislation concerning 17 the rule. The standing committee shall inform the

1 journal and shall transmit certified copies of the 2 resolution as directed.

3 Rule 26

4 Unanimous Consent Calendar

5 The speaker may, upon the request of three members,
6 place on a unanimous consent calendar any house
7 resolution or concurrent resolution which does not
8 contain an appropriation and which has been laid over
9 under Rule 25.

10 If such resolution is placed on the unanimous
11 consent calendar, it may be removed only upon a written 12 request submitted to the speaker by a member of the 13 house.

14 If not removed after five legislative days, the 15 chief clerk shall call up the resolution and without 16 debate the speaker shall pronounce that it has passed
17 by unanimous consent.

18 If the resolution is removed from the unanimous
19 consent calendar, the speaker may again lay the 21 calendar, or refer the resolution to any of the 22 standing committees of the house.

2 review committee. All bills and joint resolutions
3 introduced shall be prepared by the legislative

4 services agency with title, enacting clause, text
5 and explanation as directed by the chief clerk of the 6 house. One copy of each bill shall be presented in a
7 bill cover with the number of copies of the bill and 8 the title as directed by the chief clerk.

9 Rule 28

10 Joint and Nullification Resolutions

11 Joint resolutions shall be framed and treated as 12 bills.

13 A "nullification resolution" is a joint resolution
14 which nullifies all of an administrative rule, or 15 a severable item of an administrative rule adopted
16 pursuant to chapter 17A of the Code. A nullification
17 resolution shall not amend an administrative rule by 18 adding language or by inserting new language in lieu of 19 existing language.

20 A nullification resolution may be introduced by an 21 individual, a standing committee or the administrative 22 rules review committee, and may be referred to a
23 standing committee. A nullification resolution is 24 debatable, but cannot be amended on the floor of the 25 house.

26 Rule 29

27 Time of Introduction of Bills

28 No bill or joint resolution under individual
29 sponsorship, other than a nullification resolution,
30 shall be read for the first time after 4:30 p.m. on

PAGE 17

1 Friday of the fifth week of the first regular session
2 of the general assembly unless a formal request for 3 drafting the bill has been filed with the legislative 4 services agency before that time.

5 After adjournment of the first regular session,
6 bills may be prefiled at any time before the convening
7 of the second regular session. No bill or joint
8 resolution under individual sponsorship, other than a
9 nullification resolution, shall be read for the first 10 time after 4:30 p.m. on Friday of the second week of 11 the second regular session of the general assembly
12 unless a formal request for drafting the bill has been 13 filed with the legislative services agency before that 14 time.

15 However, bills or joint resolutions sponsored
16 by standing committees or the administrative rules
17 review committee, co-sponsored by the majority and 18 minority floor leaders, or companion bills sponsored 19 by the house majority leader and the senate majority
20 leader may be drafted and introduced at any time
21 permissible under Joint Rule 20. House, concurrent,
22 and nullification resolutions may be introduced at any

23 time.

24 Rule 30

25 Introduction and Reading of Bills

26 All bills and resolutions to be introduced in the 27 house shall be prepared in proper form and filed
28 with the chief clerk no later than 4:30 p.m. on the 29 legislative day preceding its introduction.

30 Every bill shall receive two readings but no bill

PAGE 18

1 shall receive its first and last readings on the same
2 day.

3 A "reading of a bill" as required by these rules
4 shall consist of a reading of the title and enacting
5 clause.

6 Rule 31

7 First Reading, Commitment, and Amendment

8 1. A bill is introduced into the house by an 9 initial or "first reading of the bill".

10 2. When the house is in session the first reading
11 shall consist of a "reading" as provided in Rule 30.

12 3. Upon a first reading of the bill, the speaker
13 shall state that it is ready for commitment or 14 amendment; and the speaker shall commit it to the 15 standing or select committee, or to a committee of the 16 whole house. If to a committee of the whole house, the 17 house shall determine on what day.

18 4. On a nonlegislative day the speaker may cause a
19 statement, which shall consist of the title, enacting
20 clause, bill number and committee to which the bill
21 is referred, to be published in the house journal.
22 This publication shall constitute a first reading and 23 committed and shall contain the notation "read and 24 committed under Rule 31".

25 5. All amendments offered to bills and resolutions
26 shall be accompanied by such copies as the chief clerk
27 shall direct.

28 6. Such amendments shall give the number of 29 the bill sought to amend and the chief clerk shall 30 designate each such amendment thus: Amendment to

PAGE 19

1 House File _____, or Senate File _____, by 2 _____.

3 7. A bill reported out by committee shall go to the 4 speaker who shall direct that the bill be placed on the 5 regular calendar unless it covers subject matter more
6 properly within the jurisdiction of some other standing
7 committee, in which case the speaker may refer the bill
8 to the proper standing committee. In order to expedite

9 important business and set a definite time for the 10 bill's consideration, the speaker may direct the bill
11 to be placed on the special order calendar.
12 8. No amendment to the rules of the house, to any 13 resolution or bill, except technical amendments and 14 amendments to bills substituted for by senate files
15 containing substantially identical title, language,
16 subject matter, purpose and intrasectional arrangement,
17 shall be considered by the membership of the house
18 without a copy of the amendment having been filed with 19 the chief clerk by 4:00 p.m. or within one-half hour of 20 adjournment, whichever is later, on the day preceding
21 floor debate on the amendment. If the house adjourns
22 prior to 2:00 p.m. on Friday, the final deadline is two
23 hours after adjournment. However, committee amendments
24 filed pursuant to the submission of the committee
25 report may be accepted after this deadline. This 26 provision shall not apply to any proposal debated on 27 the floor of the house after the thirteenth week of 28 the first session and the twelfth week of the second
29 session. No amendment or amendment to an amendment
30 to a bill, rule of the house, or resolution shall be

PAGE 20

1 considered by the membership of the house without
2 a copy of the amendment being on the desks of the 3 entire membership of the house prior to consideration.
4 However, the membership of the house may consider an
5 amendment or an amendment to an amendment to a bill,
6 rule of the house, or resolution without a copy of the 7 amendment being on the desks of the entire membership
8 of the house prior to consideration if a copy of the 9 amendment is made available to the entire membership of 10 the house electronically.

11 Rule 32

12 Commitment of Appropriation and Revenue Bills

13 All bills to appropriate money shall be referred to 14 the appropriations committee, and all bills pertaining
15 to the levy, assessment, or collection of taxes or fees

19 Bills, nullification resolutions, and joint 20 resolutions reported out for passage, amendment and 21 passage, or without recommendation by a committee,
22 or passed on file shall be arranged on a regular
23 calendar by the chief clerk each day and electronically
24 distributed to the members at the opening of each
25 legislative day. The regular calendar shall include
26 a list of bills, nullification resolutions, and joint 27 resolutions which have been special ordered, including

28 the date upon which debate is scheduled to begin
29 on each of them, which shall be no sooner than five 30 session days from the first date of publication on the

1 regular calendar.
2 Rule 34
3 Daily Debate Calendar
4 The majority floor leadership shall cause to 5 be prepared and distributed to the members at the 6 opening of each legislative day when floor action is 7 scheduled, a daily debate calendar consisting of bills,
8 nullification resolutions, and joint resolutions from 9 the regular calendar setting forth the number and 10 title of bills, nullification resolutions, and joint 11 resolutions for the next legislative day that floor
12 action is scheduled.
13 This rule does not apply to bills which have passed
14 both houses in different forms, reconsiderations, or 15 veto reconsiderations.
16 Rule 35
17 Substitution of Bills
18 A senate bill or resolution may be substituted
19 for an identical house bill or resolution which has 20 been called up for debate. An amendment to a senate
21 bill or resolution which has been substituted for an 22 identical house bill or resolution is out of order if 23 an identical amendment to the house bill or resolution
24 was considered.
25 Rule 36
26 Consideration of Committee Amendments
27 After a bill has been referred and reported back,
28 it shall be considered on its first reading after the

2 All amendments to bills which have been special
3 ordered shall be filed at least three session days
4 prior to the date set for debate. Amendments to an
5 amendment shall be filed at least two session days
6 prior to the date set for debate. However, corrective 7 amendments and amendments sponsored by either the 8 majority floor leader or the minority floor leader may 9 be filed at any time. Rule 31, subsection 8, shall not 10 apply to these amendments.
11 A corrective amendment is an amendment which does
12 not substantively change the amendment or the bill.
13 Rule 38

14 Germane Amendments

15 An amendment must be germane to the subject matter
16 of the bill it seeks to amend. An amendment to an 17 amendment must be germane to both the amendment and the 18 bill it seeks to amend. When a member objects to an 19 amendment on grounds that the amendment is not germane,
20 the speaker may invite members, who shall include the 21 majority and minority leaders, to the speaker's station
22 to discuss the objection.

23 Rule 39

24 Consideration of Bills

25 Bills, including committee bills, joint resolutions,
26 and nullification resolutions, reported out for

2 immediately after they are filed with the chief clerk.
3 Reports recommending bills, joint resolutions, and
4 nullification resolutions for passage, for amendment

7 the first legislative day following their printing in 8 the journal. If objections are filed, they shall be 9 disposed of as soon as possible.

10 Rule 40

11 Consideration of Bills Upon Last Reading

12 No amendment, unless by way of correcting an error
13 or omission, shall be received to any bill on its last 14 reading, and no debate shall be allowed on it.

15 Rule 41

16 Printing of Bills and Joint Resolutions

17 Bills and joint resolutions shall be printed in form
18 as provided by law and by rule. Each house may direct

23 introduction. The cost of printing shall be deposited 24 with the treasurer of state in advance at a rate to be 25 fixed, and the newspaper publication of the bill shall 26 be without cost to the state. No legalizing act may

3 In engrossing a bill, the chief clerk shall
4 correct all obvious typographical, spelling, or other
5 clerical errors and change section subunit numbers
6 and letters and internal references as required to 7 conform the original bill to any amendments which have 8 been adopted. The chief clerk shall report all such

24 both houses in different forms, all bills which have 25 not been withdrawn, defeated or indefinitely postponed,
26 shall be rereferred to committee upon adjournment of 27 the first regular session. Within seven days after 28 the first committee meeting following convening of

7 DIVISION VIII — VOTING

8 Rule 74

9 Manner of Voting

10 Members present may cast their votes, either by 11 operating the voting mechanism located at their 12 assigned desk or by signaling the speaker from the 13 floor of the house or from the south visitors' gallery
 14 if they are unable to vote at their assigned desk.
 15 Only a member may operate the voting mechanism at that 16 member's assigned desk. The speaker shall announce the 17 votes of members signaling their votes. Upon direction 18 of the speaker only those members at their desks and 19 voting shall be counted. Members who are not present
 20 shall not cast their votes except:

21 1. Members who have not voted may record their
 22 votes on any record roll call vote except quorum
 23 calls within ten minutes after the outcome of the 24 vote has been announced. Members shall initial their 25 recorded votes on a copy of the record roll call at the 26 speaker's station. However, if the aggregate of votes
 27 cast under this rule would change the outcome of the 28 vote on a question, then none of the votes cast on the 29 question under this rule shall be recorded. A member
 30 may request announcement of the names of members so

1 recorded after the ten-minute period.

2 2. Members meeting in a conference committee
 3 or in administrative rules review committee at the 4 time a vote is taken on a question may have their
 5 vote recorded within thirty minutes or adjournment,
 6 whichever is first, of that same legislative day,
 7 provided the aggregate of votes cast does not change
 8 the outcome of the vote on a question.

9 Rule 75

10 Voting in the House and Duty of Voting

11 Voting on a question put to members on the floor of 12 the house shall not occur between midnight and 8 a.m.
 13 on any legislative day except for voting on a motion to 14 recess, defer, or adjourn. Except as limited in Rule
 15 76, every member who is in the house when a question is 16 put shall vote unless the house has excused that member
 17 from voting for special reasons; however, such member 18 must have asked to be excused from voting prior to the 19 time the speaker puts the question.

20 Rule 76

21 Limitation on Right to Vote

22 No member shall vote on any question in which

23 the member or the member's immediate family member,
24 as defined in chapter 68B of the Code, has a direct
25 financial interest different from other similarly
26 situated persons or classes of persons of the general
27 public.
28 Rule 77
29 Call of the House
30 Upon written request of five members, the presiding

1 officer shall compel attendance of absent and unexcused
2 members for the consideration of specified bills,
3 resolutions, or amendments.
4 A call of the house shall specify the propositions
5 to which it is to apply and must be put into effect
6 before roll call is taken on the proposition. The 7 request may be filed with the chief clerk at any time
8 before final action upon the propositions, who shall 9 notify the house immediately.
10 Rule 78
11 Method of Calling the House
12 Upon a call of the house, the names of the members
13 shall be called by the chief clerk and the absentees
14 noted, after which the names of the absentees shall 15 again be called. The sergeant-at-arms shall be 16 directed by the speaker to compel the attendance of 17 absent members, unless they are previously excused.
18 Any member occupying the member's seat during a call
19 of the house shall be counted by the speaker and that 20 person's name entered in the journal as being present
21 for the purpose of making a quorum.
22 Rule 79
23 Method of Calling the Roll
24 The electrical voting machine shall be used for a
25 call of the house, a quorum call or a roll call vote
26 on any question. If the electrical voting machine is 27 not in operating order when it is necessary to take 28 a record roll call vote, the presiding officer shall 29 order the vote to be taken by calling the roll in 30 alphabetical order, except the name of the presiding

1 officer shall be called last.
2 During the casting of the vote with the voting
3 machine, the individual votes and the vote totals shall
4 be shown on the display boards. Before the voting
5 machine is closed, the presiding officer shall inquire
6 of the house, "Have you all voted?"
7 Rule 80
8 Quorum and Record Roll Call Votes

9 A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum.
10 A record roll call vote shall be ordered upon
11 request of any two members. The names of the members
12 requesting the record roll call shall be entered in the 13 journal.
14 Rule 81
15 Previous Question
16 When a member moves for the previous question, the 17 member shall state whether the motion will apply to the 18 main question, to all the amendments, or to particular 19 amendments. The motion requires an affirmative vote of 20 at least a constitutional majority of the members. If 21 the motion for a previous question is not adopted, the 22 house shall proceed in the same manner as before the 23 motion was made.
24 If the motion is adopted, all debate must end and 25 the house will vote upon the question except:
26 1. If the motion applies to the main question, the 27 member in charge of the measure will have ten minutes
28 to speak for the purpose of closing discussion before
29 the vote on the measure is taken.
30 2. If the motion applies to an amendment, the

PAGE 42

1 member proposing the amendment will have five minutes
2 to speak for the purpose of closing discussion before
3 the vote on the amendment is taken.
4 3. If a member has filed a written request with 5 the chief clerk of the house indicating the member's
6 desire to speak on a particular question. The request
7 must be filed before the motion is made by the movant.
8 The request allows a member to speak on a particular
9 question before the closing discussion by the member
10 who is in charge of the measure or who is proposing the 11 amendment.
12 Rule 82
13 Division of the Question
14 Any member may call for a division of the question,
15 which shall be divided if it comprehends questions so
16 distinct that one being taken away, the remainder may 17 stand separately for discussion by the house. Upon 18 request to divide an amendment, the chief clerk shall 19 restate the division and note the divided amendment in 20 the house journal. An amendment to strike out being 21 lost shall not preclude an amendment to strike out and 22 insert. An amendment to strike out and insert shall be 23 deemed indivisible.

PIONEER LAWMAKERS ADDRESS

Good afternoon Speaker Upmeyer, President Schneider, distinguished members of the Iowa House and Senate, and special guests:

One of my favorite political quotes came from the late U.S. Sen. and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. He remarked, "It is always a risk to speak to the press: they are likely to report what you say."

Thank you to so many of you who have been so helpful to the men and women on the Iowa House and Senate press benches, as well as your local news organizations, in their effort to share news with the citizens of Iowa. I have already told many of you how grateful I have been for your cooperation for so many years.

I truly believe I have had one of the best jobs in American journalism the past 37 years as a state government reporter for the Des Moines Register.

I have been to all 99 Iowa counties over and over in one of the most beautiful states in the nation to write about some of the most interesting people and issues you could imagine. As a journalist, I have been able to walk down Main Street of any community in Iowa, or into any cafe or tavern, tell them I work for the Register, and almost everybody has been nice and pleasant to talk with. I have almost always had the same experience at the Iowa Capitol.

But being an older, balding reporter who always wears a coat and tie as I have traveled the state to write about politics has sometimes created unanticipated situations. Near the end of the 2016 presidential campaign, I covered vice presidential candidate Mike Pence as he spoke to a Republican rally at Iowa Central Community College in Fort Dodge. Lots of prominent Iowa Republicans were there, as you might expect. I particularly remember talking with Sen. Tim Kraayenbrink, who told me he was very optimistic about GOP chances in state legislative races, and he turned out to be right.

After Pence finished speaking, I wrapped up some work on my laptop and headed back to my car in the parking lot. A very nice man who I had never met stopped me and thanked me for coming, which isn't unusual for a Register reporter. We talked seriously for a few minutes and he asked me some questions about Washington politics. As we departed, the man expressed good wishes to me and remarked, "Thank you very much. It was a great honor and a pleasure to meet you, Congressman King. You are Congressman King, aren't you?"

This wasn't the first time somebody in the 4th Congressional District has mistaken me for Steve King, which has amused my journalistic colleagues. But I quickly explained that no, I was a reporter from the Des Moines Register. Now I want you to know that Steve King called me to wish me well when I retired, so I am pretty sure he wouldn't be offended by the mix-up.

I have had some experiences covering state government in Iowa that most Iowans will never have. This includes having had lunch in the inmate dining halls of all nine of Iowa's state prisons and talking with many inmates in their cells and work areas. At the maximum-security Fort Madison penitentiary, which I have visited many times to talk with inmates and staff, the warden's executive officer Ron Welder used to joke that if the prison staff didn't like the story I wrote that day that they wouldn't let me leave the next time I came there.

On a couple of other occasions, I have sat in the front seat of an Iowa State Patrol car with the gas pedal floored on Interstate Highway 35 with a state trooper who was issuing tickets to speed violators. It was probably the only times I have ever been traveling in a car at around 100 mph while we were doing it legally.

On July 19, 1989, I was in Sioux City to cover the worst airplane disaster in Iowa history – the emergency crash landing of United Airlines Flight 232, which killed 112 people, but saw 184 people miraculously survive. The Sioux City airfield that day was filled with dozens of ambulances and volunteer fire trucks from many communities from long distances away, and metal pieces of the DC-10 aircraft were scattered everywhere. It was an incredibly tragic and stunning scene of life and death that I and many others will never forget. But the response by the hundreds of volunteers and professionals who rushed to crash site and Sioux City's hospitals was inspiring as well and they were called heroes for their efforts.

I have spent time on U.S. Army bases in five states outside of Iowa to report on Iowa National Guard troops who were away from home while serving our country. I have also written many, many stories about the deaths of Iowa military service members and I have attended some of their funerals. There's a memorial in the Iowa Capitol Rotunda downstairs with the pictures of fallen Iowa soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines who have died in Iraq, Afghanistan and other combat zones. I urge you to visit that memorial and study their names and faces. I say a silent prayer every time I see those pictures because I have interviewed the family members or friends of so many people who are included on that memorial. I know what good people those Iowa service members were and how much they are missed.

I was asked to reminisce today, but I wasn't told any topics were off limits. So I want to talk for a minute about the #metoo movement, the personal conduct of public officials, and being a journalist covering state government.

Everybody in this state knows there's been a lot of controversy regarding some incidents involving some Iowa legislators and other government officials over the past few years. But the truth is, this has been a bipartisan problem as long as I have been here, and well before then. And I can assure you it was a serious matter when I spent four sessions at the Minnesota Capitol in St. Paul covering the Minnesota Legislature before I came to Iowa in 1981. I particularly recall a prominent older male legislator from a small town in southern Minnesota being the focus of controversy after being accused in a Minneapolis Star newspaper story of making suggestive remarks to a young female lobbyist while they were having a dinner to discuss legislative policies. There was also lots of the same innuendo and gossip that we hear in Iowa that was heard at the Minnesota Capitol. And some of it was definitely true there, just as it has been here.

If there is one lesson I have learned about covering state government in Iowa it's that when someone gets involved in an affair or other questionable conduct as a politician or as a state administrator, somebody who knows about it will often respond by calling me, sending me a letter, or emailing the Des Moines Register or contacting one of my colleagues at another news organization. And while we couldn't always corroborate what happened, I have had many serious discussions with editors over the years about these types of situations, and we have written about some of them.

There's one incident from the 1990s that I won't forget. That's because I was standing outside this chamber in the Iowa Capitol Rotunda one day trying to find a male state legislator after he was named in a paternity lawsuit. He had abruptly disappeared on a busy day at the Legislature and I subsequently found out that an Iowa Department of Human Services employee had tipped him off that I was trying to interview him. The legislator had fled the chamber and ran out of the Iowa Capitol building and drove home for the weekend in an effort to avoid me. However, that lawsuit story still did get printed in the Des Moines Register.

And everyone from my generation who was covering state government will never forget an infamous bachelor party held at the Back Forty Lounge in Mingo in 1986. The party was attended by about 25 legislators, plus lobbyists and legislative staffers and at least a couple of journalists, but not me. It became newsworthy after we heard reports about a loud, cheering crowd, women dancing without their clothes on, and a shocking allegation of sexual misconduct. Five people were subsequently indicted for misdemeanor offenses, including two legislators as well as a lobbyist who lived across the street from me in Des Moines, although a judge later dismissed some of the charges against some of the accused.

One legislator eventually apologized for "inexcusable behavior" which I won't elaborate on, but you can do a Google search and find out more details. We wrote many stories about the Mingo party, but as you might imagine, a lot of people who were in attendance claimed they were in the kitchen or the restroom and they didn't hear or see anything. Let me just say that those people were fortunate that they were not required to take a lie detector test.

Despite the personal shortfalls of some individuals, what I am sure many of us will remember most about government in Iowa is that there are a lot of sincere people from both parties who are very caring and community minded.

This makes me think of people like Jacqueline Day of Des Moines' east side. She was a former confidential secretary to Govs. Bob Ray and Norman Erbe. She also served on the Iowa Board of Parole, where I became acquainted with her.

Jackie Day was one of my best sources for years and she died in 2002. She had two sons who had enlisted in the Marine Corps and one of them was badly wounded in the Vietnam War. So when plans were unveiled for the Vietnam War Memorial on the Iowa Capitol grounds in the early 1980s, she helped to lead the fundraising effort. And when fundraising slowed down, Jackie did what she felt was the right thing for Iowa veterans. She and her family were people of working-class financial means, definitely not wealthy. But she signed a $59,000 personal note to ensure the work would proceed -- and it got done. She later repaid the note with contributions from the public. Everyone who was there when the monument was dedicated across the street from the Iowa Capitol on Memorial Day in 1984 will never forget the sight and sounds of the military helicopters flying overhead in the missing man formation. Jackie's unselfish dedication prevailed.

Some of you here today attended a ribbon cutting in northwest Iowa last fall for the completion of U.S. Highway 20 as a four-lane expressway across the entire state – 300 miles between Dubuque and Sioux City. I first wrote about the U.S. 20 project in the 1980s, but it had already been underway for decades by then.

The U.S. 20 project is an example of what patience and persistence can accomplish. DOT engineers for years were against widening the two-lane road to four lanes in northwest Iowa. They had good reason because low traffic counts couldn't justify the high cost in sparsely populated rural areas.

But state leaders and members of Iowa's congressional delegation – along with dozens of community leaders across northern Iowa – never gave up. I particularly saw those community leaders over and over again for years as they pleaded their cases at Iowa Transportation Commission meetings in Ames. The U.S. 20 project had to wait until other four-lane road projects were finished elsewhere in Iowa and after the state's gas tax was increased by the Iowa Legislature in the 2015 session. But eventually it was completed, providing a much safer corridor for motorists, shorter travel times and alternative freight routes for shippers.

Iowa probably has one of the better systems of rural four-lane highways in the nation. Some of the most important corridors were developed as part of a Commercial and Industrial Highway Network supported by Gov. Branstad and backed by many state legislators from both parties and community leaders along the routes who believed it would bolster economic development. These were people like former Iowa Republican Senate leader Robert Rigler of New Hampton, who chaired the Iowa DOT Commission; and another former DOT chairman – Austin Turner of Corning. Some others included businessman Ernie Hayes of Mount Pleasant, who was a key advocate for the Avenue of the Saints highway; and people like Ed Augustine and Buck Boekelman of Fort

Dodge, Shirley Phillips of Sac City, and many, many others. They supported road improvements because they felt they were the best for Iowa in the long run, not because they stood to benefit personally.

There haven't been many times when I have failed to get an interview with a politician when I was assigned to do it. But when I was a much younger reporter – back in 1975 and 1976 and prior to joining the Register, I worked at the Albert Lea Tribune on the Minnesota-Iowa border, where our coverage area included Iowa communities like Lake Mills and Northwood. My editor, Jim Oliver, asked me to write a story about a young Republican legislator who was considered an up and comer in Iowa politics. Unfortunately, I got tied up on another assignment that Saturday so I was late arriving at the Winnebago County GOP convention in Forest City. The young legislator had already left to speak at another Republican event and I missed him, so it was another five or six years before I got hired by the Register and actually saw Terry Branstad for the first time. After he was elected governor in 1982, I ended up covering his administration during all six of his terms in office.

However, I did have an opportunity to interview a freshman member of Iowa's congressional delegation a few months later. His name was U.S. Rep. Charles Grassley. That was almost 43 years ago and believe me, he wasn't any different then than he is now. I remember asking Grassley at the time his thoughts about right-to-work laws, which he strongly favored. I mentioned this interview to U.S. Sen. Grassley a few years ago, and he clearly recalled every detail about why he was there that day and the Republican candidate he was helping by speaking at a campaign fundraiser.

After coming to the Register in the early 1980s I wasn't actually assigned to cover the Iowa House when Rep. Delwyn Stromer of Garner was Iowa House speaker. But I was covering state government agencies, and I did need to interview him. Speaker Stromer – everybody just called him Del - was a Republican who was well respected as a fair man who tried to work with people from both parties. So when his daughter, Rep. Linda Upmeyer, became Iowa House speaker more than three decades later, I honestly felt it was the most wonderful thing for me to be able to be here to see that happen and that I had the opportunity to say that I had interviewed her as well. I felt like I had a front row seat on Iowa history as it was being made, just as I stood in the Rotunda and saw Gov. Kim Reynolds be inaugurated in May 2017.

I have also had the honor of witnessing the careers of many other prominent Iowa politicians, including former Senate Majority Leader Michael Gronstal, whom I first met when he served in the Iowa House in the early 1980s. Another was former Iowa Gov. and state Sen. Tom Vilsack, whom I first became acquainted with when he was a lawyer and mayor in Mount Pleasant because his wife, Christie, was a correspondent for the Des Moines Register. I can tell you that when Gronstal and Tom Vilsack were just first-term lawmakers they were both meticulously well versed on government policies and I think most people took them very seriously.

I particularly recall the first time I telephoned the Washington office of Iowa Congressman Neal Smith, a Democrat from Des Moines who still holds the record as the longest serving U.S. House member in Iowa history, holding his seat from 1959 to 1995. He is now 99 years old and he is a humble man who has never had any pretensions. When I called Smith's office that day, I asked to talk with his press secretary, but his aide Park Rinard explained that Smith didn't have a press secretary. This was the first time I had ever heard of such a thing for a congressman. Rinard asked me to wait a minute so Smith could call a recess during a U.S. House committee meeting he was chairing in Washington so the congressman could come to the phone and take the call himself, which he did.

If there is one thing that has changed since I have arrived here it's been a much sharper division of partisanship and much less representation of the entire political spectrum within both political parties. If you look at the history of Iowa politics, there has always been vigorous party activity and negative campaigning certainly isn't anything new. But the degree of polarization is significantly greater now than when I arrived here. I could dedicate an entire speech to this topic, but just let me say that the past era saw far less money being spent on campaigns, there was no Facebook or Twitter or non-stop political arguments on cable TV shows. It was also not uncommon in the past to have some conservative Democratic politicians and some liberal Republicans.

Of course, the process of news gathering has changed dramatically since I covered my first legislative session in 1978. We didn't have the Internet back then, but I did write stories on one of the first portable computers – a 40-pound suitcase-sized device with a keyboard and a tiny black and white electronic screen. I sent my stories to my editors via a telephone line that connected with equipment in the newsroom that printed out the type for publication.

Today, covering legislative news has changed dramatically because of the Internet and social media. In recent years, I have posted stories at every hour of the day and night and on Saturdays and Sundays, which is why I have had to call some of you folks at home at night, on weekends and at other times.

One thing hasn't changed, though. We still have disagreements with state and local government officials on a fairly regular basis over what information should be classified as public and what should be kept private. I agree with Justice Louis Brandeis, who favored a policy of transparency, saying "If the broad light of day could be let in upon men's actions, it would purify them as the sun disinfects."

One of my late Register colleagues, reporter Nick Lamberto, was a Remsen native from northwest Iowa who had been a U.S. combat pilot who hunted German U-Boats in the North Atlantic during World War II. When occasions arose when a public official in Iowa refused to talk with him or denied him public records, he used to read them the riot act, which I personally witnessed many times. He told them we fought in World War II against the Nazis for the right to have an open government and that's what differentiated us from Hitler and the other fascists. And believe me, that was a convincing argument. When Nick died, he was buried in his military uniform.

As I close today, I want everyone to know how grateful I am that I have had the opportunity to cover state government in Iowa the past 37 years. I know how hard many legislators work because I have sat at the press bench in empty House and Senate chambers late in the day or at night when no one else from the public was around and seen many legislators – Democrats and Republicans – as well as their staffs, putting in long hours to get their work finished. You folks know who you are.

People at the Iowa Capitol are not all perfect; we know that because as journalists we have written many stories citing their shortcomings and failures. But overall, I can honestly say from having been here that I have respect for the many very dedicated, well-intentioned people who give 100 percent here every day with the goal of providing the best public service they can accomplish.

You have been great to work with and I wish everyone well. God Bless. Thank you.

RESPONSORIAL READING

Please respond by reading the verses in italics

[Leader] In the rising of the sun and in its going down, we remember them.

In the blowing of the wind and in the chill of winter, we remember them.

[L] In the opening of the buds and in the rebirth of spring, we remember them.

In the blueness of the sky and in the warmth of summer, we remember them.

[L] In the rustling of the leaves and in the beauty of autumn, we remember them.

In the beginning of the year and when it ends, we remember them.

[L] When we are weary and in need of strength, we remember them.

When we are lost and sick at heart, we remember them.

[L] When we have joys we yearn to share, we remember them.

[ALL] So long as we live, they too shall live, for they are now a part of us, as we remember them.

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER PRICHARD

Thank you Madam Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the Iowa House.

In 1776, then Massachusetts Delegate and future President John Adams left this home and family to ride by horseback to the continental congress in Philadelphia. He had with him a to-do list. Among other things on the list were the following items: Form an alliance with France and Spain, Coin and currencies to be regulated, Hemp to be encouraged and the manufacturer of Duck. Yes, colleagues, even the founding fathers deliberated on hemp. He wanted to form a committee about salt, you might be interested to know Representatives Cohoon and Steckman, but noticeably absent was one on Pepper too, And finally, and perhaps most notably, a Declaration of Independence.

Like delegate Adams so long ago, we too came to the place of government with a to do list to make the state a better place to live and work. Now is the time to reflect on how we did.

In my opening day speech as the new House Democratic Leader, I shared our goal this session to put politics aside, work together, and stay focused on improving the lives of everyday Iowans.

I pledged to each of you that we would work in good faith with the Majority Party to solve the problems we face. I also challenged us to face the toughest issues before us in a collaborative meaningful way.

So how did we do?

While some progress was made this year, this body fell well short of what was possible when session began back in January. There were a host of missed opportunities that would have improved the lives of everyday Iowans.

First, health care.

There was some bi-partisan progress in health care this year. There was strong bipartisan support to protect children in abusive situations, train more mental health professionals in rural areas, and keep seniors safe in nursing homes. I'm also pleased we took the first step in creating a mental health system for kids and made it easier for Iowans to get substance abuse treatment.

Just a few weeks ago, we learned 420,000 Iowans would be facing another health care disruption when UnitedHealthcare announced they were leaving Iowa's managed care program. It was just the latest upheaval in a system that needs a complete overhaul. Instead of working to fix the Medicaid disaster, this Legislature refused to do anything to keep health care accessible or assist health care providers with the transition despite the fact we offered legislation months ago to address this situation.

An opportunity was also missed to expand access to birth control, which was also a top priority of the Governor.

In education, there was some good news this year as a few bipartisan bills that were long overdue were finally approved. We worked together to equalize transportation funding for school districts and extend SAVE for school infrastructure improvements.

However, this Legislature fell well short of the investment needed to grow Iowa's skilled workforce. While our k-12 schools will receive some additional resources next year, it's simply not enough to keep up with rising costs and certainly won't stop more schools from closing or class sizes from increasing. This problem will be particularly acute in rural areas like mine.

For students out of high school, tuition and job training at community colleges and universities will increase again next year leaving students with more debt.

In the end, too much of our time was focused on the priorities of special interests instead of improving the lives of everyday Iowans. This Legislature also missed several opportunities this session to grow our economy, create jobs, and increase wages for workers.

I'm proud of my caucus for sticking together and standing on principle when issues came before this body that were not good for everyday Iowans. I'm proud of the stand my caucus took against the unprecedented power grab lawmakers in this chamber approved against Iowa Attorney General Tom Miller for political advantage. I'm also proud that we stood together to fight back on the plan offered at the last hour to politicize our courts.

But I have hope.

Every day we are hearing from more Iowans who are just fed up and one of our own has given them a voice in this House.

I want to publicly thank Rep. Andy McKean for his extraordinary courage in these hyper-partisan times. As the longest serving Republican in this chamber, we can all agree it was no easy step for him to follow the dictates of his conscience and join our caucus this week. I've admired his work here in the House and have always admired his pragmatic approach to the challenges we face.

Our caucus has four minority members, is a majority of women, and now includes a long-time former Republican. We are proud of the big tent we've built and there is room for more.

Before I close, I want to give out a few thank you's.

First, to my ever patient wife Ann who makes it possible for me to do this job and my kids for putting up with me when I return home.

Second, I want to thank the remarkable staff for House Democrats who put in countless hours to help us be better lawmakers every day. Joe, Rachelle, Jessica, Joe, Brian, Dave, Bill, Kelsey, Alison, Jake and Dean. We are grateful for all your work.

I also want to thank all the Capitol staff, LSA, the pages, and specifically our office pages, Alyssa and ShyAnn, the clerks, the interns, and the doormen. You are all an important part of this process and without you we would not be able to do the work of the state.

Finally, I want to thank the 47 members of my caucus. I'm inspired every single day we're here by your passion, dedication, and commitment to make our state a better place to live.

And a special shout out to the eleven new members of our caucus this year. Your perspective, hard work, and energy have been a great addition to the chamber this year.

When I took on this job last fall, I didn't quite understand how both challenging and rewarding this job would be. I've learned a lot and I'm humbled to be your leader.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

REMARKS BY MAJORITY LEADER HAGENOW

Thank you Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House. It is an honor to welcome you, your families and friends back to the Statehouse to begin the 88th General Assembly.

Speaker Upmeyer, the House of Representatives continues to be blessed by your leadership and it is an honor to serve alongside you.

To my Republican colleagues, thank you for the trust you have placed in me by electing me to serve as your leader. I am excited for what we will be able to accomplish together.

To our new members, congratulations and welcome. While this may be your first time swearing the oath of office that others in this body have sworn many times, each member brings unique ideas, perspective, and experiences – all of which help shape the laws and direction of our state. I look forward to your service.

Leader Pritchard, congratulations on your new role. I look forward to working with you and your caucus. Last General Assembly, over 88% of the bills we passed were bipartisan. I am hopeful we can move that number even higher.

My most important thank you goes to my team at home – my wife, Amanda, and our three children, Owen, Noah and Sophia.

From our work last General Assembly, families and small businesses now keep more of their hard-earned money, schools have record funding and greater flexibility, more Iowans have access to affordable health care, gaps in our mental health system are closing, and workers are accessing innovative training for 21st Century careers.

I have been asked many times, “so much was accomplished the last two years, what’s next?”

While the specifics of “what’s next” will be brought forward through all one-hundred members introducing legislation and ideas and working them through the process, what Iowans can and should expect is this: House Republicans will remain unwavering in our principals.

We will pass a budget that is both fiscally responsible and funds the priority needs of Iowans. Iowans expect us to be responsible stewards of their hard-earned tax dollars, and we will always keep the taxpayers of Iowa in mind through the budget process.

We continue to hear from employers across Iowa that the availability of a skilled workforce is their biggest challenge to growing their businesses. Connecting our K-12 schools with community colleges and local businesses will help assemble the workforce of tomorrow.

Future Ready Iowa is a key part of the solution. We want to continue building off of last year's bipartisan efforts, and look forward to working with Governor Reynolds and the Senate to take the next step forward.

House Republicans are going to continue to protect and advance our freedoms. Freedom from unnecessary government regulations and overreach into our lives. Freedom for parents to choose the educational setting for their children. Freedom for gun owners, as the right to keep and bear arms is enshrined in our state constitution.

Also, House Republicans will be unapologetic in our fight to protect unborn life.

The people of Iowa have entrusted Republicans with a governing majority in this chamber, in the Senate and in the Governor's office. It is our responsibility to once again challenge the status quo. It is our task here to continue charting a new course for a brighter future.

May God continue to bless us, our citizens and the great State of Iowa. Thank you Madam Speaker.

REMARKS BY SPEAKER UPMEYER

When we first arrived in January, I shared with you all how excited I was to see the fresh faces in this chamber.

That included 22 freshman legislators and 19 new committee chairs.

Today, I am excited to see how much you all have grown over the course of the session.

A lot of times, your first legislative session can be a baptism by fire.

That makes me think of Representative Hite.

Early on in the session, maybe the fifth or sixth week, the Majority Leader came back to my office to relay a conversation he had just had with Representative Hite.

Apparently Representative Hite felt like he needed more work to do... so we took him up on that offer.

I think he's learned to be careful what you ask for.

At the beginning of session, I laid out a number of priorities that Iowans had shared with us over the course of last year:

- Make rural Iowa a priority
- Improve health care for Iowans
- Take a look at property taxes
- And pass a responsible, conservative state budget

I am proud to say that we took action on each of these issues.

We needed to be intentional in our efforts to grow rural Iowa. And this session has been a success.

With greater access to reliable, high speed internet, Main Street businesses will be able to operate efficiently and grow.

With incentives to spur housing developments, our small communities will be able to compete and grow.

Rural schools will have permanent funding to reduce unequal transportation costs so that more resources make their way into the classroom.

Every bill that we took up this session ... whether it dealt with workforce, health care, or education... we looked for opportunities to put our finger on the scale and benefit our rural communities.

We also continued our bipartisan efforts to build out mental health services and increase access in our communities.

The children's mental health bill will ensure that parents have a dedicated local resource to turn to when their child is facing a mental health issue.

This is the foundation for something that we will build on in future sessions.

Governor Reynolds really brought this issue to the forefront and I want to thank her for her leadership on this issue.

We have ensured that when property valuations go up, cities and counties must inform and notify the hard-working taxpayers how their tax bills will change.

We extended the SAVE penny.

Not only does this provide schools with much-needed resources for new buildings and improvements, it also delivers nearly 6 billion dollars in property tax relief to Iowans.

As Representative Bossman told us, it's a win-win.

The budget plan that we have passed this year is responsible and funds our priorities.

Things Iowans value, like community colleges, career training programs, rural hospitals, and public safety, will all see funding increases next year.

The budget also fully fills our reserve accounts and leaves a healthy ending balance.

It's disappointing that today we have heard the same breathless defense of the status quo that we have heard for the last three years.

Unlike those voting no today, we remain open to thoughtful consideration to progress and new ideas.

Doing things the same way only because it has been that way for a long time is a disappointing disposition for Iowans to see.

We reject adherence to the status quo.

The people of Iowa sent us here to continue moving forward with a common sense agenda... smaller government that respects the hard-working taxpayers.

Promises made. Promises kept.

This body should be proud of the work that was accomplished this session and know that Iowans stand with you.

In closing, I want to thank everyone for all of their hard work this session.

Thank you to the members, our caucus and leadership staffs, the clerk's office, LSA, doormen, pages, and the press.

I know how tough it is to be away from your families and communities during the months of session. That work does not go unnoticed and Iowans appreciate your service and sacrifice.

Now, go home... listen to your constituents... and I look forward to coming back with you next year refreshed and ready to continue moving Iowa forward.

Thank you.

GOVERNOR'S SIGNING MESSAGE

SENATE FILE 599

May 13, 2019

The Honorable Paul Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol Building LOCAL

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I hereby transmit Senate File 599, an act relating to hemp, including the regulation of hemp, providing for enforcement and the confiscation and destruction or disposal of certain property, providing for fees, including penalties, and providing implementation and effective date provisions.

I approve this Senate File to allow Iowa to begin the process of entering a new agricultural marketplace for hemp. But Iowans should be aware that this bill does not legalize the sale or manufacturing of all hemp-derived products, such as cannabidiol ("CBD"). The retail sale and manufacturing of hemp-derived products is still governed by federal law. While the Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") has approved some hemp-derived food ingredients for human and animal consumption, it has not approved CBD. The FDA has also declared that CBD is not a dietary supplement. State law cannot preempt the federal law, and Iowans engaging in the manufacture, sale, or purchase of hemp-derived products should carefully consider the legality of their actions under Iowa and federal law. And Iowans should be aware that nearly all of the provisions of this bill will not go into effect until the federal government approves our state hemp plan.

As federal regulatory bodies approve additional hemp-derived products and the hemp industry evolves, it is imperative that our state agencies and the Iowa legislature remain vigilant in evaluating the effects of this legislation and the need for additional changes to ensure that our laws protect the health and safety of all Iowans.

The above Senate File is hereby approved on this date.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds
Governor of Iowa

GOVERNOR'S ITEM VETO MESSAGE

SENATE FILE 615

May 22, 2019

The Honorable Paul Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol Building
LOCAL

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I hereby transmit Senate File 615, an act relating to appropriations to the justice system, and including effective date and retroactive applicability provisions.

Senate File 615 is approved on this date with the exception of sections 24 and 28, of which I disapprove. These sections would have amended the Attorney General's statutory duties to require the approval of the Governor, Executive Council, or Legislature to prosecute any action or proceeding, including signing onto or authoring amicus briefs or letter of support, in any court or tribunal other than an Iowa state court.

I share many of the concerns expressed by members of the Legislature about the past actions of Attorney General Tom Miller in courts outside of Iowa. He has participated in litigation throughout the nation, repeatedly taking positions in the name of the State of Iowa that are in conflict with Iowa's statutes, the policy goals of the Legislature and Governor, and the best interests of Iowans. But I am cautious about approving a provision that redefines the scope of the Attorney General's duties because I am mindful that the Attorney General is also elected by, and directly accountable to, the people of Iowa.

As a result of the Legislature's leadership on this issue, Attorney General Miller and I have had the opportunity to engage in a thoughtful discussion about the appropriate balance of authority between the Governor and the Attorney General with respect to Iowa's involvement in litigation. And ultimately, Attorney General Miller agreed to my proposal to adjust our litigation practices in a manner that I believe addresses my core concerns without amending Iowa's current statutes.

Attorney General Miller has agreed that so long as he serves as Attorney General, he will not prosecute any action or proceeding or sign onto or author an amicus brief in the name of the State of Iowa in any court or tribunal other than an Iowa state court without the consent of the Governor. He retains the authority to participate in litigation or author letters in his own name, as Attorney General of Iowa. Attorney General Miller has also agreed that if the Governor requests that he prosecute an action or proceeding or file an amicus brief in any court, he will do so or facilitate outside counsel, and that such participation requested by the Governor shall be conducted in the name of the State of Iowa.

This agreement is an appropriate interpretation of the authority and duties provided for under existing Iowa law and our constitutional structure. It ensures that the State of Iowa will speak with one consistent voice when it participates in court proceedings outside of our state. And it respects the Attorney General's independent authority and accountability to the people of Iowa.

I commend the Legislature for starting this important discussion and Attorney General Miller for his willingness to reevaluate our practices with respect to engaging in litigation on behalf of the State of Iowa. I look forward to working with Attorney General Miller to ensure that the State's litigation advances the interests of Iowans.

For these reasons, I respectfully disapprove Senate File 615 in part, only as specified above, in accordance with Article III, Section 16, of the Constitution of the State of Iowa. The remainder of Senate File 615 not disapproved as stated herein is approved on this date.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds
Governor of Iowa

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE

HOUSE FILE 732

May 24, 2019

Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol
Des Moines, Iowa 50319

Dear Mr. Secretary,

I hereby transmit House File 732, an Act relating to the medical cannabidiol act.

House File 732 would make a number of changes to expand Iowa's medical cannabidiol ("CBD") program. Our program was originally established to provide CBD as a treatment option for Iowans suffering from specific medical conditions. Since our program began, I have heard countless stories of the relief and remarkable improvements that CBD has offered Iowans. And I support our program and efforts to strengthen and improve the program, so that it continues to be a safe, rational, and compassionate medical CBD program.

Unlike some states, Iowa's medical CBD program is not a medical marijuana program. To this end, current Iowa law limits the level of tetrahydrocannabinol ("THC")—the psychoactive chemical in the cannabis plant—in medical CBD products to three percent. But recognizing the limited experience with medical CBD and potential questions surrounding the three percent limit, the Legislature had the foresight to establish a Medical Cannabidiol Board, primarily made up of medical experts. The Board is tasked with governing our program and advising the Legislature on potential statutory changes to the definition of medical CBD, including the THC limit. The Legislature was wise to understand that we were entering uncharted territory and could benefit from the Board's expertise in navigating any potential expansion of the program.

Most of the changes included in House File 732 were the result of the Legislature and the Medical Cannabidiol Board coming together to reach agreement on appropriate and positive improvements to our medical CBD program. I fully support these changes. But unfortunately, the bill would also remove the three percent limit on THC in medical CBD products and replace it with a limit of 25 grams of THC per 90-day period. This change was not recommended by the Board. And if approved, it would drastically expand Iowa's medical CBD program far beyond its original scope of CBD-based treatments and could open the door to significant unintended consequences to the health and safety of Iowans.

I agree that there should be some change to the three percent THC limit. There appears to be consensus, including from the Board, that a gram-based limit would be more appropriate than a percentage-based limit. But I have not been able to discern any evidence-based justification for the specific 25-gram limit proposed in this bill. And after its review of the available evidence, the Board recommended a limit of only 4.5 grams per 90-day period.

It may be that a THC limit higher than 4.5 grams is appropriate. But the 25-gram limit in this bill would allow a person to consume more than 277 milligrams of THC per day—an amount higher than one would typically consume even with aggressive recreational marijuana use. This is all the more concerning because a participant in the program is not prescribed a particular dosage by a medical practitioner or monitored on an ongoing basis for any adverse health consequences. Iowa's program only requires a practitioner to certify that the participant suffers from a qualifying condition on an annual basis.

Ultimately, I believe Iowa must proceed cautiously to ensure that any expansion of our medical CBD program is thoughtful and deliberate—particularly because Iowa's program is in its infancy and the body of research that analyzes the efficacy of medical CBD is limited. So I look forward to working with the Legislature and the Medical Cannabidiol Board to find an evidence-based THC limit that we can work to enact along with the rest of the provisions in House File 732 that I support. The health and safety of Iowans is too important for us not to get this right.

For these reasons, I respectfully disapprove of House File 732 in its entirety.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds
Governor of Iowa

1 to the extent actually known or reasonably ascertainable by the
2 conservator.

3 4. If a conservator cannot make a decision under subsection
4 3 because the conservator does not know and cannot reasonably
5 determine the decision the protected person would make if 6 able, or the conservator reasonably believes the decision the 7 protected person would make would fail to preserve resources
8 needed to maintain the protected person's well-being and 9 lifestyle or otherwise unreasonably harm or endanger the 10 welfare or personal or financial interests of the protected
11 person, the conservator shall act in accordance with the best
12 interests of the protected person. In determining the best
13 interests of the protected person, the conservator shall 14 consider all of the following:

15 a. Information received from professionals and persons that 16 demonstrate sufficient interest in the welfare of the protected
17 person.

18 b. Other information the conservator believes the protected
19 person would have considered if the protected person were able 20 to act.

21 c. Other factors a reasonable person in the circumstances
22 of the protected person would consider, including consequences
23 to others.

24 5. Except when inconsistent with the conservator's duties
25 under subsections 1 through 4, a conservator shall invest and 26 manage the protected person's assets as a prudent investor
27 would, by considering the circumstances and property of the 28 protected person.

29 6. The propriety of a conservator's investment and 30 management of the conservatorship estate is determined in light
31 of the facts and circumstances existing when the conservator
32 decides or acts and not by hindsight.

33 7. A conservator that has special skills or expertise,
34 or is named conservator in reliance on the conservator's
35 representation of special skills or expertise, has a duty

1 to use the special skills or expertise in carrying out the
2 conservator's duties.

3 8. In investing and selecting specific property for 4 distribution, a conservator shall consider any estate plan or 5 other donative, nominative, or appointive instrument of the 6 protected person, known to the conservator.

7 9. A conservator shall maintain insurance on the insurable
8 real and personal property of the protected person, unless 9 the conservatorship estate lacks sufficient funds to pay for

10 insurance or the court finds any of the following:

11 a. The property lacks sufficient equity to justify the 12 insurance premium.

13 b. Insuring the property would unreasonably dissipate the 14 conservatorship estate.

15 c. Insuring the property would not be in the best interest

16 of the protected person.

17 10. If a protected person has executed a valid power of 18 attorney under chapter 633B, the conservator shall act in 19 accordance with the applicable provisions of chapter 633B.

20 11. The conservator shall report to the department of 21 human services the protected person's assets and income, if

22 the protected person is receiving medical assistance under

23 chapter 249A. Such reports shall be made upon establishment of 24 a conservatorship for an individual applying for or receiving

25 medical assistance, upon application for benefits on behalf

26 of the protected person, upon annual or semiannual review of

27 continued medical assistance eligibility, when any significant

28 change in the protected person's assets or income occurs, or

29 as otherwise requested by the department of human services.

30 Written reports shall be provided to the department of human

31 services office for the county in which the protected person

32 resides or the office in which the protected person's medical 33 assistance is administered.

1 Amend House File 669 as follows:

2 1. By striking everything after the enacting clause and 3 inserting:

4 <Section 1.NEW SECTION. 476.49 Private generation rates
5 — infrastructure support options for customers.

6 1. The general assembly recognizes the importance of 7 electric utility infrastructure, including electric generation,
8 transmission, and distribution systems, to provide electric
9 service to all customers in this state, whether electricity
10 is generated by a public utility, by a customer, or on behalf
11 of a customer. The general assembly also recognizes that 12 tariffs for electric service are traditionally designed for 13 the provision of full electric service to customers, not
14 taking into account the private generation of electricity. It
15 is the intent of the general assembly to require customers
16 who utilize private generation to pay their share of costs
17 of electric utility infrastructure, thereby eliminating
18 cross-subsidization. It is also the intent of the general
19 assembly to provide private generation customers with options
20 to pay their share of costs.

21 2. For purposes of this section, unless the context
22 otherwise requires:

23 a. “Avoided cost” means the energy rate paid by an electric
24 utility for energy purchases from a private generation customer
25 established in the electric utility’s board-approved tariff for 26 cogeneration facilities and small power production facilities
27 and in accordance with section 476.43.

28 b. “Private generation customer” means an electric utility
29 customer who utilizes a private generation facility.

30 c.(1) “Private generation facility” means an alternate 31 energy production facility, as defined in section 476.42, that 32 is owned, leased, operated by, or operated on behalf of a
33 private generation customer and whose production of electricity
34 is used to offset a portion or all of the customer’s
35 electricity bill or usage that would otherwise be purchased

1 from an electric utility.

2 (2) “Private generation facility” does not include any of 3 the following:

4 (a) A cogeneration facility as defined in 18 C.F.R. pt. 292,
5 subpt. B, including without limitation combined heat and power
6 facilities.

7 (b) A facility that produces renewable fuel as defined
8 in section 214A.1, which is registered with the United

9 States environmental protection agency as a manufacturer, in 10 accordance with the requirements set forth in 40 C.F.R. §79.4.

11 (c) A facility that utilizes a de minimus amount of biomass
12 in its operations. For purposes of this subparagraph division, 13 “de minimus” means less than ten percent of all fuel utilized in 14 the generation processes.

15 (d) A private generation facility with a nameplate
16 generating capacity greater than one megawatt.

17 3. A rate-regulated electric utility may file tariffs with 18 the board applicable to any private generation customer who 19 utilizes a private generation facility installed on or after 20 the date a tariff is approved pursuant to subsection 4. All 21 tariff rates charged to a private generation customer for 22 electric service shall recover the electric utility’s actual
23 cost of providing electric service to the applicable customer
24 class, as determined by the board in the electric utility’s
25 most recently approved rate proceeding. Tariffs filed pursuant 26 to this section shall be designed to ensure that a private 27 generation customer pays for electric utility infrastructure
28 costs. Tariffs filed pursuant to this section shall require a
29 private generation customer to choose one of the following rate
30 structures for the provision of electric service:

31 a. A minimum infrastructure charge rate structure whereby
32 the private generation customer pays a minimum amount each
33 month, or the private generation customer’s applicable standard
34 electric service bill, whichever is higher. The private 35 generation customer’s applicable standard electric service

1 bill shall be calculated using the applicable standard retail
2 tariff. This tariff rate structure shall allow the private
3 generation facility to offset the private generation customer’s
4 energy usage, and shall allow excess energy to carry forward
5 in the form of excess energy credits to offset the private 6 generation customer’s energy usage in future billing periods.
7 This tariff rate structure shall also include an annual 8 cash-out of excess energy credits at a rate that does not 9 exceed the electric utility’s avoided cost.

10 b. A multi-part rate structure whereby rates applicable
11 to the customer include, at a minimum, a fixed basic service
12 charge, an energy charge designed to recover variable costs, 13 and a monthly demand charge designed to ensure that the 14 private generation customer pays for fixed electric utility
15 infrastructure costs. This tariff rate structure shall 16 allow the private generation facility to offset the private 17 generation customer’s energy usage, and shall allow excess 18 energy to carry forward in the form of excess energy credits to 19 offset the private generation customer’s energy usage in future
20 billing periods. This tariff rate structure shall also include
21 an annual cash-out of excess energy credits at a rate that does
22 not exceed the electric utility’s avoided cost.

23 c. A buy all and sell all rate structure whereby the private 24 generation facility's output is measured separately from the 25 private generation customer's consumption. All electricity
26 consumed shall be purchased from the electric utility and all
27 electricity generated shall be sold to the electric utility on 28 a monthly basis. Rates applicable to the private generation
29 customer for all electricity purchased from the electric
30 utility shall be the applicable standard retail tariff.
31 Rates applicable for electricity purchased from the private 32 generation customer shall not exceed the electric utility's
33 avoided cost.

34 d. A rate structure filed by the electric utility that 35 recovers the electric utility's cost of providing electric

PAGE 4

1 service to the applicable customer class, subject to board
2 approval.

3 4. The board shall review a tariff filed pursuant to this 4 section for compliance with this section, and shall approve the 5 tariff as filed or docket the tariff for review in a formal
6 proceeding pursuant to section 476.6, and thereafter either
7 approve the tariff or modify the tariff to meet compliance
8 with this section within six months of the date of docketing.
9 If the board fails to complete a review of the tariff within 10 six months of the date of filing, the tariff shall be deemed 11 approved. A tariff approved pursuant to this subsection shall 12 supersede any previously approved tariffs applicable to private 13 generation customers, except as provided in subsection 5.

14 5. A private generation customer who utilizes a private
15 generation facility pursuant to a tariff approved by the board
16 on or before the effective date of this Act may continue to 17 receive electric service pursuant to the preexisting tariff for 18 the remaining duration of the contract involving the private 19 generation facility, regardless of any subsequent change in 20 ownership of such private generation facility. However, if the 21 private generation customer terminates electric service with 22 the electric utility, the preexisting tariff shall no longer
23 apply and the private generation customer shall be required to 24 receive electric service pursuant to a tariff approved pursuant 25 to subsection 4, provided that the electric utility filed such 26 tariff with the board.

27 6. Nothing in this section shall preclude a customer
28 from entering into a contract with an electric utility as an 29 alternate energy production facility, cogeneration and small
30 power production facility, or a standby and supplemental power
31 service customer under the terms of the electric utility's
32 separate alternate energy production facility, cogeneration and 33 small power production facility, or standby and supplemental
34 power service tariffs filed pursuant to the federal Public
35 Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, 16 U.S.C. §2601 et

18 3. “Claimant” means a private owner, a subsequent private 19 owner, or an association, who asserts a claim in a class action
20 for damages against a general contractor or subcontractor
21 concerning a construction defect. “Claimant” shall not include

23 4. “Construction defect” means an alleged or actual unsafe
24 or defective condition of an improvement to real property.

PAGE 2

1 8. “Subcontractor” means a person furnishing material
 2 or performing labor upon any building, erection, or other
 3 improvement to land, except those having contracts directly 4 with the owner.

5 Sec. 2.NEW SECTION. 686.2 Action — compliance.

6 1. A claimant shall not file an action without first
 7 complying with the requirements of this chapter. If a claimant
 8 files an action alleging a construction defect without first
 9 complying with the requirements of this chapter, on timely
 10 motion by a party to the action, the court shall stay the 11 action, without prejudice, and the action shall not proceed
 12 until the claimant has complied with the requirements.

13 2. An action filed prior to the expiration of the 14 statute of limitations set forth in section 614.1, which is 15 stayed pursuant to this section and for which the statute of 16 limitations runs during the time the claimant is complying with 17 this statute, shall not be deemed barred by the applicable
 18 statute of limitation for the pending action if the claimant
 19 complies with the requirements of this chapter and the action
 20 is otherwise allowed to proceed.

21 Sec. 3.NEW SECTION. 686.3 Notice and opportunity to 22 repair.

23 1. Prior to commencing an action alleging a construction
 24 defect, the claimant shall, at least one hundred twenty days
 25 before filing an action, serve written notice of claim on the 26 general contractor and subcontractor. The notice of claim 27 shall refer to this chapter and must describe the claim in 28 reasonable detail sufficient to determine the general nature of 29 each alleged construction defect, a description of the damage
 30 or loss resulting from the defect, if known, and any work or 31 inspections completed to determine the cause of the damage
 32 or loss or correct the construction defect. This subsection
 33 does not preclude a claimant from filing an action sooner than 34 one hundred twenty days, after service of written notice as 35 expressly provided in subsection 6, 7, or 8.

PAGE 3

1 2.a. Within sixty days after service of the notice
 2 of claim, the person served with the notice of claim under
 3 subsection 1 is entitled to perform a reasonable inspection
 4 of the property or of each unit subject to the claim to 5 assess each alleged construction defect. The claimant shall

6 provide the person served with notice under subsection 1 and
7 the person's general contractors, subcontractors, or agents
8 reasonable access to the property during normal working hours
9 to inspect the property to determine the nature and cause of 10 each alleged construction defect and the nature and extent
11 of any repairs or replacements necessary to remedy each
12 construction defect. The person served with notice under 13 subsection 1 shall reasonably coordinate the timing and manner
14 of any and all inspections with the claimant to minimize the 15 number of inspections. The inspection may include reasonable
16 destructive testing by mutual agreement under the following
17 terms and conditions:

18 (1) If the person served with notice under subsection 1
19 determines that destructive testing is necessary to determine 20 the nature and cause of the alleged construction defects, the 21 person shall notify the claimant in writing.

22 (2) The notice shall describe the destructive testing
23 to be performed, the person selected to do the testing, the 24 estimated anticipated damage and repairs to or restoration of 25 the property resulting from the testing, the estimated amount
26 of time necessary for the testing and to complete the repairs
27 or restoration, and the financial responsibility offered for 28 covering the costs of repairs or restoration.

29 (3) The testing shall be done at a mutually agreeable time.

30 (4) The claimant or a representative of the claimant may be
31 present to observe the destructive testing.

32 b. If the claimant refuses to agree and permit reasonable
33 destructive testing, the claimant shall have no claim for 34 damages which could have been avoided or mitigated had 35 destructive testing been allowed when requested and had a

1 feasible remedy been promptly implemented.

2 3. The general contractor or subcontractor may serve a
3 copy of the notice of claim to each subcontractor or general
4 contractor whom the general contractor or subcontractor
5 reasonably believes is responsible for a construction defect
6 specified in the notice of claim and shall note the specific
7 construction defect for which the subcontractor or general
8 contractor is alleged to be responsible. The notice described 9 in this subsection shall not be construed as an admission of 10 any kind. A general contractor or subcontractor may inspect
11 the property in the manner described in subsection 2.

12 4. Within thirty days after service of the notice of 13 claim pursuant to subsection 3, the general contractor or 14 subcontractor must serve a written response to the general
15 contractor or subcontractor who served the notice of claim.
16 The written response shall include a report, if any, of 17 the scope of any inspection of the property, the findings
18 and results of the inspection, a statement of whether the 19 subcontractor or general contractor is willing to make repairs

20 to the property or whether the claim is disputed, a description
21 of any repairs the subcontractor or general contractor is 22 willing to make to remedy the alleged construction defect, and 23 a timetable for the completion of the repairs. This response
24 may also be served on the initial claimant by the general
25 contractor or subcontractor.

26 5. Within seventy-five days after service of the notice of 27 claim, the person who was served the notice under subsection 1
28 shall serve a written response to the claimant. The response
29 shall be served to the attention of the person who signed the 30 notice of claim, unless otherwise designated in the notice
31 of claim. The written response must provide for one of the 32 following:

33 a. A written offer to remedy the alleged construction defect
34 at no cost to the claimant, a description of the proposed 35 repairs necessary to remedy the construction defect, and a

1 timetable for the completion of such repairs.

2 b. A written offer to compromise and settle the claim by
3 monetary payment, that will not obligate the person's insurer,
4 and a timetable for making payment.

5 c. A written offer to compromise and settle the claim by 6 a combination of repairs and monetary payment that will not
7 obligate the person's insurer, and which includes a detailed 8 description of the proposed repairs and a timetable for the 9 completion of such repairs and making payment.

10 d. A written statement that the person disputes the claim 11 and will not remedy the construction defect or compromise and 12 settle the claim.

13 e. A written offer of a monetary payment, including 14 insurance proceeds, to be determined by the person and the 15 person's insurer, which the claimant may accept or reject.

16 6. If the person served with a notice of claim pursuant 17 to subsection 1 disputes the claim and will neither remedy
18 the construction defect nor compromise and settle the claim,
19 or does not respond to the claimant's notice of claim within 20 the time provided in subsection 5, the claimant may, without 21 further notice, proceed with an action against that person for 22 the claim described in the notice of claim. Nothing in this 23 chapter shall be construed to preclude a partial settlement or 24 compromise of the claim as agreed to by the parties and, in 25 that event, the claimant may, without further notice, proceed
26 with an action on the unresolved portions of the claim.

27 7. A claimant who receives a timely settlement offer shall 28 accept or reject the offer by serving written notice of such 29 acceptance or rejection on the person making the offer within 30 forty-five days after receiving the settlement offer. If 31 a claimant initiates an action without first accepting or 32 rejecting the offer, the court shall stay the action upon
33 timely motion until the claimant complies with this subsection.

34 8. If the claimant timely and properly accepts the offer
35 to repair an alleged construction defect, the claimant shall

PAGE 6

1 provide the offeror and the offeror's agents reasonable access
2 to the claimant's property during normal working hours to
3 perform the repair by the agreed-upon timetable as stated
4 in the offer. If the offeror does not make the payment or 5 repair the construction defect within the agreed time and in 6 the agreed manner, except for reasonable delays beyond the 7 control of the offeror, including but not limited to weather
8 conditions, delivery of materials, claimant's actions, or 9 issuance of any required permits, the claimant may, without
10 further notice, proceed with an action against the offeror
11 based upon the claim in the notice of claim. If the offeror
12 makes payment or repairs to the defect within the agreed
13 time and in the agreed manner, the claimant is barred from 14 proceeding with an action for the claim described in the notice
15 of claim or as otherwise provided in the accepted settlement
16 offer.

17 9. This section does not prohibit or limit a claimant from 18 making any necessary emergency repairs to the property as are 19 required to protect the health, safety, and welfare of any 20 person.

21 10. Any offer or failure to offer, pursuant to subsection 5, 22 to remedy a construction defect or to compromise and settle the 23 claim by monetary payment does not constitute an admission of 24 liability with respect to the defect and is not admissible in 25 an action that is subject to this chapter.

26 11. This section does not relieve the person who is served
27 a notice of claim under subsection 1 from complying with all 28 contractual provisions of any liability insurance policy as 29 a condition precedent to coverage for any claim under this 30 section.

31 Sec. 4. NEW SECTION. 686.4 Multiple construction defects.

32 The procedures in this chapter apply to each construction
33 defect. However, a claimant may include multiple defects in 34 one notice of claim. A claimant may amend the initial list of 35 construction defects to identify additional or new construction

1 defects as the defects become known to the claimant. The court
2 shall allow the action to proceed to trial only as to alleged
3 construction defects that were noticed and for which the 4 claimant has complied with this chapter and as to construction
5 defects reasonably related to, or caused by, the construction
6 defects previously noticed. Nothing in this section shall 7 preclude subsequent or further actions.

8 Sec. 5. NEW SECTION. 686.5 Limitations of chapter.

9 This chapter does not do any of the following:

10 1. Bar or limit any rights, including the right of specific 11 performance to the extent such right would be available in the 12 absence of this chapter, any causes of action, or any theories
 13 on which liability may be based, except as specifically
 14 provided in this chapter.

15 2. Bar or limit any defense, or create any new defense,
 16 except as specifically provided in this chapter.

17 3. Create any new rights, causes of action, or theories on 18 which liability may be based.

19 Sec. 6. NEW SECTION. 686.6 Effect of arbitration clauses.

20 To the extent that an arbitration clause in a contract for 21 the sale, design, or construction of real property conflicts
 22 with this chapter, this chapter shall control.

23 Sec. 7. NEW SECTION. 686.7 Application.

24 1. This chapter applies to construction defects in new 25 construction. This chapter does not apply to construction
 26 defects in renovations or remodels.

27 2. This chapter only applies to actions brought pursuant to 28 a class action.

29 Sec. 8. EFFECTIVE DATE. This Act, being deemed of immediate 30 importance, takes effect upon enactment.

31 Sec. 9. APPLICABILITY. This Act applies to actions for 32 which litigation has not commenced prior to the effective date

4 9, Code 2019, are amended to read as follows:

5 1. A certificate of title shall not be issued for a motor
6 vehicle unless a damage disclosure statement has been made
7 by the transferor of the vehicle and is furnished with the 8 application for certificate of title. A damage disclosure
9 statement shall be provided by the transferor to the transferee
10 in a transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle. The new 11 certificate of title and registration receipt shall state
12 on the face whether a prior owner ~~had~~ disclosed that the 13 vehicle was damaged to the extent that it was a ~~wrecked or~~
14 ~~salvage~~ severely damaged vehicle as defined in section 321.52,
15 ~~subsection 4, paragraph "e"~~.

16 2. The damage disclosure statement required by this section
17 shall, at a minimum, state whether the transferor knows if the 18 vehicle was titled as a salvage, rebuilt, or flood vehicle in 19 this or any other state prior to the transferor's ownership
20 of the vehicle and, if not, whether the transferor knows if 21 the vehicle was damaged to the extent that it was a ~~wrecked or~~
22 ~~salvage~~ severely damaged vehicle as defined in section 321.52,
23 ~~subsection 4, paragraph "e"~~, during or prior to the transferor's
24 ownership of the vehicle.

25 3. The damage disclosure statement shall be provided by the 26 transferor to the transferee at or before the time of sale.
27 If the transferor is not a resident of this state or if the 28 transferee acquired the vehicle by operation of law as provided 29 in section 321.47, the transferee shall not be required to 30 submit a damage disclosure statement from the transferor with 31 the transferee's application for title unless the state of the

34 statement with the transferee's application for title
35 indicating whether a salvage, rebuilt, or flood title had ever

3 damaged vehicle as defined in section 321.52, subsection 4,
4 ~~paragraph "e"~~, during or prior to the transferor's ownership
5 of the vehicle, and the year, make, and vehicle identification
6 number of the motor vehicle. The transferee shall not be 7 required to indicate whether the vehicle was damaged to the 8 extent that it was a ~~wrecked or salvage~~ severely damaged
9 vehicle as defined in section 321.52, subsection 4, paragraph 10 "e", under this subsection if the transferor's certificate of 11 title is from another state and if ~~it~~ the certificate of title

13 another state's salvage certificate of title.

14 4. A lessee who has executed a lease, as defined in section 15 321F.1, shall provide a damage disclosure statement to the 16 lessor at the termination of the lease. The damage disclosure
 17 statement shall be made on a separate disclosure document
 18 and shall state whether the vehicle was damaged during the 24 disclosure statement for five years following the date of the 25 statement.

26 7.a. The damage disclosure statements shall be made
 27 on the back of the certificate of title if the title is 28 available to the transferor at the time of sale. If the title
 29 is not available at the time of sale or if the face of the

 10 prior owner is required to be furnished with the application
 11 for title, the transferor shall provide a copy of the separate 12 damage disclosure document to the transferee at or before the 13 time of sale.

 15 2, a separate disclosure document shall state whether the 16 vehicle's certificate of title indicates the existence of 17 damage prior to the period of the transferor's ownership of 18 the vehicle, ~~and~~ whether the vehicle was titled as a salvage,
 19 rebuilt, or flood vehicle, ~~and whether the vehicle was damaged~~

28 extent that it was a severely damaged vehicle and repaired, or 29 had been titled on a salvage, rebuilt, or flood certificate
30 of title, unless the person, recycler, or dealer knew or
