The millage tax here provided for shall be in lieu of all other taxes upon moneys and credits, and the amount collected in the various taxing districts of the state shall be divided between the various funds upon the same pro rata basis as other taxes collected in such taxing district are apportioned. All moneyed capital within the meaning of Section Five Thousand Two Hundred and Nineteen (5219) of the Revised Statutes of the United States shall be listed and assessed against the owner thereof at his place of business, and if a corporation at its principal place of business, at the same rate as state, savings, national bank and loan and trust company stock is taxed, in the same taxing district, and at the actual value of the moneyed capital so invested. The person or corporation using moneyed capital in competition with bank capital shall furnish the assessor upon demand a full and complete itemized sworn statement showing the amount of moneyed capital so used."

Sec. 2. Section Thirteen Hundred and Eleven (1311), of the Code is hereby amended by adding thereto the following words: "Provided, however, that no deduction for debts shall be allowed from the shares of stock of any state, savings or national bank or loan and trust companies, nor from moneyed capital used in competition with banks, within the meaning of Section Five Thousand Two Hundred and Nineteen (5219), of the Revised Statutes of the United States."

"Shares of stock of national banks and state and savings banks and loan and trust companies, located in this state, shall be assessed to the individual stock-holders at the place where the bank or loan and trust company is located. At the time the assessment is made the officers of national and state and savings banks and loan and trust companies shall furnish the assessor with lists of all the stock-holders and the number of shares owned by each, and the assessor shall list to each stock-holder under the head of corporation stock the total value of such shares. To aid the assessor in fixing the value of such shares, the said banking corporations shall furnish him a verified statement of all the matter provided in Section Thirteen Hundred and Twenty-one (1321), of the Supplement to the Code, 1907, which shall also show separately the amount of the capital stock and the surplus and undivided earnings, and the assessor from such statement shall fix the value of such stock, based upon the capital, surplus and undivided earnings. Said shares of stock and moneyed capital shall be assessed upon the basis of twenty per cent. of the actual value ascertained as herein provided, which twenty per cent. of the actual value shall be taken and considered as the taxable value and taxed as other property in such taxing district.

Sec. 5. The provisions of this act shall be in effect and govern the assessments made in the year 1911, and subsequent years. If assessment of any such stock or moneyed capital is not made during 1911 within the time now provided by law, or is illegally or irregularly made, the assessor of the taxing district is hereby granted until June 1, 1911, in which to rectify the irregularity or correct the illegality, or re-assess such stock or moneyed capital, and the board of review of the taxing district is during the month of June, 1911, authorized and directed to review such assessment following the proceedings now provided by law as to original assessments.

Sec. 6. If the taxable value of property in any city acting under special charter is not twenty-five per cent. of the actual value as assessed, the council of such city shall when the total levy for all city purposes has been completed certify such total levy to the county treasurer of the county wherein such city is situated, and when the millage tax herein provided for is collected, the county treasurer shall pay to the treasurer of such city from said millage tax the proportion thereof that the levy so certified bears to the total other tax levied against property in said city.

IOWA.

Oh land of storm and land of sun,
Iowa! my Iowa!
Thy children love thee, every one,
Iowa! my Iowa!
With joyful heart they sing of thee,
And ring thy praises full and free
In loud resounding jubilee,
Iowa! my Iowa!
Thy rolling prairies broad and fair,
Iowa! my Iowa!
Are bright and blest beyond compare,
Iowa! my Iowa!
With milk and honey how they flow,
Best heritage of man below,
Where all may reap who care to sow,
Iowa! my Iowa!

Thy summer's heat and winter's cold,
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 Rear loyal freeman strong and bold,
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 Thy daughters fair thy vestals be,
 Who guard the flame of purity
 Seen from afar o'er land and sea.
   Iowa! my Iowa!

 Thy happy homes their altars keep,
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 On truth's foundations firm and deep,
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 They guard their children's weal and woe,
 who heed not folly's idle show,
 But vices scorn of high and low,
   Iowa! my Iowa!

 Keep watch and ward through changing time.
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 In deeds work out thy faith sublime,
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 Still may God's hidden things be shown
 To thee, before the seen and known,
 Of riches vain, so quickly flown,
   Iowa! my Iowa!

 A beacon light so shalt thou gleam,
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 The weak lift up, the lost redeem,
   Iowa! my Iowa!
 The dream of by-gone ages dumb,
 The hope of ages yet to come,
 Triumphant in the day of doom.
   Iowa! my Iowa!

So the bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the Senate and its title as amended agreed to.

Senator Webber filed the following explanation of his vote:

My reasons for voting against the bill under consideration, being the Substitute for Senate File No. 387, are as follows:

First—The bill in my judgment is illegal for the reason that I do not think it possible to value property for assessment purposes on a different basis.

Second—Section Two of the bill is illegal within the meaning of the construction of Code Section 1309 in so far as it refers to national bank stock.

Third—the bill is unfair and unjust in that it attempts to tax banking capital at a higher rate than other property is taxed.

Be it Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

That Section Thirteen Hundred and Ten (1310) of the Code is hereby amended by striking from the last line thereof the words "as provided in this chapter," and substituting therefor the words "and, excepting shares of stock of national, state and savings banks and loan and trust companies, and moneyed capital as hereinafter defined, shall be taxed upon the uniform basis throughout the state of five (5) mills on the dollar of actual valuation, same to be assessed and collected where the owner resides. The millage tax here provided for shall be in lieu of all other taxes upon moneys and credits, and the amount collected in the various taxing districts of the state shall be divided between the various funds upon the same pro rata basis as other taxes collected in such taxing district are apportioned. All moneyed capital within the meaning of Section Five Thousand Two Hundred and Nineteen (5219) of the Revised Statutes of the United States shall be listed and assessed against the owner thereof at his place of business, and if a corporation at its principal place of business, at the same rate as state, savings, national bank and loan and trust company stock is taxed, in the same taxing district, and at the actual value of the moneyed capital so invested. The person or corporation using moneyed capital in competition with bank capital shall furnish the assessor upon demand a full and complete itemized sworn statement showing the amount of moneyed capital so used."

Sec. 2. Section Thirteen Hundred and Eleven (1311) of the Code is hereby amended by adding thereto the following words:

"Provided, however, that no deduction for debts shall be allowed from the shares of stock of any state, savings or national bank or loan and trust company, nor from moneyed capital used in competition with banks, within the meaning of Sec. Sec. 5. For the purpose of placing the taxation of bank and loan and trust company stock and moneyed capital as nearly as possible upon a taxable value relatively equal to the taxable value at which other property is now actually assessed throughout the state as compared with the actual value thereof, it is hereby provided that state, savings and national bank stock and loan and trust company stock, and moneyed capital shall be assessed and taxed upon the taxable value of twenty per cent of the actual value thereof, determined as herein provided, which twenty per cent of the actual value shall be taken and considered as the taxable value and shall be taxed as other property in such taxing district.

Sec. 6. The provisions of this act shall be in effect and govern the assessments made in the year 1911, and subsequent years. If assessment of any such stock or moneyed capital is not made during 1911 within the time now provided by law, or is illegally or irregularly made, the assessor of the taxing district is hereby granted until June 1, 1911, in which to rectify the irregularity or correct the illegality, or re-assess such stock or moneyed capital, and the board of review of the taxing district is during the month of June, 1911, authorized and directed to review such assessment following the proceedings now provided by law as to original assessment.

Sec. 7. If the taxable value of property in any city acting under special charter is not twenty-five per cent (25%) of the actual value as assessed, the shares of stock and moneyed capital referred to in Section Five (5) hereof shall be assessed upon a taxable value which shall be on the basis of eighty per cent (80%) of the taxable value of other property in such city. The council of such city, when the total levy for all city purposes has been completed, shall determine the amount of such total levy based upon twenty-five percent (25%) of such actual value and shall certify such total levy thus determined to the county treasurer of the county wherein such city is situated, and when the millage tax herein provided for is collected, the county treasurer shall pay to the treasurer of such city from said millage tax the proportion thereof that the levy so certified bears to the total other tax levied against property in said city.

Sec. 8. The provisions of this act as to the assessment and taxation of moneys and credits other than moneyed capital and shares of stock of state and national banks and loan and trust companies, shall not apply to taxes levied for the year 1911.

Adopted.

So the bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the Senate and its title as amended agreed to.

The hour having arrived for Special Order No. 1, on motion of Senator Van Law, Senate File No. 98, a bill for an act to amend Division Two of Section Twenty-four Hundred Forty-eight (2448) of Supplement to the Code of 1907, relating to the limits within which intoxicating liquors may be sold, with report of committee recommending indefinite postponement, was taken up and considered. Senator Ream filed the following explanation for his vote :

I have two reasons for voting against what is known as the five mile limit bill. One of them is that I believe the state ought not to deprive Iowa City of the right of local self-government, the other is that the illicit traffic in liquor that would follow closing the saloons would be far worse than the business conducted by the open saloons.

Senator Van Law moved to reconsider the vote by which the Senate adopted the report of the committee on Senate File No. 98, recommending indefinite postponement.

Section 1. All cities now and hereafter having a population of sixty-five thousand (65,000) or over, including cities acting under the commission plan of government and cities acting under special charter, shall have the power to lease as lessee, own, construct, erect, establish, acquire, purchase, maintain and operate street railways within their corporate limits, and extensions thereof, for not more than six miles beyond such limit, with all of the necessary appurtenances, real estate, buildings, poles, wires, power plants or systems, and lease as lessor or sell the same, or any part of the same; and shall also have power to acquire, own and sell any or all of the shares of the capital stock of any corporation operating such street railway; and such cities shall also have the power to acquire, own and sell the negotiable bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of such street railway; provided, however, no such street railway when once acquired shall be leased or sold until the terms and conditions under which said property is to be leased or sold shall have been approved by a majority of the legal voters of such city at a general election, city election or at a special election called for the purpose, and in no event shall such property be leased by such city as lessor for a period longer than twenty-five (25) years.

Sec. 2. In the exercise of any of the powers herein granted any such city is given the power to acquire, take and hold any or all necessary property of the character specified in the preceding section, including existing franchises or contracts, either by purchase or condemnation proceedings, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter Ten (10), Title V (5) of the Code, except that the value of the property shall be determined in the manner provided in Chapter Forty-five, Acts of the Thirty-third General Assembly and acts amendatory thereto.

Sec. 3. For the purpose of acquiring such street railways or any interest therein, either by purchase, condemnation or construction, and for the purpose of acquiring the shares of the capital stock thereof, and from time to time making permanent extensions thereof, additions to and betterments of the same, and of their power plants and equipment, including the acquisition of additional real estate, any such city may borrow money and may issue its negotiable bonds therefor. Such city shall have the power to levy upon all the taxable property within the corporate limits of said city for said purpose in addition to all other taxes now provided by law, a special tax not exceeding in any one year, five (5) mills on the dollar for a period of years not exceeding twenty (20),

Senator Parshall submitted the following report, which was read:

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives:

Your Joint Committee, appointed under Concurrent Resolution, relative to the fire protection of the Capitol building, begs leave to report that it has made the investigation called for by said resolution and submits the following report:

It finds that the Capitol Building is seriously deficient in fire protection. In the construction of the building, stand pipes were installed at different points in the structure, yet the attaching of one hose to any yard hydrant would entirely remove the water pressure from these stand pipes at points as high as the House or Senate Chamber. In other words, while any one yard hydrant is working, no water can be drawn from any stand pipe with which to overcome a fire in the upper structure of the building. We find there are two pumps now in operation in the basement for elevator purposes which could be easily connected with the water supply and thereby furnish, to the stand pipes, a greatly increased pressure.

Your committee is strongly impressed with the belief that these engines should be connected with the stand pipes at the earliest possible time. The cost of making this connection would probably not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars.

Your committee also finds that when the ceiling of the House Chamber was re-constructed after the fire of several years ago, it was put in fire-proof condition. This is not the condition of the ceiling of the Senate Chamber. The ceiling of the Senate Chamber is of wood construction and is so constructed that it is wholly inaccessible to firemen in case of fire.

We find three large steel tanks in the dome. These tanks are a remnant of the old fire system. They are not now being used. One of these tanks could be easily connected with a sprinkler system in the attic over the Senate Chamber and in the judgment of your committee, such a system should be immediately installed. The cost of installing such a system would not exceed one thousand dollars.

Your committee is also strongly impressed with the belief that it would be wise to install one fire extinguisher in each room of the State Historical Building. This last item would entail a cost of probably Five Hundred Dollars.

We find that the building is not supplied with extra hose. The hose now on hand is a linen hose, not capable of being used more than once, and the engineers in charge are not able to state what pressure such hose would stand, without testing the same. The test might come at a disastrous moment.

We deem it most advisable that at least five hundred feet of extra hose of the best quality be kept constantly on hand.

Respectfully, submitted,

LYMAN B. PARSHALL.

E. L. CROW,

A. C. RIPLEY,

U. G. WHITNEY.

J. T. HAZEN,

Passed on file.

THIRD READING OF BILLS.

Senator Ames moved that the Senate concur in the following house amendment.

Strike out the words "of this" in line four (4) of the title and insert in lieu thereof the words "over such".

On the question, "Shall the Senate concur in the House amendment?"

The ayes were:

None.

REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE.

Senator Mattes from the Joint Committee to whom was referred the First Biennial Report of the State Board of Education, submitted the following report:

To the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the Thirty-fourth General Assembly:

Your committee appointed under House Concurrent Resolution, to which was referred the First Biennial Report of the State Board of Education, beg leave to report as follows:

Under the terms of the resolution, the committee was authorized to visit and inspect the State University, the Iowa State College of Agricultural and Mechanic Arts, and the Iowa State Teachers' College, and to examine the report of the State Board of Education.

On account of the diversified duties in connection with the other matters of importance, the committee has been unable to make the comprehensive and satisfactory examination of the report or of the physical condition of the property of the state that had been desired, and therefore this report is based upon a somewhat abbreviated examination of the report of the State Board of Education, upon consultations and conferences with the members of the Board and the Finance Committee, and such other information as could be obtained from other sources within the reach of the committee members during the present session.

The committee has been able to visit but one of state institutions, namely; the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. We are convinced, however, that the recommendations offered by the State Board of Education in its report which are clearly defined and the itemized reasons given for all purposes, is entitled to great weight in the conclusions which may be reached, either by this committee or by the General Assembly, or by the people of the state.

In the opinion of the committee, the legislation creating the one board to have supervision over all of the educational institutions, was wise and has proved to the advantage of the institutions and to the proper, business like management of all the affairs in connection with the educational interests of the state through these higher institutions. It seems apparent that the state can now work through the state board toward a systematic and economical building up of the different institutions without a conflict of the activities as between the different institutions.

The report rendered by the board is to be commended on account of its clearly defined policies and on account of the exhaustive, detailed statements of all matters pertaining to the business management.

This committee has presumed that the purpose of the resolution was to mean particularly the making of an examination as directed for the purpose of affording some measure of information relative to the askings made by the State Board of Education for additional appropriations for the various purposes, and which this General Assembly is requested to appropriate. By study of the report of the state board, it will be seen that the board has outlined a policy for the up-building and the maintenance of these three institutions under their control.

The unanimous opinion of this committee is that the construction of educational buildings at the institutions should not be promoted in excess of the special millage tax which has been levied by the authority of the assembly and which it is anticipated, will furnish for the Iowa State University the sum of $135,000.00 annually; for the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, $135,000.00 annually; and for the Iowa State Teachers' College the sum of $67,500.00 annually. The committee has therefore, seen fit to recommend that the appropriations asked for the additional buildings be not granted and recommend that the policy of the board in the future should be to keep within the limits of the millage tax in the construction of buildings.

After a somewhat hurried review of the reasons assigned for additional appropriations for support funds and for additional equipment, which are the largest items in the special appropriations asked for, the committee believes that the appropriations should be granted. While the committee are not familiar with the sufficiency of salaries paid, we are of the opinion that the recommendations of the State Board of Education, composed as it is, of practical professional and business men, should have great weight.

The committee wish to commend the action of the state board in popularizing the State Agricultural Institution by adding a Two Year's Agricultural Course which has, we understand, as its purpose the meeting of the demands of our state in providing for a practical agricultural course which may be utilized without entrance qualifications and which seeks to afford the means of accomplishing great good for the state in a practical way.

Your committee recommends that the special appropriations for the university be granted except the following: We recommend that the appropriation for additional funds for support be reduced to $98,200 annually, the deduction having been made from the items of $7,500.00 asked by the board for Fine Arts in the detailed report. We recommend also that the appropriation asked for the purchase of additional land be $40,000.00 instead of $100,000.00 and the appropriation asked for sidewalks, paving and improvement of grounds be $10,000.00 instead of $16,000.00. The purpose of the recommendation of these deductions is based upon the policy suggested by the committee that the board should not attempt to force the permanent improvement of the institution at a greater pace than the millage tax for erecting buildings will warrant. We recommend that the special appropriations for the Iowa State College be granted except the following: The judging pavilion and abatoir laboratory, $50,000.00; and the poultry laboratory $6,000.00. The reasons for this have heretofore been assigned in this report in regard to special appropriations for additional buildings.

The committee recommends that all of the appropriations for the State Teachers' College be granted except the last item for fire protection, $5,000.00, which it recommends be not granted. The committee is advised that there is protection now afforded and that with the standpipe and the apparatus now accessible reasonable protection can be had with the city mains. We are also of the opinion that any apparatus which might be installed for emergency use only, is very often found to be of no avail when the emergency arises. The committee is advised that the appropriation for $5,000.00 for a pipe organ will be made only on condition that the Students' Association furnish a like amount for the installment of such an organ. The state board advises that such a proposition has been submitted to them by a student organization and we feel that we wish to commend the energy of the students and alumni of this institution for this character of work.

The committee acknowledges the absolute inability to make a comprehensive report on the matters assigned to it. It would be utterly impossible for any committee attending to the many duties devolving upon the members of the legislature to go into the matter of the standing and the work of the various institutions or into the correctness of the report, in detail and this report is made acknowledging these limitations.

The report of the state board, submitted to each member of the legislature is worthy of study and is open to the examination and criticism of the entire state. We feel that the state has, in this state board, provided for a standing committee of business men to represent the interests of the people and endeavor to shape the policies of the institution so as to accomplish the desired results of first class institutions of higher education and the other objects for which the institutions were founded.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH MATTES,
JOHN T. CLARKSON,
A. M. MCCOLL,
FRED LARRABEE,

HENRY RITTER,
JOHN W. JACOES,
K. J. JOHNSON,

Committee on the part of the House.

Ordered passed on file.

Such commission, shall, as soon as possible after every such examination, certify to the city council the names of ten persons for each department who, according to its records, have the highest standing for the positions they seek to fill, as a result of such examination, and all vacancies in positions under civil service which shall occur before the holding of the next examination shall be filled from said list so certified; provided, however, if the list for any cause shall be reduced to less than three for any division or department, then the superintendent of the proper department may temporarily fill a vacancy until the next examination of the commission. A true copy of such notice of appeal shall be filed with the chairman of the civil service commission or mayor, as the case may be. Within five days after such specifications are filed as aforesaid the commission or council, as the case may be, shall fix the time and place for hearing the appeal and notify the appellant in writing of the time and place so fixed, which notice shall contain a copy of the specifications so filed. The time for hearing any such appeal shall not be fixed earlier than five days nor later than twenty days from the filing of such specifications. The council and commission shall have the power to enforce the attendance of witnesses, the production of books and papers, and to administer oaths in the same manner and with like effect, and under same penalties, as in the case of magistrates exercising criminal or civil jurisdiction under the statutes of Iowa. The hearings on such appeals shall be public and appellant may be represented by counsel. The council or commission, as the case may be, shall issue subpoenas for such witnesses as appellant may designate, which shall be signed by the mayor or chairman of the commission, as the case may be. Such commission shall make annual report to the council and it may require a special report from such commission at any time. Such commission may prescribe such rules and regulations for the proper conduct of its business as shall be found expedient and advisable.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of Joint Convention:

During my campaign for the office of Representative from Pocahontas County, I made statements to the effect that in the event the election of a United States senator by the democrats became, apparently, impossible, I would give my support to W. S. Kenyon whom I believe is the choice of a majority of the people of my county.

While the election of a democrat is still, almost, as probable as the selection of a republican, yet in deference to what is probably a fair and reasonable inference drawn from statements made, as above set out, and desiring to honorably discharge any possible obligation because of statements and inferences, I vote on this ballot for W. S. Kenyon for United States Senator.

Senator Smith of Shelby moved that Judge Deemer be invited to appear before the Joint Convention and that a committee of three be appointed to escort him to this Chamber.

Motion prevailed.

President Clarke appointed as such committee: Senators Smith of Shelby, Stuckslager of Linn and Representative Hayes of Montgomery.

Hon. W. S. Kenyon arrived and was escorted to the Speaker's station and made the following remarks:

Gentlemen of the Convention of the Joint Assembly:

I think the people of the state cannot complain over your lack of deliberation in this contest. (Laughter and applause). And I anticipate that they will not be shocked by surprise from your hasty action! I want to extend to the members of the legislature my thanks and appreciation for the great honor conferred and the confidence reposed in me in this election. While I am a believer in a constitutional amendment for the election of senators by the people (applause). I am not so bigoted in that opinion, or so impolite, as to decline this election. (Laughter and applause.) The character of this contest and the length thereof has never inspired in my mind any thought that a speech of acceptance on my part would become a part of the exercises, consequently I have nothing but extemporaneous remarks on this occasion.

But my mind wanders amid these scenes to a quiet spot near home, where sleeping on the hillside in that last sleep that knows no waking is that great Iowa leader who gave his life in fighting the battle for the people, your beloved friend and my beloved friend, Jonathan Prentice Dolliver.

I have always turned for inspiration along political lines to the life and teaching of the word of that greatest of all Americans, Abraham Lincoln. (Applause.) And I find in some words of his that come to my mind at this time in relation to the perpetuity of government and the objects of government a political philosophy and creed that is my political philosophy and creed when he said that the leading of all government was to elevate the condition of men, to lift artificial burdens from shoulders, to clear the pathway of laudable pursuit for all, and to afford to all an unfettered start and a fair chance in the race of life. So that in the Senate of the United States, I propose to stand for laws for elevating the condition of men, for lifting artificial burdens from shoulders, in so far as I may be able to do so. Hence I shall favor in a general way the income tax law, workingmen's compensation acts—for I believe we are behind the civilized nations of the world in this respect—corrupt practice acts, and other measures along the lines of human rights as well as property rights, because human rights are first. (Applause.) We believe as a nation in the conservation of our national resources, we believe likewise in the conservation of national ideals; and the people of this country view with some alarm a scheme of fraud and corruption by which a man may be elected to the Senate of the United States—and I propose as much as I can to unite with any effort to preserve the high ideals of the Senate of the United States and go to the bottom of the investigations of a neighboring state of ours. We may have lost some in population in Iowa, but we have never lost any of our ideals; and, thank God! it never needs a court or a jury or a committee of congress to investigate the election of a United States Senator in Iowa! (Applause.)

I don't want to take any more of your time. I enjoyed this contest in a way. It has been one of good feeling, and I enjoyed being in the contest, and to be in the contest with our good friend who sits on this platform, for Iowa never produced a better friend or a grander character than the friend I have known all these years, and our friendship is not affected by this contest.

I want to make just one pledge to you and to the people of Iowa, and it is the only pledge of any kind, nature or description that I have made in this campaign: and that is to give to the people of Iowa the best service of which I am able, and all the energy of which I am possessed. I want your help, your advice. I want to serve the entire state of Iowa regardless of any political factions. (Applause.) (Great Applause.) I only indicate in a general way the trend of my mind. I will unite in all efforts to keep this government close to the people, that it may be in truth and fact a government of all the people, for all the people, by all the people. I thank you.

Judge Deemer then addressed the Joint Convention, making the following remarks:

Gentlemen of the General Assembly:

I have had so many heart throbs during the past two or three weeks I am convinced that if this had not instantly ceased I should have dropped dead from pectoris. Some men have said that I have been a fool—well, if that is so what are all mortals. Shakespeare said, "Ye mortals all are fools." I must admit that I have had some halucinations during the past two or three weeks; I had an halucination at one time that I might fill the seat so recently vacated by Iowa's most distinguished Senator, or ex-Senator now, Jonathan P. Dolliver, but at this time I am glad to say that that burden has been cast upon this gentleman who is on the platform with me (applause). I do not believe that I had any bad attacks of dementia; if I have had I don't realize it. I never had thought that loyalty to friends or of friends was any sign of dementia. One time I had started out to block out a speech of acceptance, but I laid that by a few weeks ago and now I am to attend the obsequies and to deliver the funeral address (applause). I am in at the death, but my friends, the most delicious thought about that is that there is always the thought in every man's mind of resurrection (applause). Although dead I still live, and I want to make this pledge to you all and as still your servant and the servant of the people that I shall go back to my desk and work—which I enjoy—with just as much joy as when I went to it before this unpleasantness arose and I am going to try to serve you and the people of Iowa just the same as in the past. My career has always been judicial and I feel that perhaps it may be well that I am going back to it and not down to that chaotic condition which we have in Washington today and I want to sincerely congratulate my friend, Judge Kenyon, and to say that during this contest nobody as he has said has resorted to the tricks which have been resorted to in the election of a U. S. Senator in our adjoining state. This contest has been clean from any suspicion of that sort, and it ought to be a sort of satisfaction to you men that it is so.

My friends, I was brought into this contest by some of my friends who thought that I might be able to be a solution to the situation and finally I said "Alright, if it will solve the matter I will take my chance," but it did not prove to be that way and hence I accept the situation as it is. You know that I am preaching my own sermon I have to be a little personal but I trust that you will pardon the personalities. You know that I have never in any just sense been an active candidate. I have not troubled you men by talking to you or asking for promises and so far as I am concerned there has been no lobbying here. I have kept away from that and nobody has worked for me here. I have simply gone my way and done my duties as I saw them and have resorted not even in the slightest way to any trickery or politics to obtain votes. That I would not do for any office which is in the gift of the people. The result is that I am content.

Now my friends as I have already said it is no time for me to discuss politics or outline policies. All I can say is to treat me fairly, present the situation fairly to your constituents, and at least give me credit for being decent and honest in this contest. I now want to close with a quotation from that great Republican whom we all venerate if we do not cannonize, Abraham Lincoln. It is so familiar that I should be able to quote without reading. "I am loath to close. We are not enemies but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained it must not break the bonds of our affection. The mystic chords of memory stretch from every home and hearthstone all over the broad land will yet swell the chorus of the union when again touched as fully as they will be by the better angel of our nation." I want to apply that to the political situation existing in Iowa today and with that I thank you. (Applause.)

Senator Bennett, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to draft resolutions commemorative of the life, character and services of ex-Senator Elbert Warren Clark, begs leave to submit the following report:

"Elbert Warren Clark was born in Glover, Orleans County, Vermont, February 22, 1842, of Scotch-American parentage. In 1854 he removed to Bureau County, Illinois, where he attended the district school, finishing with a course in the high school at Kewanee, Illinois. Choosing the medical profession as the field in which he should accomplish his life work, he entered Rush Medical College at Chicago, in 1866. He graduated from that institution in February, 1871. The following May he settled in Grinnell, and engaged in the active duties of his profession.

In 1874, he was united in marriage to Martha C. Brainard, of Grinnell. To them was born one son, E. W. Clark, Jr., who resides in Grinnell.

Dr. Clark was an active member of the city council of Grinnell for fifteen years, and was mayor of that city from 1893 to 1897, during which time a complete system of water works and sewers was installed.

For six years he was president of the school board of Grinnell. He was trustee of Iowa College for twelve years, and also of the Stewart free public library. During the year 1907, he was president of the Iowa State Medical Society, of which he was an honored member during his professional life. For many years he was surgeon of the Rock Island railroad, and attained more than local fame as a successful surgeon.

He represented Poweshiek County in the Thirty-first General Assembly. He was elected senator from the twelfth district in 1906, and served in the Thirty-second and Thirty-third General Assemblies. He was a man of undoubted integrity and spotless character. A man loved and honored by all who knew him.

On February 16, 1910, he passed peacefully away at his home in Grinnell, where he had lived continuously for thirty-nine years.

Resolved, That in the death of this noble man the State lost a worthy citizen and statesman, and the Senate a loved and honored member.

Be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in the Journal, and an engrossed copy, signed by the president and secretary, be sent to the family of the deceased."

Senator Legel, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to draft resolutions commemorating the life and services of the Honorable Robert G. Reiniger, late of Charles City, Iowa, beg leave to submit the following report:

Few of us of the present age or generation realize or give a thought to the debt we owe to those early settlers of our state, who risked their all and did so much to make this commonwealth what it is.

The subject of this sketch was one of those pioneers, who as a young man of twenty-two years left his native state and hopefully facing the setting sun journeyed westward until he came to what is now Charles City, Iowa. At that time Charles City was still a frontier village surrounded by a wilderness. Here he cast his lot and was soon a vital force and continued to be such, in his community until he was called to the great beyond.

Honorable Robert G. Reiniger, familiarly known as Judge Reiniger, was born in Seneca County, Ohio, April 12, 1835, and was a son of Gustavus and Rosa (Durr) Reiniger, natives of Wurtemberg, Germany, who emigrated to this country, after they were married in 1832, settling in the above named county upon a farm. Here the subject of this sketch attended school, at the age of seventeen he commenced the study of law, at Tiffin, Ohio. At the same time attending college. He was admitted to the bar in September, 1856, and in March, 1857, he came west and settled in Charles City, where he formed a partnership with his elder brother, G. G. Reiniger, in the practice of law and in real estate exchange, and insurance business. In 1858 Irving W. Card was admitted in partnership, and the firm of Reiniger, Card & Reiniger, continued until January 1, 1861.

In May, 1861, Mr. Reiniger enlisted for the war entering the army in July, as First Lieutenant of Company B, Seventh Iowa Infantry, which company was engaged in the battles of Belmont, Missouri, Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Cornith, Iuka, second battle of Cornith, the campaign against Atlanta, under Sherman, ending with the battle of Jonesboro, when Atlanta was evacuated.

In 1862, Mr. Reiniger was promoted to be Captain. In 1864, shortly after the surrender of Atlanta, he returned home and resumed the practice of his profession.

October 10, 1870, the Governor appointed him judge of the twelfth circuit, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Ruddick, who was appointed district judge. At the succeeding election, in October, 1871, he was elected to fill the rest of the unexpired term, and he was re-elected in 1872, 1876 and 1880.

As a jurist he was cautious, conscientious and candid, spoke clearly and to the point, and in his manner was unpretentious and easy. He was a member of the firm of Reiniger and Balch, bankers, in Charles City. For many years he was the president of the Twelfth District Legal Association. Was an active member of the Congregational church, and ranked high in Masonic circles.

In politics he was a firm believer in republican principles, representing his district, embracing the counties of Floyd and Chickasaw, in the state senate during the twenty-first, twenty-second, twenty-third and twenty-fourth sessions.

November 18, 1867, he married Mary E., daughter of Dr. William M. and Anna Palmer, of Charles City. One son was born of this union, Robert G. Jr.

One of the touching incidents in the life of Robert G. Reiniger was the devotion and care he bestowed upon his invalid wife, who was practically helpless for about twenty-five years. His was a familiar object on our streets giving his wife an airing in her wheel chair. She preceded him to the great beyond by but a few months. After her death he visited in his native state Ohio, where amid the scenes of his boyhood, on October 15, 1910, his spirit followed that of his companion who braved with him all the privations of pioneer days.

Whereas, The Honorable Robert G. Reiniger, a member of the twenty-first, twenty-second, twenty-third and twenty-fourth General Assemblies, departed this life on the 15th day of October, 1910.

Therefore be it resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa has heard with great sorrow and regret of his death and it recognizes that in his departure the State of Iowa has lost one of her honored and useful citizens, who rendered great and lasting service to his state as a jurist, soldier, legislator and promoter of financial and industrial institutions.

In his service as a member of this body he was a valued legislator, councilor and servant, distinguished by his ability and his integrity in public duty.

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa join with his neighbors and friends in sorrow and regret and hereby tender to his family its sincere sympathy in this time of great bereavement.

Be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in the Journal of the Senate and that an engrossed copy authenticated by the President and Secretary be sent to the son of the deceased.

Senator Schrup, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to present suitable resolutions on the life, character, and public services of the Honorable P. W. Crawford, respectfully report as follows:

Phineas W. Crawford was born at Putney, Windham County, Vermont, September 21, 1830. He came with his father, James Crawford, in 1838, to Iowa, where he resided continuously until his death, December 9, 1910, (except when absent attending school and during the Civil War).

After graduating at Jacksonville College, he was admitted to the Dubuque Bar in 1851—being a practicing attorney in this state nearly sixty years.

In May, 1861, he enlisted and was commissioned second lieutenant Company 2, Third Regiment Iowa Volunteer Infantry. During his service he was in the battles of Florida, at Blue Mills, Shiloh, and Cornith, and engaged at the capture of Jackson, Miss., and at the siege of Vicksburg. He was mustered out March, 1866.

The chairman of your committee who occupied offices adjoining and communicating with those of the late senator for many years, remembers many of the exceedingly interesting incidents of the war, related by him during our leisure moments.

While a member of the minority party, in the city of Dubuque, he held the office of Recorder for four years and alderman ten years. In 1901 he was elected State Senator, which position he filled with the same ability and fidelity that characterized all his official and private acts.

Col. Crawford was one of the sturdy Iowa pioneers who laid the foundation of our material prosperity and shaped our civic regulations. Personally one of the most agreeable and loyal friends, candid and outspoken in his ideas, he always respected the different views of others. A close and analytical student of history—he was liberal and tolerant in meeting existing conditions. In public and private life he was guided by the Golden Rule.

The close of his honorable and useful career of over eighty years as son, husband, father, citizen, soldier, and public official, adds another to the long and ever growing number of Iowa's departed sterling characters.

Resolved, That these sentiments be entered upon the Senate Journal and an engrossed copy, duly authenticated, be sent to the bereaved family of the deceased.

Senator Jewell, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption :

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to prepare and present memorial resolutions commemorative of the life, character and public services of the Hon. Ansel Kinne Bailey, late a member of this body and a long time resident of Winneshiek County, Iowa, beg leave to submit the following report:

On November 18, 1835, in Wales, Erie County, New York, there was born to Wesley and Eunice Kinne Bailey a son, the subject of this sketch, who was christened Ansel Kinne Bailey. This son was educated in the public schools of Utica, New York, and in early manhood became identified with journalistic work in the publication of a newspaper owned by his father.

In 1860, the family, obeying the lure of the age, came west and settled in Decorah, Iowa, which was to be his permanent abiding place.

In a partnership between himself and his father they began the publication of a newspaper, the Decorah Republic, which afterwards became and still remains the Decorah Republican.

In 1863, he was elected treasurer and recorder of Winneshiek County, and in 1869 received the appointment of postmaster at Decorah, and was continued in said office by succeeding administrations for sixteen consecutive years.

In 1889 he was elected by the people of Winneshiek and Howard Counties, a member of this body for the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth General Assemblies, and served his constituents with honor and distinction. In the Twenty-third General Assembly he was made chairman of the Committee on Federal Relations whose chief accomplishment was its part in providing representation of Iowa at the Columbian Exposition.

In the Twenty-fourth General Assembly Senator Bailey was prominently identified in the Senate with the drafting of the Australian Ballot bill, which became and still remains, with but slight modification, the law.

The public opinion and the policies of the northeast portion of the state were influenced to a greater or less degree by the public services and writings of Senator Bailey.

In the Decorah Republican and under the heading "Editorial Comments," his great ability and genius as a writer on public policies and fallacies were conspicuously in evidence. These comments were continued with unflinching regularity, when health permitted, up to the time of his death.

On September 20, 1909, at his home in Decorah, Senator A. K. Bailey passed to his reward, and a few days later, during the obsequies attendant thereon, and out of respect and in honor of his life, character and public services, all places of business in the city were closed.

Whereas, it is but meet and proper, that we set apart a portion of time, dedicating it especially to the service of paying due respect and honor to the memory of those who have served as members of this body and as such and in other ways have rendered able and distinguished service to the state and have passed to their bourne from which no traveler e'er returns.

Therefore be it resolved, That the Senate of this Thirty-fourth General Assembly of the State of Iowa, has heard with profound sorrow and regret the announcement of the death of the Hon. Ansel Kinne Bailey, late a member of this body and deplore the loss of his wise counsel to the state and community in which he lived;

Be it further resolved, That these resolutions be entered in the Journal of the Senate and that an engrossed copy be furnished to each of the three living members of the family by the Secretary of the Senate.

Senator Jewell, in moving the adoption of the report, spoke as follows:

Mr. President: It was my good fortune to have known Senator Bailey for fully a quarter of a century, and in all that time and in all the relations of life in which I had occasion to come into contact with him, he was the same courteous, genial, companionable man throughout. He may have had his foibles and his faults—and who has not—but in all matters of public interest, public morals, good citizenship, character and sobriety, he was a prince among men.

His home life was ideal. The lure of clubs, lodges or social conquests had no great charm for or clams upon him. In the later years of his life a son became associated with him in business in the conduct of the Decorah Republican and the relation between the two were remarkable, seemingly more in the nature of the association of two brothers, each leaning upon the other for counsel, suggestion and help than as father and son. My personal observation of this mutual interdependence relationship between the two, gained through my relation as medical attendant to the elder Bailey, for a number of years, was a revelation and an inspiration to me.

As a writer and commentator on current events of public concern, I do not think there was to be found his superior in the entire state. A very few may have equalled his clear cut, incisive comments on men, means and measures, but none excelled, and whether one agreed with his conclusions or not, none failed to admire or to concede his great ability as a forceful writer of clear cut, trenchant English.

He was a man of strong convictions and of firm and lasting friendships. In many conversations I have had with him in regard to his experience in this body he has often referred with evident pleasure and pride to several men of character, men who have left and some who are still leaving their impress for good citizenship upon the state, who served with him in the Senate during the sessions of the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth General Assemblies.

His private life was clear of mar or blemish, his public service valuable and honorable, his entire life an inspiration and well worthy of emulation.

It may be said of him: "His life was gentle and the elements so mixed in him that Nature might stand up and say to all the world, This is a man."

Senator Webber, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to prepare and submit resolutions in memory of Joseph G. Hutchison of Ottumwa, Wapello County, Iowa, beg leave to submit the following report.

Whereas, The Honorable Joseph G. Hutchison, a member of this body in the regular sessions of the Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first General Assemblies, departed this life at his home in Ottumwa, Wapello County, Iowa, on the 9th day of April, 1910. Therefore be it Resolved, That the Senate has learned with sorrow and regret of the death of Senator Hutchison and that in his death the state has lost an able and high minded citizen and legislator who has ever a staunch advocate of the best interest of his fellow citizens. Senator Hutchison was born in Northumberland County, Pennsylvania, September 11, 1840, of Scotch-Irish descent. His ancestors were prominent in public affairs in Pennsylvania and his great grandfather Hutchison at an early day represented a district constituting about one-twelfth of the State of Pennsylvania in the General Assembly. Senator Hutchison was graduated from Williamsport Dickinson Seminary, at Williamsport, Pennsylvania, in June, 1862. In August 1862 he entered the army as first lieutenant in the One Hundred Thirty-first Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry in the army of the Potomac, and participated in the historical battles of Fredericksburg, Antietam and Chancellorsville. He also took part in the Gettysburg campaign as captain of Company I, Twenty-eighth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, which regiment was mustered into service under the special call of President Lincoln. Senator Hutchison was graduated from the Cleveland, Ohio, law school in 1865, and came to Ottumwa, Wapello County, in December, 1865, where he practiced his profession until 1872 when he retired from the legal profession and entered upon his successful business and political career. Senator Hutchison received the nomination for governor from the republican party in 1889 at a time when reaction against prohibition was strongest and was defeated by Horace Boies in the election. Senator Hutchison was twice married, his first wife being Sarah L. Taylor to whom he was married November 4, 1868. She died on November 2, 1896, and he married Mabel Vernan Dixon, daughter of the Hon. J. W. Dixon, of Ottumwa, June 23, 1898.

Senator Hutchison was one of the promoters of the Ottumwa National Bank and its president for seven years. In May, 1891, he entered upon the wholesale grocery business in Ottumwa in which business he prospered.

Senator Hutchison was a man of action and took his share of the burden of citizenship and won the honors due those who are faithful in their convictions, and who devotedly love their country and its institutions. During all the years he lived in Iowa he led a life of an upright Christian gentleman and attracted warm friends because of his integrity and his unswerving adherence to a high standard of honor.

Resolved, That the Senate join with his neighbors and friends in sorrow at his loss and hereby extend to his family its sincere sympathy in this their hour of sorrow and bereavement. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the records of the Senate and that a properly engrossed copy signed by the President and Secretary be sent to the members of the family.

Senator White, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to draft resolutions commemorative of the life and services of Ex-Senator M. J. Kelly, beg leave to submit the following report and resolutions:

Michael Joseph Kelly was born March 22, 1850, in County Tipperary, Ireland.

When a child of two years his parents brought him to America settling first at Port Byron, New York, and six years later moving to Muscatine, Iowa. Here he attended the public schools and learned the trade of tinsmith. At the age of eighteen he took up his residence at Lytle City, Iowa County, Iowa, a year later moving to Des Moines, where he worked at his trade for some years.

In 1870 he was united in marriage with Margery Lytle, daughter of B. F. Lytle, the founder of Lytle City. To this union eight children were born, three of whom preceded the father to the great beyond. Those who with his wife survive him are Attorney B. E. Kelly of Denver, Colorado, Joseph P. Kelly, of Edmonton, Canada, Mrs. B. E. Hakes, of Williamsburg, Iowa, Bert Kelly, of Long Beach, California, and Mrs. Sarah Ainsworth, of Denver, Colorado.

In 1874 Mr. Kelly returned to Lytle City and engaged in the mercantile business continuing there until 1883 when he moved to Williamsburg, Iowa. In the meantime, recognizing the value of education, he spent a term in the law department of the State University. At Williamsburg he established the well-known firm of Kelly & Lytle which continued to be one of the leading mercantile firms of Iowa County until its disolution, in 1906, when Mr. Kelly decided to make his home in Colorado. As a merchant he was a marked success.

He held many positions of private and civic trust, in all of which he acquitted himself with high honor and credit. He was for many years president of the Williamsburg Savings Bank and was a member of the Board of Supervisors of Iowa County. He wielded a wide and beneficent influence upon his community, his wise, fearless and ready counsel being advantageously sought by his town, his community and his neighbors.

In 1887 he was elected to the Twenty-second General Assembly of Iowa from the Senatorial District composed of Iowa and Johnson Counties, and was re-elected in 1891. During his last term he was president pro tem of the Senate. The State University being located in his district he looked carefully after its needs. As a legislator he was a steadfast and valued advocate of the interests of the people and exercised a wise and beneficial influence upon the legislation of his time.

His signal achievement in rising by sheer force of his own native ability from the unknown tinsmith to the successful man of affairs having a large part in molding and directing the business, moral, intellectual and legislative advancement of the state of his adoption, is a monument to his perseverance and integrity of purpose and an inspiration to the young men of Iowa.

He died at Denver, Colorado, on January 10, 1911, and was buried on the 16th day of January, 1911, at Williamsburg, Iowa, amid the loved scenes of his early struggles and successes and near the friends he loved so well; fit resting place for his body tired with its labors for them and his. Peace to his soul.

Whereas, Honorable M. J. Kelly, a member of this body in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth General Assemblies, has been called from this life,

Therefore be it Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa has heard with deep sorrow and regret of his death and that it recognizes the high character of his services to his state.

Resolved, That the Senate take this occasion to acknowledge its recognition and express its high regard and appreciation of the worth of the character and public services of M. J. Kelly, and to extend to his family its sincere sympathy in their great bereavement.

Be it Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, engrossed and duly authenticated, by the President and Secretary, of the Senate, be presented to the family of the deceased.

Senator Stuckslager, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Your committee appointed to prepare suitable resolutions commemorating the life and public service of Wm. G. Thompson, submit the following report:

Wm. G. Thompson was born in Center Township, Butler County, Pennsylvania, January 17, 1830, and died at his home in Kenwood Park, Iowa, April 3, 1911, was the son of Wm. T. and Jane Thompson, also natives of the same locality. The former was born in 1790, the latter in 1796. Mr. Thompson's paternal grandparents were natives of Scotland as were also his maternal grandparents.

Judge Thompson's primary education was obtained in the common schools near his boyhood home and when not in the school room he assisted in the work on the farm. At the age of nineteen he attended the Witherspoon Institute at Butler, Penn., going home to work on the farm during the harvest season. He next read law at that place and was admitted to the Bar October 15, 1853. Hon. Daniel Agnew, afterwards Chief Justice of the United States, presided at the examination.

On the 27th of November, 1852, Judge Thompson came to Marion, Iowa, traveling as far west as his money would carry him. Marion, at that time, was a new town and larger than Cedar Rapids. Here he was first engaged in the practice of his profession in partnership with Col. Isaac M. Preston under the firm name of Preston and Thompson.

Judge Thompson's first dollar in his chosen profession was earned about two weeks after he located in Marion. It was the trial of a suit before a Justice of the Peace. Those who listened to the trial recognized his ability and from that time on his success was assured. He won considerable renown in the practice of criminal law, having defended in twelve murder cases and losing but two. In August, 1854, Mr. Thompson was elected prosecuting attorney and held that position for two years.

He was elected to the State Senate on the republican ticket in 1856 for a full term, which proved a very important year in framing the laws of the state that still exist, Mr. Thompson being a member of the Judiciary Committee.

On leaving the Senate Judge Thompson was engaged in the practice of law in Linn County until 1862, when he helped to raise the Twentieth Iowa Regiment for the Civil War consisting of five companies from Linn and five from Scott Counties, and he went to the front as Major, but the Colonel, being a regular army officer, was detailed for Brigade Commander, and the Lieutenant Colonel being taken prisoner the Judge was left in command of the regiment for some time. He was in the service in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, and Alabama, and was commander of the Post at Arkansas Pass for eight months. He was in the siege of Vicksburg, and at the battle of Prairie Grove, Arkansas, was severely wounded. After being wounded he resigned his commission and returned home in the fall of 1864.

During the presidential campaign of that year he stumped the state for Abraham Lincoln and was elected one of the electors at large. He took great pride in the fact that he was able to cast his ballot at that time for the martyred president. Soon after this Judge Thompson was elected District Attorney for seven counties of Iowa, to-wit: Linn, Jones, Cedar, Johnson, Iowa, Benton and Tama, and after creditably filling that office for six years he was tendered the renomination without opposition but refused it. Without his knowledge or solicitation he was then appointed Chief Justice of Idaho by President Hayes, and held that responsible position for one term resigning in 1879, when he returned to Marion. That fall he was elected to Congress and took his seat in December. He was a member of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which required much work, having twenty-two contested cases. He was re-elected and served in all four years. For party reasons he was in 1883 persuaded to accept the nomination for representative to the state legislature and being elected was chosen Chairman of the Committee to reorganize the courts of the state, which business he successfully accomplished.

In August, 1894, he was appointed judge of the Eighteenth Judicial District and was elected to that position in November 1894 and re-elected in November, 1898 and 1902. His district comprised Jones, Cedar, and Linn Counties. He won high commendation for his fair and impartial administration of justice.

His mind was always analytical, logical and inductive, with a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the fundamental principles of the law, he combined a familiarity with statutory laws and a sober, clear judgment which made him not only a formidable adversary in a legal combat but gave him the distinction of being one of the ablest jurists of the state.

In the death of Judge Thompson, Iowa has lost one of its noblest citizens, beloved by all who knew him. But few men in Iowa were better and more favorably known, and it is a universal expression that the State of Iowa has suffered a great loss in his death.

In honor of his memory it is therefore.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered in the Journal of the Senate and that the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to mail an engrossed copy of the same to the surviving members of the family of the decedent.

Senator Fitchpatrick, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

To the President of the Senate: Your Special Committee to prepare resolutions upon the character and public services of the late Senator Ericson, beg leave to report as follows:

Charles John Alfred Ericson was born in Sodra Vi Parish, Sweden, March 8, 1840. The family emigrated to America in 1852, settling on a farm in Rock Island County, Illinois, where Charles worked on the farm, and in saw mill and flouring mill, and as clerk in a store, attending the common schools in the meantime until May, 1859, when he removed to Mineral Ridge, Boone County, Iowa, and there engaged in the general merchandise business, buying and shipping stock and acting as postmaster. In 1870 he removed his store to the city of Boone; in 1875 engaged in banking.

He died at his home in Boone, August, 1910, in less than a week after returning, in good health, from a trip around the world.

He represented his county as a member of the Fourteenth General Assembly and Boone and Story Counties as Senator in the Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, and Thirty-second General Assemblies, discharging his duties with honor and distinction, and he held many local offices.

He was always ready to help the poor and needy, which he did without show or ostentation, and his benevolences were large and varied. He took great interest in matters for the education of the youth, giving a large endowment to the Swedish College at Rock Island, built and donated to the city of Boone a splendid library building, and liberally contributed to numerous other objects of like nature. He took an active interest in Masonic affairs and in the affairs of the Presbyterian church, in both of which organizations he was an honored member.

Therefore resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa, with sorrow regret the death of the late Senator Ericson and tender to his family, friends, and associates, the sincere sympathy of this body; that in his death the state has lost one of its most honored citizens and his home city one of its greatest benefactors; that this preamble and resolution be printed in the Journal and an engrossed copy thereof duly authenticated be sent to the city library of Boone.

Senator Ames, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to take recognition of the death of Senator Whipple, and to offer resolutions commemorative of his life, character and public service, respectfully submit the following:

William P. Whipple was born December 26, 1856, on a farm near the city of Vinton, Iowa, and grew to manhood thereon. He graduated from the high school in Vinton and immediately thereafter entered the State University, taking the full collegiate and law courses therein and receiving his law degree in 1878. Soon thereafter he entered upon the practice of his profession in his home city of Vinton, and continued in such vocation up to the time of his death. He early reached high rank in the profession and was a recognized leader of the bar in his district.

He was first elected to the Senate from the Benton-Tama district in 1901 and re-elected in 1906, serving in the Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-second Special and Thirty-third General Assemblies. At the very beginning of his legislative career he took high place and held it with increasing influence and power to the end of his service in the Senate.

From an appreciation written of the Senator soon after his death by an intimate personal friend, we quote, with approval, the following:

"One of the most vivid memories of my early University days is that of the face of a big-browed youth from Vinton, William P. Whipple. It was a face that at once and always challenged attention. You felt instantly that you were in a 'presence'. You expected him, when he spoke, to know what he was going to say before he said it. He looked deliberation, maturity, mastery. He was great enough to have brought honor to himself, his state, or his country in any station, however exacting or exalted. But he was too gentle and retiring to engage in strife for place, and too modest to indulge in self-exploitation. The honors that actually came to him were not of his procurement but the sincere tribute of those who had gone near enough to him to see his great, good heart, and to get the true measure of his mind. * * * He would have made an attorney-general surpassed by none in the history of the state. There was enough of the executive in his endowments to have rendered him illustrious as the head of our commonwealth. His was, however, more markedly a judicial temper. His well stored mind, his mastery of the law as a science, his clearness of reasoning, his ability to recall precedent and apply principle, would soon have brought him fame as a member of our supreme court, and the name 'Whipple' attached to any opinion emanating from that tribunal would have given it added weight.

"Senator Whipple was the author of many important measures, though he competed with no member as to the number of bills he might introduce. He had little of the 'beat 'em to it' in his make up and never wrote any bill merely to get his name into the journal or into the public mouth. His most conspicuous services were rendered as a member of the committee to supervise the publication and distribution of the Code Supplement in 1902; as the chairman of the Committee to investigate the state educational institutions in 1904; and as the author of the bill under which they are now controlled and administered. But while these services and the bills—which he personally introduced—brought forth his name, they were not by any means a measure of his value to the state. The best work of every sincere legislator is done in the quiet of the committee room or as a member of some sub-committee in charge of some bill with which his name may never be associated—sometimes far from the public eye—where the heart is open to one's colleagues, where views are frankly given and where each member gets the full benefit of every other's experience, reasoning and opinion. Whipple was, when necessary, a power on the floor, but he was relatively stronger and more helpful still in the committee room where his keen analysis, broad grasp, large information, and splendid reasoning powers made him invaluable to his colleagues."

Senator Whipple left surviving him his widow, formerly Jennie E. Keith, an adult son, Milo, and a little daughter, Virginia, to all of whom he was deeply devoted and to whom his untimely death was a heavy crushing blow.

We, his colleagues, who knew him so well and loved him so much, do therefore resolve that in his death there has been taken out of the life of the community one of its most exalted citizens; out of the life of the state one of its most conspicuously efficient public servants and out of Senate itself a legislator who gave the best that was in him to his colleagues without stint or hesitancy and with never a thought as to where credit would rest.

We, therefore, recommend that this memorial be printed in our Journal and that the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to forward an engrossed copy of the same to the family of our deceased friend.

THOS. H. SMITH,

Committee.

Senator Taylor, in moving the adoption of the report, spoke as follows:

Mr. President: Having known Hon. Henry C. Traverse since I was a small boy and having resided in adjoining counties and, as it were, being neighbors in our boyhood days, I will ask the indulgence of the Senate while I pay a brief tribute to the memory of one of the early pioneers and respected citizens of the State of Iowa. One who has occupied a conspicuous place among the business men of the State of Iowa for nearly one-half of a century, as a soldier, statesman, patriot, Jurist, business man and philanthropist he was equally great.

Hon. Henry Clay Traverse was born August 28th, 1839. When only four years of age and after the death of his father, he came with his mother to Monroe County, Iowa, a few years later moving to Davis county, Iowa, where he grew to manhood. In early manhood he studied law, his chosen profession, and was admitted to the bar in 1862 at Bloomfield, Iowa. But soon after his admission to the bar the clouds of war hovering over his country, he enlisted in Co. F. of the 30th Iowa infantry of which he was made Orderly Sergeant in which capacity he served during the war, that regiment being attached to the 15th Army Corps, commanded by General Sherman and afterward by Gen. Logan. Mr. Traverse participated in a number of the most important battles of the war such as Haynes Bluff, Arkansas Roost, the siege of Vicksburg, Lookout Mountain and Mission Ridge. Upon his discharge from the service he returned to Bloomfield, Iowa, and entered the law practice and in a short time built up a thriving business.

Judge Traverse was a man respected by all men who knew him. He had been a prominent figure in the affairs of Southern Iowa for many years and had served with honor on the bench for fourteen years. He was a student of men and books and sought always to learn the way of the truth. He exemplified a life that makes the world brighter and life better worth the living.

Mr. Traverse's home life was ideal because love reigned there and inspired every word and act spoken and done by husband and father. He was a devout student of God's word and a man of prayer. He will be remembered as a humble and sincere Christian man, devoted to the interests of the church, both temporal and spiritual. His last testimony to those about him during the last days of his illness was a triumphant hope and faith in the fullness of the promises of the gospel of Christ. In all the circles of society in which he has moved for fifty years, Judge Traverse will be missed.

In business the far seeing cagacity and careful judgment was not dimmed by the weight of years and to our faithful friend and respected citizen we bid farewell. The walls of that temple in which his pure aspiring spirit had its earthly abiding place for over three score years is crumbling to ashes and will soon mould in dust away, but the indomitable spirit of noble aim, of glorious purpose, of imperious will, of dauntless courage, of sweet simplicity and of Christian character has come to its coronation.

The resolutions were adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

Senator Chapman, from a special committee, submitted the following report, and moved its adoption:

MR. PRESIDENT—Your Committee appointed to draft resolutions upon the life and services of the Honorable Sewell S. Farwell, late of Monticello, Iowa, beg leave to submit herewith the following report:

Sewell S. Farwell was born in Coshocton County, Ohio, April 26, 1834; he died at Monticello, Iowa, September 21, 1909. He was educated in the common schools and at Keene Academy in his native county, and in a school at Cleveland, Ohio. He removed to Jones County, Iowa, in 1852, with his father's family, thence to Pella, engaging in the mercantile business until 1854, when he removed to Clay County, Kansas, residing there until 1859, when he returned to Iowa, locating on a farm near Monticello. He assisted in raising and was made Captain of Company H, 31st Iowa Infantry, and on May 31, 1865, he was promoted and commissioned Major.

He served throughout the war, was present at the grand review in Washington, and was mustered out June 27, 1865. Of his company more than half lost their lives in the service. To commemorate the lives of those who enlisted at Monticello, Major Farwell recently presented a monument to the local cemetery. In 1865 he was elected state senator, serving through the Eleventh and Twelfth General Assemblies. He took an active part in the administration and shaping of the laws of the state in these General Assemblies, and was very earnest and conscientious in his work, having the full confidence of the people of his district.

General Grant appointed him assessor of internal revenue, in which place he served for four years, and was then appointed in 1874 as collector of internal revenue, in which capacity he served for six years. In 1880 he was elected from the Second Congressional District of Iowa to serve in the Congress of the United States. Here again he served the people in the energetic, conscientious, manner that was always characteristic of Major Farwell.

Upon his retirement from Congress he immediately took an active interest in the affairs of Jones County, and Monticello in particular, working for the best interest of the people and striving always for the betterment of humanity. He was active in the advancement of education, and in this work he was a man of most noble spirit. He was always ready and willing to give of his means, his time and his splendid abilities to help in advancing every good public cause. He was untiring in his industry, always insisting upon the highest integrity in public service and aiming at the highest standard of morality and honesty in all the walks of life. He was ever ready to aid by wise and patient advice, the young, especially those who were poor in this world's goods, helping them in every way to receive the advantages of education.

To Major Farwell is largely due the growth, high standard and success of Lennox College at Hopkinton, Iowa. He devoted to this his energy, his time, his means, and influence, for half a century, and many the youths of our state who have received the benefits of that school have reason to hold in grateful memory his friendship and generosity. He was always courteous, and endeavored at all times to sympathize with those in distress and substantially aid the poor or needy in his community. He always gladly extended a helping hand to those deserving of aid and sympathy.

Therefore Be it Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa has Eleventh and Twelfth General Assemblies, departed this life in his home in Monticello, Iowa, on the 21st day of September, 1909,

Therefore Be it Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa has heard with great sorrow and regret of his death and it recognizes that in his departure the State of Iowa has lost one of her honored and useful citizens, who rendered great and lasting service to his state. In his service as a member of this body he was a valued legislator, counselor and servant, distinguished by his ability and eloquence and his integrity in public duty.

Resolved that the Senate of the State of Iowa joins with his neighbors and friends in sorrow and regret and hereby tenders to his family its sincere sympathy in this time of great bereavement.

Be it Further Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in the Journal of the Senate and that an engrossed copy authenticated by the President and Secretary be sent to the widow and family of the deceased.

Senator W. S. Allen, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your special committee appointed to draft and present resolutions commemorative of the life, character and public services of the Honorable Alexander Brown, late a member of the Senate in the Nineteenth General Assembly, now beg leave to submit the following as their report:

Alexander Brown was born near Carbondale, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, May 3, 1837, and died at Keosauqua, Iowa, August 10, 1910. He was of Scotch descent, his parents emigrating to America in about the year 1820, and settling in the state of New York.

When the subject of this sketch was only five years of age the family removed to the town of Keosauqua in Van Burn County, State of Iowa, at which place the father died five years later. Here the son, Alexander, attended the public school and studied law under George G. Wright, afterwards Chief Justice, and United States Senator from Iowa, and there he was admitted to the bar in 1859. In the fall of 1861 he enlisted in Company "E" of the Fifteenth Regiment, Iowa Infantry, in response to his country's call for volunteers in defense of the Union. On March 1, 1862, he was promoted to Sergeant Major of his regiment. Soon after this the regiment was sent to the front and first participated in the battle of Shiloh, where it was heavily engaged, coming out of the battle with a casualty list of 213 killed, wounded and missing. In this action Major Brown was severely wounded in the hip, but recovered in time to reach his regiment and participate with it in the battle of Corinth, October 3, 1862, in which engagement he was again wounded; this time dangerously in the shoulder. This wound rendered him incapable for further active military service in the field. He was, therefore, discharged upon the surgeon's certificate of disability, in February, 1863, and returned to his home. Shortly afterward he was appointed to a clerkship in the office of Provost Marshal Robert Rutledge at Burlington, which position he held until October, 1865, when he returned to Keosauqua.

In the fall of 1867 he was elected County Judge of Van Buren County, and held this office until it was abolished by legislative enactment two years later. He was then elected Auditor of the county and served in that capacity for six years, after which he entered upon the practice of his chosen profession, that of the law, and soon established a reputation as an able and conscientious lawyer, enjoying the fullest confidence of the bench, bar and people.

He was elected to the State Senate in 1881 and secured important legislation in relation to river bridges and abandoned railroad rights-of-way.

In 1894 he was elected County Attorney of Van Buren County, serving two terms. He was mayor of Keosauqua continuously for a period of ten years, until 1908, when, on account of growing infirmities, he declined to run again for that office. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity and also of the Grand Army of the Republic.

It would seem superfluous to eulogize this man—his record alone is sufficient, and is eloquent of his qualities and services. That record shows that when an orphan he had a serious purpose to make something worth while of life and that he contended with, and overcame, the obstacles which lay in his pathway. His popularity was well deserved, and no man of his county was held in higher esteem by all classes.

In 1870 Judge Brown was married to Mary Rankin, who survived him, and his domestic life was most beautiful.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa has learned with profound sorrow and regret of the death of the Honorable Alexander Brown, and that in the death of this prominent citizen, his city, county, and state have suffered a great loss and from his immediate family there has been called away one whose place can never be filled.

Be It Further Resolved, That these resolutions be entered in the Journal of the Senate and that an engrossed copy be authenticated by the President and Secretary and be sent to the family of the deceased.

Senator McManus, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Your committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions on the life, character and public service of the late Judge Henry H. Trimble of Keokuk, Iowa, would respectfully submit the following report and resolutions:

Judge Trimble was born in Dearborn County, State of Indiana, February 10, 1824, his parents removing to Rush County, and later to Shelby County, then an unsettled County in Indiana. Here they cleared a farm in the big woods, where the boy lived until he was fourteen years of age. He had a very limited opportunity for attending school, but was determined to secure an education. The boy of fourteen sold his cherished horse, given him by his grandfather, and used the money to go to school six months at Shelbyville, a small town, but a metropolis of the frontier. He later attended school at Woodfield, Ohio. Then at the age of sixteen he taught school in Bartholomew County, Indiana; and, with the savings, bought a term or two of instruction at a little pioneer college at Franklin, Indiana. He attended for two years the University of Indiana. From this university he went to Asbury University, now De Pauw, which graduated him in 1847. After receiving his diploma, he enlisted in the Fifth Indiana Volunteers and served in that regiment until the close of the war with Mexico. Returning from Mexico, he taught school in Shelbyville, Ind., in the meantime studying law with Thomas A. Hendricks and Eden H. Davis. After completing his law studies Mr. Trimble came to Iowa in 1850, arriving at Bloomfield in February, and being admitted to the Iowa bar in April of that year. Six months after arriving in Iowa he was elected County Attorney, and re-elected in 1852. He took an active interest in politics, and while a leader of his party, was never a place-seeker. In 1856 Mr. Trimble was elected State Senator, sitting in the last legislature to meet in Iowa City, and the first to meet in Des Moines. In 1861 he had a leading part in organizing the Third Iowa Cavalry, of which he was made Lieutenant Colonel. He was an efficient and courageous officer. At the battle of Pea Ridge he was severely wounded, and was obliged to leave the service. Returning from the civil war, he was elected District Judge, and was selected by his party for various honorable and important positions, but as he belonged to the minority party, seldom reached the goal for which he was so admirably fitted. His life was filled with activity, and he left a record that cannot be forgotten by the people of his adopted state.

His successors in the body of which he was an honored member, desiring to place on record their esteem and appreciation of his honored career, hereby Resolve, That in the death of Henry Hoffman Trimble, the state has lost one of her honored and useful citizens, who rendered great and lasting service to his state. That he was a valuable legislator in the early history of the state, in its formative period, and was distinguished by his ability, eloquence, and integrity in public duty.

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Iowa joins with his neighbors and friends in sorrow and regret at his loss, and hereby tenders to the family its sincere sympathy in this time of bereavement.

Be It Further Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in the Journal of the Senate, and that an engrossed copy, authenticated by the President and Secretary, be furnished the family.

Respectfully submitted,

Senator Garrett, from a special committee, submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Mr. President: Your committee appointed to draft resolutions commemorative of the life and public services of the late Samuel McNutt, beg leave to submit the following resolutions and recommend their adoption:

Samuel McNutt was born in Londonderry, Ireland, November 21, 1822. His ancestry was of that Scotch immigration which went into Ireland some two and a half centuries ago, and which in two hundred years has furnished our country with some of the best people that have builded this nation. His ancestors were distinguished in connection with the border chivalry of Scotland and in the events of the Covenanter days. When quite small, his parents brought him to America, and made their home in the State of Delaware, where young McNutt grew to manhood. Here he did the ordinary work of a farmer's boy, and attended school. He early showed aptitude for literature, furnishing contributions, partly poetical, to leading literary publications of the time, using the title "A Harmony Scholboy," Harmony being the name of the school district where was his home. Some of his productions had wide circulation at the time. Graduating at Delaware College in 1848, he for some years taught school, and was for three years President of the New Castle County Teachers' Association. Having meantime read law with the then Secretary of State of Delaware, he was in 1851 admitted to the bar. He then for three years held a chair in a college in the State of Mississippi. In 1854, he came to Muscatine, Iowa, and bought himself a farm. Not long after coming to Iowa he was principal in one of the schools of Muscatine. His journalistic training led him back to newspaper work and he was for a year or two editor of the Muscatine Enquirer, at the time a journal of much prominence in the state. In 1857, he became associated with Joseph B. Dorr (afterwards Colonel of the Eighth Iowa Cavalry) in the editorial work of the Dubuque Express and Herald, then the leading Democratic paper in the state. When the war began, Mr. McNutt announced himself as strongly in favor of the most vigorous measures for suppressing the rebellion. In that interest, he published for a short time a paper known as the Daily Evening Union, at Dubuque. Subsequently he was for a brief period one of the editors of the Dubuque Times. Returning to the County of Muscatine in 1862, he was the next year elected by the Republicans of the County to the House of Representatives and was twice re-elected. In that body he was urgent for legislative control of railroads and introduced bills looking in that direction. He was chosen to the Senate in 1869, serving through the Thirteenth and Fourteenth General Assemblies, the latter of which enacted the Code of 1873, in which Mr. McNutt took an active part. He was a safe and sagacious legislator and an earnest advocate of what he thought to be right. Later in life he was appointed by President Harrison Consul to Maracaibo, Venezuela.

April 14, 1857, he was united in marriage with Anna Lucas, a niece of Robert Lucas, twice Governor of Ohio, and afterwards Governor of the Territory of Iowa. To this union were born three sons: Dr. Robert S. of Muscatine; W. L., now of Ord, Nebraska, and S. B. McNutt.

It has been well said of him that just prior to the war, during that convulsion, and after it for some years he was one of the men most talked of in Iowa. Throughout all the active years of his useful life he was more or less prominent in the history of our state. He continued in vigorous health until within a few weeks of his decease, which event occurred on the morning of January 10, 1911. He was much interested in the work of the Pioneer Lawmakers' Association.

Resolved, by the Senate, That in the death of Honorable Samuel McNutt the state has lost one of her most useful and honored citizens, the memory of whose life and service will long remain with all.

That the Senate extends to his family its sincere sympathy.

Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in the Journal and a copy thereof engrossed and duly authenticated by the President and Secretary of the Senate be presented to his family.

Senator Garrett, in moving the adoption of the report, spoke as follows:

Mr. President: In these days of increasing varieties of pursuits and increasing complexities, the lives of the good and strong of character are an inspiration to all of us.

Of those who have left their mark upon the pages of our state's history there are few who have set a higher standard than Samuel McNutt.

He was of the plain people, believing in the dignity of true manhood, devotion and loyalty to his home, his friends, and his country.

To these he gave the full measure of life's service.

The world is richer because of his faithful life.

Senator Jewell from a Special Committee submitted the following report and moved its adoption:

Whereas, Since the last session of the General Assembly, Martin N. Johnson, formerly a member of this body, has departed this life, now be it

Resolved, That therefore this tribute be offered to his memory:

Martin Nelson Johnson was born in Racine county, Wis., March 3, 1850; he died at Fargo, N. D., October 21, 1909. When yet in his infancy, he was taken by his father to the family's new home in Winneshiek county, Iowa. In due time young Johnson entered the State University, graduating in 1873. He was for a short time after his graduation instructor in the California Military Academy at Oakland. Returning to Iowa he was admitted to the bar in 1876. He had just been chosen a member of the House of Representatives from his home county. In that body he was made chairman of the Committee on the State Library. In 1877 he was elected a member of the State Senate, being in that body when the prohibitory amendment to the Constitution was adopted for submission to the next General Assembly, and supported that measure. In 1880 he was chairman in the same committee in the Senate. While a Senator he secured the adoption of statutory provision under which persons applying for opportunity to teach special subjects are allowed to take examination for such specialty without being required to take a general examination. In 1876 Mr. Johnson was an elector for President and Vice President, casting his vote for Hayes and Wheeler. In 1884 he removed to the territory of Dakota, and there entered the land which was his home to the last. He was prosecuting attorney for a couple of years, and was president of the body that drafted the Constitution of the State of North Dakota. In this convention he resolutely contended against a bicameral legislature, making a strong fight for a legislature with only one house, citing as precedent many other states and countries, including that of his ancestors, Norway. The convention, however, adopted the plan of a legislature with two bodies. When the first legislature met Mr.

Johnson was nominated by the Republican caucus for United States Senator, but a combination of disaffected Republicans with the minority party defeated him in the Joint Convention of the General Assembly. He was chairman of the first Republican convention of the state. In 1890 he was elected to Congress, representing the entire state. He was re-elected four times, serving as a member of the Committee on Ways and Means, and as such participating in framing the tariff law of 1897. He voluntarily retired from Congress in 1889 to become a candidate for United States Senator. Defeated in his candidacy he returned to farming and grain dealing. In 1908 he was again a candidate for United States Senator, and in 1909 was elected by the legislature as a member of that body, taking his seat March 4, 1909.
