President pro tempore of the Senate of the Sixty-first General Assembly.

Senator Rigler moved that Senator O'Malley be elected President pro tempore of the Sixty-first General Assembly by acclamation.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

President Mooty requested Senators Frommelt, Mincks and Rigler to escort Senator O'Malley to the rostrum.

Senator O'Malley appeared, took the oath of office and was congratulated and presented to the Senate by President Mooty.

In accepting the office, Senator O'Malley said:

MR. PRESIDENT, MEMBERS OF SENATE, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I consider it a high honor to be elected President pro tempore of this distinguished body.

As you know, the Iowa legislature has been an important part of my life since January 1949. While the going has been rough and tedious and the problems at time difficult of solution, I have in the main enjoyed every minute of it.

It has been my privilege to serve both in the House and the Senate with many of you. I believe you will agree that today's challenges for constructive legislative action are present, as they have been in the past. It is my fond hope that we will meet these challenges with careful and well-considered legislation.

Until today I have always been in the minority; however, I am sure it can be truly said, whether our numbers were 4, 6, 8, 10 12 or 17, our goal was to be a responsible minority and time after time we joined with the majority to furnish the necessary votes for passage of constructive legislation and to move Iowa ahead.

In the future I surmise that there will be differences of opinion on bills in the now majority. I hope if this comes to pass that enough of the now minority will join us as we did in times gone by to pass needed legislation.

In the activity in this Senate, there is a tremendous amount of work and responsibility. There is work for everyone, both old and new.

As we hammer away at our task, let us strive to respect the other fellow's opinions and motives.

In our zeal to do our best, let us never forget that deep down in the hearts of every member lies the desire to do right for our State and its people through legislative leadership and action.

I note in the press this morning a statement that power in the legislature has shifted. I reject the use of the word power. In my experience, deserving legislation needed by the rural interests has been supported by legislators from the more populous counties and, likewise, rural legislators have helped cities get needed legislation. All interests have a stake in a greater Iowa. I pledge to work toward that end.

In closing, I make one plea—just give Senator Frommelt, our majority leader, the Democrats and myself a few weeks to get used to being in the high plateau of the majority.

Thank you.

Senator Frommelt asked and received unanimous consent that the remarks of President pro tempore O'Malley be printed in the Senate Journal.

TO THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY

by

HONORABLE HAROLD E. HUGHES, GOVERNOR OF IOWA
Joint Session, January 12, 1965

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, HONORABLE SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

Article IV, Section 12, of the Constitution of the State of Iowa sets forth as one of the duties of the chief executive that "he shall communicate, by message, to the General Assembly, at every regular session, the condition of the state, and recommend such matters as he shall deem expedient."

I welcome this opportunity to meet with you on the first day after your convening and I wish you individually and collectively every success in the important endeavors before you.

Inasmuch as I have been invited to appear here again on Thursday to deliver my second inaugural address, I shall try to make my remarks today somewhat shorter than the Code of Iowa. I don't want to wear out my welcome at this early stage of the session.

From any way you approach it, the state of the state is a vast subject and I could not conceivably cover every phase of it in these remarks. By communicating a few significant facts and observations, I can only attempt to convey a reasonably objective interpretation of the position of our state today and the distance we have traveled in the past two years. In the inaugural message, the emphasis will be on my concept of where we should go from here.

A State-of-the-State Message should, as I see it, be something of a balance sheet, taking note of liabilities as well as assets and viewing the state as a whole—its economy, its culture, its aspirations and its far-flung system of local governments as well as the state government itself.

Exactly what determines the state of a state? How can we define it or measure it? The treasury balance does not constitute it, although this is a relevant factor. Nor does the value of our industrial production, the rate of employment, or the number of pupils in our schools—although these facts are extremely important and pertinent.

The truth is that the state of the state is a qualitative as well as a quantitative matter. The success or failure of a state is gauged in the final analysis by the opportunity it affords its people for the good life in the highest sense of this concept.

The state of the state involves spiritual as well as material considerations. The state of our minds has a great deal to do with the state of our state.

The state of the state involves attitudes, social trends, prides, prejudices and ideals, the courage to venture and the willingness to adapt to changing conditions. From another approach, we may define the state of the state in terms of movement—Is our state dynamic or it is static? Above all the state of our minds and the state of our state are conditioned by our degree of faith in the future.

Ladies and gentlemen, Iowa in its present hour checks out favorably by all of these standards. I do not mean, of course, that we have achieved the goals that all of us who love Iowa want her to achieve. I do mean that we have made historic break-throughs and that we are moving in the right direction. The fact of the matter is that Iowa is on the move and on the map and I sincerely believe that the points I am about to make will bear this out.

IOWA'S EXPANDING ECONOMY

It seems to me fitting to begin with the meat and potato course—by which I refer to our economy: The fiscal posture of your state government, general economic conditions throughout the state and the measure of our economic development during the past two years.

First, I would say that the financial position of your state government is strong, healthy and full of promise for the years ahead. I look at this not so much as a credit to this administration as a tribute to the character of our people who demand and have received sound, pay-as-you-go, virtually debt-free state government operation.

At the end of the present biennium, on June 30, 1965, the Comptroller estimates that there will be an unencumbered balance in the state treasury of approximately 30 million dollars. At least half of this will be available to meet the revenue needs of the next biennium. Revenue from current taxes is expected to increase during this biennium by more than 12 percent over the previous two-year period. Further details on the state's finances will, of course, be set forth in my budget message early next month.

Every citizen of this state has a right to be proud of the unprecedented record of economic growth this state has registered in the past two years. This year the value of Iowa's industrial production exceeded $8 billion for the first time in our history. The total value of our industrial and agricultural production was more than $10 billion—a gain of $1.2 billion from 1963. It is generally conceded that personal income will surpass the record figure of $6.4 billion set in 1963. Total employment set a new record in each of the past two years and earnings are at a record level.

Iowa Development Commission figures show that one new mark after another was set in industrial growth over the past two years.

New industries, branch plants and expansions hit new peaks—168 such industrial developments in 1963 and a leap to 278 last year. Employment opportunities created on the production line numbered 6,093 in 1963; then mounted to 6,876 in 1964. Capital investment in plants and equipment—the basis for a major source of state and local revenue—was reported at more than $134 million last year, nearly double the 1963 record total of over $70 million.

More than 100 branch plants were established in Iowa during the two-year period, indicating an increasing awareness of Iowa's potential on the part of out-of-state manufacturers. However, it is particularly reassuring to note that our existing industries affirmed their confidence in the future of our state by announcing more than 180 expansions of their Iowa plants.

These figures do not include the additional job opportunities created in the trades and services as the direct result of industrial expansion; neither do they reflect the increased personal income nor the growth in tax revenue to state and local governments which results from such economic growth.

The total value of manufactured goods for 1964, at 8.1 billion dollars, represents a 17 percent increase over the 1963 record figure. Contrasted with the nearly steady level of farm marketings, which maintained Iowa's leading position in agriculture, this total serves to point up the need for increased efforts toward greater diversification in our economy.

One of the major efforts in the direction of such diversification took place over the past two years in the field of tourist promotion. It is regrettable that all Americans—and all Iowans—are not yet fully aware of our state's vacation and recreational assets. But we can pride ourselves on participation in development of the four-state Hiawatha Pioneer Trail, the first major promotion of its kind ever undertaken in Iowa; we can reflect with confidence on the average increase in attendance of more than 20 percent at Iowa's major travel attractions, and we can readily measure the rising tourist interest in Iowa by the ever-increasing volume of requests and inquiries about the state's attractions.

While Iowa's economic progress has in some measure reflected the general prosperity of the nation, there is no question but that we have made significant gains in our own right as a state. Total personal income in the state last year rose by 5.3 percent, compared to a 4.9 increase over the nation as a whole; per capita income was up 5.1 percent, compared to a national increase of only 3.4 percent. Department store sales have shown about a 4 percent growth in the past year; time deposits in banks, together with checking transaction volume, are higher, and general retail sales reports are favorable. Non-agricultural employment increased by 2.6 percent over 1963, tending to offset the continuing drop in farm employment.

In addition, the latest employment figures show Iowa with the lowest rate of unemployment in the nation, although there is still a more-than-adequate supply of efficient and productive workers to attract new industry, and there are areas of underemployment which cry out for assistance in helping themselves through area development programs and other cooperative governmental aids.

This record industrial growth in Iowa in the past two years did not take place without the concerted effort of individual citizens, community groups and governmental bodies. Credit should be given to the Iowa Development Commission and some 250 local development groups in the state. Credit should be given to the last session of this General Assembly which adopted significant legislation to spur industrial development and to attain wider utilization of our agricultural products. Credit should be given to industrial and financial leaders who gave impetus to our industrial promotion by participating in the "Sell Iowa" trips to Chicago, the Twin Cities and New York, and who are presently serving on my state Economic Advisory Council. Credit should go to our universities, to labor and to farm organizations, all of whom have lent their enthusiasm and their effort to this common cause. Credit should be given to local citizens, both rural and urban, who have participated in area development committees that have organized and begun functioning in the past two years.

In other words, we are seeing for the first time what can be done to advance the common good when we have a truly co-operative effort behind the endeavor.

ADMINISTRATION

In the state administration we have instituted a regular series of inter-departmental meetings and a weekly get-together of department heads in order to eliminate duplication of effort and to achieve greater co-ordination between the departments of state government. We have presented the first public hearing on the state budget in history. We have expanded the use of data processing and other modern business methods in state departments. By the creation of a Governor's Commission on State and Local Government, we have broken ground in what we hope will be a new era of co-operation between state and local government and between the various units of local government. Efficiency of tax collections has been sharpened by further implementation of the agreement with the federal government for cross-checking of state and federal returns and by the exchange of information between state agencies. We have been able to operate the state government during the past two years from current revenues and at the same time to increase the state treasury surplus.

BREAK-THROUGHS TOWARD PROGRESS

In the past two years, more important break-throughs toward progress have been made in Iowa than in any similar period in the current century. I would like at this time to express my appreciation to the last session of the General Assembly for their extraordinary contributions—and I convey this now personally to those members in this chamber today who served in the Sixtieth Session of our legislature. I would like also to express my appreciation to the dedicated people in the departments of state government who have given outstanding service during the past biennium in carrying out new laws and in working administratively to reach new levels of efficiency and economy in government. The State of Iowa is a better place in which to live because of the efforts of these people.

It is no secret to anyone familiar with the recent history of this state that for a considerable period we were trapped in a treadmill of negative thinking. This consisted on the one hand of a passionate devotion to the status quo with the related idea that anyone who was willing to discuss the state's problems realistically was "downgrading" the state. On the other hand, we heard, far too often, the statement "It can't be done in Iowa."

In the past two years we have seen that many things which people said couldn't be done have been done.

In the special session of the legislature in 1964, a temporary reapportionment plan was adopted that gave all of our people reasonable equality of voting rights for the first time in this century. In my opinion, this enactment has had a tremendously beneficial effect on the morale and self-respect of the majority of citizens of Iowa and has contributed to the fresh outlook we find in our state today.

The Sixtieth General Assembly made history by enacting a liquor control law providing for liquor-by-the-drink with strict enforcement provisions. As you all know, this marked the end of the era of the wide-open illegal bars and key clubs in Iowa where anyone, adult or minor, could buy illegal liquor by the drink in open contempt of the state law.

Many other legislative milestones were registered by the last regular session of the General Assembly.

Public utility regulation, providing protection to the consumer was enacted after 50 years of fruitless effort in this area. Regulation of public utilities under the Iowa State Commerce Commission in the past two years has resulted in reduction of utility rates by five million dollars annually—without a formal rate case.

The first significant legislation in this century to provide home rule for Iowa's cities and towns was adopted, and while the constitutionality of this particular measure is in doubt, there is no question in my mind that the way has now been cleared for whatever action may be required to confer upon local communities the long-needed power of self-determination in local affairs.

A new law was enacted to provide citizens of Iowa undiluted property tax relief in the form of interest on current operating funds of local governments. Fair employment practices legislation was adopted for the first time in our history. This was followed by an executive order from this administration to eliminate discrimination for reasons of race, creed or color in state government. An effective law for brucellosis control was enacted. Pensions for government employees were increased. Workmen's compensation laws were improved. Medical aid to the aged under the Kerr-Mills act was implemented.

EDUCATION

In the past two years, progress has been made in the service areas of state government that must be sustained if the bright promise of our economic growth is not to wither on the vine.

There is no more important service of government than the education of our youth. In Iowa we have over 600,000 pupils enrolled in our elementary and secondary schools. The education of these pupils costs the citizens of Iowa approximately 300 million dollars annually. While the total cost seems large, the average investment of approximately $500 per pupil is small when you consider the task of preparing a person for a lifetime of occupational and civic competency.

In the past biennium and in the past decade, Iowa has made substantial improvements in its public elementary and secondary schools. In 1953-1954, there were 4,492 school districts in Iowa. For this school year, there are 1,097 school districts in the state. Four hundred and fifty-nine of these are high school districts. It should be acknowledged, however, that school district reorganization is not complete. Clearly Iowa does not need 1,100 districts to educate 600,000 elementary and secondary pupils.

The quality of instruction that Iowa children have available to them has also improved in recent years. With respect to academic qualifications, 46 percent of our high school teachers and 10.8 percent of our elementary school teachers now hold master's degrees. Almost 100 percent of our high school teachers and 50.5 percent of our elementary school teachers hold B.A. degrees and this percentage is increasing yearly.

Time does not permit the listing of other advances that have been made in public school education. Obviously, school reorganization and teachers' qualifications are only two phases of a vast complex of problems. Our objective, as I see it, is to provide first-class educational opportunity for all of the children and youth of this state—and adults as well where re-training is required—wherever they reside or whatever their individual capacities may be. It is a big order, I know. And new answers to curriculum, structure and support patterns will be required to meet this all-important objective.

The importance of higher education to our economic development, as well as to our cultural development, has never been so widely appreciated as at the present time. The period between this legislative session and the last has seen many changes and improvements at our three public institutions of higher learning. The retirement of Dr. Hilton and Dr. Hancher after long periods of distinguished service to the state presented the Board of Regents with a formidable problem of finding qualified successors. The Board, in my opinion, met this problem with the utmost wisdom. As a result, I would say to you that in Dr. Bowen, Dr. Parks and Dr. Maucker we have three of the top educational leaders in the nation to head our institutions of higher learning.

For the record, our three large state-supported institutions have nearly a 25 percent larger enrollment this year than in the school year of 1960-1961. In the last 10 years, the number of students at these same three schools has grown from 21,000 to 32,000. This massive increase in enrollment will continue in the years ahead and presents problems which must be met . . . and I am sure they will be met.

During the 1964 Special Session, a Higher Education Facilities Commission was established to develop a state plan in order that public junior colleges and Iowa's public and private institutions of higher learning might receive federal funds for the construction of school buildings.

Iowa subsequently became one of the first 18 states to obtain federal approval of its state plan. Applications totaling nearly 2.5 million dollars from nine public and private institutions were approved by the Commission in December and forwarded to the U. S. Office of Education. Applications for the remaining 1.4 million dollars available to Iowa during the current fiscal year will be received by the Iowa Commission during the next few months.

PUBLIC SAFETY

In the area of public safety, our prime concern in Iowa, as in all the other states, is with traffic safety. With the explosive increase of traffic on our highways, the tragic rise of traffic accidents and fatalities has become epidemic in Iowa as in other parts of the nation. To cope with this shocking situation, the Department of Public Safety and county and municipal traffic officers throughout the state have joined in an all-out program.

To co-ordinate these efforts, we organized the Governor's Traffic Safety Co-ordinating Committee, composed of top leaders in the executive, judicial and legislative branches of state, county and municipal government and initiated the following programs in enforcement, education and engineering:

Revitalization of the Division of Safety Education, issuance of temporary driving permits to every first-year operator, establishment of the Community Conference for Better Driving and the Driver Improvement Clinic, implementation of the implied consent law, installation of electronic data processing and use of social security numbers to keep closer tab on the records of nearly 1,600,000 licensed drivers in Iowa, the calling of the first traffic court conference in Iowa since 1945, and various other measures.

No stone has been left unturned within the authority the state now has to deal with this overriding problem. This is an area in which several measures of important legislation will be requested of the present session of the General Assembly.

In other areas of public safety during this biennium, the Bureau of Criminal Investigation has initiated a program of assigning resident agents to the field in order to work more effectively with local law enforcement officials. The Fire Marshal's office, for the first time in recent history, has brought up to date its inspection program of schools and nursing homes and has inaugurated a broad, new program of fire prevention.

HIGHWAYS

In this age of spectacular progress in transportation, one of the most important responsibilities of your state government is in the construction and maintenance of highways. Last fall, the highway commission completed its 324th mile of four-lane divided interstate highway—the final link between Des Moines and the east coast. In terms of interstate highways completed and scheduled for construction in the five-year period ahead, Iowa holds a position at the forefront among the states.

In the meantime, the state's primary system has not been neglected. Reconstruction of several of our important cross-state primary routes has been under way to bring these heavily traveled highways up to present-day standards. While the ultimate goal has been to modernize the entire highway system, a program of curb removal on existing narrow highways and of widening of narrow bridges has been conducted in the interests of highway safety. Curb filling or the placing of an asphalt mat between the "lip curbs" on 407 miles of narrow highways has been completed the contracts have been let for the widening of 29 narrow bridges in the primary system in the past two years.

Actual highway construction accomplished in the past two years includes the following: 77 miles of four-lane interstate paving; 303 miles of primary pavement including 32 miles of rural highway four-laning; 352 miles of grading, which includes 106 miles of four-lane interstate grading; 47 miles of widening narrow highways; 228 miles of resurfacing; and 2,668 highway bridges, culverts and roadway pipe culvert.

CONSERVATION

No area of the state government is closer to my heart than the conservation of our natural resources and the administration of our outdoor recreation facilities. Perhaps the most salient contribution of the Conservation Commission in the past two years has been the development of long-range plans for conservation and recreation in Iowa that kindle the imagination to the potentials that exist in these important areas.

In addition, I would report that nine million visitors used our state parks in 1964; that we had the longest pheasant season and the highest small-game population in history; that we substantially increased the forest acreage under the state's jurisdiction; that we completed construction of a fish hatchery, aquaria and laboratory at Clear Lake; and that we reorganized our fish and game administration and made major improvements in several parks.

HUMAN RESOURCE PROGRAMS

In the human resource areas of mental health and mental retardation, programs for the physically handicapped, public health, social welfare and corrections, the pattern was generally one of continuing progress with some exceptions.

In mental health, perhaps the most encouraging index of progress has been the increased interest and effort on the local level in providing community mental health services. While the state can provide modern hospitals and hospital schools and can provide effective leadership in mental health programs, in the final analysis a large share of the responsibility must devolve upon the local community. Large state institutions and unwieldy, costly state programs are not the answer to an effective state program in mental health.

Although our over-all effort in social welfare in Iowa is substantial, there are phases in the financing and administration of the program that need shoring up. In my opinion, the present schedule of paying 75 percent of basic living needs to ADC families is inadequate. So also is the handling of the 1,231 seriously handicapped adults in the Aid to Disabled assistance group who are not provided any medical care under the present program. Administratively, I believe that greater emphasis should be placed on existing programs for rehabilitation of recipients, such as training ADC mothers to become self-supporting.

To those who look with jaundiced eye on all welfare programs, I would say, as I have in the past, that adequate, efficiently administered welfare fare programs are a sound public investment, while inadequate, half-hearted programs are a waste of the taxpayers' money. Anti-welfare people point out to us that there are sometimes second and third generation welfare recipients. I would point out to them that inadequate programs that demean, rather than efficiently build on the self-reliance of the recipients, are the breeding grounds of family patterns requiring public assistance from generation to generation.

The State Department of Public Health has operated well within the stringently inadequate limitations of its budget. With the death of Dr. Zimmerer in 1963, the state lost one of its most devoted public servants. It is a credit to our state's potential that we have been able to attract a man of the calibre of Dr. Long to the position of Acting Commissioner of Public Health.

The state's modern and progressive program in corrections has moved ahead steadily in the past biennium, although it was marred, as you know, by some costly and regrettable disturbances among inmates at the penal institutions. The situations from which these incidents arose have been remedied and every precaution has been taken to prevent future recurrence. The Board of Control and I have been united in our support of the modern program of treatment, training and rehabilitation which represents the best thinking in modern penology. Although the post of Director of Corrections is presently vacant, the Board is in the process of interviewing qualified prospects for the position and we are confident it will be filled in the near future.

Through the diligent effort of a highly competent Parole Board, probation and parole have been increased in the last few years with a resultant decline in prison populations since 1962. It is significant that there has been no marked increase in violation of paroles during this period.

Advancements made in the institutions under the Board in the current biennium include the development of a new program at the State Training School for Boys at Eldora that has attracted national attention and the establishment of new vocational programs for rehabilitation at the Men's Reformatory at Anamosa.

The functioning of government is never perfect, and even today there are many human needs that are not being adequately met in Iowa. Yet as I reflect on the vast and far-flung operations of government in Iowa, I can think of many distinguished services being performed day in and day out in which every Iowan can take pride. In downtown Des Moines on any day, you will see many persons moving about the streets with white canes—and you will know that this is part of the great work that is being done by the Commission for the Blind in teaching the newly blinded to make their way in life. In our wards for retarded children at our state hospitals, in the university laboratories where instruments are devised to record the mysteries of outer space, in the vocational rehabilitation of human beings with shattered bodies . . . in these and countless other areas you may find reason for pride in this state. I only regret that time does not permit me to touch on more of these vital services that attest to our humanity and civilization as a people.

AGRICULTURE

A year ago, as you all know, Iowa harvested its first billion-dollar corn crop. We have long been known as the state where the tall corn grows. God willing, we will always bear this proud title.

While the value of manufactured goods produced in Iowa now exceeds the value of agricultural products by more than three times, farming is still our basic industry. This is an economic fact and not a sentimental cliché.

In discussing the state of our state, I think we must face the fact that in this period when our state and national economies are surging to new levels of prosperity in other sectors, many Iowa farmers are facing economic crisis. This should be a matter of intense concern to every urban citizen of the state as well as our farm people, for nothing has a more profound effect upon the over-all well-being of Iowa than the state of our farm economy.

It is my personal conviction that we are entering in Iowa a new era of co-operation and mutual understanding—and this may well be the most important single development bearing upon the state of our state.

The lines that once separated rural and urban Iowa are fading fast. I believe non-farm people in Iowa are developing a more enlightened understanding of farmers and their problems. This is of the utmost importance, since for the good of all, we need to present, as a state, a united front to the nation and to the world on behalf of Iowa agriculture.

* * * * *

Along the same lines, I think that Iowans as a whole are developing a fairer and more mature understanding of the problems and legitimate aspirations of the working men and women of the state. They are beginning to realize that the factory worker or mechanic who is their neighbor and fellow church member is still the same person as part of a labor organization.

It is generally acknowledged that Iowa's labor force is of the highest quality that may be found. It goes without saying that much of the credit for recent advancements in our state's economy must go to labor.

I hope and believe that the old age of stubborn prejudice and dark distrust toward working people and labor organizations is drawing to a close in Iowa.

In this hour of unlimited promise for our state, no Iowan can afford to be anti-business, anti-labor, anti-farmer, anti-government or anti-progress. No Iowan can afford to look with suspicion at his neighbor because of the occupation he follows, the church he attends or because of the color of his skin.

At long last, ladies and gentlemen, I believe we have begun to free ourselves from the bull-headed prejudices that have cramped our spirit and retarded our growth in years gone by.

Our future depends upon our ability to act as a united people. In a very real sense for Iowans, the state of our state is dependent on the state of our union, one with another.

Through a conscious effort to achieve higher levels of co-operation and mutual understanding, we can all become better Iowans.

Almighty God, before whom the nations rise and fall, we praise Thee as the Lord of history; the Creator of all men; and the sustainer of all righteous causes.

In this high hour of history, grant us Thy Presence and Thy power. Remind us of this nation's heritage upon which so much of our life and destiny depend. Inspire us with the memory of great men who have served this state with unflagging devotion and steady courage. Sustain us with the uplifted thoughts of statesmen and prophets whose vision still blesses our work.

We pray for the Governor and Lieutenant Governor of this state who today assume responsibilities that are both awesome and full of joy. Lead them into the joy of work well done with clear consciences and uplifted hearts. Strengthen those who are associated with them in government and general welfare.

Be with us, citizens of this state, as we seek the highest fulfillment of our common life. Make us responsible in our service and disciplined in our appointed tasks.

According to Thy holy will, give us restraint in victory; hope in defeat; courage in difficulty; and perseverance in every just cause; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

INAUGURAL MESSAGE TO THE
SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY
by

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MR. CHIEF JUSTICE, HONORABLE SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY, STATE OFFICIALS, DISTINGUISHED GUESTS, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

By official mileage charts, the distance from my home in Ida Grove to the State Capital is 140 miles.

As I look back over the past few years, it seems to me that the distance from that community to the Governor's office is so far that it should be measured in light years.

Permit me to say that I am deeply grateful to the people of Iowa for making the trip possible for me in 1962 and for extending my stay for another two years in 1964.

I am also deeply grateful for the warm reception you have accorded me today and earlier in the week when I brought you my State-of-the-State message.

The brightness of this beautiful, refurbished chamber is indicative of the atmosphere of hope in which this session has convened. The people of Iowa expect great things of this Sixty-first session of the General Assembly. I am confident their expectations will be met with constructive action of far-reaching importance to the future of our state.

As a result of the reapportionment plan enacted by the 1964 Special Session, Iowa's legislative family has grown in size. It has also undergone a change in its political complexion. I am sure the members of both political parties will understand the pride I feel, on this occasion of my second inaugural, to be addressing a General Assembly with majorities in both houses of my own political party.

The transition of a legislative delegation from the position of a responsible minority to that of a responsible majority requires wisdom and concerted effort. And the change from majority to minority status has its problems also. I have no doubt that the members of both delegations are equal to the challenge. This is two-party government in action. We are all deeply committed to a belief in our two-party system and we are all aware that in the final analysis our major responsibilities here rise above the confines of narrow partisanship.

In my first inaugural, I addressed an Assembly in which there was a commanding majority of the opposing party. It was widely conjectured whether or not we could work together to achieve constructive legislation. The record of the Sixtieth Session tells the story. We had our differences; we had our disputes; but in the regular session and in the special session, legislation of lasting importance to our state was enacted. I have every confidence we will see another outstanding record this year.

In my State-of-the-State message to this joint assembly, I suggested that perhaps the most important single development in Iowa in recent years has been the relaxation of prejudices among groups traditionally at odds in our state and the emergence of a new spirit of co-operation in causes for the common good. The lack of this spirit in years past has unquestionably been a deterrent to our growth and development. To those of you who are serving in the legislature for the first time, I would point out that in years gone by there have even been sharp differences between the two houses of our bicameral legislature.

The story is told concerning a member of the House of Representatives whose wife sat up in bed in the middle of the night and whispered to her husband: "I think there are robbers in the house." The Representative woke up just enough to mutter: "Impossible. In the Senate, yes. But in the House, never."

Seriously, addressing the new members again, I am sure you will find the prevailing atmosphere to be one of good will and constructive purpose.

As chief executive, I have been given certain responsibilities by our state constitution in the legislative process. I assure you I will carry out those responsibilities to the best of my ability, and will, at the same time, accord full respect to the traditional prerogatives of the legislature. There will be no cut-and-dried Hughes bills, as such, sent to you from the first floor.

This is not my concept of the executive's responsibility in the legislative process. I construe it to be the job of the executive to suggest guidelines for legislation and to keep in close consultation with the members of the Assembly, but the actual making of the laws is the business of the legislature. I will communicate my views to your legislative leadership on a continuing basis and through special messages to the Assembly if it appears they would be useful. The doors of my office will be open to the members of both political parties at all times.

It is generally recognized that the basis of good legislation is compromise—not compromise of basic principle, but give and take in personal viewpoints to arrive at legislation that is in the best public interest. Every legislator who has occupied a desk in these chambers has been faced at times with the difficult choice of choosing between the interests of his particular constituency and the interests of the entire state. I blame no member for representing to the best of his ability the interests of the district that elected him. On the major issues, however, I hope and believe that we can arrive at solutions that will be for the long-range good of all of Iowa.

In this reference, it is my belief that you have made a highly constructive beginning by the action you have taken to eliminate secrecy in the legislative process. In my opinion, this action must be ranked, along with reapportionment, as one of the two most significant legislative reforms of the present century. The streamlining of your committee system is another signal improvement in the legislative process.

You have, in effect, cleared the decks for action on the momentous issues that stand before you. I wish you Godspeed in your important work and pledge to you my co-operation and good will in all phases of your endeavors.

Today, I respectfully submit to you my general recommendations for legislative action in the current session. As you know, the details of my financial recommendations will be contained in the budget message which will be delivered later this month. Obviously, in the time allotted to me, it would be impossible to cover every phase in detail. But here in condensed form are the major points:

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

In my State-of-the-State message, I outlined for you the salient facts concerning Iowa's record-breaking economic growth in the past two years. These included the attainment of new peaks in the value of manufactured goods, employment, personal income and new industrial developments. I am sure that we can all agree that one of our most important responsibilities is to sustain this momentum and to take whatever action is needed to strengthen and diversify our growing economy.

A number of the measures vital to the continuing advancement of our economy are included in the framework of recommended legislation in such fields as education, state government reorganization, conservation and taxation. Looking to the future, it is clear that if private investment is to flourish at the optimum level, we must be willing to make the public investments and governmental reforms required to assure continuing economic growth. A number of other proposals relating to the stimulation of our economy can be carried out without legislation, save for additional appropriations to existing agencies.

My recommendations relating to the state's economic development are as follows: (1) The establishment of a state-wide system of area vocational-technical training. (2) The development of a tourist and travel promotion program in our Development Commission to obtain our rightful share of a market estimated at $40 billion annually in the United States. (I might add that this tourist promotion program would include and give increased emphasis to the Farm Vacation program that has recently been inaugurated by this administration.) (3) Enactment of the Uniform Commercial Code to bring Iowa's laws dealing with commercial transactions of all kinds up to date and in line with similar legislation in other states. (4) Expansion of existing programs to develop greater industrial use of Iowa's agricultural products. (5) Elimination of the moneys and credits tax with a provision for replacement of its revenue for distribution to the units of local government. (6) Increased effort to obtain a fair share of federal government contracts and federal research facilities for Iowa. This should be done on a state basis and also on a regional basis through continued co-operation with the Midwest Governor's Conference and the Midwest Resources Association. (7) Increased emphasis on the promotion of foreign trade in agricultural and industrial products, including the possibility of a trade mission of key industrial and agricultural leaders abroad. (8) Continuation of the "Sell Iowa" missions to the nation's leading industrial complexes in the interests of recruiting new industry for the state.

APPORTIONMENT

It is my sincere hope that this Assembly will meet the problem of legislative reapportionment head-on.

I am well aware of the difficulty of the task. I am well aware of the profound differences of viewpoint that exist in the legislature and in the state on the subject of what constitutes fair apportionment. But I believe our responsibility is clearly outlined before us.

Despite the events of the past year, I think that much of our thinking regarding apportionment in this state is more emotional than realistic. Most Iowans, including myself, did not believe that the federal court rulings on apportionment would hew to population as closely as they have. Many Iowans, including myself, were thinking in terms of a two-house legislative pattern with moderate area representation in one house. This would still be acceptable to me.

But I believe deeply in the Constitution of the United States and its guarantees of the rights of all citizens, regardless of race, color, creed, sex or place of residence. Moreover, I believe deeply in our three-part system of government and in the right and ability of the Supreme Court to interpret the constitution. The law of the land has been ruled to mean "one person, one vote," and I believe we can live with it in Iowa—as citizens can live with it elsewhere in the United States—in an atmosphere of justice and good will.

I will oppose and I hope this Assembly will oppose any attempt to alter the United States constitution to curtail the authority of the courts in this area. If the authority of the courts is impaired with respect to determining equality of voting rights, the door will be open for further dismantling of the courts' traditional powers to uphold the civil rights guaranteed to all citizens by our constitution.

It is my recommendation that the legislature deal with the reapportionment problem in two ways—a constitutional amendment for the long range and a thorough look at our present "temporary" reapportionment law to make sure it meets the latest guidelines of the courts.

A constitutional amendment initiated by this session could be designed to become effective following the census of 1970. In my view, such an amendment should be drawn in the broadest possible terms. It should state that the legislature, following the next census and every ten years thereafter, would enact such measures as would guarantee to every citizen his constitutional rights at the polling place. A simple, effective and ironclad enforcement clause should be included.

In the meantime we also have an immediate problem. The last General Assembly, as you know, approved two reapportionment plans—the interim plan under which we are now functioning and a “permanent” plan in the form of a constitutional amendment. I believe that the latter is inadequate in virtually all respects and should be rejected.

Although I have said—and I feel—that the temporary plan offers reasonable equality of voting rights for all our citizens, recent court decisions indicate that there may be some question as to whether the Senate under the temporary plan would be adequate for the period until a new permanent plan becomes effective. I believe we have a responsibility to show good faith with the courts and with our people by moving in the direction charted by not one, but many judicial decisions.

As I have stated before, I favor sub-districting in legislative districts in which there are a number of representatives elected to one house.

PUBLIC SCHOOL EDUCATION

People are Iowa's most valuable asset. Labor earnings in Iowa are over three times the earnings of capital and land combined. Our rich land, our vast system of highways, our cities with their factories and homes—all of them combined are not as valuable as our people. And in this modern age, educated minds and skilled hands are needed to operate Iowa effectively. Natural resources, raw hands, and innate intelligence can not in themselves make a state productive and well off. The teeming millions of Asia are ample evidence that it is not the size of a state's population but the skill and ability of its people that are important. For our state's economic development as well as for the attainment of the good life, investment in education at all levels is essential.

Certainly no service of government in Iowa can be rated more important than the education of our children and youth for which we spend approximately $300 million each year.

In my report on the state of the state, I outlined the progress that has been made in school district reorganization and in teacher qualification in recent years.

As everyone knows, the main problem in public school education in Iowa is to find an adequate and equitable way of financing the needs of approximately 1,100 local school districts.

I am convinced that the majority of the people of Iowa want a larger share of state revenues distributed to local school districts to ease the burden of constantly rising school costs on local property taxes. I will make a specific proposal in this area in my budget message.

My recommendations relating to public school education include the following: (1) Increasing of state aid to local school districts. (2) Improvement and clarification of existing school reorganization laws. (3) Development of meaningful approval standards and clarification of the authority to administer those standards.

HIGHER EDUCATION

From the standpoint of economic growth, as well as the development of higher levels of culture and quality living, our institutions of higher learning, both public and private, are among the state's most valuable assets.

The economy of any area has many components—natural resources, transportation, power, labor, capital, markets and education. The lack of one restricts the full potential of that area's economy. More and more we see that higher education and its institutions are foundations for our new large and sophisticated industries.

Education is of two-fold benefit as we can see by looking at the states of California and Massachusetts. By having excellence of facilities and staff as girding, they have used government project research grants and private industry to create educational-industrial complexes which feed into their state economies by building on themselves. We can see this trend shaping in Iowa, as an increasing number of modern industrial plants are locating here and using the resources of our universities and their trained manpower.

With respect to higher education as well as public school instruction, the major problem is to provide the increased financing required to meet expanding enrollments with adequate facilities and quality instruction. My budget message will include significant increases for the state institution operating budgets.

As I have stated before, I am deeply interested in getting started with a long-range program for capital improvements of state institutions, even if on a modest basis to begin with.

I recommend that consideration be given to initiating a state-supported and administered scholarship program based on both ability and need.

In general, in our efforts to upgrade the programs of all our state institutions, I think we should realize that tuition rates cannot be raised to any marked degree beyond existing levels without depriving a large percentage of our young people of the opportunity for a university education.

The tax-exempt status of newly acquired income-producing property of private colleges in Iowa should, in my opinion, be terminated. However, income-producing properties held by private colleges prior to the time the new law is enacted should continue to be exempt for a reasonable period of time.

VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL TRAINING

It is my recommendation that a high priority should be assigned to legislation to make possible establishment of a state-wide system of area vocational-technical training schools, with the administration of the area schools vested in a local board that would be representative of the school districts located in the area. The local districts should participate only to a modest extent—perhaps a mill of taxation—in the area involved; the state should provide the main financing with the assistance of federal funds that would be available.

Wherever feasible and when the people in the local districts are willing, vocational-technical training centers should be combined with community colleges. It is my belief that at least four vocational-technical training centers should be placed under construction in Iowa in the near future.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

I believe the time has come to take action on a number of long-needed phases of government reorganization that have been recommended by legislative committees and leaders of both political parties for many years. The recommendations I submit to you are for the following:

- (1) A four-year term for the Governor and Lieutenant Governor with the provision that they run for election as members of the same political party in off-year elections. (2) Shortening of the ballot by providing for the appointment by the Governor of the State Treasurer, Secretary of State and Secretary of Agriculture, and appointment by the legislature of the State Auditor. (3) Annual sessions of the General Assembly, with the alternate session confined to budget and appropriations matters, and with a provision for more adequate compensation for members of the Assembly. (4) Granting of authority to the Governor to reorganize agencies of the state government, subject to veto by the legislature. (5) Granting to the Governor the power of item veto in appropriations bills. (6) Creation of a state planning agency within the existing framework of state government for long-range planning and inter-agency co-ordination. (7) Reorganization of the state tax commission with designation of a single tax administrator responsible for collection of taxes, and with the three-man tax commission to serve as an appeal board. (8) Consolidation of the Departments of Labor, Mines and Mining, and the Industrial Commissioner into a single department. (9) Consolidation of the functions of the Car Dispatcher, State Printing Board and a Central Purchasing Authority under the Executive Council.

LABOR

With respect to labor legislation, I repeat the recommendation I made in my First Inaugural Address and in subsequent statements, calling for the modification of the right-to-work law to eliminate the statutory prohibition of union shop contracts between employers and employees.

My recommendations in this area also include enactment of a state industrial safety law and a realistic review of our workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation laws, which are basically sound but need updating to meet current conditions.

ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

I believe the death penalty, which has not proved a deterrent to crime and which inflicts spiritual damage upon a civilized society, should be eliminated from the statutes.

CONSERVATION

In the light of the constructive long-range planning that has been carried out by the Conservation Commission in the past two years, the most urgent need in this area is for acquisition of forests, water areas and regions suitable for future recreation uses by the people of Iowa. The foundation should be laid for a continuing program to meet this overriding need, in order that future generations of Iowans will not be deprived of outdoor recreational opportunities.

The settlement of the Iowa-Nebraska boundary dispute, recommended elsewhere in this message, will open up a vast potential area for wildlife and outdoor recreation in western Iowa.

Legislation is needed to provide for state financing of the development and maintenance of rest areas along the interstate system and other major highways in the state.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

The conflict of interest statutes should be revised and clarified so that qualified citizens will not be needlessly discouraged from serving in government, particularly in small communities. It is my opinion that this can be done with adequate safeguards to protect the public interest.

IOWA-NEBRASKA BOUNDARY

I would urge the Assembly to ratify the settlement of the Iowa-Nebraska boundary dispute recommended by the boundary committees of both states, in order to settle long-pending questions of land ownership and to open up the Western Slope of Iowa to commercial, industrial and recreational development.

HIGHWAYS

I recommend that the General Assembly enact a one-cent increase in the gasoline tax to be allocated to the state primary system. The program of curb leveling on our older and narrower primary roads should be continued as rapidly as possible, along with the widening of narrow bridges and other modernizations vital to driving safety.

High priority should be given by the Highway Commission to speeding up the construction of a system of four-lane highways to connect our major cities, while maintaining the best possible service to lesser-populated areas.

As I have stated before, I favor the reorganization of the administrative structure of the Highway Commission to place the non-engineering functions of the state's vast highway program under the direct supervision of a qualified administrator.

LIQUOR CONTROL

In my opinion, the liquor control legislation enacted by the last session of the Assembly has proved beneficial and workable in most respects. However, there are some improvements that should be made. I would, therefore, recommend legislation to: (1) Make uniform the days and hours during which liquor and beer can legally be sold. (2) Permit the issuance of six-month or eight-month liquor licenses to seasonal club operators. (3) Authorize the granting of quantity discounts only to commercial establishments holding liquor licenses.

In addition, I consider it highly important that the liquor control law be amended to correct flaws pointed up by the recent Iowa Supreme Court decision relating to the serving of liquor at private parties. It would appear that if the law is not corrected it could provide a loophole for the return of illegal operations resembling the old key club.

SCHOOL BUS ISSUE

I repeat my 1963 inaugural recommendation that the state law be amended to allow all children to ride on public school buses.

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

As previously stated, I congratulate the Sixty-first General Assembly on the historic elimination of secrecy in the legislative process, and reaffirm this administration's policy of providing the press and the public open access to information regarding activities of state government.

PUBLIC DEFENDER

I repeat my recommendation of two years ago that the legislature consider the establishment of a public defender system to provide adequate legal defense for all accused persons regardless of their ability to pay.

ALCOHOLISM TREATMENT FACILITY

I strongly recommend that consideration be given to the possibility of establishing a long-needed alcoholism treatment center to provide effective medical aid and rehabilitation for victims of a disease that afflicts more than 50,000 Iowans. At a later date details and a possible site for this center will be recommended.

COMMISSION ON THE AGING

In its recent report, the Governor's Commission on the Aging recommended legislation to create a permanent state commission to deal with the problems of our older residents and to co-ordinate state, county and local activities in this area. This recommendation has my complete support.

PUBLIC HEALTH

In the past, the Department of Public Health has been severely handicapped by inadequate staff and appropriations. Steps have been taken in the last two years to strengthen the department within these limitations.

To provide for an improved program of public health services for the people of Iowa, I recommend that the Assembly adopt the recommendations submitted last year by the Governor's Public Health Advisory Committee, including: (1) Removal of unreasonable limitations on the salary for the Commissioner of Public Health. (2) Increased funds for the Department of Health, independent of fees. (3) Revisions in the composition and functions of the State Board of Health. (4) Legislation permitting local taxation specifically for health services.

SOCIAL WELFARE

As I have stated before, I am firmly convinced that efficiently administered programs to meet human needs in welfare are a sound investment in the future of our state. Inadequate, loosely administered programs which fail in their mission of helping people to help themselves are wasteful because they do not accomplish their basic objective.

The administration of the social welfare programs in Iowa involves large sums of money. Changing times have brought new approaches and concepts in welfare administration.

Periodically all departments can benefit from a comprehensive study of their organizational structure by outside authorities. I believe it would be beneficial at this time if qualified officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare were to study the entire structure and administration of the public assistance program in Iowa and make recommendations for organizational change and modernization in the state welfare department.

MENTAL HEALTH

In Iowa we are today meeting the challenge posed by recent medical advancement in the field of psychiatry and changing concepts in the treatment of mental illness by reassessing our current position and formulating a new realistic plan for the future. For the past eighteen months literally thousands of people throughout the state directly and indirectly, have been participating in two planning groups—one under the Iowa Mental Health Authority, planning for mental illness, and one under the Board of Control, planning for mental retardation. The results of this planning will be completed in final draft within the next six months.

In addition to this, the last General Assembly designated the Department of Public Health as the state agency to administer the federal-aid program for construction of facilities for mental health and mental retardation. It is possible that additional legislation will be necessary to clarify the relationship between state and local communities in the allocation and administration of federal and matching funds.

CORRECTIONS

For many years, one of the most urgent needs in our corrections systems has been for a security hospital for mentally disordered prison inmates. About 12 percent of our prison inmates are mentally disordered and need treatment, and at the present time we do not have a security hospital facility in which they can receive that treatment. It is high time that we met this need to avoid the possibility of returning inmates to society as dangerous as when they entered the institution.

Last year I made the suggestion that certain farms owned by the Board of Control institutions which appear to be losing money and are no longer needed for rehabilitation purposes should be sold and returned to local tax rolls. If this is done, the money should be used for capital improvements at the institutions and the building of a maximum security hospital should be a first priority.

I have long held the opinion that the state should have a long-range program for capital improvements at our state institutions. Any lands owned by the state, which are no longer needed for the purpose for which they were intended, or for future expansion, should be disposed of and the proceeds made available to the institutions for capital improvements.

With further reference to the field of corrections, I hope that in the foreseeable future we may have a pre-sentence investigation for every felony case. The use of probation and parole has been substantially and successfully increased in recent years, and it is my opinion that we should continue to make increased use of this sound and economical alternative to extend incarceration.

It is generally recognized that our juvenile and penal codes need revision to bring about greater uniformity of practice. I believe consideration should also be given to the enactment of a Model Sentencing Act in Iowa.

HUMAN RIGHTS

Three major actions have been taken by the state government in the past two years to eliminate discrimination for reasons of race, color and creed. One was the enactment of the first Fair Employment Practices Act in the state's history. The second was my issuance of an executive order to forbid discrimination in all departments of government under my jurisdiction. The third was the constructive effort of the Governor's Human Rights Commission.

It is my recommendation that this Assembly pass legislation creating a statutory Human Rights Commission with an appropriation adequate to hire the required staff and to conduct the investigative and educational activities of the Commission.

PUBLIC SAFETY

In my State-of-the-State message, I indicated the seriousness of the traffic safety problem and stated that several measures of important legislation would be needed to give the Department of Public Safety the resources needed to administer a sound safety program.

Specifically, I am recommending a 100-man increase in the Iowa Highway Safety Patrol, with 50 men to be added in each year of the biennium. In order to expedite the recruiting and training of these men, and to get them on the highways as soon as possible, I am asking that this legislation have priority and that it be made effective upon publication.

I also recommend that a thorough study be made of our speed limits and that legislation be enacted to reduce those that are too high.

Among the other measures which I believe are needed for public safety are: (1) Expanded driver education programs for the young people of our state. (2) Legislation requiring seat belts in all new cars sold in Iowa. (3) Fully reflectorized license plates. (4) Strengthening of the temporary driving permit program. (5) Steps leading to periodic re-examination of all licensed drivers. (6) Legislative studies to update the state motor vehicle code for the first time since 1946 and to look into the advantages of state-wide motor vehicle inspection.

This is a broad program requiring much work on the part of the legislature, but I believe that the staggering loss of lives, the injuries and the economic loss suffered on Iowa highways demands such positive, concrete action.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS

One of the most promising approaches to gaining new levels of efficiency and economy in government is through intergovernmental co-operation. This has been a comparatively untapped resource in Iowa and it is high time we took advantage of it.

At this point I am not referring to actual consolidation of government such as has been effected in Dade County, Florida, and other metropolitan regions, but simply to common sense co-operation between the units of local government—the counties, the municipalities and the school boards—and between local government jurisdictions and the state. Through joint planning and joint use of services and facilities, substantial benefits and savings can be effected.

Early in 1964, I appointed a Governor's Commission on State and Local Government with representation from the various governmental jurisdictions and from private citizens in all parts of the state. This Commission has performed an invaluable service as a study group and sounding board for awakening state-wide interests in new approaches to intergovernmental co-operation.

One of the recommendations of this Commission is for a law to grant broad authority to units of state and local government in Iowa to enter into contracts for joint use of facilities and services.

I strongly recommend the enactment of this proposal.

MUNICIPAL HOME RULE

The Sixtieth General Assembly enacted the first legislation in modern times to grant cities and towns a measure of self-determination in their local affairs. A constitutional amendment to grant these powers was first submitted under the sponsorship of the League of Iowa Municipalities. This passed the Senate by a wide margin, but died in the sifting committee of the House. Subsequently, a statute granting home rule powers to local communities was enacted into law.

Last fall, this statute was ruled unconstitutional in a test case in Greene County district court. I understand it is now under appeal to the Supreme Court.

I believe that a home rule amendment should be adopted by this Assembly to assure local communities of the self-government in local affairs they have long demanded and sorely needed.

BILLBOARD CONTROL

For the benefit of our own citizens and for the benefit of tourists visiting Iowa, I believe we should preserve the scenic beauties of our Iowa countryside by enacting legislation to control the erection of billboards along our interstate highway system. It is significant and a gesture in the public interest that the Iowa Outdoor Advertising Association has publicly announced that it will not oppose this legislation in the present session. I sincerely hope that this Assembly will adopt a sound billboard control measure.

STATE OFFICE BUILDING

In my budget message, I will recommend the allocation of funds for acquisition of land and construction of a new state office building in line with the recommendations of the Capitol Planning Commission. The state government has so outgrown its present facilities that some agencies are located in two condemned buildings on the Capitol grounds, while numerous others are scattered in more than a half dozen downtown locations at a cost to the taxpayers of more than $150,000 a year in rent.

DAYLIGHT TIME

In order to eliminate the confusion that has existed in the past, I recommend that legislation be enacted to make Daylight Time uniform in Iowa during the summer months.

VOTER REGISTRATION

I believe we should encourage greater participation in elections by making it easier for our citizens to register to vote. It is my recommendation that sound measures be taken to liberalize our voter registration laws, particularly by lengthening the hours of registration by making registration available at more accessible locations during certain periods.

AGRICULTURE

At this point a new administration in the office of the Secretary of Agriculture is taking a fresh inventory of the services this department offers to the farmers of Iowa.

It is my recommendation that a comprehensive effort in inter-agency planning between the Secretary of Agriculture, the Development Commission, the University Extension Services, and a number of other state agencies be undertaken to develop new programs for the benefit of Iowa farmers.

With reference to federal farm policies, the best a Governor can promise with any degree of candor is to fight with all the energy and influence at his command for the interests of Iowa farmers in connection with federal legislation and policy-making. This I have done in the past; this I will continue to do in the term ahead.

COURT STUDY COMMITTEE

Each session of the General Assembly, a number of committee and commissions are created by the legislature to study a given area during the interim period and then to submit their findings to the next session.

One of the most valuable studies completed since the last session of the Assembly is that of the Legislative Court Study Commission.

While I do not agree with every phase of the Commission's recommendations, I do agree with much of it and with the objective of upgrading our court system, particularly at the local level. I recommend this report to the Assembly and for study and for possible legislative action.

PERSONNEL

If we are to sustain the unprecedented forward movement that Iowa has achieved in the last two years, we must gain for government the ability to compete with private industry for qualified personnel.

Recently we had the Public Administration Service make a study of salaries of key officials in state government. In the light of their findings we have found support for our intention to make significant increases in the salaries of those officials.

It is my hope that this Assembly will enact civil service for state employees. Quite frankly it seems illogical that we should require municipal government, after it reaches a certain size, to come under civil service, only to deny it to our own state employees.

* * * *

I intended to deliver a speech here today—not an encyclopedia. Yet, if my speech, by its very weight in printed form, conveys to anyone the idea that state government is a big operation; then perhaps it has served some useful purpose.

I think of many vital areas of government that I have not had time to touch upon—including the state programs for rehabilitation of the physically handicapped, the orientation and training of the blind, the special education programs for retarded children, and the research in our universities, extending from the quest for new uses for farm products to the probing of the mysteries of outer space.

All of these are part of the mighty human resource programs of our state government, which this administration is firmly committed to sustaining and strengthening.

In my first inaugural message, I said: "The scope of government covers the entire spectrum of human life . . . As I see it, the responsibility of a new administration is to take a total approach—rather than to concentrate on a few areas and neglect the others."

This, ladies and gentlemen, I have done to the best of my ability.

In that first inaugural, I also said: "Frankly, I expect to experiment and make some mistakes."

This statement I have also fulfilled, I might add.

If you will forgive a purely personal viewpoint, ladies and gentlemen, I would say that in the past two years we have seen a revolution of attitude in this state. I am not suggesting that we have changed our fundamental beliefs and impulses. I am suggesting only that we have rearranged them and changed our outlook.

We have swung from a negative to an affirmative point of view. We have, I think, reached a clearer distinction between what is right and what is only self-righteous. We have regained our poise, our sense of venture and our faith in the future. We have relaxed some of our old prejudices and exhibited a new willingness to work together for common goals. In short, we have gained maturity and unity of purpose as a society. And this bodes well for Iowa's future.

On this memorable occasion, my heart is full of gratitude for the help and the courtesy we have received in the past two years from the members of the General Assembly and from the people of Iowa.

On behalf of my wife and family and myself, I thank you all.

The people of this state are an energetic and self-reliant breed with great staying power and spiritual strength. The beauty and abundance of the state are beyond the legendary dreams of the promised land. Our potential stands like a tall building against the sky.

It is my devout hope that this administration in this era of promise can provide the people of Iowa with sound, forward-looking and humane government during the biennium ahead.

To this end, I pledge you my good will and my unreserved co-operation.

The following benediction was offered by Bishop Ralph Hayes, Bishop of the Davenport Diocese, Davenport, Iowa:

PSALM 66

May God have mercy on us, and bless us; may He cause the light of His countenance to shine upon us, and may He have mercy upon us.

That we may know thy way upon earth; thy salvation in all nations. Let people confess to thee, O God; let all the people give praise to thee.

Let the nations be glad and rejoice; for thou judgest the people with justice, and directest the nations upon earth.

Let the people confess to thee; let all the people give praise to thee; the earth hath yielded her fruit.

May God, our God, bless us; may God bless us, and all the ends of the earth fear him. Amen.

The committee waited upon Lieutenant Governor Fulton and Mrs. Fulton.

President O'Malley presented Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Fulton.

MR. PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE AND MEMBERS OF THE SENATE:

Today I am receiving a great honor that many in this body are undoubtedly more deserving. From a standpoint of experience in the Senate and of service to the state, there are many of you who would more appropriately and more ably serve as presiding officer of this body. But our political systems do not operate in this manner and, therefore, I can only promise you to act as the President of the Senate as judiciously as my capabilities will allow.

Before entering into my considerations of the sessions before us, I would like to extend to Lieutenant Governor Mooty, the Secretary of the Senate, Carroll Lane, and their staff the sincere appreciation for the full and fine cooperation they extended in organizing this body. This indicates the deep concern of those who have gone before us for the well-being of Iowa and should serve as a guide for our further action.

We have just heard from the Governor of our state, and there is no doubt in my mind that the Senate will be able to face the challenge presented and though the reaction to this message will be varied, we can all agree that the task before us is monumental. The sheer number of bills will be staggering and it is necessary that the most effective use of the procedural processes of the Senate intelligently select those that should be considered by the Senate. These processes will make these judgments, and when the time comes for adjournment we will all be proud of the operation of this aspect of the Senate's business.

But there are areas that failure in any one of them could transcend all these accomplishments of the legislature and severely tarnish the image of the Sixty-first General Assembly with the Iowa public. These areas are similar in many respects. First, it will be impossible to even adequately discuss any one of them unless every member of the legislature bases his judgment on the future well-being of the entire state. For these problems will become insoluble by any one of us believing the considerations of his particular legislative district are more important or even of equal importance with the future of Iowa. There is no piecemeal solution to these problems—they must be solved with the benefit of the entire state in mind or we are doomed to failure. We must constantly analyze our own position to guarantee that the position that we fundamentally believed to be in Iowa's best interest will stand the test of our own most critical evaluation.

These problems are similar in that they have long been with us and those who have had previous legislative experience have debated them many times. These problems are also similar in that they are immensely complicated and that they are problems that defy final solution for once you make an advance the conditions of our state change and we will find our successors facing them once again.

But this is the paradox of our legislative system and I firmly believe that these obstacles will not deter the Sixty-first General Assembly from at least arriving at partial solutions. I believe that in facing the problems of reapportionment, taxation and education the Sixty-first General Assembly will dissolve the many myths about the division of interests of our fair state. That the solutions to these problems and the benefits conferred upon the entire state thereby will indicate that which we all have long known—that we can only prosper individually or sectionally when the entire state prospers—that the denial of a right of one citizen, be it a civil right, a right to equal educational opportunity, or a right to a full share of the resources of our state, is a denial to all the citizens of our state.

Once again let me express my appreciation for the honor that will be daily bestowed upon me by being the presiding officer of the Iowa Senate. My office will always be open to all members of the Senate. To the experienced members of the Senate I ask for your guidance and help. To all members, I ask for your indulgence. It is my firm belief that this will be a successful session.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 4

By Walker

Whereas, The Supreme Court of the United States has decreed, under present constitutional provisions, that the legislatures of the several states should be apportioned in both houses on a population basis; and

Whereas, There is now pending in most states legislation to apportion on various bases including some with one house on population and the other on area or some other consideration; and

Whereas, Most national and international legislative bodies are based in some degree on other considerations than population, including the United Nations Assembly wherein population is not considered as a factor and the Congress of the United States wherein only one house is based on population, and

Whereas, It is the considered opinion of the legislative body that in the reapportionment of the state legislatures some other consideration than population should in all cases be used in assigning representation in one of the houses, Now, Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate of the Sixty-first General Assembly of the State of Iowa, the House Concurring: That the Congress of the United States should at once initiate the passage of a constitutional amendment declaring the principle of legislative representation in each state, of one house to be based on population and the other house to be based on other considerations, including area and economic factors, and

Be It Further Resolved That an attested copy of this Resolution be forwarded at once to each member of the Iowa delegation in the House of Representatives and the Senate in Congress; to the President and Vice President of the United States; to the Majority and Minority Leaders in both houses of the Congress of the United States, and to the Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States.

REPORT OF THE BUDGET AND FINANCIAL CONTROL COMMITTEE

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE, THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, AND THE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

The Budget and Financial Control Committee of the Sixtieth General Assembly herewith submits the following report and recommendations.

The Committee made annual visits to the institutions under the Board of Regents, the Board of Control, and also visited many of the projects under the State Conservation Commission. The General Assembly gave this Committee the duty of releasing funds appropriated by the legislature for capital expenditures when, in this Committee's judgment, it was for the best interests of the State of Iowa, and to carry out the intents and purposes of the legislature. In our best judgment, such a policy has been followed in making every allocation or release of funds.

We recommend for the consideration of the Sixty-first General Assembly the following subjects:

Give consideration to:

1. Consolidation of all Legislative Service Agencies into one—three divisional unit (fiscal, legal and research).
2. Confidential status on Data Processing so that all agencies can make full usage of it.
3. Raise boiler inspection fees as proposed by Department of Bureau of Labor and install additional inspectors.
4. Have any department participating in Federal funds be required to file copy of Federal Statute and Federal Administrative Rules with the Legislative Research Bureau.
5. Change statutes on what monies can be collected for support. (Marshalltown—assets instead of income.)
6. Oakdale Sanatorium being placed under University Hospital.

On December 31, 1964, the sum of $1,115,671.83 remained in this fund.

Respectfull submitted,

REPORT OF THE BUDGET AND FINANCIAL CONTROL COMMITTEE

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE, THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, AND THE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

Pursuant to Senate Concurrent Resolution 4, adopted by the Extraordinary Session of the Sixtieth General Assembly of Iowa, your Budget and Financial Control Committee of the Sixtieth General Assembly has continued its investigation of the conduct of the management and affairs of the Iowa State Highway Commission. In compliance with the Resolution your Committee desires to file with the General Assembly a copy of the transcript of hearings, and the summation of hearings presented to this Committee by Attorney Ned Willis, the attorney retained by this Committee to conduct the investigation. Your Committee further wishes to submit the following majority and minority reports:

MAJORITY REPORT

1. The Highway Commission gave no satisfactory explanation for the switch of 14 miles of Interstate 80 paving from concrete to asphalt, after the roadbed had been graded for concrete. Your Committee has been unable to determine definitely from the testimony why the switch was made.

A. The explanation given at the time of the switch was to the effect that the portland cement paving industry would be severely taxed during 1964 to complete its work. This explanation proved to be of no substance and during the hearing the Commissioners did not use this explanation.

B. The explanation most commonly given by the Commissioners during the hearing was that they wanted to keep the asphalt industry alive. Not one bit of evidence was given to substantiate this.

1. This explanation crumbled when actual bids on the two projects were taken; only one Iowa asphalt contractor submitted a bid on each project.

C. No engineer or staff member recommended the switch. In fact, the Pavement Selection Committee of three staff members originally, and again after a thorough review, recommended portland cement concrete.

2. Commission records on the switch were grossly inadequate. The few records available were of little value. In the future, complete records must be kept showing dates, authors, reasons and actions taken.

3. Cheapest original cost is the only factor considered under present policy in determination of paving type. (This was ignored, however, on the two Interstate 80 projects, as evidence clearly showed portland cement was cheaper by approximately $128,000—$104,000 of this was the cost of removing six and one-half inches of grade from the roadbed.)

4. In the future, maintenance costs should definitely be considered in pavement selection. Maintenance records do appear to be excellent. These records show that for the five years ended June 30, 1964, asphalt maintenance costs were $1,246.99 per mile and concrete costs $193.70 per mile. While the federal government pays part of the construction costs on primary highways, the Iowa road user pays all maintenance costs.

5. The best interests of the Iowa road user should be the primary concern of the Commission; assisting special interest groups should never take precedence over the public interest.

6. Highway Commissioners must be above reproach in their personal and business dealings. The Iowa highway program has, in the past, been free of scandal. It must remain so. Legislation outlawing unethical business and personal dealings of Commissioners should be enacted promptly.

7. No Chief Engineer can effectively handle all of the present responsibilities. A trained business manager should be appointed to relieve the Chief Engineer of many of the administrative responsibilities.

8. Your Committee believes the legislature should carefully consider whether the present Highway Commission of five members should be replaced with a Director of Highways, as in many other states.

9. Closer budgeting, auditing and supervision of expenditures of the Commission should be exercised by the legislature.

10. If the present Highway Commission system is continued, Commissioners must have closer liaison with the staff, and be better informed.

A. The Chairman of the Commission testified there were 400 fewer employees at the Commission from the previous year; the Chief Engineer later testified the number of employees was about the same.

11. The present system of qualification of bidders appears vague and arbitrary. It should be modernized and explicitly stated. Performance bonds may be beneficial.

12. The Commission should re-examine its policy of letting paving contracts for such short (six mile average on Interstate) sections. It seems logical that longer sections would result in cheaper per mile costs.

13. Taking bids on both asphalt and concrete for the same project should be considered carefully.

14. Allowing contractors to bid on individual projects, and then submit an overall bid for combined projects (tie bids) could result in substantial savings.

15. Your Committee regrets that it was unable to get a logical, satisfactory explanation for this switch. We must conclude that the switch was not in the best interests of the Iowa taxpayer.

16. We do feel the investigation has made the public and public officials aware of serious shortcomings in the administration of the present highway program, shortcomings which can and must be corrected. The Highway Commission handles more money than any department in state government; the public must have confidence that every road tax dollar is spent wisely. Iowans are demanding intelligence, efficiency and integrity in their highway program—they deserve no less!

MINORITY REPORT

The filing of the Highway Commission report agreed to by the six Republican members, and disapproved by the four Democratic members, brings to an end a search that started more than a year ago in eastern Iowa.

A search which sought to find an appealing political issue which would culminate in the harvest of a bumper crop of votes for the G. O. P. on November 3. The search to harvest a mammoth crop of G. O. P. votes was undertaken with glee and anticipation.

Our good Governor Hughes and his able Highway Commissioners were to be exposed and exploited and removed from state leadership because of a change of 14 miles of Interstate from the so-called high-priced "spread".

History has now recorded the crop failure.

The undersigned assert that the most comforting conclusion from the inquiry is that there was no evidence of improper conduct or irregularities by the Commissioners. It was apparent during the long drawn out matter that Iowa has fine Commissioners who are successful in their own businesses and who are serving the public at a personal sacrifice in both time and money. This likewise can be said of former Commissioners.

As to the switch in paving material of the 14 miles, we are satisfied with the explanation given by each of the Commissioners and their individual reasons were not the same. The engineering staff made the reevaluation at the Chief Engineer's instruction and such is a common and accepted practice in road construction as the original determination was made in 1961.

The Engineering Department assured the Commissioners that the AASHO tests in Illinois and the new designs as a result thereof make the use of material other than concrete satisfactory. Likewise the U. S. Bureau of Roads approves both types of surface material. While the design committee thought concrete would be cheaper, still the variation in costs as estimated would be less than one percent (letter October 7, 1963). Nothing was shown that the design committee is, or has been, infallible in their estimates and we agree that the Commissioners are not to just rubber stamp others' conclusions, but are to use their own judgment after receiving memoranda from the staff.

As was brought out in the testimony early in 1964, the Commission, on its own initiative, was reviewing its procedures, including securing the services of a business manager. Such a review was postponed as a result of the inquiry. We believe a business or office manager should be employed. We believe this long investigation has slowed down needed changes at the Ames office, and we urge that these changes be carried through without further delay.

We believe more complete records of Commission procedure should be kept and better communication between the Commission and staff established.

We believe maintenance costs should be an item considered in pavement selection and that the design committee of engineers apparently have not done so in the past.

We believe the use of both surface materials will keep the industries competitive and should result in lower per mile cost.

We believe a Highway Commission of five members is superior to a one man director as suggested by some.

We believe that Chapter 314 of the Code that sets out the matter of bidding which has been carefully followed could well be reviewed to see if any improvements are in order.

We believe, after a summer of many conferences, five days of hearings, hiring of a G. O. P. lawyer, appearances of 10 witnesses, examination of 66 exhibits, and after considering the 1,097 pages of testimony taken, that Iowa is fortunate in having a Highway Commission and staff against whom no irregularities were found after a most extensive and drawn out inquiry.

Many other states have not been so fortunate in their Highway departments.

We hope now that the Commission and its staff can get on with the matter of highway construction now that November 3 is history.

We see no need for any new legislation on ethics in government or conflict of interest to clutter up the Code book. The present statutes are adequate and have been interpreted by the Attorney General's office. After all, proper conduct in government is a matter that must exist in the hearts and minds of men.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 7

By Brinck, Wilson and Mahan

Whereas: Sir Winston Spencer Churchill passed away on January 24, 1965, at the age of ninety, thereby causing inexpressible grief to thousands throughout the world.

And Whereas: The whole world is made poorer by the loss of his many-sided genius; a loss which is felt in the United States as deeply as it is in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

And Whereas: What he said and what he did will never die, but will live forever as the symbol of the era his passing ends.

And Whereas: As he himself once said: "The destiny of mankind is not decided by material computation. When great causes are on the move in the world . . . we learn that we are spirits, not animals, and that something is going on in space and time, and beyond space and time, which, whether we like it or not, spells duty."

Therefore Be It Resolved: By the House of Representatives, the Senate Concurring, of the Sixty-first General Assembly of Iowa that in the passing of the Rt. Honorable Sir Winston Spencer Churchill the world has lost an honored citizen and a faithful and useful servant and the General Assembly by this resolution would express its appreciation of his service and tender its sympathy to the members of his family.

Be It Further Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the Journal of this House and that the Chief Clerk be directed to forward an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased, the Parliament of the United Kingdom, and its Embassy in Washington, D. C.

The Honorable Robert D. Fulton,
Lieutenant Governor,
The Senate,
Sixty-first General Assembly,
State House,
Des Moines, Iowa.
Dear Mr. Fulton:

Enclosed with this letter you will find ten copies of a report of the Commission on Uniform State Laws. This is submitted to you pursuant to Iowa Code section 5.4.

If you wish any additional copies of the report, please let me know. I will be very happy to send them to you.

ALLAN D. VESTAL, Chairman,
Commission on Uniform State Laws.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION ON UNIFORM STATE LAWS
TO THE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

Pursuant to Chapter 5 of the Code of Iowa, 1962, the Commission on Uniform State Laws herewith files its report on its activities.

At the present time the Commission is composed of Allan D. Vestal, Iowa City, George Lindeman, Waterloo, and E. W. McNeil of Montezuma. All of the present statutory members were appointed in this fiscal year by the present Governor. In addition, Mason Ladd of Iowa City and Carl Pryor of Burlington are life members of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

At an organizational meeting, the statutory commissioners selected Allan D. Vestal as chairman and E. W. McNeil as secretary.

In 1963 the annual meeting of the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws was held in Chicago and was attended by Mason Ladd and J. C. Pryor.

In 1964 the meeting was held in New York City and was attended by Commissioners Vestal, Lindeman, McNeil and Ladd. In addition, former Commissioner Edward McDermott of Dubuque attended part of the meeting.

During the course of the meeting, the National Conference considered a great number of drafts of uniform acts. Final action was taken approving six different acts. These were (1) Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act designed to give protection to the business community against deceptive practices, (2) Uniform Trustees' Powers Act (designed to indicate explicitly the extensive powers which a trustee has), (3) Uniform Act on Status of Convicted Persons Act (designed to spell out the rights retained and those lost by a person convicted of a felony), (4) Revised Uniform Estate Tax Apportionment Act (changes designed to meet the problem of apportionment in cases in which property has a situs other than that of the decedent and other similar problems), (5) Revised Uniform Enforcement of Foreign Judgments Act (incorporates a method of enforcing judgments of courts of another state through a simplified procedure while still protecting the rights of the judgment debtor), and (6) Uniform Law Commissioners' Model Special Power of Attorney for Small Property Interests Act (purpose is to provide a simple procedure for the care of the interests of persons who anticipate a time when they will not be able to manage their own affairs).

All of the Uniform Acts were approved by the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association in its meeting held in New York following the meeting of the National Conference.

Should any member of the legislature be interested in any of these acts or in any of the Uniform Acts which have been adopted in the past, the Commissioners stand ready to provide copies of such acts and to assist the members in any way possible in gaining information about such acts.

The Commissioners are working in close harmony with the Permanent Editorial Board of the National Conference on Uniform State Laws on the matter of uniform interpretation of uniform acts by the Courts, and will be closely associated with the Committee on Construction under this Board on uniform construction of The Uniform Commercial Code if adopted by this legislature.

Of special urgency at the present time is the adoption of the Uniform Commercial Code which has been presented for consideration by the National Conference. This act has been adopted by more than half of the states. Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri and Nebraska among the states adjoining Iowa have adopted the Code, and it is understood that it will be introduced into the next legislature in Minnesota. The complete list of adopting states and the date of adoption follows:

State	Adoption Date
Pennsylvania	1953
Massachusetts	1957
Kentucky	1958
Connecticut	1959
New Hampshire	1959
Rhode Island	1960
Wyoming	1961
Arkansas	1961
New Mexico	1961
Ohio	1961
Oregon	1961
Oklahoma	1961
Illinois	1961
New Jersey	1961
Georgia	1962
Alaska	1962
New York	1962
Michigan	1962
Indiana	1963
Tennessee	1963
West Virginia	1963
Montana	1963
Maryland	1963
California	1963
Wisconsin	1963
Maine	1963
Nebraska	1963
Missouri	1963
District of Columbia	1963
Virginia	1964

The Commissioners wish to go on record as being in support of the Uniform Commercial Code and we urge its adoption by this session of the General Assembly. If Iowa is to move ahead we must have laws which are conducive to the commercial and industrial development of the state. Since all of the important commercial states have adopted the Uniform Commercial Code, it would seem to be extremely desirable for Iowa to adopt it. This way there would be uniformity which would be helpful in commercial transactions. It would seem to be only a matter of time before it is adopted in Iowa; passage this year would indicate the willingness of the Iowa legislature to co-operate in improving the business and commercial climate of the state.

The Uniform Commercial Code represents more than a decade of work on the part of the National Conference and the American Law Institute. It is almost unanimously recommended by those who have had experience with its operation in other states. The Commercial Code Study Committee appointed under the authority of Senate Joint Resolution 17 of the last General Assembly has spent much time considering the matter, and it has unanimously recommended the adoption of the Code. Your Commissioners have studied with care the Report of this Study Committee and join in the recommendation for its adoption therein made.

The Commissioners would like to call the legislature's attention to a number of other Uniform Acts which have not been adopted by Iowa. Should any of the legislators be interested in legislation on any of these matters, we would be most happy to provide copies of the uniform acts. The following uniform acts, not adopted by Iowa, have been adopted in a number of states:

Federal Tax Lien Registration (first adopted by Conference in 1926, revised in 1962)

Judicial Notice of Foreign Law (1936)

Vital Statistics (1942)

Disposition of Unclaimed Property (1954)

Simplification of Fiduciary Security Transfers (1958)

Voting by New Residents in Presidential Elections (1962)

The Commissioners stand ready to co-operate with the General Assembly in the adoption of uniform legislation.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE LINDEMAN, Waterloo.

E. W. MCNEIL, Montezuma.

ALLAN D. VESTAL, Iowa City, Chairman.

OF

TO THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

I.

The Supreme Court, on recommendation of its Advisory Committee on Rules of Civil Procedure, has prescribed and, pursuant to Section 684.19, Code of Iowa 1962, reports to you rules and amendments to existing rules as follows:

Rule 199. Separation and deliberation of jury.

Rule 199 (b) is revised to read:

(b) On final submission, the jury shall retire for deliberation, and be kept together in charge of an officer until they agree on a verdict or are discharged by the court, unless the court permits the jurors to separate temporarily overnight, on weekends or holidays, or in emergencies. During their deliberations, the officer in charge must not suffer any communication to be made to them, nor make any himself, except to ask them if they have agreed on a verdict, unless by order of court; nor communicate to any person the state of their deliberations, or the verdict agreed upon before it is rendered.

Rule 187. Impaneling jury.

Rule 187 (b) is revised to read:

(b) Oath and examination. The prospective jurors shall be sworn. The court shall initiate the voir dire examination by identifying the parties and their respective counsel and briefly outlining the nature of the case. The court shall then put to the jurors any questions it thinks necessary as to their qualifications to serve as jurors in the case on trial. The parties shall be allowed a reasonable opportunity to supplement such examination. The court may on its own motion exclude any juror.

Rule 123 is revised to read:

123. Objections—time to answer. The clerk shall deliver the copy of the interrogatories as provided in Rule 82. The party to whom the interrogatories are directed shall file either answers thereto or objections to their propriety within seven days after they are filed, unless the court for good cause, but not ex parte, shall enlarge the time. If objections are filed to any of the interrogatories, any required answer to those to which objections are made shall be deferred until seven days after the objections are ruled upon unless otherwise ordered by the court. This rule shall not limit the right to object to the answers if offered in evidence.

Rule 253.1 reading as follows is prescribed:

253.1. Disposition of Exhibits. One year after the final determination of a case, the clerk may destroy all exhibits filed with him provided that he shall notify all counsel of record in writing that the exhibits will be destroyed unless receipted for within sixty days thereafter.

Section 684.19, Code of Iowa 1962, reports to you rules and amendments to existing rules as follows:

III.

The Legislative Court Study Commission in Part I of its report dealing with Court Structure has recommended the creation of a unified trial court. The report recommends, as an essential adjunct to such unification, a simplified procedure for the enforcement of small claims. The legislature must act on certain recommended bills before a unified court can be established. However, the rules of procedure for a small claims action are the proper subjects of the rule making authority of the supreme court. The commission has set out, commencing on page 15 in Part I of its report, the small claims rules and has submitted them to the supreme court for action.

Section 684.19 of the 1962 Code of Iowa requires the supreme court to report any rules or forms which it may prescribe to the General Assembly within 20 days after the commencement of the regular session. It is highly unlikely that the legislature will have completed action on this important proposition within that time, but it is essential that the small claims rules be effective if the legislature does act favorably on the proposition of the unified court during this session. Therefore, the supreme court on recommendation of the Court Study Commission, has prescribed rules for the enforcement of small claims to be effective only in the event the Sixty-first General Assembly in regular session adopts legislation creating a unified trial court system. Pursuant to Section 684.19, Code of Iowa 1962, these rules, intended to constitute an additional division to the existing Rules of Civil Procedure, are reported to you as follows:

DIVISION XX SMALL CLAIMS

Rule 378. Commencement, Docket. Civil actions in which the amount in controversy in money or value is less than $300, exclusive of interest and costs, shall be known as small claims. All such actions shall be commenced by the filing of an original notice with the clerk and by the mailing by the clerk of a copy of same to each defendant at his last known address, as stated in the original notice, by restricted, certified mail, return receipt to the clerk requested. Instead of such mailing, the plaintiff may, after filing the original notice with the clerk, cause a copy of same to be served on all or some defendants in the manner provided in Division III of these rules, whereupon Rules 48 and 49 shall be applicable as to the defendants to be so served. The clerk shall maintain a book known as the small claims docket, which shall contain as to small claims the matters contained in the combination docket as to regular civil actions.

Rule 379. Original Notice. The original notice must be mailed or otherwise served not less than 10 days prior to the hearing date. The original notice and copies shall be signed by the plaintiff, either in person or by attorney, and shall be in substantially the following form:

Plaintiff (s)

Rule 380. Function of Clerk. The clerk shall furnish forms of original notice and shall assist in their preparation if requested to do so. At the time of filing, the clerk shall enter on the original notice and the copies to be served the file number and the time and place of hearing, which shall be a time when small claims are scheduled to be heard not less than 10 nor more than 20 days after the date on which the notice will be mailed or otherwise served. The clerk shall mail a copy of the original notice to each defendant by restricted, certified mail, return receipt to the clerk requested, except for defendants whom the plaintiff wishes to serve under Division III of these rules.

Rule 381. Fees. Before filing the original notice, the clerk shall collect a fee of $1 and the cost of mailing the notice, when it is to be mailed. If the plaintiff wishes to serve the notice under Division III of these rules, the person serving or publishing the same may require advance payment of his fee and mileage.

Rule 382. Pleadings. Except as provided in rules 379 and 383, there shall be no written pleadings or motions unless the court in the interest of justice requires them, in which event they shall be similar in form to the original notice.

Rule 383. Joinder, Counterclaim, Cross Claim, Intervention.

(a) Division II of these rules and rule 75 shall be applicable to small claims actions.

(b) In small claims actions, if a party joins a small claim with one which is not a small claim, the court shall (1) order the small claim to be heard under this division and dismiss the other claim without prejudice, or (2) as to parties who have appeared or are existing parties, either (a) order the small claim to be heard under this division and the other claim to be tried by regular procedure or (b) order both claims to be tried by regular procedure.

(c) In small claims actions, a counterclaim, cross claim, or intervention in the amount of a small claim shall be in writing and similar in form to the original notice, and shall be entitled Original Notice of Counterclaim, of Cross Claim, or of Intervention, as the case may be. A copy shall be filed for each existing party. New parties may be brought in without order and shall be served with notice as provided in rules 378 and 379; and if notice is to be served by mail the clerk shall collect the cost of mailing before filing the pleading. The clerk shall furnish forms of such pleadings and shall assist in their preparation if requested to do so. No counterclaim is necessary to assert an offset arising out of the subject of the plaintiff's claim.

(d) In small claims, actions, a counterclaim, cross claim, or intervention not in the amount of a small claim shall be in the form of a regular pleading. A copy shall be filed for each existing party. New parties, when permitted by order, may be brought in under rule 34 and shall be given notice under Division III of these rules. The court shall either (1) order such counterclaim, cross claim, or intervention to be tried by regular procedure and the other claims to be heard under this division, or (2) order the entire action to be tried by regular procedure.

(e) In regular actions, when a party joins a small claim with one which is not a small claim, regular procedure shall apply to both unless the court transfers the small claim to the small claims docket for hearing under this division.

(f) In regular actions, a counterclaim, cross claim, or intervention in the amount of a small claim shall be pleaded, tried, and determined by regular procedure, unless the court transfers such small claim to the small claims docket for hearing under this division.

(g) Pleadings which are not in correct form under this rule shall be ordered amended so as to be in correct form; but a small claim which is proceeding under this division need not be amended although in the form of a regular pleading.

(h) Copies of any papers filed by the parties, which are not required to be served, shall be mailed or delivered by the clerk as provided in rule 82.

Rule 384. Proof of Service. At the time for hearing, the court or clerk shall first determine that proper notice has been given a party before proceeding further as to him, unless he has appeared or is an existing party, and also that the action is properly brought as a small claim.

Rule 385. Default. Unless good cause to the contrary appears, (1) if the parties fail to appear at the time of hearing, the claim shall be dismissed without prejudice by the court or clerk; (2) if the plaintiff fails to appear but the defendant appears, the claim shall be dismissed with prejudice by the court or clerk; and (3) if the plaintiff appears but the defendant fails to appear, judgment shall be rendered against the defendant by the court, or by the clerk if the relief to be granted is readily ascertainable.

Rule 386. Hearing. The time for appearance shall be the time for hearing. The hearing shall be to the court, shall be simple and informal, and shall be conducted by the court itself, without regard to technicalities of procedure; but the decision must be based on substantial evidence. The court shall swear the parties and their witnesses, and examine them in such way as to bring out the truth. The parties may participate, either personally or by attorney. The court may continue the hearing from time to time if justice requires. The proceedings shall not be reported unless a party provides a reporter at his own expense or the parties by agreement cause the proceedings to be electronically reported, but there shall be no delay for such purpose.

Rule 387. Judgment Minutes.

(a) The judgment shall be entered in a space on the original notice first filed, and the clerk shall immediately enter the judgment in the small claims docket and district court lien book. Such relief shall be granted as is appropriate. The court may enter judgment for installment payments; and in such event execution shall be suspended as long as such payments are made, but execution shall issue for the full unpaid balance of the judgment upon the filing of an affidavit of default as to any part of an installment. When entered on the small claims docket and district court lien book, a small claims judgment shall constitute a lien to the same extent as regular judgments entered on the district court judgment docket and lien book; but if a small claims judgment requires installment payments, it shall not constitute a lien for any amount until an affidavit of default is filed, whereupon it shall constitute a lien for the full unpaid balance of the judgment.

(b) Unless the hearing is reported, minutes of the testimony of each witness and of any stipulations of the parties shall likewise be entered on the original notice first filed; and the exhibits or copies thereof shall be attached to such original notice or be filed, until released by the court.

Rule 388. Costs. The actual expense of the prevailing party for filing fee, mailing or otherwise serving original notice, and witness fees and mileage, shall be taxed as costs. No other costs shall be taxed except on order of court for good cause.

Rule 389. Other Statutes and Rules. Small claims shall be commenced, heard, and determined in accordance with this division. Other statutes and rules relating to civil proceedings shall apply, but only insofar as not inconsistent with this division. Service of original notice according to rule 56 or 378 supersedes the need of its publication, whether the party served is or resides within or without Iowa. Small claims on file for 90 days and not determined shall be dismissed without prejudice unless prior thereto a party secures an order of continuance to a date certain after notice and hearing, upon a ground stated in rule 215.1. Actions in probate involving the amount of a small claim shall be heard and determined under this division and may be commenced hereunder; if commenced as a regular civil action or under the statutes relating to probate proceedings, they shall be transferred to the small claims docket and proceed accordingly. Civil actions coming within this division but commenced in the regular way shall not be dismissed but shall be transferred to the small claims docket and proceed accordingly. Civil and probate actions not coming within this division but commenced hereunder shall be dismissed without prejudice except for defendants who have appeared, as to whom such actions shall be transferred to the combination or probate docket, as the case may be, and proceed accordingly.

If the Sixty-first General Assembly fails to create a unified trial court system, the "small claims" rules appearing in this part III of the report to you shall be void and of no effect.

Respectfully submitted,

ADOPTION OF HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

By Brinck, Wilson and Mahan

Whereas: Sir Winston Spencer Churchill passed away on January 24, 1965, at the age of ninety, thereby causing inexpressible grief to thousands throughout the world.

And Whereas: The whole world is made poorer by the loss of his many-sided genius; a loss which is felt in the United States as deeply as it is in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

And Whereas: What he said and what he did will never die, but will live forever as the symbol of the era his passing ends.

And Whereas: As he himself once said: "The destiny of mankind is not decided by material computation. When great causes are on the move in the world . . . we learn that we are spirits, not animals, and that something is going on in space and time, and beyond space and time, which, whether we like it or not, spells duty."

Therefore Be It Resolved: By the House of Representatives, the Senate Concurring, of the Sixty-first General Assembly of Iowa that in the passing of the Rt. Honorable Sir Winston Spencer Churchill the world has lost an honored citizen and a faithful and useful servant and the General Assembly by this resolution would express its appreciation of his service and tender its sympathy to the members of his family.

Be It Further Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the Journal of this House and that the Chief Clerk be directed to forward an enrolled copy to the family of the deceased, the Parliament of the United Kingdom, and its Embassy in Washington, D. C.

The motion prevailed and the resolution was adopted.

BUDGET MESSAGE TO THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Joint Session, February 1, 1965

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, HONORABLE SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am sure that other governors have felt, as I feel today, that a biennial budget message should be something more than a perfunctory recitation of items and figures that can be seen on the comptroller's printed budget report by anyone with two eyes in his head. A budget message, if it is worth its salt, should communicate, along with the statistics, a lucid picture of an administration's philosophy relating to government finance and the basic mission of government.

We do not always think of it in this sense, but a budget is the skeletal framework of government planning. The road to the state house, as well as to other legendary destinations, is paved with good intentions. But when we come to grips with the budget, we have reached the ultimate moment of truth as to our determination and capability to fulfill those intentions.

In simplest terms, the mission of government is two-fold. On the one hand, we have the administration of a vast organization and the stewardship of public funds. In this sense, it is not unlike the operation of an immense business establishment. On the other hand, the job of government is also to meet human needs and enhance the well-being of the citizens. We cannot neglect either hemisphere of this mission without failing to fulfill vital responsibilities with which the public has entrusted us.

My concept of our responsibility as public officials is that we should attempt to lead, rather than to push the public, toward the objectives in which we believe. This involves some thoughtful and sensitive interpretation of the public will. Yet this does not mean that we hitch-hike our way with the more obvious public sentiments in order to avoid irritating any segment of the electorate. That is the road back, not the road ahead.

Good government, as I see it, requires that we move ahead—at times boldly, at times more deliberately—but always moving toward the plausible goals of today and the idealistic goals of tomorrow. Our over-all planning for the next biennium, including its budgetary framework, must be placed in the setting of our long-range objectives, if we are to keep faith with our charge as public officials.

During the long period in which this budget has been in preparation, I have been subjected to strong pressures from two poles. On the one hand, we have those who would transform the state overnight with respect to the particular governmental service in which they are interested. From the other pole comes equal pressure in the form of resistance to rising costs of government and higher taxes.

This push-and-pull has been accentuated at the present time because of the political changeover and the comparative economic health of the state.

I am sure that you members of the Assembly are experiencing this pressure, just as I am.

Which direction shall we take? What is it that the people of Iowa expect of us? What is our mandate?

As I see it, our mandate is to keep Iowa moving ahead within the practical limits of our financial capability.

As I see it, our mandate is to take sure-footed steps toward the immediate future while keeping our eyes and purpose steadfastly on the stars of our future.

It is our duty to see the responsibility of governing in its totality—not in fragments. There is no service of government, for example, that is more important than education. Yet, however tempted we might be, we cannot enhance our educational facilities to the exclusion of such vital areas as public safety, highway construction, public health, industrial development and the care of the handicapped.

If, to some, this be treason to our ideals; then we must live with the criticism—for our responsibility is to all of the people of this state and to all of the human needs that state government is committed to meet.

What I am saying is that we must stand tall with our ideals but we must also keep our feet on the ground.

To place our emphasis on certain favored sectors of government, neglecting others, would be irresponsible. To ignore the realities of what the public is conceivably willing to bear in supporting government would be foolish.

As a personal statement, let me say to you that what makes my job rewarding to me is the opportunity it provides to work for goals for this state in which I deeply believe.

If I thought I were not doing this, the job of governor would quickly lose its luster for me.

Our concern for this state's future must be more compelling than any consideration of political partisanship or any desire for self-perpetuation in public office.

Neither the job of administering nor the job of legislating is easy or glamorous if properly fulfilled.

It consists of hard work and hard knocks along the way, and the achievement of progress is the only real reward for public service.

As I said at the beginning, it was inevitable that some of you and I would, at times, have our differences. We are having them—and I think that this is all to the good and all in the day's work. Neither you nor I came to the capitol for the ride or to win a year-around popularity contest.

We were sent here by the people because they felt that the programs we offered would be for the best interests of the State of Iowa. We were not sent here to yield to special interests lobbies or to favor any region or occupational group—but to work for the state as a whole.

In this budget, as in the goals set forth in my inaugural, I have tried to deal fairly and objectively with the needs of all of the segments of our society—with agriculture, labor, industry, and so on across the spectrum.

But I want to make it clear that so far as I am concerned, no occupational group in our state has received or will receive preferential consideration. Nor will any group be in the position of “running the state” so long as I occupy the chair as Governor.

I have the utmost faith in the integrity, the purpose and the good judgment of this legislature—just as I have faith in the character of the rank and file of the people who sent you here.

In this same reference, I have every respect for the prerogatives of the General Assembly and will never knowingly violate them.

The doors of my office are open to every member and whether we are in agreement or disagreement, I will always be available to counsel with you and to tell you face to face where I stand.

The budget I am submitting to you is a balanced, pay-as-you-go blueprint for the next biennium in accordance with the pre-election commitments I made to the people.

I make no claim of perfection for it. A Governor's budget, at best, is only a rough-draft set of guidelines for the legislature to use in its massive task of appropriating and arriving at ways and means.

Possibly no proposed budget in the state's history has had the counsel of as many people in its preparation or involved as many man hours of laborious effort. I am deeply grateful to the comptroller, Mr. Selden, and his staff; to the department heads of the state government and their staff members; to numerous legislative committees; and to a large number of private citizens who have been enormously helpful with advice and suggestions, which I asked for and they generously gave.

As you may recall, we conducted for the first time in Iowa's history a public hearing on the state budget. I am grateful for the response this innovation received from public-spirited citizens around the state as well as from members of the legislature and personnel from the many departments of the state administration.

Earlier, I had conducted mid-term budget hearings with department heads and a number of private meetings with business and community leaders in various parts of the state. All of this preparation was extremely helpful to me and I want, at this time, to acknowledge my indebtedness to the dedicated people—government servants and private citizens, many of whom were light-years apart from me in political viewpoint—who contributed this invaluable service.

I would point out to you today, as I have pointed out before, the close relationship between state and local governments. We cannot isolate the needs and revenue programs of state government from those of our cities, towns and counties and arrive at a true perspective. After all, it is the whole range of governmental services that counts for the individual citizen, regardless of which jurisdiction of government provides those services. In the same sense, it is the total tax load borne by each taxpayer that concerns him, rather than whether the taxes be state or local.

We take just pride in the fact that our state government is virtually debt-free and levies no property tax other than the very minor levy for the World War II and Korean War bonus bonds. But we have no right to be proud of a moderate state tax program if we have, at the same time, shifted a disproportionate load of the cost of government onto local jurisdictions. Our goal must be to hold combined state and local tax loads at the most reasonable level.

The importance of local government and its close relationship with state government have never received the recognition to which these basic facts of life are entitled.

The closest possible co-ordination should be sought between state programs and local programs in order to insure sound government operation at the lowest possible cost to Iowa taxpayers.

To study the intergovernmental potential and to develop recommendations for closer co-operation between the units of local government and between state and local jurisdictions, I appointed a Governor's Commission on State and Local Government, with wide and diversified representation from all levels of government and from all parts of the state. The results of this commission's deliberations have been highly encouraging and some of its recommendations have been incorporated in my inaugural and budget messages.

A state budget is necessarily long and involved because of the magnitude of the state government operation. I have made my comments on the budgetary items as succinct as possible, seeing no purpose in reciting long lists of figures that you can read from the statistical sheets. Supplementary printed materials will be furnished you today; and in the near future, additional tabulations will be made available to you, providing more detailed information on various departmental requests and suggested sources of revenue.

REVENUES FROM EXISTING TAX BASE

In my State-of-the-State message to you, I submitted information and statistics concerning Iowa's record-breaking economic growth during the past two years. The new peaks attained in the value of manufactured goods, employment, personal income and new industrial developments have carried over into the state's fiscal balance sheet and profit and loss statement.

We have attained new levels in revenues collected from our present tax base and project a 12-percent increase in these revenues by the end of the present biennium, next June 30, over the amount collected during the previous two-year period.

EXPENDITURES

The total expenditures from the general fund set forth in this budget for each year of the ensuing biennium are $254.6 million. Of this total, $120.7 million is designated for state aid or refund programs to local government jurisdictions. Although the desired level of property tax relief has not yet been attained, it is important to realize that about one-half of the state tax dollar goes back to local districts in one form or another.

EDUCATION

In order to ease the burden of rising school costs on local tax structures, I am recommending an additional 15 million dollars per year in the form of direct school aids. I am also recommending an additional $3.7 million in the agricultural land tax credits to bring the total to 15 million dollars.

With reference to distribution of school aid, I would say that I am sympathetic toward the principle of the "proportionate sharing" which is being widely advocated. However, it is obvious that such a program would necessitate a complete overhauling of our tax system in order to provide the vast revenue needed. In the setting of our over-all needs for state government, I do not see the feasibility of this in the coming biennium.

Two years ago, the legislature increased appropriations of the Board of Regents institutions by $6.2 million for a total of a little over 58 million dollars.

For the coming biennium, I am recommending an increase of $9.5 million in each year of the biennium—or a total of $67.6 million, which includes funds both for operations and for capital needs.

BOARD OF CONTROL

I recommend an annual operating appropriation of $25.1 million for the Board of Control institutions for the next two years. This represents an increase of two and one-half million dollars per year.

Included in my specific recommendations for the Board of Control is the raising of minimum salaries at the institutions to $270 per month over the two-year period. The Board has had difficulty in attracting and keeping competent personnel at the institutions due to industrial competition in the local areas.

I have provided in this proposed departmental budget $60,000 for the biennium to continue the work now being done under a federal grant in the development of a state-wide plan for the care and treatment of the mentally retarded.

From amounts not specifically included in this budget, I recommend the construction of a long-needed maximum security hospital for mentally disordered offenders.

I have recommended that farm properties owned by the Board which are no longer needed for rehabilitation purposes or for expansion of the institutional facilities be sold to provide revenue for this purpose. These properties would then be properly returned to local tax rolls.

PUBLIC SAFETY

I am recommending in this budget that the appropriation for the Department of Public Safety be increased by approximately $1.4 million each year of the coming biennium. This includes the addition of 100 patrolmen to the Highway Patrol, 50 to be added each year of the biennium.

As I stated in my Inaugural Message, I hope this measure can be expedited by the General Assembly so that the first group of additional patrolmen may be on duty on the highways as soon as possible this summer, and I am gratified by the prompt action that has been taken on this proposal so far.

The budget increase in the Public Safety Department also provides for strengthening the safety education division, including a program of temporary driving permits for first year operators and possible periodic examination of licensed drivers. To help finance this increased cost in the department, I am proposing later in this message an increase in the drivers' license fees.

SOCIAL WELFARE

I am proposing a five-million-dollar increase for each year of the next biennium for the Department of Social Welfare. The major parts of the increase are for Aid to Dependent Children—$2.7 million—and Medical Assistance to the Aged, over $2 million. Under the present schedule, ADC families are paid 75 percent of basic living needs. The increase would bring payments under this program up closer to the level of other programs, such as Old Age Assistance. The case load of our Medical Assistance to the Aged program has proved considerably greater than originally estimated. Hence, the increase for this purpose.

ADMINISTRATIVE DEPARTMENTS

In this budget, I am proposing several major realignments of government functions within the administrative branch of the state government. This would be the beginning of a series of long-needed departmental reorganizations and consolidations in the interests of both efficiency and economy.

First, I am recommending that the office of the Industrial Commissioner, Bureau of Labor, and the Department of Mines and Minerals be consolidated into one single department with one single appropriation.

Second, I am proposing to merge the functions of the Printing Board, Centralized Printing and the Car Dispatcher into the Executive Council. The activities of the Executive Council would be broadened, under this proposal, to provide for centralized purchasing of supplies and materials for the administrative departments of the state government. The objective would be to eliminate one board and two separate departments and to focus the responsibility for these functions on full-time, trained personnel.

Third, I recommend the employment of a professional, full-time tax administrator to be known as "Director of Revenue." His job would be to administer and enforce all of the revenue laws of the state, including, of course, the collection of taxes. I am proposing a term of six years for this position, with confirmation by the Senate.

I would also propose that on July 1 of 1966, the motor vehicle fuel taxes, now being administered and collected by the State Treasurer's office, be transferred to the Department of Revenue. Thus, all of the major tax administration and collection would be in one department.

Included in this proposed reorganization would be the conversion of the present Tax Commission to a hearing or review board whose sole duty would be to judge the tax law decisions made by the Director of Revenue. This three-man board would hear appeals brought by taxpayers and would make tax settlements accordingly, thus assuring all taxpayers ample protection.

OTHER DEPARTMENTAL BUDGETS

From the supplementary schedules you will receive, you will note budget increases in most departments.

Leading this list is the State Department of Public Health for which I have recommended a budget increase of more than 50 percent. This large and vitally important department has been under-financed for many years and my proposed budget simply comes to grips with the realities of its needs.

The increase recommended for the Bureau of Labor is to handle the growing work load brought about by a rapidly expanding industrial economy.

A substantial increase is recommended for the Conservation Commission to meet the increasing demands on this important agency of the state. A good part of this increase would be used to match federal funds now tional funds would be used for the acquisition of lands for future development for conservation and outdoor recreation purposes.

I have already reported to you the exciting strides we have made in new industrial development in Iowa in recent years. To assure continued advancement in this all-important field, I am recommending substantial increases in the budget of the Iowa Development Commission. A sizable part of this increase will be for the promotion of tourism and for the expansion of existing programs to develop greater use of Iowa's agricultural products.

Three items involving appropriations have been added to my proposals since the budget went to the printers. I recommend that a sum of $250,000 for the biennium be allocated for the purpose of initiating a state-supported and administered scholarship program to be based on both ability and need of deserving students.

In my inaugural message, I recommended that a State Commission on the Aging and a State Commission on Human Rights be established by statute. If these proposals are enacted, annual appropriations of $25,000 and $40,000, respectively, will be required to provide the necessary staff and facilities to operate these bodies.

SALARIES OF STATE EMPLOYEES

In the course of the departmental budget hearings held in late November and December, it became painfully obvious that the salary structure for state employees was urgently in need of revision. This was true at nearly all levels but was most pronounced in the higher echelons. A significant example would be the salaries paid to our supreme court justices and district court judges—salaries considerably under what these men could earn in the private practice of law.

For years, the handwriting on the wall has indicated that we cannot hope to keep qualified personnel in responsible state government offices unless we pay salaries reasonably commensurate with the going rates in private enterprise.

Accordingly, I have recommended general salary increases for most state employees during the coming biennium. Recommended increases in the statutory salaries for department heads generally follow the guidelines provided by an independent study made of our key employee salary structure by the Public Administration Service last summer.

The Sixtieth General Assembly passed legislation to permit the development of a state-sponsored health and accident insurance plan. The Executive Council adopted such a plan for state employees. In this budget, I am requesting that this plan be supported by the state to the extent of 25 percent of the individual premiums. The provision of at least minimal "fringe benefits" is an essential if the state is to compete successfully for qualified manpower in today's competitive society.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS

The budget I present to you today includes an increase of nearly nine million dollars in capital appropriations for the next biennium.

On the list of capital recommendations is the implementing of the program of the Capitol Planning Commission, which includes three million dollars for acquisition of land for an urgently needed new state office building and construction of that building. It appears that these funds will be supplemented with federal grants which will make it possible to carry out the first phase of the Capitol Planning Commission's recommended program.

The increase recommended in the capital appropriations for the Conservation Commission, as previously stated, is for the purpose of acquiring land for future development.

In this budget, I recommend the allocation of six million dollars for the construction of four area vocational-technical schools in the next biennium. With the sizable federal grants available for this purpose, it is estimated that this amount will suffice for the construction of these important facilities.

GENERAL

The total askings of all of the state departments, agencies and boards (including a standing appropriation) exceeded 347 million dollars per year.

My recommendation is for approximately $254 million for each year of the biennium.

So it will be quickly seen that, despite the fact that this budget calls for substantial increases in appropriations in all areas, its annual amount is still about $92.5 million short of the askings.

It was the age-old dilemma of almost all budgets—there wasn't enough prospective revenue to go around to satisfy all of the askings.

If all of these requests were to have been met in full, major tax increases of unprecedented dimension would have been required.

This budget, as you will see, proposes minor tax increases and extensions of the bases of existing taxes, but no major tax increase such as a general increase in the rate of the sales or income tax.

In the scope of this message it is not possible to include every item of the recommended appropriations, but I believe that I have covered the significant highlights.

REVENUES

As a result of Iowa's sharply accelerated economic growth in the past two years, state general fund revenues are substantially greater than the original estimates made two years ago by the Comptroller and the Legislative Fiscal Director. At that time it was estimated that the unencumbered balance would be at approximately $14 million as of June 30, 1965. It is now predicted that the unencumbered balance will reach $28.3 million as of that date.

From the present tax sources we estimate that the revenues of the state general fund for each year of the next biennium will be $224 million—or an increase of nearly $18 million over the previous biennium's annual receipts. These increases are largely in the areas of individual income tax returns and state sales tax returns.

To augment the revenues from the present tax structure in order to meet our state government needs, I am recommending the following adjustments of our tax base.

First, I am suggesting that the sales tax base be broadened to take in selected services, including laundry and dry cleaning, hotels and motels, and barber and beauty services. As another step to broaden the base of the sales and use tax, it is proposed that the exemption from the tax be eliminated on all used items offered for resale.

Second, I propose that the corporation income tax be increased by one percent—thus changing the rate from three to four percent. This I believe is a more realistic figure for corporate income tax rates—especially in light of the fact that Iowa is one of the few states which allows its corporations to deduct the federal tax in arriving at taxable income. Although there is inevitably some objection to any tax increase, I have conferred with a number of industrialists on this point and the consensus was that a four-percent corporation income tax was not excessive. The comment of these same individuals on the moneys and credits tax was another thing again, I might add.

Third, I recommend that the tax on cigarettes be increased to seven cents per pack which will put Iowa more closely in line with other states, including some of our next-door neighbors.

Fourth, I recommend the extension of the insurance premium tax to include mutual and fraternal insurance companies.

Fifth, I recommend that the fee for motor vehicle operators' licenses be increased from three to five dollars per biennium and the fee for chauffeurs' licenses be raised from four to six dollars per year. These increases in license fees will offset the additional funds allocated to the Department of Public Safety, including the increase in complement of the Highway Patrol.

Once again, I am strongly recommending the enactment of a withholding tax system to insure the enforcement of our state income tax law. If enacted, this will enable the state to gain substantial additional revenue through the collection of state income tax from a considerable number of citizens who are currently not filing returns and are thus escaping their fair share of the tax load.

I would suggest that the state withholding system be commenced on July 1, 1965, and that it be based generally along the same lines as the federal withholding tax system in the interests of uniformity and simplicity.

I am also recommending that one-half of the total tax load for the year 1965 (which will be payable in the spring of 1966) be forgiven so as to insure fairness to all taxpayers. This method will not disrupt the state revenues nor will it result in any "windfall" to the state, but it will put the withholding tax system into operation and will place the individual taxpayers on a current basis.

The Comptroller estimates that the adoption of the withholding tax system would bring in approximately two and one-half million dollars per year in additional funds collected from current non-filers.

Finally, while I do not propose an increase in the rate of the sales tax, I recommend that the reporting of sales tax and its collection be on a monthly basis, rather than the present quarterly basis for those retailers collecting over $75 per quarter. This would help in the administration of this tax and would eliminate some of the present difficulties in collecting it.

These adjustments to the tax base, if adopted, will result in additional revenues to the state in the next biennium of approximately 44.8 million dollars. Adding to this that share of the unencumbered balance at the beginning of the next biennium that can safely be used for current expenditures, we are provided with the necessary funds to carry out the state program set forth in this budget. If this plan is followed, the estimated unencumbered balance as of June 30, 1967, would stand at twelve million dollars.

Also, although state highway funds do not come under the state general fund and are therefore not a part of this budget, I am recommending a one-cent increase in the state gasoline tax to be allocated to the primary road fund. This would bring in approximately nine million dollars for new construction and for the modernization and elimination of safety hazards on our older primary highways.

I also recommend legislation to permit a small portion of the revenue from road-user taxes to be used for development of rest and picnic areas along our interstate system and other major highways.

ADMINISTRATION

In the administration of the budget, it is recommended that the contingent fund, previously appropriated to the Budget and Financial Control Committee, be returned to the administrative branch through the Executive Council. A series of Attorney General's opinions over the past two years has raised some basic questions concerning the responsibility for the allocation of this contingent fund. The move suggested would clarify this situation and fall in line with the language and apparent purpose of these legal opinions. The statutory investigative powers of the Budget and Financial Control Committee would not be in any sense disturbed or diminished by this change.

MONEYS AND CREDITS TAX

Many other difficult and important problems of government finance will come before you members of the General Assembly in the weeks ahead. A number of these proposals will relate to the repeal or modification of taxes that are widely considered to be inequitable and costly to administer.

Among these are the moneys and credits tax, the household goods tax and the tax on Iowa livestock.

Since the revenues from these taxes go to local jurisdictions and not the state, it is obvious that if such a tax is to be repealed, replacement of revenue must be provided. Otherwise, the burden of the decreased base will fall upon real estate and we will be only shifting the load.

Perhaps the most widely disliked tax of all is the levy on moneys and credits which has manifest inequities and illogical exemptions. This tax in its present form falls with heaviest impact on those who have invested their life savings in annuities and stocks and bonds and are dependent on this income for their support. A moneys and credits tax, substantial in relation to total income, must be paid even when the income is not sufficient to require payment of any Iowa income tax. On the other hand, many large holdings of stocks and bonds are entirely exempt from this tax under provisions of the law.

It is my strong recommendation that this Assembly either repeal or modify the moneys and credits tax—at least to the extent of eliminating its application to individuals, estates and trusts.

One of the major problems relating to outright repeal is the fact that moneys and credits comprise a substantial portion of the bonding base of many local communities.

An additional obstacle to full repeal of the moneys and credits is the fact that tied in with the five mills of moneys and credits tax is an additional tax of one mill for the payment of the Korean Bonus Bonds. With repeal of moneys and credits in its entirety, some disposition would need to be made of the Korean bonds on which there is about a 7 million dollar balance.

The Legislative Tax Study Committee of the Sixtieth General Assembly, under the chairmanship of Senator Earl Elijah, has unanimously recommended that the moneys and credits tax be substantially revised, eliminating the millage on individuals, estates and trusts—but retaining it on banks and other financial institutions, including insurance companies. The Tax Study Committee further recommends that the eliminated portion of the tax be replaced by a 3-percent surtax on the income from securities held by individuals, exempting the first $200 of such income.

An ad hoc committee of private business and professional leaders in the state has suggested another approach to this problem that merits attention. They also would eliminate the application of moneys and credits to individuals, estates and trusts, but would replace it by raising the income tax rate on persons in the $12,000 or $14,000 a year and over brackets. It is reasoned that this device would get the replacement revenue from the same income group that pays the major share of the moneys and credits tax.

I believe that the moneys and credits tax should be either repealed or drastically revised and I pledge my co-operation to the legislature to that end. I might add that I would be amenable to considering the elimination of the other two taxes mentioned if fair and feasible means can be found for revenues that presently go to local jurisdictions.

CONCLUSION

Here, then, I respectfully submit to you, the members of the Sixty-first General Assembly, these suggested financial guidelines for the two-year period ahead. In this proposed budget, we have endeavored to meet the most vital needs of the state, to accord proper respect to the public pocket-book, and—most important of all—to provide those public services that are essential to keep Iowa moving.

As you have observed, I have recommended no major tax increases because I have frankly felt this to be the will of the people. At the same time, I have erected no immovable barriers to what this Assembly may elect to do in meeting the state's problems. I would only say—as I have before—that the general outlines of this budget plan comprise a conservative version of what we must do to sustain the momentum of our present progress. We cannot reduce these goals materially without impairing our state's future.

In my State-of-the-State message, I reported to you the strong current financial position of our state, the record-breaking economic growth of the past two years and the recent progress of our state government in its far-flung departments.

In my Inaugural message, I drew a rather comprehensive picture of the major goals that lie ahead for the state. Even though I tried to keep this in capsule form, it turned out to be a long speech, and I want to thank you for your patience in sitting still to ingest such a big capsule. Now, I have laid before you my proposed budget—the suggested skeletal framework for our over-all planning for the biennium ahead—and pointing to the long range as well.

In conclusion, it would seem to me well to remind ourselves that a budget is a means to an end, not an end in itself.

It is entirely conceivable to me that a community or a state or a nation could have the lowest tax levels in Christendom and still be a wretched failure so far as providing good government is concerned.

The ultimate end of government is to provide the optimum opportunity for the good life for our people—not to break records for low rates of taxation. The services of government cost money; there is no point in deceiving ourselves. I am convinced the people are willing to meet these costs, within reason, provided they have convincing assurance that the services they get are worth the tax money they pay. In our private lives, we have all been stung at one time or another by some deal that was pictured as a glittering bargain. There are no cut-rate bargains in government, but if we are at all realistic, we should realize that we get more value for the money we spend on government services than from any other purchase we make. It is your job and mine as public officials to keep it that way.

As our society grows more sophisticated and prosperous, I believe that luxuries should carry an increased share of the cost of government and that savings and property should carry a diminishing share. This philosophy is reflected generally in this proposed budget.

This budget is not a package of miracles on the one hand or a handful of sawdust on the other. It is a sensible, respectable step in the direction of a constructive future.

It is a menu of bread, not of frosted cake. I am aware that it will be criticized by those who oppose any improvement of government services and resist any increase in taxes, however modest. To them, I would only say that even the bread of our private economic well-being will be denied us if we do not make those public investments that are necessary to keep our private economy strong in the competitive times of this late twentieth century.

There is no self-activated escalator that will carry our inert bodies to a prosperous future. We must move up step-by-step and this requires individual effort and willingness to participate in public investment for the good of all.

Our strength, as we always have known, lies in united effort. And this physical and spiritual unity can be attained only if each individual citizen is willing to do his part. I realize that there are those who believe that a single individual's effort is unimportant—that one person's contribution to civic projects and to supporting our free institutions—is too small to count.

To those who believe this, I commend the famous words of Edward Everett Hale:

"I am only one,
But still I am one.
I cannot do everything,
But still I can do something;
And because I cannot do everything
I will not refuse to do the something that I can do."

Only two days ago, the great personages of the world gathered in London as one of the greatest and most valiant men of any age was laid to rest.

Among the glowing words of Sir Winston Churchill that will live on to inspire us and future generations, none are more famous than those he used to rally his people in their darkest hour . . .

"Let us therefore brace ourselves to our duties, and so bear ourselves that, if the British Empire and its Commonwealth last for a thousand years, men will say: 'This was their finest hour.'"

As I thought of Mr. Churchill's incomparable career of public service—a living symbol of the value of a single individual in even today's complex society—I could not help contrasting the situation in England at the time Churchill spoke these words and the situation in our state today.

Here, today, we are at peace. There is no unending terror at night from the skies, no submarine blockade, no food rationing, no Dunkirk.

We live on land of God-given abundance in an atmosphere of good will and freedom. As we regain our poise and our economic drive after the impact of the agricultural revolution upon our society, we find ourselves at the threshold of a great era of potential growth and progress—economic, cultural and spiritual.

This is Iowa's most promising hour of this century.

No legislative body and no administration in our state's history have ever had a greater opportunity to build solidly for Iowa's future.

I have no doubt that you, the members of this Sixty-first General Assembly, will measure up to the stature of your opportunity. Differences have occurred among us in the past and doubtless will recur in the future. But when it comes to the major objectives relating to Iowa's future, I am confident we will stand on common ground.

I wish you Godspeed in the important work before you and to the best of my capabilities I will stay with you all the way. May the two years ahead . . . these years of unlimited promise . . . prove in generations to come to have been "our finest hour."

By Foster

Whereas, The Herbert Hoover Birthplace, Presidential Library, and Park, including approximately twenty-eight (28) acres of land, have been established as a memorial to the late President Herbert Hoover at West Branch, Iowa, the place of his birth and burial; and

Whereas, An additional tract of approximately eighty-five (85) acres adjoins the Herbert Hoover Park on the south and west, and this land is privately owned and undeveloped; and

Whereas, Part of this land, adjoining the park, is zoned for commercial development; and

Whereas, The acquisition of this land for a public park or monument would preserve the beauty and appropriate setting of this memorial to Herbert Hoover; and

Whereas, It has been proposed that this land be made a national monument; and

Whereas, Communications have been received from the surviving family of Herbert Hoover from Donald E. Johnson, National Commander of the American Legion, whose home is in West Branch; from the Cedar County Board of Supervisors; from the Cedar County Historical Society; from the West Branch Heritage Foundation; and from the Town of West Branch, as expressed by its former Mayor who is now a member of this General Assembly; all requesting that this land be made a national monument or park;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That the General Assembly of the State of Iowa hereby respectfully requests and recommends that the tract of land consisting of approximately eighty-five (85) acres adjoining the present Herbert Hoover Park on the south and west be acquired by the United States of America as a national monument in memory of the late President Herbert Hoover.

By Shaff, Rigler, Stanley, Lucken, Riley, DeKoster,
Stephens, Burrows and Lange

Whereas, the General Assembly is concerned with the desirability, in the public interest, of at all times maintaining in all branches of the state government personnel duly trained and qualified to fulfill the functions assigned to them; and

Whereas, it has now come to the attention of the General Assembly that personnel practices under the Department of Agriculture have resulted in the termination of the employment of a highly qualified state technician who was serving in the capacity of Milk Sanitarian in northwest Iowa; and

Whereas, incident to such discharge the supervisor of said employee in protest against the state department's policies has submitted her resignation, and was abruptly discharged by the department; and

Whereas, the General Assembly is concerned because in losing the services of the head of the State Milk and Food Laboratory, the state has lost one of only two people in Iowa who are certified bacteriologists; and

Whereas, the wanton discharge of qualified employees is a matter of concern to the state in the expense of training adequate replacements and creates serious problems of morale in all personnel divisions in the state; and

Whereas, the replacement of the head of the State Milk and Food Laboratory has required the services of another employee of the state with the resultant loss of service to the State University; and

Whereas, the problems incident to this matter are intensified because of the critical work being carried on in the testing of milk and dairy products which require constant and proper supervision if high quality and high standards of safety are to be maintained; and

Whereas, the Governor of this state has announced publicly that qualified public officials, irrespective of political party, would not be fired; and

Whereas, it appears that the Department of Agriculture is not carrying out the announced instructions and promises of the Chief of State; now therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives Concurring: that a committee of inquiry be created consisting of five members from the Senate and five members from the House of Representatives to be appointed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives; consisting of three members from each house of the majority party and two members from each house of the minority party for the purpose of making full inquiry and making a report to the General Assembly within fourteen legislative days from date of appointment.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

We, the undersigned, voted "no" on Senate File 21 primarily because we object to the piecemeal, uncoordinated approach to revising chapter 96 of the Code which relates to unemployment compensation. Already there have been at least six separate bills filed and we are not informed as to the total impact on unemployment compensation. We are agreeable to revisions, but it is our feeling that the revisions should be accomplished in a more orderly and coordinated approach than Senate File 21 presented.

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

SENATE CHAMBER,
DES MOINES, IOWA, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1965.

The Senate met in regular session, President Fulton presiding.

Prayer was offered by Reverend Melvin Mattox, pastor of the Grace Baptist Church, Winterset, Iowa.

PETITIONS

The following petitions were presented and placed on file:

By Senator Messerly, from fifty-six residents of Black Hawk, Butler, Bremer, Winneshiek and Chickasaw Counties in opposition to proposed legislation to repeal the "right-to-work" law.

By Senator Tabor, from three hundred twelve residents of Jackson and Jones Counties favoring fair school bus transportation for all school children.

By Senator Kruck, from twelve residents of Boone County, members of the Independent Insurance Agents Association, in opposition to the repeal of the guest statute.

The following resolution was presented and placed on file by Senator Reppert:

RESOLUTION

By Iowa State Junior Chamber of Commerce

Whereas, the Carter Lake Jaycees are presently joined with other young men of action in Iowa as a part of the Iowa Jaycee movement, and are members of the Iowa State Junior Chamber of Commerce, and

Whereas, Carter Lake, Iowa, contributes more than its fair share of revenue to the governments of both Pottawattamie County and the State of Iowa, and

Whereas, Iowans by heritage deserve an opportunity to be Iowans in fact, and

Whereas, the administrations of the States of Iowa and Nebraska are proposing to adjust the boundary between said two states by returning the boundary line to the center of the present channel of the Missouri River, and

Whereas, this proposal would trade a marshy wasteland of Nebraska sand dunes, willow thickets, and bullrush sloughs for a thriving Iowa community with its homes and schools, churches and industries, parks and recreation areas, and

Whereas, the adjoining states of Missouri and South Dakota have existed for several generations divided by the same Missouri River without evidence of undue hindrance therefrom, and

Whereas, the spirit of the Constitution of the United States guarantees that all persons be given an opportunity to be heard and to vote on their political destiny, and

Whereas, the United States Supreme Court has decreed in 1892 that Carter Lake is and by all right should be a part and parcel of the State of Iowa.

It Is, Therefore, Resolved that the Iowa State Junior Chamber of Commerce is opposed to, and will actively resist the adoption of, any plan or ratification of any treaty that cedes Carter Lake, Iowa, to the State of Nebraska without the prior approval of said treaty or plan by a majority of the citizens of Carter Lake, Iowa.

PRESENTATION OF VISITORS

Senator Kibbie asked and received unanimous consent to present to the Senate nineteen students, members of the government class of the Cylinder Consolidated School, who were present in the balcony accompanied by their instructor, Paul Sesker.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

The time having arrived, the Chair announced the special order of business for the consideration of Senate Concurrent Resolution 9 and directed the Secretary to read the resolution.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 9

By Shaff, Rigler, Stanley, Lucken, Riley, DeKoster,
Stephens, Burrows and Lange

Whereas, the General Assembly is concerned with the desirability, in the public interest, of at all times maintaining in all branches of the state government personnel duly trained and qualified to fulfill the functions assigned to them; and

Whereas, it has now come to the attention of the General Assembly that personnel practices under the Department of Agriculture have resulted in the termination of the employment of a highly qualified state technician who was serving in the capacity of Milk Sanitarian in northwest Iowa; and

Whereas, incident to such discharge the supervisor of said employee in protest against the state department's policies has submitted her resignation, and was abruptly discharged by the department; and

Whereas, the General Assembly is concerned because in losing the services of the head of the State Milk and Food Laboratory, the state has lost one of only two people in Iowa who are certified bacteriologists; and

Whereas, the wanton discharge of qualified employees is a matter of concern to the state in the expense of training adequate replacements and creates serious problems of morale in all personnel divisions in the state; and

Whereas, the replacement of the head of the State Milk and Food Laboratory has required the services of another employee of the state with the resultant loss of service to the State University; and

Whereas, the problems incident to this matter are intensified because of the critical work being carried on in the testing of milk and dairy products which require constant and proper supervision if high quality and high standards of safety are to be maintained; and

Whereas, the Governor of this state has announced publicly that qualified public officials, irrespective of political party, would not be fired; and

Whereas, it appears that the Department of Agriculture is not carrying out the announced instructions and promises of the Chief of State; now therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives Concurring: that a committee of inquiry be created consisting of five members from the Senate and five members from the House of Representatives to be appointed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives; consisting of three members from each house of the majority party and two members from each house of the minority party for the purpose of making full inquiry and making a report to the General Assembly within fourteen legislative days from date of appointment.

Senator Frommelt offered the following as a substitute resolution for Senate Concurrent Resolution 9:

SUBSTITUTE FOR SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 9

By Frommelt

Whereas, the General Assembly is concerned with the desirability, in the public interest, of at all times maintaining in all branches of state government personnel duly trained and qualified to fulfill the functions assigned to them; and

Whereas, questions have been raised as to the practices and conduct of personnel in the Department of Agriculture; and

Whereas, the public and all concerned will be best served by making the facts fully known as to the practices and conduct of personnel in said Department of Agriculture up to the present time; now

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives Concurring, that a committee of investigation be created consisting of five members from the Senate and five members from the House of Representatives, consisting of three members from each house of the majority party and two members from each house of the minority party for the purpose of making a full investigation and making a report to the Sixty-first General Assembly as soon as possible so that remedial legislation if needed can be enacted by this General Assembly; and

Be It Further Resolved, that the committee be authorized to requisition such materials, records and personnel of any state department as it may deem necessary and appropriate to this investigation.

Senator Frommelt moved that the substitution be made.

On motion of Senator Frommelt, the Senate recessed until the fall of the gavel.

The Senate reconvened, President Fulton presiding.

EXPLANATION

I reluctantly voted in favor of Senate Joint Resolution 3. Reluctantly, because the virtues are not all on the side of annual sessions. Many well qualified people who can make the sacrifice of attending the legislative session for four months out of twenty-four months may well find that it is impossible for them to do so every twelve months.

Employers who permit an employee to serve under the present conditions may well find it intolerable in the interest of the continuity of their business to permit employees to attend annual sessions. The net result may well be that only retired people, in the main, will be able to serve. While retired people can provide much leadership, no single group should dominate the make-up of our legislative body.

If the Sixty-first General Assembly will, in its wisdom, substantially reduce the size of the House and Senate from its present preposterous size, thereby cutting down on the tremendous expense to the taxpayers, as well as the work load occasioned by the filing of so much legislation, and assuming that the General Assembly makes provision for a shorter session during each week (as does Illinois and many other states which meet annually, thereby imposing less of a burden on the legislature), my affirmative vote will have been wisely cast.

TOM RILEY.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 9

One of the reasons we voted "nay" on Senate Joint Resolution 9 is because we object to the procedure used in forcing the members of the Senate to vote without an opportunity to carefully consider the resolution as amended.

Senator Stanley completely rewrote the resolution on the floor this morning and it was further amended by Senator Messerly. We feel that in the interests of good government, all members of the Senate should have a chance to study the resolution as rewritten and amended before casting their votes on such an important matter as a constitutional amendment.

In accordance with House Concurrent Resolution 5, duly adopted, the Senate proceeded to the House under the direction of the Sergeant-at-Arms.

JOINT CONVENTION

In accordance with law and concurrent resolution duly adopted, the joint convention was called to order, President Fulton presiding.

President Fulton announced a quorum present and the joint convention duly organized.

Senator Benda of Poweshiek moved that a committee of six, consisting of three members from the Senate and three members from the House, be appointed to notify Governor Hughes and National Commander of The American Legion, Donald E. Johnson, that the joint convention was ready to receive them.

Motion prevailed and the President appointed as such committee Senators Benda of Poweshiek, Kruck of Boone and Dodds of Des Moines, on the part of the Senate, and Representatives Stueland of Hancock, Busing of Hamilton and Foster of Cedar, on the part of the House.

The committee waited upon Governor Hughes and Commander Johnson and escorted them to the Speaker's station. President Fulton presented to the joint convention the Honorable Victor C. Stueland, Representative of Hancock County, who introduced Donald E. Johnson, National Commander of The American Legion, with the following remarks:

GOVERNOR HUGHES, LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR FULTON, MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF OUR IOWA LEGISLATURE, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Today I have the greatest honor and privilege to present to you here in the House chamber of our Iowa State Capitol, our own Iowa-born orphan boy, who throughout all of his life his aim has always been to do his utmost in the service to his God, and to his country and now at the age of forty years he is a six foot four inches, two hundred fifty pound man, full of energy as he has been all through his life.

He took a great interest in the welfare of his hometown of West Branch, Iowa, in all of their community projects. At the start of World War II he enlisted in the United States Army and served with the 89th Infantry Division, and at the close of the war he was back in his hometown of West Branch and there joined the American Legion Post serving in nearly all of the elective offices. Later he was elected Commander of the First District, and in 1952 he was elected as our State Commander, and later elected as our National Executive Committeeman.

Last September at the National Convention in Dallas, Texas, he was unanimously elected National Commander of The American Legion and now he is being called to speak in all of these our United States, also in some foreign countries in carrying out The American Legion programs of Peace on Earth and Good Will to All Men. I now present to you our National Commander, Donald E. Johnson.

ADDRESS BY NATIONAL COMMANDER DONALD E. JOHNSON

Thank you very much, Representative Stueland, Governor Hughes and President Fulton. I'm so pleased to be home again. I am proud to be an Iowan, and I am proud to represent a volunteer organization of more than two-and-a-half million war veterans. I am humbled by the great responsibility that is mine as I seek to represent fairly and factually the views of these men and women who have dedicated their lives to the service of God and country.

It was my distinct privilege and pleasure to have had a fine Iowa

Legionnaire as my guest at an American Legion reception during inaugural week in Washington, D. C., the Governor of the great State of Iowa, The Honorable Harold Hughes.

In many instances, this is my first opportunity to personally thank those of you who, as members of the last General Assembly, were instrumental in passage of a joint resolution supporting my candidacy for the office of National Commander of The American Legion. Your action, I know, contributed heavily to the success of my campaign and I take this occasion to express my sincere appreciation.

My friends in Iowa have been sending me newspaper clippings indicating a bit of apprehension on the part of some as to my subject matter before this distinguished Assembly.

Fortunately for me, this august body placed no limitation on me. I should say, however, that the Constitution of The American Legion states that our organization "shall be absolutely non-political," and I shall live by the rules of those whom I represent.

If I had been limited to material non-controversial in nature, I'm afraid I could not have said "good morning," for you can always find someone who wants to know "what's so good about it?"

Numerous newspapers across this great nation, in both the news and editorial columns, have alluded to the position of The American Legion with reference to communism and the appearance of communists or communist-oriented speakers before audiences at our tax-supported schools, colleges and universities. The American Legion's strong historical position of being firmly anti-communist needs no defense from me.

Our position concerning communist speakers, or for that matter any speaker whose purpose is to promote a foreign "ism" is well established and needs no clarification from me today. We simply say that there is no moral or legal obligation to provide any speaker, who advocates the violent overthrow of our government, with any tax-supported forum or platform.

This does not mean that we advocate suppression of teaching about communism in our public schools. Quite the contrary. The American Legion, in cooperation with the National Education Association, created a joint study committee to delve into this problem in depth. After several years of effort there was developed a handbook entitled "Guidelines for Teaching About Communism," designed as an aid for teachers in junior and senior high schools.

We will have available a copy for every legislator. It has been provided to school superintendents and administrators in public and private school systems throughout the land. It has been widely acclaimed for its excellence, and in the 1964-65 survey by the Institute for American Strategy on the subject of education about communism in secondary schools there appears this commentary:

"The latest IAS survey indicates that the guidelines publication with the widest acceptance among educators is Guidelines For Teaching About Communism in Junior and Senior High Schools issued by the Joint Committee of the National Education Association and The American Legion. The cooperation of these two highly respected and potent national groups has resulted in possibly the most important 'breakthrough' in this field in recent years. Educators, particularly at the working levels, seem to feel that they can present a program upon which these two organizations have cooperated with relative assurance of community support and minimum criticism."

The American Legion is highly gratified by that appraisal and I am personally proud of the fact that two Iowans played key roles in the development of this handbook. Dr. John H. Haefner, of University High School in Iowa City, was an outstanding resource contributor and Ed Wieland, of Des Moines, The American Legion's Assistant National Director of Americanism, was responsible for coordinating much of The American Legion's effort, and for final distribution of the book.

The American Legion has four basic programs—Americanism, Child Welfare, National Security and Rehabilitation. The subject which I have just discussed falls within the province of our National Americanism Commission.

Upon my election in Dallas, Texas, I told the delegates that I wanted to dedicate my tenure of office as National Commander of The American Legion to service to youth of America—to a revitalization of all those great service programs of The American Legion designed to serve the young people of this land—to build a young America strong in mind and body—to build a young America strong in devotion to God and country—to build a young America dedicated to the preservation of the ideals of freedom, justice and democracy.

Our programs of Boys State and Boys Nation, of Boy Scout sponsorship, of Boys Club support, National High School Oratorical Contest and American Legion Baseball all are showing a marked increase in activity this year. As for our youth activities in Iowa, I shall have an important announcement to make at The American Legion's conference banquet tonight here in Des Moines.

The American Legion's Child Welfare program moves with the times, shifting program emphasis when necessary to best meet the changing challenges of changing situations. By mid-1965 The American Legion and its affiliated organizations will have expended more than $200,000,000 of our own funds to help young Americans cope with the problems of disease, want and neglect.

Our Child Welfare Foundation makes grants-in-aid to established research projects in the diseases of childhood. One of those grants made in 1946 to The American Heart Association, a joint project of The American Legion and the Auxiliary, totaling $50,000, sparked a vast heart research program in the area of rheumatic fever and heart disease which has saved the lives of countless American youngsters.

This year The American Legion's Child Welfare program contains four legislative objectives requiring implementation at the state level. These are:

1. Legislation to curb the illicit traffic in dangerous and habit forming drugs.
2. Legislation requiring tests for P-K-U (Phenylketonuria) in newborn infants.
3. Legislation on the abused and battered child, and,
4. Legislation requiring the use of safety glasses in certain school activities.

There are good and valid reasons behind each of these proposals. Each is in the public interest, and we shall be grateful for your careful consideration of each of these measures as they may be brought before you.

The American Legion's program of national security is one in which we must concern ourselves with affairs of the federal government. The American Legion has been, and shall continue to be, the watchdog over the defense posture of the nation. Our most recent venture has been a most careful study of Secretary McNamara's proposal to re-align the army reserve and national guard forces.

I was in Denver, Colorado, on December 12 when the Secretary made his announcement. On Monday, December 14, I appointed an executive section from our National Security Commission, including our own Bob Bush from Des Moines, to study the situation. On Thursday, December 17, that group was in Washington conferring with officials of the Department of Defense and Army Reserve and National Guard officials.

The recommendation of the executive section was mailed to our National Executive Committee members, resulting in conditional American Legion approval of Secretary McNamara's plan—that condition being that the re-alignment be implemented as outlined by the Secretary.

Our program of rehabilitation is one of sacred trust and responsibility and our most current and important concern in this area is the January 13 announcement by the Veterans Administration of plans to close thirty-one existing facilities of the VA, including the domiciliary at Clinton, Iowa, and again we are grateful to this body for your resolution regarding the closing of this installation.

The American Legion is pledged to an all-out campaign to have this order stayed for we consider it a false economy move and a reflection of the anti-veteran attitude of the Bureau of the Budget. Those needy and deserving veterans who are now being cared for in these installations are going to have to be cared for elsewhere and there will be no reduction in the cost of care at another location.

The closing of sixteen regional offices will work a hardship on many who are neither physically nor financially capable of traveling long distances to obtain the counselling and services which they need and to which they are entitled.

Particularly pathetic is the plight of the domiciliary member. The average age of those men is sixty-nine years, most of them have no family, and most are victims of disabling illnesses, primarily heart disease. If the present order of the VA is permitted to stand, Iowa and its subdivisions will have an additional five hundred to six hundred men to care for.

The American Legion is pleased to note that the Iowa legislature continues to show its concern and compassion for those who served their state and nation in time of war, and now find themselves in need of assistance. I refer to the measure pending before you which would provide funds for additional facilities at the Iowa Soldiers Home at Marshalltown. I'm sure it will receive your favorable consideration and action.

The American Legion too is vitally interested in this facility, and I am pleased to report to you and to make public for the first time the fact that through monies made available to me, as National Commander, work has begun on the installation of an occupational therapy unit at the Iowa Soldiers Home. It will cost in the area of $8,500 to $10,000, and a formal dedication is being planned for late this spring.

In conclusion I should like to place new emphasis on the politically non-partisan attitude of The American Legion. This organization is comprised of both Democrats and Republicans at every level of our structure, and within our ranks you will find men and women of every race, color and creed.

Every policy position of The American Legion originates in a local Post, and it could be any one of more than 16,500 Posts. If the local action survives the movement through district, state and national conventions, it then becomes American Legion policy.

A look at the record of The American Legion will reveal that we have, through the years, had many an occasion to offer both praise and criticism of Democrat and Republican alike.

With The American Legion, it is not party political affiliation that counts. In taking our stand on vital issues of the day we seek to examine all points of view, to hear all the facts available to us, then to apply the single standard of what we, in our hearts and minds, believe to be in the best interests of America.

I trust that my message this morning has been informative, rather than political or controversial in nature, and I trust that it will be accepted in the spirit in which it is offered.

In this time of great challenge to America, The American Legion, I promise you, does not propose to be an organization of good men content to do nothing, but rather we shall continue as we have always been—an organization of those who served in wartime to save freedom, and are now ready to serve in peacetime the noblest of all causes, our God and our country.

Governor Hughes and Commander Johnson were escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Senator O'Malley of Polk moved that the joint convention be now dissolved.

The motion prevailed.

By Scherle of Fremont-Mills, Gillette of Clay-Dickinson,
Mueller, Edgington and Baringer

There are indications that the Congress of the United States may be asked to reduce the budget for federal participation in the Agricultural Conservation Program, and the Federal Feed Grain Program, and

Whereas, the present Feed Grain Program has raised farm income, has protected the family farm, has reduced surpluses and lowered storage costs, and

Whereas, the present A. C. P. budget has remained the same for several years while costs have been increasing, and

Whereas, good progress has been made in Iowa in conserving soil and water but much work is yet to be done, and

Whereas, Iowa has about twenty-five percent of the Grade A land in the United States and in the nation we are losing annually soil at the rate of about twenty-one thousand 80-acre farms, and

Whereas, conservation of soil and water is without a doubt the most desirable investment in the national economy, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, that the legislature of the State of Iowa urges Congress to continue to support feed grain legislation and to continue to provide technical assistance in soil and water conservation on the same basis as heretofore and that any curtailment in these policies would seriously hamper these important programs.

Be It Further Resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each of the members of the Iowa delegation in the Congress of the United States.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 11

By Elvers and Hagedorn

Whereas, there are presently seventy-one (71) summer cottages of permanent construction suitable for year around living in Allamakee and Clayton Counties, some of which are located on a county highway and others which are on land which in the past has been determined to be part of the Milwaukee railroad right-of-way, and

Whereas, such residents have been living on such sites through leases from the Milwaukee railroad or have been living on the sites at the permission of the county, and

Whereas, the residents have made large investments in the cottages, homes, and improvements in which they now permanently or intermittently occupy and use on such land, and

Whereas, the state conservation commission has recently ruled that the land on which the cottages, homes, and improvements have been constructed is state land, although this contention is being disputed by both the county and the railroad involved, and

Whereas, the residents owning the cottages, homes, and improvements have been given thirty (30) day eviction notices by the state conservation commission, and

Whereas, it is known that the state conservation commission is contemplating evicting owners of other cottages, dwellings, and improvements in other parts of the state which have been constructed on what is determined to be state land where leases to such property have expired or about to expire; now therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That any resident of the State of Iowa who now owns under any color of title or right a cottage or other improvement on real estate claimed by the State of Iowa is hereby authorized to retain the use and benefit of such real estate for the remainder of the natural life of the owner, or until such time as any such cottage or improvement is removed from the questioned real estate, or until such owner abandons, sells, or otherwise disposes of such cottage or improvement or title to the real estate; provided that the claim of title of such owner arose from lease, deed, or other incident of ownership dated prior to January 1, 1964; and provided further, that since January 1, 1964, the use, right, and benefit pertaining to such real estate has been employed for the benefit of the owner.

I would have supported the "abolishment of capital punishment" if we had kept it with two exceptions. I feel it is a life insurance ticket to a kidnap victim and a peace officer performing his duty, in a great number of instances.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 14

By Scherle of Fremont-Mills, Gillette of Clay-Dickinson,
Mueller, Edgington and Baringer

There are indications that the Congress of the United States may be asked to reduce the budget for federal participation in the Agricultural Conservation Program, and

Whereas, the present A. C. P. budget has remained the same for several years while costs have been increasing, and

Whereas, good progress has been made in Iowa in conserving soil and water but much work is yet to be done, and

Whereas, Iowa has about twenty-five percent of the Grade A land in the United States and in the nation we are losing annually soil at the rate of about twenty-one thousand 80-acre farms, and

Whereas, conservation of soil and water is without a doubt the most desirable investment in the national economy, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, that the legislature of the State of Iowa urges Congress to continue to provide technical assistance in soil and water conservation on the same basis as heretofore and that any curtailment in this policy would seriously hamper this important work.

Be It Further Resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each of the members of the Iowa delegation in the Congress of the United States.

The motion prevailed and the resolution was adopted.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER WITHDRAWN

Senator Beneke asked and received unanimous consent to withdraw the motion to reconsider the vote by which House File 9 passed the Senate, filed by him and found on page 332 of the Senate Journal.

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House appeared and announced that the House was ready to receive the Senate in joint convention.

In accordance with House Concurrent Resolution 12, duly adopted, the Senate proceeded to the House under the direction of the Sergeant-at-Arms.

JOINT CONVENTION

In accordance with law and concurrent resolution duly adopted, the joint convention was called to order, President Fulton presiding.

President Fulton announced a quorum present and the joint convention duly organized.

President Fulton presented to the joint convention the Honorable Ernest Kosek, former member of the House from Linn County and now president of the Iowa Association for Mental Health, who introduced Dr. Menninger with the following remarks:

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY, GUESTS, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It is a high honor and personal privilege to introduce our guest speaker today. Eight years ago I was a member of this honorable body and introduced Dr. Menninger. Dr. Menninger, world renowned psychiatrist, is president of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kansas. He has served on many boards and in many associations affiliated with his profession and is the author of many works on psychiatry. He has an enviable war record, having served during World War II as consultant in psychiatry to the Adjutant General of the Army, holding the rank of Brigadier General. He has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and the French Legion of Honor. All Iowans owe Dr. Menninger a debt of gratitude for the tremendous push forward which he inspired in 1957 to the care of the mentally ill in Iowa. He will bring information and enlightenment on mental health problems in our state, as they exist today, particularly in the light of all the new Federal legislation and comprehensive mental health plan for Iowa, now nearing completion.

The Iowa Association for Mental Health is sponsoring Dr. Menninger's visit because we feel that what he says will benefit all Iowans.

The Iowa Association for Mental Health consists of lay people united in the effort to assist in alleviating these problems.

OUTLINE OF THE REMARKS OF WILLIAM C. MENNINGER, M.D.

Iowa State Legislature, Des Moines, Iowa

I. INTRODUCTION

- A. Thank you for this very special honor and privilege to address this group—the more significant because it is a repeat performance eight years since my last visit on February 1, 1957.
- B. My recollections of that previous visit: A very happy experience with a heart-warming evidence of gratitude expressed on the part of so many Iowa citizens for what effort I put forth.
 1. We have made great progress in these years, but may I quickly add—mental illness is still our number one neglected field of health.
 2. You can be very proud of the progress made in Iowa in our mental health program, progress made possible because of
The splendid leadership on the part of the state officers and legislature on the part of the physicians and the citizens—

Through

The keen awareness of the need

The vision of the opportunities

A special commendation to your director of Mental Health, Dr. James Cromwell; to my dear and old friend, Dr. Paul Huston, Professor of Psychiatry at the University Medical School. A very special commendation to this increasingly effective group of citizens in Iowa—the Iowa Association for Mental Health.

C. The potential significance of this visit

1. Again it is my desire to be helpful—I am proud of our progress in Iowa and shall make some comments about it, but truly we have only made a start in terms of the enormous needs.
2. On my previous visit I was privileged to tell of our mental health story in Kansas, the “revolution” that occurred. The composition of this legislature is almost entirely changed since my appearance here on February 1, 1957. My feeling is that this story is still the most helpful message I might bring you—with the further evolution of our program these last eight years.
3. Again I shall try to choose my words carefully. As we meet here there are 2,700 mental patients in institutions in Iowa as of this moment. There are 2,500 more mentally sick individuals in county homes. So much of what may happen further to help these people depends on the understanding and the actions of the individuals in this room, the state legislature. Indeed thousands are looking to us for help and there are thousands—we are very sure of it—yet to come. These people have no voice or vote. In too many instances they are still badly neglected. Their lives are wasted unless we help them get well, and tragically their hearts are often filled with fear and hopelessness, along with a completely unproductive life—when it need not be in the great majority of instances.

II. NOW A NEW ERA OF HOPE THAT THIS SITUATION WILL CHANGE

A. The evidence includes many points:

1. Indeed the very fact that I have the privilege to discuss the subject with you today is an evidence of new hope.
2. Under the leadership of the NIMH and the NAMH much progress has been made in the support of treatment and training and research and community programs.
3. The progress in other states—my contact with the programs in several states through the privilege of visiting with their legislative bodies

Ohio: Budget for mental hospitals raised from $70 million to $91 million

$5 million for three training centers raised salaries

bond issue of $75 million for mental hospital construction

Pennsylvania $90 to $122 million

California $92 to $180 million

Texas $13 to $36 million

Tennessee $1 to $2.5 million

4. The superb leadership of the press and other mass communications to alert an intelligent public about the need.

5. The interest of our citizens groups
The American Medical Association under the magnificent leadership of President John F. Kennedy
6. The new awakening of our leaders themselves in our state hospital progress and the extensions now into the community—of which I will have much more to say later.
- B. The evolution of this as we experienced it in Kansas, a story that could be much better told by my brother Karl, who had the vision and gave more guidance and energy to the revolution and evolution in Kansas than any other person.
 1. Our pride and satisfaction that
The mental hospital population of Kansas has decreased nearly 53 percent—from a total population of 6,047 in 1948 to 2,844 in 1964. During the same period the national mental hospital population has decreased from 5 to 10 percent—from about 760,000 to 712,000.
 2. Even with our hospitals not yet adequately staffed, about 85 percent of our new admissions go home, and almost 70 percent within six months.
 3. Possibility that we will never have to build additional beds—though we do need replacements for buildings constructed in the 1870's and 80's.
- C. As indicated, my belief is that my best help to you might be again to repeat the story about the change—what the situation was—where we have arrived and how we look at the future.
With the hope that perhaps the experience may give you some helpful background in your continuing efforts to improve the mental health program in Iowa.

III. THE BACKGROUND OF THE STORY—quite personal

- A. The story of Father and the beginning of the Clinic.
- B. Even in private practice, our special satisfaction in the small program of research and training.
- C. Personal experiences in the war with manpower shortage and the lack of knowledge.
- D. 1945—Karl's concern with the VA—and then the Bradley-Hawley request for training at Winter VA Hospital.
- E. The re-organization of the private practice into the non-profit foundation, to do research and training and prevention.
- F. The development of the training program and the research program beginning with 100 doctors—the suggestion of 25 and the expansion to 100 because of VA insistence. (Now about 800 have been trained at The Menninger Foundation.)

IV. THE RECENT EVOLUTION OF OUR STATE HOSPITAL SYSTEM

- A. 1948—the initial rumblings of the “revolution.”
 1. The legislator whose relative was neglected in a state institution and who became aware of the amazing program at Winter VA Hospital.
 2. The new economy-minded superintendent of the Topeka State Hospital who cut out expensive drugs and time-consuming examinations—with the resignation of three of the five doctors, one of the two nurses, and the only psychologist.
 3. Some accidents and the beginning interest of the press—which made a state-wide crusade.

4. Self-mobilization of the Mental Hygiene Society, the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters, Civic Clubs, Federated Women's Clubs and many others.
- B. The status of the Topeka State Hospital at that time (we have three).
 1. Over 1,800 patients in antiquated buildings to house 1,500.
 2. Two psychiatrists, neither of whom had been trained.
 3. 60 out of every 100 patients admitted remained indefinitely—most of them for life.
 4. Per diem allotment per patient of $1.06 ranked us as 47th out of the 48 states.
 5. Most new admissions housed in jails for days or weeks before they could be admitted. (And like cancer, the longer treatment is withheld, the less chance for recovery.)

V. WHAT WAS DONE ABOUT IT?

- A. Governor, now Senator, Frank Carlson appointed a committee—Dean of the Medical School, President of the State Medical Society, a member of the Senate, a member of the House, and my brother Karl.
- B. Their recommendation to buy "brains" (staff) before "bricks" and to establish a training program.

At this time a public health survey indicated the need for an additional 3,000 beds for the system. None build and $38 million saved.

In my brother's words, "Many patients will get well in a barn if you give them the right doctors and the right treatment. We don't want them to live in barns, but staff and treatment must come first."

- C. The staff of The Menninger Foundation was called upon to establish a training program under my brother's direction—Everyone aware that this would be a long-time and slowly developing process.
- D. Senator Carlson put it up to the legislature—the press helped—public citizens' groups helped—the legislature and their wives visited the sorry decrepit hospital.

What did they see?

Men endlessly pushing mops on already over-polished floors.

Gloomy wards with old rocking chairs lined up against the wall.

Beds in the halls and mattresses on the floor at night.

Uniform and drab, ill-fitting clothes.

Inadequate and ill-prepared food, unattractively dished out—three different diets.

Patients cooped up for days on end—or literally herded in large groups onto park benches.

The wide use of physical restraints—strait-jackets all over the place, untrained and often uncouth and brutal prison-guard-like attendants.

VI. AND THEN WHAT HAPPENED?

The legislature acted with a 60 percent increase in the budget in 1949; 118 percent more in 1951; by 1960—4 times what we spent in 1948; takes continuing public pressure to advance each year.

My brother and our associates undertook the responsibility to begin to recruit a professional staff, and set up a training program.

In addition to doctors—psychologists, social workers, nurses, and occupational therapists were recruited and trained.

The number of attendants was doubled and their salaries were doubled—replacing the dull and inept.

The Rockefeller Foundation gave us funds for a three-year special school for training aides.

50 consultants were engaged from the County Medical Society.

Patients began to see dentists for the first time.

Wholesale orders for eyeglasses—300 pair.

Occupational and recreational programs were started.

Fire escapes were installed.

A patient's canteen was constructed—until 1954 the only new construction.

The development of a very extensive volunteer system, through the help of the citizens of the community—the Junior League established and manned the canteen. Most important—creation of an attitude toward, philosophy about and understanding of mental illness on the part of—

The legislature, citizenry, relatives and more important, the professional staff and patients.

An attitude whereby patients can learn through relationships with the staff that people do care about them; that they can and will get well.

To make this possible necessitates the provision of financial, political and public support—with the absence of political pressures on the professional staff, changes in administration, constant budgetary threats.

Doctors began to see patients:

Within two years the TSH population dropped from 1,850 to 1,500. Today the population is 968—47 percent reduction.

Five wards were closed in the last two years.

Approximately 300 patients have had no homes to which to go. Placed through social agencies.

Since 1949, 1,084 patients discharged who had been residents in the hospital for 10 years or more—568 for 20 years or longer.

Sixty-six out of 71 bed-ridden oldsters in one section of the hospital got out of their beds within a year and stayed out. A high percentage of so-called seniles can be helped and need not be in a hospital.

Stories of human interest:

In 1953, TIME magazine carried the story of a small white-haired woman who had been hospitalized probably longer than any other known person—a patient at Topeka State Hospital. She had entered the hospital at the age of 13 on June 27, 1882, three years after the hospital was opened. By 1952 she had been there 70 years. Her only response to questions was "When can I go home?" She was discharged at the age of 86 years, 73 of them spent in the hospital. She is taking care of herself in the community today.

One of the patients, whose case was reviewed when new staff were brought in was a man who had been in the hospital for 19 years. Hospital officials weren't certain the man had ever been psychotic. He was sent back to his family in Denmark, after making headlines around the world—all because a doctor who could speak his language took time to talk to him.

Woman—20 years mute—now a practical nurse.

VII. WHAT HAS HAPPENED SINCE AND WHAT ARE THE RESULTS?

In 1952 the people of Kansas voted an increase in personal property tax of one-half mill to provide a permanent hospital building fund for replacement of beds. In 1953 the Legislature removed the hospital from political patronage and provided for a psychiatrist to direct the institutions at twice the Governor's salary.

In 1950, 657 patients were admitted; in 1960, 2,183 were admitted.

The average daily patient population in the three hospitals was 5,200 in 1948, 3,318 in 1961; 36 percent reduction in 13 years.

While the per diem increased from $2.05 in 1950 to $7.34 in 1960, the operating expenditure per patient released was decreased from $7,989 in 1950 to $4,505 in 1960.

The development of the five-year plan of training—to aid in staffing outlying hospitals.

The OPD—Children's Services developed with the Receiving Home. Savings of $4,000 per discharged patient in 1960 as compared with 1948.

New Eastman Building constructed in 1960 at TSH; at the end of the year of 1964 a new unit was completed, the Woodsview Building.

VIII. RECOMMENDATIONS

1. The Purposes of Reporting the Story of our Experience in Kansas are twofold:

First, while it is generally recognized that we have made much progress in our mental hospitals across America, it is not understood that we have only made a start. Many people do not know we still have more people in mental hospitals than we have in all general hospitals put together—a community of 712,000 sick people in 535 mental institutions. Furthermore it is not clearly understood that the great majority of these people would get well if we would give them a chance. This chance means we have to give them the opportunity for adequate treatment under the right conditions. The success we have had in Kansas does indicate clearly that all of our big mental institutions can become honest-to-goodness hospitals where the great majority of people get well.

The second reason for presenting this story is the assumption that our experiences in the Kansas System might be of help to you in Iowa. In making some constructive suggestions I want to emphasize that this is my "cause" in Iowa just as much as it is in Kansas.

Before making any suggestions let me again compliment you warmly on the progress we have made—progress in many directions. You have increased your per diem expenditures on patients in the hospitals from $3.30 to $10.15. When I addressed this legislature eight years ago, Iowa had, in the mental hospitals, one physician to every 123 patients and now you have one physician to every 46 patients. Significantly, the population in your mental hospitals has fallen from 5,046 in 1956 to approximately half that figure in 1964, 2,716.

You have made this splendid progress in a comprehensive mental health plan for the state. You have done what we know must be done, you have moved out into the community and now, if I understand correctly, 58 percent of the population of Iowa has a chance to obtain psychiatric help near his home, through the establishment of these 16 mental health centers. Of all of these steps of progress, the citizens of Iowa have a right to be proud. Again, however, I want to emphasize that from our present vantage point, all of us in the professional field know we have much more to do. Our basic objectives for the state hospitals are absolutely unimpeachable but these un-

- a. We must transform the existing state hospitals into true, modern, active treatment centers.
- b. We must provide adequate inservice training for all categories of personnel and we are far from this at the moment.
- c. We must provide adequate community treatment centers for emergency treatment, after-care, follow-up outpatient community consultation and all kinds of extra-mural psychiatric services.
- d. We must establish scientific investigations—greatly extend our research into our administrative and clinical and preventive procedures.

2. Brains Before Bricks.

This has been the title of my presentation before many legislatures and it was to this legislature in 1957 for the reason, I am still convinced, that the major bottleneck in doing a much better job in our treatment and preventive programs is our lack of trained personnel. Hence, I still wish we might put the greatest emphasis on the development of professional staff at all levels to provide the diagnosis and treatment and prevention. The second priority goes to buying bricks, i.e., facilities. I am convinced that 80 to 90 percent of our psychiatric patients will get well if we give them adequate, early, treatment.

I note with special satisfaction that the statistics of the picture in Iowa mental institutions has greatly improved in these eight years. The ratio of personnel to patients now indicates that Iowa is near the top of the states among state institutions. In mentioning this, though, I want to add quickly we must not feel satisfied, certainly not complacent that we are doing all we can. We have made gratifying progress but we are still far below the minimal standards as established by our professional organization, the American Psychiatric Association.

I want to have you understand what these ratios are and will use the Kansas figures as of November, 1964, for comparison. As I present these ratios to you, I would like to mention briefly the significance of each type of personnel and how important they are to us.

	Iowa	Kansas
Average Daily Population (in 6 institutions)	2,716	Average Daily Population (in 3 hospitals) 2,844
Physicians	59, 1-46 pts.	101, 1-28 pts.
Clinical Psychologists	20, 1-136 pts.	34, 1-83 pts.
Social Workers	44, 1-62 pts.	51, 1-55 pts.
Nurses	75, 1-36 pts.	113, 1-25 pts.
Aides	935, 1-2.9 pts.	981, 1-2.9 pts.
Adjunctive Therapists	122, 1-22 pts.	81, 1-35 pts.
Total Employees	1,976, 1-1.4 pts.	2,242, 1-1.3 pts.

In Iowa, as in every other state in the Union, the great need is for more trained personnel and hence my appeal, and my pleading, and my most sincere pleading, that you provide the wherewithal to intensify training by doubling or tripling the available funds. Currently at the Medical School in Iowa City you have 19 doctors in what we call residency training in psychiatry, training to be psychiatrists. You have two approved training programs in your state institutions, Independence and Cherokee, with 12 doctors in training at each of these.

In other words, 43 physicians in residency training in Iowa. We have more than a hundred in training in Kansas.

You have some excellent training programs for clinical psychologists and social workers but here again my impression is that many more of our colleges and universities, as well as all of our mental institutions, would be enormously blessed if there were some weddings in the training programs between these two groups of institutions.

Such programs could be as fine as any in the entire country, providing both the theoretical and didactic work in the university or college and the clinical work in these splendid institutions.

In some of your institutions you have very superior clinical pastoral education programs, particularly in Independence, with graduate summer sessions. The facts indicate that the average clergyman of any faith spends about 50 percent of his time seeing troubled people. Hence if we provide training for them from this technical field of medicine—psychiatry—we can help them be much more effective in terms of the mental health program.

3. Salaries and Personnel Problems

A problem in every mental hospital program—in every community mental health program—is the recruitment of personnel. Dr. Huston has told me he could place 14 more psychiatrists today in the community mental health program if they were available. Part of this lack of availability—and we have to face it—is that psychiatry is on a seller's market. Every state mental health program in the union is looking for personnel. There are elaborate recruitment programs in various states offering very attractive bait to any and all takers. If we are going to recruit more personnel in Iowa, I would strongly urge you to consider thoughtfully two major areas:

The first of these is your personnel policies. Your retirement program was set up many years ago. It is based on three percent of the first $4,000 earned so that with all due respect to a janitor, on retirement he gets as much as a hospital superintendent, namely about $50 a month, even after 40 years of service. Perhaps you know that your vacation plan states that a person with one year's service gets one week vacation, and, between 2 and 10 years of service, receives two weeks vacation. Only after 10 years does he receive as much as three weeks vacation, regardless of his responsibility.

May I be impertinent enough to call to your attention that for non-professional people your salary range is $220 per month. This is a total cash figure with no additional maintenance or any other emoluments. Fifty-three percent of your employees earn $320 or less per month. If you are going to get the people you want—in fact, one would almost say if you are going to get the people—these salaries have to be increased probably 25-50 percent. Because these people are so terribly important in helping our sick folks, I urge that these policies and practices be given earnest and thoughtful and early attention.

4. Children

The one area in which Iowa has made little or no progress in its mental health program since I addressed this body eight years ago has been in the provision of psychiatric care for children. Currently the sum total of beds for emotionally disturbed children is 28 at Iowa City and 50 at Independence. Each of our hospitals should have a minimum of 50 beds—I personally doubt if this would be enough.

For some reason or other this recommendation to the legislature has never received positive action.

My warm congratulations on a tremendous improvement in both the Woodward State Hospital and School and the Glenwood State School. There a very reasonable appeal for more help comes from these institutions: they badly need three times the number of social workers they have to consult with the social agencies and schools in the counties they serve. So many, many of our marginally retarded children would not have to come to an institution if we could develop programs in our communities for this large group of patients—estimated at 3 percent of our population.

5. An opportunity for the treatment of mentally disordered offenders.

In this area, too, Iowa badly needs a new program and a new facility. I think Governor Hughes summarized this succinctly in a presentation to a conference here in November when he indicated that "our treatment of the mentally disordered offenders in Iowa was for many years one of the darkest blots on our conscience as a state and a symbol of our refusal to face up to a vital responsibility." He went on to indicate that the sad and sorry single facility is an extension of a cell block, called the "security hospital" located within the walls of the Men's Reformatory at Anamosa. Tragically enough, about a fourth of the individuals in this particular cell block are patients from the mental hospitals, civil commitments, who unfortunately though, as you may or may not know, are photographed, fingerprinted, numbered and their records distributed to law enforcement agencies, including the FBI which in effect, of course, gives these mental patients essentially a criminal record.

With much thoughtful consideration, under the comprehensive mental health planning group, it is indicated that a new facility is long overdue, providing for 350 to 400 beds, to serve adolescents and juveniles, male as well as female adult offenders and including, as necessity arose, the more unmanageable patients from mental hospitals.

We were recently very much complimented in Kansas that a group of citizens from Iowa, including, I believe, some members of this legislature, visited us to look into a new program in Kansas, the Diagnostic Center. This is unique in our 50 states. It is a medium security prison established for the specific purpose of examining every convicted male offender by a team of psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers. They pass their findings about each individual on to the court. So far it has been very warmly received.

Your group also visited our Boys' Industrial School, one of the sources of great pride for us in Kansas. For years in our state, we kept these youngsters from 6 to 16 years of age in a so-called boys' reform school, under very severe discipline. Most, if not all of them, left our institution hating the world more than before they entered. In 1948 we changed this training school into a kind of children's hospital where we studied each individual in order to provide the physical and psychological and educational needs as we found them. The payoff has been one of the most exciting experiences in the field of criminology we have ever had. The repeater rate for the youngsters in that institution fell from 47 percent in 1948 to 5 percent in 1960!

By all means we urge you to give early consideration to the need for a security hospital. It is urgent!

6. Finances

Most of the points I have been making to you this morning have to do with increased costs. I have only mentioned in passing that the per diem per patient in your hospitals is $10.15. I haven't any question in my own mind that in the next few years we will have to double this figure—that is if we have any intention of doing the right kind of job in running a first rate treatment center worthy of being called a hospital.

When we talk about millions of dollars for this mental health program—and that is what we are doing—it is big money. But by comparison it is a drop in the bucket to the amount of money we spend on highways, defense, crime and for so many other things—other than the health of people. I know you will surely be faced with financial demands for many other programs in this legislature. I hope, though, and I pray that you don't forget these sick people depending on you—and that you give them a number one priority. No one wants to pay more taxes and yet everyone wants more service. We can't have our cake and eat it and the business of trying to get this money by lottery or more federal aid is not practical for a permanent on-going program in any state. Undoubtedly all of you know that many other states have very good services and to obtain these there is no alternative to proposing some kind of increased taxes.

I mentioned the daily cost of $10.15 per patient in the state hospitals of Iowa. Now let me hastily compare it with the average cost in a general hospital these days—$36.15 a day. Recently I had occasion to visit one of our large non-profit orthopedic hospitals for children where the cost was $56 per day. In both instances, and this is so important, this sum did not include the medical costs (physicians' fees) as does the figure of $10.15 for a mental hospital.

I take great pride in indicating to you that in Kansas, at our Topeka State Hospital, in 1964 we were spending $12.93 a day and the average for all our mental hospitals was $11.53 a day. We anticipate that this is going up somewhat further in 1965. This figure does not include the training program costs for which an appropriation of approximately $850,000 is made for all categories of personnel. Nor does this figure of $850,000 for training include all training costs, since the Menninger Foundation picks up the tab of $1,200 per doctor per year in the training program.

Let me make this appeal, requiring you to find more finances, as personal as I can. Suppose it is your wife at Cherokee or Clarinda, or Independence, or Mount Pleasant. There are the wives of many of your friends there—undoubtedly many of your friends themselves. Can we afford, looking into our consciences, to give these citizens who depend on us anything less than the best? No one is going to criticize you for helping sick people. Let's do give the best we know how, admitting even so that this is not as good as it could be.

7. Community Psychiatry

My warm commendations to you on the development of the community psychiatry plan in Iowa under the Department of Psychiatry at the State Psychopathic Hospital and specifically, Paul Huston. This is the trend everywhere we have the leadership, the idea being to provide early treatment and the advantage of treatment at or near home. As I indicated above, I understand that 52 percent of your population is now covered by the 16 community mental health centers. In Kansas we have had a little experience with this, too, we have 21 community health services and everyone of them is in operation with at least one staff member—providing treatment close to home for about 75 percent of our population. We have problems in staffing them, real problems, but even currently they are giving 3,000 staff hours per week, which is filling what was a complete void prior to their instigation two or three years ago.

There is no doubt that if one can treat mental illness early in its course, there is a much better chance of helping the individual and hence the great advantage of these mental health clinics where people can get their help right at home. Increasingly general hospitals across the country are tending to add a few psychiatric beds for emergency cases and this, too, gives an individual a chance for treatment at home, in comparison to perhaps going a good many miles to a state mental institution.

In pointing out these advantages, it is my own personal opinion that our big mental hospitals will always be necessary for many reasons. We should not minimize the fact that wherever they are located, they can provide outpatient service, the day hospital program, community leadership, as well as serving as a hospital. At least that is our experience in Kansas and we are very proud of our state institutions which have enormously increased their participation in community life. In our Topeka State Hospital we have a very superior training program—much better, I believe, than we could provide in a small hospital with a few beds or an outpatient clinic, and I believe this is generally true because of the many patients—in our medical jargon we would say, the wealth of clinical material.

Our biggest problem to date in operating the community plan in Kansas—and I am quite sure this applies everywhere—is that we cannot find adequate trained professional personnel. This is the same problem that has cursed our mental hospitals because there are not enough trained psychiatrists and, as a matter of fact, there are not nearly enough in training. We have found by all odds, the best way to find them is to train them ourselves and hence my urgent appeal again, as indicated above, that you put high priority on increasing the training programs at the University and at the mental hospitals.

There is one major aspect in our mental health problems in many states that is far from being solved. This has to do with the county homes. In my opening remarks I indicated that I have been told you have approximately 2,500 patients in county homes. As I have heard from the physicians about the survey of what happens, some of these apparently work fine with excellent treatment for the patients. They have the great advantage of being under local responsibility and local management. On the other hand, there isn't any doubt too many of these patients are badly neglected because the local community has not assumed adequate responsibility for their care.

The result is that we can, by neglect, assign such sick people to a kind of living death as "hopeless" when we haven't any right to so classify them. Whenever we have this kind of system, it needs the closest supervision to make it effective and hence I urge that in every county in Iowa there is close supervision of what is happening to these citizens in the county homes. They, too, rate the best treatment we know how to provide them.

8. Research

Again I reiterate my appeal for more research in this neglected field of health. You have made an appropriation of $75,000 a year. I would only hope that this could be multiplied many times though as I make this suggestion I am aware also we are acutely short in finding the competent personnel to carry on research. We often have competent personnel but they are so busy treating people they don't have time to do research—one of our problems related to our shortage of personnel. The fact remains we still know so very little about personality, in relation to both health and sickness, and such information can only come as we go much, much further in our programs of research.

9. Inform the Public

Inform the citizens of the state about the facts and problems. It is my conviction that the public once informed will want—indeed insist upon—these changes.

10. Attitude of Optimism

I place the greatest emphasis on any program of improvement of mental health in the creation of an attitude of hopefulness and optimism on the part of everyone. Even with "brains" and "bricks" people have the best chance to get well when they do have the full support of the legislature and the citizens of the community and the state. Only then can we build the institutions we need. Only then can we create in these institutions an atmosphere of understanding and confidence and assurance of recovery. It can happen if enough of us care.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The Senate reconvened, President pro tempore O'Malley presiding.

By Frommelt

Whereas, both houses of the legislature see fit to open their day's work with prayer, and it is unseemly that they should work during the time in which is commemorated the passion and death of the Lord to whom they dedicate their daily efforts;

Whereas, many members will absent themselves from the legislative halls during that time to attend services in their respective churches;

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring: That a special recess be held on Good Friday afternoon, April 16, 1965, during the hours of twelve to three o'clock, out of reverence to the passion and death of our Lord.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON HOUSE FILE 9

I voted "yes" on House File 9 because I had missed the brief debate and voted on the prevailing side with the thought I might file a motion to reconsider. I have decided not to move to reconsider as this would delay the Senate, and the issue will be discussed later by the Senate when the appropriation for the Highway Patrol comes up and when the matter of financing one hundred patrolmen is considered. I think adequate compensation for existing patrolmen should take precedence over the hiring of one hundred new ones and I have some questions about how efficiently existing manpower is being used.

ROBERT R. RIGLER.

ADDITIONAL COPIES

Senator Kruck asked and received unanimous consent to have five hundred additional copies of Senate Joint Resolution 19 printed.

" 'Pension compensation' shall mean the member's average final compensation adjusted in the ratio of the earnable compensation payable on each July 1 to an active member having the same or equivalent rank or position as was held by the retired or deceased member at the time of retirement or death to the earnable compensation of such member at his retirement or death."

in this section payable to each retired member and to each beneficiary, except children, of a deceased member shall be recomputed. The formula authorized in this section which was used to compute the retired member's or beneficiary's pension at the time of retirement or death, including all amendments to the formula which may be adopted subsequent to the member's retirement or death, shall be used in the recomputation except the pension compensation shall be used in lieu of the average final compensation which the retired or deceased member was receiving at the time of retirement or death. If the monthly pension so computed is less than the amounts provided in subsections eight (8), nine (9) and thirteen (13) of this section, the amounts provided for in said subsections shall be payable.

"c. All monthly pensions adjusted as provided in this subsection shall be payable beginning on July 1 of the year in which the adjustment is made and shall continue in effect until the next following July 1 at which time the monthly pensions shall again be recomputed and all monthly pensions shall be adjusted in accordance with the recomputations.

"d. The adjustment of pensions required by this subsection shall recognize the retired or deceased member's position on the salary scale within his rank at the time of his retirement or death. In the event that the rank or position held by the retired or deceased member at the time of retirement or death is subsequently abolished, adjustments in the pensions of the member or of the member's spouse or children shall be computed by the board of trustees as though such rank or position had not been abolished and salary increases had been granted to such rank or position on the same basis as increases granted to other ranks and positions in the department."

Senator O'Malley asked and received unanimous consent that House File 7 be immediately messaged to the House which request was complied with.

Senator Reppert asked and received unanimous consent that Senate File 34 be withdrawn from further consideration of the Senate.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON HOUSE FILE 7.

In joining with eight other Senators in voting against House File 7, a bill establishing escalation pension benefits for firemen and policemen, I did so on grounds that this is "class" or "group" legislation for a section of public employees which is not extended to all public employees. This is manifestly unfair to those public employees covered by the Iowa Public Employees Retirement System whose presently modest pension benefits need the same treatment as those House File 7 extends to two favored groups—firemen and policemen. From the debate it was evident that sentiment to extend the benefits to those under I. P. E. R. S. is practically nil. Why this obvious discrimination?

The motion prevailed and President Fulton declared the appointment of Robert C. Barry as a member of the Iowa State Highway Commission confirmed for the unexpired portion of the four-year term ending June 30, 1967.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON CONFIRMATION OF ROBERT C. BARRY TO THE HIGHWAY COMMISSION

It is my considered judgment that neither Mr. Barry nor Mr. Bradley have at any time given adequate explanation for their part in changing the fourteen miles of paving west of Iowa City from a contract requiring cement to a contract for asphalt paving. This resulted in considerable added expense to the taxpayers.

I do not approve of the selling of trucks by Mr. Barry to an asphalt contractor bidding on state highway projects while a member of the Highway Commission. I personally visited with Mr. Barry concerning the selling of these trucks. He said he could see nothing wrong with this practice. It seems to me that anyone entrusted with this high office, doing millions of dollars worth of business with tax funds, should easily see this conflict of business interest. If he cannot see this, I do not feel he is qualified for the office of Highway Commissioner.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 16

By Reichardt, Hullinger, Korn, Keleher, Clapsaddle, Fullmer, Resnick, Hageman, Scott, Oehlsen, Rickert, Hausheer, Breitbach, Shirley of Dallas, Gillette of Clay-Dickinson, Gillette of Story, and Scherle

Whereas, the University of Iowa and Iowa State University have a primary responsibility to the people of this state and the people of Iowa want a football game between these two schools which would be demonstrated and supported by capacity crowds, and

Whereas, it would focus public attention on these two state institutions and a tremendous financial sum would be held within the state that is now going out of the state, and

Whereas, it would enhance the athletic status of both institutions in the eyes of Iowa's stellar high school athletes and would tend to keep more of these young men in our state; therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That the President of Iowa State University and the President of the State University of Iowa be directed to investigate the feasibility of arranging their football schedule to allow games to be played between the two schools as often and as soon as possible.

Be It Further Resolved: That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the athletic departments of the University of Iowa and Iowa State University.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 16

Whereas, the qualifications for members of the United States Senate are designated in the Constitution of the United States, and

Whereas, the Constitution of the United States requires that only inhabitants of a state shall be elected to the Senate of the United States by the citizens of the state, and

Whereas, the practice of an individual from one state establishing a residence in another state for the sole purpose of becoming eligible to campaign for office of United States senator in the second state has been noticeably increasing in recent elections, and

Whereas, this practice is being questioned by some on whether a candidate for office of United States senator under such circumstances is actually an "inhabitant" of the state, especially in instances where the candidate has not resided in the state to qualify as a voter of such state, and

Whereas, this practice is being further questioned on whether a candidate for office of United States senator under such circumstances can effectively represent the citizens of that state without having previously lived in and without being familiar with the citizens and economy of the state; now therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That the Congress of the United States be encouraged to amend the Constitution of the United States to change the requirements for election of United States senators to insure that a candidate for the office of senator has established residency in the state for a specific period of time or that a candidate be a qualified voter of the state from which he is being elected to represent.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary of the Senate to the President of the United States, to the President of the Senate of the United States, and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States.

By Reichardt, Hullinger, Korn, Keleher, Clapsaddle, Fullmer, Resnick, Hageman, Scott, Oehlsen, Rickert, Hausheer, Breitbach, Shirley of Dallas, Gillette of Clay-Dickinson, Gillette of Story, and Scherle

Whereas, the University of Iowa and Iowa State University have a primary responsibility to the people of this state and the people of Iowa want a football game between these two schools which would be demonstrated and supported by capacity crowds, and

Whereas, it would focus public attention on these two state institutions and a tremendous financial sum would be held within the state that is now going out of the state, and

Whereas, it would enhance the athletic status of both institutions in the eyes of Iowa's stellar high school athletes and would tend to keep more of these young men in our state; therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That the President of Iowa State University and the President of the State University of Iowa be directed to investigate the feasibility of arranging their football schedule to allow games to be played between the two schools as often and as soon as possible.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the House has passed the following bill in which the concurrence of the Senate is asked:

Also: That the House has adopted the following concurrent resolution in which the concurrence of the Senate asked:

House Concurrent Resolution 17, resolving to support the President of the United States in using his rightful and just power to protect the right to peaceful assembly and demonstration; to curb the exercise of unlawful police power and to enjoin the Governor of Alabama to comply with the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964.

By Cohen, Jackson of Black Hawk, Crosier,
Urban and Gillette of Story

Whereas, citizens of the United States in peaceful assembly have been the victims of physical brutality, scourged with night sticks, tear gas and whips, to enforce Governor Wallace's ban against a protest march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama, and,

Whereas, at least thirty-five men and women suffering from the effects of this horrendous police brutality are now hospitalized; and,

Whereas, this march was organized to call the attention of the citizens of these United States to the denial of their rights to register to vote, therefore:

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That we deem it necessary that this Sixty-first General Assembly support the President of these United States in using his rightful and just power to protect the right to peaceful assembly and demonstration; to curb the exercise of unlawful police power; to enjoin the Governor of Alabama to comply with the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964; to restore the rights of those Alabama citizens now denied these rights; to urge Alabama's governor to use all due haste to conform to democratic principles inherent in the Constitution of the United States; to allow all citizens of Alabama to exercise their just and lawful franchise by due process of registration; to protect the rights, life and property of those who are endangered while acting in a peaceful manner to enjoin the restoration of these rights.

Be It Further Resolved: That we recognize that the loss of civil rights of any man of any race, color or creed diminishes and corrodes the freedom of all citizens of these United States; now therefore:

Be It Further Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, to Governor Wallace and Sheriff James G. Clark of Alabama, to Iowa Senators Bourke Hickenlooper and Jack Miller, and to Representatives Schmidhouser, Culver, Gross, Bandstra, Smith, Greigg and Hansen.

The following resolution was presented by Senator Dodds:

RESOLUTION REQUESTING MEMBERS OF STATE LEGISLATURE TO ADOPT LEGISLATION OUTLAWING DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT BASED ON AGE (40 TO 65)

Whereas, job barriers against older workers in industry are cruel, wasteful and unsound and deprive the economy of much valuable skill and experience; and

Whereas, the most neglected man in the employment picture today is the man between 40 and 65, who is too young to retire on Social Security but too old to find a job; and

Whereas, by 1975, one-third of all Americans will be between the ages of 40 and 65 and considered unemployable by a majority of employers; and

Whereas, discrimination in employment based on age deprives persons in the prime of life of the earnings they need to provide a decent standard of living for themselves and their families and causes persons from 40 to 65 to live under the shadow of constant fear that, if they lose their job, they will be unable to find another; and

Whereas, in 1964 Congress adopted Public Law 88-352 which makes it an unlawful employment practice for an employer with 25 or more employees and engaged in an industry affecting interstate commerce, to discriminate against employees or applicants for employment because of their race, color, religion, sex or national origin; and

Whereas, Section 715 of Public Law 88-352 provides that the Secretary of Labor shall make a study of discrimination in employment because of age and shall report the results of such study to Congress not later than June 30, 1965, "and shall include in such report such recommendations for legislation to prevent arbitrary discrimination in employment because of age as he determines advisable";

Therefore, Be It Resolved, that the members of the State Legislature of Iowa be requested to enact at their present session, legislation which will make it an unlawful employment practice for employers to discriminate against employees or applicants for employment because of their age being between 40 and 65.

The bill having failed to receive a constitutional majority was declared to have failed to pass the Senate.

By Cohen, Jackson of Black Hawk, Crosier,
Urban and Gillette of Story

Whereas, citizens of the United States in peaceful assembly have been the victims of physical brutality, scourged with night sticks, tear gas and whips, to enforce Governor Wallace's ban against a protest march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama, and,

Whereas, at least thirty-five men and women suffering from the effects of this horrendous police brutality are now hospitalized; and,

Whereas, this march was organized to call the attention of the citizens of these United States to the denial of their rights to register to vote, therefore:

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring: That we deem it necessary that this Sixty-first General Assembly support the President of these United States in using his rightful and just power to protect the right to peaceful assembly and demonstration; to curb the exercise of unlawful police power; to enjoin the Governor of Alabama to comply with the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964; to restore the rights of those Alabama citizens now denied these rights; to urge Alabama's governor to use all due haste to conform to democratic principles inherent in the Constitution of the United States; to allow all citizens of Alabama to exercise their just and lawful franchise by due process of registration; to protect the rights, life and property of those who are endangered while acting in a peaceful manner to enjoin the restoration of these rights.

Be It Further Resolved: That we recognize that the loss of civil rights of any man of any race, color or creed diminishes and corrodes the freedom of all citizens of these United States; now therefore:

Be It Further Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, to Governor Wallace and Sheriff James G. Clark of Alabama, to Iowa Senators Bourke Hickenlooper and Jack Miller, and to Representatives Schmidhouser, Culver, Gross, Bandstra, Smith, Greigg and Hansen.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR

A communication was received announcing that on March 12, 1965, the Governor had approved the following bill:

Senate File 62, relating to retirement age for firemen and policemen.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

Senator Mincks submitted the following report:

MR. PRESIDENT: Your committee on industrial and human relations to which was referred Senate File 50, a bill for an act relating to the reporting by physicians, institutions, and others of certain physical abuse of children, begs leave to report it has had the same under consideration and recommends the same be amended as follows; and when so amended the bill do pass:

Amend Senate File 50, by striking all after the enacting clause and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

Section 1. Policy. It is the policy of this state to provide protection for children who have been physically injured as a result of abuse or willful neglect and who may be in danger of further injury. This Act shall be administered and interpreted to provide the greatest possible protection as promptly as possible for such children.

Sec. 2. Definitions. Wherever used in this Act, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise:

1. "Health practitioner" includes any physician, surgeon, osteopath, dentist, optometrist, podiatrist, or chiropractor; any resident or intern in any of such professions; and any registered nurse attending or treating a child in the absence of a practitioner of any of such professions.

2. "Child" means any person under the age of eighteen (18) years.

3. "County department of social welfare" and "county attorney" have the meaning stated in section six (6) of this Act.

Sec. 3. Report. Every health practitioner who examines, attends, or treats a child and who believes or has reason to believe that the child has had physical injury inflicted on him as a result of abuse or willful neglect, shall make a report as provided in the following section. However, if the health practitioner examines, attends, or treats the child as a member of the staff of a hospital or similar institution, he shall immediately notify and give complete information to the person in charge of the institution or his designated representative, who shall make a report as provided in the following section.

Any other person who believes that a child has had physical injury inflicted upon him as a result of abuse or neglect may make a report as provided in the following section.

Sec. 4. Nature and contents of report; to whom made. Each report shall be made both orally and in writing, and both reports shall be made as soon as is reasonably possible.

The oral report shall be made by telephone or otherwise to the county department of social welfare. If the person making the report believes or has reason to believe that immediate protection for the child is advisable, he also shall immediately make an oral report to an appropriate law enforcement agency.

The written report shall be made to the county department of social welfare and the county attorney.

The oral and written reports shall contain the following information, or as much thereof as the person making the report is able to furnish: (1) the names and home addresses of the child and his parents or other persons responsible for his care; (2) the child's present whereabouts if not the same as his home address; (3) the child's age; (4) the nature and extent of the child's injuries, including any evidence of previous injuries; and (5) any other information which the person making the report believes might be helpful in establishing the cause of the injuries and the identity of the person or persons responsible therefor.

A report made by anyone other than a health practitioner, hospital, or similar institution may be oral, written, or both; shall be regarded as a report pursuant to this Act whether or not the report contains all of the information required by this section; and may be made to any county department of social welfare, county attorney, or law enforcement agency. If the report is made to any agency other than the county department of social welfare, such agency shall promptly refer the report to the county department of social welfare.

Sec. 5. Investigation and other action. The county department of social welfare shall make a thorough investigation promptly after receiving either the oral or written report. The primary purpose of the investigation shall be the protection of the child.

The investigation shall include the nature, extent, and cause of the child's injuries; the identity of the person or persons responsible therefor; the names and condition of other children in the home; the child's home environment and relationship with his parents or other persons responsible for his care; and all other pertinent matters.

The investigation shall include a visit to the child's home. If admission to the home cannot be obtained, the juvenile court or district court, upon good cause shown, may authorize the person or persons making the investigation to enter and examine the child's home, using reasonable force if necessary.

The county department of social welfare shall make a complete written report of the investigation to the juvenile court, the county attorney, and the appropriate law enforcement agency.

The written report of the investigation shall be delivered within ninety-six (96) hours after the county department of social welfare receives either the oral or written report of injury, unless the juvenile court or district court grants an extension of time for good cause shown.

The county attorney and any law enforcement or welfare agency in the state shall cooperate and assist in the investigation upon the request of the county department of social welfare. The county attorney and appropriate law enforcement agencies shall also take any other lawful action which may be necessary or advisable for the protection of the child.

The county department of social welfare shall make available all lawful services and take all lawful action which appears advisable to protect the health and welfare of the child and his family.

The county department of social welfare shall promptly begin any proceeding under chapter two hundred thirty-two (232) of the Code which appears to be in the best interests of the child; but if the county department of social welfare fails to do so, the county attorney shall promptly do so.

Sec. 6. Jurisdiction; transfer. "County department of social welfare" or "county attorney" ordinarily refer to the county in which the child's home is located.

However, if the person making the report pursuant to this Act does not know where the child's home is located, or if the child's home is not located in the county where the health practitioner examines, attends, or treats the child, the report may be made to the designated agencies for the county where the person making the report resides or the county where the health practitioner examines, attends, or treats the child. These agencies shall promptly proceed as provided in section five (5) of this Act, unless the matter is transferred to another county as provided in this section.

If it appears that the child's home is located in another county, the county department of social welfare shall promptly transfer the matter to the other county by transmitting a copy of the report of injury and any other pertinent information to the county department of social welfare and the county attorney of the other county. They shall promptly proceed as provided in section five (5) of this Act.

Sec. 7. Immunity from liability. Anyone participating in good faith in the making of a report pursuant to this Act shall have immunity from any liability, civil or criminal, which might otherwise be incurred or imposed. Any such participant shall have the same immunity with respect to participation in good faith in any judicial proceeding resulting from such report or relating to the subject matter of such report.

Sec. 8. Evidence not privileged or excluded. Sections six hundred twenty-two point seven (622.7), six hundred twenty-two point nine (622.9), and six hundred twenty-two point ten (622.10), Code 1962, and any other statute or rule of evidence which excludes or makes privileged the testimony of a husband or wife against the other or the testimony of a health practitioner as to confidential communication, shall not apply to evidence regarding a child's injuries or the cause thereof in any judicial proceeding, civil or criminal, resulting from a report pursuant to this Act or relating to the subject matter of such report.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE ON SENATE FILE 192

I am for the original intent and purpose of this bill to limit advertising along interstate highways. This additional federal money was intended to purchase existing billboards and the advertising rights of the property owners along existing and future interstate highways. However, the language of this bill does not require the purchase of these rights, and the approximate 1.7 million dollars will be used to construct approximately one and one-half miles of interstate highway.

Senator Shaff offered amendments which would have required these rights from the property owners. They were defeated. If they had carried, I would have voted for the bill. As the bill is now, property rights may be taken by the government without the owners receiving just compensation.

RICHARD L. STEPHENS.

On motion of Senator Frommelt, the Senate adjourned until 9:00 a.m., Wednesday, March 17, 1965.

By Riley and Stanley

Whereas, a citizen of this state whose vocation is that of public school teacher was reportedly asked to resign his position as school teacher as a result of his election to the General Assembly in the general election of November 3, 1964, which request to resign was reportedly later withdrawn, and

Whereas, it is now reported that the said citizen in question has been notified that his teaching contract will not be renewed by the public school district employing him, and

Whereas, a reasonable inference may be drawn that the action not to renew the said citizen's contract to teach is based in whole or in part on the said citizen's decision to seek public office and his subsequent election.

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Senate of the Sixty-first General Assembly of the State of Iowa, the House Concurring: That the people of the state, through their elected representatives in the legislature assembled, hereby state and declare that it is the policy of this state that no citizen be deterred from seeking elective office in this government, and that in no case should the government of this state or any political subdivision thereof discourage any public employee from seeking elective office, and

Be It Further Resolved that it is the policy of this state that any employee of the State of Iowa, or employee of any political subdivision thereof, who seeks election to public office shall, if elected, be granted a leave of absence without pay for the period of time that his elective duties prevent him from discharging his regular employment by the government of the state or any political subdivision thereof, without prejudice to his future employment with the government of the State of Iowa or the respective subdivision thereof.

39 of such net price or cost. For the purpose of the application of 40 this paragraph the value to the consumer of any trading stamps, 41 certificates of redeemable value, or other gift or premium given by

65 prevent price differentials which make only due allowance for 66 differences in the cost of sale or transportation resulting from 67 differing methods or quantities in which such dairy products are 68 sold or transported to such purchasers; and provided further, that 69 nothing herein contained shall prevent sales made in good faith to 70 meet an equally low price of a competitor."

To sell or offer to sell within the state any dairy product for less than the cost to the processor, distributor, or retailer where the effect may be substantially to lessen competition or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with the person buying or the person selling such product; provided that this shall not prevent sales made in good faith to meet competition."

127 in such schedule on file with the department (except that where 128 prices are changed in good faith to meet an equally low price of a
129 competitor, notice to the department of the new schedule of prices 130 shall be given within two (2) business days after such change). The 131 initial filing of schedules or any new schedules shall be filed with 132 the department either in person or by certified mail. Price lists

MR. committee chairman has no right to keep the document secret from a committee member who requests permission to examine it.

25 by lot so that as nearly as possible one-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of the senators 26 shall be elected every two (2) years.

27 "Sec. 34. The House of Representatives shall be composed

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House appeared and announced that the House was ready to receive the Senate in joint convention.

The Senate proceeded to the House under the direction of the Sergeant-at-Arms.

JOINT CONVENTION

In accordance with law and concurrent resolution duly adopted, the joint convention was called to order, President Fulton presiding.

President Fulton announced a quorum present and the joint convention duly organized.

President Fulton presented Senator George O'Malley, President pro tempore of the Senate, who, on behalf of the Senate, welcomed the Pioneer Lawmakers with the following remarks:

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MEMBERS OF THE PIONEER LAWMAKERS ASSOCIATION, MEMBERS OF THE JOINT CONVENTION AND GUESTS:

It is a distinct privilege to extend to the Pioneer Lawmakers a hearty welcome from the Sixty-first General Assembly and particularly the Senate. I am pleased to see so many back here roaming the legislative halls greeting each other with enthusiasm and telling how they did it in the days of yore.

I'd like to say that, the Lord willing, it won't be too long until I will be eligible to become a Pioneer Lawmaker and I hope to attend many of your future meetings in the days to come.

I think you will find that the legislative processes are as stimulating today as they were in the past when you were the leaders and when you the protagonists on one side or the other. However, I think you will note now with reapportionment, that the numbers are greater and that many, many changes are in process which we hope will speed up the legislative process. I particularly want to call attention to the fact that the matter of secrecy has been eliminated, and I hope forever. Probably the greatest contribution to fast legislative action is the open confirmations by the Senate eliminating the executive session. Now we call the roll and take care of confirmations in regular order, thereby eliminating the matter of secrecy and running everybody out of the Senate except the Senators and the presiding officer, Secretary of the Senate and Sergeant-at-Arms. This, I am sure, has been a real accomplishment and I hope it continues to be the policy in future legislatures.

Certainly one of the most cherished honors that can come to any citizen in this state is to have had the privilege to serve in the legislature and observe the dedication which the members display in considering various pieces of legislation.

It is a great privilege to represent the people of Iowa in this General Assembly and I know it is one of the most cherished traditions that you veterans have to reminisce about.

We, the lawmakers of today, commend you, the lawmakers of yesterday, for the work you have done in the passing of legislation which you considered to be in the public interest. It appears that you came to grips with many problems of your day such as taxes, and of course we have the same problems this session, in addition to the matter of governmental reform and once and for all, laying to rest, if possible, the matter of reapportionment.

I am delighted to see so many of you here and I hope that you all will return to the next lawmakers' meeting two years hence.

Thank you.

President Fulton presented Representative Floyd P. Edgington, who, on behalf of the House, welcomed the Pioneer Lawmakers with the following remarks:

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, PIONEER LAWMAKERS AND FELLOW LEGISLATORS:

It is a great pleasure today to welcome the Pioneer Lawmakers on this occasion. I know it must bring back memories of the great problems that you shared with your colleagues in forming the patterns that helped make Iowa the great state that it is now. For example, it was your foresight for the growing problems of education which made it possible for all children to attend school, regardless of where they might live. And also, you provided for schools of higher learning that have gained national recognition, and produced the students that now lead our state. In addition, you were responsible for the great road system that made it possible for agricultural products to be marketed, and the sixteen foot pavements that were a boon to Iowa in the early days.

I think it would be well for us present lawmakers to realize that the achievement of yesterday did not come easy, and without tireless effort, and foresight of those who served before us. We only hope that when we are Pioneer Lawmakers we will be as highly regarded as you, and for the same good reasons.

Thank you.

President Fulton presented the Honorable Henry W. Burma, President of the Pioneer Lawmakers, a former member of the House in the Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth and Fiftieth General Assemblies, Speaker of the House in the Fiftieth General Assembly and member of the State Board of Control from 1951-1957.

The Honorable Henry W. Burma addressed the convention and gave recognition to the following older lawmakers: the Honorable Emery English of Polk County who is ninety-two, the Honorable Ed White of Shelby ninety years, the Honorable John Gardner of Linn ninety years and the Honorable J. A. King who is seventy-nine.

The Honorable Mr. Burma then presented Dr. Woodrow W. Morris, Associate Dean, College of Medicine, State University of Iowa, and Director of Gerontology at the University, who addressed the convention with the following remarks:

THE AGING IN OUR SOCIETY

By WOODROW W. MORRIS, Ph.D.

THANK YOU, MR. BURMA, LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR FULTON, MR. SPEAKER, SENATOR O'MALLEY, REPRESENTATIVE EDGINGTON, HONORED PIONEER LAWMAKERS, MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I consider it an unusual honor and a distinct privilege to have been invited to address you on this occasion. I suspect that my relationship to the Institute of Gerontology at the University of Iowa and the fact that we here honor those who have gained the status of "Pioneer Law-maker" have something to do with this invitation and with my presence here on this rostrum. Well, the study of the aging process and concern for the well-being and general status of those approaching the later years of life are dear to my heart and I welcome the opportunity to address you this afternoon on the subject of The Aging in Our Society.

From my previous experiences in working with Iowa legislators I have been impressed with the fact that you are also deeply concerned with the problems of all of our citizens and particularly of those falling within the category of the aged and aging. Evidence of this interest on your part as legislators includes such outstanding pieces of legislation as the Iowa Nursing Home Licensing Act of 1957 which established minimum standards for nursing and custodial homes for the protection of those of our people who find it necessary to seek this kind of care; more recent evidence of your interest and concern is to be found in the currently operating medical aid to the aged program which has become a model health care program for other states; and there is currently a bill to establish a permanent Commission on Aging in the legislative mills of the present General Assembly, as S. F. 351, which will come before you for consideration before too long. For all of these and other legislative acts, present and past General Assemblies deserve the congratulations of all of our people.

A great deal has been said over the past several years about the increasing proportion of older persons in this country and I think little more needs to be said about this now. Suffice it to say that there are more than sixteen million persons over 65 in America today who make up almost 9 percent of the population. Furthermore, the numbers and proportions are increasing at a rapid rate. One current prediction is that the number in the over age 65 group will increase by over one million every three years. In Iowa this means some 350,000 persons, and this is the highest proportion of the population in this age group of any of the fifty states—that is, over 12 percent. However, I suspect this is not why the aged are a problem. The aged are a problem because of the nature of the society in which we live which, by any standards, is an extremely wealthy society possessing all of the natural resources necessary to solve most of our major social problems. It is common knowledge, however, that in this affluent cultural setting we as a nation have not yet faced up completely to the specters nor found final solutions to the problems of racial inequality, unemployment, depressed areas, to say nothing of the aged who represent only one group now demanding attention.

The cultural setting in which groups of people live and the attitudes fostered by this cultural setting, insofar as aging and the aged are concerned, are the factors which I should like to stress today.

For example, one of the findings of a survey conducted in Iowa during the summer of 1960 serves to point up several of these attitudes. This finding is that Iowans in the age range over 60 tend to think of themselves as "middle aged." Any differences between groups are minor, be they men and women or folks from metropolitan or non-metropolitan areas. It is true that, as age increases, there is less and less clinging to the middle age concept, however, men from urban counties tend to maintain this through age 74, after which age they tend to shift all the way over to a self-concept of "old man." All other groups prefer to think of themselves as "elderly" when they give up the "middle aged" self-concept—the term "elderly" apparently seeming to them to be less stigmatic, more dignified, and a somewhat "softer" designation than "old."

All groups tended to postpone thinking of themselves as "old" to from 10 to 15 years beyond their current ages. Thus, over 60 percent of the 60 to 64 years olds tended to say they would not think of themselves as "old" until some time in the age range of 70 to 85. Well over half of the 65 to 69 year olds postpone the "old" idea until they are in the age range of 75 to 89. Over 40 percent of those in the early 70's said that they would wait until they were in the 80's and those over 75 years of age preferred the range from 85 to 89.

As age increased there was a tendency to view the meaning of "old" in terms other than chronological years. Many said something to the effect that they would begin to regard themselves as old in relation to the state of their health, of which more will be said later on.

There is a question among the so-called experts as to whether or not maintaining the middle aged self-concept is healthy or whether it would be better for older people to accept the fact of their aging status. It seems to me that to define oneself as "old" suggest a final surrender in life to aging and what it means and which would seem naturally to be denied as long as the concept of relative youth (that is, middle age) can be maintained.

Now a number of factors govern the ability with which a person can maintain such concepts. These are the factors which help to integrate a person into society, that is, which help him to continue his middle age patterns into later years. A few such patterns include: (1) Group memberships, especially relationships with friends and family, (2) Resources of property and prestige, and (3) Major social roles. Let me review the first two of these briefly after which I should like to devote the major portion of this paper to the major social roles.

I. Group Memberships. People are integrated into society not only by the resources they command and the functions they perform, but also through their social relationships. Here the picture for old people is clear. Their participation in clubs and organizations declines steadily with age as poor income, widowhood and illness increase. Their informal relationships also steadily diminish. Neighborhoods change, families separate as children marry and pursue jobs, relatives and friends move away or die. More of their time is spent at funerals than ever before. In other words, old people progressively lose their group supports as networks of relatives, friends and neighbors wither away through time.

What possible substitutes exist for these deteriorating social ties? One is the formation of new friendships with younger people nearby. However, younger age groups tend to be indifferent to or reject the old. This is trenchantly expressed in Joyce Cary's novel, "To Be A Pilgrim":

"Love is a delusion to the old, for who can love an old man? He is a nuisance; he has no place in the world. The old are surrounded by treachery for no one tells them the truth. Either it is thought necessary to deceive them, for their own good, or nobody can take the trouble to give explanation or understanding to those who will carry both so soon into a grave. They must not complain of what is inevitable; they must not think evil. It is unjust to blame the rock for its hardness, the stream for its inconstancy and its flight, the young for the strength and the jewel brightness of their passage. An old man's loneliness is nobody's fault. He is like an old fashioned hat which seems absurd and incomprehensible to the young, who never admired and wore such a hat."

II. Property and Prestige. Property ownership and the prestige that comes from the possession of knowledge, skills and other competitive abilities are factors which would tend to assist a person at any age to maintain independence; and independence is the keystone of self-prestige.

Even a quick review of this matter indicates that the aging portion of our population is gradually, and in some instances quite rapidly, losing out in the struggle. Property ownership, for example, is gradually becoming spread out in this country throughout the population, and control and ownership is not particularly centered in the hands of older people. The same is true of competition in the field of employment where automation in the many new types of jobs which have been created in our economy seem mainly to favor younger age groups. Even in the matter of home ownership, we found in the Iowa survey a decline with increasing age. While most of the respondents in their 60's and early 70's were still residing in their own homes, among persons past age 75, a fairly large number had given up their homes. This was particularly true of older persons in urban counties and especially among women in these counties. In the metropolitan areas, almost one-third of the men past 75, and close to half of the women in this age group, were no longer living in homes they themselves owned.

Other prestige factors, such as the possession of specialized skills and strategic knowledge to an increasingly smaller degree qualify the elders as authorities for the younger members of society. This is reflected in a variety of ways, not the least important of which is related to the amount of formal education attained by those now in the age group beyond age 60. For example, the median of formal schooling completed by our Iowa sample was somewhere in the range of fifth and eighth grade. The average young person in Iowa today completes about an eleventh grade education, while an ever-increasing number are going on to advanced studies in colleges, universities, into technical training courses, and so on. Today the important occupational and other skills are being taught through formal education rather than the more informal, on-the-job training. In summary then, of this point, the aged today seem not to be the great bulwark of property ownership, nor the strategic agents of either instruction or sources of great wisdom for our society in general.

III. Major Social Roles. Here we are concerned with those important characteristics which describe and determine a person's position in society. These characteristics include: (a) his marital status, (b) work, (c) income, and (d) health. I think you will readily agree that, to the degree that an older person can maintain these major role characteristics from middle age, his later years will pose less serious problems, but conversely as these major roles are lost, the later years become increasingly strained, frustrating, and tend to lower morale. In plain language, what I am saying is that older people are relatively better off and better integrated socially if they are (a) married and living with their spouse, (b) still at work, (c) suffering no significant loss of income, and (d) in relatively good health. Again they are apt to be in increasingly more serious difficulty if they are widowed, retired, suffering serious loss in income and in poor health.

Now, what is the situation with the aged with regard to these four factors?

A. Marital Status. Again, referring to the Iowa Survey of Life After Sixty we find, as one might expect, the aged show a serious disruption of marital status. As elsewhere in the country, widowhood in Iowa increases with advancing age and comes earlier for women and to more of them than for men. Between the ages of 60 and 69 more than four out of five men were married, after which widowhood increases until we find that those over age 75, 35 percent are widowed. Widowhood among women is more extensive at all ages—the percentage ranging from 27 percent in the age group 60 to 64, to 77 percent in the age group over 75. It is obvious from this that widowhood affects more women than men and that it has a harder impact on them as well. There is no reason to believe either that this trend will not continue in the future because women are younger than their husbands, have lower mortality rates at any given age, and their life expectancy is increasing faster than that of men. Hence, despite increasing longevity, the surplus of older women in increasing and the strains added both to the individual and our society will not become lessened in the future.

B. Work. The percentage of older people in the labor force has been steadily decreasing since the beginning of the century. About two-thirds of the men were employed in 1900 while only about one-third are employed today and only about half of them, full time. The situation is somewhat better in Iowa. We find about one-third of the subjects in our survey (all in the age group over 60) reported full time employment with an additional 23 percent reporting part time employment. The percentages of those who are employed, of course, decline sharply with increasing age.

There is a marked tendency for those who are still working to be the self-employed, that is, those primarily in farming, small business and the independent professions; but the future for some of these groups is gloomy as we all know. The family farm is gradually losing out to larger, more corporate type farms and small business men are giving way to chain stores and similar large enterprises while more and more professionals are entering the world of business and government employment. The remaining older workers are working for other people and since employment is a fairly strict function of labor supply, when labor is scarce old people may work, but when labor is abundant they do not, and it is as stark as that. What the era of automation will bring is pretty clear.

C. Income. This factor, of course, is related to employment. When old people continue to work, they maintain their income fairly well. In fact, if their health is good, they may even be better off financially than in earlier years because their children are independent, they may well have paid off the mortgage on their home, and their personal needs are frequently more modest; but for the big majority who are retired, income is chopped off to approximately half, or less, of what it was before. For the older age group as a whole, income figures are appalling and one is led frequently to wonder how many of these people manage to keep body and soul together at today's prices. Nationally, one-fourth of women over 65 have no income at all; three-fourths have less than $1,000 per year, and only one out of twelve have as much as $2,000 annually. In Iowa we found the median income for all women (60 years of age and over) to be approximately $1,300, with 11 percent reporting less than $500 annually. The situation of the men is not quite so bad but it is bad enough. Nationally, close to one-third have between one and two thousand dollars income, and only the final one-third have as much as $2,000 per year. In the Iowa survey we found the median income for all older men to be about $2,500 and in both these instances, as well as that of the women, the median income declines sharply with age. Thus, only about one older person in five has an income approaching $40 per week. Try to imagine an old couple, or for that matter even a single person, subsisting on less than this in today's market. While the financial situation in Iowa appears to be somewhat better than the average for the nation as a whole, it still would appear that a fairly substantial number of older people in Iowa are living on very marginal incomes which are not sufficient to enable them to remain financially independent or to meet unexpected financial emergencies.

D. Health. Modern medicine has made tremendous strides in reducing acute infectious disease rates; but the aged suffer mostly from long-term, expensive chronic illnesses. The findings from health surveys among the elderly reveal that they tend not to complain about their health; in fact, the biggest majority report few major health difficulties. For example, in Iowa, only 36 percent of our sample reported any major health difficulties. While this percentage appears to be small, and recognizing that our survey results are a conservative estimate because we interviewed only the relatively well aged who were still at home and able to be interviewed and none who were in hospitals, nursing or custodial homes, it is startling to project this to the total population of people over age 60; this 36 percent conservatively suggests that there are probably some Iowans in this age range with one or more major health difficulties. In the national reports the major dividing line seems to occur at age 75 and I would recall for you the fact that more people over 75 are widowed, retired, and have low incomes in addition to poor health. One should not be misled by survey results which simply ask the aged to characterize their health status. The initial reaction seems to be to report good or excellent health. This happened in Iowa with the biggest majority of our respondents. A report not more than 14 percent of the older age group is really sick. In another report, also coming out of the University of Chicago, we read "various studies have shown that above the age of 60, two out of five people have some form of chronic disease and we can clearly see what the pattern of the needs for medical science are and will be: it clearly lies within the degenerative field. The high death rates from heart disease and cancer today do not stem from better diagnosis or increased susceptibility. It is simply that there are more persons living in those ages where these diseases are most prevalent."

I suggested earlier that old people will still be fairly well integrated in society if their major social role characteristics remain unchanged, that is, if they are married and living with spouse, are still working, have an adequate income and are in reasonably good health. It has been shown, however, that the chances are slim for a man over age 65 to have a favorable rating on all of these items and the chances are even poorer for women.

Now I have surely described a bleak and dismal picture; one which bears very little resemblance to the world described by the oft-repeated platitudes which somehow include the word "golden" when referring to the later years of life. What are the solutions to these problems? How can the picture be made more favorable, if not "golden"? Time and time again it has occurred to me that the two most important elements are income and health. Well, I would suggest that it would be interesting to know what would happen if we could assure the the material welfare and health of older people. I mean by this, assuring them of any medical care they may need under any circumstances without quibbling about their eligibility or how much it would cost. I also mean by this, assuring all older people of a genuinely adequate income and standard of living, again without quibbling about these factors. Now, lest I be misunderstood, let me make it very clear here that I am not proposing expansion of the welfare state nor am I proposing socialized or government medicine. What I am saying is that these things are possible in our culture and in our times, living as we do in a society boasting the highest standard of living, the greatest material wealth, and the highest level of educational attainments ever achieved in the history of mankind. It is almost exciting to contemplate what could be if all this material wealth and the ingenuity of American know-how from both governmental and non-governmental sources, from both public and private enterprise, from the several professional, business, industrial, and voluntary organizations of all types—if all this material and intellectual wealth were to be focussed full-glare on the problems of income maintenance and the health of our people. How energetically, how willingly, and how generously these needs of our older people are met may be the most significant step we can take as a state and as a nation.

There are many other less material factors to be considered which time does not permit discussing now. Important research remains to be done in dealing with such problems as the social isolation of the aged; the attitudes of younger people toward the aged; the attitude of the aged toward themselves and the precursor attitudes of the aged toward old age when they themselves were younger, for it may well be that it lies in the realm of the attitudes of all of us that the status and position of the older person in society is in part determined. Here we are dealing with such problems as alienation of the old from the young and possibly also of the alienation of the young from each other and of man from man. In treating this topic we come upon the most difficult question of all which is the problem of dealing with changing cultural patterns, attitudes, and beliefs. A glimpse of what may possibly be a key to the solutions we seek was given in a paper presented by Marjorie Fiske Lowenthal at the 1964 meeting of the American Gerontological Society, Minneapolis, Minnesota:

“The individual who is most likely to age successfully, despite a plethora of the vicissitudes and insults of aging—is the one who consciously moves through a transitional stage which primarily involves the substitution of enduring human values in place of the instrumental goals which, in our society, are likely to have been paramount at earlier stages of his development.’ It is the word ‘consciously’ which I find encouraging, for it suggests that further work on the developmental process may help us to conceptualize the norms and expectations for aging which are now so sadly lacking.”

This is, as I said, the most difficult question of all—but its difficulty should not serve to deter us from seeking appropriate solutions.

Urban of Black Hawk moved that the joint convention be now dissolved.

The motion prevailed.

The Senate returned to the Senate and resumed regular session, President Fulton presiding.

AMENDMENTS FILED

- 1 Amend Senate Joint Resolution 24 by striking all after line
- 2 6 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:
- 3 "Section 37 of Article III and section 5 of Article III
- 4 are hereby repealed and the following adopted in lieu thereof:
- 5 Sec. 5. Senators shall be chosen for the term of six (6)

6 years at the same time and place as representatives. Senators shall be at least twenty-five (25) years of age and possess the qualifications of representatives as to residence and citizenship.

9 Sec. 6. The senate shall consist of three (3) senators from each congressional district and shall be classified by lot so that one senator from each congressional district will be elected each two (2) years. The senatorial districts shall be determined by dividing each congressional district by three (3). The senate districts shall be as nearly equal as possible in population. preserving county lines if possible. However, county lines may be crossed where necessary to preserve the principle of equal representation in each district.

18 The house of representatives shall consist of eighty (80) members. The population unit for representation in the house of representatives shall be determined by dividing the whole number of the population of the state as shown by the most recent United States decennial census by eighty (80). Each district shall be so drawn as to contain equal representation with every other representative district; shall consist of compact and contiguous territory and shall conform to the boundaries of counties, townships and voting precincts, where possible. However, said lines may be crossed where necessary to preserve the principle of equal representative districts.

29 Sec. 34. Promptly after the adoption of this amendment, and after each United States decennial census thereafter, the state shall be redistricted into representative districts as hereinafter provided in accordance with the provisions of section thirty-five (35) of this article.

34 "Such redistricting shall be done by a redistricting commission.

36 "Promptly after the adoption of this amendment, and after each United States decennial census thereafter, and upon receipt by the secretary of state of so much of the official results of such census as is reasonably required for the purpose of redistricting as provided in this section, the secretary of state shall promptly certify and mail such information to the members of the state central committee of each of the two (2) political parties whose candidates for governor shall have received the highest numbers of votes in the last preceding general election in which a governor shall have been elected. The first such certification by the secretary of state after the adoption of this amendment, shall be based upon the nineteen hundred sixty (1960) United States decennial census. If any such political party does not have a state central committee, the organization or body within such political party whose functions most closely correspond to those of a state central committee, shall be deemed to be the state central committee for the purposes of this section.

54 "Within thirty (30) days after the mailing by the secretary of state of such certification to the members of such state central committees, each of such state central committees shall appoint five (5) qualified electors as members of such redistricting commission, and shall file with the secretary of state the names of such members. If either of the state central committees does not file such names within the time specified, the supreme court shall promptly appoint five (5) members from among the qualified electors of the political party of such committee. Each member of the redistricting commission may receive such compensation as may be provided by law.

"The redistricting commission shall redistrict the state into representative districts in accordance with the provisions of section six (6) of this article and shall, within sixty (60) days after the date by which all members of the redistricting commission have been appointed, file with the secretary of state a complete statement of the redistricting action of the commission and the boundaries of all representative districts. No such statement shall be valid unless it is signed by at least seven (7) members of such commission."

"If the redistricting commission does not file the required statement within the time prescribed, it shall stand discharged and such redistricting shall be done by the supreme court of the state. In such event, an appropriate order of the court setting forth its redistricting action and the boundaries of all representative districts shall be entered and certified to the secretary of state within sixty (60) days after the final date by which the redistricting commission should have filed its statement with the secretary of state. Such order shall be final.

"Upon the petition of any one hundred (100) qualified electors filed with the supreme court within thirty (30) days after the filing of the statement of the redistricting commission, the supreme court shall determine within sixty (60) days after the filing of such petition whether the redistricting action of the redistricting commission substantially complies with the provisions of the constitution. Such determination shall be entered and certified to the secretary of state within sixty (60) days after the filing of such petition, and shall be final. If the court's determination is that such redistricting action does not substantially comply, such redistricting shall be done by the court; and an appropriate order of the court setting forth its redistricting action and the boundaries of all representative districts shall be entered and certified to the secretary of state within thirty (30) days after the certification of such determination of the court to the secretary of state. Such order shall be final.

"In the event that prior to the final determination or redistricting order of the supreme court in response to any such petition, nominations for the office of representative in districts affected thereby shall have been made, the supreme court may order the holding of new primary elections or such other measures as the court deems necessary to provide for nominations for the office of representative in representative districts affected by such final determination or redistricting order of the supreme court.

"Redistricting under the provisions of this section shall become effective on the first (1st) day of January following the first general election for members of the general assembly held more than one (1) year after the adoption of this amendment, and on the first (1st) day of January following the first general election for members of the general assembly held more than one year after such official results of the most recent 116 United States decennial census shall have been received by the 117 secretary of state. However, the representative districts

118 established by such redistricting shall be the representative 119 districts for the purposes of such general election and any 120 primary election at which candidates for the office of repre-
121 sentative at such general election shall be chosen.

122 "Redistricting done under the provisions of this section
123 shall be final and binding upon all concerned until the next 124 redistricting under the provisions of this section becomes 125 effective, notwithstanding any other provisions of the 126 constitution.

127 Sec. 2. The foregoing proposed amendment to the consti-
128 tution of the state of Iowa is hereby referred to the general
129 assembly to be chosen at the next general election for mmbers
130 of the general assembly, and shall be published as provided by 131 law for three (3) months previous to the date of said general
132 election; and if approved by said general assembly, shall be 133 submitted to the people at a special election to be held in 134 nineteen hundred sixty-seven (1967) as provided by law.

Upon application duly verified of any qualified voter within thirty (30) days after any apportionment plan adopted by the General Assembly becomes law, the supreme court shall review an apportionment plan adopted by the general assembly. If the supreme court determines that the apportionment plan does not comply with the constitution, the supreme court shall adopt or cause to be adopted no later than December 31 of such year an apportionment plan complying with the requirements of the constitution. The supreme court shall have original jurisdiction of all litigation instituted questioning the apportionment or any apportionment plan of the general assembly.

"Section 37. When a congressional district is composed of two (2) or more counties it shall not be entirely separated by a county belonging to another district and no county shall be divided in forming a congressional district."

Iowa City, Iowa,
March 25, 1965.

Dear Senator Burns:

Through you I wish to express my deep appreciation to the members of the General Assembly for Senate Concurrent Resolution 8, and for the delegation who attended my husband's funeral.

It was most thoughtful and generous of the members of the legislature to pass this memorial resolution, and my children join me in expressing our sincerest gratitude.

Sincerely,
SUSAN HANCHER.

STATE OF IOWA
Office of the Governor
Des Moines

March 23, 1965.

The Honorable Robert Fulton,
Lieutenant Governor,
State Capitol,
Des Moines, Iowa.

Honorable Members of the General Assembly:

As you know, it is my feeling that the State Department of Health has been underfinanced for a long time. During the past two years, we have secured the services of Doctor Arthur P. Long as Commissioner of Public Health to rebuild the Department to the point where Iowans can justly be proud of it.

Although they were measurably short of the amounts requested by Doctor Long, my budget recommendations for the Sixty-first biennium, which were presented to the General Assembly February 1, included increases for the Department of Health. Developments and information which have come to my attention subsequently now lead me to recommend for your consideration one additional budgetary increase that will improve the services offered by the Health Department and to suggest that the Department be given a maximum of latitude in distributing the appropriated funds among its various divisions.

First, the Department of Health included in its original askings funds for the support of a "Director of Regional Health Services" and for "Regional Health Services." This program, which provides guidance, support, consultation and advice on public health matters to local city and county health centers, has for a number of years been supported by federal grant funds. These funds recently have been greatly reduced and are likely to be withdrawn completely during the coming biennium.

It can be seen that state funds are needed to continue and expand this program. To implement fully the "Regional Health Services" program calls for the hiring of six public health nurses, 12 sanitary engineers, and some clerical staff. These people would provide guidance to the 61 local public health nurses now employed jointly by the County Boards of Supervisors and the State Department of Health. Also, the engineers would work directly with the local boards of health, particularly on such matters as safe water supply, water pollution control, industrial health and hygiene, and air pollution. The addition of these engineers is particularly essential to implementation of the proposed new water pollution control program.

On the basis of studies concluded after my budget recommendations were presented and additional information furnished by the Commissioner of Health and the Comptroller, I feel that funds should be appropriated to provide the necessary state support for an adequate "Regional Health Services" program. I, therefore, urge the Assembly to appropriate $135,000 for the biennium for this purpose.

The second item which I wish to call to your attention is the manner in which the Governor's recommended appropriation bill was drafted for the State Department of Health. As in previous years, a divisional breakdown was made in my 1965-67 recommendations for each of the various functions performed by the Department. This procedure, which has grown up through the years, is considerably more restrictive than that for many other major departments.

Recent consultations with Doctor Long and the Comptroller have convinced me that a much better over-all state health program can be developed if the Assembly approved a total departmental appropriation for Public Health, without specifying the amount for each particular division. This would give the administration the discretion to utilize the appropriated funds where they are needed most and would enable us to stretch each dollar appropriated for Public Health further in providing a sound program. I urge your favorable consideration of this budgetary change.

The Assembly's attention to both of these matters will be sincerely appreciated. The Comptroller, the Health Commissioner and I stand ready to answer any questions any member may have during your budget deliberations.

Very truly yours,
HAROLD E. HUGHES, Governor.

44 licenses and other fees, taxes other than income taxes, and in-
45 surance. There shall be a presumption in the case of dairy 46 products which are not sold under the manufacturer's label and 47 which are not advertised, that the cost thereof to a distributor, 48 in the absence of evidence to the contrary, shall be not more than 49 two and one-half (2½) percent, computed to the nearest one (1) cent,
50 less than the cost for otherwise identical dairy products. There 51 shall be a further presumption that, in the absence of specific 52 evidence to the contrary, the cost to a retailer is not less than 53 the next price paid by the retailer for a unit or package of a 54 dairy product, (or, in the case of a retailer which processes
55 its own dairy products, its cost thereof at its plant dock plus
56 all costs incurred in transporting the same to its retail point 57 of sale), plus an amount representing such retailer's "cost of

58 doing business", computed as sixteen (16) percent of such net
59 price. In the case of any person engaged in the business of sell-
60 ing any dairy products at retail on home delivery routes, there 61 shall be presumption that in the absence of specific evidence to 62 the contrary the cost to such person is not less than the net
63 cost to or price paid by such person for a unit or package of a
64 dairy product plus an amount representing such person's "retail 65 cost of doing business", computed as thirty-two (32) percent of 66 such cost or net price.

67 Any subsidiary or affiliate corporation, co-operative, officer,
68 director, or partner of a corporation, co-operative, or partnership
69 which is a processor or distributor of dairy products is deemed 70 to be a processor or distributor of dairy products.

71 Sec. 2. The secretary of agriculture is hereby entrusted with 72 the administration and enforcement of this Act. There is hereby 73 created in the department of agriculture a division to be known 74 as the "Division of Dairy Trade Practices". The head of the 75 division shall be the "Chief of the Division of Dairy Trade
76 Practices". All powers of the secretary under this Act may be 77 exercised by and through the chief of the division of dairy trade
78 practices. The secretary shall employ such professional and other 79 personnel as, in his judgment, shall be necessary to the proper
80 performance of his duties hereunder.

81 Sec. 3. It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in busi-
82 ness within the state of Iowa, either directly or indirectly, to 83 discriminate in price between different purchasers of dairy products
84 of like grade and quality where the effect of such discrimination
85 may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a 86 monopoly, or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with any 87 persons who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of 88 such discrimination or with customers of either the grantor or 89 receiver. Nothing herein shall prevent:

90 1. Differentials which make only due allowance for differences
91 in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the 92 differing methods or quantities in which dairy products are sold
93 or delivered to purchasers or differentials otherwise permitted
94 in this Act.

95 2. Persons engaged in selling dairy products from selecting 96 their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint
97 of trade.

98 3. Price changes from time to time in response to changing
99 conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of dairy
100 products such as, but not limited to, actual or imminent deteriora-
101 tion of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress
102 sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance
103 of business in dairy products.

105 low price of a competitor.

106 Sec. 4. It shall be unlawful for any person to discriminate
107 in price by selling or offering to sell any dairy product to any 108 purchaser in the state of Iowa at prices lower than those exacted 109 by such persons elsewhere in the state for the purpose or with 110 the effect of injuring competition or tending to create a monopoly;
111 provided however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent price 112 differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the

113 cost of sale or transportation resulting from differing methods
114 or quantities in which such dairy products are sold or transported
115 to such purchasers; and provided further, that nothing herein
116 contained shall prevent sales made in good faith to meet an 117 equally low price of a competitor. Proof of advertisement, giving,
118 offering for sale, or sale of any dairy products in any city, town,
119 or county at prices less than advertised, given, offered for sale, 120 or sold in any other city, town, or county by such person which 121 cannot be accounted for as necessary to meet competition or 122 which cannot be accounted for by the difference in such cost of 123 sale or transportation cost shall be prima-facie evidence of 124 violation of this section.

126 or retailer to engage in the following practice:

127 1. To enter into any agreement or contract with any other
128 person for the establishment or maintenance of minimum prices
129 of dairy products in restraint of trade and for the purpose of 130 eliminating free and open competition in the sale of dairy prod-
131 ucts. It is the purpose of this paragraph to make applicable
132 to sales of dairy products in this state, legal restrictions
133 similar to those imposed by Section 1 of the Sherman Anti-trust
134 Act (15 U.S.C., Sec. 1), and this paragraph shall be given a
135 construction similar to that from time to time given to that Act.

136 2. To sell or offer to sell within the state any dairy prod-
137 uct for less than the cost to the processor, distributor, or 138 retailer where the effect may be substantially to lessen 139 competition or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with 140 the person buying or the person selling such product; provided
141 that this shall not prevent sales made in good faith to meet
142 competition; and provided further that this shall not prevent 143 retailers from selling or offering to sell ice cream for less 144 than the cost thereof to themselves as defined in subsection ten 145 (10) of section one (1) of this Act.

146 Sec. 6. It shall be unlawful for any processor or distributor
147 to sell or contract to sell dairy products in this state or any 148 part of it at unreasonably low prices for the purpose of destroy-
149 ing competition or eliminating a competitor. It is the purpose
150 of this paragraph to make applicable to the sales of dairy prod-
151 ucts in this state legal restrictions similar to those proposed 152 by Section 3 of the Robinson Patman Act (15 U.S.C. Sec. 13 A) and 153 this paragraph shall be given a construction similar to that from 154 time to time given to that Act.

155 Sec. 7. No processor or distributor shall give or extend 156 discounts or rebates, directly or indirectly, to retailers or 157 other processors or distributors on dairy products or give or 158 extend to such purchasers any services connected with the 159 delivering, handling, or stocking of such products except as 160 provided in this Act. A processor or distributor may provide 161 services to a particular processor, distributor, or retailer or 162 may sell dairy products at a price necessary to meet a bona fide offer
163 by a competitor. The service or discount shall not be given
164 until the processor or distributor first files with the depart-
165 ment a written record of the date and terms of the competitive 166 offer, the name of the processor, distributor, or retailer to 167 whom the offer was made, and the name of the competitor who made

168 the offer. Any such record filed with the department shall be 169 used only for determining or verifying proof of violations of 170 this Act.

171 Sec. 8. Price list to be filed. All distributors offering 172 dairy products for sale within the state shall file with the 173 department on a form provided by said department a complete price
174 list showing the invoice price of such distributor of all items
175 of dairy products sold or offered for sale by them. Distributors
176 who offer dairy products for sale both at their respective places 177 of business and deliver to retailer or retail outlets, shall 178 include on such price lists filed with the department the different 179 prices established for dairy products offered for sale at their 180 respective places of business and for dairy products delivered to 181 the retailer or retail outlet. Distributors who offer dairy prod-
182 ucts for sale to consumers on home delivery routes shall include
183 on such price lists filed with the department, the different prices
184 established for dairy products offered for sale to such customers.
185 Within thirty (30) days after the effective date of this Act, 186 every distributor shall file with the department its initial 187 price schedules and schedules of discounts and rebates and there-188 after, every distributor shall charge its prices in accordance 189 with its schedule on file with the department until such price
190 schedule is changed as hereinafter provided. Before any distrib-
191 utor may make any change in its price schedule and prices charged,
192 it shall give notice by certified mail to the department setting
193 forth its new schedule of prices or new schedule of discounts
194 and rebates ten (10) days prior to the effective date of any 195 change in such schedule on file with the department (except that 196 where prices are changed in good faith to meet an equally low 197 price of a competitor, notice to the department of the new 198 schedule of prices shall be given within two (2) business days 199 after such change). The initial filing of schedules or any new 200 schedules shall be filed with the department either in person or 201 by certified mail. Price lists filed with the department shall 202 be used only for determining and proving violations of this Act.
203 Failure or refusal to file current price lists with the department
204 shall be a violation of this Act.

205 Sec. 9. No processor or distributor shall furnish, give, lend, 206 sell, or rent any advertising signs of a permanent nature except 207 signs advertising the processor's or distributor's own products.
208 Not more than one-third ($\frac{1}{3}$) of the space or cost of advertising 209 signs permitted under this section may be used to identify the 210 retailer.

211 Sec. 10. No processor or distributor shall make payments of 212 money, credit, gifts, or loans to retailers as rental for the 213 storage or display of dairy products on the premises where offered
214 for sale by the retailer.

215 Sec. 11. No processor or distributor shall make or underwrite
216 loans to a retailer or become bound in any manner for the financial 217 obligation of any retailer except that a processor or distributor 218 may lend money to a retailer for the purchase of equipment for 219 the storage, transportation, and display of dairy products. Such 220 loans may be made to the retailer provided the loan is for not 221 more than ninety (90) percent of the purchase price with at least 222 six (6) percent annual interest on the principal amount and on

223 the unconditional written promise of the retailer that the loan
224 shall be paid within a period of not to exceed thirty-six (36)
225 months.

226 Sec. 12. No processor or distributor shall furnish, sell, 227 give, lend, or rent any equipment to a retailer except:

228 1. Processors and distributors, under a bill of sale or 229 conditional sales contract describing the property sold and 230 specifying the price and terms of sale, may sell equipment for 231 the storage, transportation, and display of dairy products to the 232 retailer. The selling price of such equipment shall be not less
233 than the cost to the wholesaler less ten (10) percent per year
234 depreciation plus transportation and installation costs plus at 235 least six (6) percent, but in no event shall the price be less
236 than ten (10) dollars per unit. If the processor or distributor
237 makes the sale under a security agreement or conditional sales
238 contract, the terms of sale shall be no more favorable to the 239 retailer than those provided in section eleven (11) of this Act.

240 2. Processors and distributors may provide without restriction
241 coin-vending machines from which the product vended is intended by 242 such processor or distributor to be consumed on the premises.

243 3. Processors and distributors may furnish equipment for the 244 storage, transportation, or display of dairy products for one 245 period of not longer than ten (10) consecutive days a year to 246 any one retailer for use at a fair, exhibition, exposition, or 247 other promotional event for agricultural, industrial, charitable,
248 educational, religious, or recreational purposes.

249 Sec. 13. No processor or distributor shall maintain or make 250 repairs of any equipment owned by a retailer except equipment
251 used exclusively for dairy products. On such maintenance or 252 repairs, the processor or distributor shall make charges for the 253 service and parts at the same prices as are charged by third persons 254 rendering such service in the community where the retailer is 255 located. In no event shall the charges be less than the cost to 256 the processor or distributor plus a reasonable margin of profit.

257 Sec. 14. No processor or distributor shall give, offer to give, 258 furnish, finance, or otherwise make available any free goods to 259 any person, directly or indirectly, in connection with the sale 260 of dairy products or to any other person doing business with such 261 person, or give, offer to give, furnish, finance, or otherwise
262 make available any payments, gifts, or grants of anything of value
263 to any retailer. Nothing in this section shall prevent transac-
264 tions with retailers of any of the following:

265 1. The furnishing of point of sale advertising material made
266 of paper, cardboard, or other material not of a permanent nature 267 for the use in the promotion of the products of such processor or 268 distributor which remain inside retailer locations.

269 2. The furnishing of hostesses or demonstrators at any re-
270 tailer's location to promote the products of the processor or 271 distributor.

272 3. The advertising by a processor or distributor of products
273 through any advertising media the processor or distributor selects 274 which does not involve allowances, payments, or the furnishing of 275 other property to persons purchasing such products in a manner
276 prohibited by this section.

277 4. Advertising allowance which do no more than reimburse a

278 retailer for costs in advertising dairy products of the processor
279 or distributor.

280 Sec. 15. No processor or distributor shall be prohibited from 281 operating a retail outlet for retail sales or prohibited from 282 using in the retail outlet any equipment or advertising or 283 miscellaneous matter owned by the processor or distributor pro-
284 vided the retail outlet is under direct control and management of 285 the processor or distributor.

286 Sec. 16. No processor or distributor shall be prohibited from 287 giving away dairy products to be consumed on the sale premises.

288 Sec. 17. It shall be unlawful for any retailer to receive,
289 directly or indirectly, from or through a processor, distributor,
290 or broker, any discount, rebate, allowance, service, price
291 discrimination, advertising material, loan, equipment, payment,
292 or any other thing of value all as prohibited by this Act.

293 Sec. 18. It shall be unlawful for a broker or any officer or 294 agent of any brokerage firm to participate, directly or indirectly, 295 in any practice prohibited by this Act. It shall be unlawful for 296 any processor, distributor, or retailer to engage or offer to 297 engage, directly or indirectly, through a broker in any practice
298 prohibited by this Act.

299 Sec. 19. Any person claiming to be injured by another person
300 through the violation of any of the provisions of this Act may file
301 in writing a statement of such violation with the department. Upon 302 receipt of the written statement, the department shall immediately 303 cause an investigation to be made of the alleged violation. When-304 ever it shall appear that any person is violating or threatening to 305 violate any of the provisions of this Act or the regulations or orders
306 of the secretary, then the department may call upon the county
307 attorney of any county in which such violation occurred to bring 308 suit against such person in the district court to restrain such 309 person from continuing or from carrying out the acts or practices
310 alleged. In such suit he may obtain such injunction prohibitory
311 and mandatory including temporary restraining orders and temporary 312 injunctions as the facts may warrant without being required to prove 313 that an adequate remedy at law does not exist and without being 314 required to give bond.

315 Sec. 20. Whenever the department has reason to believe that 316 any distributor or retailer or processor may be in possession of 317 information relevant to an investigation by it of suspected
318 violations of the provisions of this Act, the secretary may require 319 such person to file with him in such form as he may prescribe
320 special reports or answers in writing to specific questions
321 furnishing such information. Such reports and answers shall be 322 made under oath or otherwise as the secretary may prescribe and 323 shall be filed with him within such reasonable period as he may 324 prescribe. Any person who fails without lawful cause to file such 325 reports or answers in writing within the period prescribed or 326 shall wilfully make or cause to be made any false statement in any 327 such report or answer in writing shall be guilty of a misdemeanor
328 and upon conviction thereof fined not less than five hundred (500)
329 dollars nor more than one thousand (1,000) dollars.

330 Sec. 21. Whenever the secretary has reason to believe that any 331 person has violated any of the provisions of this Act or any 332 rules or regulations adopted thereunder, he may enter an order

333 requiring such person to appear before him and show cause why 334 an order should not be entered requiring such person to cease and 335 desist from the violations charged. Such order shall set forth 336 the alleged violations, fix the time and place of the hearing, and 337 provide for notice thereof which shall be given not less than 338 twenty (20) days before the date of such hearing. After hearing
339 by the secretary, or if the person charged with such violation
340 fails to appear at the time of said hearing, if he finds such person
341 to be in violation he shall enter an order requiring such person
342 to cease and desist from the specific acts, practices, or omissions 343 so found to be in violation and from related acts, practices or 344 omissions. Any such order shall become final upon the expiration 345 of thirty (30) days after its entry if no appeal is taken there-346 from.

347 Any person aggrieved by any order entered by the secretary
348 or other action of the secretary may take an appeal therefrom
349 to the district court as provided elsewhere herein for license
350 denial, suspension or revocation.

351 Any person violating any order of the secretary under the 352 first paragraph of this section after the same has become final 353 or on the termination of any review proceedings shall be subject
354 to a civil penalty to be levied by the district court in a
355 proceeding instituted for that purpose in an amount of not less 356 than five hundred (500) dollars and not more than ten thousand
357 (10,000) dollars provided that in the case of continuing violations 358 the minimum amount of such penalty shall be either five hundred 359 (500) dollars or twenty-five (25) dollars for each day of violation, 360 whichever is the larger.

361 Sec. 22. The department is authorized and empowered to 362 administer oaths and to issue subpoenas for persons and pertinent
363 operating records in making investigations provided in section
364 nineteen (19) of this Act. If a person fails or refuses to obey 365 a subpoena issued under this Act, the department may apply to 366 the district court to issue an order requiring the person to appear 367 before the department to produce evidence or to give testimony
368 concerning the matter under investigation. The application for 369 the order shall be filed with the district court within the county
370 in which the investigation is conducted or in which the person
371 guilty of failure or refusal to obey is found or resides or 372 transacts business or has his principal place of business. Any 373 person wilfully failing to obey an order of the court is guilty
374 of contempt of court and shall be proceeded against as provided 375 by law.

376 Sec. 23. Any person who is injured in business or property
377 by reason of another person's violation of any provision of this 378 Act may intervene in the suit for injunction instituted against 379 the other person. The injured party may bring a separate action
380 and recover three (3) times the actual damages sustained as a 381 result of the violation together with the costs of the suit or 382 may sue to enjoin the violation of any provisions of this Act.

383 Sec. 24. Whenever the department has reason to believe that 384 any processor or distributor required to obtain a license under 385 section one hundred ninety-two point one (192.1) of the Code has 386 wilfully violated any cease and desist order issued under the provisions of this Act after the same has become final and continued in such violation after the expiration of a ten-day notice from the department of intention to commence proceedings for the denial, suspension or revocation of such license, and it appears to the department that a proceeding should be had to determine whether his license should be denied, suspended, or revoked, the department shall serve notice on such person in writing by certified mail of the charges and grounds upon which a license is sought to be denied, suspended, or revoked. The notice shall include the time and place, not less than ten (10) days after the mailing of the notice, at which a hearing shall be held to determine whether to deny, suspend, or revoke the license.

Sec. 25. Any person whose license is sought to be denied, suspended, or revoked shall have full rights to counsel and to produce witnesses in his behalf at the hearing. After full investigation and hearing, the department may deny, suspend, or revoke the license of any person who is found to have wilfully violated any provision of this Act. When the department finds that a violation warrants the suspension of the license, no license shall be suspended for a period to exceed thirty (30) days upon proof of a first violation or for a period to exceed six (6) months upon proof of a second violation. Upon proof of a third and subsequent violations, the license shall be suspended for a period of one (1) year where the department finds that such violation warrants a suspension.

Sec. 26. The department shall by certified mail or by personal service notify the person whose license has been denied, suspended, or revoked setting forth the reasons for the decision. The denial, suspension, or revocation shall become effective thirty (30) days after the mailing or service of the notification unless the person whose license has been denied, suspended, or revoked files within the thirty-day period a notice of appeal in the district court and serves a copy of the notice of appeal upon the department. Thereupon, the department shall within thirty (30) days certify and file with the court a copy of the record and decision including the transcript of the hearings upon which the decision was based.

Sec. 27. The trial before the court shall be an equity action and legal evidence pertaining to the issue of whether the license shall be denied, suspended, or revoked may be submitted including new or additional evidence not submitted to the department. The court shall have the power to affirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the department but in no instance shall the court suspend a license for a period exceeding the suspensions provided in section twenty-five (25) of this Act. The clerk of court upon entry of judgment of suspension, denial, or revocation shall immediately forward to the department a certified copy thereof. Pending final decision of the appeal the status quo of the license shall be preserved.

Sec. 28. Any action arising under this Act, whether in law or equity, shall be commenced within two (2) years after the right of action first accrues or is forever barred.

Sec. 29. The department is authorized and directed to promulgate rules and regulations to carry out the purposes of this Act.

441 Sec. 30. Storage cabinets prohibited under section twelve (12)
442 of this Act supplied by processors and distributors to retailers 443 prior to the effective date of this Act shall be removed from the 444 retailer's premises or sold as provided in this Act prior to 445 June 30, 1966.

The bill having received a constitutional majority was declared to have passed the Senate and the title was agreed to.

On motion of Senator Burns, Senate File 50, a bill for an act relating to the reporting by physicians, institutions, and others of certain physical abuse of children, with report of committee recommending amendment and passage, was taken up, considered, and the report of the committee adopted.

The following committee amendment was considered:

Amend Senate File 50, by striking all after the enacting clause and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

Section 1. Policy. It is the policy of this state to provide protection for children who have been physically injured as a result of abuse or willful neglect, and who may be in danger of further injury. This Act shall be administered and interpreted to provide the greatest possible protection as promptly as possible for such children.

Sec. 2. Definitions. Wherever used in this Act, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise:

1. "Health practitioner" includes any physician, surgeon, osteopath, dentist, optometrist, podiatrist, or chiropractor; any resident or intern in any of such professions; and any registered nurse attending or treating a child in the absence of a practitioner of any such professions.

2. "Child" means any person under the age of eighteen (18) years.

3. "County department of social welfare" and "county attorney" have the meaning stated in section six (6) of this Act.

Sec. 3. Report. Every health practitioner who examines, attends, or treats a child and who believes or has reason to believe that the child has had physical injury inflicted on him as a result of abuse or willful neglect shall make a report as provided in the following section. However, if the health practitioner examines, attends, or treats the child as a member of the staff of a hospital or similar institution, he shall immediately notify and give complete information to the person in charge of the institution or his designated representative, who shall make a report as provided in the following section.

Any other person who believes that a child has had physical injury inflicted upon him as a result of abuse or neglect may make a report as provided in the following section.

Sec. 4. Nature and contents of report; to whom made. Each report shall be made both orally and in writing, and both reports shall be made as soon as is reasonably possible.

The oral report shall be made by telephone or otherwise to the county department of social welfare. If the person making the report believes or has reason to believe that immediate protection for the child is advisable, he also shall immediately make an oral report to an appropriate law enforcement agency.

The written report shall be made to the county department of social welfare and the county attorney.

The oral and written reports shall contain the following information, or as much thereof as the person making the report is able to furnish: (1) the names and home addresses of the child and his parents or other persons responsible for his care; (2) the child's present whereabouts if not the same as his home address; (3) the child's age; (4) the nature and extent of the child's injuries, including any evidence of previous injuries; and (5) any other information which the person making the report believes might be helpful in establishing the cause of the injuries and the identity of the person or persons responsible therefor.

A report made by anyone other than a health practitioner, hospital, or similar institution may be oral, written, or both; shall be regarded as a report pursuant to this Act whether or not the report contains all of the information required by this section; and may be made to any county department of social welfare, county attorney, or law enforcement agency. If the report is made to any agency other than the county department of social welfare, such agency shall promptly refer the report to the county department of social welfare.

Sec. 5. Investigation and other action. The county department of social welfare shall make a thorough investigation promptly after receiving either the oral or written report. The primary purpose of the investigation shall be the protection of the child.

The investigation shall include the nature, extent, and cause of the child's injuries; the identity of the person or persons responsible therefor; the names and condition of other children in the home; the child's home environment and relationship with his parents or other persons responsible for his care; and all other pertinent matters.

The investigation shall include a visit to the child's home. If admission to the home cannot be obtained, the juvenile court or district court, upon good cause shown, may authorize the person or persons making the investigation to enter and examine the child's home, using reasonable force if necessary.

The county department of social welfare shall make a complete written report of the investigation to the juvenile court, the county attorney, and the appropriate law enforcement agency.

The written report of the investigation shall be delivered within ninety-six (96) hours after the county department of social welfare receives either the oral or written report of injury, unless the juvenile court or district court grants an extension of time for good cause shown.

The county attorney and any law enforcement or welfare agency in the state shall cooperate and assist in the investigation upon the request of the county department of social welfare. The county attorney and appropriate law enforcement agencies shall also take any other lawful action which may be necessary or advisable for the protection of the child.

The county department of social welfare shall make available all lawful services and take all lawful action which appears advisable to protect the health and welfare of the child and his family.

The county department of social welfare shall promptly begin any proceeding under chapter two hundred thirty-two (232) of the Code which appears to be in the best interests of the child; but if the county department of social welfare fails to do so, the county attorney shall promptly do so.

Sec. 6. Jurisdiction; transfer. "County department of social welfare" or "county attorney" ordinarily refer to the county in which the child's home is located.

However, if the person making the report pursuant to this Act does not know where the child's home is located, or if the child's home is not located in the county where the health practitioner examines, attends, or treats the child, the report may be made to the designated agencies for the county where the person making the report resides or the county where the health practitioner examines, attends, or treats the child. These agencies shall promptly proceed as provided in section five (5) of this Act, unless the matter is transferred to another county as provided in this section.

If it appears that the child's home is located in another county, the county department of social welfare shall promptly transfer the matter to the other county by transmitting a copy of the report of injury and any other pertinent information to the county department of social welfare and the county attorney of the other county. They shall promptly proceed as provided in section five (5) of this Act.

Sec. 7. Immunity from liability. Anyone participating in good faith in the making of a report pursuant to this Act shall have immunity from any liability, civil or criminal, which might otherwise be incurred or imposed. Any such participant shall have the same immunity with respect to participation in good faith in any judicial proceeding resulting from such report or relating to the subject matter of such report.

Sec. 8. Evidence not privileged or excluded. Sections six hundred twenty-two point seven (622.7), six hundred twenty-two point nine (622.9), and six hundred twenty-two point ten (622.10), Code 1962, and any other statute or rule of evidence which excludes or makes privileged the testimony of a husband or wife against the other or the testimony of a health practitioner as to confidential communication, shall not apply to evidence regarding a child's injuries or the cause thereof in any judicial proceeding, civil or criminal, resulting from a report pursuant to this Act of relating to the subject matter of such report.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

I voted "no" on Senate File 173 because of the wording in the first paragraph of section 2. It reads as follows:

"Sec. 2. Every applicant shall have attained the age which if said applicant had remained in school would have graduated at least one (1) year before date of application, and shall have maintained residence in the State of Iowa for at least one (1) year and be a non-high school graduate."

It is grammatically incorrect, ambiguous and can only result in confusion.

ROBERT R. RIGLER.

On motion of Senator Flatt, Senate File 502, a bill for an act providing for automatic retirement at age sixty-five (65) for state employees, was taken up for further consideration.

Senator Beneke offered the following amendment:

Amend section 1 by striking all after the colon in line 2 and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"Any employee attaining the age of 65 years may be retired on account of age by direction of the department, administrator or agency having the authority to hire such employee in the first instance, provided such department, administrator or agency finds that the competency or efficiency of such employee is impaired by reason of his age. No such employee shall be discharged except upon six months notice in writing served upon him by certified mail or delivered to him personally. No employee shall be retired for age under this provision if prior to the effective date of retirement a vacancy or opening occurs in the agency or department by which he is employed which involves duties commensurate with the employee's age and ability which can be efficiently performed by him and the employee requests such employment. In filling any such vacancies or openings employees who have been given notice of retirement as above provided shall be given preference and provided opportunity to accept such employment. Such employment may be compensated at a lesser rate or scale than previously paid the employee if the same or similar duties in the department or agency are compensated at the same rate or scale."

By adding a new section as follows:

"Sec. 2. The provisions of this Act providing for retirement for age shall not apply to elected or appointed officials nor shall such provisions apply during the term for which any person has been appointed or to employment having fixed duration by contract. Neither shall said provisions apply to

By Flatt

Whereas, the State of Iowa is now engaged in a long-range program of Interstate Highway construction, and

Whereas, certain areas of such construction have not been satisfactory, in particular the part of Interstate 80 near the town of Dexter which required repair and replacement several times following a short period of use; more recently, that portion of Interstate 35 in and near Clarke County has deteriorated to such point that it is unsafe to the traveling public; and

Whereas, said Interstate 35 is designed as a transcontinental highway and when completed will carry a greatly increased traffic load and must be constructed to bear this load with a minimum expense of repair; and

Whereas, it has been proposed to increase the tax on motor vehicle fuel to provide additional funds for highway construction, Now Therefore

Be It Resolved by the Senate of the Sixty-first General Assembly; the House Concurring:

That the Highway Commission shall, prior to any further construction on the Interstate system, institute the most advanced engineering principles and practices in the preparation of roadbed,

That the mistakes that caused the rapid deterioration in the above cited instances be avoided in the future,

That only materials be used that have been proven in past construction to give the maximum service with a minimum of maintenance, and

That the public may be assured that the money spent in taxes for road construction is being used to the best advantage by modern methods of highway construction.

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE

The following messages were received from the House:

MR. PRESIDENT: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the House has adopted the following concurrent resolution in which the concurrence of the House was asked:

Senate Concurrent Resolution 21, requesting the Congress of the United States to enact a uniform daylight saving time law.

Also: That the House has adopted the following concurrent resolution in which the concurrence of the Senate is asked:

House Concurrent Resolution 23, deeming it necessary for the Sixty-first General Assembly to support the construction of a dam near Ames, now pending before the United States Board of Rivers and Harbors.

By Gannon and Gillette of Story

Whereas, the construction of drainage ditches, tiling and sewers in the Skunk River area had dumped billions of gallons of extra water into the Skunk River, resulting in increased flooding of the commercial, residential and farm land downstream during some months, and

Whereas, water in the river has been so low during some other months as to cause pollution, damage to fish and wildlife, and such a health hazard that the city of Ames has considered using its drinking water supply to help flush the stream, and

Whereas, recreation provided by a lake in the Ames area would provide Iowa industries, Iowa State University, and research activities with a much better chance to secure professional and technical personnel whose skills are so much in demand that they can choose the place they want to work in accordance with the availability of water recreation, and

Whereas, recent floods have again caused damage to both private property and public roads, and the threat of more flooding is present, and without considering the loss Iowa will sustain if we do not encourage industrial development, and

Whereas, there is now an opportunity to begin to catch up with the rest of the nation in the development of our great water resources if our state agencies cooperate with federal officials, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, that we deem it necessary and proper that this Sixty-first General Assembly support the project providing for the construction of a dam near Ames, now pending before the United States Board of Rivers and Harbors, and urge their favorable consideration of this measure as a valuable aid in the control of flooding along the Skunk River, water quality control, a long-term assurance of a water supply, recreation, and protection for fish and wildlife, and attracting new industry to Iowa.

Be It Further Resolved, that the Iowa Natural Resources Council and all other state agencies and officials should fully cooperate in every way to secure approval of this project as quickly as possible.

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Iowa Natural Resources Council, Iowa Highway Commission, Iowa Conservation Commission, Army Corps of Engineers, the Board of Rivers and Harbors and to all United States Senators and Members of the House of Representatives from Iowa.

HOUSE MESSAGE CONSIDERED

Senator Nims asked and received unanimous consent to take up for consideration House Concurrent Resolution 23.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring: That a special recess be held on Good Friday afternoon, April 16, 1965, during the hours of twelve to three o'clock, out of reverence to the passion and death of our Lord.
