I saw while in congress and since have seen in Washington and everywhere the representatives of great privilege insisting that the interest of the few shall be put above the rights of all the people. Where do you find this controversy manifesting itself? Wherever you attempt to give effective control of great corporations. If, for instance, an effort is made to create a utility board, or provide means of regulating corporations you find the opposition. You know where it comes from. In Washington I saw a railroad lobby for ten years prevent the carrying out of the recommendation of the interstate commerce commission asking for larger power. No arguments made on the other side, but somehow there was a silent pressure that was sufficient to overcome the people's demand. Rebates, favors and discriminations continued. The people cried out for relief but their voice was not heard because around the Capitol were the paid representatives of these great interests who succeeded in stifling the public conscience and defeating the public will. I saw for more than a decade efforts made to stop the pass. A man who would indignantly deny that a pass was proper would accept one and refuse to carry out the party platform. But we are making progress. At last the demand was strong enough to coerce a congress and we found congress enlarging the powers of the commission and we found congress abolishing the pass. At last as this last session of congress was about to die we found a bill passed which provided for the physical valuation of railroads. Is it not strange that so simple a proposition could be obstructed so long. Do you know why the people should not know how much it would cost to re-build a railroad, except if they did know they would want legislation that they would not now demand? In other words, predatory interests have kept the people in the dark.

I dissolve all doubts on the side of the people. If a measure comes up and they say it is unconstitutional, I ask is it desirable and if they say it is, I say let the courts decide if it is unconstitutional. But if it is desirable and the legislature decides to pass it you can rest assured the courts will prevent any injustice. Therefore, give the benefit of the doubt to the people if the thing proposed is desirable. Do you know of any argument that can be made against legislation that will provide effective restraint for corporations? A corporation is a creature of law. It has no natural rights. When you deal with a human being you come in contact with natural and inalienable rights but you have no such difficulty when dealing with a corporation. A corporation has no rights except those given it by law and if you give it all the rights a human being has and then the additional rights that are conferred by law, the man-made-man becomes more powerful than the God-made man. It is only fair to insist that there shall be some power somewhere that shall act as a restraint upon every corporation that is created by law. The people can not be presumed to create a corporation for public injury, and they can not assume that that corporation shall act as judge in its own case and decide impartially for the people. It is too much to expect of the corporation. We would not expect it of the best judge we ever elevated to power. I suggest that in every state in this union as in the nation at large there should be some official elected by the people who shall have power to say to every corporation, thus far shalt thou go and no farther. I would suggest that it might be a good thing to provide by law that every corporation should keep hanging up in its chief office a motto taken from the bible, "Remember now thy creator."

Just one other subject. I do not know whether you are dealing with it or not. I was in Nebraska yesterday. I found that our legislature there was dealing with it. It was the question as to the power, the right of a local community to own its own franchises. Should the city be permitted to own its own franchises or should it be compelled to hire people to do its work. The question which comes in regard to cities also comes up in regard to counties and these come in response to conditions. Remedies are never suggested until the diseases are discovered. In our state they are trying to decide whether the state shall be permitted to own and operate any municipal franchises that it desires to own and operate, and whether a county shall be permitted to own and operate these things. The crucial question just now is whether a county shall be permitted to have a telephone system owned by the people. We have people in Nebraska who think the county ought to be permitted to own and operate a telephone system. Is it not strange that any intelligent man should be willing to represent so unintelligent a community as one that can not attend to such matters? Do you suppose that question would ever rise unless a telephone company had more influence with some man than all of the people who voted for him? Is it possible that any intelligent man should doubt either the right or the capacity of the people to do these things? If there is a man who doubts the capacity of the people to do these things, let me suggest to you if there are any special privileges that are very valuable to secure without the public consent, they had better secure them soon for the age for such things is rapidly passing away. When the time has come and these things are no longer possibilities but realities you will wonder why it was there was any doubt about what the people had a right to do or what they could do.

I have talked longer than I expected. Let me sum up in a single word what I have said. The world is moving on toward popular government. The world is coming to understand that the government that rests for its just powers upon the consent of the governed, the government responsive to the will of the people is the most just of governments, the most wise of governments and the strongest of governments. When I was in college I heard the three different kinds of governments defended by different arguments. Friends of democracies insisted it was the most just, friends of the aristocratic insisted it was the most wise, friends of monarchy insisted it was the strongest of government. I am not willing to accept arguments in favor of aristocratic or monarchial governments, and I believe it is true that the democratic is the most just of governments and I believe it is also true that the democratic is the wisest of governments, for the government that rests upon the wisdom of all the people is wiser than the government that rests upon but a fraction. I believe the democratic is the strongest of governments. I am prepared to endorse the sweeping statement made by the great historian Bancroft who said that the Republic was the strongest of governments because it dared to discard the implements of war and build its citadel in the hearts of men. Governments are strong in proportion as they are supported by the hearts of people. Love is the most potent force in government as it is the most potent force in social life. When people love their government it is strong; when they do not it is weak. I beg of you to make the government of this nation and state strong by building them upon the love of the people and you can not do it unless you trust the people and let them control their government and let them make it their agent for accomplishing what they want to accomplish for the defense of their rights and protection of their welfare.

The general accounts of every such investment company, domestic or foreign, shall be kept in a businesslike and intelligent manner and in sufficient detail that the secretary of state can ascertain at any time its financial condition; and such books of account shall at all times during business hours, except on Sundays and legal holidays, be open to stockholders and investors in said companies and to the secretary of state or his duly authorized representatives.

Sec. 8. The secretary of state shall have general supervision and control as provided by this act over any and all investment companies, domestic or foreign, doing business in this state and not expressly exempted, and all such investment companies shall be subject to examination by the secretary of state or his duly authorized representative at any time the said secretary of state may deem it necessary. The right, powers and privileges of the secretary of state in connection with such examination shall be the same as is now provided with reference to examination of state banks; and such investment companies shall pay a fee for each of such examination of not to exceed six dollars ($6) for each day or fraction thereof spent by the said secretary of state or his duly authorized representative while absent from the capitol in making such examination, and also the actual traveling and hotel expenses of said examiner, and upon failure or refusal of any such investment company to pay such fees upon the demand of the secretary of state, or his duly authorized representative, the secretary of state may cancel its right to do business in this state until such fee is paid.

Sec. 9. Whenever it shall appear to the secretary of state that the assets of any investment company doing business in this state are impaired to the extent that such assets do not equal its liabilities or that it is conducting its business in an unsafe, unfair, inequitable or unauthorized manner, or is jeopardizing the interest of its stockholders or investors in stocks, bonds or other securities by it offered for sale in this state, or whenever any investment company shall fail or refuse for a period of thirty (30) days to file any papers, statements or documents required by this act without giving reasons therefor satisfactory to the secretary of state, he shall at once cancel the right of said investment company to continue to do business in this state.

Sec. 10. Any investment company or person who shall knowingly and willfully subscribe to or cause to be made any false statement or false entry in any book of such investment company, or exhibit any false paper with the intention of deceiving any person authorized to examine the affairs of such investment company, or shall knowingly of willfully make or publish any false statement of the financial condition of such investment company, or the stocks, bonds or other securities by it offered for sale shall be deemed guilty of a felony; and upon the conviction of any such investment company of such felony it shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000), and the secretary of state may forthwith cancel the right of said investment company to transact business in this state; and upon the conviction of a person of such felony he shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000), and he may be imprisoned for not more than ten years, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 11. Any stock broker, agent or other person, unless expressly exempted from the provisions of this act, who shall sell or attempt to sell the stocks, bonds or other securities of any investment company (domestic or foreign), which has not complied with the provisions of this act, or who shall do or attempt to do business for any such investment company, which has not complied with the provisions of this act, or who shall upon demand refuse to exhibit his duly registered certificate of registration received from the secretary of state, or who shall violate any of the other provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined for each of such offenses not less than one hundred dollars ($100) nor more than five thousand dollars ($5000) or by imprisonment in the county jail of not more than ninety (90) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 12. All fees herein provided for shall be collected by the secretary of state and by him turned in to the state treasurer on the first secular day of each month; and the secretary of state shall keep a record of the receipts and expenditures incurred in carrying out the provisions of this act. The secretary of state is hereby authorized to appoint such clerks and deputies as the executive council deem actually necessary to carry this act into full force and effect; but none of whom shall be related by blood or marriage to such secretary of state. The compensation of such clerks and deputies shall be fixed by the executive council. Before the salary and expenses of any such clerk or deputy shall be paid, a detailed and itemized statement of account shall be prepared by such claimant and duly verified, which verification shall aver that such claim is just, reasonable and wholly unpaid and that the amount therein stated has been expended by such claimant. When said claim has been approved by the secretary of state and audited and allowed by the executive council, it shall be paid by warrant drawn by the auditor of state upon the state treasurer, and there is hereby appropriated out of any money of the state treasury, and not otherwise appropriated, an amount sufficient to meet said salaries and expenses.

Sec. 13. Any investment company, domestic or foreign, or any stock broker, which shall be denied a certificate to transact its business in this state or whose certificate shall be revoked by the secretary of state in pursuance of this act, or any interested citizen of this state, shall have the right to appeal to the executive council of this state from any decision of the secretary of state relating to the provisions of this act, within twenty (20) days from the entry of such decision by serving notice of such appeal upon the secretary of the executive council, and such appeal shall be heard by the executive council under such rules and regulations as they may prescribe.

Sec. 14. Any investment company which has complied with the provisions of this act and received from the secretary of state a certificate authorizing it to offer its securities for sale in this state may appoint one or more stock brokers or agents to act for it; but no such stock broker, except under the provisions of the next section, or agent, or any other person, shall directly or indirectly, do any business for said investment company in this state until he shall first register with the secretary of state and file with such officer his written appointment and authority from said investment company to act as its stock broker or agent and receive from him a certificate showing that such investment company has complied with the provisions of the law and that such person is authorized to act for it. All such certificates shall be subject to revocation by the secretary of state, and unless so revoked shall expire on the 1st day of July of each year. A charge of one dollar ($1) shall be made by the secretary of state for each certificate issued to each stock broker or agent.

Sec. 15. The secretary of state may issue to any stock broker who has been a resident of the state during the last preceding six (6) months an annual permit, which permit shall entitle said stock broker to handle such stocks, bonds or other securities in the state of Iowa as are known to be standard or are well known to be safe and legitimate investments, or such as are found by investigation of the secretary of state to be safe and legitimate stocks, bonds or other securities; provided, however, such stock broker shall file on the first and fifteenth days of each month a detailed list of the stocks, bonds or other securities on hand for sale and also all of those sold by him during the preceding half month and not previously reported; provided further, that said secretary of state shall have authority to prohibit the stock broker from handling any of such issues at any time or to cancel said stock broker's permit at any time he decides that said broker is not handling such securities as he deems good and legitimate investments. But the secretary of state of state shall not issue such annual permit to any stock broker until he has first satisfied himself by special investigation as to the character and responsibility of such stock broker and as to the character of the class of stocks, bonds and other securities handled by such stock broker; and also as to his reputation for handling such stocks, bonds and other securities as the secretary of state shall deem to be safe and legitimate investments. In the event the secretary of state shall make any investigation provided for under the provisions of this section, the expense incurred thereby shall be borne by the stock broker so investigated. He shall also pay a fee of fifty dollars ($50) to the secretary of state for each of said annual permits, which permits, unless sooner revoked by the secretary of state, shall expire on the first secular day of July of each year. If said permit is issued after the first of January of any year, the fee shall be reduced one-half. Before being granted such permit by the secretary of state the stock broker shall give a bond in the penal sum of five thousand dollars ($5000) to the state of Iowa, conditioned upon a strict compliance with this act, which bond shall be approved by the executive council and filed with the secretary of state. Said bond shall be forfeited by a violation of the terms or conditions of this act, or by a conviction for such violation, and the attorney general of this state may institute suit in the name of the state of Iowa in any court of competent jurisdiction for a forfeiture thereof at any time within two years from the time the cause of action accrues.

Sec. 16. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prohibit a bona fide owner of any stocks, bonds or other securities, who is at the time a resident of this state, from selling exchanging or otherwise disposing of the same when not made in the course of continuing or repeated transactions of a similar nature, or when the said securities, including negotiable promissory notes, have been issued or given for goods, wares or merchandise purchased or dealt in by the issuer in the ordinary course of his business, or when sold, exchanged or otherwise disposed of to a bank, trust company, insurance company, building and loan association, or to a stock broker duly authorized to transact business within this state, provided that the same are sold by said owner in good faith and not for the purpose of evading the provisions of this act; and the secretary of state may authorize in writing any such bona fide owner of any stocks, bonds or other securities to sell in this state any other securities not included in the provisions set forth in the preceding portion of this section; provided, however, that it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the secretary of state that such stocks, bonds or other securities are safe and legitimate investments, and that they were acquired and held by the owner in good faith, and not for the purpose of evading the provisions of this act, and that said owner desires in good faith to dispose of said securities; but before such authorization shall issue the owner of such securities shall register, in a book kept for that purpose by the secretary of state, the stocks, bonds and other securities desired to be sold, giving the character of the security, the par value thereof, the date of issue, and any other data concerning the same which the secretary of state may require. A certificate fee of one dollar ($1) shall be charged for each such authorization.

Sec. 17. That each and every certificate or permit granted by the secretary of state under the provisions of this act to any investment company or to any stock broker, agent or representative thereof or to any other person, shall have printed across its face in bold type the statement: "The secretary of state in no wise recommends the stocks, bonds or other securities offered for sale by this (investment company, stock broker, agent, representative or person, as the case may be)"; and any investment company or any stock broker, agent or representative thereof or any person who shall refer to such certificate or permit in any advertisement or printed matter of any kind shall also print in said advertisement or printed matter, with equal prominence, the statement: "The secretary of state in no wise recommends the stocks, bonds or other securities herein referred to".

Sec. 18. In the construction of this act the following definitions shall be followed, unless such construction would be inconsistent with the manifest intent or repugnant to the context of the statute:

1. That the name "investment company" as used in this act shall include every corporation or concern, however constituted, now or hereafter organized, which shall sell or cause to be sold or offered for sale, take subscriptions for, or negotiate for the sale of any stocks, bonds or other securities of any kind or character to any person or persons in the state of Iowa. But nothing in this act shall be construed to make the provisions thereof apply to state, savings, private or national banks, loan and trust companies, or corporations not organized for profit.

2. The name "domestic" as used in this act shall apply to those corporations or concerns incorporated or organized under the laws of Iowa or having their principal place of business in the state of Iowa; and the word "foreign shall apply to those corporations or concerns organized under the laws of another state or having their principal place of business outside of the state of Iowa.

3. The name "stock broker" as used in this act shall include every person, set of persons, association, company, co-partnership or corporation, who shall deal in stock, bonds or other securities covered by this act, or who shall sell, offer or negotiate for the sale, in the state of Iowa, of any stock, bonds or other securities covered by this act, or who shall underwrite or purchase such securities and re-sell them to any person or persons in the state of Iowa as a commission or profit.

4. The name "agent" as used in this act shall include any persons who shall act for any investment company or stock broker, offering for sale, taking subscriptions for, or negotiating for the sale of, or selling any securities for any investment company or stock broker, either as an employee on a salary basis or for a commission.

O, Thou by whom we come to God,
The Life, the Truth, the Way;
The path of prayer thyself hast trod;
Lord, teach us how to pray!

Teach us that we may come before our Father in such a way that this hour may have largest significance for all the interests represented here.

We would recognize that the life we commemorate today was one of the choice gifts of Him who is the giver of every good and perfect gift. We lift our hearts in gratitude to our Heavenly Father, for the large contribution made to the life of our commonwealth by him whom we honor today. We thank Thee for the pioneer spirit with which he entered upon the study of the great questions of our social and political life. We thank Thee for the courage and persistence with which he championed the causes he espoused, for the trust he manifested in the triumph of the right, his confidence in the people, and the high moral and ethical ideals that were dominant in all his public life. We remember with gratitude the singular beauty of his home life, the blessed influence of the home on earth out of which he has gone to the home above. We would recognize that such a life is one of the choicest products of our free institutions, one of the richest treasures of our great commonwealth. We bow in submission to the loving Will that has called him from us, devoutly thanking Thee that he was spared to us for his long public career and for the beautiful twilight of his eventful life.

Oh thou Father of us all, wilt Thou be our teacher today. Speak through Thy servant who shall bring us the message of the hour, speak through the events that we shall live over in our thought, speak through the associations of this day. Help us that we may be ready learners. May this be an hour of consecration to the highest ideals in public, business and home life, that we may be more sacrificial in our citizenship, more unselfish in our friendship, more ready to follow in the footsteps of Him who went about doing good. May the influence of this gathering go out to the homes of our state, to our young manhood, calling it to a high faithfulness to the trusts of our age.

We pray for our chief magistrate and those who are associated with him, for the members of our legislature, for all our citizenship that together we may work out a high destiny for our great commonwealth and that we may make a worthy contribution to the life of our great nation.

For those who knew best and loved most dearly our deceased friend we pray the benediction of Thy comfort. May the hearts of this widow and these children be filled with a sense of holy triumph through the tender ministrations of Him who has promised, I will not leave you comfortless, may they be comforted in each other and may the fathers mantle fall upon his sons.

Make this a holy hour, one that shall leave a permanent impress for good upon us all and one that shall have large significance in the life of our people, and we will give to Thee the praise and the glory through Jesus Christ our risen Lord and Savior.

Governor Clarke, introducing Senator William S. Kenyon, spoke as follows:

Members of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly and Fellow Citizens:

We are met here this afternoon to honor the memory of one of Iowa's most distinguished men; a man who was a defender of the rights of the people; a man who placed the public welfare above every other consideration; a man who gave to the state many years of most distinguished public service; a man who was a safe adviser in both public and private life; a man who was the finest example of high-minded citizenship; a good man; a man whose memory will be cherished in Iowa through many, many years.

I know of no one in this state who was more intimately acquainted with him both in public and private, and indeed his family life, than was Senator Kenyon. I think, therefore, no one could be better prepared than he to speak on this occasion, and it therefore gives me the greatest pleasure indeed to present him to you today. Members of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly—Senator Kenyon.

SENATOR KENYON'S ADDRESS.

Two years ago the legislature of the state paused in its labor to commemorate by fitting service the life of one of Iowa's distinguished citizens who had passed from this world's activities before the time usually given to man. Just as his life had seemingly reached the point of greatest usefulness, by that inscrutible, mysterious working of Providence, he was called to another sphere. Today the legislature again pauses to fittingly observe the life of another great Iowan who likewise has passed to the other shore. Dolliver died before his work was done. For William Larrabee, "the mysterious clock, that marks the three score years and ten," had not run down before its time. He had finished his life work. Like the golden grain waiting to be garnered he was ready. As the parable "First the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear," so it was with him, he had reached full maturity. He was the "Good Man" Milton pictures as "The ripe fruit our earth holds up to God."

After a long and distinguished career, full of years and full of honor, he laid his burden down and passed into the dreamless and mysterious slumber we call death. Every man within the borders of the state when the news came of the death of this beloved citizen might well say, as King David said unto his servants when announcing the death of Abner: "There is 'a great man fallen' in Isreal," for in everything that goes to make real greatness, not one element was missing in William Larrabee, and it is altogether appropriate that his life be commemorated by the state he honored and loved.

While this occasion is one of sorrow, it is likewise one of rejoicing. Our hearts are heavy over our loss and the heartache ever will remain, yet we rejoice over his life accomplishment. His life was a triumph. Men differ from each other in achievement as stars differ from each other in glory. We are proud that he was of our state. We are glad that he cast his lot in Iowa. We glory in what he did for mankind. Our state is better for his life and the inspiration thereof has reached out and touched many a soul who, because of him, will go forward with a more courageous heart, and higher aspiration to fight life's battle. Popular government is better and stronger today because he lived.

His life's story is the story of the opportunity and advancement of the poor boy in this country. It is the story of the plow boy, teacher, miller, banker, statesman. A man to be great should have something to do with the selection of his parents. He could not have more wisely selected. His father was a graduate of West Point, serving with distinction in the war of 1812. His mother was a sterling New England character, from whom he inherited a Puritan conscience.

In early boyhood through accident he lost the sight of one eye. Even in those early days he was a great student. Coming to Iowa when 21 years of age he served as foreman on a farm for two or three years. He was not satisfied to labor for others. He bought a mill in the little village and though it plunged him into thousands of dollars of indebtedness he went forward with a confidence in himself. Men drove from miles to this mill and there are men living in the neighborhood today who will tell you of his influence over them; will tell you of his honesty and unceasing toil. Standing at the hopper in the mill, he had McCauley's History of England and other books, which he studied at every spare moment. He wasted no time. Always a patriot, he was anxious to serve his country in the Civil War. He raised a company, but was denied admission because of the injury to his eye. Had he gone to war he would have achieved great military distinction. Not able to assist at the front, no man assisted more at home in taking care of the families where the fathers and brothers had gone to war. From his mill the soldiers' wives and families would receive free all the flour they needed and he was one of the committee to look after their interests. Even in those early days he exhibited that industry, perseverence, honesty, study and generosity which marked his after years. Such a man will soon make a mark and exert an influence upon the community and it is not strange that he was early called to public service. That public service is an open book to every man in Iowa; on the pages of that book there is not a stain.

I am one of those who believe that the Almighty is working out great purposes in this world.

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform,
He plants his footsteps in the sea,
And rides upon the storm."

And his purposes are steadily marching on.

The transitions of history indicate that some great power is moving on through the instrumentality of finite beings to make this world a better place in which to live; we know it not at the time, but later see clearly. We cannot understand why one man is chosen and another left. They may be men of equal ability, one goes forward—the other stands still. We must believe that there is a destiny shaping our ends in the lives of men and of nations. In this process God had set a great task for William Larrabee as one of His instrumentalities. When the hour struck for action he was ready. He was one of those whom Lowell described as—

"Men with Empires in their brain,"

"Great empires and small minds go illy together,"

said Edmund Burke. The only aristocracy of Governor Larrabee was the aristocracy of brain. He never permitted his soul's ideals to atrophy and die. He knew in his soul the great work he was here to do. The process of preparation was continuous with him. Public life was not for honor, but merely an opportunity for service. He scanned the political horizon and with broad vision saw the larger questions in our political and industrial life, which few seemed to perceive at that time, and on these questions he was twenty-five years in advance of his time. He was as the voice in the wilderness. He sounded the just note of warning against discrimination and unfair railroad rates, and his voice was one of the first to be heard. He knew the transportation question was the most important one for the American people. His book on that subject was the best contribution to the discussion of the times, and he lived to see his theories incorporated in state and federal statutes. Every man who travels the pathway of better legislation for corporate control, finds all along that pathway clear evidence of the blazing of the trail by William Larrabee a quarter of a century ago. At that time he was preaching the doctrine of the open door of equal opportunity, later popularized as the doctrine of the "Square deal."

PUBLIC SERVICE.

William Larrabee was first elected to the state senate in 1867. He occupied a seat in that body for eighteen years, most of the time chairman of the Ways and Means committee. He was nominated and elected governor of the state in 1885, was re-elected in 1887. The political seas were tumultuous during his term of service and it was not an easy task to safely guide the ship of state. His views on public questions are best gathered from his messages to the legislature and his inaugural addresses. They are likewise an index to his political ideals.

In his first inaugural with reference to the industrial question, he said:

"The industrial question, involving the relations between labor and capital, the rate of wages, and the proper distribution of wealth, is by no means a new one, nor does it require the application of new principles for its solution, but rather the reviving of new confidence in old virtue."

On Education:

"The most powerful lever of progress is education. If it is true, as I hold it to be, that ignorance, poverty and crime are intimately related, it is the duty of every state to educate."

His views upon the liquor question at that early date were fixed and firm, as evidenced by the following:

"The saloon is the educational institution which takes no vacation or recess and where the lowest and most pernicious political doctrines are taught. Its thousands of graduates may be found in all positions of wretchedness and disgrace, and are the most successful candidates for our poorhouses and penitentiaries. It is the bank where money, time, strength, manliness, self-control and happiness are deposited to be lost, where drafts are drawn on the widows and orphans, and where dividends are paid only to his Satanic Majesty. Let it perish."

The agricultural interests of the state were close to his heart. In his first biennial message, speaking thereof, he said:

"Agriculture is our chief interest. If it languishes all other interests suffer. It deserves the care and attention of both the state and national legislature. The diseases which affect our live stock are general and can be dealt with effectually and finally only by national authority. I recommend that congress be memorialized by you to make ample appropriations which can be used in emergencies to crush out pleuro-pneumonia, hog cholera and similar contagious diseases. By prompt and energetic action action many millions might be saved."

The agricultural and horticultural societies, fine stock associations and other organizations have been doing good work. These, with farmers' institutes and other methods of awakening the public mind and securing the intelligent application of the best means to produce the highest prosperity upon the farms of Iowa, and the greatest happiness in the homes which beautify the prairies of our state, should be liberally encouraged by the representatives of the people in their legislative action.

His views on railroad legislation were forceful, as set forth in the same message, in part as follows:

"First. I recommend the passage of a law destroying the pass system root and branch. No one should be permitted to ride free except the officers and employes of railroads, and they only when traveling upon the legitimate business of their respective companies. Neither passes nor mileage tickets should be used in payment for services or work of any kind done for railroad companies. Such services and work should be paid for in cash.

"Second. I recommend that maximum passenger fares on first class roads be fixed at two cents a mile. In my judgment increased travel, and receipts from those who formerly traveled on passes will soon make up to the railroad companies any loss they may suffer from this reduction in fares, and the change will prove beneficial both to them and to the people. A large percentage of the business is already done at this rate, but not enjoyed by those least able to pay.

"Third. I recommend the passage of a law fixing reasonable maximum rates of freight on the principal commodities transported by rail; and also authorizing and requiring the railroad commissioners to reduce said rates at any time when, in their judgment, they are too high. If it shall be held that the legislature cannot delegate to the commissioners the power to absolutely fix such rates, then they should be regarded as prima facie reasonable rates. Railroads should not be permitted to raise any freight rate at any time without the approval of the railroad commissioners.

"The companies should be required to furnish sufficient freight cars. There have been, during the present season, hardship and suffering in the midst of plenty, in the northwestern part of the state, because of the failure of the railroads to provide sufficient rolling stock to move the products of that section."

In his second inaugural address, he dealt with all the questions agitating the minds of the people, but laid special stress on the transportation question. He maintained therein that the charges for transportation as prevailing in the state were far too high and bore little or no relation to the cost of service.

Just at this time when the physical valuation bill has passed congress, it is interesting to note the following language from his inaugural:

"Owners of railroads are no more entitled to a perpetual royalty than inventors. For a certain period of time, perhaps as long as similar privileges are enjoyed by patentees, railroads should be allowed liberal returns for their capital and enterprise; and if at the end of such a period it be found that similar roads could be constructed and equipped at a reduced cost, then their rates of transportation should be proportionately reduced."

He had come to the belief that the railroad question was the most important question and he did not hesitate to speak out. Note this language in his second inaugural, the words of a courageous man:

"Railroads have in the course of time usurped powers dangerous to the public welfare, and have practiced extortions perhaps less cruel, but in the aggregate more gigantic, thon those of the British landlord." * * * *

"Thucydides relates how the Grecians, in olden times, engaged in the business of piracy under the command of men of great boldness and ability, and how the men so engaged, both enriched themselves and supported their poor by their booty. They ravaged villages and plundered unfortified places. This was not at that time an employment of reproach, but rather exalted those piratical adventurers in the estimation of their kin. It appears that a class of persons has grown up under the refining influence of our modern age with tendencies similar to those of that sturdy race; and, strange as it may seem, some people even on our soil attribute honor to their practices."

He realized there was a community of interest between the state and its public corporations, but he knew that abuses existed and that the people were determined that such abuses should be corrected. He did not advocate any legislation detrimental to the best interests of railroads, but he demanded that they must submit to proper control. He said:

"Long continued abuses and aggressions will finally arouse the people; and law, the outgrowth of the necessities of the community, will surely, though insensibly, be moulded by public opinion."

Speaking of the railroad commission, he said:

"The railroad commission was created to be a committee of the people obligated to advocate their rights. Organized capital can safely be trusted to defend itself."

His last biennial message is perhaps his greatest state paper, and his guide boards there for men in public life can be followed with safety. He reviewed with the minutest detail the business of the state, and with a comprehensiveness and a clearness that challenges admiration. He had seen the last General Assembly enact the maximum rate law to regulate the rates of common carriers in the state; he had seen it pass both houses without a dissenting vote. He believed in the wisdom of the measure and felt in writing his last message that the great work he had set out to do in the enactment of this railroad legislation, had been accomplished, and it was his greatest work. No change had come over the spirit of his dreams with the reference to the liquor question. Note this language:

"But if we must have the saloon, why place a high tax upon it? We might as well tax the gambling-house and the brothel. It is the theory of our law to tax property for the support of the government. The saloon-tax, however, is as a rule not paid by the owners of large property, but by people of small means. Is it the standard of Iowa manhood to rob women and children of the earnings of their husbands and fathers for the purpose of relieving property owners of the payment of legitimate taxes? Yet it is not true that licensing of saloons reduces taxation, for the increase in the expenses of the courts, poor-houses, and prisons far exceeds the tax collected from the saloon. Besides, three-fourths of the losses and bad debts incurred by business men can be traced directly or indirectly to the evil of intemperance."

And the conclusion of this great message might be read, with profit, to the legislature upon his birthday, as the farewell address of the father of his country is read in the halls of the national congress upon his birthday. Nothing is more indicative of the character of the man than this portion of his message. Was ever a higher appeal to patriotism penned than this:

"It is a high honor to be called upon to legislate for a free people, and a higher one still to so legislate as to enhance the security of life and property, to promote education and morality, to protect the weak and ameliorate the condition of the unfortunate." * * * * * *

Further:

"You should remember that, while wealth and power are always vigilant in the protection of their interests, the weak and the poor must rely upon your sense of fairness and justice for protection. All interests should be given a public hearing, but the character of the men representing such interests and the motives governing their action should be kept in view. Subsidized agents should not be permitted to creep into your confidence in disguise."

Again:

"You cannot afford to ask favors from corporations for your constituents, but you should always demand for them their rights. There is every year a greater disproportion between the rich and the poor; and the legislator should not ignore the tendency of wealth to concentrate, but should carefully consider every measure likely to affect, directly or indirectly, the accumulation and distribution of wealth. * * * * Appropriation bills and other important measures should be presented early and carefully considered, and should, under no circumstances be permitted to be crowded into the closing hours of the session."

That advice ought to be heeded by the national congress as well as state legislature. His guide to duty as a public official was clearly set forth in other words of this remarkable conclusion:

"In the discharge of my official duties it has been my earnest endeavor to promote the welfare of the commonwealth by divesting myself of all personal, local, and partisan considerations, and rendering obedience only to the law and the dictates of my conscience."

Read the great state papers of this country, none are clearer in expression, none purer in diction. His state papers are monuments to his energy, wisdom, sense of clearness and capacity for doing. Governor Larrabee was a thinking, not a talking statesman. He devoted to public service the same energy as to private business, or even more so; he believed a dollar of public money should go as far as a dollar of private money; he believed a man should give even more energy to public life than to private life. Public affairs were to him a sacred trust. There is no doubt that had be desired he could have occupied a seat in the national congress, but he preferred to return to the quietude of his own home; preferred not again to hold public office although if the call of the state should come, and it seemed to him a call of duty, he would respond; this call came when Governor Shaw appointed him on the first board of control. There he served with Judge Kinnie and his good friend John Cownie, in the formative period of the great work carried on by the board of control. In 1904 he was president of the Iowa commission of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. It has been told by one of his good friends, that the only office to which he was really anxious to be elected, was that of road supervisor. He was in advance of his time in road-making, as he was in railroad rate-making. It is passing strange that the apparently small ambition to fill this office was never gratified. Suffice it to say, that had he been elected, his district would have had roads which could have well been taken as models for good road construction.

In all his political life he was never without a strong abiding champion, Conscience.

After his retirement from public life he did not hesitate to partake in the stirring political events and campaigns. He made addresses in Governor Cummins' campaign for re-election and in the Allison-Cummins senatorial campaign. He did not hesitate to break friendship where principle was involved. He broke some close friendships in those campaigns.

In 1906, speaking at Fayette, on the achievement of the Republican party, among things showing that he felt the railroad problem was still an important question in this country, and that had not been finally settled, he said:

"Dividends are paid by the railroads on at least twice as much capital as was ever invested in them by the stockholders; more than one-half the stock issued by them in water, for which no legitimate payment was ever made. The railroads in Iowa are capitalized and dividends are paid on more than twice as much as was ever invested in them by the stockholders. We have heard great complaints of the evils of absentee ownership, and the excessive amounts taken from Ireland by the English and from Cuba by the Spanish, yet we are suffering from the same thing right here in Iowa. Wall Street took in net earnings from the railroads in the state last year, after paying all expenses of operation, all taxes, and large amounts for betterments, over $10,000,000.00 more than it was legitimately entitled to."

Speaking at West Union, in the campaign for Governor Cummins, he sounded this call to duty:

"The battle between right and wrong will not cease until the decay of civilization. Questions are never settled until they are settled right."

It sounds like a clarion note from speeches of Abraham Lincoln.

The golden age of his life was after his retirement from public service. It was the harvest season for him, reaping the result of the good seed he had sown in earlier life.

"Who soweth good seed shall surely reap,
The year grows rich as it groweth old,
And life's latest sands are its sands of gold."

He was greater in retirement than in any other sphere of his life. Different from many men in public life he cared not for its glamour. In a notation in one of his books, referring to Gladstone's retirement, he wrote:

"Gladstone retired on his own motion; showed good sense."

He did not follow as many men do the call of the great city but as Washington at Mt. Vernon, Jefferson at Monticello, Jackson at the Hermitage, he retired to Montauk and to a position of dignity and of great power. As Mt. Vernon is an inspiration to the nation, so is Montauk to the state. The influence thereof was not limited to the county of Fayette, nor to the state of Iowa, but it was nation wide. On an eminence, overlooking the beautiful valley, he built the substantial brick home, always his beloved dwelling place. The surrounding country resembled the New England hills from whence he came. On the lawn he later placed statues of eminent generals, attesting his patriotism. On two sides of the house are acres of pines put out by him in an early day. To the rear, fields of Iowa's fertile soil, an orchard of his own planting; in front a vineyard on the hill. There he could wander through the days, could listen to the music of the pines, look over the vast area stretching before his vision. No city life could be as inspiring as that; no man could be narrow in that atmosphere. It illustrated his wisdom that in laying down the burdens of state, he went back to the old home. Men came from far and near to sit at his feet and learn wisdom; his influence was more powerful at Montauk in those later years than when he occupied the governor's chair, greater than had he occupied a place in the national congress. That house at Montauk with those surroundings always seemed to me a little section of Paradise. His home life was, "A sweet savor wherever happy homes are recognized as the citadel of virtue and the hope of the world." I have so often gone as if on a sacred pilgrimage to Montauk, roamed its fields, rested neath the shade of the old trees, sat in the library with this wonderful man, listening to his words of wisdom. He would relieve the tension of discussion now and then by the music of a Tetrazinni or a Caruso on the Victrola, or the suggestion, "Shall we now listen to a speech from Bryan?" from the same instrument.

The best work of the sculptor graced the home. Beautiful paintings here and there; busts of Lincoln, Sherman, Grant and others. Surrounded by his children, his grandchildren, and a wife who glorified womanhood, and who had been his greatest aid in all his work. Ah! such homes indeed are the foundations of the republic. One might well exclaim with Bobby Burns in the immortal Cotter's Saturday Night:

"From scenes like this, Old Scotia's grandeur springs,
That makes her loved at home, rever'd abroad."

It was an atmosphere in which to meditate; it was an atmosphere to develop the best that is in men and women, and there is little wonder that the sons who have come out from that home have taken prominent positions in our state, and the daughters are beloved in their communities. It could not be otherwise. To know William Larrabee well was to know him in his home, it was a part of himself. He exhibited there a love of knowledge and literature; a mastery of books; a memory of historic incident that was most remarkable. He was an inveterate reader and had an insatiable appetite for knowledge. Going through his library, which contains thousands of volumes of the best reading, and taking here and there a book from the shelves, one finds marginal notes and evidence that he read a book not only once, but twice and thrice; he made friends of books. It was not unusual to find him at six o'clock in the morning reading, and some days he would read all day, retiring early at night.

Through it all, the fairest flower of his life, blooming there and everywhere, was gentleness; a gentleness, however, that did not mean absence of vigor, for when aroused over the abuses that he felt had crept into our body politic or over some wrong in legislation, there would be a flash of the eye, and a firmness of the voice that indicated the fighting qualities of this gentle man.

No one can estimate the value of such a life to a community or a state. One such life can transform the whole community. As I have observed this man in the little village of Clermont, and his wife at her Sunday Bible Class, the good people of the village gathering in, I have felt how blessed is any village or town having one such family within its borders. In the midst of heavy business cares, he never forgot his duties as a citizen. The words of John Milton are so true and applicable to him:

"There is nothing that makes men rich and strong,
But that which they carry inside of them.
Wealth is of heart, not of mind."

While he had what the world called wealth, he had the greater wealth not measured by fields or buildings, or dollars, the wealth of a good heart and clean mind; the wealth of a contented spirit; a wealth of sympathy in humanity's woes. No unfortunate could come to the gates of Montauk and not receive help; no despondent soul but went from its doors with a renewed vision of hope; none who had come for wisdom went emptily away. Schools and colleges attest his generous beneficience. Of whom could it more justly be said:
square dealing, will be written by the legislators because of his influence. Many a youth of the state will strive to be like him; many a deed of kindness done by those who cherish his unselfish life; many a cup of cold water given in his name, and so his spirit ever abideth with us, and so are the words of the scripture fulfilled: "His works do follow him."

On a beautiful day last November there gathered from near and far a great concourse of people to pay their last tribute of love and devotion

"His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him,
That nature might stand up and say to all the world:
This was a man!"

I could not, in the brief period assigned to me for this occasion, undertake to analyze and set forth completely all the characteristics of this splendid man. Naturally when we view such a character who has left his imprint upon the history of our state, we look for the elements of success—there seemed to be many in him. He had a sublime courage, knowing not the meaning of fear. That courage arose from a complete harmony with conscience. There was a persistency in doing in his nature, and a doing for the right—giant power and indomnitable energy. That energy and will power he applied to every task. Goethe has truly said: "The difference between great and little men is the amount of energy applied to their undertakings." Justice was a passion with him, and true indeed as Addison has written: "There is no virtue so truly great and Godlike as justice." Men who are not wise cannot be just. By nature honest not only with others but with himself, imbued with a spirit of fair dealing, he loved the right and hated the wrong. His life was a protest against a life of ease—it was not merely a problem to him of killing time. He had an abhorrence for the shoddy and the sham. He cared nothing for popularity; he knew that fame was a mere passing vapor, and while he despised the wrong, he had a charity that suffered long and was kind. He harbored no malice, but he brooked no compromise. The Sermon on the Mount was his guide. While he was resolute in conviction, he was mild and gentle in manner; exacting yet indulgent; and his children can look back to the vigorous manner in which he was always accustomed to say: "Make no compromise with evil."

Not an orator in the popular acceptance of the term, but yet so possessed with the confidence of the people that they would believe every word he might say, he was a power on the platform. Every man who listened knew that Governor Larrabee would not say one false word; that he would not seek to convey any wrong impression of his position for the sake of gaining an end. How simple his life was, and I am sure that same simplicity he would have desired in death, that he would endorse the letter of Burke to Matthew Smith: "I would rather sleep in some corner of a little country church yard than in the tombs of the Capulets." And in the little country church yard—God's acre—he sleepeth.

These gentle, simple, honest traits made a personality that gripped him to the affections of the people and at the time of his death he was without doubt first in the confidence and affection of the state.

During the closing months of his life, and before election, I visited him several times at Montauk. Because of his physical weakness I could only talk with him for a brief period of time, and would then go out and come back in an hour or so. I knew the shadow of death was near; he knew it also. It haunted his room, it was with him in the waking hours of the night. How brilliant his mind was during all that time. He had set his firm resolution upon one thing, to cast his ballot on election day, and his determination was so great I have never questioned it was the thing that kept him alive during those weeks. In all of those conversations he would say, repeating it again and again: "I have great confidence in the people. They will do the right thing, they will work this problem out." He always had that confidence in the people, elevation to power never took him from the people. I have often wished we had a congress full of William Larrabees—what a congress that would be.

Men can be judged somewhat by the books they read. Governor Larrabee surrounded himself with the best of the world's literature; ancient as well as current. You would find in his library the latest works of eminent authors and all the periodicals of the day. That library was and is an inspiring spot. His admiration for the military is shown by the paintings and busts there. He must have been a disciple of Lincoln, for in his library are three busts of Abraham Lincoln, one painting and a picture; while down in the little village stands a statue of the great emancipator—his gift to the home folks.

On the shelves of the library are found the choicest works of the poets; the best histories and scientific books. You can take down the Lives of American Statesmen; find shelf after shelf devoted to our great generals, and reminiscences of the Civil War; a whole shelf filled with books on the railroad problems; Bryce's American Commonwealth; Ferrero's Greatness and Decline of Rome; Diary of James K. Polk; Letters of Queen Victoria; Van Holst's Constitution of the United States; John Mitchell's Organized Labor; Mirabeau on The French Revolution; Side Lights on Astronomy. A book on School Architecture, which he had studied carefully, together with the plans of the model school building he was constructing as a gift to his town at the time of his death. Also books with reference to the Spanish language, which he commenced to learn when he was 80 years of age. It is most interesting to take down these books and note his comments thereon. They are all marked. In Parson's "Heart of the Railroad Problem," where the author speaks of rebating and railroad officials who permitted rebating, on the margin the governor has written: "Send them to the penitentiary; they are worse than chicken thieves." In the notes of same book the author speaks of the railroads boycotting Lawson day at Ottawa, Kansas, Chautauqua: "Same with LaFollette at Strawberry Point."

Evidently Grant was his favorite general, in "Reminiscences of the Confederacy;" he has written on the margin, speaking of Grant: "He used to come to Clermont, and sold leather to C. F. Weck."

In the "Life of Jefferson" with reference to the author's suggestion that Jefferson would have favored the annexation of Cuba and objected to the annexation of the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands, he had written on the bottom of the page: "I agree with him as to Cuba and the Philippines." Evidently the governor was not much of an expansionist.

In the same work, and there speaking of Jefferson's belief, that the voice of the people is the voice of God, the governor had written on the margin: "Comes nearer to it than anything else."

At the close of Well's "The Future in America" he had written in language very similar to the text: "Congress, at present the feeblest, least accessible, and most inefficient government of any civilized nation, is the worst west of Russia. Congress is entirely inadequate to the tasks of the present time."

I am glad there is no date given to the time when the governor made these sage observations as to congress.

At the close of Henry George, Jr.'s, "The Menace of Privilege," he observes on the margin: "Many good things said, and many impractical things advocated."

In Chandler's "Trial of Jesus" the author refers to the grandeur of character of Napoleon Bonaparte, and the governor remarks: "He retired like a whipped cur after he was restrained from lawless career; lawless life rather than loftiness of life."

President Roosevelt's message of January 31, 1908, with reference to employers' liability act and experience of the interstate commerce commission, seemed to be a special friend of his. At his desk is a copy marked, and one part is so marked that it cannot escape notice, that which reads:

"Our main quarrel is not with these agents and representatives of the interests. They derive their chief power from the great sinister offenders who stand behind them. They are but puppets who move when the strings are pulled. It is not the puppets, but the strong cunning men, and the mighty forces working for evil, behind and through the puppets, with whom we have to deal."

In his old diary, which it was my privilege a short time ago to see, are recorded daily events of his life as far back as 1853, and a wonderfully interesting life it was even at that early period.

The diary shows that as a young man he loved the outdoor life; that his days were days of toil, often working all day and all night. He remembered his father as a presidential elector in the Harrison campaign. His diary shows that he taught school in an old log school house when he first came to Iowa, boarding around the district.

In "Lecky's Map of Life" are marked a number of passages, showing that he ofttimes reflected on the hereafter. I was especially impressed in going through this book with the following passages marked by him:

"He should accustom himself, then, to think of death as sleep—the only sleep from which man never wakes to pain."

"Every good man knowing the certainty of death and the uncertainty of its hour, will make it one of his first duties to provide for those he loves, when he has himself passed away."

"The great guiding landmarks of a man's life are indeed few and simple; to do our duty; to avoid useless sorrow; to acquiesce patiently in the inevitable."

How he followed these landmarks as laid down therein his life record attests.

Always calm, tranquil and poiseful, those traits never left him in the closing weeks. He faced the Grim Reaper with the same courage that he had faced every other problem, and when amid those beautiful surroundings with his family by his side, with the people of the great state hoping against hope that he might be spared a few days longer, death touched him and he fell asleep. When the mysterious bark floated out with the tide, it carried over the river immortal, to glorify that mansion not made with hands, eternal in the heavens, a soul as pure as on the day God sent it into the world.

What lessons in this life for the young manhood of our state and nation. He was a great believer in young men, and he may well serve as an example for them. Young men can learn from him that there is no success without labor. Work was his key to success, he went to the root of every question, worked twenty hours a day sometimes in busy season. True indeed::

"The heights by great men reached and kept,
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward in the night."

He believed in the gospel of labor. He knew that the mere accumulation of fortune does not mean success; that success comes from a life of service.

How truly he exemplified that "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." He made the name of Larrabee a synonym of purity in private life, efficiency and honesty in public life. The manhood of our state is safe when the young men and boys growing up have the lesson of such lives before them, and strive to emulate them. Such lives really never die. It is not so much that they live on in that other land, waiting to bid us welcome, but through their influence, they live on in this life. Is the sweet singer of Israel dead? Do not Longfellow and Tennyson live on in the hearts of those who love the beautiful and the good? Is Lincoln dead?—Listen and hear the response of millions of freemen marching on. No man dies who leaves behind him an influence inspiring men and women to do better things. And in this way William Larrabee lives on. Many a law for humanity, many a statute for fair play, for to the master of Montauk, the aged and the young; the priest and sinner; from farm and from city. No one present can ever forget that scene, an Iowa Indian Summer day and nothing is more sublime. Nature aglow with beauty as if it would glorify the surroundings, the simple service out of doors upon the porch where he so often had stood and watched the going down of the sun, the beautiful view down the valley and over to the hills, and the moaning of the sorrowing pines. With tear-dimmed eyes we followed him to the silent city; school children along the way attesting their love; flags at half mast. On every hand evidences of his benefactions to his town. When the simple service was over and we had given back to earth her treasure, I retraced my steps to the old home, wandered out alone amid the pines, their needles as a velvety carpet, their odor a sweet incense, their swaying tops sighing a requiem, and there through the trees could be seen the sun just sinking to rest, and sending back its mysterious messages to the earth, messages from the eternal mansions to which he had gone, messages of cheer, of inspiration, messages of the good life, of service and devotion to country, of love for fellowmen and I thanked God for the inspiration of the life of a Larrabee to the manhood of the state. And, "as the arrows of sunset lodged in the tree tops bright" I realized that the gates of light, we know not where, but somewhere, had opened wide for him, that:

"Somewhere the sun is shining,
Somewhere the song birds dwell."

And I knew that somewhere the Master was saying: "Well done, good and faithful servant."

The shadows commenced to lengthen and twilight approach, and as I turned my steps toward the house that never more would seem the same, there came to me the comforting words of the "Christian's Goodnight," nor farewell but merely goodnight, for on some other shore, somewhere, some time, some day, we shall say not goodnight, but good morning:

"Good night, beloved, blessed be thy rest,
Come lay thy head upon the Savior's breast,
We loved thee well, but Jesus loved thee best,
Goodnight! Goodnight! Goodnight!"

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

By committee on Agriculture, Senate File No. 476, a bill for an act to amend the law as it appears in an act approved March 15th, 1913, entitled "an act to amend sections two (2), three (3), five (5) and seven (7) of the law as it appears in chapter one hundred (100) of the laws of the Thirty-fourth General Assembly, and adding new sections to the same relating to stallions and jacks."

Read first and second time and placed on calendar.

Senator Doran introduced the following concurrent resolution:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS: For many years it has been the custom of the railroads operating in and across the state of Iowa, in conjunction with railroads east and west, to tender to the public each year what are known as homeseeker rates to influence travel from Iowa and from points east of Iowa and across this state to the west for the purpose of exploiting Canadian lands, Mexican ranchos, dry farming lands in the semi-arid and desert districts, high priced irrigation projects lands, etc., and to induce persons from Iowa and the territory east of Iowa to purchase these lands and become settlers; and,

WHEREAS: The railroads have refused to name Iowa points as destinations for these rates, or to apply them to Iowa points despite the fact there are hundreds of opportunities in every county in Iowa for homeseekers to establish themselves upon lands that do not have to be irrigated, where water tolls are not exacted, where it is not necessary to resort to dry farming, where markets are close at hand, where the school system and the public conveniences are developed and where the climate and the soil insure a crop every year; therefore,

Be it resolved by the Senate, the House concurring, That the state of Iowa in view of the fact homeseeker rates are made and thousands of dollars expended for advertising them to points north and south and west of Iowa, and that these rates are made to apply across Iowa and from Iowa points but not to points within the state, and that colonist rates are made in the same way, regard these rates as not only a discrimination against the state and its interests, but as destructive to its best interest and request and demand of the railroads operating in Iowa that in the future they refuse all tenders of homeseeker and colonist rates from connecting lines and decline to issue tariffs giving these rates except that Iowa destinations are included and the same rates and the same stop-over privileges given to Iowa territory as are accorded to any other territory to which the rates apply.

Laid over under the rules.

STATE OF IOWA.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

To the Members of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly:

Iowa has a soil that is not equalled in its possibilities by any other like area of the earth's surface. Yet there are countries where the soil, of much less natural fertility, is made to produce, on the average, almost, if not quite, twice as much per acre of crops common to both countries. This must necessarily be due to better methods of soil conservation, closer study of seed selection, better methods of tillage and generally to a more profound study of soil production as it is related to human needs and welfare. The soil of England, Germany, France, after centuries of cultivation, is made to produce on the average twice as much wheat per acre as is produced in this country. Holland and Denmark do likewise and also double the production per acre of oats, potatoes and other crops produced here. It is said of Denmark that no other country in the world is to be compared with her in the intelligence with which she treats her soil and in results produced. To express it in another way it has been said that all the rest of the world can go to Denmark to learn how to farm. Her agricultural schools, planted thickly over the country, superintended and taught by men of a very high order of scholarship are said to be unsurpassed. Home economics, I am advised, receive the most careful attention with most excellent results. In some of the countries mentioned dairying has also been brought to a state of perfection and profit not equalled elsewhere. The utilization of the entire products of the field for feed and the study of food values has brought about great economies. The great benefit of co-operation among agricultural industries has been conclusively demonstrated. Through co-operation agriculture, dairying and all allied industries have been made much more profitable. Land tenancy in some of these countries has been put upon a sound basis, just and profitable alike to both landlord and tenant, and at the same time compelling the preservation and fertility of the soil.

The possibilities of Iowa wait upon scientific study of ways and means. She is crying out, so to speak, to be given a chance to demonstrate to the world the wondrous land she really is. She is impatient of this delay. She is tired of being shorn of her strength when she should and could, if given a chance, bring forth in multiplied abundance. Her wisest and most far-seeing men want to lend a hand to bring about this most desirable consummation.

Believing that it would result in great benefit to our agricultural interests and thus also promotive of the general good if a study at first hand by competent and well known citizens of the state could be made in some of the countries mentioned, at least, of agricultural conditions and methods and dairying and schools and co-operation and land tenantry and kindred subjects with special reference to Iowa conditions and needs and a report made of results, facts and conclusions, and believing that you will be glad to co-operate with me in whatever will prove helpful to our people in connection with these great subjects, I respectfully ask that by resolution you authorize and empower me to appoint and commission as representatives of the state of Iowa not more than three persons for the purpose above named, all to be without any expense whatever to the state.

Done at the city of Des Moines, Iowa March 25, 1913.

G. W. CLARKE,
Governor.

Be it Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

Section 1. Upon petition to the Railroad Commission of the State of Iowa, said Railroad Commission may grant to any individual or corporation organized under the laws of Iowa, or corporation authorized to transact business in Iowa under the general incorporation laws of the State, engaged in the manufacture, sale, or distribution for sale of electric current for light, power, or heating purposes, the right within the State, except in cities and towns, to erect, use and maintain poles, wires, guy wires, towers, fixtures and other necessary construction for the purpose of conducting electricity for lighting, power and heating purposes over, along and across any public lands, highways or streams or the lands of any person or persons, and to acquire the necessary interests in real estate therefor.

The said petition shall set forth the manner, methods and specifications for the construction of said lines, together with a general description of the public lands, highways, streams or private lands over which it is desired that said transmission line be constructed, together with a map showing the starting point, route and terminus of said proposed line.

The expense of said publication shall be paid by the applicant as a condition precedent to said hearing.

The privilege granted by the commission shall be and constitute a franchise to operate and maintain the proposed transmission line, but all rights granted by said franchise shall be subject to the provisions of this act and also to such regulations as the legislature may, from time to time, prescribe, either by direct legislative enactment or by and through the Railroad Commission, under the laws of Iowa now or hereafter in force.

Sec. 2. Any person or corporation organized under the laws of this State, or corporation authorized to transact business in Iowa under the general incorporation laws of the State, owning or operating a transmission line for the conducting of electricity, or who or which has obtained a right so to do, and desires to acquire additional rights for the purposes contemplated herein, may petition the Railroad Commission, as hereinbefore provided, for the original granting of such right, and the same proceedings shall be taken as hereinbefore provided; provided, however, that before the commission shall act upon such petition, the person or corporation filing same shall, with said petition, file its consent that the provisions of this act and of all acts or laws relating to public utilities or to the regulation, supervision, or control thereof which are now in force or which may be hereafter enacted, shall apply to its existing line or lines with the same force and effect as though said line or lines had been constructed under the permit provided for in Section 1 hereof.

Sec. 3. Any transmission line proceeding under this act and obtaining the franchise herein provided shall be conclusively held to an acceptance of the provisions of this act and of all acts or laws relating to public utilities or to the regulation, supervision, or control thereof which are now in force or which may be hereafter enacted, and to have consented to such reasonable regulations as the commission may, from time to time, prescribe.

Sec. 4. Any person or corporation having secured the franchise provided for in the preceding sections shall thereupon be vested with the right of eminent domain to such extent as may be necessary and as prescribed and approved by the commission, to carry out the purposes of said franchise, and in the event agreement with the private owner of lands as to damages caused by the construction of said transmission line cannot be made, the same proceedings shall be taken as provided for taking private property for works of internal improvement in Chapter 4 of Title X of the Code and amendments thereto.

Sec. 5. The Railroad Commission shall have power of supervision over the construction of said transmission line and over its future operation and maintenance, and said transmission line shall be constructed near and parallel to the right of way of the railways of the State or along the division lines of the lands, according to the government survey thereof, wherever the same is practicable and reasonable, and so as not to interfere with the use by the public of the highways or streams of the state, nor unnecessarily interfere with the use of any lands by the occupant thereof, and shall be built of strong and proper wires attached to strong and sufficient supports properly insulated at all proper points of attachment; all wires, poles and other devices which by ordinary wear or other causes are no longer safe shall be removed and replaced by new wires, poles or other devices, as the case may be, and all abandoned wires, poles and other devices shall be at once removed.

Where wires carrying current are carried across, either above or below wires used for other service, the said transmissoin line shall be constucted in such manner as to eliminate, so far as practicable, damages to persons or property by reason of said crossing; there shall also be installed sufficient devices to automatically shut off electric current through said transmission line whenever connection is made whereby current is transmitted from the wires of said transmission line to the ground, and there shall also be provided a safe and modern improved device for the protection of said line against lightning.

No transmission line shall be constructed, except by agreement, within one hundred feet of any dwelling house or other building, except where said line crosses or passes along a public highway or is located alongside or parallel with the right of way of any railway company.

Where said poles or towers are extended along said highway and within the limits thereof or immediately adjacent thereto, the sign hereinbefore described shall be placed at least every quarter of a mile.

The commission shall have full power and authority to add such further and additional rules and regulations as regards location, construction, operation and maintenance of said transmission line as may be reasonable.

Sec. 6. In case of injury to any person or property by any transmission line operating under this act, negligence will be presumed on the part of the person or corporation operating said line in causing said injury, but this presumption may be rebutted by proof, but no change in the rule of the burden of proof shall exist in favor of employees of the person or corporation operating said transmission line who are charged with or engaged in the construction, reconstruction, repair or maintenance thereof.

Sec. 7. Individuals or corporations operating transmission lines constructed under the provisions of this act, or operating by acceptance under the provisions of this act, shall have reasonable access to said transmission line for the purpose of constructing, reconstructing, enlarging, repairing or locating the poles, wires or construction and other devices used in or upon said transmission line, but shall pay to the owner of such lands and of crops thereon all damages to said lands or crops caused by entering, using and occupying said lands for said purposes. Said damages shall be payable annually at the end of each season, and shall be payable in the county where caused, but nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the execution of an agreement between said operating company and the owner of said land or crops with reference to the use thereof.

Sec. 8. This act being deemed of immediate importance shall take effect and be in full force from and after its publication in the Register and Leader and the Des Moines Capital, two newspapers published in Des Moines, Iowa. And when so amended the bill do pass.

No. 9, by Chase:

I move to amend by adding "E" to Section 43:

(E) If the municipality desires at any time to terminate any indeterminate franchise, it shall have a right, after the property has been appraised and condemned as herein provided, to designate a purchaser at the price and on the terms and conditions determined by the commission, and on the payment of the purchase price, the purchaser shall take over the said plant at once, subject to the legal rights of such utility. Nothing in this act shall in any way affect the right of the State to modify or terminate the franchises granted hereunder, either by a proper action on the relation of the State, for persistent violations of this act or other legal grounds or by subsequent legislation. Nor shall anything in this act prevent the State from controlling the franchises granted hereunder and terminating the same at any time and nothing herein shall be deemed to create a contract, as far as such franchises are concerned, with any public utility. The right to any and all such franchises is hereby expressly reserved to the State."

No. 10, by Sullivan:

Amend Subdivision 1 of Section 43 as amended, by striking out all said subdivisions amended and inserting the following:

Any municipality in this State shall have the power subject to the provisions of this act to construct, acquire and operate, lease, manage or control a street railway, gas plant, electric plant, water plant, water power plant, heating or refrigerating plant, wharf, ferry, toll bridge, telephone line or system, and in accordance with the provisions of this act to purchase by agreement from any public utility owning, or to acquire in the manner hereinafter set forth, any such street railway, gas plant, electric plant, water plant, water power plant, heating or refrigerating plant, warehouse, wharf, ferry, toll bridge, telephone line or system then being operated in or serving such municipality. To carry out the provisions of this section, any such municipality shall have power and authority to incur an indebtedness in the purchase or construction of any such public utility in any sum not in excess of five per centum of the actual value of the taxable property of said municipality as shown by the last preceding assessment roll, and such municipalities may issue bonds or other evidence of indebtedness therefor. Any such municipality shall in addition to the above powers have the power to buy any such public utility subject to any incumbrance thereon in the form of outstanding mortgages, bonds, or other evidences of indebtedness, and to pledge the utility so purchased, all improvements, extensions or additions thereto, and the surplus earnings thereof to the payment of the purchase price of said utility. Provided, however, that no part of the funds of such city raised by general taxation shall be applied upon the purchase price of an utility purchased subject to outstanding indebtedness. They shall also have the power to lease, transfer, mortgage or otherwise encumber any municipally owned plant or any part thereof to secure the purchase price of said plant or to secure funds with which to make improvements, extensions or additions thereto or to apply upon the purchase price of other public utilities or utility, as the case may be, upon approval by a vote of the people in the manner as provided by law for the purchase of such utility."

No. 11, by Sullivan:

Amend Section 61 by adding thereto: "Nothing, however, in this section or any other section of this bill shall be held to repeal any of the provisions of Section 1619 of the Code and all of the provisions of said section pertaining to franchises shall be held to apply to the franchises granted under the provisions of this act to the same extent and with the same force and effect as though said section was written into this act."

No. 12, by Sullivan:

Amend Section 62 by adding to said section the following: "Nor shall the provisions of this or any other section of this act be held to effect pending litigation."

I move to strike out section 40 and substitute the following:

No. 13, by Allen:

Section 40. The commission shall have the power to investigate and ascertain the value of the property of every public utility in this state and every fact which in its judgment has, or may have, any bearing upon such value.

Separate valuations may be made for the different purposes of accounting and capitalization, public purchase and rate making.

Before final determination of the value of the property of any public utility, in a proceeding involving the rates and charges of such public utility, or the public purchase of its property, or the issuance of its stocks, bonds, notes, or other evidence of indebtedness, the commission shall after not less than thirty (30) days' notice in writing to the public utility concerned, hold a public hearing as to such valuation, at which all parties to such proceedings shall be entitled to be heard, to be represented by counsel, to introduce evidence at such hearing, and to have process to enforce the attendance of witnesses.

Any order of the commission fixing the value of the property of a public utility for any of the purposes herein mentioned shall include findings of fact as to all matters bearing upon such value and which have been investigated by the commission or concerning which evidence may have been adduced, and shall also state the bases, standards, or elements of value considered by the commission in arriving at such value. In such investigation the commission must ascertain the original investment so far as it is possible to do so.

The commission may from time to time cause further hearings and investigations to be had for the purpose of making a revaluation of the property of any public utility by reason of betterments, improvements, additions or extensions to such property subsequent to any original order of valuation of its property hereunder, or by any reason of any other matter which may change, modify, or affect any findings of fact made in such original order; and may at any time after due hearing, make any finding of fact supplementary to those made in any previous order.

Every such supplementary hearing shall be had upon the same notice and be conducted in the same manner, and the order therein shall have the same force and effect, as is provided in this section in the case of an original hearing and order with respect to valuation.

The finding of facts of any order made at such supplemental hearing shall be considered in connection with and as supplementary thereto or amendatory thereof, as the case may be.

In making any valuation under this section, the commission shall have access to and use of any books, documents, or records in the possession of any department or board of the state or of any municipality or other political or governmental subdivision of the state; and may resort to any other source of information available.

In all computations relative to reasonable rates of charge for services or supplies, the value of the plant for rate making purposes, the operating expenses, the earnings, etc., of a public utility, the commission shall make proper allowances for depreciation, sufficient to replace the property and the parts thereof, but it shall make no allowance for an amortization fund, in those cases in which the aforesaid depreciation is allowed.

In valuations for rate making purposes, no franchise right or privilege granted to a public utility by the state, or by a political subdivision thereof, shall be appraised, fixed, or considered, at any greater sum or value than the sum paid therefor into the public treasury of the state, or of the political subdivision granting the same.

(2) All the finding of the commission as to the values of properties subject to their jurisdiction, when properly certified under the seal of the commission, shall be admissable in evidence in any action, proceeding or hearing, before the commission or any court, in which the commission, the state or any office, department or institution thereof, or any county, municipality or other body politic and the public utility affected may be interested when arising under the provisions of this act or amendments thereto, and such findings, when so introduced, shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein stated, as of the date therein stated, under conditions then existing, and such facts can only be controverted by showing a subsequent change in conditions bearing upon the facts therein determined; provided, however, said valuations shall be subject to review in the supreme court under the same terms and conditions as are provided in sections ....., ... and ..... of this act. The commission may, from time to time, cause further hearings and investigations to be had for the purpose of making revaluations or ascertaining the values of any betterments, improvements, additions or extensions made by any public utility subsequent to any prior hearing or investigation and may examine into all matters which may change, modify or affect any finding of fact previously made, and may at such time make findings of fact supplementary to those theretofore made. Such hearings shall be had upon the same notice and be conducted in the same manner, and the findings so made shall have the same force and effect as is provided herein for such original notice, hearing and findings; provided, that such findings made at such supplemental hearings or investigations shall be considered in connection with and as a part of the original findings, except in so far as such supplemental findings shall change or modify the findings made at the original hearing or investigation.

All the powers of the executive council of the State of Iowa as now provided by law, to value the property of public utilities for the purpose of taxation are hereby transferred to the commission, and all the provisions of the law relating to the filing of reports and statements by said public utilities with said executive council for the purpose of assisting them to value said property are hereby repealed. The commission shall send certified copies of said values to the executive council or tax commission, or any other state tribunal having jurisdiction over the state taxes and assessable values of said properties, at such dates as may be required by said executive council, tax commission, or other tribunal, providing the commission can, with reasonable diligence, furnish the same on such dates. The said values as found by the public service commission shall be conclusive evidence before the executive council, tax commission, or other tribunal, and in all courts of the state, of the assessable values of said properties for taxation purposes, subject to the constitutional rights of the said public utilities. Accompanying the aforesaid certified statement of assessable values, the commission shall send an itemized statement of all the computations entering into the said findings of value, together with a detailed description of all the methods used and the principles upon which such values are based.

In determining the said values the commission shall consider all the factors now prescribed by statute, or which shall be deemed by it, as proper for consideration in determining values for taxation purposes, and shall give such weight to said factors as in the judgment of the members of said commission is fair and just.

The value of all franchises, right or privileges granted to a public utility by the state, or by a political subdivision thereof, shall be appraised and included in valuations made by the commission for taxation purposes.

Senator Webber moved that 200 extra copies of Senate File No. 401 be printed.

The following communication was received from the governor, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF IOWA.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

To the Members of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly:

The day for your final adjournment is not very far distant. Soon your work will pass into history. You have had before you, perhaps, more great subjects for consideration than any other legislature of the State that has preceded you. On practically all of them, however, you have had the help of the legislation and experience of other States. If you have been confronted by matters of unusually great importance your obligation to the State is correspondingly great. New conditions and new relations face the people of these States. Legislation must be wisely adapted to the new order. Not many years ago Public Utilities Acts, Workmen's Compensation Acts, Prison Reform, Permanent Roads, the Short Ballot, the Reorganization of our Rural Schools and many other subjects resulting from the best thought applied to the new day were not thought of. Now the development of human affairs has forced them to the front and now they are the demand of human welfare, and this demand is absolutely unyielding and resistless. Human progress cannot be halted. It may be stayed a while as it always has been in the realms of science, of education, of legislation, but the better day ever comes on apace sometimes to the dismay and confusion of him who opposed. Legislation upon these subjects to meet the new conditions and promote the common good I believe is just as certain as anything can be that is absolutely inevitable. This is true also as to the reform in the administration of our tax laws. Our law upon this subject is inequitable and unjust in its operation. It has been condemned by every state treasurer who has considered the matter during the last twenty-five years. It has been denounced by every commission that has ever carefully and thoroughly considered the subject. There is not a political economist in the United States who has given years of time to the study of methods and systems of taxation who does not say that our system is a failure and that it can never be otherwise. It is denounced as a failure in every State in the Union where it has been tried and State after State has abandoned it. It is not that people should be taxed more but that they should be taxed justly, and that the public burden on the individuals should be in proportion to his ability to bear it. It is impossible that there can be any rational objection to a system that taxes every man upon the basis of actual value. A system is proposed that will bring about that result so far as possible, in fact. No man can have an advantage. It is right and therefore deserves support.

I have said these measures will all be recognized and translated into law in this State. They will be. Then why should the day be delayed? If it is, members of this legislature will see the time when it will be thought extremely strange that the Thirty-fifth General Assembly refused legislation on any of these important matters. It will, however, be but a repetition of the history of legislation. Looking back over the years one marvels that there should have been stubborn opposition to measures now recognized as absolutely just and essential to the common good. So will it be if this legislature refuses its great opportunities. The opportunity is yours, the great distinction should be yours. This legislature ought not to adjourn without legislation on these subjects through just and workable measures. These things are right and are demanded by present conditions. There can be no higher reason for doing a thing than because it is right. In addition to this reason, the first and best of all reasons, there is the further reason as to practically all of these matters that the people have demanded the legislation proposed. Every one of us was elected on a platform voicing this demand. Every one of us entered into a covenant with the people of this State when we were elected. We should keep this covenant and not betray it. There can be no defense for a willful breach of faith. There should be consecration to the public welfare and selfish and mercenary interests should not be allowed to deceive and mislead. We have here a section of the age—long fight for progress, for better things, for the good of all the people. It is a stand for the betterment of human conditions in Iowa. Day after day I have had conferences with you, singly and by twos and threes on these subjects and for more than six weeks very many, many times you have, on invitation, come to my office in numbers from eight to ten more than thirty while we discussed these and other matters. I have felt, however, that I wanted to submit a word to you as a whole. I do not see how your record for hard work, for determined conscientious effort could be surpassed. Personally I have never seen it equalled You have been criticised, as if legislation on these great questions could be properly shaped and moulded in a day. The work of shaping and moulding has now practically been done and it only remains for the fruits of it, on these great subjects, to be crystalized into law—it only remains for you to take your place in the history of the State. It will be an honored place if you redeem every pledge and hope of the people and keep in step with the best thought of the time on the subjects with which you have had to deal. I believe you will.

I desire to submit a word with reference to the extension of the Capitol Grounds. It is the need of the present—it is the imperative demand of the future. It is a matter of the very best business policy. If looked at only as an investment it would be a remarkably good one. By extending the payment for the grounds over a period of ten years it would bring no burden at all upon the people. Never again can the purchase of ground be so advantageously made as now. Iowa should do business as competent, successful business men do. Advantage should be taken of the time and the opportunity. Iowa should announce that she is of age and full-grown. She should step out of the old conditions that hamper and restrain her into the new. The legislature should be unafraid. The people will sustain you. When the work is done they will ever refer to you as the legislature that was far-seeing and wise enough to extend the Capitol Grounds, that gave the Public Utilities Bill, the Workmen's Compensation Act, Prison Reform, provided for permanent road building, put our rural schools on the road to great betterment, reformed our tax laws and did other things of great value, a great record, and unparalleled. What man is there of you that will lose this the greatest opportunity of his life to render a great public service. Listen not to the voice of selfishness. Tolerate not the 'invisible" man. For more than ten years practically all legislation and all political agitation in this country has been against human selfishness. Let it proceed. The rights of all men must be put above the selfishness of a few men. Go forward. Your duty, as it seems to me, is plain.

Done at Des Moines, Iowa, March 26, 1913.

G. W. CLARKE,
Governor.

Section 40. The commission shall have the power to investigate and ascertain the value of the property of every public utility in this state and every fact which in its judgment has, or may have, any bearing upon such value.

Separate valuations may be made for the different purposes of accounting and capitalization, public purchase and rate making.

Before final determination of the value of the property of any public utility, in a proceeding involving the rates and charges of such public utility, or public purchase of its property, or the issuance of its stocks, bonds, notes, or other evidence of indebtedness, the commission shall after not less than thirty (30) days' notice in writing to the public utility concerned, hold a public hearing as to such valuation, at which all parties to such proceedings shall be entitled to be heard, to be represented by counsel, to introduce evidence at such hearing, and to have process to enforce the attendance of witnesses.

Any order of the commission fixing the value of the property of a public utility for any of the purposes herein mentioned shall include findings of fact as to all matters bearing upon such value and which have been investigated by the commission or concerning which evidence may have been adduced, and shall also state the bases, standards, or elements of value considered by the commission in arriving at such value. In such investigation the commission must ascertain the original investment so far as it is possible to do so.

The commission may from time to time cause further hearings and investigation to be had for the purpose of making a revaluation of the property of any public utility by reason of betterments, improvements, additions or extensions to such property subsequent to any original order of valuation of its property hereunder, or by any reason of any other matter which may change, modify, or affect any findings of fact made in such original order; and may at any time after due hearing, make any finding of fact supplementary to those made in any previous order.

Every such supplementary hearing shall be had upon the same notice and be conducted in the same manner, and the order therein shall have the same force and effect, as is provided in this section in the case of an original hearing and order with respect to valuation.

The finding of facts of any order made at such supplemental hearing shall be considered in connection with and as supplementary thereto or amendatory thereof, as the case may be.

In making any valuation under this section, the commission shall have access to and use of any books, documents, or records in the possession of any department or board of the state or of any municipality or other political or governmental subdivision of the state; and may resort to any other source of information available.

In all computations relative to reasonable rates of charge for services or supplies, the value of the plant for rate making purposes, the operating expenses, the earnings, etc., of a public utility, the commission shall make proper allowances for depreciation, sufficient to replace the property and the parts thereof, but it shall make no allowance for an amortization fund, in those cases in which the aforesaid depreciation is allowed.

In valuations for rate making purposes, no franchise right or privilege granted to a public utility by the state, or by a political subdivision thereof, shall be appraised, fixed, or considered, at any greater sum or value than the sum paid therefor in the public treasury of the state, or of the political subdivision granting the same.

(2) All the finding of the commission as to the values of properties subject to their jurisdiction, when properly certified under the seal of the commission, shall be admissable in evidence in any action, proceeding or hearing, before the commission or any court, in which the commission, the state or any office, department or institution thereof, or any county, municipality or other body politic and the public utility affected may be interested when arising under the provisions of this act or amendments thereto, and such findings, when so introduced, shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein stated, as of the date therein stated, under conditions then existing, and such facts can only be controverted by showing a subsequent change in conditions bearing upon the facts therein determined; provided, however, said valuations shall be subject to review in the supreme court under the same terms and conditions as are provided in sections ....., ...and..... of this act. The commission may, from time to time, cause further hearings and investigations to be had for the purpose of making revaluations or ascertaining the values of any betterments, improvements, additions or extensions made by any public utility subsequent to any prior hearing or investigation and may examine into all matters which may change, modify or affect any finding of fact previously made, and may at such time make findings of fact supplementary to those theretofore made. Such hearings shall be had upon the same notice and be conducted in the same manner, and the findings so made shall have the same force and effect as is provided herein for such original notice, hearing and findings; provided, that such findings made at such supplemental hearings or investigations shall be considered in connection with and as a part of the original findings, except in so far as such supplemental findings shall change or modify the findings made at the original hearing or investigation.

All the powers of the executive council of the state of Iowa as now provided by law, to value the property of public utilities for the purpose of taxation are hereby transferred to the commission, and all the provisions of the law relating to the filing of reports and statements by said public utilities with said executive council for the purpose of assisting them to value said property are hereby repealed. The commission shall send certified copies of said values to the executive council or tax commission, or any other state tribunal having jurisdiction over the estate taxes and assessable values of said properties, as such dates as may be required by said executive council, tax commission, or other tribunal, providing the commission can, with reasonable diligence, furnish the same on such dates. The said values as found by the public service commission shall be conclusive evidence before the executive council, tax commission, or other tribunal, and in all courts of the state, of the assessable values of said properties for taxation purposes, subject to the constitutional rights of the said public utilities. Accompanying the aforesaid certified statement of assessable values, the commission shall send an itemized statement of all the computations entering into the said findings of value, together with a detailed description of all the methods used and the principles upon which such values are based.

In determining the said values the commission shall consider all the factors now prescribed by state, or which shall be deemed by it, as proper for consideration in determining values for taxation purposes, and shall give such weight to said factors as in the judgment of the members of said commission is fair and just.

The value of all franchises, right or privileges granted to a public utility by the state, or by a political subdivision thereof, shall be appraised and included in valuations made by the commission for taxation purposes.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE.

MR. PRESIDENT—I wish to explain the reason I was not present when the vote was taken on the Kimball Amendment No. 2, found on page 1309 of Senate Journal, to-wit:

I was called over to the House on important business. When I left the Senate chamber to go over to the House, it was with the understanding that should a vote be called on said amendment before I returned, that I would be notified. I was not notified, consequently not given a chance to vote on this amendment. I would have voted "aye" were I present.

Senator Larrabee in behalf of Tacitus Hussey of Des Moines, presented to President Harding a new gravel and asked that the following communication from Mr. Hussey accompanying the same be read and printed in the Journal:

Des Moines, Iowa, March 20, 1913.

Friend Larrabee: Having heard that the President of the Senate had broken his gavel, I hand you one for presentation to him, if you will be so kind. The handle is maple and is a piece of the old Fort Des Moines cabins or barracks, built here in 1843, and abandoned in 1845, when the Indians surrendered their rights to territory of Iowa. The head is from a part of the balustrade or banisters of the old or temporary capitol built in 1857-8 and was used for the first legislature meeting in Des Moines, 1858. It was selected after the fire had destroyed the building and at the same time Hon. Ed Wright selected a portion of the same piece for a keepsake. I have papers relating how this wood came into my hands and has been preserved all these years; but have not time to copy them now; but can send you copies if you so desire, or if newspapers desire it.

I wish to place this historic piece of wood in the hands of the state that it may be preserved, as I believe it is the only remaining gavel in the state of the kind. The mate to this with an ash handle was presented to the Carpenters' Union some time ago and is in the possession of the society.

Yours very respectfully,
TACITUS HUSSEY.

President Harding responded as follows:

Senator Larrabee: It is a pleasure to me as President of the Senate, to receive this gavel. It is always fitting that the pioneer of our state be recognized.

These two pieces of wood fashioned and shaped into a gavel will have great historic value in the years to come. They will be a link between the old and the new.

The pioneer should have a large place in our affections. They came into Iowa when she was a wilderness. They built a foundation that is strong and true.

In behalf of the Senate and the state, I desire to thank Mr. Hussey for this gavel and assure him that it will be placed among the archives of the state.

Separate valuations may be made for the different purposes of public purchase and rate making.

Any order of the commission fixing the value of the property of a public utility for any of the purposes herein mentioned shall include findings of fact as to all matters bearing upon such value and which have been investigated by the commission or concerning which evidence may have been adduced, and shall also state the bases, standards, or elements of value considered by the commission in arriving at such value.

The commission may from time to time cause further hearings and investigations to be had for the purpose of making a revaluation of the property of any public utility by reason of betterments, improvements, additions or extensions to such property subsequent to any original order of valuation of its property hereunder, or by any reason of any other mater which may change, modify, or affect any findings of fact made in such original order; and may at any time after due hearing, make any finding of fact supplementary to those made in any previous order.

Every such supplementary hearing shall be had upon the same notice and be conducted in the same manner, and the order therein shall have the same force and effect, as is provided in this section in the case of an original hearing and order with respect to valuation.

The finding of facts of any order made at such supplemental hearing shall be considered in connection with and as supplementary thereto or amendatory thereof, as the case may be.

In making any valuation under this section, the commission shall have access to and use of any books, documents, or records in the possession of any department or board of the state or of any municipality or other political or governmental subdivision of the state; and may resort to any other source of information available.

EXPLANATIION OF VOTE.

MR. PRESIDENT—I vote "yea" on this bill because I believe that we should have a law upon our statute books regulating public utilities. The bill is not one that conforms to my idea as to what the law should be upon this important subject, especially with reference to granting to the commission the right to determine the granting of franchise, but with the hope that the bill will ultimately go to a conference committee who will be enabled to correct and perfect the same.

I vote "yea." Otherwise, when the bill is returned from the House as I believe it will be I shall then vote against the bill.

Whereas: Said city council of said city by resolution duly adopted at said regular meeting on January 28, 1913, called a special election for the pupose of submitting to the qualified electors of said city the questions as to whether or not the city of Cedar Falls, Iowa, should issue bonds in the sum of $50,000.00 for an electric light and power plant, and as to whether or not such city should purchase, construct, erect, maintain and operate an electric light and power plant, and

Whereas: The city council did, by said resolution adopted as aforesaid on said January 28, 1913, direct that notice as such special election be given, and fixing the 24th day February, 1913, as the time for holding said election at the usual voting places in said city, and directing the Mayor to give legal notice of same, and

Second: The purchase, establishment, maintainance and operation of a municipal electric light and power plant, and

Whereas: At the said special election held on the 10th day of March, 1913, the following propositions were placed upon the ballot:—

HONS. CLEM F. KIMBALL, J. T. HAZEN, O. G. REEVE, GEO. W. CROZIER, S. W. NEAL,

Members of the Senate and House Committee, Iowa Legislature, Des Moines, Iowa.

GENTLEMEN: I am in receipt of yours of March 29th, enclosing the very kind and complimentary resolutions of the Iowa legislature, inviting me to visit and address your distinguished body. I appreciate the great honor and compliment you pay me, and I would consider it not only a duty, but a great pleasure to respond to any request of Iowa's legislature.

But I regret that it is not at present considered prudent for me to leave home. I am out attending to my work, but under treatment that makes it necessary for me to remain at home for the present.

The state of Iowa has many, many times greatly honored me, and one of the great satisfactions and pleasures of my life has been that, from the time I entered the state in May, 1853, I have been its citizen. Although my duties have been mostly outside of the state, my home and heart have been in it.

Unless one has traveled and had the opportunities I have had, he does not appreciate what an honor it is to be a citizen of a state that has the standing that Iowa has, not only in our, but in all countries. Its representatives in national and state councils have placed it upon the highest level in patriotism and statesmanship and in all things that make a country great.

In all these years I have seen Iowa develop and grow, and fortunately I have been able to take some part in this development, and it would be my greatest pleasure to, in person, extend to you, as the representative of all the people of Iowa, my heartfelt thanks for the great honor that you pay me, and I wish to extend to you, one and all, my best greetings and wishes for your good health, prosperity, and a successful ending of your labors.

I am,

Truly and most respectfully, your obedient servant,

GRENVILLE M. DODGE.

Senator Francis moved that the bill be made a special order for 2 p. m. today.

Senator Balluff arose to a point of order that as the bill carried an appropriation it should go to the committee on Appropriations.

Declared out of order at this time as a motion to make a special order was in order and bill would finally under the rules have to go to committee on Appropriations.

Senator Allen arose to the point of order that the bill was not now before the Senate as report of committee had not been adopted.

President declared the point of order not well taken and that a motion to make a special order before report was adopted was in order.

Senator Balluff moved as a substitute for the motion made by Senator Francis that bill be sent to committee on Appropriations.

Declared out of order at this time.

Senator Sullivan moved as a substitute for the motion of Senator Francis that further consideration of bill be postponed until 10 o'clock A. M., Monday and that it be made a special order for that time.

THIRD READING OF BILLS.

The time having arrived for special order, Senate File No. 369, a bill for an act fixing the standard of qualifications of all persons desiring to practice mechanical therapy and for the regulation thereof; to create a state board of mechanical therapeutic examiners, and to provide for the registration of those entitled to practice mechanical therapy, and providing penalties for violation of any of the provisions thereof, was taken up, and considered.

Under rule 13, Senator Smith asked for a division of the question before the Senate, the motion filed by Senator Allen on April 3d, to reconsider the vote by which Senate File No. 369 passed the Senate, and to lay the motion to reconsider on the table.

The president divided the question, and submitted the part, "reconsider the vote by which Senate File No. 369 passed the Senate," for the consideration of the Senate.

The ayes were:

Ames, Balkema, Balluff, Boe, Cowles, Crist, Crow, Darrah, DeWolf, Farr, Fellows, Hagemann, Hilsinger, Jewell, Jones, Kimball, Larrabee, Malmberg, Mattes, Perkins, Savage, Schrup, Smith, Webber, White, Wilson of Appanoose, Wilson of Clinton—27.

Allen, Chase, Clarkson, Doran, Dunnegan, Garrett, Gillette, Legel, McColl, McManus, Quigley, Ream, Robinson, Sheean, Spaulding, Sullivan, Taylor, Thomas—18.

Absent or not voting:

None.

So the motion to reconsider prevailed.

On the question, "Shall the bill pass?"

The ayes were:

Allen, Arney, Chase, Clarkson, Crow, Doran, Dunnegan, Garrett, Gillette, Legel, McColl, McManus, Nye, Quigley, Ream, Robinson, Sheean, Spaulding, Sullivan, Taylor, Thomas, Wilson of Appanoose—22.

The nays were:

Ames, Belkema, Balluff, Cowles, Crist, DeWolf, Farr, Fellows, Hagemann, Hilsinger, Jewell, Jones, Larrabee, Malmberg, Mattes, Perkins, Savage, Schrup, Smith, Webber, Wilson of Clinton—22.

Absent or not voting:

Boe, Francis, Heald, Kimball, Neal, White—6.

So the bill having failed to receive a constitutional majority was declared lost.

On motion of Senator Chase, Senate File No. 169, a bill for an act to change the burden of proof where contributory negligence is relied on as a defense and to provide rules of procedure in such cases, was taken up, and considered.

Senator Chase offered the following amendment and moved its adoption:

I move to amend by adding at the end of section 1, the following: "except in mitigation of damages."

Adopted.

Senator Chase moved that the rule be suspended, the bill be considered engrossed, and read a third time now, which motion prevailed, and the bill was read a third time.

On the question, "Shall the bill pass?"

The ayes were:

Allen, Arney, Balkema, Chase, Clarkson, Crist, Crow, Darrah, Doran, Dunnegan, Fellows, Francis, Garrett, Gillette, Heald, Hilsinger, Jones, Larrabee, Legel, Malmberg, McColl, Neal, Perkins, Quigley, Ream, Robinson, Spaulding, Sullivan, Taylor, Thomas, Webber, Wilson of Appanoose, Wilson of Clinton—33.

Ames, Balluff, Boe, Cowles, Jewell, Kimball, Mattes, McManus, Nye, Savage, Schrup, Sheean, Smith, White—14.

So the bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the Senate and its title was agreed to.

The joint committee on Retrenchment and Reform filed the following report which was ordered printed in the Journal:

JOINT REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RETRENCHMENT AND REFORM.

To the Senate and House of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly.

Mr. President and Mr. Speaker—Your joint committee on retrenchment and reform which was instructed to investigate the department of agriculture and report to the assembly, beg leave to state that they have made such investigation and herewith submit their report, together with testimony taken and the partial report of Quail, Parker & Company, the efficiency engineers employed by this committee.

The investigation developed that the Iowa State Fair, conducted by the board of the department of agriculture, is one of the most extensive and successful annual state exhibits of agriculture in the United States; that during the week while the annual fair is held the board handles approximately $190,000, and to conduct a fair of that magnitude during this short period requires considerable executive ability and peculiar fitness and qualifications of the men in charge.

Under the present system the members of the board are elected at large and selected in view of their qualifications to handle the separate departments of the exihition, such as finance, transportation, horticulture, machinery or live stock, and that the board may form a complete unit to manage the fair. While it is necessary to have the exhibitors bring their exhibits, yet the financial success of the state fair depends largely upon the qualifications and ability of the members of the board, and it is the opinion of this committee that a change from the present system of electing the members of the board by the whole convention to the district plan would be detrimental to the success of the fair and might seriously cripple it.

The investigation further developed that the officers and members of the board have not been guilty of any financial irregularities or misconduct, but their method of keeping the books and records can be improved upon, as suggested in the report of the engineers herewith submitted, the original having been filed with the secretary of state.

The committee further finds that the pass system ought to be abolished, and unless the General Assembly desires to legislate on this specific question, this committee will instruct the board to abolish all passes, except that the following persons may be admitted free of charge during the fair under proper regulation and strict supervision: The officers, members of the board and employees of the fair; the officers of other state fairs; the exhibitors upon the payment of $2.00 each for a season ticket; all the necessary help required to take care of their exhibits; the concessionists and their necesary help.

The investigation developed that to compel these persons to pay admission would create such a prejudice against the fair as to endanger its success. Only one state in the Union, Ohio, has completely abolished all passes of any kind, and their system has been severly criticised. (See page 9 of testimony of A. R. Corey.)

The committee further approves the adoption of all the recommendations contained in the report of Quail, Parker & Company on page 16, except recommendation No. 1, which suggest reducing the number of the members of the board. The members of the board receive no pay except their per diem and traveling expenses. If the number of the board is reduced it will be necessary to employ competent and efficient help to take care of the different departments, and the employment of such help would undoubtly involve a larger expenditure that what is now paid to the members of the board.

With reference to the recommendations 2 to 9 inclusive your committee advises you that it is their understanding that your committee has authority to adopt and enforce said recommendations, and your committee will, unless by appropriate action you express your disapproval, adopt and enfore said recommendation.

Your committee further calls your attention to the fact that under authority of the legislature, Quail, Parker & Co., have for some time been engaged in a careful examination of the various departments of state government, and that while it will be impossible to complete such investigation before the legislature adjourns, the investigation has proceeded far enough to make it clear that such investigation will open the way to very large savings to the state in economy and efficiency.

Your committee further suggest that not only will it be impossible to complete such investigation before the legislature must in the nature of things adjourn, but that the work of making the necessary laws regulating the enforcement of advanced business methods for state administration cannot well be done by any legislature while harrassed and burdened with ordinary legislation. We therefore recommend completion of the regular work of this session, and that when such work is ended, we adjourn until November, by which date a full report upon all matters placed with said accountants will be completed, and that we then reassemble, and without expense to the state, and unhampered by other duties, give careful and faithful and undivided attention to a readjustment and reorganization of our state business methods to such extent as may be deemed advisable and necessary upon full consideration.

Herewith we submit and offer for your consideration a resolution for action upon and along the lines above suggested.

J. H. ALLEN,
JOSEPH MATTES.
L. E. FRANCIS,
GERRIT KLAY.
JOHN W. JACOBS.
WM. LABRABEE, JR.

The committee on Retrenchment and Reform presented the following concurrent resolution:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Whereas, the committee on Retrenchment and Reform has been by this legislature authorized to, and under such authority has employed expert accountants and efficiency engineers who have been for some time and now are, engaged upon the performance of the duties for which employed; and

Whereas, said expert accountants and efficiency engineers have not yet completed the service for which employed and cannot so complete within the period to which this session will extend; and

Whereas, the work of said accountants and engineers has proceeded far enough so that it is clearly apparent that a reorganization of the various departments under consideration by said accountants and engineers will be of great saving to the state in service, efficiency and money; and

Whereas, the maters to be covered by the report of said accountants and engineers should receive the immediate attention of the legislature.

Now therefore, be it resolved by the House, the Senate concurring:

Section 1. That when the final adjournment of the Senate and House be taken it be until Tuesday, October 21st, 1913.

Sec. 2. That the desk employes, sargeant-at-arms and chief doorkeeper be required to appear at said time, and all other employes of Senate and House be excused.

Sec. 3. That the members of the Senate and House return for further service upon the date named without expense to the state in service or mileage.

Sec. 4. That the joint committee upon retrenchment and reform are hereby directed to prepare an abridgement of the report of said accountants and engineers, print same and furnish copies thereof to each member of the legislature at least thirty days prior to the date of reconvening, together with the recommendations of said committee.

Sec. 5. The expense of printing and distribution shall be presented at said adjourned session for action by the legislature.

The committee on Retrenchment and Reform submitted the following report of Quail Parker and company, expert accountants and asked that it be printed in the Journal.

DES MOINES, IOWA, MARCH 25, 1913.

The Joint Committee on Retrenchment and Reform of the Senate and House of the Thirty-fifth General Assembly of the State of Iowa.

GENTLEMEN:—In pursuance of contract dated February 5, 1913, and of specific instructions thereunder, we herewith present an interim report on the investigation of the Department of Agriculture—particularly referring to the accounts and transactions relative to the state fairs for the years 1912 and 1911—together with statements in support thereof as enumerated in the appended index.

ORIGIN—CONSTITUTION—APPROPRIATION.

The Department of Agriculture was created by legislative enactment of the Twenty-eighth General Assembly in the year 1900, and the section of the statute reads as follows:

"Department of Agriculture.—For the promotion of agriculture, horticulture, forestry, animal industry, manufactures, and the domestic arts, there is hereby established a department to be known as the 'department of agriculture,' which shall embrace the district and county agricultural societies organized or to be organized under existing statutes and entitled to receive aid from the state, the state weather and crop service, and the offices of the dairy commissioner and the state veterinarian. (Sec. 1657-b, Supp. 1907)."

This enactment took effect July 4, 1900, and at the same time various prior enactments relative to the Iowa State Agriculture Society and the several county societies were repealed (Sec. 1657-a, Supp. 1907). The Iowa State Agriculture Society was founded in the year 1853, the first state fair having been held in October 1854, and while primarily supported by means of membership subscriptions and admission fees, it, together with the several county societies, was encouraged and aided at various times by small appropriations from the state.

The management of the department is vested in a board termed the "State Board of Agriculture." of which the governor, the president of the State Agricultural College and Mechanic Arts, the State Food and Dairy Commissioner, and the State Veterinary Surgeon are ex-officio members; and the other members, who are elected at the agricultural convention held at the Capitol on the second Wednesday in December in each year, comprise a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and one director from each congressional district.

The duties of this board as defined by the statute are as follows:

"Duties of Board.—The board shall have general supervision of the several branches, bureaus and offices embraced in the department of agriculture; and it shall be the duty of the board to look after and promote the interests of agriculture, of agricultural education and animal and other industries throughout the state; to investigate all subjects relating to the improvement of methods, appliances and machinery, and the diversification of crops and products, also to investigate reports of the prevalence of contagious diseases among domestic animals, or destructive insects and fungus diseases in grains, and grasses and other plants, the adulteration of foods, seed and other products, and to report the result of investigation, together with recommendations of remedial measures for prevention of damage resulting therefrom. It shall be the duty of the Iowa agricutural experiment station to co-operate with the department of agriculture in carrying on these investigations. (Sec. 1657-g, Supp. 1907)."

The president, vice-president and secretary are constituted an executive committee, which is empowered to transact such business as may be delegated thereto by the board; and the president may call meetings of the board when the interests of the department require it. The board elect a secretary for the term of one year, whose duties are such as usually pertain to that office, under the direction of the board; and the appropriations and directions for the support of the department, as defined by the statutes, are as follows:

"Office—Supplies—Salary of Secretary and Assistant.—The office of the department of agriculture shall be in rooms numbers eleven (11) and twelve (12), in the capitol building; the said office shall be entitled to such supplies, stationery, postage and express as may be required, which shall be furnished by the executive council in the same manner as other offices are supplied. The salary of the secretary shall not exceed eighteen hundred dollars ($1,500) per annum; and when the board deem it necessary it may employ an assistant at an expense of not more than seventy-five dollars ($75) per month. (Sec. 1657-n, Supp. 1907).

"(The amendment by the 31st General Assembly was by striking out the word 'fifteen' in line 6 and inserting in lieu thereof the word 'eighteen,' but the figures '($1,500)' were unchanged.)"

"Treasurer—Duties—Bond—Compensation. The board shall elect a treasurer for a term of one year, whose duties shall be to keep a correct account of receipts and disbursements of all moneys belonging to the department of agriculture, and shall make payments only on warrants signed by the president and secretary thereof, except in payment of premiums. He shall execute a bond for the faithful performance of his duty, to be approved by the board and filed with the secretary, and shall receive such compensation for his services as shall be fixed by the board, not exceeding one hundred dollars per annum. (Sec. 1657-o, Supp. 1907.)"

"Compensation of Elective Members. The elective members of the state board of agriculture, for attending the meetings of the board, and for the special work pertaining to the holding of the state fair shall be allowed four dollars ($4) per day and five cents per mile in going and returning from the place where the business is transacted, the claim for which shall in all cases be verified and paid as provided in section (8). (Sec. 1657-p, Supp. 1907)"

"Finance Committee—Report—Compensation. Prior to the annual convention of the department of agriculture the state accountant, provided for in section one hundred sixty-one-a (161-a) of the supplement to the code 1907 shall examine and report upon all financial business of the department of agriculture, said report to be made to the executive council. Such report shall be edited under the direction of the executive council and be published in accordance with the provisions of section one hundred sixty-three (163) of the code and acts amendatory thereof." Approved February 23, A. D. 1909 (Ch. 107, 33 G. A.)

"Amounts Appropriated. There is hereby appropriated annually from and after the first day of January nineteen hundred and one (1901) for the support of the office of the department of agriculture, twenty-four hundred dollars ($2,400) and for insurance and improvements of buildings on the state fair grounds the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000) or as much thereof as shall be necessary, and the auditor of state shall draw a warrant therefor upon the order of the department of agriculture signed by the pesident and secretary thereof, in such sums and at such times as the board shall deem necessary. The state shall not be liable for the payment of any premiums offered by the state board of agriculture, nor for any expenses or liabilities incurred by said board, except, as expressly provided for in this act. (Sec. 1657-t, Supp. 1907.)"

"State Fair.—The board shall have full control of the state fair grounds and improvements thereon belonging to the state, with requisite powers to hold annual fairs and exhibits of the productive resources and industries of the state. They may prescribe all necessary rules and regulations thereon. The board may delegate the management of the state fair to the executive committee and two or more additional members of the board; and for special work pertaining to the fair they may employ an assistant secretary and such clerical assistance as may be deemed necessary. All expenditures connected with the fair including the per diem and expenses of the managers thereof, shall be recorded separately and paid from the state fair receipts. The said board of agriculture shall have the power to authorize or forbid the construction of street railways within the state fair grounds and may define the motive power by which the cars thereon shall be propelled and to authorize or forbid the location and laying down of tracks for street railways in said grounds. (Sec. 1657-i, Supp. 1907.)"

Although the enactment creating this department (Sec. 1657-l, Supp. 1907) specifically defines the activities embraced thereby, we have so far been unable to ascertain that the State Board of Agriculture exercises any control whatsoever over the offices of the dairy commissioner and the state veterinarian, and furthermore in the special enactments relating to these two departments no mention is made of any supervision or control by the Department of Agriculture. The enactments relative to district and county societies, and the state weather and crop service are as follows:

"State Aid to District or County Society. Any county or district agricultural society, upon filing with the auditor of state affidavits of its president, secretary, and treasurer showing what sum has actually been paid out during the current year for premiums, not including races, or money paid to secure games or other amusements, and that no gambling devices or other violations of law were permitted, together with a certificate from the secretary of the state society showing that it has reported according to law, shall be entitled to receive from the state treasury a sum equal to forty per cent of the amount so paid in premiums up to five hundred dollars, and ten per cent additional of the amount paid in premiums over five hundred dollars, but in no case shall the amount paid to any society exceed the sum of three hundred dollars. When any society fails to report, according to law, on or before the first day of November, that society shall not receive a warrant from the state auditor for that year, but the secretary of the state board of agriculture shall notify the county auditor of the county in which the society is located of such failure, and the board of supervisors may appoint a delegate to the annual meeting or state agricultural convention, said delegate to be a resident of said county. (Sec. 1661-a, Supp. 1907); (Ch. 108, 33 G. A.)"

"State Weather and Crop Service—Appropriation. There is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of two thousand seven hundred dollars annually, to be drawn and expended upon the order of the president and secretary of the department of agriculture for such service, including the salary of the director, which shall not exceed fifteen hundred dollars per annum. (Sec. 1681, Supp. 1907.)"

The expenditures under these two appropriations are checked in this department and certified by the president and secretary before warrants are issued—the director of the state weather and crop service presenting an account monthly for his salary ($125.00), his stenographer ($60.00) and his incidental expenses—but no record thereof is made in the financial books kept in this department.

STATE FAIR FINANCIAL POSITION.

The fair grounds, consisting of some 280 acres, were originally purchased for about $50,000.00 by subscriptions raised by the citizens of Des Moines in 1885, and about the same time the state appropriated $50,000.00 for the erection of buildings thereon and the general improvement thereof. We have taken this $100,000.00 as the fundamental basis of the present approximate value, and after examining the whole of the expenditure hereon from December 1, 1901, to November 30, 1912, we have prepared an approximate statement of the financial position as at November 30, 1912, November 30, 1911, and November 30, 1910, wherein we have set up the original $100,000.00 plus the further expenditures hereon as representing the cost of the permanent improvements as at these dates. This statement is presented in Exhibit "A," and the following is a summary thereof:

ASSETS.

State Fair Grounds and Permanent Improvements.—In Schedule "1" we present a statement of fair grounds and permanent improvements expenditure for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, in which the approximate cost of the main buildings, etc., is duly set forth. The undistributed expenditure represents material, labor, supplies, loose tools, etc., and expense items prior to November 30, 1910 which are not segregated on the records and which it is now a matter of impossibility to charge to specific buildings, etc., together with additions to loose tools, implements, etc., amounting to $1,284.50 and $912.92 for the years 1912 and 1911 respectively.

During the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, amounts aggregating $1,861.16 were realized at an auction sale of certain lots and houses, and amounts aggregating $1,444.33 were realized on the sale of part of the power plant. A further amount of $1,066.47 was also realized on the sale of part of the power plant during the twelve months ended November 30, 1911. We are informed that the prices realized on the power plant sales were in accordance with the valuation made by a local appraiser. As the records do not disclose the cost of the specific lots, houses and power plant disposed of, no adjustment has been made for the difference between that amount and the sums realized as stated above. The power plant which we are informed, is no longer used, is represented in the permanent improvements as at November 30, 1912, at the sum of $14,748.70, but as no inventory has been made of the machinery, etc., remaining in or belonging to the power building, it is impossible to even estimate the loss arising through the dismantling of this property.

The amount of $1,699.18 included under the caption of undistributed expenditure for committee expenses, represents per diem and mileage charged by certain members of the Board for attending meetings at the office of the department; expenses of visits to various state fairs; and expenses attending special committee meetings for legislative work connected with obtaining appropriations; the purchase of improvements; the study of other state fair grounds preliminary to having plans drawn, and procuring attractions.

The amounts included under the caption of undistributed expenditure for loose tools, implements, teams, etc., represent the cost thereof, but as no detailed inventory has been made of the items comprised therein, the officials of the department are consequently unable to state whether all such items are now in existence. This condition is primarily due to the lack of proper accounting system, further remarks as to which will be found in a later part of this report. Having regard to the amount of wear and tear these items are subject to, and to the fact that no amount has been charged off the original cost thereof for depreciation, a physical appraisal could not be expected to substantiate these values.

The original contracts for the erection of the main buildings, together with the architects certificates supporting the payments therefor, have been submitted to us, and we are informed that, with one exception, no contract has been awarded, in connection with which, the proposals were not advertised and bids obtained in customary manner. The exception referred to was in connection with the erection of the cross-section of the horse barn which was required at very short notice and for which the board has not the requisite amount of time wherein to advertise the proposals in the usual way.

Inventories.—No inventories have been taken of the lumber, hardware, forage or general supplies on hand at the fair grounds. In addition to the lumber and supplies obtained by purchase in the usual manner, large quantities of these materials have been salved from time to time from the wreckage of various buildings on the grounds, but no record has been made of the quantity or value of such materials and consequently it is a matter of impossibility to obtain any definite information as to whether the department has had the sole use or benefit of all such materials. We are informed that no large quantities of the above mentioned commodities are purchased except for specific purposes, but, as in the case of the salved materials, no systematic record is kept of the receipts and issues thereof.

Current Resources.—These comprise the following:

Annual appropriation, balance	$ 1,275.00	$ 1,275.00	$ 1,275.00
Special appropriation, balance	.....	7,000.00	.....
Cash at bank	615.63	18,036.99	7,283.44
Accounts receivable	119.83	469.56	.....
	$ 2,010.46	$ 26,781.55	$ 8,558.44

The annual appropriation is drawn against monthly and is dealt with specifically in a later part of this report, the balances as above represent the amounts undrawn in respect of the appropriations to the following June 30th; the close of the state's fiscal year. The special appropriations balance as at June 30, 1911, represents the amount undrawn in respect of the special appropriations made by the Thirty-fourth General Assembly (34 G. A. ch. 193, sec. 1). We verified the cash at bank as at November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, by certificate obtained from the Iowa Trust and Savings Bank, the vice-president of which, G. S. Gilbertson, is treasurer of the Board of Agriculture, and in Schedule "2" we present a statement of receipts and disbursements for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, which is a summary of the transactions on this bank account. The accounts receivable represent a variety of small items appertaining to the respective periods but not collected as at November 30th.

Contingent Resources.—These comprise the unexpired insurance premiums as at November 30, 1912 ($2,015.59), November 30, 1911 ($2,724.39), and November 30, 1910 ($2,701.61). The fire and tornado insurance is carried on three-year policies, and, as the premiums thereon are paid in advance we have computed the value of the unexpired premiums as above pending their transfer as the policies expire.

LIABILITIES.

Current Obligations.—These comprise the accounts payable which represent a variety of small items outstanding, but appertaining to the periods ended November 30, 1912, November 30, 1911, and November 30, 1910, respectively.

Unexpired Appropriations.—These comprise the following:

	1912	1911	1910
Annual balances to June 30, 1913, 1912, and 1911	$ 1,275.00	$ 1,275.00	$ 1,275.00
Special, balance thereof	.....	7,000.00	.....
	$ 1,275.00	$ 8,275.00	$ 1,275.00

These items represent the amounts undrawn in respect of the appropriations made for the state fiscal years ending June 30, 1913, June 30, 1912, and June 30, 1911, respectively.

Surplus or Present Worth.—The total of the items set forth under this caption represent the excess of the assets over the liabilities on the respective dates, and details of the same are as follows:

Subscriptions, city of Des Moines, 1885	$ 50,000.00
Special appropriations to November 30, 1910	309,000.00
Accumulated net income to November 30, 1910	284,547.61
Total, November 30, 1910		$643,547.61
Special appropriations to November 30, 1911	$ 78,000.00
Net income twelve months ended November 30, 1911	40,850.96	118,850.96
Total, November 30, 1911		$762,398.57
Special appropriation to November 30, 1912	$ 7,000.00
Net income twelve months ended November 30, 1912	42,433.48	49,433.48
Total, November 30, 1912		$811,832.05

This surplus of $811,832.05 as at November 30, 1912, is of course based primarily on the approximate valuation of the fair grounds and permanent improvements as at that date set up by us, but in justice to the department an independent appraisal of these assets should be made, before the Board is charged with and held accountable for their value, under any improved system of accounting and control which may be ultimately decided upon.

The special appropriations made by the respective general assemblies are as follows:

State legislature for erection of buildings and improvement of fair grounds in 1885	$ 50,000.00
Twenty-ninth general assembly for erection of live-stock pavilion (29 G. A., ch. 184)	37,000.00
Thirtieth general assembly for erection of agricultural building (30 G. A., ch. 150)	47,000.00
Thirty-second general assembly for erection of swine barn and show ring (32 G. A., ch. 204)	75,000.00
Thirty-third general assembly for erection of amphitheatre, and removing track and barns (33 G. A., ch. 242)	100,000.00
Total, November 30, 1910		$309,000.00

Thirty-fourth general assembly for the following purposes (34 G. A., ch. 193):

Additional land and lots ($12,000.00)	$ 5,000.00
Machinery hall	65,000.00
Sanitary toilets	8,000.00	78,000.00
Total, November 30, 1911		$387,000.00

Thirty-fourth General assembly, balance for additional land and lots	7,000.00
Total, November 30, 1912	$394,000.00

On reference to Exhibit "A" and Schedule "1" the manner in which these appropriations, together with the net income for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, have actually been expended will readily be observed from the columns denoting the increases and decreases of the various items set forth therein.

STATE FAIR OPERATIONS.

We have made a thorough examination of the whole of the records appertaining to the operations of the Board of Agriculture for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, respectively, and in Exhibit "B" we present an income and expenditure account comprehending these two periods of which the following is a summary:

	1912	1911
State fair income	$180,936.67	$174,909.95
State fair operating expense	139,021.23	$133,150.11
Net income state fair	$ 41,915.44	$ 41,759.84
Miscellaneous income	10,680.98	3,476.88
Total income	$ 52,596.42	$ 45,236.72
Other expenditure	10,162.94	4,385.76
Net income, or surplus	$ 42,433.48	$ 40,850.96

State Fair Income.—We compared the various items of income during the above periods with documentary and other evidence submitted for our inspection, and taking the various captions thereof seriatim, we have to comment as follows.

Live Stock Exhibits.—These comprise the following:

	1912	1911
Horse department, stall rent	$ 1,745.00	$ 1,729.00
Cattle department, stall rent	988.00	1,146.00
Sheep department, pen rent	138.00	170.00
Poultry department, coop rent	731.45	658.05
Swine department, pen rent	1,076.00	1,206.00
	$ 4,678.45	$ 4,909.05

The charges in the horse department are 2.00 per single stall, $4.00 per box stall, and $1.00 per pony stall; in the cattle department $2.00 per single stall; in the sheep department $1.00 per pen; in the poultry department $1.00 per coop, and —or 25 cents per bird; and in the swine department $1.00 per pen. The superintendents individual departmental records, containing lists of the exhibitors and the amount of the rental collected therefom for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, respectively for the above departments, were produced to us, and while the amounts stated to have been collected by each superintendent for the rent set forth above were found to be in agreement with the aggregate income from such sources entered in the receipts book, it is a matter of impossibility to state whether the amounts so accounted for properly represent the income actually derived from these sources, owing to the total absence of proper accounting methods.

Agriculture Exhibits; Dairy Exhibits; Fine Arts Exhibits; and Machinery Exhibits. The rentals in these departments are based on the amount of superficial space occupied—in the case of fine arts and machinery exhibits, 5 cents per square foot, and we have verified the correctness of the income accounted for on the records for these two departments. The duplicate contracts for the space occupied by the individual exhibitors in the machinery department were not signed, however, on behalf of the lessees. We have been unable to verify the correctness of the income derived from the exhibits in the agricultural and dairy departments owing to the fact that no definite rule appears to have been enforced regarding the charges for space therein, this matter apparently having been left to the discretion of the respective superintendents. The total income entered in the superintendents departmental records agrees in the aggregate with the amount entered in the receipts book, but our previous comments as to lack of proper accounting methods apply also to these departments.

Dog Show.—This feature was introduced for the 1912 state fair through the medium of the Greater Des Moines Kennel Club, and the income derived therefrom comprises the entry fees together with admission receipts, advertising, etc. We have verified the correctness of the admission receipts ($1,222.95) by examination with the tickets issued and returned records, but we have been unable to verify the correctness of the entry fees ($274.75) and sundry receipts ($103.48) as the department does not possess any documentary evidence of a satisfactory character.

Concessions and Privileges.—The amounts turned over by the superintendent of this department are in agreement with the entries in the receipts book, but the evidence placed at our disposal for the verification thereof, has been of an unsatisfactory character inasmuch as the amount called for by the individual contracts with certain of the concessionaires has not always been accounted for, and furthermore, in certain instances, the signature of the concessionaire has not been obtained to the contracts, thereby rendering these documents useless as a means of verification. We are informed that the dicrepancies between the contract prices and the amounts turned over by the superintendent are due in some cases to the abandonment of the privileges by the concessionaires, and in other cases to reductions in the prices made by the superintendent acting within his discretionary power granted by the Board. The individual amounts payable by the concessionaires under their contracts are fixed by the superintendent of this department, the Board leaving the matter of the consideration payable thereunder entirely in his hands, and we are informed that it is impracticable for the Board to fix definite prices beforehand, at which the concessions and privileges are to be granted, owing to the peculiar conditions under which this department operates. We verified the income derived from the concession granted to the Reiss Shows, which was fixed at 35 per cent of the admissions thereto for the year 1912, but we have been unable to verify the income derived from the concession granted to the Hatch Shows for the 1911 fair, as the unused admission tickets have been destroyed.

Entry Fees, Races.—The amounts turned over by the superintendent of the racing department have been verified with the details of entry fees in the American Trotting Association's record of races, and comprise the receipts under this caption, being 3 per cent of the amount of the purse offered in all harness races plus 5 per cent additional from money winners, and $5.00 for each entry in running races.

Sale of Forage.—The amount included under this caption is derived from the sales of forage to exhibitors and others during the fair, but no satisfactory evidence has been produced to us in support of the amounts turned over to the treasurer by the superintendent. No record is kept of quantities purchased and sold, and no account of the sales is submitted to the Board. The matter of the inventory of forage on hand at the conclusion of the fairs has already been referred to in an earlier part of this report.

Advertisements, Premium List.—The income derived from this source is based on the following classification: inside of cover, $40.00; full page, $25.00; half page, $15.00; quarter page, $7.50, and cards each $3.50. We have verified the amount receivable in this connection with the actual space taken in the premium lists each year, and find the same in agreement with the amounts entered in the receipts book.

Dairy Department, Sales of Ice Cream, etc.—The amount included under this caption represents the net proceeds of the sales of ice cream, etc., during the fair, and the only evidence in support of the receipts entered on the records are the statements of the sales and purchases and expenses, rendered by the superintendent of this department. We understand the daily takings are recorded on a cash register but no effort is made by the Board to verify the correctness of the statements as rendered by the superintendent.

Public Safety Department, Fines, Etc., and Miscellaneous Receipts.—The amounts included hereunder are as per the records but as in the cases of the other departments previously referred to, the lack of proper accounting precludes any verification thereof.

Exhibitors Tickets.—The income shown under this caption is derived by a charge of $2.00 for each ticket issued to individual exhibitors and has been verified by examination of the register of exhibitors, and in addition in the case of the year 1912, by examination of the tickets issued records. These tickets entitle the holders thereof to admission to the fair grounds during each day of the fair, and in effect, take the place of a charge for entering the exhibits.

Ticket Sales.—We found it impossible to verify the amount of the ticket sales for the year 1911 as the tickets issued but not sold have, we are informed, been destroyed. We are, however, also informed that an examination of the ticket sales for that year was made by the ticket audit committee, but no record of the result of such examination has been submitted to us. We have made a thorough examination of the ticket sales for the year 1912 and find the following discrepancies in the number of tickets returned as unsold to the secretary:

Day admission, 50 cents each; 500 short, value	$ 250.00
Childrens admission, 25 cents; 10 short, value	2.50
Half-fare admission, 25 cents each; 10 short, value	2.50
Bleachers admission, 25 cents; 9 short, value	2.25
	$ 257.25

Complimentary and Free Tickets.—In Appendix "I" we present a statement of complimentary and helpers tickets, issued by the secretary for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, and in Appendix "II" we present a statement of complimentary and helpers tickets issued by the officers of the Board and department superintendents for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911. The information contained therein is as per the records but the department does not possess any evidence whereby the correctness thereof can be verified.

State Fair Operating Expense. The classification of this expenditure together with the respective amounts thereof for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, will be found on reference to Exhibit "B." We have examined the returned warrants issued and all claims in connection with the expenditure for the above mentioned periods and find the amounts entered on the records to be in agreement therewith.

Under the statutes defining the powers and regulating the duties of the Board of Agriculture, the executive committee consisting of the president, vice-president and secretary are empowered to pass on all expenditure incurred by the department. We have examined the records relating to the proceedings at the meetings of this committee and find that all expenditure during the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, has been duly approved for payment. This expenditure has also been approved by the auditing committee but we find that in certain cases pay rolls for labor at the fair grounds have been approved without the proper O. K. of the superintendent of the department being thereon.

In Schedules "3," "4," "5," and "6," will be found details supporting the amounts appearing under the caption of state fair operating expense, for department expense, miscellaneous expense, salaries and cash premiums respectively. The pay rolls for the employees of the departments enumerated in Schedule "3" are in accordance with the reports of the respective superintendents. The number of employees engaged and the respective duties thereof are at the discretion of the department superintendents, and we are informed that in no case has an employee received payment for services not rendered, or remained on the pay roll longer than was absolutely necessary. The superintendents per diem contains items fo services rendered by the secretary of the Agricultural Department; the Food and Dairy Commissioner and the Secretary of the Horticultural Society.

The executive committee meeting; special committee meeting and board meeting expenses include per diem and mileage charges of the various members and officials for meetings held at the capitol, together with actual traveling and hotel expenses for meetings, etc., attended out of the state, the claims for which have been duly approved by the executive committee. Further comments relative to the traveling and hotel expenses for meetings, etc., attended out of the state will be found in a later part of this report.

The items included herein for express, telegraph and telephone, postage, printing and advertising are, in our opinion, properly chargeable hereto. The postage and printing includes the cost of preparing and mailing the various publications issued by the department, and the advertising represents the cost of publishing the notices connected with the fair over all parts of the state and in various newspapers, etc., outside the state, the expenditure for which is decided upon by the Board and which, in the opinion thereof is undertaken in the best interests of the state fair generally. In addition to these charges various other items of expenditures are made out of the appropriations as per sections 164 and 165 of the Code, and supplies are also received from the state printer and the state binder.

In Schedule "4," we present a statement of the miscellaneous expense for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911. We would call attention to the items included therein for rent of tents, awnings, cots, etc.; plants and flowers, and hauling manure. The purchase outright of the tents, awnings, etc., would result in the saving of this expense; the plants and flowers are not considered as being of any value at the conclusion of the fair and no account is rendered as to the disposition thereof; and the reduction in the cost of hauling manure in 1912 arose through the department letting the contract therefor to an outside party.

A summary of the cost of music and attractions for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, is contained in the following statement:

	1912	1911
Fireworks	$ 2,250.00	$ 6,500.00
Music—bands and orchestras	6,760.00	6,881.00
Aeroplane exhibitions	1,477.82	4,583.33
Vaudeville shows	2,950.00	2,550.00
Sheep, dog exhibitions	.....	560.05
Electric tandem	.....	750.00
Cheyenne show	12,000.00	.....
Miscellaneous	1,301.63	2,521.40
	$ 26,739.45	$ 24,345.78

In Schedule "5" we present a statement of office salaries, permanent employes and temporary employes, for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, from which it will be observed that the salaries paid in the department in excess of the appropriations amounted in 1912 to $4,1065.82, and in 1911 to $2,740.75. We give below copies of resolutions passed by the Board of Agriculture in connection with the employment of extra assistance:

Under date of February 21, 1908: "The following resolution with reference to the management of the Iowa State Fair and Exposition was reported by the special committee and upon roll call adopted by a unanimous vote: Resolved,

"That the general management of the Iowa State Fair and Exposition be delegated to the executive committee as provided in section 1657, i, chapter 3, of the supplement of the code of Iowa, and that said executive committee be and is hereby authorized to employ a secretary or clerk at a salary of not to exceed twelve hundred dollars ($1,200.00) per year, said salary to be paid from the receipts of the State Fair and Exposition."

Under date of February 22, 1908: "J. C. Simpson was employed as clerk to the executive committee at a salary of $1,200.00 per annum, payable monthly by warrant drawn upon the treasurer, time of beginning of his services to date from February 1, 1908.

Under date of February 11, 1910: "Resolved, that the executive committee be authorized and instructed by and in behalf of this Board to fix the compensation of Secretary Simpson for extra services as member of and clerk to the said executive committee for the Iowa State Fair and Exposition at eighteen hundred dollars per annum payable monthly."

The compensation as fixed by resolutions as above was additional to the salary drawn by the then secretary as provided by 28 G. A., ch. 58, sec. 13, and 31 G. A., ch. 67.

The items included hereunder for forage purchased have already been referred to under the caption of inventories in an earlier part of this report.

The expenditure included hereunder for fair grounds department represents the labor employed thereon, and the classification thereof is as per the records as derived from the actual pay rolls. The supervision and employment of all labor represented thereby comes within the duties of the superintendent of grounds, whose O. K. as to the rate of pay and the amount of wages earned by the individual employes is accepted by the Board, but we are informed that reports as to all labor requirements and conditions are submitted by the superintendent thereto. The pay rolls with accompanying vouchers have been produced to us, and we find that the O. K. of the superintendent has not been made on the individual time tickets of the employes in certain cases. The amounts stated to have been earned by the employes as per the pay rolls are in agreement with the amounts paid therefor but, other than the supervision exercised by the superintendent, no effort is made to ascertain if the department derives all the benefits which should accrue in this connection.

In Schedule "6" we present a statement of cash premiums, and Breeders' Association premiums for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911; and disbursements thereof is as per the award records which have been produced to us.

Miscellaneous Income.—This comprises fees, division of horse breeding; collections—use of grounds; interest on monthly balances, scholarship refund; telephone and miscellaneous. The fees, division of horse breeding, represent the collections for the registration of all grades of stallions and jacks in the state, and the increase in the amount thereof during 1912 is due to the enforcement of new regulations whereby all grades of these animals require to be registered, whereas formerly, only the pure bred animals were registered. The amount so collected has been verified with the records in that division of the department. Collections—use of grounds, which include stall and pasture rent; lumber sales; rental of grounds, and miscellaneous, are as reported by the superintendent of grounds, who collects all such items. The records do not provide any check upon the amounts so collected, and owing to the lack of a proper accounting system, it is impossible to state whether all collections have been properly accounted for. The amount of the interest on the monthly balances has not been verified by us, as no monthly statements are issued to the department by the Iowa Trust and Savings Bank and the department accepts the amount accredited without question.

Other Expenditures. This comprises fair grounds maintenance, details of which are set forth in schedule '7"; salaries and expenses, division of horse breeding—details of which are shown in schedule "5"; annual meeting, per-diem and mileage; stationery and office supplies; insurance premiums; animal industry committee expense; sale of lighting plant, expenses; pay roll—wrecking old buildings; pay roll—June race meeting; pay roll—firemens tournament; pay roll —planting rented grounds, and miscellaneous. The fair ground maintenance consists mostly of labor, and our comments as to the pay roll and supervision thereof for the fair grounds department, apply equally in connection with this expenditure, and also to the other pay roll expenditure mentioned in this paragraph. Salaries, division of horse breeding, have already been commented upon in an earlier part of this report.

Net Income. This amounts to $42,433.48, and $40,850.96 for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912, and November 30, 1911, respectively, and is carried to the credit of surplus or present worth as has already been noted in an earlier portion of this report.

PER DIEM AND MILEAGE CHARGES.

In Appendix III we present a statement of the expenses charged by members of the Board and officials of the department for out-of-state meetings during the periods under review, and in all cases the actual charges are less than the amounts allowable by law. In Appendix IV we present a statement of the amounts paid to members of the board, officials of the department, and the department superintendents at the State Fair; and the amounts included therein comprise the whole of the per diem and mileage payments for the twelve months ended November 30, 1912 and November 30, 1911.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Board of agriculture is responsible and presumably accountable for assets of approximately $800,000.00 in value, and also for the administration of the State Fair funds which now amount to nearly $200,000.00 annually; yet. as this report demonstrates, when called upon to render an account of its stewardship, it is a matter of impossibility to prepare a true and correct statement of the financial position without recourse to an appraisal and inventory, and in addition the records of the administration of the State Fair are of such a nature as to preclude any satisfactory verification thereof.

The accounting methods are of the crudest description and no commercial concern could continue to exist under similar conditions. The only attempt at bookkeeping is comprised in chronological records of receipts and payments. No ledger accounts are kept of the assets created by expenditures on permanent improvements, and prior to 1910 (see schedule "2") no distribution of material and labor, expended by the Board itself under this caption, has been made in the records.

Speaking generally the records kept in the department fail entirely to provide the necessary data and information whereby the due accounting of all income can be properly assured; and also whereby the consideration, which is presumably obtained for all disbursements, can safely be said to have been enjoyed solely thereby. Furthermore as no record is made of the amounts received in respect of annual appropriations (with the solitary exception of the $1,000.00 per annum for insurance &c., twenty-eighth General Assembly, chapter 58) it is a matter of extreme difficulty to arrive at the correct annual cost of operating the department, and this disability is accentuated by the fact that the fiscal year does not coincide with that of the state.

Reference to the printed report of the executive council for the period from June 30, 1910 to July 1, 1912 (pages 459 to 466) discloses that the sum of $28,944.92 was disbursed in respect of the department of agriculture under various annual appropriations during that period, particulars of which are as follows:

Salaries	$ 4,725.00
Furniture and stores	1,209.88
Telephone and telegraph	51.90
Express, freight and cartage	78.49
Farmers' institute and short courses	13,430.93
Miscellaneous expense	1.75
Printing by state printer	4,075.08
Binding by state binder	3,036.33
Engraving	55.46
Stock used by state printer	909.36
Supplies from supply department	1,370.74
Total	$ 28,944.92

None of the above disbursements are entered in the records kept in the department, therefore, while a net income of some $40,000.00 is being realized annually, the state is at the same time subsidizing the department to the extent of $14,500.00 per annum; and in addition is furnishing the funds for operating the weather and crop service, which, according to the report of the executive council for the period from June 30, 1910 to July 1, 1912, (pages 467 to 471) amounted to $7,620.03, made up as follows:

Salaries	$4,330.00
Miscellaneous expense	907.47
Printing by state printer	2,021.06
Binding by state binder	139.50
Stock used by state printer	222.00
	$7,620.03

The department of agriculture is a revenue producer, owing principally to the State Fair and the division of horse breeeding fees, and it is therefore a question to be decided by the House and Senate, whether or not it is entitled to annual appropriations for salaries or for any other purpose.

The only specific information published in reference to the operations of the department is contained in the printed annual financial statement, which is necessarily misleading as it is complied from the receipts and payments of the particular period, irrespective of whether they are properly applicable thereto; and is also erroneous in several respects—no distinction being made between disbursements for repairs and disbursements for permanent improvements, and in addition receipts in respect of the sale of assets are included as income thus unduly inflating the net income for the fiscal year.

We have given the matter of the re-organization of the department very careful consideration, but it will be readily understood that the following recommendations are necessarily in some cases only tentative, as whatever new system of gereral organization and accounting is ultimately adopted must be co-ordinated with that of other departments, and be controlled by some central department of accounting or finance yet to be created. Our recommendations are as follows:

1. That the present Board be reduced to a more workable number of members, say not less than five nor more than seven. The experience of industrial corporations has proved conclusively that boards of directors consisting of more than seven members are unwieldy owing to the great difficulty experienced in obtaining uniformity of action. This reduction would therefore tend towards increased efficiency, and at the same time curtail the mileage and per diem expense.

2. The adoption of a proper system of double entry bookkeeping, which would comprehend an appropriate classification of assets and liabilities together with income and expenditure accounts, whereby the whole of the financial operations and transactions of the department would be clearly reflected—the basis for which should be an independent valuation of all of the property controlled by the department, by a competent firm of appraisers. This accounting system of course to be directly controlled by the central department of accounting or finance for the state.

3. The adoption of a proper stores system, whereby the receipt and issue at the fair grounds of all lumber, hardware, building materials, etc. etc., would be made a matter of record, and duly entered into the accounting system.

4. The adoption of a proper pay roll system, whereby the names, positions, and rates of renumeration of all employees of the department would be a matter of record. Two books should be designed for this purpose, one for officials and office employees, and the other for the staff at the fair grounds.

5. The definite fixing of rates and for charges by the Board for all concessions and privileges, space and other rentals; and wherever possible the collection of the income therefrom by the secretary of the Board. Prior to each fair plats should be prepared of the floor space in all buildings and the amount rented to each exhibitor properly scaled off thereon.

6. The adoption of rules and regulations defining the duties and limitations to be imposed upon the superintendents of grounds, with special reference to the disposal of the property of the department, the letting of pasturage, stalls, etc., and the collection of moneys therefor.

7. The adoption of a Board members' Attendance book wherein the mileage and per diem due to each member for each meeting would be duly recorded, together with his signature attesting his attendance.

8. The taking of a physical inventory, at the close of each fiscal year, of all lumber, hardware, supplies, and loose tools and implements at the fair grounds; together with the stationery and office supplies at the capitol.

9. The alteration of the department's fiscal year from the twelve months ending November 30, to the twelve months ending June 30, so as to coincide with that of the state.

Other recommendations of a minor character principally relating to accounting details were discussed with the secretary during the course of our examination of the records, but these are not of sufficient importance to warrant specific attention herein, although they will receive due consideration when we receive instructions to proceed with the design and installation of the new system of organization and accounting.

The majority of the above recommendations could be put into effect practically at once, but we would strongly advise against too precipitate action on the accounting system otherwise the reorganization of the other departments and consequently that of the administration and accounting of the state as a whole may be unnecessarily complicated and retarded.

Yours very truly,

Every such employer shall within thirty (30) days after this act goes into effect exhibit on demand of the state insurance department evidence of his compliance with this section. And if such employer refuses, or neglect to comply with this section, he shall be liable in case of injury to any workman in his employe under part one (1) of this act.

Sec. 44. For the purpose of complying with the foregoing section, groups of employers by themselves or in an association with any or all of their workmen, may form insurance associations as hereafter provided, subject to such reasonable conditions and restrictions as may be fixed by the state insurance department and membership in such mutual insurance organizations so approved, together with evidence of the payment of premiums due, shall be evidence of compliance with the preceding section.

Sec. 45. Subject to the approval of the state insurance department any employer or group of employers may enter into or continue an agreement with his or their workmen to provide a scheme of compensation, benefit or insurance in lieu of the compensation and insurance provided by this act; but such schemes shall in no instance provide less than the benefits here secured, nor vary the period of compensation provided for disability or for death, or the provisions of this act with respect to periodic payments, or the percentage that such payments shall bear to weekly wages, except that the sums required may be increased; provided, further, that the approval of the insurance department shall be granted, if the scheme provides for contribution by workmen, only when it confers benefits in addition to those required by this act commensurate with such contributions.

Sec. 46. Whenever such scheme or plan is approved by the department of insurance, he shall issue a certificate to that effect, whereupon it shall be legal for such employer, or group of employers, to contract with any or all of his or their workmen to substitute such scheme or plan for the provisions of this act during a period of time fixed by said department.

Sec. 47. Such scheme or plan may be terminated by the insurance department on reasonable notice to the interested parties if it shall appear that the same is not fairly administered, or if its operation shall disclose latent defects threatening its solvency, or if for any substantial reason it fails to accomplish the purpose of this act; but from any such order of said insurance department the parties affected, whether employer or workmen, may, upon the giving of proper bond to protect the interests involved appeal for equitable relief to the district court of this state.

Sec. 48. No insurer of any obligation under this act shall either by himself or through another, either directly or indirectly, charge or accept as a commission or compensation for placing or renewing any insurance under this act more than fifteen (15) per cent of the premiums charged.

Sec. 49. Every policy issued by any insurance corporation, association or organization to assure the payment of compensation under this act shall contain a clause providing that between any employer and the insurer, notice, to and knowledge of the occurrence of injury or death on the part of the insured shall be notice and knowledge on the part of the insurer; and jurisdiction of the insured for the purpose of this act shall be jurisdiction of the insurer and the insurer shall be bound by every agreement, adjudgment, award or judgment rendered against the insured.

Sec. 50. No policy of insurance issued under this act shall contain any provision relieving the insurer from payment if the insured becomes insolvent or discharged in bankruptcy during the period that the policy is in operation, or the compensation, or any part of it, is due and unpaid. Every policy shall provide that the workman shall have a first lien upon any amount becoming due on account of such policy to the insured from the insurer, and that in case of the legal incapacity, inability or disability of the insured to receive the amount due and pay it over to the insured workman, or his dependents, said insurer shall pay the same directly to such workman, his agent, or to a trustee for him or his dependents, to the extent of discharging any obligation of the insured to said workman or his dependents.

Senator Savage filed the following explanation of his vote on Senate File No. 507:

I vote "aye" upon Senate File 507, though much preferring that the manufacture of the serum be carried on at some other place than Ames. I believe that placing the matter at Ames will prove detrimental to the best interests of the agricultural college as an educational institution. The use of serum will not aways prove satisfactory and in cases of failure the fault will be charged to the college and reflect upon it in an unsatisfactory way. To my mind many reasons present themselves why the manufacture should be carried on at some other place.

A. C. SAVAGE.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE.

I vote "yes" on the bill because I think it important that a state serum plant be established. I do not, however, think the plant should be located at Ames, because it tends to commercialize the college and makes it responsible for the results of the serum treatment over the state, and for quarantines if any should be established. I think the plant should have been located under the jurisdiction and supervision of the animal health commission, in order that there might have been a single responsibility in manufacture, distribution and administration.

ED. P. MALMBERG.

All toilet rooms equipped with flush valves such as are in the House and Senate toilets.

Boilers in the engine room equipped with soot blowers.

Certain necessary repairs to the boiler house, historical and capitol buildings, pointed out by the engineer to this committee as being necessary for the proper preservation of the building and equipment but too numerous to set out fully in this report, at an estimated cost of fifteen hundred dollars ($1500.00).

A change in the electric light wiring in the sub-basement so that it may be cut off and turned on as needed; as it now is the entire sub-basement lights burn continually; also that the sub-basement of the historical building be wired in like manner.

Repairing and cleaning of the curtains in the Senate and House chambers.

Repairing of the basement floor in the capitol so that the marble be placed in the three wings and main hall, and the placing of a new floor of cement in the west wing in which the heavy trucking and moving is usually done.

New carpets to replace those that are old and worn out, repairing, relaying and rearranging of other carpet.

Repairing of numerous chairs used in both the Senate and House chambers and other parts of the building, and also in the historical building.

We recommend that for the purpose of making the above mentioned repairs there be added to the usual biennial appropriation of $20,00, the sum of five thousand dollars ($5000.00), which sum, together with the amount remaining from the appropriation made under sub-section 23 of section 3, chapter 192, acts of the Thirty-fourth General Assembly, be placed in the hands of the enecutive council.

Sec. 8. The owner, operator, lessee or person in charge of any gypsum mine shall make or cause to be made an accurate map or plan of such mine, drawn to a scale not more than two hundred (200) feet to the inch, on which shall appear the name of the state, county and township in which the mine is located, the designation of the mine, the name of the company or owner, operator, lessee or person in charge, the certificate of the mining engineer or surveyor as to the accuracy and date of the survey, the north point and the scale to which the drawing is made. Every such map or plan shall correctly show the surface boundary lines of the rights pertaining to each mine and all sections or quarter section lines or corners within the same; the lines of town lots or streets; the tracks or side tracks of all railroads, the location of all wagon roads, rivers, streams, ponds, reservations made of gypsum and mineral. For the underground workings said map shall show all shafts, slopes, tunnells or other opening to the surface or to the workings of a continuous mine; all excavations, entries, rooms and cross cuts; the location of the escape ways, and of the fan or furnace or other means of ventilation and the direction of air currents and the location of permanent pumps, hauling engines, engine plains, abandoned works, fire walls and standing water. A separate and similar map drawn to the same scale in all cases shall be made of each and every seam of gypsum operated in any mine in the state. A separate map shall also be made of the surface whenever the surface buildings, lines or objects are so numerous as to obscure the details of the mine workings if drawn upon the same sheet with them and in such case the surface map shall be drawn upon transparent cloth or paper so it can be laid upon the map of the underground workings and thus truly indicate the local relation of lines and objects on the surface to the excavation of the mine, together with any other principal workings of the mines. Each map shall also show by profile drawing and measurement, the last one hundred fifty (150) feet approaching the boundary lines, showing the rise and dip of the seam. The original or true copies of all such maps shall be kept at the office of the mine and true copies thereof shall also be furnished the state mine inspector for the district in which said mine is located within thirty (30) days after the completion of the same. The maps so delivered to the inspector shall be the property of the state and shall remain in the custody of the said inspector during his term of office and be delivered to his successor in office. They shall be kept at the office of the inspector and be open to examination to all persons interested in the same. But such examination shall only be made in the presence of the inspector or his office assistant, and he shall not permit any copies of the same to be made without the written consent of the operator or the owner of the property, except as herein and otherwise provided. An accurate extension of the last preceding survey of every mine in active operation shall be made once in every twelve (12) months prior to July 1st of every year and the result of such survey with the date thereof shall be promptly and accurately entered upon the original map and a true, correct and accurate copy of said extended map shall be forwarded to the inspector of mines in the district in which said mine is located so as to show all changes in plan of new work in the mine, and all extension of the old workings to the most advanced face or boundary of said workings, which have been made since the last preceding survey, and the parts of the mine abandoned or worked out after the last preceding survey shall be clearly indicated and shown by colorings, which copy must be delivered to the inspector of mines within thirty (30) days after the last survey is made. When any gypsum mine is worked out or is about to be abandoned or indefinitely closed, the owner, operator or lessee or person in charge of the same shall make or cause to be made a complete extended map of said mine and the result of the same shall be duly extended on all maps of the mine and copies thereof so as to show all excavations and the most advanced workings of the mine and their exact relation to the boundary of section lines on the surface, and deliver to the inspector a copy of the completed map. The state inspector of mines shall order a survey to be made of the workings of any mine and the result to be extended on the maps of the same and the copies thereof whenever in his judgment the safety of the workmen, the support of the surface, the conservation of the property or the safety of the adjoining mine requires it; and if not made by the owner, operator, lessee or person in charge when ordered by the inspector it shall be made or cause to be made by the inspector and paid for by the state and the amount collected from the owner, operator, lessee or person in charge as other debts are collected.

Be it Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

Section 1-a. Where five or more employees, as defined by this act, are employed in the same general employment and in the usual and ordinary transaction of business, the employer and employe shall be deemed to have come within this act, and in case of personal injuries sustained, arising out of and in the course of employment by any such employe, he

Sec. 2. No compensation under this act shall be allowed for an injury: (a) Caused by the employee's wilful intent to injure himself or to wilfully injure another; (b) nor shall compensation be made to an injured employee if injury is sustained while intoxicated.

Sec. 3. The rights and remedies provided in this act for an employee on account of an injury, shall be exclusive of all other rights and remedies of such employee, his personal or legal representatives, dependents or next of kin, at common law or otherwise on account of such injury; and all employees shall be conclusively presumed to take compensation in accordance with the terms, conditions and provisions of this act.

Sec. 4. Where an employee coming under the provisions of this act receives an injury for which compensation is payable under this act, and which injury was caused under circumstances creating a legal liability in some other person than the employer, to pay damages in respect thereof;

(a) The employee or beneficiary may take proceedings against that person to recover damages, but the amount of compensation to which he is entitled under this act shall be reduced by the amount of damages recovered.

(b) If the employee or beneficiary in such case accepts compensation under this act, the industrial commission shall be entitled to indemnity from the person so liable to pay damages as aforesaid and shall be subrogated to the rights of the employee to recover therefor, and shall proceed to collect from such person and pay the amount collected to the state treasurer, which sum shall become a part of the employers' indemnity fund.

Sec. 5. No contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever, shall operate to relieve the employer in whole or in part, from any liability created by this act, except as herein provided.

Sec. 6. No compensation shall be allowed for an injury which does not disable either wholly or partially the employee for a period of more than two weeks, and if the disability be partial, then he shall receive such a part of the compensation allowed for total disability as his earning capacity shall be impaired by said injury.

Sec. 7. No compensation shall be allowed to any employee unless he or his representative shall have given notice of such injury to the industrial commission or to his employer within ninety (90) days of the accident causing his injury, and in no event shall any compensation be allowed to such employee or the beneficiaries for any period of time prior to two weeks of the giving of said notice to the industrial commission or the employer.

Sec. 8. No particular form of notice shall be required, but it shall state as nearly as possible the name of the employer and employee, the date, place and manner and kind of accident and the nature of the injury.

The industrial commission shall draw a warrant upon the fund hereinafter provided not in excess of one hundred dollars ($100.00), to pay the reasonable expenses of the employee's last sickness and burial, and if the employee leaves no dependents, this shall be the only compensation; provided, however, that if the injury from which death ensued was produced by reason of the failure and negligence of the employer to comply with statutory requirements regarding safety devices for workmen or by reason of the failure and neglect of the employer to comply with the rules and regulations relating to safety for employees, such offending employer shall be required to pay full death benefits as provided for in this act, which sum shall be paid to the state treasurer and constitute a portion of the employee's indemnity fund and the industrial commission shall proceed to collect the amount of the same.

tion to be paid as aforesaid shall be equal to the same proportion of the weekly payments for the benefit of the persons wholly dependent as the amount contributed by the employee to such partial dependents bears to the annual earnings of the deceased at the time of the injury. When weekly payments have been made to an injured employee before his death, the compensation to dependents shall begin from the date of the last of such payments, but shall not continue for more than 250 weeks from the date of the injury.

(e) Where the injury causes death to an employee, a minor, whose earnings are received by the parent, the compensation to be paid the parent shall be onehalf of the amount, provided for payment in subdivision "c" of this section. But such payments shall not continue longer than the date of majority of said minor, had he lived.

And if this basis of computation is impossible or should appear to be unreasonable, two hundred eighty (280) times the amount which the injured person earned on an average of those days wehn he was working during the year next preceding the accident, shall be used as a basis for the computation.

(e) In case of injured employees who earn either no wages or less thtn two hundred eighty (280) times the usual daily wage or earnings of the adult day laborer in the same line of industry of that locality the yearly wage shall be reckoned as two hundred eighty (280) times the average daily local wages of the average wage earner in that particular kind or class of work; or if information of that class is not obtainable, then of the class or kindred or similarity in the same general employment in the same neighborhood.

(f) As to employees in employments in which it is the custom to operate for a part of the whole number of working days in each year, such number shall be used instead of two hundred eighty as a basis for computing the annual earnings, provided, the minimum number of days which shall be used for the basis of the year's work shall not be less than one hundred (100).

Sec. 22 It shall be the duty of the industrial commission upon notification that an employe has been injured, to investigate and determine the amount that shall be allowed the injured employe and the times of payment thereof, and in fixing the amount, the commission shall be governed by the terms and conditions of this act.

Sec. 23. Fees of attorneys and physicians for services under this act shall be subject to the approval of the industrial commission unless otherwise provided in this act.

Sec. 25. A violation thereof shall be deemed a misdemeanor and upon convictin thereof shall be fined one hundred ($100.00) dollars.

Sec. 27. It shall be unlawful for any member of the commission to become financially interested in any business enterprise coming under or affected by this act during his term of office and any member offending this statute, it shall be sufficient grounds for his removal from office and in such case the governor shall at once declare the office vacant and appoint another to fill the vacancy.

Sec. 28. Upon a conviction of any member of the commission for a violation of the duties imposed by this act, the governor shall immediately declare the office vacant and appoint another to fill the vacancy in the same manner as provided for orginal appointments.

Sec. 29. After the 1st day of May, 1915, every employer of labor or service shall pay a license as provided for in this act and in accordance with the rules fixed by the industrial commission, and if any employer shall fail so to do or fail to make payment as in this act provided, he shall forfeit for each offense or failure to pay five times the amount fixed or charged in each payment, and until said date the relative rights of injured employes and employers shall be and remain as it now is.

Sec. 30. On the first day of May, 1915, every employer, under this act, shall certify to the industrial commission the number of persons employed by him, and shall state the name, place, nature of business or occupation, and at the same time he shall forward to the commission a draft or certified check for the sum of one dollar for each person employed by him. Also every employer beginning business after said date, shall, upon the commencement of business, make a like certified statement, and forward to the commission a draft or certified check for one dollar per each person employed by him, which amount in every event shall be immediately turned over to the state treasurer, who shall issue duplicate receipts therefor, one of which shall be sent to the employer and the other filed by tne commission. The sum so paid shall constitute a part of the payment for license or tax due from the employer to the state for the privilege of carrying on said business.

Sec. 31. On the 15th day of the third month, after filing first certified statement with the commission, said employer shall certify his payroll for the past quarter to the industrial commission and shall accompany the same with a check or draft for the per cent of wages shown in said payroll as fixed by the industrial commission, as the per cent to be paid on his class or kind of occupation and the said check shall be turned over to the treasurer who shall issue duplicate receipts therefor, and the said employer shall continue so to do for each and every quarter thereafter until otherwise directed by the industrial commission.

Sec. 32. The first payment above mentioned, together with the four quarterly payments shall be the cost of the license charged by the state to the employer for the first year, and each four quarterly payments thereafter shall be the cost of the license for each following year.

Sec. 33. The funds received from the licenses, together with other funds and interest paid into the treasury as in this act provided, shall constitute the employes' indemnity fund.

Sec. 34. The state treasurer shall deposit said funds at two per cent interest. Said funds shall be paid out on warrants drawn by the industrial commission in favor of the various injured employes and their dependents as provided in section nine hereof.

Sec. 35. The industrial commission shall ascertain as nearly as possible the amount saved to the state and the various counties thereof by the decrease in costs of litigation and expenses in providing for and caring for persons injured and their families because of the operation of this act, and shall certify said gross amount to the executive council from time to time and the executive council shall levy millage tax on all the taxable property in the state of Iowa to be collected as other taxes, and when so collected, shall be turned over to the treasurer and become a part of the employes' indemnity fund.

Sec. 36. If at any time it shall become apparent to the industrial commission that the licenses charged, together with other funds shall be more than sufficient to pay the indemnities, the industrial commission shall decrease the license fees of all employers pro rata, so that the funds collected from all sources shall be approximately sufficient to pay indemnities. But if the indutsrial commission shall ascertain that the employes' indemnity fund shall not be sufficient to meet the demands, then the industrial commission shall increase the licenses pro rata until the various sources of income shall be sufficient to maintain an adequate fund. But under no circumstances shall the fund be decreased unless the amount on hand shall be at least three hundred thousand dollars, ($300,000), and the decrease in licenses shall be so established that the fund on hand at any one time shall not go below one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000.00).

Sec. 37. Every employer coming within this act shall make true certification of his payroll for each month and make payment of proper per cent as fixed in the license, and if any employer shall make a false statement, understating the payroll, he shall for each offense forfeit and pay to the state treasurer, to become a part of the indemnity fund, fifty times the amount which his erroneous statement would decrease the amount to be paid by him under a correct statement of his payroll.

Sec. 38. Upon the appointment and qualification of the industrial commission, it shall proceed to investigate and determine the hazard and risk of each class or kind of employment and shall fix the per cent of his payroll which each employer shall pay as a license for the privilege of carrying on his occupation and the percentage so fixed shall remain and be paid by such employer until the percentage shall be changed by the industrial commission.

Sec. 39. The industrial commission shall from time to time make any change which shall be equitable in the percentage charged by the state for employer's license. The industrial commission in fixing the per cent to be charged on each payroll for the state license shall be guided as nearly as possible by all information obtainable as to the hazard of such employment, the liability of accident and the probable aggregate amount required to indemnify all employes injured and entitled to compensation under this act.

Sec. 40. It shall be the duty of the industrial commission to classify all industries according to hazard and liability to injury and certify to the schedule so made, and each employer within this act shall be entitled to a copy thereof and such schedules shall also be furnished to the thirty-sixth general assembly and each general assembly thereafter with any changes that have been made during the period, during the assembling of the respective general assemblies and each general assembly is empowered by a majority vote of both houses to change any schedule or schedules fixed by the industrial commission.

Sec. 41. In fixing the schedule of licenses, the industrial commission shall be governed as nearly as possible by the hazard or liability of accident in each class or kind of employment and shall as nearly as possible fix the amount of license to be paid by each class or kind of employment so that each kind or class of employment shall pay into the indemnity fund such a proportion of the whole fund as the indemnities paid to the employes in that class of employment is of all indemnities paid.

Sec. 42. Before any employer shall discontinue the business or occupation in which he is engaged, wherein any employe or employes shall be injured and became beneficiaries under this act, he shall pay to the state treasurer to become a part of the employes' indemnity fund, the full amount of such indemnity, less the amount theretofore paid in licenses or otherwise relating to such occupation, and he and his estate shall be liable for such obligations, the same as other ordinary debts.

PART III.

Sec. 43. That for the purpose of providing a suitable employes' indemnity fund relating to liability for personal injury sustained by employes in line of duty and fixing compensation therefor there shall be appointed by the governor by and with the consent of a two-thirds majority of the senate a provisional commission of thre to be known as the industrial commission; not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party, and none of whom shall be members of the general assembly at the time of the appointment, and who shall be duly qualified for the service, and whose term of office shall expire March 1, 1915.

Sec. 44. That the said commission shall investigate and report upon the rates necessary to be provided for and employers liability law providing compulsory accident insurance on a limited compensation schedule and rates for an employers liability law based upon a state insurance system, and for that purpose shall compile statistics with reference to the number of accidents in the various classes of industry in the state of Iowa, and relative to the number of persons employed and the length of time of employment, together with rates of accident insurance covering various limitations of liability in the various classes and risks of employment together with all other information and knowledge necessary and desirable upon which to base the experience for rates and provisions for such a law.

The said commission shall investigate and determine as nearly as possible the cost to the state and different districts and counties thereof, occasioned by litigation between employers and employes growing out of accidents, and the cost to the state and counties and districts occasioned by the care of injured employes and care of their dependents growing out of injuries to employes.

Sec. 45. That such commission shall publish such compilation which shall be printed and bound as other state documents and shall cause a copy of the same to be furnished to each member of the general assembly or members elect therof to succeed those whose terms expire in January, 1915, on or before the 15th day of November, 1914.

Sec. 46. That said commission shall have authority to employ the necessary stenographers, clerks and actuary at salaries and compensation to be fixed and determined by the executive council.

Sec. 47. That each member of such commission shall receive the sum of ten dollars ($10.00) per day and necessary expenses for the time actually employed and engaged in the work contemplated herein which shall be paid upon statements of the commission audited and allowed by the executive council.

Sec. 48. That there shall be appropriated out of the moneys into the state treasury not otherwise appropriated not to exceed the sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars to carry out the provisions of this act.

Every such employer shall within thirty (30) days after this act goes into effect exhibit on demand of the state insurance department evidence of his compliance with this section. And if such employer refuses, or neglect to comply with this section, he shall be liable in case of injury to any workman in his employe under part one (1) of this act.

Sec. 44. For the purpose of complying with the foregoing section groups of employers by themselves or in an association with any or all of their workman, may form insurance associations as hereafter provided, subject to such reasonable conditions and restrictions as may be fixed by the state insurance department and membership in such mutual insurance organizations so approved, together with evidence of the payment of premiums due, shall be evidence of compliance with the preceding section.

Sec. 45. Subject to the approval of the state insurance department any employer or group of employers may enter into or continue an agreement with his or their workmen to provide a scheme of compensation, benefit or insurance in lieu of the compensation and insurance provided by this act; but such schemes shall in no instance provide less than the benefits here secured, nor vary the period of compensation provided for disability or for death, or the povisions of this act with respect to periodic payments, or the percentage that such payments shall bear to weekly wages, except that the sums required may be increased; provided, further, that the approval of the insurance department shall be granted, if the scheme provides for contribution by workmen, only when it confers benefits in addition to those required by this act commensurate with such contributions.

Sec. 46. Whenever such scheme or plan is approved by the department of insurance, he shall issue a certificate to that effect, whereupon it shall be legal for such employer, or group of employers, to contract with any or all of his or their workmen to substitute such scheme or plan for the provisions of this act during a period of time fixed by said department.

Sec. 47. Such scheme or plan may be terminated by the insurance department on reasonable notice to the interested parties if it shall appear that the same is not fairly administered, or if its operation shall disclose latent defects threatening its solvency, or if for any substantial reason it fails to accomplish the purpose of this act; but from any such order of said insurance department the parties affected, whether employer or workmen, may, upon the giving of proper bond to protect the interests involved appeal for equitable relief to the district court of this state.

Sec. 48. No insurer of any obligation under this act shall either by himself or through another, either directly or indirectly, charge or accept as a commission or compensation for placing or renewing any insurance under this act more than fifteen (15) per cent of the premiums charged.

Sec. 49. Every policy issued by any insurance corporation, association or organization to assure the payment of compensation under this act shall contain a clause providing that between any employer and the insurer, notice, to and knowledge of the occurrence of injury or death on the part of the insured shall be notice and knowledge [illegible] part of the insurer; and jurisdiction of the insured for the purpose of this act shall be jurisdiction of the insurer and the insurer shall be bound by every agreement, adjudgment, award or judgment rendered against the insured.

Sec. 50. No policy of insurance issued under this act shall contain any provision relieving the insurer from payment if the insured becomes insolvent or discharged in bankruptcy during the period that the policy is in operation, or the compensation, or any part of it, is due and unpaid. Every policy shall provide that the workman shall have a first lien upon any amount becoming due on account of such policy to the insured from the insurer, and that in case of the legal incapacity, inability or disability of the insured to receive the amount due and pay it over to the insured workman, or his dependents, said insurer shall pay the same directly to such workman, his agent, or to a trustee for him or his dependents, to the extent of discharging any obligation of the insured to said workman or his dependents.

SENATE FILE NO. 3..

A BILL for an Act Relating to Employers' Liability for Personal Injury Sustained by Employes in Line of Duty, Fixing Compensation Therefor, Securing the Payment Thereof by Indemnity Insurance, Creating a Board of Directors for the Management Thereof, Defining Their Powers and Duties Relating Thereto, Providing for the Appointment of Three Commissioners, and Defining Their Power and Duties.

Be it Enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Iowa:

Section One: (a) Except as by this act otherwise provided, it shall be conclusively presumed that every employer as defined by this act has elected to provide, secure and pay compensation according to the terms, conditions, and provisions of this act for any and all personal injuries sustained by an employe arising out of and in the course of the employment; and in such cases the employer shall be relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury, unless by the terms of this act otherwise provided; but this act shall not apply to any household or domestic servant, farm or other laborer engaged in agricultural pursuits, nor persons whose employment is of a casual nature.

(b) Where the state, county, municipal corporation, school district, cities under special charter and commission form of government is the employer, the terms, conditions and provisions of this act for the payment of compensation and amount thereof for such injury sustained by an employe of such employer shall be exclusive, compulsory and obligatory upon both employer and employee.

(c) An employer having the right under the provisions of this act to elect to reject the terms, conditions and provisions thereof and in such case exercises the right in the manner and form by this act provided, such employer shall not escape liability for personal injury sustained by an employe of such employer when the injury sustained arises out of and in the usual course of the employment because:

(1) The employe assumed the risks inherent in or incidental to or arising out of his or her employment; or the risks arising from the failure of the employer to provide and maintain a reasonably safe place to work, or the risks arising from the failure of the employer to furnish reasonably safe tools or appliances, or because the employer exercised reasonable care in selecting reasonably competent employes in the business;

(2) That the injury was caused by the negligence of a co-employe.

(3) That the employe was negligent unless and except it shall appear that such negligence was wilful and with intent to cause the injury; or the result of intoxication on the part of the injured party.

(4) In actions by an employe against an employer for personal injury sustained arising out of and in the course of the employment where the employer has elected to reject the provisions of this act, it shall be presumed that the injury to the employe was the direct result and growing out of the negligence of the employer; and that such negligence was the proximate cause of the injury; and in such cases the burden of proof shall rest upon the employer to rebut the presumption of negligence.

Every such employer shall be conclusively presumed to have elected to provide, secure and pay compensation to employes for injuries sustained arising out of and in the course of the employment according to the provisions of this act, unless and until notice in writing of an election to the contrary shall have been given to the employes by posting the same in some conspicuous place at the place where the business is carried on, and also by filing notice with the Iowa Industrial commissioner with return thereon by affidavit showing the date that notice was posted as by this act provided. Provided, however, that such employer shall not be relieved of the payment of compensation as by this act provided until thirty days after the filing of such notice with the Iowa Industrial Commissioner which notice shall be substantially in the following form:

The employer shall keep such notice posted in some conspicuous place which shall apply to the employes subsequently employed by the employer with the same force and effect and to the same extent and in like manner as employes in the employ at the time the notice was given.

Where the employer and employe have not given notice of an election to reject the terms of this act, every contract of hire express or implied, shall be construed as an implied agreement between them and a part of the contract on the part of the employer to provide, secure and pay, and on the part of the employe to accept compensation in the manner as by this act provided for all personal injuries sustained arising out of and in the course of the employment.

Sec. 2.. No compensation under this act shall be allowed for an injury caused.

(a) By the employe's wilful intention to injure himself or to wilfully injure another; nor shall compensation be paid to an injured employe if injury is sustained where intoxication of the employe was the proximate cause of the injury.

Sec. 3. (a) The rights and remedies provided in this act for an employe on account of an injury shall be exclusive of all other rights and remedies of such employe, his personal or legal representatives, dependents or next of kin, at common law or otherwise on account of such injury; and all employes affected by this act shall be conclusively presumed to have elected to take compensation in accordance with the terms, conditions and provisions of this act until notice in writing shall have been served upon his employer; and also on the Iowa Industrial commissioner with return thereon by affidavit showing the date upon which notice was served upon the employer.

(b) In the event such employe elects to reject the terms, conditions and provisions of this act, the rights and remedies thereof shall not apply where an employe brings an action or takes proceedings to recover damages or compensation for injuries received growing out of and in the course of his employment, except as otherwise provided by this act; and in such actions where the employe has rejected the terms of this act the employer shall have the right to plead and rely upon any and all defenses including those at common law, and the rules and defenses of contributory negligence, assumption of risk and fellow-servant shall apply and be available to the employer as by statute authorized unless otherwise provided in this act. Provided, however, that if an employe sustains an injury as the result of the employer's failure to furnish or failure to exercise reasonable care to keep or maintain any safety device required by statute or rule, or violation of any of the statutory provisions or rules and regulations now or hereafter in force relating to safety of employes, the doctrine of assumed risk in such case growing out of the negligence of the employer shall not apply or be available as defensive matter to such offending party. The notice required to be given by an employe shall be substantially in the following form:

In any case where an employe or one who is an applicant for employment elects to reject the terms, conditions, and provisions of this act, he shall, in addition to the notice required by subdivision (b) of section 3 of this act, state in an affidavit who, if any person, requested, suggested, or demands of such person to exercise the right to reject the provisions of this act. And if request, suggestion, or demand has been made of such employe by any person, such employe shall give and state the name of the person who made the request, suggestion, or demand, and all of the circumstances relating thereto, the date and place when and where made, and persons present, and if it be found that the employer of such employe, or an employer to whom an applicant for employment, or any person a member of the firm, association, corporation, or agent or official of such employer, made a request, suggestion, or demand of such employe or applicant for employment to reject the terms, conditions and provisions of this act, such request, suggestion, or demand if made under such conditions, shall be conclusively presumed to have been sufficient to have unduly influenced such employe or an applicant for employment to exercise the right to reject the terms of this act, and the rejection made under such circumstances shall be conclusively presumed to have been procured through fraud and thereby fraudulently procured, and such rejection shall be null and void and of no effect.

No person interested in the business of such employer, financially or otherwise, shall be permitted to administer the oath to the affidavit required in case an employe or applicant for employment elects to exercise the right to reject the provisions of this act. And the person administering such oath in making such affidavit, shall carefully read the notice and affidavit to such person making such rejection, and shall explain that the purpose of the notice is to bar such person from recovering compensation in accordance with the schedule and terms of this act in the event that he sustains an injury in the course of such employment. All of which shall be shown by certificate of the person administering the oath herein contemplated. The Industrial Commission, or any person acting for such commission, shall refuse to file the notice and affidavit, unless such notice, affidavit and certificate fully, and in detail, comply with the requirements hereof. And if such rejection, affidavit and certificate is found insufficient for any cause, shall be returned by mail or otherwise to the person who executed the instrument.

Sec. 4. (a) When the employer or employe has given notice in compliance with this act electing to reject the terms thereof, such election shall be for one year from date of becoming effective, and unless renewed within thirty days before the termination of one year as herein provided, it shall be conclusively presumed that such party has elected to waive the rejection made and come under the provisions of this act to provide, secure and pay or accept, as the case may be, the compensation herein provided until the contrary is shown by the service of notice anew electing to reject the provisions of this act as herein provided;

(b) When an employer or employe rejects the terms, conditions or provisions of this act, such party may at any time thereafter elect to waive the same by giving notice in writing in the same manner required of the party in electing to reject the provisions of the act and which shall become effective when filed with the Iowa Industrial Commission.

Sec. 5. Where the employer and employe elect to reject the terms, conditions and provisions of this act, the liability of the employer shall be the same as though the employe had not rejected the terms, conditions and provisions thereof.

Sec. 6. An employer having come under this act, who thereafter elects to reject the terms, conditions and provisions thereof, shall not be relieved from the payment of compensation to such employe who sustains an injury in the course of the employment before the election to reject becomes effective; and in such cases the employer shall be required to secure the payment of any compensation due or that may become due to such workman, subject to the approval of the Iowa Industrial Commission, and until approved, the notice given electing to reject shall have no force or effect.

Sec. 7. Where an employe coming under the provisions of this act receives an injury for which compensation is payable under this act and which injury was caused under circumstances creating a legal liability in some person other than the employer, to pay damages in respect thereof.

(a) The employe or beneficiary may take proceedings both against that person to recover damages and against the employer for compensation, but the amount of the compensation to which he is entitled under this act shall be reduced by the amount of damages recovered.

(b) If the employe or beneficiary in such case recovers compensation under this act, the employer by whom the compensation was paid or the party who has been called upon to pay the compensation, shall be entitled to indemnity from the person so liable to pay damages as aforesaid, and shall be subrogated to the rights of the employe to recover therefor.

Sec. 8. No contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever shall operate to relieve the employer, in whole or in part, from any liability created by this act except as herein provided.

Sec. 9. Unless the employer or representative of such employer shall have actual knowledge of the occurrence of an injury, or unless the employe or some one on his behalf, or some of the dependents or some one on their behalf, shall give notice thereof to the employer within fifteen days of the occurrence of the injury, then no compensation shall be paid until and from the date such notice is given or knowledge obtained; but if notice is given or the knowledge obtained within thirty days from the occurrence of the injury, no want, failure or inaccuracy of a notice shall be a bar to obtaining compensation, unless the employer shall show that he was prejudiced by such want, defect or inaccuracy, and then only to the extent of such prejudice. Provided, that if the employe or beneficiary shall show that his failure to give prior notice was due to mistake, inadvertence, ignorance of fact or law, or inability, or to the fraud, misrepresentation or deceit of another or to any other reasonable cause or excuse, then compensation may be allowed, unless and then to the extent only that the employer shall show that he was prejudiced by failure to receive such notice. Provided, further, unless knowledge is obtained or notice given within ninety days after the occurrence of the injury, no compensation shall be allowed. No form of notice shall be required but may substantially conform to the following form:

but no variation from this form of notice shall be material if the notice is sufficient to advise the employer that a certain employe, by name, received an injury in the course of his employment on or about a specified time at or near a certain place. Notice served upon one whom an original notice may be served in civil cases or one employed at the office or place of business, shall be a compliance with this act.

The notice required to be given to the employer may be served by any person over sixteen years of age, who shall make return upon a copy of the notice, properly sworn to, showing the date of service where and upon whom served, but no special form of the return of service of the notice shall be required. It shall be sufficient if the facts therefrom can be reasonably ascertained. The return of service may be amended at any time.

Sec. 10. If any employe has not given notice to reject the terms, conditions and provisions of this act, or has given such notice and waived the same as by this act provided, and the employer has not rejected the terms, conditions and provisions of the act or has given such notice and waived the same and the employe receives a personal injury arising out of and in the course of the employment, compensation shall be paid as herein provided.

(a) The compensation provided for in this act shall be paid in accordance with the schedule unless otherwise provided.

(b) At any time after an injury and until the expiration of four weeks of incapacity, the employer, if so requested by the workman, or any one for him, or if so ordered by the court or Iowa Industrial Commission, shall furnish reasonable surgical, medical and hospital services and supplies, not exceeding one hundred ($100.00) dollars.

(c) Where the injury causes death the compensation under this act shall be as follows:

The employer shall in addition to any other compensation pay the reasonable expense of the employe's last sickness and burial not to exceed one hundred ($100.00) dollars. If the employe leaves no dependents this shall be the only compensation. Provided, however, that if the injury from which death ensued was produced by reason of the failure and negligence of the employer to comply with statutory requirements regarding safety devices for workmen or by reason of the failure and neglect to comply with the rules and regulations relating to safety for employes, such offending party shall be required to pay full death benefits as provided in subdivision "D" of section ten, of this act, to the Employers' Indemnity Association, and said association shall have a right of recovery therefor.

(d) If death results from the injury, the employer shall pay the dependents of the employe wholly dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of the injury, a weekly payment equal to fifty (50%) per cent of his average weekly wages, but not more than ten ($10.00) dollars nor less than five ($5.00) dollars per week for a period of three hundred (300) weeks.

(e) If the employe leaves dependents only partially dependent upon his earnings for support at the time of the injury, the weekly compensation to be paid as aforesaid shall be equal to the same proportion of the weekly payments for the benefit of persons wholly dependent as the amount contributed by the employe to such partial dependents bear to the annual earnings of the deceased at the time of the injury. When weekly payments have been made to an injured employe before his death, the compensation to dependents shall begin from the date of the last of such payments, but shall not continue more than three hundred (300) weeks from the date of the injury.

(f) Where injury causes death to an employe, a minor, whose earnings were received by the parent, the compensation to be paid the parent shall be two-thirds (2-3) of the amount provided for payment in subdivision "d," section 10.

(g) No compensation shall be paid for an injury which does not incapacitate the employe for a period of at least two weeks from earning full wages; but if incapacity extends beyond a period of two weeks, compensation shall begin on the fifteenth day after the injury.

(h) For injury producing temporary disability, fifty (50%) per cent of the average weekly wages received at the time of injury, subject to a maximum compensation of ten ($10.00) dollars and a minimum of five ($5.00) dollars per week; provided, that if at the time of injury the employe receives wages less than five ($5.00) dollars per week, then he shall receive the full amount of wages per week. This compensation shall be paid during the period of such disability, not, however, beyond three hundred (300) weeks.

(i) For disability total in character and permanent in quality fifty (50%) per cent of the average weekly wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of twelve ($12.00) dollars per week, and a minimum of five ($5.00) dollars per week; provided, that if at the time of injury, the employe receives wages less than five ($5.00) dollars per week, then he shall receive the full amount of wages per week. This compensation shall be paid during the period of such disability, not however, beyond four hundred (400) weeks.

(j) In case of complete disability lasting beyond four hundred (400) weeks, compensation shall be paid thereafter during life of not less than ten ($10.00) dollars per month, nor more than twenty-five ($25.00) dollars per month, payable monthly.

(2) For the loss of a first finger, commonly called the index finger, fifty per cent (50%) of daily wages during thirty (30) weeks.

(6) For the loss of the first phalange of the thumb or of any finger shall be considered to be equal to the loss of one-half of such thumb or finger and compensation shall be one-half of the amounts above specified.

(7) The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered as the loss of the entire finger or thumb; provided, however, that in no case shall the amount received for more than one finger exceed the amount provided in this schedule for the loss of a hand.

(8) For the loss of a great toe, fifty per cent (50%) of daily wages during twenty-five (25) weeks.

(9) For the loss of one of the toes other than the great toe, fifty (50%) per cent of daily wages during fifteen (15) weeks.

(18) In all other cases in this, Clause "k," the compensation shall bear such relation to the amount stated in the above schedule as the disability bears to those produced by the injuries named in the schedule. Should the employe and employer be unable to agree upon the amount of compensation to be paid in cases not specifically covered by the schedule, the amount of compensation shall be settled according to provisions of this act as in other cases of disagreement.

(19) The amounts specified in this, Clause "k," and subdivisions thereof shall be subject to the same limitations as to maximum and minimum weekly payments as are stated in Clause "h," section ten hereof.

Section 11. Where an employe is entitled to compensation under this Act for an injury received and death ensues from any cause not resulting from the injury for which he was entitled to the compensation, payments of the unpaid balance for such injury shall cease and all liability therefor shall terminate.

Sec. 12. After an injury the employe, if so requested by his employer, shall submit himself for examination at some reasonable time and place within the state and as often as may be reasonably requested, to a physician or physicians authorized to practice under the laws of this State without cost to the employe; but if the employe requests he shall, at his own cost, be entitled to have a physician or physicians of his own selection present to participate in such examination. The refusal of the employe to submit to such examination shall deprive him of the right to compenastion during the continuance of such refusal. When a right to compensation is thus suspended, no compensation shall be payable in respect to the period of suspension.

Sec. 13. The compensation herein provided shall be the measure of the responsibility which the employer has assumed for injuries or death that may occur to employes in his employment subject to the provisions of this act, and it shall not be in anywise reduced by contribution from employes.

Sec. 14. Where a minor dependent or one physically or mentally incapacitated from earning is entitled to compensation under this Act, payment shall be made to a trustee appointed by the Judge of the district court for each county in the respective judicial districts, and the money coming into the hands of the said trustee shall be expended for the use and benefit of the person entitled thereto under the direction and orders of the Judge during term time or in vacation. The trustee shall make annual reports to the court of all money or property received and expended for each person, and for services rendered as trustee shall be paid such compensation by the county as the court may direct by written order directed to the Auditor of the County who shall issue a warrant therefor upon the Treasurer of the County in which the appointment is made. If the Judge making the appointment deems it advisable, a trustee may be appointed to serve for more than one county in the district and the expenses shall be paid rateably by each county according to the amount of work performed in each county. The trustee shall qualify and give bond in such amount as the Judge may direct, which may be increased or diminished from time to time as the court may deem best.

Section 15. In all cases where a party is entitled to compensation under this Act, compensation may be made at any time in a lump sum for good cause shown to be for the best interest of the beneficiary by petition to the Iowa Industrial Commission or a Judge of the District Court in the county where the injury to the employe occurred.

Sec. 16. The basis for computing compensation provided for in this act shall be as follows:

(a) The compensation shall be computed on the basis of the annual earnings which the injured person received as salary, wages or earnings in the employment of the same employer during the year next preceding the injury.

(b) Employment by the same employer shall be taken to mean employment by the same employer in the grade in which the employe was employed at the time of the accident, uninterrupted by absence from work due to illness or any other unavoidable cause.

(c) The annual earnings, if not otherwise determinable, shall be regarded as three hundred (300) times the average daily earnings in such computation.

(d) If the injured person has not been engaged in the employment for a full year immediately preceding the accident, the compensation shall be computed according to the annual earnings which persons of the same class in the same or in neighboring employments of the same kind have earned during such period. And if this basis of computation is impossible, or should appear to be unreasonable, three hundred (300) times the amount which the injured person earned on an average of those days when he was working during the year next preceding the accident, shall be used as a basis for the computation.

(e) In case of injured employes who earn either no wages or less than three hundred (300) times the usual daily wage or earnings of the adult day laborer in the same line of industry of that locality the yearly wage shall be reckoned as three hundred (300) times the average daily local wages of the average wage earner in that particular kind or class of work; or if information of that class is not obtainable, then of the class or kindred or similarity in the same general employment in the same neighborhood.

(f) As to employes in employments in which it is the custom to operate for a part of the whole number of working days in each year such number shall be used instead of three hundred (300) as a basis for computing the annual earnings, provided, the minimum number of days which shall be used for the basis of the year's work shall not be less than two hundred (200).

(g) Earnings, for the purpose of this section, shall be based on the earnings for the number of hours commonly regarded as a day's work for that employment, and shall exclude overtime earnings. The earnings shall not include any sum which the employer has been accustomed to pay the employe to cover any special expense entailed on him by the nature of his employment.

(h) In computing the compensation to be paid to any employe who, before the accident for which he claims compensation, was disabled and drawing compensation under the terms of this Act, the compensation for each subsequent injury shall be apportioned according to the proportion of incapacity and disability caused by the respective injuries which he may have suffered.

Sec. 17. In this act unless the context otherwise requires:

(2) A child or children under sixteen years of age (and over said age if physically or mentally incapacitated from earning) whether actually dependent for support or not upon the parent at the time of his or her death.

(3) A parent of a minor entitled to the earnings of the employe at the time when the injury occurred, subject to provisions of Subdivision "F" Section Ten hereof.

(4) If the deceased employe leaves dependent surviving spouse the full compensation shall be paid to such spouse; but if the dependent surviving spouse dies before payment is made in full, the balance remaining shall be paid to the person or persons wholly dependent, if any, share and share alike. If there be no person or persons wholly dependent, then payment shall be made to partial dependents.

(5) In all other cases questions of dependency in whole or in part shall be determined in accordance with the fact as the fact may be at the time of the injury, and in such other cases if there is more than one person wholly dependent, the death benefit shall be equally divided among them, and persons partially dependent, if any, shall receive no part thereof. If there is no one wholly dependent and more than one person partially dependent, the death benefit shall be divided among them according to the relative extent of their dependency. Provided, however, that when a lump sum is paid as contemplated by this Act, the court or Commission in making distribution thereof, shall take into consideration the contingent rights of partial beneficiaries or the rights of those who may become such after a wholly dependent child or children become sixteen years of age.

(6) Step-parents shall be regarded in this Act as parents.

(7) Adopted child or children or step-child or children shall be regarded in this Act the same as if issue of the body.

(d) "Injury" or "personal injury" includes death resulting from injury.

(e) The words "personal injury arising out of and in the course of such employment" shall include injuries to employees whose services are being performed on, in or about the premises which are occupied, used or controlled by the employer, and also injuries to those who are engaged elsewhere in places where their employer's business requires their presence and subjects them to dangers incident to the business.

(f) The words "injury and personal injury" shall not include injury caused by the wilful act of a third person directed against an employe for reasons personal to such employe or because of his employment.

(g) They shall not include a disease except as it shall result from the injury.

(h) "Industrial employment" includes only employment in occupations, callings, businesses or pursuits which are carried on by the employer for the sake of pecuniary gain.

(i) The word "court" whenever used in this Act unless the context shows otherwise, shall be taken to mean the District court.

Sec. 18. (a) Any contract of employment, relief benefit or insurance or other device whereby the employe is required to pay any premium or premiums for insurance against the compensation provided for in this act shall be null and void; and any employer withholding from the wages of any employe any amount for the purpose of paying any such premium shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine not less than ten ($10.00) dollars nor more than fifty ($50.00) dollars for each offense in the discretion of the court.

No employe or beneficiary shall have power to waive any of the provisions of this Act in regard to the amount of compensation which may be payable to such employe or beneficiary hereunder to whom the Act applies.

Sec. 19. Any contract or agreement made by any employer or his agent or attorney with any employe or any other beneficiary of any claim under the provisions of this act within twelve (12) days after the injury shall be presumed to be fraudulent.

Sec. 20. In any case where an employer, coming under this Act, fails, omits and neglects to comply with the statutes regarding safety devices or appliances for the safety of workmen, or fails or neglects to comply with an order, rule or regulation in force made by the Iowa Industrial Commission relating thereto, and an injury occurs to an employe as the result thereof, the offending employer shall pay into the funds of the Workmen's Indemnity Association, an amount equal to that paid by the Association or which it becomes obligated therefor under the terms of this Act.

Sec. 21. No claim of an attorney-at-law for services in securing a recovery under this act shall be an enforcible lien thereon unless the amount of the same be approved in writing by a judge of a court of record or the Iowa Industrial Commission, which approval may be made in term time or vacation.

Sec. 22. The provisions of this act shall apply to employers and employes as defined in this Act engaged in Intra-state commerce and also those engaged in Inter-state or foreign commerce for whom a rule or method of compensation has been or may be established by the Congress of the United States, only to the extent that their mutual connection with Intra-state work or foreign commerce shall be clearly separable and distinguishable from Inter-state or foreign commerce; provided that any such employer and workman of such employer working only in this State may subject to the approval of the Iowa Industrial Commission, and so far as not forbidden by any Act of Congress or permitted, voluntarily by written agreement, accept and become bound by the provisions of this Act in like manner and with the same force and effect in every respect as by this Act provided for other employers and employes.

Sec. 24. The salary and actual necessary expenses of the Commissioner shall be paid by the state, and he shall be provided with adequate and necessary office rooms, furniture, equipment, supplies and other necessaries in the transaction of the business. this act provided. The salaries of all persons under the commissioner shall be audited, allowed and paid at the end of each month, and expense accounts may be audited, allowed and paid at the end of each week. Sec. 25. The commissioner may make rules and regulations not inconsistent with this act for carrying out the provisions of the act. Process and procedure under this act shall be as summary as reasonably may be. The commissioner shall have the power to subpoena witnesses, administer oaths and to examine such books and records of the parties to a proceeding or investigation as relate to questions in dispute or under investigation. The fees for attending as a witness before the Industrial Commissioner shall be $1.50 per diem; for attending before an arbitration committee $1.00 per diem; in both cases five cents per mile for traveling to and from the place of hearing. The district court is hereby empowered to enforce by proper proceedings the provisions of this section relating to the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the examination of books and records. The commissioner shall make biennial reports to the governor who shall transmit the same to the general assembly, in which among other things, the commissioner shall recommend such changes in the law covered by this act as he may deem necessary.

Sec. 26. If the employer and injured employe reach an agreement in regard to compensation under this act, a memorandum shall be filed with the Industrial Commissioner and if approved by it, thereupon the memorandum shall for all purposes be enforcible under the provisions of this act. Such agreement shall be approved by said commissioner only when the terms conform to the provisions of this act.

Sec. 27. If the employer and the injured employe or representatives or dependents fail to reach an agreement in regard to compensation under this act, either party may notify the Industrial Commissioner, who shall thereupon call for the formation of a committee of arbitration. The arbitration committee shall consist of three persons, one of whom shall be the Industrial Commissioner and shall act as chairman. The other two shall be named, respectively, by the two parties. If a vacancy occurs it shall be filed by the party whose representative is unable to act.

Sec. 28. The arbitrators appointed by the parties shall be sworn by the chairman to take the following oath:

I, ..., do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully perform my duties as arbitrator and will not be influenced in my decision by any feeling of friendship or partiality toward either party.

(Signed) .....

Sec. 29. It shall be the duty of the Industrial Commissioner, upon notification, that the parties have failed to reach an agreement, to request both parties to appoint their respective representatives on the committee of arbitration. The commissioner shall act as chairman, and, if either party does not appoint its member on this committee within seven days after notification as above provided, or after a vacancy has occurred, the commissioner or any member thereof shall fill the vacancy and notify the parties to that effect.

Sec. 30. The committee on arbitration shall make such inquiries and investigations as it shall deem necessary. The hearings of the committee shall be in the city, town or place where the injury occurred and the decision of the committee, together with the statement of evidence submitted before it, its findings of fact, rulings of law and any other matters pertinent to questions arising before it shall be filed with the Industrial Commissioner. Unless a claim for a review is filed by either party within five days, the decision shall be enforcible under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 31. The Industrial Commissioner may appoint a duly qualified impartial physician to examine the injured employe and make report. The fee for this service shall be five ($5.00) dollars, to be paid by the Industrial Commissioner together with traveling expenses, but the commission may allow additional reasonable amounts in extraordinary cases.

Sec. 33. If a claim for review is filed, the Industrial Commissioner shall hear the parties and may hear evidence in regard to any or all matters pertinent thereto and may revise the decision of the committee in whole or in part, or may refer the matter back to the committee for further findings of fact, and shall file its decision with the records of the proceedings and notify the parties thereof. No party shall as a matter of right be entitled to a second hearing upon any question of fact.

Section 34. Any party in interest may present certified copy of an order or decision of the commissioner or a decision of an arbitration committee from which no claim for review has been filed within the time allowed therefor, or a memorandum of agreement approved by the commissioner, and all papers in connection therewith, to the district court of the county in which the injury occurred, whereupon said court shall render a decree in accordance therewith and notify the parties. Such decree shall have the same effect and in all proceedings in relation thereto shall thereafter be the same as though rendered in a suit duly heard and determined by said court, except that there shall be no appeal therefrom upon questions of fact or where the decree is based upon an order or decision of the commissioner which has not been presented to the court within ten days after the notice of the filing thereof by the commission. Upon the presentation to the court of a certified copy of a decision of the Industrial Commissioner, ending, diminishing or increasing a weekly payment under the provisions of this act, the court shall revoke or modify the decree to conform to such decision.

Sec. 35. (a) Any payment to be made under this act may be reviewed by the Industrial Commissioner at the request of the employer or of the employe, and on such review it may be ended, diminished or increased subject to the maximum or minimum amounts provided for in this act if the commission finds the conditions of the employe warrants such action.

Sec. 36. Fees of attorneys and physicians for services under this act shall be subject to the approval of the Industrial Commissioner unless otherwise provided in this act.

Sec. 37. Every employer shall hereafter keep a record of all injuries, fatal or otherwise, sustained by his employes in the course of their employment. Within forty-eight hours, not counting Sundays and legal holidays, after the occurrence of an accident resulting in personal injury, a report shall be made in writing to the industrial Commissioner on blanks to be procured from the commissioner for that purpose.

Opon the termination of the disability of the injured employe, or if such disability extends beyond a period of sixty days, at the expiration of such period, the employer shall make a supplemental report on blanks to be procured from the commissioner for that purpose. The said reports shall contain the name and nature of the business of the employer, the location of the establishment, the name, age, sex and occupation of the injured employe, and shall state the date and hour of the accident, the nature and cause of the injury, and such other information as may be required by the commissioner. Any employer who refuses or neglects to make the report required by this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty ($50.00) dollars for each offense. All books, records and pay rolls of the employers, coming under this act showing or reflecting in any way upon the amount of wage expenditure of such employers, shall always be open for inspection by the Industrial Commissioner or any of his representatives presenting a certificate of authority from said commissioner for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of the wage expenditure; the number of men employed and such other information as may be necessary for the uses and purposes of the commissioner in its administration of the law. But information obtained within the contemplation of this act shall be used for no other purpose than the information of the commissioner or insurance association with reference to the duties imposed upon such commissioner. A refusal on the part of the employer to submit his books, records or pay rolls for the inspection of the commissioner, or his authorized representatives presenting written authority from the commissioner, shall subject the employer to a penalty of one hundred dollars ($100) for each such offense to be collected by civil action in the name of the state, and paid into the state treasury.

Sec. 38. It shall be unlawful for the commissioner, during his term of office, to serve upon any committee of any political party or espouse the election or appointment of any person for any political office or contribute to any compaign fund of any political party, or to the campaign fund of any person who is a candidate for election or appointed to any political office. A violation of this section shall be deemed a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined one hundred ($100.00) dollars.

Sec. 39. It shall be unlawful for any person who is a candidate for the appointment as commissioner to make any promise to another, expressed or implied, in consideration of any assistance or influence given or recommendation made that the candidate will, if appointed as commissioner vote to appoint such person or one for whom he may recommend to an office within the power of the commissioner to appoint. A violation thereof shall be deemed a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined one hundred ($100.00) dollars.

Sec. 40. All recommendations to the governor of any person asking the appointment of another as commissioner shall be reduced to writing signed by the person presenting the same, which shall be filed by the governor in his office and open at all reasonable times for public inspection, and all recommendations made by any person to the commissioner for the appointment of another within the power of the commissioner to appoint, shall be reduced to writing, signed by the person presenting the same and filed by the commissioner and open for public inspection at all reasonable times and hours. Any person recommending the appointment of another within the contemplation of this act and refusing to reduce the same to writing, it shall be the duty of the person to whom the recommendation is made, to make a brief memoranda thereof stating the name of the person recommended and the name of the person who made the same, which shall be filed as by this act in other cases provided. Sec. 41. The governor shall remove from office the commissioner on the grounds of inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance in office, upon written charges having been filed with the executive council and sustained by proofs. But written notice of such charges, together with a copy thereof, shall be served upon the accused ten (10) days before the time fixed for hearing. The executive council shall have jurisdiction to hear the case, and shall make such finding in accordance with justice and the law. It shall be reduced to writing, and report and finding filed with the governor.

PART III.

Sec. 42. Every employer, subject to the provisions of this act, shall insure his liability thereunder in some corporation, association or organization approved by the state department of insurance. Every such employer shall within thirty (30) days after this act goes into effect exhibit on demand of the state insurance department evidence of his compliance with this section. And if such employer refuses, or neglects to comply with this section, he shall be liable in case of injury to any workman in his employ under part one (1) of this act.

Sec. 43. For the purpose of complying with the foregoing section, groups of employers by themselves or in an association with any or all of their workmen, may form insurance associations as hereafter provided, subject to such reasonable conditions and restrictions as may be fixed by the state insurance department and membership in such mutual insurance organization as approved, together with evidence of the payment of premiums due, shall be evidence of compliance with the preceding section.

Sec. 44. Subject to the approval of the Iowa Industrial Commissioner any employer or group of employers may enter into or continue an agreement with his or their workmen to provide a scheme of compensation, benefit or insurance in lieu of the compensation and insurance provided by this act; but such scheme shall in no instance provide less than the benefits here secured, nor vary the period of compensation provided for disability or for death, or the provisions of this act with respect to periodic payments, or the percentage that such payments shall bear to weekly wages, except that the sums required may be increased; provided further, that the approval of the insurance department shall be granted, if the scheme provides for contribution by workmen, only when it confers benefits in addition to those required by this act commensurate with such contributions.

Sec. 45. Whenever such scheme or plan is approved by the Iowa Industrial Commissioner, he shall issue a certificate to that effect, whereupon it shall be legal for such employer, or group of employers, to contract with any or all of his or their workmen to substitute such scheme or plan for the provisions of this act during a period of time fixed by said department.

Sec. 46. Such scheme or plan may be terminated by the Iowa Industrial Commissioner on reasonable notice to the interested parties if it shall appear that the same is not fairly administered, or if its operation shall disclose latent defects threatening its solvency, or if for any substantial reason it fails to accomplish the purpose of this act; but from any such order of said Iowa Industrial Commissioner the parties affected, whether employer or workman, may, upon the giving of proper bond to protect the interests involved appeal for equitable relief to the district court of this state.

Sec. 47. No insurer of any obligation under this act shall either by himself or through another, either directly or indirectly, charge or accept as a commission or compensation for placing or renewing any insurance under this act more than fifteen (15) per cent of the premium charged.

Sec. 48. Every policy issued by any insurance corporation association or organization to assure the payment of compenation under this act shall contain a clause providing that between any employer and the insurer, notice, to and knowledge of the occurrence of injury or death on the part of the insured shall be notice and knowledge on the part of the insurer; and jurisdiction of the insured for the purpose of this act shall be jurisdiction of the insurer and the insurer shall be bound by every agreement, adjudgment, award or judgment rendered against the insured.

Sec. 49. No policy of insurance issued under this act shall contain any provision relieving the insurer from payment if the insured becomes insolvent or discharged in bankruptcy during the period that the policy is in operation, or the compensation, or any part of it, is due and unpaid. Every policy shall provide that the workman shall have a first lien upon any amount becoming due on account of such policy to the insured from the insurer, and that in case of the legal incapacity, inability or disability of the insured to receive the amount due and pay it over to the insured workman, or his dependents, said insurer shall pay the same directly to such workman, his agent, or to a trustee for him or his dependents, to the extent of discharging any obligation of the insured to said workman or his dependents.

Sec. 50. Part one of this act shall take effect from and after January first, 1914, and parts two and three July fourth, 1913. Any employer or employee who serves the notice to reject the terms of the act as by the act provided not less than thirty days before part one thereof took effect, such notice shall have the same force and effect as though part one had taken effect July fourth, 1913.

Senator Kimball filed the following explanation of his vote on Senate File No. 3.

I am opposed to the present employers' liability law pending before the senate, because:

1. It discriminates between the employees in the various industries of the state and will put some employees under the act, while others will not receive the compensation it provides.

2. It is unfair to the employer, for it will result in unduly raising the rates of indemnity insurance.

3. It discriminates between the man with a family dependent upon him and the man without, and will tend to give the workingman without wife and children or dependents employment against those that have.

4. It is apparently drawn for the benefit of workingmen in one or a few industries and not for all.

5. It places too much power in the hands of a single commissioner, to determine controversies between employer and employed involving a great expenditure of moneys in the aggregate.

6. Under it, most employers will not elect to come under the provisions of the law, thus depriving the employed of compensation for injuries without expensive lawsuits.

7. Employers can obtain cheaper insurance by not coming under the law than by remaining under it; hence will not accept its provisions, but will have to pay a greater indemnity insurance than at present.

8. Lastly, because I believe an employers' liability law should treat all employees alike and should not discriminate between them, and should furnish all a fair compensation for injury and death. That such a law should not be elective, but compulsory, except as to insurance; that is, each employer should contribute to a fund or furnish indemnity insurance that will furnish equal compensation to all injured workmen and be so distributed that the whole industry of the state shall bear the burden so that none of our industries may greatly suffer or be driven from the state.

CLEM F. KIMBALL.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE BY SENATOR SCHRUP ON SENATE FILE NO. 3.

MR. PRESIDENT—While I am heartily in favor of the purpose sought to be attained by this bill, and while I feel that a laboring man who is injured while engaged in providing us with the necessaries and comforts of life, is just as much entitled to relief at the hands of the community as a soldier who is injured in battle. I feel that all this burden should not be born by the employer, but should at least partly be assumed by the state, and while I do not approve of some of the other provisions of this bill, I also realize that we cannot expect perfection in such a far reaching departure at once, I am willing to give the proposition a fair trial, and will accordingly vote for it.

N. J. SCHRUP.

Senator Clarkson offered the following amendment to the title and moved its adoption:

" I move the following as a substitute for the title:

EXPLANATION OF VOTE.

In view of the fact that congress will in the near future enact a statute taxing incomes, it is my opinion that it would not be advisable for our state to adopt that principle or rule of taxation in our state, but I believe it is a matter which can safely be submitted to the people for their determination and if adopted and thereby made a part of the constitution, the general assembly will be enabled to properly determine whether or not it will be advisable to enter that field of taxation in this state.

I therefor vote yea.

JOHN T. CLARKSON.
