JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

OPENING DAY First Regular Session

SENATE CHAMBER
DES MOINES, IOWA, MONDAY, JANUARY 11, 1971

Pursuant to section 2.2, chapter 2, Code of Iowa, the Sixty-fourth General Assembly convened at 10:00 o'clock a.m., and was called to order by Lieutenant Governor Roger W. Jepsen.

Prayer was offered by the Reverend Ronald J. Lavin, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Davenport, Iowa.

The Senate pledged allegiance to the flag.

TEMPORARY OFFICERS

Senator Lamborn moved that the following be elected temporary officers of the Senate:

Carroll A. Lane, Temporary Secretary
Dorothy Nepstad, Temporary Journal Clerk
Romayne Huffman, Temporary Sergeant-at-Arms

The motion prevailed and the above named temporary officers appeared before the desk of the President and took their respective oaths of office.

PETITIONS

The following petitions were presented and placed on file:

By Senator Potgeter, from nine residents of Grundy County opposing liberalization of the Iowa abortion law.

By Senator Potgeter, from fifty-three residents of Hamilton County opposing legislation to legalize the sale of marijuana.

RESOLUTION

Senator Potgeter presented resolutions from the city councils of Eldora and Stratford which read as follows:

Whereas, the City Council has been and is deeply concerned with the increasing problems of financing the provision of government services in the State of Iowa, and

Whereas, the primary reliance of county, school, city and town governments on property tax revenues has resulted in an undue property tax burden, and

Whereas, in an increasing number of Iowa communities local property taxes are approaching the confiscatory level and are in fact equal to a 52 percent sales tax on housing, and

Whereas, there is a demonstrated need for additional revenue to adequately finance local governments, and

Whereas, we as elected representatives of our community recognize that the solution to city and town government revenue problems cannot be developed without due consideration to county and school financing problems, and

Whereas, a number of alternate solutions to those problems have been considered,

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, that the City Council wholeheartedly supports the following legislative proposal adopted by the League of Iowa Municipalities at its duly convened annual meeting, September 18, 1970:

1. A statewide one cent sales and service tax increase to be collected at the state level and distributed to cities and towns and to the counties on a per capita basis.

2. A state program to support the increased use of the statewide income tax to support local school costs and to relieve the pressures on property taxes.

Be It Further Resolved, that copies of this resolution be forwarded to those seeking to represent our community at the state level and their support of these measures be requested.

COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS

Senator Lamborn moved that a committee of five be appointed as a committee on credentials.

The motion prevailed and the Chair appointed as such committee Senators DeKoster, Griffin, Curran, Van Gilst and Coleman.

The committee retired and, upon returning, presented the following report:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS

The following communication was presented:

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

Administrative Assistant

ADDRESS BY THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Lieutenant Governor Jepsen addressed the Senate as follows:
SENATORS, STAFF AND GUESTS:

I have always tried to keep my remarks short and to-the-point. This is especially important with all the major issues facing us in this coming session. I wish to delay our beginning as little as possible. But I do want to say something about the challenges facing us in this Sixty-fourth General Assembly.

First, my ongoing thanks to those who have helped me in organizing for this session. Their time and energy has been much appreciated, and I hope well spent.

Second, I want to welcome all of you to this session. It is certain to be an interesting one. I hope that it is equally productive, for we will consider some very important questions for the future of our state and our people. I want to caution those of you who think our task is going to be easy. This legislature faces its greatest challenges ever in a time of decision for our state. We face the challenge of developing a reapportionment plan which is simple, fair, and constitutional. We face the challenge of developing an equitable state tax structure. We face the challenge of revitalizing our cities and towns and finding for them new sources of revenue. We face the challenge of upgrading the efficiency of our state government. We face the challenge of reassuring our senior citizens that their life savings and their homes will not suddenly disappear due to confiscatory taxation and inflation. We face the challenge to responsibly enact legislation that will purify and protect the three basic essentials to human life—land, water, and air. We face the challenge of improving the communication and working relationships between the public and private sector. The industrious people of our twin empire state of agriculture and industry can solve any problem they face by working together for a better Iowa. We face the challenge of assuring our people a decent and safe life through incentive and reward for hard work and integrity. We face the challenge of stimulating constructive and informed participation in our society by our young generation.

But I have not mentioned perhaps our greatest challenge of all: We face the challenge from the cynics in this country who say that a democratic system of government cannot deal with the problems of our complex society. Those who would destroy our system of government claim that it cannot meet the challenges of today. I, for one, do not find the idea of representative democracy an archaic concept as do some. I do not find the notion that people be allowed to decide as to their own destinies a silly notion. I accept the challenge of these cynics. I hope you will too. If this legislature—through hard work, cooperation, and bipartisan unity—can produce answers to some of our state's problems, we will have done our part to meet this greatest of all challenges. There can be no better answer to those who claim that American society is crumbling and that its government is outmoded than a positive example of governmental achievements.

I don't have to tell all of you what a great state Iowa is. I don't have to quote to you the statistics which show our national leadership and great achievements in education, agriculture, and business. You all know of the benefits Iowa offers with its natural resources and wholesome life. You are aware of Iowa's greatest resource—our people, with their pioneer temperament, their sound values, and their commitment to progress and growth. This is not to say that we have no problems: Urbanization and advancing technology are producing dislocations never before experienced. Our citizens with a fundamental concept of decency and morality are becoming increasingly aware that Iowa is a great place to live, and a place to grow.

However, there are those critics who focus on our weaknesses, while closing their eyes to our strengths. I would suggest to these few people that I believe we are on the verge of an Iowa renaissance, as nationally people reject complexity and turn again to tradition and fundamental values. We have seen the signs of this already—in what is called by some the "revolt of Middle America." This revolt—if that is the correct word—should benefit Iowa greatly, for our strength is our traditions and basic way of life. And I am hopeful that in this legislative session we will develop programs which will serve as a forerunner of this coming renaissance. If we unite and focus on how we can improve what is already right with Iowa, we will have done our duty and served our constituents. I am proud to be an Iowan, as I am sure all of you are.

There is another matter that I must touch upon. Many times in the past in Iowa when the Governor's office and the legislature were controlled by the same party, a coolness developed between the legislative and executive branch of government. Often this has resulted in open conflict. Such conflict never serves the best interests of the people of this state. From things one hears and reads, it appears the climate is right for this situation to develop again in this session. I will do what I can to see that it does not happen, and I urge all of you to do the same.

If the Senate itself must divide on certain issues, as it will and should, I ask only that the division be in a spirit of constructive disagreement. Personal animosity can only lead to bitterness harmful to the best interests of this state. Partisan attacks on positions can only diminish the effectiveness of this legislative body. And constant carping by a few negative persons will produce no good and should not be tolerated by those others in this Senate. I would remind those, who can only criticize—without contributing—of the words of Theodore Roosevelt:

"It is not the critic who counts; nor the man who points out how the strong man stumbled or where the doers of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions, and spends himself in the worthy cause; who, at the best, knows the triumphs of high achievement; and who, at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat."

It is my hope that this session of the legislature—and especially this legislative body—shall be known as a session and Senate of doers, not critics, and I will do my best to help make it so.

Thank you.

SELECTION OF SEATS

The Chair announced that the next order of business would be the selection of seats.

Senator Walsh moved that the Senators whose seats were eliminated by the rearrangement of seats be granted the privilege of selecting a new seat from the unassigned seats on the basis of seniority; that the remaining holdover and reelected Senators be granted the privilege of retaining the seats occupied by them during the Sixty-third General Assembly, or the privilege of selecting new seats by seniority from the remaining unassigned seats; that any Senator having any defect, such as defective hearing, be allowed to select his seat from the unassigned seats; that former members of the Senate or former members of the House of Representatives be granted the privilege of selecting their seats from the unassigned seats, their names being called according to seniority. Also, that the names of the newly elected Senators be placed in a hat and drawn out by the Secretary of the Senate.

The motion prevailed and the Secretary of the Senate called the names in order of seniority of those Senators whose seats were eliminated by the rearrangement of seats.

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House appeared and notified the Senate that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communication that the Senate might be ready to transmit.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Senator Lamborn placed in nomination the name of Senator Vernon H. Kyhl of Butler County as a candidate for the office of President pro tempore of the Senate of the Sixty-fourth General Assembly.

There being no further nominations, the Chair put the question and Senator Kyhl was unanimously elected.

President Jepsen requested Senators Lamborn, Gaudineer and Stephens to escort Senator Kyhl to the rostrum.

Senator Kyhl appeared, took the oath of office, was congratulated and presented to the Senate by President Jepsen.

In accepting the office, Senator Kyhl made the following remarks:

This morning we gather in a newly rearranged and redecorated chamber with a decreased number of Senators.

To those of us who have served in past sessions, the new surroundings offer a challenge to us to "produce" in our job of solving at least part of the major problems that confront Iowa in the seventies.

It is fitting that we pause for a moment from our organizational chores to reflect on the problems that face us this session.

First, let me thank each and every one of you for the honor of serving you as your President pro tempore for the next two years. I accept the challenge and will meet it with humility. When I am in the President's chair my decisions will be based on the rules as I understand them. You may be sure they will always be as fair as it is humanly possible to make them. In my mind the traditions of the Senate require "controlled and orderly action" in arriving at a majority result. Your cooperation toward that end is earnestly sought. I will welcome your counsel and suggestions and between us we will make this Sixty-fourth Session of the General Assembly a memorable one in accomplishment and in brevity.

We have become accustomed to thinking in terms of priorities as we face the problems of the seventies. In facing our problems there is a tremendous amount of work to do and a relatively short time in which to get it done so I would like to establish our number one priority for this session as w-o-r-k: "Work" with a capital "W". You may expect extra responsibility and extra work as you divide the work of sixty-one Senators into fifty parts.

Our budget of priorities and work will produce honest differences of opinion, but it is my sincere hope that they can be resolved to meet our goal in providing the great State of Iowa with the very best program possible. In doing that we will provide constructive growth, prosperity and development.

I have always felt that our committee system has many merits and yet I hope you will agree with me that better legislation will result if we do a more thorough job in the committee, so that lengthy debate and major revisions are unnecessary on the floor of the Senate. I have always felt that a committee member makes a serious error when he encourages the placing of a bill on the calendar that will need to be "cleaned up on the floor". Good legislation as we know it is the molding of ideas and opinions into law by the "give and take" method of amendment and compromise.

Thank you again for giving me the responsibility and honor of serving you as your presiding officer whenever Governor Jepsen is absent. My job is going to be easier because I know the quality, character and experience of the body. In these new and beautiful surroundings, you will write a new and illustrious chapter in the history of Iowa.

President pro tempore Kyhl took the chair at 11:15 a.m.

THE CONDITION OF THE STATE
by
THE HONORABLE ROBERT D. RAY
GOVERNOR OF IOWA
Delivered before a Joint Session
of the Sixty-Fourth General Assembly
January 12, 1971

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

The Constitution of the State of Iowa directs that the Governor "shall communicate, by message, to the General Assembly, at every regular session, the condition of the state, and recommend such matters as he shall deem expedient". (Article IV, Sec. 12)

I shall discharge this important twofold obligation in three parts. My remarks today will deal largely with the condition of Iowa as we, her people, enter a new year, a new political biennium, and a new decade. In the subsequent Inaugural and Budget Messages, I shall direct our attention to the future—indicating, in the light of experience and current conditions, what (in my judgment) our common goals should be and how we should go about achieving them.

Necessarily and properly, each of the three parts in this series of reports is not designed to be exhaustive but will be brief rather than voluminous, and exploratory rather than dogmatic. They will not evade or shirk the significant, and the decisive role which often the Governor must play in a wide range of decision-making processes. Equally, however, they will take account of the happy fact that—in our relatively free society—there are many other participants in decision-making.

I am well aware that a Governor is exposed by his constitutional obligation to "communicate . . . and recommend." It has not escaped my attention that, in ancient Athens, Socrates went around giving advice to all his neighbors—and they poisoned him.

Let us inventory for a moment, the specifics of the situation. Clearly, the authors of our Iowa Constitution did not contemplate that the Governor would narrowly limit his vision to the mechanics of state government in conducting that survey of "the condition of the state" which they directed him to make. Nor would it be possible to do so, if the state's condition is to be accurately portrayed—because state government, and all levels of government totally, are only one, or a few, of many influences that determine—and measure—the state's condition.

First, a very brief word about the economy. Involved and knowledgeable observers are optimistic about the Iowa economic outlook. While the national financial downturn and work stoppages of the last 18 months have not affected Iowa as severely as most states, we have not escaped their impact. This sliding economy has affected both our Iowans and our government.

The short-range record for Iowa's basic industry—agriculture—has been bleak, and only a fool would try to do a cosmetic snow-job on that intractable fact. Nationally, prices paid to farmers for raw products in December averaged 7 percent less than a year ago, while farm expenses continued to rise—putting farm families in a painful price-cost squeeze.

Iowa has had a much slower population growth than the nation as a whole—the Iowa rate being about one-sixth of the national rate. Hence, our delegation in the lower house of Congress—which numbered 11 representatives as recently as 1930—will now be shrunk from seven to six, confronting this General Assembly with one of its major tasks in devising a fair and reasoned redistricting plan. The primary cause of Iowa's relatively stationary population is the steadily declining need for human labor in agriculture, to which can be added a birthrate decline—both nationally and in Iowa—during the past decade. This is now being reflected in a leveling off, or reduction, statewide, of school enrollments in the lower grades.

Furthermore, the nature of population changes—and, hence, their effect on schools, other public services, and private business—has been very dissimilar across the state. The sharpest population losses, and the sharpest school enrollment declines, have been in predominately rural counties. Thus, one Iowa county has fewer people than it had in 1844, two years before Iowa became a state.

At the other extreme, some Iowa counties and communities grew dramatically in the past 10 years. Most—but not all—of them fall into two groups: relatively industrialized urban areas, and university locations.

I have briefly summarized these economic and demographic facts because they are the hard, basic stuff from which come all kinds of political consequences which ultimately must be dealt with by the people acting collectively as "government". Economic facts influence population facts like birthrates and migration patterns. The population facts, in turn, will require you this session not only to redistrict for congressional purposes but also once more to reappportion the legislature itself.

In a broader way, many of the difficult and controversial problems with which you and I—and the whole body of citizens—must wrestle in the months ahead spring from economic sources and from the restless mobility of modern man. This is especially true of three tall problems which cast so long a shadow over all government; namely, taxation—education—and transportation. With these and other issues I shall deal at length in the two remaining messages of this series. If people were content to freeze in their tracks, so to speak, these issues wouldn't exist. Fortunately, people are not content to be vegetables, and therefore, we do have the issues, and we do have the political process to bring them into some degree of manageability.

As we stand at the crossroads of this ebbing century, we have an opportunity to welcome new voters into full participation in their and our government. I have long favored lowering the voting age and was pleased when the General Assembly took action to grant the right to vote to 19-year-olds. The recent United States Supreme Court decision validating a minimum 18-year-age for voters in presidential and congressional elections has caught Iowa in mid-flight on our proposed constitutional amendment. We must move now as rapidly as possible to make the voting age consistent.

Dick Nolan, the San Francisco Examiner columnist, discovered the beauty and humaneness of Iowa while crossing our state last fall in a small foreign car. What he saw and experienced impressed him so deeply that he wrote for the Examiner a paean to Iowa.

In part, it went this way: "Iowa", he said, "may well have claim to being the most civilized corner of America, in addition to being unquestionably among the most beautiful of our varied landscapes. . . . Sweet land, well-watered and bountiful. . . . Iowa land is land you can love, as plainly it has been loved by succeeding generations of lovers. . . . Iowa is such a smiling state. You have a feeling that here, if anywhere in the United States, Americans are at peace with their environment. . . . In Iowa, in the midst of a spectacular lightning storm"—continued the San Francisco columnist—"my MG developed the only trouble it had on the tour. . . . It was only a matter of minutes before an Iowa businessman . . . pulled off the road to help. He drove me some eight miles to a garage . . ., chatting easily . . . all the way. This was rain-drenched Iowa freeway. Would I have been rescued as cheerfully on a California freeway? In bright sunshine?"—asked newspaperman Nolan, who then answered his own question, saying: "I rather doubt it. California is a different country."

There is a sequel to that column. Shortly after it was published, I went with an Iowa trade delegation to California, and that mission prompted Dick Nolan to write another column on our state, in which he warned against importing to our prairies the over-growth and over-industrialization which he saw around him on the Pacific Coast. In order to allay the fears of this loyal new friend, I sent him a letter of reassurance, in which I said that our trade missions attest a will for economic growth, but not at the expense of our environment. "Iowa"—I declared—"proposes to grow, and grow wisely, but not by bringing to Iowa those belching smoke stacks and loathesome liquid wastes which would destroy the beauty that our fathers and grandfathers have been building generation by generation, each adding to the accomplishment of the other." Iowa is interested only in the kinds of industry that will help to preserve—not destroy—our . . . quality of life."

I concluded my remarks to the San Francisco columnist with these words: "We propose to do all this without retreat to your suggestion of 'having Iowa declared a national park and monument.' . . . We propose to fashion . . . a living, vibrant, productive society. . . ."

As Americans cry out in protest against the continued ecological ravaging of their continent, they place an increasingly high premium on the qualities of life and living which have been nurtured here in Iowa. Especially encouraging is the renewed appreciation of these qualities by our own Iowa youth, and the apparent increase in the number of them who want to remain or return here. In the words of a 25-year-old girl now living in an apartment on Manhattan Island, "I never realized how good life in Iowa was until I left."

No one more appreciates the value of what this young lady was telling the world than our Iowa Development Commission. It seeks new jobs and new opportunities for our Iowans, and particularly the young ones who are in constant demand around this country because of their education, abilities and willingness to work. This Commission, along with local developers, is answering the challenge by attracting non-polluting, community-minded industries which provide employment for Iowans. Recognizing the importance of our basic industry—agriculture—we established a separate agriculture promotion division within the Development Commission to help our farm economy. All this progress has been possible because of the highly motivated and aggressive Commission members and staff, and because the legislature complied with my every request for the rejuvenation and revitalization of this arm of government. Through these efforts the painful blow of taxes can be softened.

We look to Congress to support a change in the antiquated welfare program which would break the generation-after-generation chain that is not acceptable to either the taxpayers or the recipients. We look hopefully to Congress to follow the President's lead in this area and for the federal government to accept financial responsibility in this field. In order to avoid the bankruptcy of cities and states, as the President so aptly put it a few nights ago, federal revenue sharing is a must.

President Nixon is the first President who has agreed that a share of our tax money paid to Washington should be returned without restriction to cities, towns and states. The President has taken the lead. Now it remains for Congress to act. In the meantime, we will not idly wait, using the inaction as an excuse for not facing realistically and squarely the problem of burdensome property taxes. This I will discuss in detail in my Budget Message.

One of the most gratifying experiences of my first administration has been the contribution of private citizens who have volunteered their services, their talents—and money too—to make government more meaningful, efficient and effective. The Governor's Economy Committee, that I promised Iowans two years ago, has produced recommendations that will save $23 million annually. The people are demanding that government at all levels become more efficient. And I agree with them.

The successful pursuit of quality life depends upon the development and cultivation of the mind. Recognizing this fact, and because learning is a never-ending process we have emphasized the importance of education in Iowa. As examples, we have:

First: Instituted a tuition grant program for students attending Iowa's private colleges.

Second: Expanded aid to the area community colleges.

Third: Inaugurated a long-term bonding plan for the three state universities.

Fourth: Provided more financial support than ever before to education at all levels, and Fifth: Scored a breakthrough for those who attend our non-public schools.

The abuse of drugs has brought to Iowa the cruel realities of death, crippled and warped lives, increased crime and heart-rending personal grief. To combat this drug menace, we organized during 1970 a three-part program of drug education, law enforcement, treatment and rehabilitation. We have combined the energies and activities of local community volunteers with the coordination and financial assistance of the various state authorities responsible for the different areas. This drug program has been successfully launched primarily because our approach, which is at the heart of my philosophy of the role of all government, concentrates on utilizing people, their enthusiasm and commitment, coupled with a measure of state-wide direction and tax dollars.

We have made a solid beginning in attacking this threat. Continuation and improvement of our efforts are imperative, and I call on all of you to join with me in erasing this threat to the quality of life in our state.

As we stand at the crossroads we can see ribbons of new highway stretching out in nearly every direction. Last year Iowa let more contracts for road construction and purchased more right-of-way than ever before in our history. But improved roads alone will not prevent the tragic and senseless killings on our highways that took an upswing in 1970 from our encouraging previous year's lower totals. To grapple with this lifesaving problem, our aim will be on the chief cause of accidents—the person who sits behind the wheel.

We can also see the concentrated effort to preserve the incomparable beauty of our rivers and streams in Iowa and we take exceptional pride in the discovery of the Cold Water Cave in the northeastern part of our state. Rathbun Reservoir filled earlier than scheduled and became Iowa's largest lake, more than doubling the recreational potential already opened up by the Red Rock Lake.

If you will look from the crossroads along the path that we have traveled in the past two years, you will see many milestones of substantial progress. For youth you will see the Governor's Summer Youth Opportunity Program where young people were encouraged and then given the opportunity to use their available time working and earning and feeling the satisfaction of accomplishment. For needy parents you will see the WIN—Work Incentive Program that has successfully trained and found employment for welfare recipients who could and have moved from the welfare rolls to worthwhile jobs. You will see milestones of progress for our cities and towns where we provided over $7 million for sewage facility projects, a substantial increase in the road fund allocation, and the first direct revenue sharing between the state and our cities and towns.

You will see also along the pathway of the past two years, still growing recognition of imaginative programs in other areas. Government has been able to compassionately blend expertise, ideas, financing and understanding for our less fortunate—the blind, the handicapped, the disabled, if you please—citizens so that they, too, can take advantage of opportunities for a meaningful life. In addition, you will see a new alcoholism treatment program that originated during this term.

You can further see genuine concern and determined effort to preserve the Iowa environment. Air pollution standards have been adopted, and our lingering controversy with the federal government over water quality standards pertaining to the Mississippi River has been settled. We look forward to increased effectiveness among our many agencies and commissions of government charged with conserving and improving our environment.

We established the Crime Commission and in my Inaugural Message two years ago I said that we intended to score breakthroughs in the following seven areas:

First: Apprehension of suspects, partly through consolidation of police radio facilities;

Second: Computerization of identification;

Third: Up-grading of police investigative procedures;

Fourth: Action to speed criminal justice;

Fifth: Pre-sentence investigations under judicial supervision;

Sixth: Cooperation and coordination among the state highway patrol, county sheriff's officers and local police;

Finally: The addition of State Crime Laboratory facilities.

Not only has this commitment been fulfilled, many other advancements have been made in our struggle against crime.

And you will see the establishment of a Citizen's Aide, commonly known as the Ombudsman, giving government new credibility by providing citizens of this state with a place to go when they need direction, a knowledge of what is available to help them, or when they are aggrieved or believe they have been aggrieved.

During this term our working men and women have gained needed increases in Iowa's Workmen's Compensation benefits. At last, some important safety regulations have been adopted and are being enforced and safety education has been expanded.

We picked up the nearly $2½ million Medicaid deficit that existed at the beginning of my administration and went on to support the elderly who had been removed from that program and who then had to turn to old-age-assistance. Furthermore, we increased the benefits to the elderly, with particular emphasis on those who could not meet the costs of staying in nursing homes.

The path that has been traveled during these past two years has found a rekindling of the spirit that historically has brought people and government together for accomplishment far beyond any success that could be contemplated by one without the other. I think of the Rubella project where we were able to utilize state funds and ingenuity through the leadership in our State Health Department—to start a program of voluntary participation of civic organizations, schools, health facilities, medical associations, individuals and many others to immunize youngsters all over this state to prevent a German Measles epidemic. Millions of dollars were saved, but far more important, was the prevention of human misery and birth defects which threatened an uncountable number of Iowa children.

Volunteerism is a precious part of the American heritage, and the readiness to help one another has been a mark of our society from pioneer times. Furthermore, it is through volunteers that today's great needs can best be met. These are the qualities which our democracy requires—coming to focus in the spirit that John Adams called "public happiness", the delight of taking part in public discussion and public action, the joy of citizenship and self-government, the zeal which—Adams said—won the Revolution even before it was fought.

I have discussed with you a number of achievements that we have made as we have moved to the crossroads where we stand today. Let there be no misunderstanding. Much remains to be done. I will be discussing with you on Thursday of this week and—perhaps most important—in the Budget Message that follows, many of the matters that call for our attention during this session.

My office and I stand ready to, and will, assist you harmoniously and cooperatively, in your arduous tasks of drafting, deliberating and passing legislation needed and beneficial to our state.

It is my hope that in the spirit to which I have referred—the spirit that John Adams called "public happiness"—we Iowans can move toward the solution of our problems in the 1970's and throughout the rest of this century. Part of that spirit is the politics of personal responsibility, the politics of the application of knowledge and reason. It is politics with a new constituency—not one of special interests and separate groups, but a constituency of conscience, common concern, and common commitment. It is the politics which says that we are measured by the height of our dreams and the depth of our resolve. It is to this kind of politics and this kind of spirit that I summon you and all Iowans as we advance from the crossroads into the finer future that we are determined to achieve.

Governor Ray was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

INAUGURAL MESSAGE
by
THE HONORABLE ROBERT D. RAY
GOVERNOR OF IOWA
Veterans Memorial Auditorium
Des Moines, Iowa
January 14, 1971

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MR. CHIEF JUSTICE, SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES, STATE OFFICIALS, DISTINGUISHED GUESTS, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Since I stood before you for nearly two hours two years ago, at least two new issues have developed: pollution of the environment and the threat to cancel this Inauguration.

Believe me, this did give me pause for thought as I prepared this message. In two years a Governor is wiser and far more experienced—experienced enough to know that much of a long Inaugural address falls on deaf ears and sleepy eyes.

But two years ago not only were many of you new, so was I, and I felt it essential to outline both my philosophy and my program—in a comprehensive detailed way.

I do not intend to repeat much of my philosophy today—it has not changed; nor do I plan to detail an entire program, but I do reserve the right to discuss with you other recommendations and suggestions as the legislative session unfolds.

Instead, I shall set forth in broad, bold strokes the opportunities of the next two years, which you and I shall share together as elected leaders of our Commonwealth.

As co-workers in the field of public policy, you Legislators and I, elected by our peers, are charged with the responsibility to see that the statutes you design, and those which I sign, make our state one of ordered law, rather than arbitrary caprice.

Behind—and all around—both you and me stands the whole body of our fellow-citizens, who share with us the prerogatives of governing and to whom you and I, as their servants, are persistently accountable.

We do stand at a crossroads of history—not only as Iowans, but also as Americans. It is an uncomfortable position because it requires us to make difficult, even hazardous decisions.

But it is only out of difficulty and hazard that greatness is born, and events have conspired to give us—if we will but seize it—an opportunity for greatness such as no other generation has ever had.

Iowa today is uniquely endowed by nature and by history to create—here in the heartland—a vibrant, compassionate, fulfilling society, which will epitomize everything constructive in the sharp winds of change that are now blowing across America.

Iowa is enormously rich in those very assets to which all Americans—and, indeed, all human beings—are now beginning to attach prime value: uncluttered landscape, abundant living space, relatively clean air and water, widespread good neighborliness, and a serene, unhurried rhythm of life.

You, as Legislators, and I, as Governor, bear the heavy responsibility and enjoy the thrilling challenge of leadership in making wise, good choices, as we stand for this brief moment of time at these crucial crossroads.

And the space of time we are given to make these historic choices is urgently brief because these unprecedented winds of change blow fast as well as sharp.

We must not, you and I, through any action or inaction of ours, choose the low path where the vast chorus of hope dies gradually away to a whisper of negative despair.

And as we build, we must keep constantly before us the realization that government is not an end in itself, but rather a means—a tool—for the shaping of desirable human ends.

The question is not: “How well is government doing?”

The question is “How well are the people doing?”

This is the question raised by the present over-riding concern about the condition of our environment—a concern that includes, but does not stop with, the natural environment, because it embraces also the condition of our human environment. The people—including that tool of the people which we call government—are vitally concerned with both aspects of environment, because upon them depend not only the people's welfare, but also the people's survival.

Hence, my discussion today of Iowa's public needs will be in terms of our natural and human environment. For example, the whole tragic problem of drug abuse is really one of human environmental pollution. I congratulate the General Assembly for coming to grips with this spectre early in the session. The Uniform Act which you are considering to help curb drug abuse hits hardest where it should—at the supplier and profiteer. This legislation will augment and undergird the many-sided attack which my office has made on the same front during this past year. This is an example of how the Legislative and Executive branches can support and strengthen each other.

Other examples come quickly to mind of the role that government must play in protecting and improving Iowa's natural and human environment. Two years ago, from this same rostrum, I called attention to the need for county zoning to protect people's property and assure that growth is orderly. Since action locally has been slow in coming, I ask the Legislature to provide a time certain for action.

It is important that this General Assembly combine into a single Environmental Quality Control Agency the commissions and boards presently charged with establishing and enforcing rules, regulations and standards for the prevention of pollution.

One of Iowa's prime assets is also one of the greatest pollutants—her productive soil that washes into our streams and rivers. To control siltation and to stop continuing waste and spoilage, it is important that this General Assembly adopt a reasonable soil conservancy law.

We can improve the human ecology of Iowa government.

Iowans, including their Governor, are serious about wanting government to operate economically. I view our citizens as stockholders in this business of government, the Legislature as the board of directors, and the Governor as manager. As would be true in the business world, in your capacity as a policy-making body, you have an opportunity to implement economy measures by resolving through legislative action changes recommended by the Governor's Economy Committee.

As one charged with conducting the affairs of this business, I ask that you adopt the Economy Committee bills that will improve the operation of our state and save millions of dollars.

Not only can money be saved, but government can be more effective. An example where legislative action is needed is the replacement of the present Liquor Control Commission with a full-time director and responsible advisory board.

It has been my practice to face the issues, controversial or otherwise, head-on. With that in mind, it is axiomatic that the most important element of human ecology is human life itself. And the issue of human life is interwoven with the emotional issue of abortion, which currently divides equally sincere Americans—not only in Iowa, but all over the land.

Our state law now allows abortion under certain circumstances. Simply and honestly stated, I am convinced this is a matter which should be decided between doctor and patient, with reasonable restraints.

In terms of our human environment, the present Attorney-General of Iowa deserves our thanks for his efforts, and those of his office, in protecting consumers against fraudulent practices by unscrupulous purveyors of goods and services, who are—let it be added—only a tiny, but unpardonable, minority of the whole business community.

Decent human environment requires the maintenance of order under law and efficient, even-handed administration of justice for all of our people.

You and I both want to stop crime, and to do so, justice must be speedy and fair. You have a chance to contribute substantially to the cause of law and order in Iowa by the adoption of a unified trial court system that I have considered of great importance—a system that would modernize our century-old antiquated court structure.

During this past year, attention has been drawn to some of the deficiencies in our criminal laws. While our Criminal Code is presently undergoing committee revision, we should not wait to strengthen these laws where changes would truly be helpful in our battle against crime, such as controls on dynamite and other explosives, allowing immunity for witnesses from self-incrimination in necessary cases, and providing a trespass law that will protect property rights and not imperil human safety.

For a better human environment, some reduction can surely be made in the multitude of units of government which exist in this state. County offices can now be combined; a similar law should be enacted for county mergers if the local citizens agree. People on all levels should be analyzing the functions of their taxing districts, looking for ways to combine efforts and cooperate with other units. As an example, I would ask that you provide for the establishment of area correctional facilities to do what our outmoded jails in many locations can never do.

Of tremendous significance, and of great personal satisfaction to me, are the avenues now opening to bring young people into the mainstream of our nation's political life.

I want the Legislature to proceed as rapidly as possible with the successful 19-year-old voting amendment, and to carry it to its conclusion. But simultaneously, in order that Iowa remains consistent with national policy, I urge the passage this session of an 18-year-old amendment. This is simply the most logical course of action, and we should get on with it.

Human ecology also includes, very emphatically, the processes of education by which each of us acquires the knowledge free people need for the discharge of their responsibilities to themselves, their families, their communities, and society. In this connection, I am especially proud of our newly-established Iowa Tuition Grant Program.

It is a government program that is working. It has breathed new life into our private colleges, and has provided new educational opportunities for 3,500 needy Iowa students. I not only want it continued, I want it expanded.

While this program and the increase in the enrollment at our Area Community Colleges have relieved some pressure on our Regents' universities, we cannot slight the indispensable contributions provided by all of these schools. Much of the action you will be called upon to take regarding these and our elementary and secondary schools will be forthcoming in my Budget Message.

This General Assembly should help Iowa educators in their efforts for greater accountability. This can be done through the establishment of a Professional Practices Board and the funding of a Professional Practices Commission.

Once again, I also ask the Legislature to recognize Iowa's lack of a structure for collective bargaining. The Legislature cannot afford to ignore the necessity for this action.

In the realm of ecology—both natural and human—a great opportunity for Iowa is fast approaching. I refer to the Bicentennial of American Independence. All fifty states have been urged by the President to commemorate this event in 1976 with suitable observances.

We now have a Bicentennial Commission exploring the best means of our celebrating this 200th year of Independence. We want to demonstrate our incomparably productive capacity to feed the world through freedom. Why not a World's Food Exposition in Iowa. I urge you and all Iowans to "brainstorm" with me probing the potential of such an event.

A special thanks goes to you lawmakers for the support you have given me in a number of programs since I became your Governor. I am counting on this support again, not only for the specific proposals outlined in this message, but for other areas of need, including cities and towns; community improvement; the Governor's Youth Opportunity Program; economic development, including our number one industry, agriculture; health care; rural development; labor; our elderly, disabled, blind, and disadvantaged; students attending non-public schools, and consumer protection.

A healthy physical and human environment also depends upon a sound and viable transportation system in all of its many forms.

Transportation, perhaps best of all, illustrates the speed with which those cutting winds of change have swept our nation.

All of these transportation forms are in a state of acute transition. We look for innovations such as the recent rail-pax plan to affect rail passenger service in our state. To reap the full benefit of emerging transportation changes, I ask the General Assembly to phase in a unified Department of Transportation.

"Living" is the target word when I discuss with you highway safety. Not for a moment would we tolerate the wanton careless extinction within a single year of all human life in an Iowa town the size of Farmington. Yet last year more than that number—908—were slaughtered on our streets and roads.

Something can be done. Examples of legislative changes that I believe necessary are: strengthening our drunk driving laws; providing for a motor vehicle homicide law in cases of intoxication; providing for immediate suspension of drivers licenses when called for; and allowing the State Highway Patrol to police freeways and interstate highways within city limits. Further, I will expect the State Highway Commission, the State Highway Patrol and County Boards of Supervisors to work closely in revising speed limits along critical high accident density roads when required.

None of these improvements in our natural and human environment I have spoken of today can be brought about if we tax and spend ourselves into individual and collective bankruptcy.

Therefore, the key to sound ecological progress is the impelling necessity to bring into balance the cost of public services within our citizens' ability to pay. The ways and means of doing this will be the theme of my forthcoming Budget Message.

Individuals, families, business and government have some wrenching changes to make in the years that lie beyond these crossroads. Priorities have to be set. We have been doing this in state government during these past two years—we will set them during the next two also. And, in the midst of all other problems, we somehow must rescue the "individual" from the anonymity which bigness threatens to force upon him. We must—bring each human being—the young, the old, the black, the white, the poor, the handicapped, no less than the rest of us—closer to the economic and political management of Iowa and the nation.

Much more could be said. But I have tried to give you a glimpse, at least, of the economic, social and political terrain over which we Iowans must move as we advance from our present crossroads position into the future that can be ours.

As the test of what we shall keep, and what we shall discard, along the way, I like that question proposed by George Wald, the Harvard biologist and Nobel Prize Laureate, who asks simply: "Is it good for children?"

And I like, too, the goal set in these words of President Nixon: "If we can get this country thinking . . . how to win the peace, if we can get this country thinking of clean air and clean water . . . welfare reform . . . revenue sharing . . . then we can have the lift of a driving dream."

Our future is limitless if we but reach beyond government to people; if we but enlist the legions of the concerned and committed, and if we but do together that which must be done.

The benediction was offered by the Honorable Leslie Leonard, Riverside United Presbyterian Church, Linn Grove, Iowa.

The colors were retired and President Jepsen handed the gavel to President pro tempore Kyhl.

President Kyhl handed the gavel to Speaker Harbor.

Governor Robert D. Ray and Lieutenant Governor Roger W. Jepsen were escorted from the rostrum by the committee previously appointed.

Senator Lamborn of Jackson moved that the reading of the minutes of the joint convention be dispensed with.

Motion prevailed.

Varley of Adair moved that the joint convention be now dissolved.

Motion prevailed.

In accordance with House Concurrent Resolution 4, adopted January 14, 1971, Lamborn of Jackson moved that the Senate adjourn until 10:00 a.m., Monday, January 18, 1971.

REPORT OF THE BUDGET AND FINANCIAL CONTROL COMMITTEE

The following report was received and placed on file with the Secretary of the Senate:

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE, THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, AND THE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FOURTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

Pursuant to and in accordance with Section 2.43 of the Code of Iowa, the Budget and Financial Control Committee herewith submits the following report to the Sixty-fourth General Assembly:

The Budget and Financial Control Committee of the Sixty-third General Assembly was composed of the following members: Senator Balloun, Senator Coleman, Senator Flatt, Senator Gaudineer, Senator Messerly, Representative Cunningham, Representative Den Herder, Representative Dunton, Representative Ossian and Representative Radl. Senator Anderson was appointed to replace Senator Flatt upon his resignation from the Senate. The organizational meeting was held on June 18, 1969, and the following officers were elected: Representative Den Herder, Chairman, Senator Messerly, Vice Chairman, and Representative Dunton, Secretary.

The committee made annual visits to all institutions governed by the Department of Social Services, the three universities governed by the Board of Regents as well as the School for the Deaf and the Iowa Braille and Sight-Saving School and the State Highway Commission. During the interim the committee also visited the following area schools: The Merged Area VI Community College at Marshalltown, The Area XI Community College at Ankeny, the Council Bluffs and Clarinda campuses of the Area III Community College, Area X at Cedar Rapids, Area V at Fort Dodge and Area VII at Waterloo. Meetings were also held with the Merit Employment Commission, the Commission for the Blind, the Department of Public Instruction and the Board of Parole. Many parks under the jurisdiction of the Conservation Commission were visited and capital improvements viewed. Also, the committee recently visited Hope Haven, which is a private school for the handicapped at Rock Valley, Iowa and River Hills, a school for the handicapped at Waterloo which is funded jointly by the Black Hawk County Board of Education and the Black Hawk County Board of Supervisors.

The committee herewith apprises the members of the Sixty-fourth General Assembly of observations and recommendations resulting from these visits.

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL SERVICES

The committee raised questions and was critical of many areas during their visits to the state institutions. A detailed list of questions and criticisms was sent to Commissioner Gillman and he was given an opportunity to respond at a meeting on November 13, 1970. A copy of this response is on file in the Office of the Legislative Fiscal Director. However, the committee feels compelled to comment on the following areas:

LONG-RANGE PLANNING

The General Assembly should take an in-depth look at the long-range planning for capital improvements and the methods of rehabilitation and vocational instruction at the institutions under the Department of Social Services. Because this committee has observed apparent philosophical differences in certain areas in the department, specifically in its system of correctional administration, this committee recommends that the Department of Social Services be required to submit a long-range plan (five-year minimum) outlining their program for capital improvements and rehabilitation.

At the Boy's Training School in Eldora a 14-bed hospital, which was opened in July of 1969, was built at a cost of $350,000. This hospital facility is located within three blocks of an existing hospital. The committee questions whether this building should be maintained as a hospital unit employing a staff of nurses and an orderly.

At the present time the security unit at the Training School is being expanded at a cost of $180,000. This expansion will consist of sixteen cells.

The committee also questions the feasibility of maintaining a hospital facility at the Juvenile Home at Toledo where the population averages 100 children. The estimated payroll to staff the hospital facility is $28,000 annually.

During the committee's visit to the Iowa Soldier's Home in Marshalltown, it was pointed out that by 1982 there will be 178,000 veterans in the State of Iowa over 65 years of age. This compares to a present population of 31,000. While it is not the intent of the institution to build a very large complex, the committee recommends that a long-range plan for capital improvements at the Soldier's Home be presented to the legislature.

A long-range plan should be submitted to the legislature concerning regional jail facilities. This plan should include the number of such facilities anticipated, cost involved, by whom costs will be paid and what services can be expected from regional jail facilities.

FARM OPERATION AT STATE INSTITUTIONS

On June 25, 1970, the Budget and Financial Control Committee made the following recommendation to the Department of Social Services:

The Budget and Financial Control Committee recommends that the Department of Social Services transfer the operation and administration of all farm land, farm machinery, production of farm products, dairy herds and other livestock from the individual institutions to a centralized agency under such department to the end that the products therefrom be used by such institutions in order to reduce the institutional cost of operation and that institutionalized persons, on a trustee basis, be utilized in such operations as a rehabilitative tool to the extent feasible; the budget for such centralized agency shall be presented by the department to the Governor to the end that it will be included in the department's appropriation by the legislature as a line item.

To complement the above recommendation, the committee also unanimously adopted the following statement:

The committee recognizes that this will require some implementation, a great deal of study on the part of the Department of Social Services and also that it might require some legislation. The committee is prepared to talk to the department about these and other problems to implement this recommendation and will put in hand any legislation that is needed.

In our meeting with Commissioner Gillman on November 13, 1970, the Commissioner made the following statement:

"... in recognition of the need to improve the utilization of our farm lands, we felt that there are three good options open to us. The first option would be to hire a full-time farming consultant who would have considerable expertise in farm management. Such an individual would function from Central Office, but spend most of his time at the various institutions, advising institutional administration on ways to better their programs. He could also be effective in coordinating the utilization of useable machinery and arrange for the disposal of obsolete equipment. He would be particularly effective in long-range planning for the department's farm operations."

The Budget and Financial Control Committee unanimously supports this option, with the inclusion of the following:

The present system of individual farm managers would be abolished and the one farm manager operating within the bureau, would be hired to manage the operation of the institutional farms. This farm manager would work in cooperation with the head administrative officer at each of the institutions. The foreman at each farm would be directly responsible for carrying out orders and instructions as directed by the farm manager.

FAMILY AND CHILDREN'S SERVICES

During a meeting at the Boy's Training School at Eldora, May 4, 1970, members of the Budget and Financial Control Committee were told by the superintendent that a serious problem is coordination between the institution and the Office of Field Services. The topic of field services was also discussed at a meeting with the superintendent of the Juvenile Home at Toledo. He said that in many instances they do not get the results they want from field services.

This criticism was related to Commissioner Gillman and on November 13 he responded by stating that the role of the area social worker, the institutional worker and the county worker is now more clearly defined and reports which he has received to date indicate that a cooperative spirit exists and relationship between the institution and the bureau and field operations is improving.

The committee encourages extended cooperation between the Department of Social Services and local agencies in dealing with dependent, neglected and delinquent children. Considerable time was spent learning about a successful program now being carried on in Black Hawk County which substantially reduced the number of children being admitted to the Training Schools. (Detailed information on the Black Hawk County program is on file in the Office of the Legislative Fiscal Director.)

BOARD OF PAROLE

A joint meeting of the Board of Parole, Department of Social Services and the Budget and Financial Control Committee was held in May, 1970. Implications were that the problems existing between the two departments stemmed from a lack of communications. The two departments, since that time have had many meetings and are jointly proposing the following legislation to the General Assembly:

"Section 369, Chapter 209, Acts of the Sixty-second General Assembly, is hereby amended by striking the entire section and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"The Board of Parole shall appoint an executive secretary and employ a staff sufficient to carry on the necessary duties of the board. The chief parole officer shall be appointed by the director of the bureau of adult corrections, which chief parole officer shall cooperate with the board of parole through its executive secretary in the supervision of parolees and probationers. The legislature shall appropriate sufficient funds directly to the board of parole as may be necessary to carry on its duties."

This change would have no effect on the provision of institutional and parole services, as this responsibility would continue to be carried out by the bureau of adult corrections. The commissioner and the members of the Board of Parole mutually support this change, and believe that it will be helpful in establishing a harmonious and structurally sound system to assist the board in its administrative functions. The committee voted to support this legislation.

GENERAL COMMENTS

The committee recognizes the enormous problems faced by the Department of Social Services and commends the organization for its imaginative approach to these problems and recommends that they be constantly reviewed with a view to bringing more services to more people at no appreciable increase in costs.

The committee has noted vast improvements in return visits to the institutions in areas that had been criticized on previous visits.

Individual members of the committee have expressed concern over the ratio of employees to recipients at many of the institutions, and also the duplication of services and duplication of personnel. The Commissioner is urged to seriously study the programs at the institutions with a view to consolidating duplicate services and duplicate personnel as they are spread through the various institutions.

HIGHER EDUCATION

STATE EDUCATION BUDGET REVISION PROJECT

Because of the increasing complexity of budget competition among higher education programs in Iowa and following the increase in tuitions at the Regents schools after adjournment of the first session of the Sixty-third General Assembly, the Budget and Financial Control Committee deemed it necessary to conduct a study of budget procedures in the State of Iowa. Chairman Den Herder appointed a subcommittee consisting of Senator Flatt, Senator Messerly, Senator Gaudineer, Representative Radl and Representative Ossian to implement this study. Mr. Alfred Baxter, President of Baxter, McDonald and Company was retained as an advisor to prepare a design for studies and staffing of post-secondary education.

To coordinate and give impetus to the program, Governor Ray established the State Education Budget Revision Project in November of 1969 and appointed a Project Policy Committee. Members of this committee were Leroy Petersen, Director of the Office for Planning and Programming, Clayton Ringgenberg, Assistant to the Governor, Representative Den Herder, Chairman of the Budget and Financial Control Committee and State Comptroller, Marvin R. Selden, who served as Chairman. Staff and funding were allocated by the Office for Planning and Programming and the State Comptroller.

Representatives from the regents institutions, area schools, Iowa Association of Private Colleges and Universities, Department of Public Instruction, Comptroller's Office, Legislative Fiscal Director's Office and the Office for Planning and Programming served on seven technical teams who met weekly through January of 1970 and prepared recommendations for the Project Policy Committee.

The new procedures are designed to provide clear communications, an awareness of how a program in one institution affects programs of others, information on all revenues and expenditures, explicit consideration of long-range plans, and an orientation toward maximizing results per dollar.

In implementing Phase I of this project, consideration was given to decision-making needs and the capabilities of participating agencies and institutions. To the extent possible, this new procedure is being implemented in the current budget askings. Full implementation will require gradual development and modification over several budget cycles.

Policy issues to which the Project Policy Committee have not addressed themselves at this time include:

- How much control over appropriations?

- Organization and Governance

- Annual vs. Biennial Budgeting.

The benefits to be realized from the proposed new system are many and substantial. The ultimate test of a new budget system is whether it can help the Governor and General Assembly in making budget decisions with greater certainty and efficiency. The Policy Committee of the State Education Budget Revision Project believes the procedures being recommended provide substantial progress in this direction. The present Policy Committee should be given a continuing responsibility to guide implementation of the new system and to help evaluate it during and following its use in the coming biennium.

AREA SCHOOLS

As an added responsibility this year, the Budget and Financial Control Committee visited a number of area schools and is impressed generally with their operations. However, this committee feels it necessary to point out to the legislature that there are many varied situations in our area schools and consequently, there are numerous financial problems developing. This committee recommends that the legislature study this situation and take appropriate action to provide proper funding as set out in the Code.

Also, the Budget and Financial Control Committee emphasizes to the Department of Public Instruction that added stress be placed on building trade courses in the area school programs in cooperation with union apprenticeship programs.

While visiting area schools the Budget and Financial Control Committee was surprised and concerned to note that the licensing of Licensed Practical Nurses under the direction of the Board of Nursing in Iowa is being limited and we suggest to the legislature that in light of ample facilities, eager applicants and the great need for nurses, corrective action be taken.

BOARD OF REGENTS

The Budget and Financial Control Committee recommends to the Sixty-fourth General Assembly that the capital budget request for the School for the Deaf at Council Bluffs, as approved by the Board of Regents, be seriously considered and honored without reduction. Because of the influx of rubella babies now of school age, the committee feels the school's request for a capital appropriation is well-founded.

MERIT EMPLOYMENT COMMISSION

During the meeting with the Merit Employment Department, the committee was informed by the State Comptroller that prospective professional employees are being classified as consultants for one day for the purpose of transporting prospective professional employees into the State of Iowa and paying their expenses. It is recommended that the General Assembly consider legislation authorizing departments, with the approval of the Comptroller and the Executive Council, to pay travel expenses of prospective professional employees.

CONTINGENCY FUND

During the interim, the committee was asked by the Executive Council to set a policy regarding expenditures from the contingency fund for fire loss. The following recommendation was proposed to the Executive Council and unanimously adopted by them:

It is recommended that Section 19.7 expenditures be for the actual cost of repairing, rebuilding, or restoring a destroyed facility to be actually repaired, rebuilt, restored or for removal of such destroyed facility. If the governmental function provided in such destroyed facility is to be provided for in a newly constructed facility or by adding onto another existing facility or which destroyed facility is to be materially improved, it shall be provided for by the General Assembly in a capital appropriation.

The committee recommends that Section 19.7 of the Code be so amended.

In assuming its responsibility of visiting state institutions, the Budget and Financial Control Committee has questioned whether funds being spent for capital improvements are actually fulfilling legislative intent. Also, it seems there is no legislative guidance for spending funds which remain in an account after completion of a project for which funds have been allocated. These funds can be used for other improvements of questionable need without legislative approval. For this reason we recommend that approval of all capital expenditures in state institutions become the duty and responsibility of the Budget and Financial Control Committee. The consensus of the committee is that it is imperative that someone from the legislative branch of government have this authority.

* * * * *

The Budget and Financial Control Committee this year adopted a policy of inviting legislators from all surrounding counties to join them in their visits to the state institutions. The committee members express their thanks to the many legislators who accepted these invitations.

Also, the members of the Budget and Financial Control Committee express their thanks to all state departments, commissions, agencies, and institutions for their cooperation during the biennium.

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House appeared and announced that the House was ready to receive the Senate in joint convention.

In accordance with House Concurrent Resolution 7 duly adopted, the Senate proceeded to the House under the direction of the Secretary of the Senate and the Sergeant-at-Arms.

JOINT CONVENTION

In accordance with law and House Concurrent Resolution 7 duly adopted, the joint convention was called to order, President Jepsen presiding.

President Jepsen announced a quorum present and the joint convention duly organized.

Senator Lamborn of Jackson moved that a committee of six, consisting of three members from the Senate and three members from the House, be appointed to notify Governor Ray that the joint convention was ready to receive him.

The motion prevailed and President Jepsen appointed as such committee Senators Brownlee of Palo Alto, Van Drie of Story and Miller of Des Moines, on the part of the Senate, and Representatives Pierson of Mahaska, Clark of Lee and Patton of Buchanan, on the part of the House.

The committee waited upon Governor Ray and escorted him to the Speaker's station. President Jepsen then presented Governor Ray, who delivered the following budget address:

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

This is the third and final message in a series of three messages with which I have come to you—and to all the people of Iowa—during a 15-day period, pursuant to both the legal and moral obligation which is laid upon me at the outset of my second term as Governor of the state.

In my message on the condition of the state, I identified some landmarks of the past two years in the social, economic and political life of Iowa, and took a reckoning of our position at the close of that biennium. In my inaugural address, I identified some of the challenges and opportunities which will confront us during the next two years.

In both of those addresses, I told you that specific proposals for meeting certain of these challenges would be included in the budget message, which I am now presenting. Both earlier messages emphasized that Iowa stands at a uniquely crucial crossroads swept by sharp winds of change which we cannot ignore, and that the decisions we must make concerning the paths that we shall follow will importantly determine the kind of place Iowa will be during this decade and the balance of this century. My recommendations for some of these crucial decisions will form the substance of this morning's message.

At the inauguration, I called the impending decisions "difficult, even hazardous", and I repeat that warning to you now. But it has not been my custom or practice to avoid the difficult or hazardous issues and the decisions affecting them. I will not avoid them today. Rather I will give to you a bold new program to meet head-on the financial problems with which we are faced.

We must act wisely and promptly—to prevent today's taxpayer from becoming the first of America's natural resources to be exhausted. This can all too easily happen in a social climate in which—when some people learn that money won't buy everything—they start using credit cards. Government isn't the only institution affected by that climate. There is, for example, the case of the two fathers who were discussing their respective sons away at college. One father asked: "What does your boy plan to be when he graduates?" The other father replied: "Judging by the letters he writes home, I'd say he is preparing for a career as a professional fundraiser."

But it would be totally unfair to single out college students or other groups as the only practitioners of a casual attitude toward spending, which—in fact—permeates much of our whole society. It is this widespread psychological climate of carefree spending against which I have taken a stand in Iowa's budget for the past and now for the next biennium, and against which I hope that you—as legislators—will take an equally firm stand in the appropriations bills that you pass. You and I, together, have a responsibility to do what we can to end the myth that the answer to every problem is more spending. This simply isn't true. But it will take persistence and even stubbornness to prove the point, because some minds are like concrete: all mixed up and permanently set. It is your job and mine to un-mix and un-set the concrete minds hardened for a generation in the mold that spending solves everything.

In our determination to end the philosophy of free public spending, we cannot, on the other hand, accept a meat ax approach which could destroy effective government. In our kind of society, government is important. The quality of government goes a long way in determining the performance of the entire society. If government is inefficient, resources are wasted and taxes are unnecessarily high. If government assumes too many functions, individual and private, performance deteriorates. If government assumes too little responsibility, private economic power may be exercised in ways detrimental to society as a whole; disparities in wealth and income may become too great; and public services worthy of a great and wealthy people may not be provided.

Budgets and appropriations in the government sector are tools by which we strive to achieve the major objectives of growth, stability, equity, and efficiency.

In presenting to you the results of my budget-making efforts, I must emphasize that it is not realistic—or even possible—to plan for government of the State of Iowa as though it operated in a vacuum and in isolation from the whole society and—especially from other levels of government: federal, county, municipal and school. Today all levels of government are intricately inter-connected, and all of them tap the same source of funds—the taxpayer.

For example, the whole economy of Iowa—and hence, the prospective income and expenses of all state and local public agencies in Iowa—will be greatly affected by the consequences which flow from President Nixon's federal budget, scheduled for presentation to the Congress day after tomorrow. The President has already said that his budget for the year beginning July 1, 1971, will be aimed at stimulating the economy: such posture by the government based in Washington will certainly increase both the revenues and costs of the whole nation, including every segment of Iowa state government, and every Iowa county, municipality, and school district.

The scope and thrust of the federal budget is, then, one of the many influences on Iowa public finance over which you and I have no control—certainly no direct control, but which—nonetheless—significantly determines the dollar volume of revenue that will actually be received by Iowa government.

President Nixon in his State of the Union Message last Friday evening gave powerful impetus to the cause that I, as Governor, and other governors and many mayors, have long promoted when he proposed a $16 billion investment in renewing the role of state and local government—with $5 billion of this in new and unrestricted funds, to be used as the states and localities see fit. You of the legislature have expressed your support of this approach by resolution calling upon Congress to act affirmatively.

The President in making his recommendation showed good understanding of the financial difficulties which entrap state and municipal governments. The $5 billion alone, it is estimated, would produce for Iowa more than $70 million a year, which is equivalent to the proceeds of a one-cent sales tax.

Revenue-sharing must be recognized as an important and necessary goal. It goes to the heart of the over-all problem of American public finance, which is the imbalance among the financial resources and the responsibilities of federal, state, and local government. The President's proposal would start to redress that balance by diverting a small portion of federal tax collections to state and local purposes. It is a massive attempt to strengthen the levels of government closest to the people.

By enabling the states to spend money on those programs for which they feel the most acute need, the plan strengthens local initiative and slows down distant centralization of power.

As desirable and desperately needed as federal revenue sharing is, the reluctance of Congress indicates this relief will not appear overnight. Therefore, we must face the fact that state and local government in Iowa is being pinched with increased costs and restricted or lowered revenues. In other words, let us hope for the best—but be prepared regardless of what happens. When revenue sharing does become a reality, it will be imperative that the benefits derived therefrom be immediately passed on to our citizens.

For Iowa, the worst is not as bad as it might be. Most states during the last two years raised taxes. I insisted that we not raise taxes and we didn't. Yet all the way from Maine to Hawaii, states today are in a critical financial bind. For instance, New Hampshire was only able to pay the salaries of state employees Christmas Eve after collecting increased liquor revenue during the approaching holiday season. Last November, with the fiscal year only five months underway, neighboring Missouri was already running a $35 million deficit. Michigan faces a deficit of $158 million this year. Wisconsin is facing a minimum $340 million revenue gap. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is $300 million in the red. And the list goes on and on.

The total picture places our own problems in perspective and reminds us what "Old Jake", the hobo, said: "I felt sorry for myself who had no shoes until I met a man who had no feet."

Only a bare financial cupboard was left for my administration when we began two years ago. There was no rainy day fund or nestegg—no surplus.

Economic factors, including the efforts to curb inflation, brought about a business slump nationally that resulted in our gross national product dropping in 1970 for the first time in more than twenty years.

In Iowa, painfully low hog prices aggravated the economic sluggishness which was quickly reflected in reduced receipts from important revenue sources like the sales tax.

Fortunately, we had initiated some tight fiscal controls two years ago which have allowed Iowa to escape the nearly catastrophic financial plight of many other states.

Our spending has been kept within the budgets, but revenues as estimated by the best experts upon which you relied—and upon which I relied—will be less than predicted. These experts could not foresee the strikes which hit the truck industry and General Motors. The drop in hog prices, the withholding of spending by citizens in general, and the effect these and other economic factors would have upon the income of the state.

But I want to tell you that Iowa state government's bills are being paid—and will be paid.

The decrease in tax receipts is compensated for in the budget and revenue plan outlined in the information presented to you today and in the detailed budgets that will be forthcoming in case the economy does not improve sufficiently to pick up the slack.

I am submitting to you legislators a plan that is bold and answers squarely the challenge of meeting our needs on a reasonable revenue basis that our people can understand, can live with and benefit from, and which will let them plan for themselves and their families, without the fear of being priced from their homes because of unchecked property tax. The revenue proposal that I offer to you today brings new hope for a stabilized taxation program in Iowa.

It is not only new and bold, it makes sense. Here is what it does:

1. It realistically stops property taxes from increasing—taxes that have been skyrocketing during recent years.

2. It avoids the raising of many taxes that have been recommended by various sources.

3. It shifts the burden of financing a substantial part of local education from the slow-growing base of property to the progressive base of income.

4. It will gear school financing to the state's economic growth.

5. It answers the problem not for just a year or two, but for a decade or more. It is a permanent solution.

6. It will allow the state to share its revenue with our cities and towns and to meet current and pressing needs such as drug abuse and environmental control.

7. It will return to our local communities more than 72 percent of the money the state collects.

We must ease the heavy burden of taxation that now presses upon the owners and renters of real property—a burden so onerous that it jeopardizes our whole life—by squeezing our farmer who tills the soil for his living, by inequitably afflicting the elderly who are hemmed in with retirement or very limited income, the young, the physically handicapped, the wage-earner, the salaried employee, the poor, all of whom require decent housing at a reasonable cost. This is overwhelmingly important.

In order to halt the cancerous growth of property taxes, there MUST be a shift to taxation of a different form more closely correlated with economic growth.

It is impossible to devise a meaningful budget for 1971-73, or to pass meaningful appropriations for that period, without coming to grips with the basics of tax restructuring. We would be courting disaster if we limited financial planning to only a two-year period and content ourselves with one-shot, short-range, patch-work tax schemes and windfalls. The financial plan I suggest to you today is not that kind of a program. It is a plan for a decade.

The General Assembly in its wisdom a year ago recognized this need and through its tax study committee studiously researched ideas and proposals. I am sure the committee's desire was, as mine is, to permanently cure the state's property tax dilemma so it will not return to bug us again and again.

The legislative tax study committee has made recommendations for considerable change in Iowa's tax structure. Much work and effort went into their proposal and I have not overlooked or failed to see the reasons and understanding of that which went into their plan.

I compliment the committee on having supportive data for their recommendations—not just conclusions without reasoning. I have incorporated some of their valuable suggestions in the plan that I unfold to you today. While both proposals move toward a desired 80 percent foundation plan geared to state economic growth, I found that phasing into such a program can avoid a drastic increase in taxes on our citizens.

My proposal avoids adding more sales tax which bears heaviest on low income families. It avoids the local income tax that has been proposed which, although it certainly has some logic, presents some serious inequities and mechanical problems. The taxpayer must be thought of and never lost sight of as we analyze plans, and develop tax restructuring for improvement over our existing system.

As you analyze my proposal you will find the primary goal is to arrest the upward spiral of the property taxes levied for school operational purposes. This we do in the 1971-72 school year by appropriating $30 million—or $45 per student—in additional school aid. Schools will only be allowed to levy the dollar amount of property taxes of the previous year.

The second year, an additional $24 million is appropriated for aid to local schools. This injection of state funds, when coupled with a uniform levy of 27½ mills, will put into effect a foundation plan which will fund 70 percent of average per pupil costs. Again the property tax levy in dollars—not the school budgets—will be frozen at the present level.

The third year, the school aid fund will grow by a percentage equal to the economic growth rate of state taxes. In addition, each school can spend the money generated by the growth in the property tax base. The foundation program will then be at the 75 percent level with a uniform 27½ mill levy.

The fourth year, the 1974-75 school year, the goal of an 80 percent foundation plan will be reached.

A uniform levy of 30 mills, plus aid provided by the state, will guarantee each school district, regardless of its local resources, funds to finance 80 percent of the computed average per pupil cost of instruction in Iowa's public schools. The remainder will be by additional district levy.

Every child in this state has a right to a good education regardless of the amount of property valuation where he lives. This plan assures such opportunity.

Before a school district can exceed the state computed average, it must justify to the state school budget review committee the necessity for such an increase. The committee, if it approves the increase, can finance the need from a $5.5 million state fund provided. If it approves but cannot finance the need, the committee can authorize a limited increase in the district's levy.

Should the committee disapprove the request, the district may still submit the question of increase to its citizens, and if they vote their approval then the increase will be allowed.

This provides safeguards for the taxpayers, yet at the same time provides safety-valves for schools having special needs or unusual circumstances.

It would be much easier, more politically expedient, to come before you with a program and a budget—and leave it up to you to finance. So—to finance this new program for education, for reducing the property tax burden, and to provide funds for other essentials, I recommend restoring the full 100 percent personal income tax rate which has existed in the past in Iowa, and revisions in the rates that will make our income tax more progressive.

Corporations, as well as individual property owners, will benefit significantly from a stabilized property tax. Accordingly, I recommend that corporate income tax rates, now at 4, 6 and 8 percent, be adjusted to 6, 8 and 10 percent. And I ask also that an addition be made to the luxury tax on cigarettes of 3 cents per pack.

Implementation of this budget will stop the property tax increases that bear so heavily on farm families, young married couples buying a home, our workers, our business community and, most of all, on our elderly whose retired or limited income will not stretch to cover the cost of increased crippling taxes on their homes. It effectively shifts much of the cost of education from the slow-growing property tax base to more responsive income taxes.

It will allow school boards and educators to plan ahead, for they will know far in advance what they can count on.

In planning ahead, I also recommend you take action to see that all units of government are put on a uniform fiscal year basis. This will simplify budgeting and make it understandable.

Because this program phases into a foundation plan, it provides both time and funds for school boards to initiate those efficiencies—which will include reorganization of some school districts—so Iowa's public schools can learn to live within the growth rates of the taxes which finance them. This will be made easier because enrollments are now declining. That trend, census figures indicate, will continue for some time.

There will be those, I am sure, who will say I have gone too far, that too much money is being given to support education, cities and towns, public agencies, and to stop property taxes. There will also be those who say I have not gone far enough, that the sales tax and other taxes should have been increased to provide an elimination or a roll-back of property taxes, or that schools need far more money.

However, I find little appeal in lifting one crushing burden from Iowa taxpayers only to have it immediately replaced by another. Iowa has three major sources of revenue—the taxes on property, sales and incomes. What I have achieved in this program is the stabilization of one—the property tax—the elimination of the necessity of boosting another—the sales tax—and have made reasonable increases in the third—the income tax.

We have also been able to construct this system without eliminating the agricultural land tax credit and homestead credit. And even though property taxes will basically freeze, we will be maintaining a double homestead exemption for our low-income elderly.

In addition to the benefits I have already outlined, let me enumerate some other significant priorities which I have established.

I believe all of you here know my awareness and concern for the financial plight of our cities and towns. During the Sixty-third General Assembly we were able to give them more aid than ever before in the history of Iowa, and to open the door for direct and unrestricted revenue sharing. This was done through a grant of $2 million.

In my budget I propose that this be increased to $11 million for this biennium. Also, I recommend $12 million state money to attract $24 million in federal funds for pollution control, plus an additional $3 million for retroactive sewage treatment funds to help those communities which forged ahead on their own before additional federal funding was available.

I have provided the necessary state money which, with the contributions made by local governments, will attract $23 million in federal funds to speed up our war on crime. Between $12 and $13 million of this will go exclusively to the local communities..

Also, in the second year of the biennium, cities and towns will receive $1.5 million in direct aid to replace, in full, for the first time, the monies and credits tax funds.

I could not in a budget message discuss in detail all the ways we will be assisting our local communities, but I would like you to realize there are many programs that do offer support to our cities and towns such as disaster relief, alcoholism treatment, drug abuse education, rehabilitation and treatment, local affairs assistance, community improvement, and our Youth Opportunity Program.

Many of these aids attract federal financing, such as the Youth Opportunity Program which produces 12 federal dollars for each state dollar invested and not only benefits our young people, but also the communities in which they reside.

You will find in the white budget summary sheet, Exhibit D, a line item entitled Extraordinary Program Development. Herein, funds are provided for special priorities such as additional environmental engineers and geological surveys to fight pollution; to combat drug abuse; to expand school lunch programs; to computerize highway safety and crime information records.

Also included are provisions for funds amounting to $45 per pupil for those students not included in the general return of new state aid money. These funds shall go to the regular school boards in the districts where these children attend their non-public schools, to be used for educational purposes consistent with our laws and with the constitutional provisions of separation of church and state. If the money is not so expended, it shall revert to the state.

We have not slighted higher education. There will be no tuition increases at our state universities, and I recommend we expand our highly successful tuition grant program to help more needy Iowa young people who wish to attend Iowa's private colleges.

I cannot take time this morning to cover each item in this budget. However, the comptroller and I will be pleased to answer questions you might have and to explain in more detail items of particular interest and concern to you.

To arrive at this budget it was necessary to trim over 25 percent from the asking of the many agencies, boards and departments of government. There are not, nor will there ever be enough funds to finance every request that comes to a Governor. For example, we will not be able to expand educational television as requested or as we did during my first two years in office.

A year ago I expressed a sincere desire to help Still College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery in its endeavor to build a new school. During this past year, however, the ball game has changed. Instead of talking about $1 million, the request now is for $8 million state money and to have the state take over the operation of the school.

We have been priced out of the market to help.

As critical as our shortage of doctors is in Iowa, we cannot, in my opinion, accept the complete ownership and operation of another school. Still College has been a good citizen and it is my hope that it will be able to continue.

Many hundreds of hours have gone into the preparation of this budget and revenue plan. The plan provides for bridge years which apply not only to education, but also to spending on the state level. Austerity in state government began two years ago. I am certainly not content now to stop looking for ways to streamline our government operations. One good way you can help is to enact the recommendations of my Governor's economy committee.

Federal laws, federal programs and state legislation continue to force an increase in the number of employees. To insure against burgeoning payrolls, we are going to have a rule in state government that when a state employee quits, the vacancy will not be filled until it can be justified—to me!

I have presented to you this morning a stabilized financial program for our state. And I have given to you my recommendations for traveling the financial bridge into the future.

Exactly what that future holds for each of us no human can foretell. We can only offer our best recommendations at this crossroads in time, forged from our experience and sense of history, and from our sensitivity for divining future wants and needs.

As we look ahead with expectation and anticipation we find reason for encouragement: an upswing in our economy; a checking of public spending; control and preservation of our environment, our natural resources and good quality of life; our determination to advance the healthy improvement of our state; the possibility of Congress following the President's lead in improving the welfare system and in providing for sharing of federal revenue; and a stabilizing revenue and financing program for the State of Iowa as outlined in this message and accompanying schedules.

If revenue sharing becomes a reality, then I shall insist immediate steps be taken to reduce taxes to benefit each Iowan within the framework of the tax structure I have proposed.

We have removed inequities, and offered procedures for constructive action that will stand the test of time for this decade. Overwhelmingly, with 72 percent of all money the state collects returning to the local level along with millions in federal funds that we are able to attract, this is truly a "local aid" budget, with only a very modest growth in state expenditures.

This is an important budget, to meet the needs of important times. Study it; question it; evaluate it.

Then, in the words of an old Roman poet, I ask you to "begin, be bold, and venture to be wise" in setting our state on the course of sound and progressive advancement—the course that my budget lays before you.

Governor Ray was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Varley of Adair moved that the joint convention be now dissolved.

The motion prevailed.

The Senate returned to the Senate chamber and resumed regular session, President Jepsen presiding.

WILLIAM R. KENDRICK, Chief Clerk

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 10 By Committee on Agriculture

Whereas, agriculture is eminently Iowa's largest and most important industry; and

Whereas, this industry is peculiarly subject to many devastating hazards, all of which are beyond the control of man, and any one of which hazards can sharply diminish or completely destroy the products of an entire seasons labor and the investment of large sums of capital; and

Whereas, during the 1970 crop year about one fourth of the agricultural area of Iowa was seriously affected by either drought and or Race T southern corn blight; and

Whereas, in excess of forty percent of all Iowa farms are operated by tenant farmers who must depend on each year's crops as security for the financing of the following seasons operation; and

Whereas, a large proportion of owner operators and tenant operators are trained agricultural technicians, who will be lost to the industry if they are unable to secure adequate financial backing, and as a result of inflationary costs of farming and in view of the persistent "cost price squeeze" the Iowa farmer faces a financial crisis, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, That we jointly and severally go on record as urging the State Department of Banking, landlords, banks, individuals of means, industrial and public and private lending institutions of this state to exercise all means at their disposal to understand the serious nature of the problems faced by this segment of Iowa industry and earnestly seek fair and economically sound solutions to these critical problems.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 13

By Priebe and Edelen

Whereas, Welp's Breeding Farm of Bancroft, Iowa, is recognized as one of the outstanding businesses of its kind in the nation; and

Whereas, on February 5, 1971, the Honorable Wiley Mayne, United States Congressman from the Sixth Congressional District of Iowa, will present to Welp's Breeding Farm the President's "E" Award for exporting excellence; and

Whereas, the "E" Award is to be made through the United States Department of Commerce and the United States Department of Agriculture, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate Concurring, That the Iowa General Assembly recognizes the outstanding achievement of Welp's Breeding Farm of Bancroft, Iowa, and extends its congratulations for earning the "E" Award; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Welp's Breeding Farm of Bancroft, Iowa.

RUDY VAN DRIE

CHARLES P. MILLER

The motion prevailed and the report was adopted.

The Senate stood at ease for a Lincoln Day observance.

The Senate resumed session, President pro tempore Kyhl presiding.

Senator Conklin asked and received unanimous consent that the following remarks by George Mills be printed in the Senate Journal:

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

It is a much appreciated honor for a news reporter to be invited to appear before your honorable body in this observance of the 162nd birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

It has been my privilege to work in this beautiful chamber, a nerve center of a great state, for forty years. Addressing this honorable body is a new experience for me.

This magnificent building is a product of a Lincoln-minded age of Iowans. A people proud of their state began this structure six years after the death of President Lincoln, while the sorrow of the generation over his passing was still very deep. The State House came into use in 1884, or less than 19 years after the Lincoln assassination.

The traditions of the Civil War and of Abraham Lincoln are combined in Iowa. We are permeated with both.

It gives us a sense of history to recall that old John Brown drove a team of horses and a wagon loaded with cornstalks down Grand Avenue right outside the State House. Under the cornstalks were fugitive slaves the doughty Brown was taking to freedom. Brown stopped at the home of Isaac Brandt, on the corner of East Twelfth and Grand Avenue, immediately east of the historical building. Brandt's home, a station on the underground railway, was located on the site occupied by a funeral home now being razed.

You eastern Iowans also know how John Brown trained his tiny force at Springdale in Cedar County, before leaving for Virginia where he staged his ill-fated Harpers Ferry attack which inflamed the nation and may have quickened the coming of the Civil War.

The figures on the Civil War monument south of the State House are not just nameless models. They represent brave men who fought to preserve the Union from 1861-1865. The four figures on horseback are Iowa Civil War Generals. The figures below are taken from real life. To name one, the young smiling soldier on the northeast corner, standing, with a musket in one hand and a bouquet of flowers in the other, is Shelby Norman, 18, of Muscatine. He pictures the joy of the returning soldier being greeted by homecoming crowds. But Shelby Norman did not come home. He is reputed to have been the first Iowan killed in the Civil War, although there is some question about whether that is strictly accurate. A sniper's bullet got him in the line of march to the battlefield in Missouri.

Six Iowa Governors served as chief executives of this state after service in the Union armies of the Civil War. Four of these Governors were wounded. Two of these wounded Governors took their oaths of office in this building many years after the war. One was Buren Sherman of Vinton, who became Governor in 1884, and the other was Francis Drake of Centerville, who became Governor in 1896. Francis Drake's name is perpetuated in Drake University.

The Civil War traditions of this legislature are tremendous. Fully half the members of the 1862 session went into the armed forces after adjournment. Some were killed in action and some died of illnesses. Years later, the observation was made that the 1862 session had not produced as many leaders, such as Governors, to Iowa public life in the postwar years. To which one observer, who had visited military cemeteries in the south, commented: "Many of the 1862 legislators are greater than Governors."

I do not believe it necessary to comment on the depth of the Lincoln tradition that all of us have known since childhood. No columnist can ever hope to erase the veneration that we feel for this great American.

Mr. Lincoln is a proud part of our Iowa history. He owned land in Tama and Crawford Counties, land given to him for his service as a captain in the Black Hawk War.

The Tama tract consists of forty acres in Howard Township six miles north and west of Toledo. The Crawford tract consists of 120 acres in Goodrich Township some five miles northwest of Denison.

Mr. Lincoln never visited either piece of land. However, he did see seventeen town lots and a ten-acre prairie he acquired in the Council Bluffs area. That land had been posted as security for a $3,000 loan he made to a Chicago railroad attorney.

Mr. Lincoln visited Iowa three times. During the Lincoln-Douglas debates in 1858, he came to Burlington to help out the Republicans. When he stepped off a Mississippi River boat for an overnight stay, his luggage consisted of a clean shirt wrapped in a newspaper. He spoke to a crowd of 1,200 for about two hours. That was not necessarily a long speech for the times. Occasionally an orator spoke three or four hours. One wonders how our system of government ever survived.

The big issue at the time was the proposed extension of slavery into the territories. Lincoln firmly opposed such extension. Stephen A. Douglas, his opponent, wanted the people of the territories to decide for themselves whether to allow slavery or to prohibit it. This was a type of local option on slavery.

In the spring of 1859, as an attorney for the Illinois Central, Mr. Lincoln briefly visited Dubuque. He stayed at the old Julien House.

In August of 1859, he stayed three days in Council Bluffs. He had no intention of remaining that long. But the Missouri River steamer on which he traveled got stuck on a sand bar.

Mr. Lincoln made another speech for the Republican cause in Council Bluffs. More important, he conferred with General Grenville Dodge and other leading Council Bluffs citizens about a marvelous project, the construction of a railroad all the way to the Pacific. Council Bluffs residents took their visitor up on a bluff and pointed westward along the proposed route of the railroad. Naturally, the Council Bluffs people, Dodge in particular, urged that Council Bluffs be designated as the eastern terminal of the railroad. Mr. Lincoln made that very designation after he became President. The Great Union Pacific was built, and to this day the eastern terminal is in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

That railroad was given the Union Pacific name for a special reason. California, also known as the "Pacific" in everyday language, was far removed from the rest of the Union. The railroad would serve to bind the Union to the Pacific. Hence, Union Pacific.

Lincoln was an important figure in another Iowa-Illinois event. In the 1850's, the Rock Island railroad built a railroad bridge across the Mississippi between Rock Island and Davenport. A river boat, the Effie Afton, was wrecked against a bridge abutment, maybe purposely. The boat owners sued. Mr. Lincoln was a principal attorney for the railroad in the final trial of that case in Chicago. The railroad won and established the right to construct rail bridges across the big river.

Mr. Lincoln's friendships and contacts with Iowans were numerous. One particularly good friend was U.S. Senator James Harlan of Mount Pleasant. The President, in the final weeks of his life, nominated Senator Harlan to be Secretary of the Interior. The Lincoln and Harlan families went driving together in Washington.

Robert Lincoln, son of the President, married Mary Harlan, the Senator's daughter. Mr. Lincoln's three grandchildren lived at times in Mount Pleasant and played in the streets there.

Senator Harlan escorted Mrs. Lincoln at the Second Inaugural. The Senator was at the mortally wounded President's bedside. The shaken Harlan was among those who sought to console the family after death came to the President.

Mr. Lincoln appointed Samuel Freeman Miller of Keokuk to the United States Supreme Court. Judge Miller served with distinction on the high court for twenty-eight years.

John Kasson of Des Moines, who led the fight in the legislature for construction of this golden-domed State House—and what a battle it was—joined with Horace Greeley in the final writing of the 1860 Republican national platform. After his election, Mr. Lincoln appointed Kasson, one of the all time great Iowans, to the position of first assistant Postmaster General.

Mr. Lincoln also appointed Alvin Saunder of Mount Pleasant to the post of Governor of the Territory of Nebraska. Saunder later was U.S. Senator from Nebraska.

There is even an Ann Rutledge angle to Iowa history. You all recall the tragic story of Ann Rutledge, the young lady whom legend has it Abraham Lincoln wanted to marry but who died at New Salem. Her family emigrated to Iowa later. Robert Rutledge, who may have been Ann's brother, was Van Buren County Sheriff. The Rutledges were buried at Birmingham.

The work of Annie Wittenmyer of Keokuk was one of Iowa's most merciful contributions to the nation in the dark days of the Civil War. She dedicated herself to the welfare of wounded and ailing soldiers. She was instrumental in collection of considerable sums of money for sanitary supplies which were sent into battle areas and hospitals. She called on Mr. Lincoln. He gave full support to her plan of establishing diet kitchens for the purpose of providing suitable food for patients in military hospitals. Thousands of lives undoubtedly were saved thereby.

Any Iowa roundup of Lincoln lore also should include James F. Wilson of Fairfield, a Congressman and Senator. He too was a close friend of the President and he introduced the original emancipation resolution in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Lincoln sought constantly to discourage his generals from executing spies and saboteurs.

Maj. General Grenville Dodge of Council Bluffs was in charge in Missouri in 1865 when a guerilla was convicted of murder. The guerilla's mother went to see Mr. Lincoln to plead for her son's life. She returned to Dodge with a card on which Mr. Lincoln had written: "My Dear General Dodge: Is it possible for you to do anything for this poor woman who is in so much trouble?"

Dodge was of a mind not to accept the President's plea. If one guilty guerilla was spared, others still free might be encouraged to continue murders and depredations. Dodge planned to proceed with the execution. Then Dodge reports: "That night about midnight I received a dispatch from the war department notifying me of Mr. Lincoln being shot."

Dodge said the mother called the next day to request return of the President's card. She had abandoned hope for her son's life. But the grieving Dodge, ordinarily one of the toughest of the Civil War generals, did not have it in his heart to carry out the execution. He commuted the sentence to imprisonment.

Dodge was ordered to proceed to Springfield, Illinois, with his staff and troops for the Lincoln funeral.

"It was the saddest day of my life," the General wrote. "The streets were lined with thousands and thousands of people in great distress and sorrow. At every step we could hear the sobs of the sorrowing crowd . . . There was hardly a person not in tears and when I looked around at my troops, I saw many of them in tears."

The nation was stunned. Dodge said the streets in St. Louis were deserted for two days after the assassination. Everything came to a complete halt in Iowa cities and towns when the appalling news of the President's death came over the telegraph wires. No business was transacted in Des Moines that Saturday, April 15, 1865. Men gathered in little groups on the streets, in stores, in business establishments, in the capitol, and talked in low tones. The capitol was quickly draped in mourning. Thousands from all over Polk County gathered Sunday afternoon for an impressive memorial service at the Polk County courthouse square.

The fact that a memorial observance such as this is being held in the Iowa capitol 106 years after his death attests to the deep reverence with which Mr. Lincoln is, and always will be, held.

Many of Mr. Lincoln's writings are immortal. The most famous are well-known to almost all Americans. Here are two which are less well-known but which are timeless in their appeal and their understanding to persons such as ourselves. In November 20, 1860, after his first great Presidential victory, he said in Springfield:

"In all our rejoicings, let us neither express nor cherish any hard feelings toward any citizen who by his vote has differed with us. Let us remember at all times that all American citizens were brothers of a common country, and should dwell together in bonds of fraternal feeling."

While he was President, he said:

"I desire to so conduct the affairs of this administration that if, at the end, when I come to lay down the reins of power, I have lost every other friend on earth, I shall have at least one friend left, and that friend shall be down inside me."

Deeply moving is this little talk to the people of Springfield which he gave just before the train left in 1861 on his first trip to Washington to be inaugurated:

"My friends: no one, not in my situation, can appreciate my feeling of sadness at this parting. To this place, and the kindness of these people, I owe everything. Here I have lived a quarter of a century, and have passed from a young to an old man.

"Here my children were born, and one is buried. I now leave, not knowing when or whether ever I may return, with a task greater before me than that which rested upon Washington. Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended him, I can not succeed. With that assistance, I can not fail.

"Trusting in Him, who can go with me and remain with you, and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well. To His care commending you, as I hope in your prayers you will commend me, I bid you an affectionate farewell."

The beating of that warm human heart will continue to be felt throughout all human history. I thank you.

Whereas, Iowa and all other states in which the minimum voting age exceeds eighteen years are confronted with complex legal, administrative, and financial problems in endeavoring to implement the dual-age voting; and

Whereas, orderly elections are the very foundation upon which our nation is based; and

Whereas, the one feasible solution to the situation herein described which best serves the greatest national interest is to establish a single voting age by the adoption of an amendment to the United States Constitution, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate Concurring, That the Sixty-fourth General Assembly of the State of Iowa urge the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States of America to unanimously propose an amendment to the United States Constitution providing:

That citizens of the United States who are eighteen years of age or older, shall not be denied or abridged of the right to vote by the United States or by any state thereof on account of age; and that the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States transmit the proposed amendment to state legislatures for ratification; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the secretary of state of this state be directed to forward a copy of this resolution to the Congress and to the secretary of state of each of the states.

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

FIFTIETH DAY

SENATE CHAMBER
DES MOINES, IOWA, MONDAY, MARCH 1, 1971

The Senate met in regular session, President Jepsen presiding.

The following prayer was offered by the Reverend James Osborn, pastor of the United Methodist Church, Fredericksburg, Iowa:

O Lord, we are grateful for the opportunity to come together where important decisions are being made to better the quality of life for the people of Iowa. Enable us to become more intuned to the problems facing our country, torn apart by war, racial strife, the disintegration of our urban and rural communities, as well as environmental pollution.

We pray that these men and women who make the laws will be given insight that will help them to become sensitive and able to respond to the needs of all people, rich or poor, young or old.

O Lord, the great Governor of all the world, we pray for all who hold public office and power, and for the life, welfare and virtue of the people who are in their hands. Strengthen the sense of duty and commitment in our political life. Grant that your servants of the state may feel ever more deeply that any diversion of their public powers for private and selfish means is a betrayal of their country. Purge our cities, states and nation of the deep causes of corruption and greed which have so often made sin profitable and uprightness hard.

Breathe a new spirit into all our nation. Give our leaders new vision and set their hearts on fire with large resolves. Raise up a new generation of public men and women who have the faith, courage and convictions of your kingdom in their hearts, who will involve themselves in issues and problems of all mankind and will work for the freedom and rights of all people.

O Lord, we pray that President Nixon and his wife and the cabinet members who are coming to Des Moines will have a safe trip. We pray that we can be open and honest in sharing our concerns about the issues and problems facing the people of Iowa. We come before you in an attitude of humbleness and humility. Open our hearts and minds that we may listen to the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

We ask this prayer in your name. Amen.

The Senate pledged allegiance to the flag.

The Journal of Friday, February 26, 1971, was approved.

MR. PRESIDENT, MRS. NIXON, PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE, MR. CHIEF JUSTICE, JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT, STATE OFFICIALS, MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, GUESTS, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

Indeed it is an honor today to be host to the President of the United States. The President and Mrs. Nixon are not newcomers to our state. They have visited us on other occasions. As a matter of fact, they lived some seven months in Ottumwa. It was then Lieutenant (j.g.) Nixon and as I understand it, they lived in a $55 a month apartment. They have come a long, long way.

This is, however, the first time President Nixon has been in our state since he has been President of the United States. This is also the first time that a President has ever brought his Cabinet to meet in our state and while one other President visited at the Capitol here, President Nixon is the first President to ever address the General Assembly in this capitol.

We are very pleased President Nixon and Mrs. Nixon are with us and I take great pride in telling the President that having come back from the Governor's Conference in Washington just this last week, that the Governors of this country have tremendous respect for the Office of the Presidency but likewise, regardless of their party affiliation, they have great and tremendous appreciation, admiration and respect for you, Mr. President.

And now it is my pleasure to introduce our President to this General Assembly, to the people of the State of Iowa, to the people in the midwest and this entire nation. Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States.

Remarks by the
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES
RICHARD M. NIXON

Delivered before a Joint Session
of the Sixty-fourth General Assembly
First Session

GOVERNOR RAY, MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MR. CHIEF JUSTICE, MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE, MEMBERS OF THE SUPREME COURT, SENATOR MILLER, AND ALL OF OUR DISTINGUISHED GUESTS ON THIS VERY SPECIAL OCCASION:

As Governor Ray has indicated, this is my first visit to Iowa as President of the United States and I am honored that it takes place here in an address to the legislature of the State of Iowa.

I should point out that Vice President Agnew has made a visit to Iowa since taking office. You may recall in a speech he made in Des Moines on November 13, he received quite a bit of national publicity. I spoke with him on the phone yesterday about my pending visit to Iowa, and he suggested that if I really wanted to make major news that I might address myself to the subject of the news media, when I appeared before this group. In matter of fact, that is the most risky idea the Vice President has advanced since he invited me to play golf with him a few weeks ago.

I want you to know that I greatly appreciate this invitation to address this joint session of the Iowa state legislature—both to share with you a few of my thoughts about America's future, and to reaffirm my own strong conviction that in the state capitols of America there is a wealth of wisdom and compassion and understanding of the great needs that confront our nation's people.

This is my first appearance before a legislative body since I delivered my State of the Union address to the United States Congress—and I am especially pleased that it can be before this legislature, which I note was recently cited by the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures as one of the best in the nation. I congratulate you.

In that address, I outlined six great goals for America, and I urged the Congress to join in bringing about a new American revolution—a peaceful revolution, in which power was turned back to the people—in which government at all levels was refreshed and renewed, and made truly responsive to the people of this country.

It is especially appropriate that that appeal to the Congress should be followed by this, the first appearance as President of the United States I have had an opportunity to make before a state legislature. For as we consider the changes that are needed in American government, we must remember that we have not one chief executive in America, but many; not one legislature, but many—and that each of these is a vital part of the American system.

One of my key proposals to the Congress is that we make a $16 billion investment in renewing state and local government by sharing federal revenues without the cumbersome restrictions that now follow federal funds. I have noted that this legislature has already expressed its support for the principle of revenue sharing. I also have proposed a sweeping reorganization of the federal government itself to make it more responsive to the needs of the people.

Together, these changes can give us, all here in Iowa and across this great nation, better government, but they have special meaning for what we call rural America.

First, in terms of dollars, I am announcing today that I am increasing by an extra $100 million the amount that I originally proposed in special revenue sharing for rural community development, bringing that to $1.1 billion for the coming year—which is 24 percent more for rural development programs than is being made available to the states under existing categorical grant programs this year.

The direct dollar benefit to rural America is obvious. In addition, rural America will share substantially in general revenue sharing funds, and also in special revenue sharing for manpower, education, transportation and law enforcement, and all of these of course cut across all of America, whether it is rural or urban or a mixture of the two. Funds for urban community development will also go in part to urban communities, like the city of Des Moines, in largely rural areas.

A second reason these changes have special meaning for rural America is that one of their chief purposes is to give each state and each community greater freedom to decide for itself those questions that directly affect its own future. If the lessons of the past decades mean anything, they mean that as power has been concentrated more and more in Washington, as decisions have increasingly been made by remote control, the special needs of our rural communities and of the great heartland of America more and more have either been neglected or even gone unrecognized.

I want those decisions that affect rural America made by people who know rural America. And the people who know a place best are the people who live there. To put it bluntly I believe that legislators in Iowa know better than bureaucrats in Washington, D. C., what is best for Iowa.

It is fashionable in a lot of quarters these days to scoff at state and local government. To speak of its corruption, its inefficiency and all of the other problems that seem to confront them at this time. But to those who sneer at state legislatures, at city councils, at any level of government other than that in Washington, I say they don't know the American people and the American system.

I reject completely the contention that you cannot trust state and local governments. The patronizing notion that a bureaucratic elite in Washington knows best what is best for people everywhere is completely alien to the American experience.

The honesty and efficiency of government depends on people. Government at all levels—the federal level, the state level and the local level—has good people and bad people. And the way to get more good people into government is to give them more opportunity to do good things. Not just at the federal level but at the state level and the local level as well.

You know and I know how much dedication there is in state capitals, how much of a desire to do the right thing—and how much frustration there is with the restrictions and red tape that Washington so often imposes—and also with the tightening squeeze between needs and resources.

Like other state legislatures, you confront here in Iowa enormous problems.

As is the case in most of our states, I know you are wrestling with ways of avoiding the prospect of a deficit this year. That's true of a majority of the states in this nation this year. I know how heavy the burden of state and local taxes has become. I was thinking in that retrospect as I was preparing my remarks for this occasion.

I entered public life as a freshman Congressman from California almost twenty-five years ago. And since then I have been in and out of government all of that time, a little more in than out. But in that twenty-five years I have noted what has happened. Listen to these comparisons. Today, we find that state and local expenditures are twelve times as high as they were just twenty-five years ago. Property taxes are six times as high as they were twenty-five years ago and state and local debts are nine times as high as they were just twenty-five years ago.

Against that background, look at the double mismatch we now have: As the nation grows and the economy expands, needs grow fastest at the state and local level, while revenues grow fastest at the federal level. And at the same time, experience shows that the federal government is very good at collecting revenues and often very bad at dispensing services.

So it makes elementary good sense to turn over some of the money collected by the federal tax system to meet state and local needs.

It makes good sense, because people on the scene are most often the best judges of what those needs are.

It also makes sense because our people need relief from the mounting burden of state and local taxes.

Here in Iowa, with our revenue sharing program, let me tell you what it will do for you. It means you could make a choice. Your choice could be to increase services if you desire to do so or to avert a deficit if you desire to do so or perhaps to increase appropriations for the agricultural land tax credit if you desire to do so. The point is you make the choice as to what should happen with those revenues. And you choose, according to your best judgment of the needs and wishes of the people of Iowa, and that's the way it should be—here in Iowa and in every state in this country.

Let me also say a word about my proposal to reorganize the federal government—in particular as it affects the farmer.

One of the automobile companies has recently been using the advertising slogan "You've changed. We've changed." But when we look at the farmer and the way the federal government is organized, it is a different story. The only way to state the case, sadly enough, is that he has changed and we have not. The farmer is a man of many talents now—a businessman, a technician, a scientist—often a man who makes his living in more lines of work than farming alone. The term agro-business is often used here in Iowa and in my own state of California to describe this great new powerful instrument of American agriculture which has made America first in the world of productivity in agriculture, first in the world of this most important fact that the housewives of America, the best fed country in the world, pay less of her budget for food than in any country of the world. This is an indication of what the farmer has done for America. And when the farmer and American agriculture has done that, when it is the most productive of all phases of our economy, certainly American agriculture and the American farmer deserves a fair share of America's increasing prosperity.

Now let's take a look beyond that farmer. Let's look at the rural community in which he lives, or here in the city where the farmer comes from time to time. We find that the rural community is becoming increasingly diversified in its economic base and its land use and its population patterns. While all this has gone on, we have sat in Washington with the same Department of Agriculture we have had since 1862. Oh, changes have been made in the organization—new functions have been added—the Department of Agriculture, as far as its mission is concerned, is the same as it was then when the problems were very different.

"You've changed and we haven't"—it could become the epitaph for rural America, for the countryside where this nation's roots are. But to be able to say that you have changed and so have we—that could be the keynote for a new surge of vitality and progress on the farms, on the ranches and in the towns and the open lands across this nation.

It comes to a question of whether farmers and others in rural America want an Agriculture Department for its own sake or whether they really want things like better farm prices, better technical assistance for agriculture problems, wider development opportunities in rural communities, better schools, better roads, and so on. I think they want the latter—the tangible results.

Under the present setup, only one Cabinet department represents the farmer. Under my proposed reorganization, four Cabinet secretaries—half the Cabinet—will be speaking up for the farmer when his diverse interests are at stake. I submit that this is not less representation, but more—and more effective representation, because the rural interest will be represented wherever decisions are being made that affect that interest.

These proposals I have made are not Republican proposals or Democratic proposals. I have offered them in a bipartisan spirit. In Washington I met with all the Republicans of the House and Senate and all of the Democrats of the House and Senate, at breakfast, after the State of the Union Message in order to present them in that bipartisan spirit and that is why today as I speak to you, I seek not partisan support but bipartisan support, for these proposals cut to the heart of our hopes for progress in America not just this year, not just next year, but for the balance of the decade and the balance of the century.

This nation at the beginning developed a constitution and a form of government that has survived magnificently for 190 years not because that constitution was developed out of partisan debate, oh, there is debate all right, but it was not on party lines, it was on the great issue of what was best for this new country, and out of this came a constitution and system of government which we have been very proud to have since that time. That's what we need today as we look at the new problems of America and new ways to meet those problems.

I have met with many groups in these past few weeks, talking with them about my proposals for the reform and renewal of government in America. And I have told them that I know there are many objections that people will raise to this proposal and that proposal, and the rest, and objections should be raised—that's the way to refine a proposal, to make it better, to make it more effective in reaching those goals that we all want to reach, but I told these people, those who object that when they have an objection I challenge them to answer this one question—I say, let the first person who thinks that we ought to keep things as they are, stand up and defend the status quo—and I have not yet had a single taker.

I realize that many, particularly many in government—and I am proud to be, as you are proud to be, a man who is in government—many in government throughout the land were somewhat shocked and taken aback when I used the colloquial expression that a majority of the American people today are “fed up” with government, and that doesn't mean just government in Washington but it means government at all levels. But we know it is true and here are the reasons—they are fed up with government because they think it costs too much, they think it doesn't work and they think they cannot do anything about it, and what I have proposed is designed to meet these needs—to cut the cost of government, to make it work, and to give the people a greater voice in determining what kind of government they want. Now that is a goal above partisanship, it is the goal that I submit to the Iowa legislature and ask for your support.

People know that we need a change. They know that what may have been right twenty or thirty or forty years ago is not right today. They know that like any living thing, government in America has to change and develop; it has to adapt itself to new circumstances. And it has to be made to meet the needs of our people, as those needs exist in today's America—so that for the farmer, the worker, the taxpayer, the housewife—for everyone in America—government can do a better job.

America's great strength lies precisely in its great diversity—in the fact that our states and communities are different, that we do not all fit in the same mold, that each of us has his own ambitions, his own desires, his own individuality. The essence of freedom is to give scope to that individuality and to respect that diversity.

When I talk about returning power to the people, I am talking about just that—about letting people make their own decisions, in their own lives and in the lives of their own communities.

For I have faith in the people of America. And faith in people is what the American system of government was all about in the beginning and it is what it is all about today. Here in the heartland of America, we can see that the heart of America is good—and that its people deserve our faith.

We became a great nation because the nation's founders had the courage to place their faith in people—and because, having that faith, they established institutions that allowed the people to prove themselves worthy of it.

Now the time has come to return to that faith, one of those great watershed periods in the history of a nation, when we return to that faith we return to renew those institutions, and by so doing to lead America to a new birth of greatness—a greatness not simply as the richest nation, not simply as the strongest nation, but a greatness that springs from the unshackling of the spirit of the people themselves.

We need to today at a time when American involvement in the longest and most difficult war in our history is coming to an end. It is time to turn the great energies of our people to the works of peace in this last third of the twentieth century. And at this time, I invite you to join with me in beginning a national renewal—in fitting our government to the times we live in—in strengthening our government at the state and local level—in forging a new partnership that can give us prosperity with peace, progress with unity and freedom with diversity.

The President of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, and Mrs. Nixon were escorted from the House chamber by Governor and Mrs. Robert D. Ray.

Senator Lamborn moved that the joint convention be now dissolved.

Motion prevailed.

The Senate returned to the Senate chamber and resumed regular session, President pro tempore Kyhl presiding.

On motion of Senator Lamborn, the Senate recessed until the fall of the gavel.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The Senate reconvened, President pro tempore Kyhl presiding.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

I voted against Senate Concurrent Resolution 16, the Vietnam Prisoner of War Week Resolution, because I consider it a useless gesture designed to placate the relatives and friends of those men who are held prisoner by the North Vietnamese. It will be recognized as such.

We are obviously "on the horns of a dilemma", having neither the will to win, nor to accept defeat, in the war in Vietnam.

The men who are prisoners of war are the pawns in this stalemate.

Action, not Prisoner of War Resolutions, is required.

Van Gilst, Shawver, Brownlee, Gaudineer, Griffin, Schaben,

Whereas, the United States Supreme Court has recently ruled that the eighteen-year-old voting age provisions of the Federal Voting Rights Act Amendments of 1970 are effective only with respect to federal elections; and

Whereas, Iowa and all other states in which the minimum voting age exceeds eighteen years are confronted with complex legal, administrative, and financial problems in endeavoring to implement the dual-age voting; and

Whereas, orderly elections are the very foundation upon which our nation is based; and

Whereas, the one feasible solution to the situation herein described which best serves the greatest national interest is to establish a single voting age by the adoption of an amendment to the United States Constitution, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That the Sixty-fourth General Assembly of the State of Iowa urge the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States of America to unanimously propose an amendment to the United States Constitution providing:

That citizens of the United States who are eighteen years of age or older, shall not be denied or abridged of the right to vote by the United States or by any state thereof on account of age; and that the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States transmit the proposed amendment to state legislatures for ratification; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the secretary of the state of this state be directed to forward a copy of this resolution to the Congress and to the secretary of the state of each of the states.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 25

By Committee on Iowa Development

Whereas, the enforcement of laws relating to motor vehicles and railway, air, and water transportation is presently vested in many state departments; and

Whereas, an efficient public and private transportation system requires coordination of efforts and consideration of all modes of transportation; and

Whereas, the federal government and several other states have established departments of transportation embracing the many phases of the public and private transportation industry to coordinate transportation regulation; and

Whereas, several studies have recommended that the state of Iowa establish a department of transportation; and

Whereas, the Governmental Reorganization Study Committee which during the 1970 interim was assigned the study of the feasibility of establishing a department of transportation but was unable to undertake this study because of a lack of time; and

Whereas, legislation designed to create a department of transportation would necessarily be complex and include the amendment of statutes relating to all state departments and agencies charged with the responsibility of providing for and regulating all modes of transportation; and

Whereas, with the many issues facing the first session of the Sixty-fourth General Assembly there may not be time for both staff and legislators to adequately develop and study such proposed legislation, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That the legislative council is authorized to create a study committee which membership shall include legislative members of the appropriate standing committees and nonlegislative members knowledgeable in the various areas of transportation to conduct during the 1971 legislative interim a comprehensive study relating to the feasibility of establishing a department of transportation encompassing the administration and regulation of motor vehicles, railway, air, and water transportation, and related functions; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the study committee shall make periodic reports to the legislative council and shall submit a final report, including necessary bill drafts to implement recommendations, to the legislative council. Copies of the report and proposed bill drafts approved by the legislative council shall be submitted to members of the General Assembly meeting in the year 1972.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE AND THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We, the undersigned members of the conference committee appointed to consider the difference between the Senate and the House of Representatives on House File 121, a bill for an act to provide limitations on the property tax levy for the general fund budget of school districts, county boards of education, and joint boards of education and to make an appropriation to the department of public instruction for allocation to school districts, respectfully submit the following recommendations:

1. That the House recede from its amendment to the Senate amendment.
2. That the Senate recede from its amendment to the bill as amended and passed by the House.
3. That House File 121, as amended, passed, and reprinted by the House, be further amended as follows:
 - a. Page 2A, line 1, by striking the word "A" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "Except as provided for special education expenditures in section three (3) of this Act, a”.

b. Page 2A, by striking lines 7 through 14, inclusive, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

“unless, because of extraordinary and unusual circumstances, the school district receives permission from the school budget review committee.

As used in this section, the amount received by the district for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1970, includes the amount received by the district as its share of the basic school tax levied equally in the basic school tax unit, as provided in sections four hundred forty-two point four (442.4) and four hundred forty-two point six (442.6) of the Code, and the amount raised by the district as an additional tax as provided in section four hundred forty-two point seventeen (442.17) of the Code. Subject to the limitations on amounts provided in this Act, the method of levying and distributing the basic school tax shall remain the same for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1971, as it was for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1970, and as provided in sections four hundred forty-two point four (442.4), four hundred forty-two point six (442.6), and four hundred forty-two point eight (442.8) of the Code.

The amount of the basic school tax levied in each basic school tax unit in the state for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1971, shall be the same amount as the basic school tax levied for that basic school tax unit for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1970, and except as otherwise provided in this Act, the amount of additional money to be provided by a property tax levy in each school district in the state for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1971, as provided in section four hundred forty-two point seventeen (442.17) of the Code, shall not exceed the amount of additional money provided by the property tax levied for that school district for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1970, and no school district shall levy any other amounts for general fund expenditures for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1971, in excess of the amounts levied by that district for general fund expenditures for the year commencing July 1, 1970.

The intent of this Act is to make available to each school district in the state for general fund expenditures for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1971, an amount received from property and income taxes equal to but not greater than the amount received from property and income taxes by each school district in the state for general fund expenditures for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1970, except as otherwise provided in case of special education, extraordinary and unusual circumstances, and state aid.

Extraordinary and unusual circumstances for the purpose of this section are circumstances which materially affect the school district's financial status and which will require significant expenditures in addition to the moneys received from the property tax levy and income tax distributed pursuant to this Act and the appropriation in section six (6) of this Act. The school board requesting permission shall have the burden of proof to establish that all available means have been used by it to reduce the costs of the school district.

The limitations imposed in this Act shall apply to a school district which has reorganized since July 1, 1970, but the limitation for the reorganized district shall be based upon the combined general fund budgets of the school districts involved in the reorganization."

2. In addition to the amounts provided in subsection one (1) of this section, and notwithstanding the limitations otherwise provided in this Act, a school district, county board of education, or joint county board of education may certify and receive additional moneys to expand special education programs for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1971, or January 1, 1972. However, this exception applies only to those special education programs or courses which would have qualified for state reimbursement pursuant to chapter two hundred eighty-one (281) of the Code, as interpreted by the rules and regulations of the state department of public instruction effective on July 1, 1970.

3. If, for the 1971-1972 school year, responsibility for a special education pupil is transferred from a school district to a county or joint county board of education, or from a county or joint county board of education to a school district, the moneys budgeted for that pupil shall be transferred to the district or board which accepts responsibility for the pupil, or a proportionate amount shall be transferred if the change is made during the school year."

The school budget review committee shall distribute these funds to the various school districts which have an increased public school fall enrollment in excess of five percent for the school year 1971-1972 over the school year 1970-1971. The school budget review committee shall determine the needs of school districts with increased fall enrollments and shall distribute the funds to each school district on the basis of need as determined by the school budget review committee and on the basis of the number of pupils in excess of the five percent increased fall enrollment, and any funds not allocated by the school budget review committee shall revert to the general fund as of June 30, 1972.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER

MR. PRESIDENT: I move to reconsider the vote by which House File 230 passed the Senate.

W. R. RABEDEAUX

ADDENDUM AND SUPPLEMENT TO BUDGET MESSAGE BY THE HONORABLE ROBERT D. RAY GOVERNOR OF IOWA

Delivered to the Sixty-fourth General Assembly, First Session

March 11, 1971

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE SIXTY-FOURTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

On January 27, 1971, in accordance with chapter 8 of the Iowa Code, I submitted to the Sixty-fourth General Assembly a Budget Message and included therewith a "Budget in Brief" with explanatory documents and charts.

Since then you have received a detailed Budget Report. Now, pursuant to the same chapter of the Iowa Code, I submit herewith an addendum and supplement to the Governor's Budget as heretofore presented and for the reasons that follow.

In recent months much has been said about the state's financial condition.

Budgets for government are prepared on the basis of expected income and needed expenditures. On the state level, the legislature appropriates money that provides the funds for our budget. During this biennium we are spending less than the General Assembly appropriated. However, our income has not been as great as anticipated.

When in 1969 and 1970, you appropriated money for the budget of this biennium, you did so on estimated revenue. Your projections, as were true of mine, were based upon the best fiscal data you could obtain from the experts who work in the field of government finance. The validity of that information was recognized at the time as legislators from both parties in both Houses voted the appropriations.

The best an estimate can be is a projection based on past experience, evaluation of current conditions and expansion of adjusted trends into the future.

While in the process of developing our original budget for the 1971-73 biennium, it became apparent that the economic conditions which had plagued the nation earlier had caught up with Iowa. In December, however, it appeared that the down-turn was still only a temporary setback and that there were reasons to expect a recovery from declining hog prices, several major strikes and a distressing level of unemployment. Unfortunately, the economy did not respond as quickly as the experts had anticipated.

As we prepared our original budget for the next biennium we took into consideration, based on information at that time, that the economic decline would result in a loss of anticipated state revenue of approximately $12 million. We faced the problem of preventing a deficit when we made our original budget. Now, I am advised that state revenues may be down by as much as another $13 million. Recognizing that we must not have a deficit, I again face squarely another round of belt tightening.

I have insisted that we adjust any changes to deal with this situation using the most realistic figures that have been presented to me by experts in the field of government financing including the State Comptroller, the Legislative Fiscal Director, the State Director of Revenue, the State Treasurer and others.

There is one very basic difference between Iowa state government financing procedures and those of the federal government. We cannot incur a deficit. State government is operating in the black now and by following the proposals I submit today we will remain in the black.

The recommendations I am presenting to you contain no magic solutions—for as anyone who has ever been faced with the prospect of spending within definite limits knows, there are priorities which must be set and sacrifices which must be made.

As an aside, I want to make mention of the fact that historically—because of various demands—there has been a legislative tendency to exceed, or “break” a Governor’s budget. I am sure it is obvious to all of you that this cannot happen in the next biennium, for the funds are simply not available.

I call upon you to work within the framework of the budget which you now have at hand.

This is a budget which recognizes the heavy pressures which confront the taxpayers of our state. At the same time, this budget makes provisions to strengthen our support for cities and towns and education at all levels. It provides additional consideration for our elderly and our disadvantaged; it recognizes the need to cope with the problems of our environment, our rural and urban development and extends greater resources for the fight against crime, improved health care for our citizens, and for the many other services of a government which exists to serve the people of this state.

REVISION OF REVENUE BASE SIXTY-FOURTH BIENNIUM

The loss of revenue for the current fiscal year has not only made changes necessary in this year, but indicates to those responsible for estimating revenues that reductions will be necessary for the forthcoming biennium.

Nearly all of the losses in revenues have been in the sales and use tax collections, and in personal income tax receipts. To reflect the current changes in the reduction in revenues, the Comptroller has cut $13.2 million from the estimated or projected receipts of sales and income taxes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972, and another $15.5 million from the projected receipts of sales and income taxes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1973.

By making these adjustments in revenue estimates, the Comptroller has assumed that the state's economy will not return to the previous high level, plus growth, but rather he has computed or projected the growth on the current lower base. This is, of course, the most conservative approach, and one which we believe is proper at this time.

One final word as to the rate of growth projected by the Comptroller. Basically, the growth anticipated in the personal income tax is 8 percent annually, and the sales tax approximately 3 percent per year. Based on all the years of record, this is a relatively modest projection.

I now submit to you the amendments, changes and refinements to my original budget which include no additional general taxes.

MONTHLY SALES TAX REMITTANCES

1. Presently, Iowa law requires retailers who take in more than $500 per month in sales tax, to remit to the state those funds on a monthly basis. Others remit on a quarterly basis. I am recommending that all who collect more than $50 per month remit their collections on a monthly basis. Surrounding states require monthly remittances at the $25 or $20 level. This will result in an immediate $8.8 million to help prevent any deficit.

ADDITIONAL REVERSIONS TO GENERAL FUND

2. By further curtailing state expenditures, it is estimated that an additional $1.5 million can be saved.

CIGARETTE TAX

3. The action of the General Assembly in already passing the cigarette tax bill will result in an additional $2.2 million not included in my original budget.

REVENUE FROM LIQUOR RETAILERS

4. In 1963, when Iowa's liquor-by-the-drink law was enacted, sales of mixed drinks were taxed 10 percent. In 1967, this procedure was revised. A 10 percent tax was replaced with a 15 percent surcharge on the liquor paid by the retailer at the time of purchase from the state stores and the usual 3 percent sales tax was paid by the consumer of mixed drinks.

At the time of this change it was believed that the revenue to the state would be the same. This has not been the case. During the past two years—under the old plan—the state would have received approximately $1.5 million more annually. I am recommending that the surcharge be at 20 percent. It would be equivalent to one cent per mixed drink, adding back to state revenue in the approximate amount of $1.5 million per year.

REVISION OF STATE EMPLOYEE PAY SCHEDULES

5. My original budget provides for the implementation of the Jacobs Plan for state employees. Such upgrading and improvement is necessary and therefore I continue to recommend that the legislature provide funds essential for this plan.

It will be possible, however, to provide for "earned merit pay increases" following the implementation of the Jacobs Plan without the necessity of the extra $3.4 million called for in my original budget. Until funds are more readily available this amount can be used to prevent a state deficit.

REGENTS BUDGET

6. My original budget granted percentage salary increases for the Board of Regents personnel that exceeded those for many of our other state employees. It is my belief adjustments can be made so that increase will more closely correspond to the state averages for other agencies. This will reduce spending by $6 million.

It is imperative that we maintain the educational system of Iowa at a high level. This change, I am convinced, will not reduce that commitment.

REFINEMENT OF SCHOOL AID PLAN

7. Further analysis of the school aid program I presented to you as a part of my budget message has revealed the possibility of refinement of the distribution formula. I recommend no change in the program as it applies to the 1971-72 school year. In the 1972-73 school year, however, the effect of the phasing-in process of the foundation program has an unnecessarily magnanimous impact on a few schools in our state in that it makes possible sharp drops in the local millage rate.

I am recommending that changes be made which would limit the millage reduction in any school district to 10 percent per year. This will add, I believe, equity to the program, will only affect 57 school districts, and will enable the state to reduce its share of school costs by $6 million in the upcoming biennium. At the end of the four-year period which was outlined to you in the budget message, the millage levy in these 57 districts will be precisely the same as I previously stated.

PASSAGE OF REVENUE PLAN

8. To finance the revenue plan I submitted to you in January—a plan that will effectively stabilize burdensome property taxes it is necessary to shift a portion of the tax load to a growth tax based on one's ability to pay. The plan calls for the full rate of income tax instead of the present three-fourths rate.

By speedy passage of this revenue plan, the withholding rates can be immediately adjusted for the convenience of the tax payers; this will also help alleviate the money squeeze.

Should the Legislature not promptly enact this measure it will be necessary to defer payment of some of the state's obligations.

CAPITALS

9. We have already determined that we can defer some construction, thereby avoiding this expense of $5.6 million during the remainder of this biennium. In this revision of my budget, we provide for the reappropriation of these funds, but also for the reduction of total capitals of $6 million in the first year and $2 million in the second year of the 1971-73 biennium.

These items of deferment can be reconsidered when the revenue outlook brightens.

My recommendations today require action on your part—the sooner the better. You will then be able to turn to other important work in this session with a clear resolve.

When first apprised of our declining income situation, I ordered a new round of belt tightening in state government. This was done. Now, in effect, I am calling for cinching the belt additional notches. This is not appealing—but it is imperative.

The recommendations as outlined in this message, and your action, will enable us to assure our citizens that Iowa government remains in the black for this biennium and the biennium ahead.

Our efforts to cope with the immediate problems which resulted in the down turn of expected revenues must not be permitted to turn our heads from the paramount task of this legislative session. That task is to stop spiraling property taxes and get into a reasonable school finance plan—not only for this year or the next, but in the years to come.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 27

By Griffin

Whereas, there is an increasing demand upon state and local government for essential public services; and

Whereas, no in-depth study has been made in the State of Iowa, determining the advisability of enacting a pari-mutuel system of betting, or the increased revenue which may be derived to the state from a pari-mutuel system of betting; and

Whereas, in all states where pari-mutuel betting is permitted, an added benefit is the establishment of a new industry of thoroughbred breeding and sales, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That there be established an advisory committee for the study of the advantages of a pari-mutuel system of betting. The committee shall consist of nine members, one to be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor from the membership of the Senate, one to be appointed by the Speaker of the House from the membership of the House, and seven members appointed by the Governor. The member appointed by the Lieutenant Governor shall be chairman of the committee. Each member of the committee shall receive a per diem and expenses within the limits prescribed by section two point ten (2.10) of the Code; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the committee shall report to the Governor and General Assembly no later than January 31, 1972, and include within its report its recommendations relating to the advisability of the enactment of a pari-mutuel system of betting, the control and regulation thereof, estimates of tax revenues to the State of Iowa under the pari-mutuel system of betting, and all other matters relating to the advantages of a system of pari-mutuel betting in Iowa.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 28

By Committee on Commerce

Whereas, the structure of the banking system in Iowa is changing rapidly as a result of the acquisition of many banks by bank holding companies; and

Whereas, citizens of Iowa have expressed concern about both the advantages and disadvantages of such acquisitions; and

Whereas, constructive legislation in this area will necessarily be technical in nature in order to insure that Iowa can derive the benefits from such consolidations but will not be subjected to abuses therefrom, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That the Legislative Council shall establish an interim study committee to study and determine whether a need exists for legislation in regulating the operations and acquisitions of bank holding companies and improving the functioning of Iowa's financial institutions; to report its findings and recommendations to the next legislative session; and to prepare a bill to remedy any need found to exist.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Conklin rose on a point of personal privilege to make the following presentation:

This day has been proclaimed Iowa State Flag Day in observance of the adoption of an official banner of the State of Iowa on March 29, 1921.

As early as 1913 the Thirty-fifth General Assembly had adopted a concurrent resolution establishing a commission to propose and prepare a design for a state banner. The same year, at their state conference, the Iowa Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, instructed the State Flag Committee to suggest a design for a state flag.

In 1916, in Waterloo, the state regent of I.S.D.A.R., Dixie Cornell Gebhardt of Knoxville, proposed a contest among the eighty-one chapters for creation of design. The flag designed by Mrs. Gebhardt herself was selected.

Governor William M. Harding, the adjutant general and the state Council of Defense accepted the Gebhardt banner on May 11, 1917, and authorized its use by the Iowa Regiments.

It was on March 29, 1921, after years of personal effort by Mrs. Gebhardt that the bill was signed by Governor N. E. Kendall making this the official Iowa Banner.

Dixie Cornell Gebhardt described the Iowa Banner in this way: "It suggests Iowa in her virgin beauty of unbroken wilderness, riotous flowers, and unfettered nature, and the original American enjoying this beauty unmolested, expressed his love for the rolling, rich prairies by christening them "Iowa" meaning "Beautiful Land."

The tri-colored Flag of France was used since the French flag was the first banner to fly over "the beautiful land." The great seal was the inspiration for working out a design for the emblem.

Mrs. Gebhardt's challenge is to us, even today:

"Iowa's future is in your hands. Iowa's flag is speaking to you. I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of the big things which make this state. My stripes, my seal, my motto, and my name are your dreams and your labors."

In accordance with Senate Concurrent Resolution 12 duly adopted, the Senate proceeded to the House under the direction of the Secretary of the Senate and the Sergeant-at-arms.

JOINT CONVENTION

PIONEER LAWMAKERS

(House Chamber—2 p.m.)

In accordance with Senate Concurrent Resolution 12, duly adopted, the joint convention was called to order, President Jepsen presiding.

President Jepsen announced a quorum present and the joint convention duly organized.

Senator Lamborn of Jackson moved that a committee of four be appointed to escort the Pioneer Lawmakers into the House chamber.

The motion prevailed and the President appointed as such committee Senator Stephens of Washington, Senator Briles of Adams, Representative Clark of Lee, and Representative Schwieger of Black Hawk.

The committee escorted the Pioneer Lawmakers to the front of the House chamber.

President Jepsen presented Representative Floyd Millen who welcomed the Pioneer Lawmakers on behalf of the House as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT, MR. SPEAKER, MEMBERS OF THE PIONEER LAWMAKERS ASSOCIATION OF IOWA, JOINT CONVENTION AND GUESTS:

On behalf of the House, it is my pleasure to welcome you, Pioneer Lawmakers. Since 1962, when I first entered the legislature, I have had the pleasure and privilege of counseling with a number of you. This was and is now a great help to me. One of the most cherished honors that can come to any citizen in this state is to have the privilege to serve in this legislative body and observe and be a part of the sincere dedication which members display in considering various pieces of legislation.

It is indeed a privilege and an honor to be elected to this body. It simply means that a majority of the people that elected you considered you the most worthy to represent them. It is a cherished tradition that I'm sure you veterans enjoy reminiscing about.

We here in this legislature commend you for the work you have done in the past in legislation that you considered to be in the public interest. The same problems are still with us, maybe to a greater degree, but we still are talking about governmental reform, reapportionment and taxes.

We hope you will show your continued interest and give us your counsel and advice. It is a great benefit to us.

Again, we are happy to have you and hope to see you again in this same meeting two years from now.

President Jepsen presented Senator Vernon H. Kyhl who welcomed the Pioneer Lawmakers on behalf of the Senate as follows:

PIONEER LAWMAKERS, FELLOW SENATORS, MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE AND GUESTS:

It is a real pleasure for me to welcome you to this forty-first biennial session of the Pioneer Lawmakers of the State of Iowa.

The honors and the traditions of the Iowa General Assembly live on in the memories of all Iowans who respect our commonwealth. You have established many of the rules that we operate under today and your rules form the foundation of many practices that I help enforce as I serve as President pro tempore in the Senate of this Sixty-fourth General Assembly.

We all live by tradition, and we use daily the customs which you established as they have become the traditions of the Senate and the House.

As you view the operations of your legislature in 1971, I'm sure you recognize that we are faced with the same pressures that you withstood in years past. Modern legislators are still trying to satisfy the voters back home as well as the demands of various groups for special aid.

In our present-day General Assembly, faced with the problems of our modern age, we are inclined to feel that modern problems are more demanding than those of past days—but I am sure that your caucuses were just as argumentative as ours are today and the problems you solved on the floor were just as important in your time as any problem we may be able to solve today.

Bear with us as we struggle to meet the problems of today, and we assure you that our hearts and minds are dedicated as yours were to doing the best job possible for our grand State of Iowa.

President Jepsen presented the President of the Pioneer Lawmakers, the Honorable Duane E. Dewel, who responded to the welcome.

Mr. Dewel introduced Mrs. Edna Lawrence of Ottumwa, newly-elected President of the Pioneer Lawmakers, who briefly addressed the joint convention.

Mr. Dewel addressed the joint convention as follows:

I bring you greetings, understanding and sympathy from those who preceded you—the Pioneer Lawmakers of Iowa.

I am not going to tell you what you should do. You know your problems better than anyone and I am sure you will come up with the answers. You can serve just as well without any pleading by me.

I am going to say a little about those who once sat in these seats and served the state well. We were not wholly content with what we did, but we were satisfied we had done our best as we saw it at the time.

We will welcome you to the Pioneers twenty years after the day of your first service in the legislature when you too can recall with pleasure the friends you have made. There are few bad memories—only the good ones come to mind.

Our hair has thinned. Our eyeglasses have thickened. Our voices which once roared now have a tendency to quiver and squeak. But our interest in good government is as strong as ever. We have confidence in you.

Who are the Pioneers?

They are legislators and elected state officials who served twenty years or more ago. It is not an organization to do anything. There are no dues. Membership is automatic.

They meet every other year on call of the president and invitation by the legislature. They meet together in the morning for tales of by-gone days when they too were important. They choose officers for the next biennium and in the afternoon meet in joint session with the legislature for a short program.

The Pioneers were organized in 1886. At that meeting there were those who served in the 1850's and 1860's and one who had served in the first Territorial legislature in 1838. His name was Hawkins Taylor.

Annual sessions are not new in Iowa. The eight Territorial legislatures met annually prior to the 1857 constitution when the biennial session was adopted.

It may surprise you to know there were 3,360 individuals who served in the sessions from the First through the Forty-ninth General Assembly.

Their names are preserved in the Redbook of 1941-42 and among the names was that new household word "Agnew".

The Sixty-third General Assembly passed a resolution to bring the list up to date and it is hoped by the Pioneers that the State Printer will now include the names since 1942 in the next Redbook.

Members of the early legislatures got $2 per day for the first fifty days and then only $1 per day. It made for shorter sessions.

A feature of Pioneer meetings from the start are tales of the old days by members. They were once published in printed book form and are fascinating. There was no bitterness over battles lost and most tales were humorous. I have selected a few which may interest you.

Remember in the old days the men were young. They had to be to fight the wilderness and pioneer problems. They were quick to anger and quick to forgive.

In one heated debate one exasperated member called another a ring-tailed baboon. He was called down by the Chair and apologized by saying he meant to say his opponent was a NICE ring-tailed baboon.

The accused member, not to be outdone by his opponent, said he was sorry he said the fellow had a yellow streak down his back. He now observed it was white down the back and his scent was more powerful than his arguments. The speaker shut both up. They later became fast friends. The second man always regretted the speaker did not let him too observe the other was a NICE polecat.

When the speaker took the floor to argue on a bill an exasperated opponent said: "Our speaker is neglecting the duties of the office to which we elected him, and in coming onto the floor to influence our votes he jumps around like a stump-tailed bull in fly time."

In 1862 the Civil War was going rather badly for the Northern forces. There were four Iowa regiments with General Grant when he captured Fort Donnellson. The news came by telegraph and when announced in the House a resolution was introduced and passed suspending the prohibition law for twenty-four hours. It was discreetly left out of the official journal however.

The next day one of the members who had evidently celebrated was worried about the next election and said he wanted his constituents to know he was intoxicated—with joy.

Several men in the early sessions had served in like positions in other states but came to Iowa for land and opportunity. One, Nathan B. Baker, had twice been speaker of the house and also was governor of New Hampshire, and served in the Iowa legislature in 1860. He later was adjutant-general under Governor Kirkwood.

Feelings on the Civil War were strong in Iowa and the state was the site of the underground railroad passing slaves to Canada.

And in 1866 the Iowa House of Representatives passed a resolution to hang Jefferson Davis. The vote was 89 to 7 in favor.

They had their problems with the press too. I belong to both worlds being in the weekly newspaper field for some fifty years and serving in the Senate. I can sympathize with both—the reporter who has to condense a day's arguments into a column and the legislator who finds his intent if not his words misquoted. There's a big gulf between the press bench and the members' chairs only a few feet away. Neither can really understand the problems of the other. It might be good if a legislative reporter had to have service in the hot seats where he had to vote yes or no and not maybe. Both are under pressure.

I however hold no brief for a certain columnist. I think his comments on the legislature are ill-founded to say the least.

The first lobby on record was when the Owl family invaded the legislative halls to protest a grant of land to the Iowa Central Railroad. They wanted it given to the Clinton, Cedar Rapids and Missouri Railroad. They lost.

In my day we were not too concerned about lobbyists. We could and did vote against them when they were sitting in the back of the chamber and felt no holding back to advise them to get lost when we were busy.

By the way the Constitution says, "The doors of each house shall be open, except on such occasions as, in the opinion of the house, may require secrecy."

We were more concerned with television cameras fearing some would speak too much and too often. We used the previous question liberally to close off debate after everything had been said twice.

At times there was discussion in the House when members thought Senators were high hatting them. In one early session there was quite a fuss because sand boxes for House members cost only fifty cents while Senate sand boxes cost seventy-five cents. Sand was for blotting. One House member observed the House ceiling was nine feet higher than the Senate's and the well of the House was an inch and a half higher than the Senate's. This made the Senate the lower house.

In the Pioneer meeting in 1894 a member told of his trip in 1860 to the session. He left his home at New Hampton December 31, 1860, with his bride of a few days. They traveled by democrat wagon behind a team. It was twenty-six below zero. It took six days for the trip and they were lost on the prairie three times.

In 1859 when the legislature adjourned, the water was so high from flooding streams that members in the eastern half of the state took a steamer from Des Moines down the Des Moines River to Keokuk and up the Mississippi to get home.

My first session was in 1945. World War II was on and tires and gas were rationed. I took a bus from Algona to Fort Dodge and the trolley interurban from there to Des Moines.

Des Moines was a battlefield on the weekend—battlefield of the sexes. Hotels Savery, Plaza and one other were occupied by the WACs. Friday afternoons they got passes. Navy boys from Ames and fly boys from Ottumwa came to Des Moines for the weekend. We adjourned at noon and beat it for home.

Iowa was a brown bag state with key clubs for those who wanted it by the drink instead of the bottle. There were slot machines. The Gotham Club, now the Embassy, had machines behind a discreet partition. There was open gambling at the Mainliner on Fleur Drive and Club 100 in West Des Moines.

One event had almost a modern touch in 1947. The House had passed the right to work bill. It was on special order in the Senate. A few thousand union workers came to Des Moines and demanded Governor Blue speak to them. He asked a few of us to come to the west porch with him. The minute he appeared there was loud booing. He silenced them by saying he had come at their invitation and if they didn't want to hear him he would go back to his desk where he had work to do. When he said he would sign the bill if the Senate passed it he was again booed. I'll never forget a loud boo that came from behind me. He was a six-foot, two hundred-plus pounder. Having discretion learned by many a black eye, I ignored him.

In the session sixteen years ago Des Moines had some kind of a sports or new car show. Julius LaRosa, the Bing Crosby or Beatles of that day, was to sing but canceled out at the last minute.

The chamber got a woman singer who was between engagements and asked the legislature to allow her to visit the governor and both houses of the legislature to publicize the change. We felt helpful. She knew how to get publicity. She ruffled the hair of the governor and marched down the center aisle of the House kissing the tops of the bald-headed members.

She could be described as buxom or in the word of the cigarette commercial—so round, so firm, so fully packed.

I was designated to escort her to the podium. She outweighed me forty pounds.

She took my arm and escorted me to the well of the Senate where to the delight of the assembled multitude of reporters, cameramen, lobbyists, the Senate, clerks and others she mugged me, sloppily, I might add.

Senator DeVere Watson was pro tem and presiding. He took a dim view of the proceedings and put on his scalping face. She took a look at him and felt like Custer at Little Big Horn and decided not to mess around with the Chief of the Pottawattamies.

She made a demure little speech and had to escort herself out. No one would get within ten feet of her. Some Senators in the front row hid behind their clerks. My clerk used a half box of tissues getting the war paint off my innocent face.

In one session a young fellow was irked because his flying instructor would not let him solo. So he stole a plane and had a ball for some three hours flitting around buildings in downtown Des Moines and the domes on the capitol. He flew at treetop height up and down streets waving to spectators. Television networks interrupted programs to put the flight on the air all over the country. Head shrinkers predicted he might make a grand final gesture and crash into a downtown building or the dome on the capitol. There was little coffee consumed that afternoon. He landed perfectly. He just wanted to show he could fly a plane.

These are some of the things we old timers remember. We don't really recall tense fights. We remember the friends who fought those legislative battles but can't recall whether one was for or against or what the scraps were all about.

Iowans are and were proud of their state. When Lincoln called the northern governors to Washington at the beginning of the Civil War, Samuel Kirkwood was Iowa Governor. When Lincoln asked him what he could do for Iowa, Kirkwood replied, "I came here not to find out what you could do for my state, but what my state could do for you."

One presiding officer in the old days told the Pioneers in acknowledging their visit: "May the evening of your days be as contented and happy as its morning was full of promise and its meridian was full of honor."

As you too march into the past to join us who have served before you it is the hope of the Pioneer Lawmakers that you too will find your meridian full of honor and the contentment of a job well done.

Pelton of Clinton, District 74, moved that the joint convention be now dissolved.

The motion prevailed.

The Senate returned to the Senate chamber and resumed regular session, President pro tempore Kyhl presiding.

RESOLUTIONS

Senator Potgeter presented resolutions from the city councils of Buckeye and Iowa Falls, Iowa, which read as follows:

Whereas, the City Council has been and is deeply concerned with the increasing problems of financing the provision of local government services for the three of four people in the State of Iowa living in cities and towns, and

Whereas, there are 670 cities and towns levying 28 mills or over and an additional 35 cities and towns levying an emergency mill, and

Whereas, the total debt for cities and towns rose $96 million in 1969, bringing the total debt for cities and towns to above $378 million, or 97 percent of total operating budgets of $390 million, and

Whereas, there is a demonstrated need for additional non-property tax revenues to adequately finance local governments, and

Whereas, the urban population has risen from 53.0 percent of the total state population in 1960 to 73.2 percent in 1970, and

Whereas, any tax reform must provide equitable tax treatment to rural and urban citizens alike

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the City Council in reaffirmation of the policy adopted at the annual meeting of the League of Iowa Municipalities in September of 1970, urges the Iowa General Assembly to increase the state sales tax from 3 percent to 4 percent with the proceeds being returned to cities, towns and counties on a per capita basis.

Be It Further Resolved that the City Council will strongly oppose any increase in state sales or income tax, unless the equivalent of one-half of one cent of sales tax is returned to the cities and towns only on a per capita basis for the benefit of their citizens.

Be It Further Resolved that copies of this resolution be forwarded to our State Representatives and Senators and the League of Iowa Municipalities requesting their vocal and active support of these measures.

Senator Curran presented a resolution from the city council of Clear Lake, Iowa, which reads as follows:

Whereas, on the 5th day of April, A. D., 1971, at the meeting of the City Council, they approved unanimously to oppose any sales tax or personal income tax or any increase in taxes.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 32

By Welden, Fisher of Greene, Shaw and Drake

Whereas, the Governor's Economy Committee recognized the need to review insurance requirements of state departments; and

Whereas, the Governmental Reorganization Study Committee was unable to fully review insurance requirements; and

Whereas, governmental liability is being increasingly broadened by judicial interpretation and the expansion of governmental functions; and

Whereas, the duplication of effort by governmental agencies to obtain insurance increases the cost of state government, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, That the governor be requested to review the present policy of the state regarding insurance, to study the alternatives to the present policy and procedures, and to recommend guidelines to be used in the future. The study shall include a review of the coverages, exposures, and premiums in effect within the various state departments; and the principle of risk management in determining whether the risks which must be assumed can be counterbalanced against the total cost if the state is not to assume any risk or if a certain amount of deductibles is included in the insurance; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the governor be directed to suggest legislation to the General Assembly which will implement the recommended guidelines; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the director of the department of general services, if legislation approving such a department is enacted, be given the duty of purchasing whatever insurance is deemed necessary and of coordinating and controlling the insurance purchase program; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the governor.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 33

By Welden, Fisher of Greene, Shaw and Drake

Whereas, the Governor's Economy Committee recommended that bonding procedures for state employees be reviewed and standardized; and

Whereas, the cost of bonding state employees can be reduced from the present annual fee of eighty-five thousand dollars; and

Whereas, the Governmental Reorganization Study Committee recognized the need to review and standardize the presently inadequate bonding procedures for state employees but was unable to do so because of lack of time, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, That the Governor request the state comptroller or the auditor of state to review statutory bonding provisions for state employees and recommend changes designed to standardize practices while providing adequate protection in an economic manner. The review of bonding provisions should include a study of the feasibility of an overall public employees' bond covering state personnel and the revision of bonding requirements for certain state officials; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the necessary legislative proposals to implement the standardization and revision of bonding provisions be suggested to the General Assembly; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the governor.

Whereas, there has been legislation introduced in the Iowa legislature legalizing Sunday sale of liquor.

Now Therefore Be It Resolved by the Sioux County Municipal League that it opposes any legislation which would legalize Sunday sale of alcoholic beverages.

Passed and unanimously approved on the 19th day of March, 1971.

Senator Lamborn presented the following resolution from the town council, Green Island, Iowa:

Whereas, the Town Council of Green Island, Iowa, has been and is deeply concerned with the increasing problems of financing the provision of local government services for the three of four people in the State of Iowa living in cities and towns, and

Whereas, there are 670 cities and towns levying 28 mills or over and an additional 35 cities and towns levying an emergency mill, and

Whereas, the total debt for cities and towns rose $96 million in 1969, bringing the total debt for cities and towns to above $378 million, or 97 percent of total operating budgets of $390 million, and

Whereas, there is a demonstrated need for additional nonproperty tax revenues to adequately finance local governments, and

Whereas, the urban population has risen from 53 percent of the total state population in 1960 to 73.2 percent in 1970, and

Whereas, any tax reform must provide equitable tax treatment to rural and urban citizens alike,

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the Town Council of Green Island, Iowa, in reaffirmation of the policy adopted at the annual meeting of the League of Iowa Municipalities in September, 1970, urges the Iowa General Assembly to increase the state sales tax from 3 percent to 4 percent with the proceeds being returned to cities, towns and counties on a per capita basis.

Be It Further Resolved that the Town Council of Green Island, Iowa, will strongly oppose any increase in state sales or income tax unless the equivalent of one-half of one cent of sales tax is returned to the cities and towns only on a per capita basis for the benefit of their citizens.

Be It Further Resolved that copies of this resolution be forwarded to our state Representatives and Senators and the League of Iowa Municipalities requesting their vocal and active support of these measures.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 31

By Committee on Environmental Preservation

Whereas, the people of Iowa have a fundamental interest in the orderly development of the state, consistent with the protection and enhancement of its land, air, and water resources; and

Whereas, it is prudent that limited natural resources be placed under a management system that seeks the most efficient use of resources while protecting reserves for the future; and

Whereas, the interdependency of air, water, land, and related environmental issues requires closely coordinated programs and development to prevent, abate, and control pollution problems; and

Whereas, the environmental preservation study committee, created by the Sixty-third General Assembly, studied pollution problems in this state and recommended legislation to broaden the scope of pollution control laws and programs and to coordinate and consolidate existing pollution control programs, but due to time limitations and recent changes in federal pollution control programs and guidelines, was unable to thoroughly study and evaluate related natural resource programs, to consider new federal pollution control guidelines and programs, nor recommend additional consolidation of state environmental programs; and

Whereas, the environmental preservation study committee recommends the continued examination and evaluation of state environmental conditions and the capacities of existing state agencies to effectively deal with these conditions, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives Concurring, That the legislative council is requested to create a study committee to continue the study of state environmental programs and agencies including, but not limited to, an inventory and evaluation of existing programs, a determination of their effectiveness, and the need for further coordination and consolidation of these programs and agencies, the need for additional pollution control programs, and the implementation of federally-sponsored environmental pollution control programs; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a report of the study including proposed legislation to implement the recommendations of the study committee, be prepared and submitted to the legislative council and the members of the General Assembly.

By Senator Smith, from forty-two residents of O'Brien County opposing repeal of the Iowa meat and poultry inspection law.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were presented and placed on file :

By Senator Lamborn, from the City Council of Maquoketa, Iowa.

By Senator Curran, from the City Council of Mason City, Iowa.

Whereas, the City Council has been and is deeply concerned with the increasing problems of financing the provision of local government services for the three of four people in the State of Iowa living in cities and towns, and

Whereas, there are 670 cities and towns levying 28 mills or over and an additional 35 cities and towns levying an emergency mill, and

Whereas, the total debt for cities and towns rose $96 million in 1969, bringing the total debt for cities and towns above $378 million, or 97 percent of total operating budgets of $390 million, and

Whereas, there is a demonstrated need for additional non-property tax revenues to adequately finance local governments, and

Whereas, the urban population has risen from 53 percent of the total state population in 1960 to 73.2 percent in 1970, and

Whereas, any tax reform must provide equitable tax treatment to rural and urban citizens alike,

Now Therefore Be It Resolved that the City Council in reaffirmation of the policy adopted at the annual meeting of the League of Iowa Municipalities in September of 1970, urges the Iowa General Assembly to increase the state sales tax from 3 percent to 4 percent with the proceeds being returned to cities, towns and counties on a per capita basis.

Be It Further Resolved that the City Council will strongly oppose any increase in state sales or income tax, unless the equivalent of one-half of one cent of sales tax is returned to the cities and towns only on a per capita basis for the benefit of their citizens.

Be It Further Resolved that copies of this resolution be forwarded to our state Representatives and Senators and the League of Iowa Municipalities requesting their vocal and active support of these measures.

Also: That the House has passed the following bill in which the concurrence of House was asked:

WILLIAM R. KENDRICK, Chief Clerk

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 9

By Lawson

Whereas, Iowa's future will be vitally affected by all segments of higher education, including regent institutions, area community colleges and private colleges and universities; and

Whereas, the Iowa legislature has assumed varying degrees of financial responsibility in all of the above-named areas at a time of serious cost elevation; and

Whereas, the Iowa Code makes no mention of the relationship between regent institutions and area community colleges, and is entirely silent on the subject of private colleges and universities; and

Whereas, the Iowa legislature has not altered its fundamental approach to higher education since adoption of the Land Grant College Policy of 1869; and

Whereas, the consequences of a lack of legislative policy in this area will be financial distress for the taxpayer and, ultimately, a weaker educational program for Iowa's young; and

Whereas, a higher education policy will both set limits on legislative responsibility, and provide security to institutions knowing that they can depend on legislative support; and

Whereas, a policy should be adopted which clearly defines the role of each type of institution receiving legislative support, with particular attention to types of program offered, numbers and cost of students served, and entrance and graduation requirements, as well as speaking to overlapping offerings by two-year, four-year and graduate institutions of all types in Iowa, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the House, the Senate Concurring, that a study committee made up of members of the House and the Senate, and an equal number of public members who are not representatives of the institutions involved and who are selected by the Governor, be instructed to develop legislative proposals for an Iowa Master Plan for Higher Education during the interim and to deliver them to the Second Regular Session of the Sixty-fourth General Assembly.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 35

By Walsh

Whereas, on May 1, 1971, pursuant to Act of the United States Congress, Railpax commences rail passenger service over those lines designated by the directors of that corporation and the department of transportation, and;

Whereas, under the terms of the federal act authorizing the Railpax network, all other railroad passenger service than that designated as Railpax may be terminated by railroad companies participating in the Railpax Corporation, and;

Whereas, the route selected for the Railpax network to service Iowa touches only the extreme southern part of the state, thereby bypassing most major communities in the state, as well as the heavy suburban and rural concentrations of population, and;

Whereas, the Milwaukee Railroad has announced plans, effective May 1, 1971, to abandon passenger service through the central part of the state, and the Illinois Central Railroad has announced termination of passenger service, effective May 1, 1971, to northeast and northern Iowa, and the Burlington Northern Railroad has announced termination of passenger service, effective May 1, 1971, to northeast Iowa.

Whereas, these terminations of service, coupled with the proposed Rail-pax route locations are tantamount to an end of rail passenger service to the people of Iowa, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That the United States Congress is hereby petitioned to suspend the May 1, 1971 effective date on which rail passenger service may be terminated by railroads participating in Railpax and direct the Railpax directors and the United States department of transportation to reexamine the Railpax routes and general passenger train service so as to expand the locations for rail passenger in order to serve a majority of communities and people of the state.

Be It Further Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby, directed to forward copies of the resolution to the directors of Railpax and the Honorable John Volpe, Secretary of the United States department of transportation.

Read first time and placed on calendar.

BILLS ASSIGNED TO COMMITTEE

S. F. 506 Social services

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 36

By Committee on Environmental Preservation
(Committee on Environmental Preservation)

Whereas, the people of Iowa have a fundamental interest in the orderly development of the state, consistent with the protection and enhancement of its land, air, and water resources; and

Whereas, it is prudent that limited natural resources be placed under a management system that seeks the most efficient use of resources while protecting reserves for the future; and

Whereas, the interdependency of air, water, land, and related environmental issues requires closely coordinated programs and development to prevent, abate, and control pollution problems; and

Whereas, the Environmental Preservation Study Committee, created by the Sixty-third General Assembly, studied pollution problems in this state and recommended legislation to broaden the scope of pollution control laws and programs and to coordinate and consolidate existing pollution control programs, but due to time limitations and recent changes in federal pollution control programs and guidelines, was unable to thoroughly study and evaluate related natural resource programs, to consider new federal pollution control guidelines and programs, nor recommend additional consolidation of state environmental programs; and

Whereas, the Environmental Preservation Study Committee recommends the continued examination and evaluation of state environmental conditions and the capacities of existing state agencies to effectively deal with these conditions, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives Concurring, That the Legislative Council is requested to create a study committee to continue the study of state environmental programs and agencies including, but not limited to, an inventory and evaluation of existing programs, a determination of their effectiveness, and the need for further coordination and consolidation of these programs and agencies, the need for additional pollution control programs, and the implementation of federally-sponsored environmental pollution control programs; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a report of the study including proposed legislation to implement the recommendations of the study committee, be prepared and submitted to the Legislative Council and the members of the General Assembly.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 37

By Schaben

Whereas, a legislative session of great length imposes an undue burden upon many members of the General Assembly who because of their status as citizen legislators must continue to maintain their normal employment and conduct their businesses in their home communities; and

Whereas, the proper scheduling and planning of legislative activities with the establishment of definite deadlines would allow the General Assembly to accomplish the same amount of work in a shorter time resulting in monetary savings to the State of Iowa; and

Whereas, the work conducted and completed on Fridays by the General Assembly could easily be completed during the first four days of a legislative week by proper scheduling, planning, and endeavor, Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate, the House Concurring, That the General Assembly establish a weekly schedule consisting of the first four work days of a week in order that the members of the General Assembly may continue to serve without jeopardizing their normal employment and business activities and thus allowing more persons representing more varied occupational groups to be members of the General Assembly; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the General Assembly establish time limits for each legislative session of ninety session days for the first session of each General Assembly and seventy-five days for the second session of each General Assembly.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

Senator Briles submitted the following report:

MR. PRESIDENT: Your committee on county government, to which was referred House File 614, a bill for an act relating to the state fair board, begs leave to report it has had the same under consideration and recommends the same do pass.

JAMES E. BRILES, Chairman

Ordered passed on file.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER

MR. PRESIDENT: I move to reconsider the vote by which House File 14 passed the Senate.

RUDY VAN DRIE

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

I voted against House File 14 on final passage because in my opinion the language is too broad and also ambiguous. The public's vested rights in regard to public recreational and natural areas should be jealously guarded and husbanded; we should be setting precise and meaningful standards to protect these rights.

16 a medical or educational institution, or other public
17 or private agency or institution, and for the purpose
18 of providing the requisite clinical experience shall

7 employed pursuant to this Act.

8 Sec. 10.

5 qualified for certification shall receive a general
6 technologic certificate.

7 3. A certificate or permit may be renewed or reissued
8 upon application to the agency accompanied by a fee
9 of twenty dollars. However, renewal may be denied if 10 the board finds that the applicant has committed any 11 act or omission which would constitute grounds for 12 denial of an original certificate or permit, or 13 suspension or revocation of the certificate or permit.
14 Upon request, an applicant whose application for renewal
15 has been denied shall be entitled to a hearing in the 16 same manner provided in section eleven (11) of this
