JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

FIRST CALENDAR DAY
FIRST SESSION DAY

Senate Chamber
Des Moines, Iowa, Monday, January 8, 2007

Pursuant to chapter two (2), sections two point one (2.1) and two point three (2.3), Code of Iowa, the 2007 Regular Session of the Eighty-second General Assembly convened at 10:07 a.m., and the Senate was called to order by President Kibbie.

Prayer was offered by Reverend Steve Ellerbusch, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran Church in Emmetsburg, Iowa. He was the guest of Senator Kibbie.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by President Kibbie.

OPENING REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

President Kibbie addressed the Senate with the following remarks:

I would like to welcome back all returning members and staff to the 2007 session of the 82nd General Assembly and extend a special welcome to the seven new members who today take their place as senators in this special institution. You have been invested as lawmakers and will have an important role in shaping Iowa's future.

The November election also saw the voters, for the first time in 42 years, provide Democratic leadership in the Governor's Office, the House of Representatives, and the Senate. I am confident we are ready to lead this state in a responsible, commonsense manner that will justify the voters' confidence in us.

I want to thank my Democratic colleagues for placing their trust in me as President of the Senate. I pledge to be fair to all members during our debates and assure that my office is open to both Democrats and Republicans for any issues that may arise.

We face many challenges as we begin this new General Assembly. While Democrats are the majority, it is my hope that much of what we do can be in a bipartisan manner. The minority has an important role to play, and I know our Republican colleagues have good ideas on legislation that comes before us, and I am confident that committee chairs will seek the full participation of all the members.

In my remarks last year, I said: “Another part of our economic development efforts should be to reward those Iowans who work hard and play by the rules. They are the unsung Iowans who go to work at low-wage jobs every day. They are the workers employers depend upon, and they answer the call. They raise our children, support their communities, and help their neighbors.”

Often during that session, Senator Courtney urged us to remember these workers and support them by raising the minimum wage. We didn’t listen last year, but early this session we will raise the minimum wage.

We have major challenges in education at all levels. While it is welcome news that our teacher compensation went from 42nd to 40th, that’s not good enough. We can do better.

It was just reported that tuition at Iowa’s public universities will rise again this year. We all ought to be concerned that ever-increasing tuition puts great stress on middle-income families and that we cannot price their children out of a college education. More than ever, we need the best-trained students to fill the 200,000 jobs that need to be filled in the next five to ten years—jobs which require specialized skills.

Our progress as a state and our economic success depend on a strong educational system top to bottom. Our K–12 system, community colleges, regents institutions, and private colleges are partners in providing the education Iowans need to move our state forward and keep young Iowans at home.

Over the last eight years, the legislature and Governor Vilsack have adopted initiatives for cleaner air and water, Vision Iowa, the Iowa Values Fund, and the Cultural and Tourism programs. These initiatives have proven their value, and while we may want to provide some enhancements, I see no need to reinvent these important efforts that make Iowa better place in which to live and work.

We will spend considerable time looking at our property tax system. Most agree it is in need of repair. We need to be creative and innovative and look at ways to address current inequities, especially the way we tax commercial property.

Our health care system is an important component of economic security for our families. Many states have taken bold steps to address how best to provide affordable coverage for those who have health insurance and introduce new initiatives to provide coverage for the uninsured. I am confident we can work together this year and next to reduce the number of Iowans without health insurance.

As a farmer all of my life, I would be remiss if I did not mention the continued importance of agriculture in Iowa’s future. For many years, feed grains and livestock defined agriculture. With the broadened definition of agriculture, exciting opportunities exist for those in rural Iowa. Agriculture policy should continue to be one of the cornerstones of any discussion about a growing economy.

With the diversity in our agricultural economy, there are many opportunities to expand the agricultural community. We should support additional incentives for beginning farmers with ownership, opportunity, prosperity, environmental stewardship, and robust competition as our goals. Each new owner-operator of a farm provides rural Iowa with a new family, a growing community, and a vibrant economic presence.

I want to take a moment to talk about what I consider a key issue in Iowa’s economic future, and that is alternative and renewable fuels. I still believe that every gallon of gasoline in Iowa should contain ethanol. It is good for our economy. It is good for our farmers. It helps us become more energy independent. According to the Legislative Services Agency as of January 2006, the percentage of all gasoline used on our highways that contained ethanol was at 76 percent. If every gallon of gasoline contained ethanol, it could mean more profit in the pockets of Iowa farmers.

In November, I attended a gathering at Iowa State University which was titled, "A Call to Action Summit: Ensuring Iowa's Leadership in the Bioeconomy." It was an outstanding event about the future and about the unlimited potential of our state's role in economic and food security issues. The handout we received is a great summary of where we are and where we need to go. If you haven't seen it, stop in my office and we will get you a copy.

The message from this conference is clear. We need a comprehensive, statewide energy policy to oversee the development and direction of our bioeconomy.

Our transportation infrastructure to support this economy requires planning for roads, rails, pipelines, and other infrastructure.

Our educational system, from K-12 to all of higher education, must partner with the state in developing the plans for our students for the challenges of the new jobs the bioeconomy will create. Finally, to ensure the long-term viability of the new bioeconomy, our agricultural policies must be consistent with sustainable land use.

The last important issue I want to mention is that in recognition of the needs of our veterans and their families, we have put in place a standing Veterans Affairs committee so that issues related to support of our veterans will receive prompt hearing and action.

It is clear that we have a lot of work to do. None of these issues I've mentioned need to be, or should, be partisan. We can and will work together to give our best effort for those who sent us here.

Thank you very much.

REMARKS BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Senator Lundby addressed the Senate as follows:

Thank you Mr. President.

Mr. President, Senators, families, and our esteemed guests, welcome to the Senate and the beginning of the 82nd General Assembly. To the newly elected Senators, I offer my sincere hope for a good and productive session; and to those returning to the place we know, and on occasion enjoy, I wish you all a good and productive session as well.

Over the last couple of weeks, I have taken the opportunity to read past speeches given by the "man with unseen power, the most powerful Iowa politician," Senator Mike Gronstal, the new Senate majority leader. Senator Gronstal offered many words of wisdom in those speeches, and I have a few quotes that I thought truly set the right tone going into the 82nd General Assembly.

Quoted from Senator Mike Gronstal's opening remarks to the 77th General Assembly: "In my campaign last fall, while knocking on thousands of doors, I never heard a citizen suggest that we needed Republican solutions . . . and I also never heard one say we needed Democratic solutions. They expect us to listen to each other and recognize that neither party has all the answers, and together we can find common-sense solutions to the challenges that confront us."

How true, Senator Gronstal.

And this quote from the opening of the 78th General Assembly: "After a contentious campaign, it is hard, at times, to forget that elections are about defining differences between ourselves and our opponents, but governing is about finding common ground to deal with the issues that face our state."

Once again, Senator Gronstal, you speak the truth.

And this one from the 80th General Assembly: "History tells us that we are at our best in the Iowa Legislature when we sit down, resolve our differences, and move ahead with confidence and boldness. When we are together and bold, the people of Iowa—whether Republican or Democrat—are the winners."

I want Senator Gronstal to know, from day one, we agree.

Of course, bipartisanship serves the best interest of all Iowans. And with ten years of comments indicating your continuing support for Democrats and Republicans working together, I am looking forward to a session where we produce good, balanced bipartisan policy.

And make no mistake; Republicans intend to bring our constituents' voices to the table. We will work with Democrats when legislation represents the best interest of all Iowans:

When Senate Democrats propose legislation that takes a pragmatic approach to the environment, understanding the need for balance between agriculture, small business, and quality of life, Senate Republicans will work with you.

When Senate Democrats propose legislation that returns our budget surpluses to the taxpayers, not squandered on unnecessary expansion of state government, Senate Republicans will work with you.

When Senate Democrats propose legislation that supports a commonsense approach to public safety, which will maintain our ranking as the second safest state in the country, Senate Republicans will work with you.

When Senate Democrats propose legislation that boldly addresses our crisis in property tax policy through full-scale reform and not simple shifts in the property tax burden that represents a stop-gap approach, Senate Republicans will work with you.

When Senate Democrats propose legislation to increase teacher salaries and to treat teachers as professionals and not a mere bargaining unit, Senate Republicans will work with you.

When Senate Democrats propose legislation that helps all Iowans access affordable health care and assists small businesses by providing private sector solutions to health care, Senate Republicans will work with you.

Senate Republicans whole-heartedly agree with Majority Leader Gronstal's long-term goal of creating a bipartisan environment in the Iowa Senate. I look forward to the long days in this session where Democratic and Republican bills and amendments will find equal time on the floor, where the debate on the Senate floor will be engaging and bipartisan and where good policy is made that reflects the best, bipartisan interests of all Iowans.

It is possible to find the middle ground and build a long list of accomplishments during this first session of the 82nd General Assembly. It simply requires that we listen to each other with optimism, hope, and enough curiosity to find our common interests. I wish you all good health and a happy and productive legislative session. Let's get to work!

REMARKS BY THE MAJORITY LEADER

Senator Gronstal addressed the Senate as follows:

Mr. President, colleagues, and staff. Welcome to the Eighty-second General Assembly in the Iowa Senate.

Two years ago, the people of Iowa changed how we do things in the Iowa Senate. They did so by electing a tied Senate for the first time in 72 years, something which forced both parties to work together.

That meant that here in the Senate we had to listen. We had to listen to each other and find common ground, and we had to listen to Iowans. We had to focus on the issues that really matter to working families.

The results were impressive. We passed America's toughest anti-meth bill and dramatically reduced the number of meth labs in our state. We toughened penalties and supervision of sex offenders. We approved several measures to support veterans and active-duty Iowans. Our bipartisan water quality initiative is helping clean up Iowa's polluted waterways. We instituted strong government accountability measures in the wake of the CEITC outrage. We passed the nation's strongest effort to promote alternative fuels, provided access to expanded health care for Iowans, cut taxes for seniors and retirees, and took steps forward on teacher pay and student achievement.

I think people liked how we did business during the last two years. And I think their approval was reflected in last November's election. That election was a mandate. It was a mandate for the Senate to keep listening and to keep working to bring people together, both here in the Senate and in Iowa's communities.

I'm optimistic that we will work together to pass major legislation that strong majorities of Iowans want.

For example, we know protecting Iowa's status as the state with great educational opportunities is key to our future growth and prosperity. The single most important factor in a student's success is the quality of the classroom teacher. We have great teachers, but we pay them as if they were ineffective teachers. That's why other states see Iowa schools as a great place to recruit the teachers needed to improve the schools in their states.

This is the year to keep the promises repeatedly made by both Republican and Democratic legislators to Iowa's students, parents, and teachers. This session, I expect to vote for the Senate or House file that will finally keep our promises by bringing the average pay of Iowa teachers up from 40th in the nation to 25th in the nation.

Soon it will be 10 years since Iowa's lowest-paid workers have had a raise. Ten years. What difference will raising the minimum wage make? To most Iowans, the answer is "not much." But to the 100,000 to 125,000 Iowans who earn the minimum wage—70 percent of whom are family breadwinners—raising the minimum wage will make a big difference.

A strong majority of Iowans know this. I think if both chambers had voted on the minimum wage last year, an increase would have passed. It is a shame we didn't have the chance to stand together on this issue last year, and a shame that Iowa's lowest-paid workers had to wait yet another year for raise. This year, we will vote on a bill to increase the minimum wage, and Iowa will be a better place because of it.

Too many Iowans live without health insurance. This makes life more difficult for them and makes health care more expensive for everyone. Through programs like HAWK-I, we've brought tens of thousands of previously uninsured children into the health care system. Now it is time to bring their working parents into the system as well. The moral argument is straightforward, and when the federal government is ready to pay two-thirds to three-fourths of the cost, the financial argument in favor of expanding health care is also strong.

Last session's successful alternative energy industry initiatives should be the model for a continued bipartisan focus on growing Iowa's economy. For example, we should review every economic proposal to ensure that it aids both rural and urban communities. We need to continue a comprehensive approach that addresses the needs of workers seeking skills to move ahead. We have seriously underfunded Iowa's community colleges, making it much more difficult for them to offer training programs which fit the needs of their local industries.

I'm excited about the next two years. I'm ready to build on the last two years of bipartisan cooperation. We've seen what works and so have the voters.

Let's pay attention to the mandate the voters have given us. Let's keep listening, keep looking for common ground, and keep focused on the concerns and dreams of Iowa families.

Thank you, Mr. President.

Speaking of lieutenant governors, no governor in the country has ever had a stronger or better relationship than the one that I have had with Lieutenant Governor Sally Pederson. Lieutenant Governor Pederson has added her voice to those who have little voice, and she has stirred us to action. Mental health parity, a redesign of the mental health system, affordable housing for people with disabilities, a tour of the state to promote art and the important role it plays in all of our lives, greater diversity in boards and commission and staff appointments, and comparable worth that for the first time for women working in state government occurred with her leadership, and reflect and represent her conscience and her commitment. I want to take this opportunity to thank my partner for eight great years, and I'd ask you to join me in doing so as well.

I might get in a little trouble at home if I didn't also say a few words about Iowa's first volunteer and our First Lady, Christie Vilsack. From the day I took the oath of office, no Iowan has worked longer or harder to make Iowa a great place to live, work, and raise families. I've watched Christie, I've watched her as kindergarteners clutched the book that she gave them, their first book, clutching it as if it was the most precious thing on earth. And indeed, a love of books and reading is precious. Christie, through her foundation, blessed over 200,000 of our children with that special moment. I've watched as she left Terrace Hill very early in the morning and didn't come back until very late at night so she could visit every possible library. She has visited over 500 libraries, the souls of our communities she calls them. And she also encouraged all of us to provide for the first time direct financial assistance to our libraries through the Enrich Iowa program. I watched as she invited certified teacher librarians back into our Code and into our schools, and thousands of Iowans to Terrace Hill for the Spring Fling, her monthly teas, and receptions—Iowans who never thought they would have the opportunity to see the inside of the governor's mansion, much less the private quarters. I've watched her raise the profile of all of our First Ladies and the contribution that they have made to our collective history with the First Ladies' exhibit in Terrace Hill. Yes, I've watched and I've wondered at her energy, her passion, and her commitment. Honey, I want you to know I love you and I care deeply for you and I am so appreciative of the eight years that you have given to me, to the people of Iowa, and especially to our children. I'm certainly glad to have my son and his fiancée Kate with us today, as well.

Before I acknowledge the other dignitaries who are with us, I would like to say a word about state workers and the staff, the loyal staff, who have served us and my administration for the last eight years. We have weathered war, an attack on our country, and some of the toughest fiscal conditions any state government has ever seen. Through it all, these individuals who work for us have also suffered personal tragedies and celebrated personal triumphs. Despite all of that, they gave us countless hours of their effort and energy and passion to make this state a better place to live, work, and raise families.

The same can be said for those who are our directors and those who serve on boards and commissions throughout this great state. I want you all to know that I owe them a debt of gratitude that I will never ever be able to repay. We are a great state because we have people willing to make sacrifices for us.

I'd like to acknowledge the dignitaries who are with us and I'd like to begin with this historic moment to acknowledge Iowa's first woman chief justice of the Supreme Court, Chief Justice Marsha Ternus, and members of the Iowa Supreme Court. I'd also like to welcome members of our Court of Appeals. It's an awkward moment for judges in this circumstance because they're not supposed to acknowledge any applause. It's part of our judiciary, and we're proud of it. Let me say, Madam Chief Justice, that I am excited about the opportunity that I'll witness tomorrow, a historic opportunity, as you give your inaugural Condition of the Judiciary speech. As a proud member of the Iowa Bar Association, let me also say that we as Iowans are fortunate to have competent and independent judges throughout this great state.

Let me take this opportunity to acknowledge these distinguished public servants and all of our judges for their public service, and most specifically, for the work that they do that guarantees to us justice and equality under the law every day in our state.

As Iowans, we are equally blessed by the dedication and commitment shown to us by our statewide elected officials. I've traveled to all corners of the country, and I can tell you that no state has ever been better served by an attorney general than we have been served by Tom Miller throughout his distinguished career. And the same can be said for our state treasurer. No state has been better served than by our state treasurer than Mike Fitzgerald. I want to thank these two gentlemen for their service, and I want to tell you that they are acknowledged by their colleagues as being the best in the business and we are fortunate to have them.

They are also joined by our auditor, David Vaudt. Let me tell you that the auditor has continued the strong and proud tradition of the auditor's office, as Richard Johnson did, as the independent watchdog over the activities of state government and local government for the people of our state. Mr. Auditor, I appreciate your hard work, I appreciate what you have done for us to make sure that we are doing the right thing for the people every day.

Now that trio is joined by two newcomers, two newly elected, statewide-elected officials: our Secretary of Agriculture, Bill Northey, and our Secretary of State, Michael Mauro. These gentlemen have only been on the job for a week, but I suspect they already know that they have fairly large shoes to fill. But both of them bring compassion and passion, commitment, and energy to the job. And I'm sure that they're going to succeed for themselves, but more important, they're going to succeed for all of us. Welcome.

I started my service 14 years ago by walking into this Capitol and taking the oath of office as a state senator, so I fully appreciate how busy members of the General Assembly are when a General Assembly first begins. I do appreciate the opportunity that you have given me today to spend a few minutes of your time as you begin your work and as I finish mine.

I know because I've worked with most of you that all of the members of this General Assembly are dedicated and caring Iowans. I know that you hold in your heart what is best for the state of Iowa and that you're committed to making sure that you do good work. Let me take this opportunity on behalf of all of the people of Iowa to thank you for your service, for your dedication, and your commitment.

Now during the course of my time here, I've had the opportunity to deal primarily with the leadership. Let me say a few words about leadership on both sides of the aisle. On the Republican side, I've had the opportunity to work with Speakers Corbett, Siegrist, and Rants; Leaders Iverson, Lundby, and Gipp; and Presidents Lamberti and Kramer. I want to thank each of them for their understanding, for their willingness to work through good-faith disagreements to a point where we could reach consensus and conclusion for the people of Iowa. We are well served by a strong two-party system, and their party has been well led throughout the eight years I have been governor.

I've also been fortunate to work with leaders on my side, Leaders Schrader and Meyers and now speaker Pat Murphy. On the Senate side, President Jack Kibbie and Senate Majority Leader Mike Gronstal. This is going to be tough because these are my friends. No governor has ever had a closer friendship, a closer relationship, and better advisors than I have had from these leaders. My party is fortunate, and the caucuses are fortunate to have this leadership.

I will miss working with them and miss working with you, but I know that both caucuses are well led and that both caucuses are geared toward a session that will be historic, that will move this state forward, and so I wish you all the very best of luck in your dealings with one another.

During the recent holiday, I took my family on a tour of this great Capitol. I figured it was the fitting thing to do, to appreciate the magnitude of this beautiful building as I was prepared to leave it. The highlight of the tour was a trip to the top of our Capitol, to the very top of the dome. I had never been there before. I climbed all 298 steps from this floor to the top, and I can tell you that every step was worth it for the view.

At first my view focused on the gold detail of our beautiful Capitol. As I walked outside and looked at the walkway that surrounds our dome, I began to reflect on the work that had been done in the last eight years, and the people who made it happen. I realized at that point, that more than the landscape of our great state had changed. We as a people had changed. We are more hopeful and optimistic as our state leads an energy revolution, not just for Iowa but for the entire nation. We take pride in knowing that we are the best at producing ethanol, soy-diesel, and renewable fuel, and that the rest of the nation is looking to us for leadership.

We are more tolerant and welcoming, as witnessed by the fact that we created New Iowan Centers, and we expanded their number to welcome people from all over the world to our great state, to make them feel part of our community.

And we are more cognizant of our environment, as we begin the process of reversing decades of decline of our water resources. All of that and much more bodes very well for the future, but only if we accept the challenge and the opportunity that change presents.

From the top of the Capitol looking east, I looked at the Grimes office building and that's where our department of education works. Just beyond that is an elementary school, the Capitol View school. It's part of the Des Moines school district. It is an elementary school that the governor's office has a special relationship with. It represents the growing diversity of our state.

It is there that I met a very precocious fourth grader by the name of Chrystal Martin. Over the last seven years we in this great Capitol have worked hard to create over 200 million dollars of assistance to reduce class sizes in the elementary grades. Iowans, all of us, were concerned and worried about an erosion of the reading skills of our young children by virtue of the fact that we had seen eight consecutive years of declining test scores.

Chrystal was part of a generation of learners that we were concerned about, who were not faring as well as we had hoped until we collectively decided to take action and change things for the better. Well, when Chrystal saw me, she walked up and she said, "Are you the governor?" And I said, "Yes, I am." She stood up straight and tall, and she said, "Well, I'm Chrystal Martin and they told me that I couldn't read at grade level, but I just got my test scores back and I'm reading at grade level."

Well, ladies and gentlemen, I looked into the eyes of that child and I saw more than I needed to see about the importance of class size reduction and focusing on reading skills, more than the six consecutive years of improved test scores we've seen recently. I saw power in the eyes of that child, the power to read, the power to learn, and most important of all, the power to achieve dreams.

We need to continue our class-size reduction efforts and build on that, and build we did when we began the process of Strong Start, our early childhood initiative. It focused on children zero to six years of age. We wanted them to have their parents be their first and best teacher, we wanted to improve quality childcare, and we wanted to expand access to preschool.

Every child in our state deserves a better future, but our work to ensure that better future is not finished. Indeed, while thousands of children have been helped by Strong Start, thousands more remain in need of help and that is the challenge that the change we started presents.

Do we continue to work for those who have no powerful lobby but represent 100 percent of our future? That is the opportunity that change presents. We'll be able to expand Strong Start to a point where every child has access to preschool. Let universal preschool in this state be the change that allows and enables every child in our state a chance, the opportunity to start school ready to learn, able to learn, and excited about learning. Let us be the first state in the union to make that unqualified guarantee to every single child in our state.

Great learning requires great teaching, and teachers deserve our respect and they deserve to be well paid. No athlete, no CEO, no governor on their best day performs as much magic as a classroom teacher performs every day. Yet teaching salaries lag behind the salaries of those who entertain us, those who operate our companies, and those who govern us. I applaud the Governor-elect and legislative leaders for their intention to expand and accelerate the work we started to improve teaching salaries by raising them to the national average. But this General Assembly could use this opportunity to look for more innovative ways to reward stellar performance in our schools by creating a new and improved compensation system. The current compensation system was modeled after activities 90 years ago, and during that period of time little has changed. I believe the legacy of this General Assembly and our new leaders will not be a preservation of the old, but an acceptance and embracement of the new. I believe you can blaze a new trail, waiting for no state, no city, no school district. Let Iowa be the leader that delivers a new and improved compensation system. Let Iowa be the leader that says to every single teacher, you are respected and you will be compensated accordingly. Let Iowa do that for our teachers, and most important of all, for our children.

One final word about education. I know that it's appropriate and necessary for us to continue to talk about the rising cost of college and university tuitions and our plans to help reduce the heavy load that our youngsters are currently having to carry, but I hope that we extend that conversation a bit to recognize that there are some who do not go to college, not because they can't afford it but because they've not graduated from high school. Our state is one of the best states in terms of high school graduation rates and we can take pride in that, but the dropout rate among minority students, while it has improved, still lags behind. We need help. We need help for those students who need extra help. Additional investments in the Iowa Jobs for America's Graduate program that we started several years ago, a high school dropout prevention program, will guarantee continued success. Nine out of ten Iowa seniors graduate from high school, but only seven out of ten minority students. It's not enough in our state for every white child to graduate from high school, to have a shot at college and a better future. It's necessary and important for us to continue to work until every child regardless of color graduates from high school and has a shot at college and a brighter and better future. That is a challenge that change presents to us, and for our future and our children's future; we must meet and accept that challenge. For if we do not, all of us will share in the consequences of failure.

As I looked to the north from the top of the Capitol, I looked at the Mercy Hospital clinic and I thought of my good friend Doctor Steve Gleason. Doctor Gleason worked at Mercy and he also worked at this Capitol. He was a passionate advocate for healthcare reform. It was his belief that every Iowan and every American deserved access to quality health care, and that that access should never be denied or delayed. If he were with us today, I think he would be happy with the fact that Iowa is only one of two states that reduced the number of uninsured last year, and we ranked second in the nation in overall healthcare coverage. Almost 92 percent of our citizens are covered.

But I don't think Steve would be satisfied with that. I think he would remind us that every Iowan deserves coverage, every Iowan deserves to get the care they need when they need it. And so my challenge to you and the challenge that change presents is simply this: Let Iowa be the first, let this General Assembly and this new administration be the first, not just to promise universal access to health care, but to deliver on that promise to every single child, every single adult, and every single citizen of this state. We can do this.

And for those who may be doubtful, for those who may wonder whether we can afford it, let me simply say I believe we cannot afford not to. This is something that we can do in this state. You have worked hard, you have gotten us to this point, let's finish the job in health care.

Now, as important as that job is you should not be satisfied with just simply providing universal coverage. As tough and as challenging and as daunting as that task may be, we started down another path in health care, an important path, a path of actually reducing the cost of health care to Iowa citizens. We established the Senior Living Trust to reduce the need for nursing home care and allow people to remain in their homes with greater dignity for longer periods of time. We extended healthcare insurance coverage to a series of mental illnesses so that folks wouldn't have to get so sick that they finally got attention. We also created the Iowa Cares program in an effort to say to those who are uninsured at Broadlawns and at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, you don't have to go to an expensive and necessary emergency room visit, you can go to a less expensive doctor's office visit. We began this important work and understand how significant it is. We have begun the transformation of our healthcare system from one that simply prevents diseases and treats diseases to one that not only prevents, but also cures the incurable.

You have three important missions in this General Assembly, it seems to me, that you ought to give very serious consideration to as you continue this transformation. First, we must begin the process of accelerating our efforts to reduce childhood obesity. Our children need to be active, our children need to eat nutritious snacks, our children need to be healthy—we owe it to them. Second, it's important that we continue to expand dramatically our efforts to reduce teenage smoking and other drug use. And third, and this is important if we're interested in curing incurable diseases, we must lift the ban on nuclear cell transplants now.

As I moved to the view of the Capitol that looks west, I recognized and appreciated that our work here had changed the landscape of the city of Des Moines through the Vision Iowa program and the Values Fund. It occurred to me that through those programs, and the Community and Attraction Tourism program, we've not just changed the landscape of one community, we've changed the landscape of hundreds of communities in 90 counties in over 500 projects, and that number continues to grow.

Over ten billion dollars of capital investment has been committed and will create or retain well over 30,000 jobs, and that number will also increase over time. These projects and these programs have allowed us to have one of the fastest-growing economies in the country, have enabled us to record a record number of employed Iowans, have improved family incomes above the national median for the first time in some time, have helped to reverse the brain drain, and perhaps as important as anything, have established Iowa as the undisputed leader in renewable energy production.

But the time is past due to extend economic progress for those who work at minimum wage jobs. Let's bring the progress that we've experienced as a state to everyone. Let's raise the minimum wage, and let's do it this year.

As I thought about our work on the economy through these programs, I thought of Terri Goodman from Dubuque, Iowa. For me she represents the spirit of this new Iowa. She lives in Dubuque and she was one of the primary movers of the Dubuque Vision Iowa project, the America River Museum. It's a museum that led to a contribution and participation by folks from all over the country in investing tens of millions of dollars along the riverfront in Dubuque. It helped to transform that community. It also celebrates the ecology and the important role that the Mississippi River plays. After the museum opened, I just assumed that that was all there was. But Terri, representing this new spirit, had more ideas, more opportunities to expand, more opportunities to take a further step.

And that's precisely what we need to continue to do here in this Capitol. We cannot be satisfied with where we have been, we must be satisfied that we need to get to a different place. That's why I hope that this General Assembly will continue to fund and expand Great Places. It's the next generation of Vision Iowa, and I hope that there's a more focused Values Fund effort as the Governor-elect has suggested to make sure that our state is indeed the energy-secure state that it needs to be and can be.

Let us be as the Governor-elect has suggested, the first state in the country to sever our relationship with foreign oil and foreign oil supplies, so that we can provide a growing economy for our state. You know, Governor-elect, I realize the more times I refer to you, the more times they stand up.

You know, Terri Goodman's vision extended beyond bricks and mortar. She understood the economic power of our water resources, and we should as well. We now know more about our water after monitoring it for eight years, and we know the need for improving it. We have a plan for those improvements, and last year we made a one-year down-payment to advance that plan. But now I ask the General Assembly to display the courage of your convictions by an aggressive multiyear effort. It's time for us to make a clear statement about our concern for the environment. It's time for us to have a multiyear Vision Iowa-like program to clean up our water, to take full advantage of the potential of our water resources.

In doing so, Iowa cannot only be an energy leader, we can and we must and we should be an environmental leader as well. Now, I know that there may be some who ask whether or not such an aggressive ambitious agenda would be accomplished. I don't believe there is any question it can be. A growing economy that improved revenues last year and this year makes this agenda possible and more. Our reserve accounts are full, and we're well on our way to repaying the entire debt we owe to the Senior Living Trust. It's a payoff for all the hard work and sacrifices that previous General Assemblies made.

Finally I looked to the south of this great Capitol, and I saw the memorial to the fallen. I reflected on the current war and calls I've made to family members. I made one just last week. You know, war and death and destruction caused from it do not distinguish by color or culture. Just simply read the names on the memorial. They come from all walks of life, all parts of our world. We owe those who serve us a great debt. We've attempted to repay it in small ways: first-time home buyers assistance program for our National Guard men and women, money for injured soldiers and their families, Bobby and Michelle's bill, a veterans trust fund so we continue to make sure that veterans understand that they have earned rights and privileges, full college tuition assistance, and a national cemetery, an appropriate final resting place for those who have sacrificed so much.

But it is not enough, it is not enough. We can and we must do more. We can honor their sacrifice by promoting tolerance, understanding and compassion for those who may be different than us. The current strife in Iraq stems from a failure to accept diversity of blood and belief. Sunnis, Shiites, and Kurds do not get along. Their children die, our children die. If we really want to honor those who have given so much for us, we should not depend on the Iraqis to accept that responsibility. That is our responsibility.

So let us pledge here and now as Americans, not as Republicans or Democrats, but as Americans, let us dedicate ourselves to making diversity, in whatever form it may come, a reason to love and not to hate, a reason to accept and not reject, a reason to celebrate and not to fight. We can start by making our schools safe for all of our children by passing the antibullying bill. Do it for them, do it for us, and do it now.

This war has cost us a lot. It has hollowed out our military. It has, in my view, weakened our National Guard, and it puts our nation at risk. This war has compromised our national government's ability to meet the needs here at home—better schools, accessible and affordable health care, and modern infrastructure.

Now the President and the Congress are poised to make a big mistake even bigger by escalating America's involvement by adding more troops and investing more resources, by failing to recognize that the responsibility for success lies not with us but with the Iraqis and their government. Understand that escalation will come at the expense of families and communities here in Iowa and across the nation. We will once again send National Guard troops from this state to Iraq for another long-term deployment. Escalation will further erode our nation's ability to adequately fund needs here at home.

As governor and as the commander-in-chief, I have an obligation to speak out and to urge the President and Congress not to put more Iowans and Americans in harm's way in Iraq. But I have another obligation—one that extends beyond my role as governor and commander-in-chief. It is as an Iowan and as an American. And I use that obligation to ask you, the members of the General Assembly, to speak out as well. I ask you to use your collective voice to pass a resolution urging our President and our Congress not to make this tragic mistake for those who will unnecessarily die.

This may not be part of the agenda, this may not be part of what you plan to do, but I ask you today and throughout this General Assembly to look down deep inside your heart and ask yourself if you're doing all you can do to make sure we do not make a big mistake even bigger.

Let me end my time with you today where I began, with a thank you. I owe a thank you to the people of Iowa for granting me the privilege that few have ever had, the opportunity to serve them as governor. While challenges clearly remain, we have built a state better prepared for what lies ahead.

I have given it my all and I have done my best, but as I leave I'm confident. I'm confident that Iowa's best is yet to come starting right here and starting right now. God bless you all.

ADOPTION OF EXTRAORDINARY RESOLUTION

An Extraordinary Resolution honoring Governor Thomas J. Vilsack for his eight years as Governor of the State of Iowa.

Whereas, Thomas J. Vilsack today addressed the Eighty-second General Assembly of the State of Iowa and in so doing, delivered, in addition to his Inaugural Address in 1998, his eighth and last Condition of the State message to the Iowa General Assembly as Governor of the State of Iowa; and

Whereas, This Joint Convention of 50 Senators and 100 Representatives therefore is honored to represent the hundreds of women and men who served in the four General Assemblies during Governor Vilsack's eight-year tenure as Governor; and

Whereas, Beginning today the state's historians and others will record and evaluate the ways in which Governor Vilsack's dedicated public service as the 39th Governor of the State of Iowa has enriched the history of Iowa state government, and the ways in which his service has touched the lives of all Iowans; Now Therefore,

Be It Resolved By The Eighty-second General Assembly In Joint Convention, That the Joint Convention remark for posterity upon Governor Thomas J. Vilsack's relationship, as head of the executive branch of state government, to the legislative branch of state government, to wit:

Thomas J. Vilsack's two-term tenure as Governor has been marked by a constructive separation of powers during which the Governor's policy objectives have been effectively communicated to the General Assembly, and the General Assembly has freely exercised its constitutionally mandated independence in making public policy through its lawmaking function. The results of this relationship will be recalled by others in more detail than can be expressed in this Resolution, but for members of the General Assembly whose service parallels Governor Vilsack's service, the following general contributions will serve as reminders of the many significant policy changes fashioned during Governor Vilsack's tenure in office from 1999 until today:

1. ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT. Creation of the Iowa Values Fund to grow the Iowa economy by creating jobs and securing capital investments; the Vision Iowa and Community Attraction and Tourism Programs to improve communities through investments in education, cultural, and recreational attractions; and the Great Places Program to identify unique places to live, work, and play.

2. EDUCATION. Establishment of lifelong opportunities for learning, emphasizing early childhood programming, higher standards of student achievement, class size reduction, and access to Iowa's libraries to enrich its citizenry.

3. HUMAN SERVICES. Initiatives to increase health care coverage to uninsured children and to provide continuing access to high-quality health care through the federal-state Medicaid program, related indigent care programs, and mental health insurance coverages.

4. RENEWABLE ENERGY. Creation of incentives to facilitate the development of the renewable energy industry, including ethanol and biodiesel fuel and wind energy production.

5. ENVIRONMENT. Water quality initiatives to prioritize water quality improvements for rivers and lakes and to monitor quality through volunteers; and the expansion of outdoor recreation opportunities through the creation of a destination state park.

6. CRIMINAL JUSTICE. Strengthening of the criminal justice system through restrictions placed on pseudoephedrine sales and enhanced penalties.

7. GOVERNMENT EFFICIENCY AND ACCESSIBILITY. Creation of entrepreneurial charter state agencies and the Department of Administrative Services; and providing state government accountability and access to government institutions through electronic portals.

Be It Further Resolved by the Eighty-second General Assembly In Joint Convention, That Governor Vilsack be recognized for the national leadership he assumed as Governor of the State of Iowa, including as a Chair of the Midwestern Governors' Conference, the National Governors' Association, the Democratic Governors' Association, and the Democratic Leadership Council; and

Be It Further Resolved by the Eighty-second General Assembly In Joint Convention, That we hereby admonish writers, historians, and journalists, young and old, to compose their portrayals and analyses of the Thomas J. Vilsack years with wisdom, thoroughness, and compassion; and

Be It Further Resolved by the Eighty-second General Assembly In Joint Convention, That the Joint Convention honor Governor Thomas J. Vilsack for his devoted service to the State of Iowa and the citizens of this State; and

Be It Further Resolved by the Eighty-second General Assembly In Joint Convention,
That a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to Governor Thomas J. Vilsack, and to First Lady Christie Vilsack, where it is hoped it will be received as a symbol of appreciation, good wishes, and affection extended by the Eighty-second General Assembly and the people of Iowa to the Governor, First Lady, and their family.

President Kibbie presented Governor Thomas J. Vilsack an enrolled copy of the resolution.

Governor Thomas J. Vilsack was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Representative McCarthy moved that the joint convention be dissolved, which motion prevailed by a voice vote.

The Senate returned to the Senate chamber.

ADJOURNMENT

On motion of Senator Gronstal, the Senate adjourned at 10:54 a.m. until 8:45 a.m., Wednesday, January 10, 2007.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Governor Vilsack and Lieutenant Governor Pederson, members of the General Assembly, state officials, judges, and friends:

The ceremonial events of this week carry great meaning, not just for those of us who work in state government, but for all Iowans. They serve to remind us of the significance of our endeavor to do what is best and right for Iowa, which is, after all, the reason we are all here. Regardless of our different roles, tenure, political affiliation—or lack of political affiliation—we all made a conscious decision to hold public office, first and foremost, because we care deeply about serving the people of our great state.

This common goal—to do what is best and right for Iowans—is a strong unifying force that serves as the foundation of our working relationships. Naturally, we can share a goal and disagree on how to reach it. But so long as our common goal is our first consideration, we can achieve a great deal to move Iowa forward. I and the other members of the judicial branch look forward to working with you in this spirit.

Now, I turn to the reason we are gathered here this morning: the State of the Judiciary. I regard this address as one of the chief justice's most important duties. This occasion is the best opportunity for the judicial branch to share with you and the people of Iowa our assessment of the state's court system and to let you know what improvements and issues are on the horizon.

Today, I'm pleased to report that our assessment is positive. The judicial branch is ably performing its constitutional and statutory duties. This good report is due primarily to the efforts of the nearly 2000 dedicated individuals who are the judicial branch of government. Public service inspires and drives their efforts every day. Working together as a team, our judges and professional staff skillfully fulfill our vital mission, which is administering justice according to law, equally to all people. I am immensely proud of them.

Our capacity to resolve thousands upon thousands of cases efficiently and effectively is also a result of your support. You have a solid history of providing the resources, statutory procedures, and fair compensation required to operate a high caliber court system. We are grateful and trust that you will give the work of the courts similar consideration again this year.

While this good news certainly makes this message easier to deliver—and probably easier for you to receive—there is more to tell you because there is always room for improvement. So today, I intend to discuss some of our efforts to improve the delivery of court services to Iowans. Some improvements are simple changes that are easy to implement; others are multifaceted and ambitious efforts that will take years to complete. But all are important steps that will serve the best interests of the public.

E-FILING AND PAPERLESS COURTS

Nothing has transformed our service to the public more than information technology and the Internet. In the past few years, we've harnessed the power of technology so Iowans can pay fines, check child support payment records, watch supreme court oral arguments, check criminal backgrounds, read appellate court opinions, track down judgments and liens, and determine court schedules online, 24/7.

Now we're poised to begin our most ambitious undertaking ever—the transformation from a paper-based to a completely paperless court system. We plan to begin by testing electronic filing and paperless procedures in two pilot counties later this year. Once the pilot project testing is completed, we will implement electronic filing in the appellate courts. After that is done, we will gradually add the remaining trial courts. If all goes as planned, we will have E-filing available statewide in five years.

Switching to a completely electronic system will require special court rules. For the past year, a very capable committee has worked diligently on the procedural rules we will need to implement and manage a paperless system, rules that will be released for public comment tomorrow. I want to take this opportunity to publicly acknowledge the thoughtful and thorough work of this committee, chaired by Judge Robert Hutchison of Des Moines and attorney David Beckman of Burlington.

Our transformation into a paperless court will dramatically modernize court operations and revolutionize public access to the courts. Just imagine the benefits. Iowans will be able to search and view entire court files online, around-the-clock, from the convenience of their home, office, or local library. E-filing means no more last minute dashes or long drives to the courthouse to file papers. Judges, court staff, lawyers, litigants, and others will have immediate and simultaneous access to court files. The pressure on clerks' staff to hunt down files and make copies will vanish. Local governments will be relieved of the cost of leasing more space in which to warehouse paper files.

INFORMATION SECURITY AND PRIVACY CONCERNS

While a paperless operation will produce substantial benefits to court staff, court users, and the public, it will also produce heightened concerns about information security and personal privacy. Court records routinely contain personal identification information and other material of a personal or sensitive nature. Although most of this information is presently available to the public, it is, for all practical purposes, unseen. The task of finding and accessing a paper record in one file among thousands of files located in one of our one hundred courthouses impedes widespread dissemination and misuse of these records. But after the judicial branch shifts to electronic filing and record management, court records will be readily available for unconstrained, global public consumption. Individuals involved in court proceedings will be more vulnerable to identity theft and prying eyes. Such universal and easy access is a concern not only for the courts and other government offices that use or are contemplating the use of online access to records, but also for the citizens of Iowa who value their security and privacy.

I want to emphasize that the courts protect and will continue to protect information that is confidential by law; but current laws do not bestow confidential status on most of our records, which include, among other items, birth dates, addresses, children's names, and financial account information. There is a valid reason to restrict public access to personal identification information, financial account information, and other information that could be used by identity thieves, as well as certain information that could expose people, such as minor children and victims, to other types of harm. Protecting this information will require a combination of court rules and legislative action, as well as diligence on the part of attorneys and litigants.

The first safeguard is simple. Lawyers and litigants should simply omit personal information from papers and exhibits when such information is not required by law or is not germane to a legal issue in a case. To instill this safeguard into our procedures, the supreme court recently adopted new rules to discourage people from filing information the court does not need.

But how do we protect personal information that is material to a proceeding or required by law? In this situation, we propose additional court rules that will apply to information provided to the court in electronic format. First, we propose that certain information, such as birth dates, children's names, financial account numbers, and social security numbers, be submitted on a separate, protected information form that will be kept confidential. Second, when it is necessary to refer to or use protected information in a court document, a party would provide only a portion of the information. For example, if a minor child's name is necessary, parties would use only the child's initials. Or if a financial account number is pertinent, the party would use only the last four digits. We need and recommend your approval of a statutory amendment that will give the judicial branch the authority to protect personal information in this manner.

Now, what about other privacy concerns that will naturally arise with online access to court records? Court records contain all sorts of personal and sensitive information, such as tax returns, employment history, medical records, financial assets, and even the details of family disputes. Should information of this nature that courts receive and maintain in electronic format be available to the public to the same extent as it is currently available in our paper-based system? All Iowans value openness in government, but perhaps the balance between access to public information that explains government action and the protection of personal information citizens consider private should be re-examined. This issue requires a policy decision of tremendous importance to the citizens of this state. It is a policy decision properly to be made by you—the legislature. We hope you will give this issue your full attention this legislative session.

IMPROVING JURY SERVICE

Now I turn to another example of our plans to improve service to the public—a plan that focuses on the people who serve the state by answering the call to jury duty. Each year thousands of Iowans from many walks of life take time away from their families and jobs to fulfill this important civic function. They are essential to our justice system, and they are truly unsung heroes.

We recognize that their time is valuable, and so over the years we have adopted a number of measures to make jury service more convenient and less time-consuming. Later this year, we will begin another juror-friendly service—E-juror, a web-based program that will enable people summoned for jury service to respond to and complete the summons online. This feature will also allow jurors to contact court staff directly by email when they have questions about their service. E-juror will join our growing list of online services that connect the courts with the people.

While time-saving measures and convenient services make it easier for Iowans to fulfill their civic duty, these steps are only part of what we can and should do for citizens who take time from their normal responsibilities to perform this important function. As you know, we pay jurors a small amount for each day of service, a mere $10 per day. There is one exception. With the aid of the statutory authority you gave us in 2005, we recently established by court rule a pay differential for jurors who serve on long trials. Rather than the basic $10 per day, jurors receive $50 per day after the seventh day of service. It is now time to take the next logical step and increase the basic fee.

For several reasons, we recommend that you increase the basic fee for jury duty from $10 per day to $30 per day. According to information from the National Center for State Courts, Iowa's $10 fee is near the bottom of the range of fees paid by state courts. Iowa's fee has remained unchanged for thirty-three years. A $10 fee in 1974, when the current fee was set, adjusted for inflation, would be worth more than $40 today. While our recommendation of $30 per day is admittedly less than the lost wages and child-care costs incurred by many jurors, we believe it is a reasonable sum. It will at least lessen the financial burden borne by Iowans performing this valuable public service. We estimate that the total cost of this increase will be around $2 million a year. But the Jury and Witness Revolving Account should be able to absorb the additional expense for the next few years. Please recognize the personal sacrifice, financial and otherwise, made by jurors every day by paying them a more reasonable sum for their service to the public.

ASSISTING SELF-REPRESENTED LITIGANTS

Now I want to talk a bit about the efforts of the judicial branch to address the needs of self-represented litigants, a growing category of court customers. Whether people represent themselves as a matter of choice or out of necessity, they have a right to access court services without an attorney. But in all honesty, the vast majority of litigants who represent themselves are ill equipped to effectively serve as their own legal counsel. Typically, they are unfamiliar with the law and unfamiliar with court procedures. Their lack of knowledge and skill affects more than the outcome of their cases—it places additional burdens on an already overtaxed court system because litigants who represent themselves frequently expect judges and court employees to help them with their lawsuits, diverting valuable resources from other cases and public services. Rather than ignore this difficult issue, we are taking concrete steps to accommodate the needs of these litigants.

Forms and Instructions

Our hard-working and talented Pro Se Forms Advisory Committee, chaired by Judge Patrick Grady from Cedar Rapids and Iowa City attorney Dan Bray, is putting the finishing touches on our first two sets of easy-to-use-forms and instructions for litigants who represent themselves. One set is designed for divorcing couples without children, which is usually the simplest type of dissolution. Another set is designed to help parents who seek modification of child support orders—a process that I know is of great concern to many of your constituents. Once the forms and instructions are finished, the court will make them available on our website. We do not plan to stop with the introduction of these forms, however. Over time, we intend to adopt more forms and instructions to assist self-represented litigants with other court procedures. These efforts are important because they will enhance court access for Iowans who cannot afford an attorney.

Unbundled Legal Services

Do-it-yourself forms and instructions are immensely helpful to Iowans who choose to represent themselves in court, but forms can never be a substitute for professional legal advice. Realistically, however, many people cannot afford the expense of hiring an attorney to represent them in court. To assist in meeting the legal needs of Iowans, we have now proposed amendments to our rules of civil procedure and the rules governing attorneys' ethical obligations to encourage limited-scope legal assistance, a practice referred to as unbundled legal services. These changes will make it easier for a lawyer to perform a particular task, such as drafting a petition or attending one hearing on behalf of a client, without requiring the lawyer to handle every aspect of a case from beginning to end. The end result is more affordable legal representation for the citizens of Iowa, which we hope will encourage more people to obtain legal assistance.

CHILDREN AND THE COURTS

I next turn to the most important matter I want to discuss with you: our efforts to improve the lives of children who come to court because they need treatment or protection—Iowa's most vulnerable citizens. Within this context, I will address two topics: our efforts to improve the lives of foster children who are waiting for permanent homes and our deep concern about the well-being of children who are waiting for treatment of mental health problems. Make no mistake: Whatever we can do to help these children will benefit not only these innocent kids, but also the public in general because we can reduce the odds that neglected children will become delinquent juveniles and adult criminals.

Children Waiting for Treatment

I begin with children waiting for treatment. In 2005, you narrowed the statutory definition of "child in need of assistance." This small, well-intentioned amendment has resulted in a serious unexpected problem.

The previous definition of "child in need of assistance" allowed a juvenile judge to order treatment for a child who suffers from a serious mental illness or disorder, or emotional damage, and whose parent, guardian, or custodian is unwilling or unable to provide treatment. The 2005 amendment struck the two words "or unable." The purpose of the amendment was to enable parents who do not have the financial means to obtain mental health treatment for their children to obtain it at state expense without being compelled to relinquish custody of their child. The avoidance of unnecessarily placing children in state custody is a laudable goal, and I commend you for it. However, a cap on the number of people who can be served under the new procedure means many children are not receiving the treatment they need.

I understand that more than 300 children are waiting for such treatment. Our juvenile judges tell me that too often children wait too long. Their parents are at wit's end. And while they wait, the children's problems worsen. Many of these children get into trouble and end up in court for delinquency. We witness this problem every day in the courts of this state.

The director of the Department of Human Services and I have discussed this problem. The department is also concerned that more children need help and recommends additional funds to raise the cap so another 100 children can be treated.

This recommendation is certainly a step in the right direction, and we support it. But what about the other 200 or so children who need help now? Placing an artificial cap on the number of children who can be treated may serve a budgetary goal, but it does not meet the needs of our most vulnerable children. Without treatment now they will not have the tools to grow into responsible citizens. It is your choice to make. We urge you to provide funds for the treatment of children suffering from a mental disorder or illness at a level that can realistically meet the need for such treatment.

Children Waiting for a Permanent Family

Our concerns about the welfare of children do not stop here. We are enormously concerned about the lives and the futures of children in foster care. As you know, a foster child is a child who has been removed from his or her home and is living in the care of the state—either in a foster home, a group residence, or an institution.

In Iowa, just over 5000 children, about the number of children enrolled in the Marshalltown School District, live in foster care. While most of us think of foster children as those who have been abused, most foster children are in the system because of neglect. Their average age is eleven years, they spend about eighteen months in foster care, and they live in two or three placements. It is well documented that the profound uncertainty caused by the frequent and generally unexpected relocation of a foster child from one unfamiliar home to another disrupts their emotional development in ways that plague them well into adulthood.

Foster care is intended to be a temporary haven for children, not a permanent home. But tragically, many foster children never find a permanent home. Instead, they “age out” when they become eighteen years old or graduate from high school. According to Casey Family Programs, young adults who emerge from foster care have higher rates of unemployment, poverty, mental health problems, unplanned pregnancies, homelessness, public assistance, and incarceration. As you can see, the impact of foster care drift extends beyond the children—our society pays a high price.

This brings me to a point that should be obvious: Society as a whole benefits when we expeditiously find foster children safe, permanent homes with good families because, when we do, it is more likely that these children will become not only well-adjusted, responsible adults—they will become good parents to our future children.

I’m confident that all of us in government who share responsibility for the child welfare system recognize the importance of finding these children safe and permanent homes without undue delay. But as we all know, every aspect of our child welfare system is overburdened and undervalued. Iowans like to say that we put our children first; it’s now time to show that we mean it.

Children’s Justice Initiative

Recently, the Iowa Supreme Court and the Judicial Council embarked on a mission to make court oversight of child welfare cases a top priority. Let me emphasize that this program will not end once we have achieved a specific set of results nor will it end on a particular date. This initiative represents a permanent, ongoing, fundamental cultural change that will reflect our conviction that the interests of children must come first in our justice system.

As a springboard for this change, we have begun an effort that has been christened: “The Children’s Justice Initiative.” We are fortunate to begin this initiative with a solid foundation already in place and a detailed blueprint in our hands.

The foundation for our efforts is our own highly regarded Court Improvement Project. For the past decade, our Court Improvement Project committees and staff, working with our dedicated juvenile judges, have developed many improvements that enhance the timeliness and quality of child welfare proceedings. The talented staff and organization of the Court Improvement Project is well-suited to support our new initiative.

The blueprint for our Children's Justice Initiative is the landmark report of the 2004 PEW Commission on Children in Foster Care. The PEW Commission is a national, nonpartisan entity dedicated to accomplishing sweeping broad-based reforms of our nation's child welfare system. Among other things, the commission calls for:

- Collaborative efforts between courts, child welfare agencies, and others,
- A dedicated corps of specially trained judges committed to children and families,
- The adoption of best practices in dependency courts to ensure courts make well-informed decisions that place children in permanent homes as soon as possible,
- Steps to attract and retain a pool of highly qualified attorneys to represent parents and children,
- Multidisciplinary, cross-system training for all participants, and
- More resources for the child welfare system.

The PEW Commission's report will inspire, guide, and inform our efforts. Therefore, we want to share this report with you. We will provide a summary of the PEW Commission report to you later today. I hope you will find the time to read it, as it is vitally important for everyone holding state office to understand the needs of our most vulnerable citizens and what we all can do to address those needs.

Our first step to improve outcomes for children in foster care is focused on our own procedures and practices in dependency court. I will describe two specific actions we have already undertaken.

Assessments

With the assistance of our Court Improvement Project staff, we are assessing the effectiveness and timeliness of court practices in dependency cases in seventeen counties within a year. The assessment involves file reviews, on-site visits of juvenile court hearings, interviews of participants, and surveys. Our auditors compile all of the information into a report, which they share with a community team that develops plans for improvements. Sometimes only a small change in local culture or routine can have an enormous and positive effect on the well-being of foster children.

One Judge/One Child

Our most significant improvement involves directing more judicial resources to the juvenile court to implement a practice we refer to as the one judge/one child model. The one judge/one child concept is simple: one judge presides over every juvenile court proceeding involving a particular child. This practice allows the judge assigned to a child's case to become thoroughly familiar with that family's unique set of problems. As a result, hearings are less likely to be postponed and court decisions are better informed and more consistent. Another important benefit of this practice is that the child sees at least one familiar face—the face of the judge—the entire time the child is in foster care. For older children who come to court proceedings, their judge may be the only constant figure in their life.

You may be asking yourselves why such an obvious and seemingly simple practice was not followed until now. It's a matter of resources, case scheduling practices, and priorities. While some courts have used the one judge/one child model for a number of years, now, under the leadership of our chief judges, we are committing the necessary resources so children throughout the state receive the same level of judicial service, attention, and skill. I am proud to announce that we have a cadre of exceptional judges who have volunteered to take on this difficult assignment. Their commitment to the well-being of our state's most vulnerable children is admirable. In addition, each judicial district is modifying its scheduling practices and assignments to devote more attention to dependency cases. These changes have not been easy, and I want to take this opportunity to thank the judges and court administrators who have worked so hard to implement the best practice of having one judge preside over all proceedings involving one child. The lives of children in foster care will be better for these efforts.

I forewarn you, however, that our significant realignment of judicial resources may create delays in other cases, particularly civil cases, and thus raise concerns of some of our constituents. But we believe the benefits derived from this realignment far outweigh any disadvantages. Certainly the need to find a permanent, safe home for these innocent and vulnerable children must be our priority.

Collaboration

While the first phase of the children's justice initiative focuses on court procedures, over time we will expand the scope of our reform efforts in keeping with the recommendations of the PEW Commission. Collaboration among courts and public agencies on both state and local levels is essential to accomplish the far-reaching reforms we envision. To jump start our collaboration with others, the judicial branch is sponsoring a statewide summit in March. This summit will bring together representatives of all branches of state government, including state and local public officials, attorneys, social workers, and other stakeholders, to foster communication and spark wide-scale improvements in the management of child-in-need-of-assistance cases. We invite you to attend. Your participation, even if it is just for a short time, will send a strong message that we are united in our commitment to improve the outcomes for foster children.

Legislative Action to Help Children

I know you are concerned about the lives and futures of children in foster care. Your actions last year to provide financial assistance to children after they age out of the foster care system illustrates your commitment. The assistance you provided will have a beneficial and lasting effect on the lives of these children. Now I have several recommendations for more improvements that require your action.

First, we request that you provide additional resources to the juvenile courts, including two new district associate judges, associated support staff, and more juvenile court officers and technicians. These resources will increase our capacity to effectively address the rising need for more juvenile court services and more juvenile judges.

We also whole-heartedly support the expansion of Iowa's Court Appointed Special Advocate program, or CASA. CASA recruits, trains, and assigns volunteers who serve as guardians ad litem in child welfare cases. CASA volunteers, who are themselves extraordinary public servants, provide the court with in-depth information about a child. They serve as an extra set of eyes and ears for the judge. The Iowa Child Advocacy Board seeks funds this year to take the CASA program statewide. We think the expansion of the CASA program would be a wise investment that will pay dividends in the form of better outcomes for kids, and we encourage you to support the Board's request.

Finally, we urge you to raise the hourly rate for court-appointed attorneys who handle juvenile cases. Competitive pay is absolutely essential for the state to recruit and maintain a sufficient number of well-qualified attorneys to represent children and parents involved in juvenile court. The state pays attorneys who represent drunk drivers more than we pay attorneys who represent our most vulnerable children. What does that say about our priorities? Do we really believe that the legal representation of children is less important? We urge you to raise the compensation for lawyers who represent children in juvenile court.

The judicial branch can accomplish a great deal to improve the lives and prospects of foster children. But we can accomplish a great deal more with your backing—for it is up to you to marshal the resources and tools we need to ensure the well-being of these kids. I ask you to take this responsibility to heart when you set your priorities. When we invest in their future, we invest in the future of Iowa.

Now, with the future of Iowa firmly in mind, I come to the conclusion of my remarks.

There are many considerations that draw us to public service. For me, and probably, for many of you, the greatest consideration is the opportunity, indeed the privilege, to shape the future for the common good. Speaking on behalf of the Judicial Branch of Iowa, we intend to make the most of this privilege.

And so, today, I have given you a report that is focused on our mission, focused on the public, and focused on the future. The state of the judiciary is good, and we are fully resolved to make it better. All of the efforts and plans I have mentioned—E-filing and online access to court records, E-juror, raising the jury fee, forms for self-represented litigants, unbundled legal services, and the Children’s Justice Initiative—will move Iowa forward.

But before I close, I appeal to you one more time to do everything in your power to increase the chances that foster children find a permanent and loving family. I hope I have convinced you this objective is of vital importance. If I have not, let me explain it on a more personal level. I am confident every parent in this room, including my husband and me, would agree that the most important task they have ever undertaken is raising their children. We know children are shaped and influenced for the rest of their lives by the successes and failures we have as parents.

Our responsibility as a society is no less important. We have an obligation to parent foster children—to focus our full attention and support in an effort to successfully find them a permanent home where they will be loved, nurtured, protected, and raised to be responsible and productive adults. The novelist Graham Greene wrote: “There is always one moment in childhood when the door opens and lets the future in.” Together, we can open the doors to a bright future for Iowa’s foster children. Let’s start now.

Thank you.

Chief Justice Marsha K. Ternus was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Thank you all—Governors Vilsack, Branstad, and Ray; Lieutenant Governors Pederson, Corning, Zimmerman, and Anderson; Chief Justice Ternus, members of the court, distinguished elected officials, my family, friends, and fellow Iowans across the state. It is an honor to be here with you this morning and to be sworn in as Iowa's Lieutenant Governor.

First of all, I want to extend a special thank you to my friend and partner, Chet Culver. Governor-elect, thank you for believing in me and for putting this Culver-Judge team together. It is going to be a real pleasure to serve with you.

I also want to thank Governor Vilsack and Lieutenant Governor Pederson for their hard work for our state for the past eight years, and for the friendship and support they have shown us during this time of transition.

I am an Iowan—born here, went to school here, married a guy from my hometown, raised three sons here, and they are now raising their own families here in Iowa. I have worked on an Iowa farm, practiced nursing, owned a small town main street business, and served as a community volunteer and as an elected representative for my friends and neighbors that share the southern Iowa community I call home.

As the Secretary of Agriculture for the past eight years, I have also traveled thousands of miles in Iowa and visited communities in every part of the state. And I have met the most incredible people! Iowans who share the pride I feel in our state and who demonstrate that pride every day in their families, on their farms, and in their communities.

As Iowans, we share common ideals no matter where in the state we live. We believe in taking care of our families and in educating our children. We believe hard work leads to success—and we aren't afraid to roll up our sleeves. We believe in working together and in helping our neighbors.

And most of all, today, just as it has since the settlers crossed the Mississippi, our “One Iowa” believes that the future is unlimited.

I first ran for political office at a time when our state was reeling from a farm crisis that left families losing their farms and main street businesses closing their doors. In truth, I made that run for the state senate because I was really mad—and I decided one day that I should go to Des Moines and let those people know what I thought! But even in those dark days, Iowans saw the future’s light on the horizon!

And today, I can tell you without reservation—there has never been a time in the history of this state that has been so exciting, when the future has shined so brightly.

Chet Culver and I come to our respective offices at a time when the bio based industry is just beginning. Who would have dreamed even a few years ago that we could power our cars and trucks from corn and soybeans, generate our electricity from the wind, and create new, healthier foods and more environmentally friendly materials all from crops raised here in Iowa. And for this Iowa farmer—that is exciting!

The entire country is buzzing over the opportunities renewable energy offers in breaking the stranglehold of foreign oil. Iowa is the leader today because of a lot of hard-working people across this state who believed you could run an engine on corn or soybeans when others said, “It can’t be done.” Well, we proved we could do it! To all of those who rolled up their sleeves and made renewable energy a reality, I say thank you. But the question we all must ask ourselves now is “What are we going to do next?”

We developed ethanol and soydiesel first, but that is just the very beginning. The world is not standing still, and we must work hard and make smart choices to continue the progress in the bio industry and the emerging bio economy.

Already we have the emergence of biomass opportunities, one of the first bio refineries in the country is being built in Emmetsburg, and every time I drive throughout our beautiful state, I see more and more wind turbines lining the sky. As your Lieutenant Governor, I intend, and look forward, to continue advocating for clean, environmentally friendly fuels and new innovative materials from the products we produce best in this state—those that grow from our rich soil.

We are so blessed; nowhere else on earth is there such abundance—our soil and water makes us the bread basket, and now also the fueling center, not just of our country but of the entire world. With this abundance comes responsibility—and we must work to protect the soil and to improve and protect our water supplies, leaving this place even better than we found it for our children and our grandchildren.

We face many problems in Iowa as we work to accomplish that goal. Sharp divisions have been drawn that have pitted neighbor against neighbor. An “either/or” solution will not do—we must work through those divisions and bring Iowans together. It is time to engage in long-range plans that will allow us both to enjoy a healthy economy and to improve our environment. We will do this together—as “one Iowa.”

And as we transform not just Iowa’s economy, but the economy of the entire nation from a petrocarbon base to one that is based on renewable crops, we can not afford to forget that Iowans first of all must be safe—safe in our homes, schools, and places of work.

The events of September 11, 2001, in New York City and Washington, D.C., changed forever the way we think about our security and the way we respond to threats, whether caused by humans or by nature.

For the past five years, I have been closely involved in emergency planning for the state, and on a national level, for the security of our food supplies. Governor Culver has asked me to continue that work and take an active role in homeland security and emergency management. Working in partnership with the capable staff and the Iowa National Guard, we will make certain we are ready to respond to any emergency or threat to the citizens of Iowa. Ensuring safe, healthy, and productive lives for all Iowans is a very lofty goal, but this administration will be about big dreams and big ideas for “One Iowa.”

Iowans made a choice; they chose to make Chet Culver your Governor and me your Lieutenant Governor. I chose to be standing here today rather than being at home on the farm because I absolutely believe that together with you, Chet Culver and I can accomplish great things for the state we love. We know it won't be easy. There will be those who will tell us, “It can't be done,” or “We have never done it that way before.” So let me say very clearly, Chet Culver and I are people who do not believe in the concept of the impossible.

What we do believe is that when good people decide to join together for a common cause the future is unlimited!

Life is full of challenges. I am aware that the challenge I am about to take on is one of the largest I will ever face. Being entrusted with a position that affects the lives of nearly three million people is something that must be taken very seriously.

At times in my life when faced with difficult challenges, I have remembered and thought about the words of a favorite Bible verse. I want to leave you with those words today because I believe the passage clearly sums up the challenges and the opportunities we will see in the next four years. It is from Second Corinthians, chapter 9, verse 8: “It is God's power to provide you richly with every good gift: thus you will have ample means in yourselves to meet each and every situation, with enough to spare for every good cause.”

Thank you.

The Des Moines Gay Men's Chorus performed “The Quest Unending.”

Chief Justice Marsha K. Ternus administered the oath of office to Governor-elect Chester J. Culver, assisted by his wife, Mari Culver.

President Kibbie presented Governor Chester J. Culver who delivered the following inaugural address:

Thank you!

Today is the greatest honor of my life. I want to thank Iowans for their confidence, support, and prayers. I also thank God for the many blessings in my life.

Chief Justice Ternus and members of the Court, Speaker Murphy and President Kibbie, Majority Leaders Gronstal and McCarthy, Minority Leaders Lundby and Rants, members of the General Assembly, distinguished guests including Governors Ray and Branstad, Senators Harkin and Dodd, and to everyone who is here today, I am honored by your presence.

Lieutenant Governor Judge, thank you! Thank you for being my running mate and my partner in this administration. I am very fortunate to have you by my side. The people of Iowa will be well-served by your experience, passion, character, and common sense.

To my fellow statewide elected officials, agency directors, and the thousands of dedicated state employees. Thank you.

Governor Vilsack and Christie, may God bless you and your family in the days ahead! I wish you all the best. Christie, you have been a great First Lady and your commitment to literacy will not be forgotten. Governor, thanks to you, the foundation has been laid, and we have made real progress because of your outstanding leadership. On behalf of the people of Iowa, I want to take this opportunity to thank you for your eight years of hard work and dedicated service.

Also, thank you Lieutenant Governor Pederson and Jim Autry. You and your family brought grace and class to your important position.

To my family and friends who are here, many thanks for your loyalty and friendship.

To my parents, thank you for the guidance you give. I am a very fortunate and grateful son. I love you both very much. Dad, I especially want to thank you for the example you set for me. I would also like to show my appreciation for my stepmother, who has been a great influence on me.

And most important, thank you Mari, and my children, John and Clare. Thanks for your unconditional love and support. Words can not express my love for you. This will be an exciting new journey for us.

Finally, I want to thank the brave men and women of Iowa who are serving our nation in uniform. You make us all proud!

I love Iowa. This "land between two rivers" is blessed with people of strong character—a history that is rich, and as the Native Americans who came before us said, "a beautiful land."

My fondest childhood memories are docked along the banks of the Mississippi River near McGregor. As a kid, I remember going out in my fishing boat, "Chet's Charter," and enjoying the magnificent surroundings. Some of my ancestors settled north of there in 1863, and our family lived there for many years. We had a house on the bluff overlooking the river. When you look down the valley of the mighty Mississippi, you get a real sense of the awesome landscape and vast history of our state.

The constant movement of the river also reminds us that things are changing all the time. It rises and falls, freezes and thaws, yet emerges strong and powerful, generation after generation! Right now, Iowa is experiencing much the same change and with it comes the opportunity for a new era of greatness.

As some of you may have heard, once or twice, I was once a high school government and history teacher! But I am also a student of history. In my classroom, I would remind my students of the ebbs and flows in our history. As Iowans, I think we could do much worse than to learn from the lessons provided by those who have come before us.

Our state has always been a state of explorers and pioneers. Chief Black Hawk and the Native Americans taught us how to live off the land. Marquette and Joliet were the first Europeans to navigate the Mississippi River in 1673. Following the Louisiana Purchase, Lewis and Clark made their famous expedition up the Missouri River along our state's western border. These explorers were fearless! They faced many obstacles, but showed great courage in their pursuit.

Today, we should challenge ourselves to emulate their commitment to pushing the limits of discovery. These visionaries were undaunted by the practical challenges of the day. They were guided by their faith, their hopes, and their dreams—even when no one gave them a map!

One of my heroes, President John F. Kennedy, also believed in the importance of exploration and in the relentless pursuit of a new frontier. He challenged us to win the race to space, saying, "We choose to go to the moon and do the other things, not because they are easy, but because they are hard, because that goal will serve to organize and measure the best of our energies and skills; because that challenge is one that we are willing to accept, one we are unwilling to postpone, and one which we intend to win."

Well, my fellow Iowans, this is our time! It's our time to accept the challenge, to explore and discover Iowa's unlimited potential. It's our time to win the race to become the energy capital of the world.

Let us invoke the lessons previous generations of explorers and leaders have taught us. Let us all come together as one and lead our own "21st Century Iowa Expedition." There is an energy frontier open before us, and we must explore it immediately! America and the world are counting on us. Simply put, we can't afford to duck this responsibility!

It's time for Iowa to become the Silicon Valley of the Midwest. It's time to create the jobs of the future that will keep your children and my children here at home, where they belong. It's time to make the entire state of Iowa a laboratory so we remain on the cutting edge of all forms of renewable energy.

We will protect our precious environment: the land, lakes, rivers, and streams we all love. However, with the right balance, we can harvest rewards beyond even our wildest imagination. Our value-added opportunities allow us to take from the earth more than once because we are blessed with the best soil and the most productive farmers in the world.

In addition, we have a tradition of great scientists like Henry Wallace and Norman Borlaug, and a world-class education system that "nurtures" our homegrown talent. We have already led the nation with ethanol and biodiesel. Now we must maintain that leadership. With the eyes of the world upon us, we must prepare for the next generation energy economy.

We will create an Iowa Power Fund to invest in and attract cutting-edge research and development. This will ensure we can lead the way not only in alternative fuels but also in biomass, geothermal, wind, and solar energy.

It's time for Iowa to become the first state in the nation to declare energy independence! We are already on our way! Whether it's the production of soy lubricant in Waverly, the development of a biorefinery in Emmetsburg, the manufacturing of corn-based plastics in Clinton, the wind storage project in Dallas County, or the new biomass option of burning oat hulls in place of coal in Cedar Falls—Iowa is on the frontier! Our dreams of an amazing future, one of energy independence, prosperity and a quality of life second-to-none, are within our reach. I know we can turn our dreams into reality!

There is another important lesson we must take from those daring souls who have come before us. They understood the importance of working together to get the job done! So, to the 150 dedicated Iowans who will serve in the 82nd General Assembly, I say this: May our inevitable disagreements reflect deep conviction but not contempt, honest difference but not divisiveness. Let us work together in a sincere and inclusive way, to create "One Iowa." After all, we serve the same Iowans, they are counting on us, and this state's future belongs to all of us.

And I want every Iowan to know, we need you! It doesn't matter whether you are a Republican, Democrat, or Independent, whether you live in rural Iowa or urban Iowa, whether you are a native Iowan or a new arrival, young or old. What does matter is that we lock arms for the common good and tap our gold mine of potential. Together, we will continue to move this great state forward!

However, to achieve this, we who serve must remember to respect the will of Iowans. They have spoken, and they expect results.

Iowans expect us to achieve our amazing potential in renewable energy.

They expect us to renew our commitment to educational excellence—by expanding early childhood education, getting teacher pay to the national average, and making college more affordable.

They expect us to find a way to ensure that every child has health care, to save lives by increasing the tobacco tax, and to give hope to the sick by lifting the ban on stem cell research.

They expect us to pay tribute to our seniors and veterans by showing them the dignity and respect they have earned.

Iowans expect us to find a way to honor and reward hard work by raising the minimum wage.

They expect us to find ways to support and encourage entrepreneurs and small business owners, the dreamers who create jobs across our state.

Iowans also deserve a government that reflects their values! They are right to expect us to be smart with a buck, and to balance our checkbook the same way they do. And they are right to demand ethical, accountable, and open government.

Iowans expect us to encourage, not shy away from, the diversity that has made us a better state. Governor Ray taught us that. We should never tolerate hate, especially in the form of bullying and threats in the work place or in our schools.

Finally, I believe we have an obligation to make the most of this important moment in Iowa history—to explore and harness every bit of potential we have.

But a governor can't do it alone. That's why today, I am asking for your help. Everyone has a role to play in our "21st Century Expedition."

On Monday, we will honor a great American, Dr. Martin Luther King, who led Americans into action when he said, "Everybody can be great because anybody can serve. You don't have to have a college degree to serve. You don't have to make your subject and verb agree to serve. You only need a heart full of grace and a soul generated by love." Well, Dr. King was right! Every single one of us can play an important role in this new expedition.

I care deeply about the challenges we face, but I have an even greater faith in Iowa's promise.

Let us work together to build "One Iowa," and in doing so, we will achieve the greatness we all know is possible. So, as we go from here, let us always remember: This is our time! Much is expected of us, and our future is unlimited!

"I'll Make Me a World" was sung by Effie Burt of Waterloo.

Good morning. President Kibbie, Speaker Murphy, leaders Gronstal, McCarthy, Lundby and Rants, members of the 82nd General Assembly, statewide elected officials and judges. Welcome Lieutenant Governor Judge.

I want to thank you for the opportunity to address this joint legislative session. It's an honor and a privilege. I would like to start by congratulating you on the progress you have already made.

An increase in the minimum wage was an Iowa priority. You acted quickly and decisively, approving an increase from $5.15 to $7.25 per hour. Better wages will mean significant changes in the lives of nearly 260,000 Iowans and their families. I am very proud of the fact that the first bill I signed as Governor was House File 1, to increase the minimum wage. I am so proud that not a single leader, majority or minority, voted against this bill. This bipartisan effort is an example of what's possible when we work together.

However, the minimum wage is just the start. We have a lot of work to do. As I said in my inaugural address, this is our time. It's time for us to lead Iowa forward and fulfill our state's unlimited potential.

I also talked about a new 21st Century Iowa expedition, one on which we will be judged — whether or not we meet the challenges related to renewable energy, the environment, workforce development and job creation, educational excellence, health care, quality of life, and most importantly, balancing the budget.

Today we begin this difficult challenge. We need to find common ground and agree upon a budget that benefits all Iowans. Through this process we must remember, we have an historic opportunity to create One Iowa. Let us continue to lock arms and work for the common good, just like we did with the minimum wage.

As we set out on this expedition and look at Iowa's economic and fiscal picture, there is some pretty good news.

Fortunately, we have an expanding economy and enjoy a modest budget surplus. General fund receipts, personal income tax, and sales tax receipts are all up. Our median household income is higher than the national average, and our unemployment rate is lower than the national average. In addition, statewide land values and commodity prices are at all-time highs, and our state's export of value-added agricultural and manufacturing goods has steadily increased.

This strong economic growth fortunately means state revenues are coming in at a rate higher than anticipated. We also enjoy a growing bioeconomy that holds promise, and makes us a real player in the new global marketplace.

While this solid financial outlook should reinforce the belief that our future is unlimited, we all must realize that state revenues are always limited. We can do virtually anything we put our minds to — we just can't do everything we might want to.

So, because of these inherent revenue limitations, I believe we must always be guided by five responsible budgeting practices.

First, Iowa common sense is our best guide to budgeting. Simply put, we can't spend more than we take in. We are expected to balance our checkbook and put money into savings the same way Iowans do.

Second, we must respect state law regarding our reserves. These include the cash reserve fund and the economic emergency fund.

Third, we need to be guided by the actual numbers. They don't lie. Smoke and mirrors, games and gimmicks, just don't work.

Fourth, we must always realize we can't possibly fund all of the budget requests made of us. Difficult and painful decisions are required.

Fifth, we must never be satisfied with our state's fiscal condition. There is always room for improvement. Our state's bond rating does matter. While we have done well to receive a double-A rating, we should always strive for excellence. Why can't we work toward a triple-A bond rating? Why not become the best-managed state in the nation? I believe we should do all we can to leave this state in better financial condition than we found it.

I have applied these five important budgeting practices in the document that is being presented here today. Now I challenge each of you to do the same. As a result, the state's fiscal health will be preserved, our reserves and surplus will be protected, and we will meet the needs of our people.

Here's what this budget will allow us to do:

Most important, it will maintain a year-end balance of nearly $200 million. This will allow us to be prepared for any unforeseen and unanticipated needs. After setting aside reserves, the most important priorities remaining are in energy, education and health care. This budget meets those challenges too.

Remember, this is our time. It's time for us to take control of our energy future. It's time to win the race to become the energy capital of the world. It's time for Iowa to break free from our dependence on foreign oil. It's time for Iowa to become the Silicon Valley of the Midwest. It's time to create the jobs of the future that will keep your children and my children here at home, where they belong.

To meet the energy challenge, I am proposing the creation of a $100 million Iowa Power Fund, with a down payment of $25 million this year. This priority is of such critical importance, I am asking you to authorize a supplemental appropriation immediately. This will help us rapidly develop the next-generation energy economy in Iowa. This new investment will incent the growth of Iowa-based businesses in this exciting new industry, create jobs, and attract millions of dollars in public research and development funds. It will also result in hundreds of millions of dollars in private investment in renewable energy in Iowa.

In addition, the Power Fund money will be used to help conduct the important research and development necessary for all forms of renewable energy and alternative fuel. It doesn't matter whether its related to wind or solar power, geothermal or biomass cellulosic ethanol, biodeisel, or E-85. Iowa needs to lead the way. The Power Fund will allow us to do this. We need to create the essential public-private partnerships required to further develop these alternative energy opportunities and commercialize them.

However, we are not the only state working toward energy independence. In order to maintain the leadership we have worked so hard to develop, we must compete and do so aggressively. Let's put Iowa in a position to win the race to become the energy capital of the world. Together, we can achieve this goal, and I ask you to act immediately to create the Iowa Power Fund.

This budget proposal also allows us to restore excellence in education. As a state, we must rededicate ourselves to this worthy goal. I believe we need a comprehensive pre-K to post-secondary education plan. That's why today I am proposing we invest nearly 190 million dollars in new funding for education. This will begin to allow us to meet the needs of our students at all levels.

A strong start for every Iowa child must be a shared goal. Ninety percent of brain development occurs from birth through age 6. We can't afford not to invest in our kids. We need them to arrive at kindergarten prepared, ready, and able to learn. To that end, I am asking you to make an additional 20-million-dollar commitment to early childhood education. This step is a part of annual increases in funding necessary until every Iowa four-year-old has access.

To improve education at the K–12 level, we've set aside an additional 165 million dollars, which represents an increase from fiscal year 2007 of 6.5 percent. This will help us reach our goal of getting teacher pay to 25th in the nation. A 70-million-dollar investment in teacher pay is the largest ever. This unprecedented investment in teacher pay will allow us to recruit and retain the best teachers, close the gap in teacher pay between urban and rural school districts, ensure quality teaching, and most important, show our classroom teachers the respect they deserve for the important work they do every day.

Finally, we must renew our commitment to higher education. Today, there are real challenges for Iowa college students and their families; Iowa is at the bottom among states when it comes to needs-based access to higher education and at the top when it comes to student debt load. This is not a good combination, and we must do something about it.

This budget proposes five steps to accomplish this goal:

First, I am asking you fund the salary bill. This will assist in the constant battle to recruit and retain talented faculty and staff at our world-class public universities and excellent community colleges.

Second, I am asking you to provide an additional 25 million dollars to our regents institutions and 12.5 million dollars to our community college system. This step is designed to increase course offerings and to provide some immediate tuition relief.

Third, I am proposing we initiate a brand new college scholarship, called the All-Iowa Opportunity Scholarship. The scholarship will provide greater access to higher education for Iowa high school graduates based on financial need. It will allow a student to cover up to $2,500 in tuition at an Iowa community college or up to $5,000 toward their first year at any regents institution of their choice. This budget sets aside 5 million dollars for this important college scholarship program.

Fourth, for Iowa high school graduates who attend one of Iowa's 31 private colleges, we will increase the amount of the highly successful Iowa Tuition Grant. This will expand access for thousands of students who need it and keep them in the state.

Fifth, we will create a statewide Senior Year Plus program. This will allow every high school senior the chance to earn up to a year of college credit before they graduate from high school. This investment will save students and their families thousands in tuition dollars.

If we make these investments, the rewards of educational excellence will be with us for generations to come. That's why I ask you to support these important initiatives.

Perhaps the biggest and most expensive challenge we face, however, is in the area of health care. Two hundred fifty thousand Iowans including 50,000 kids have no health care coverage. None. There is not one legislator in this chamber today who didn't promise to do something about this.

In an attempt to deliver on our promises and significantly increase access to quality health care for all Iowans, I am proposing an additional $140 million to meet our most immediate health care needs.

And I've identified, I believe, the only responsible way to pay for it. That's why I am asking you to increase Iowa's cigarette tax by one dollar per pack. This step will generate approximately 140 million dollars in new revenue the first year. By taking this important step we will be able to do the following:

1. Save more than 17,000 lives.
2. Create a powerful disincentive to start smoking and help others quit.
3. Improve the quality of life for tens of thousands of Iowans by preventing illness and reducing the incidence of cancer, stroke, heart disease, and emphysema.

4. Close the smoke-related budget deficit. Because we have the 9th lowest tobacco tax in the country, the state's costs of treating smoke-related illnesses is greater than our cigarette tax revenue by more than $50 million dollars annually. This simply isn't fair. Nonsmoking Iowans shouldn't be expected to pay for health care costs of those who choose to smoke. It's time to close the gap.

5. Expand coverage to the most vulnerable among us, including up to 50,000 Iowa kids who have no coverage today.

6. Expand health care coverage to more than 6,000 Iowa parents living at or near the poverty level.

7. Double the size of the state's nursing home ombudsman's office which advocates for quality long-term care on behalf of thousands of Iowa seniors who need it.

8. Keep our commitment to fund the Senior Living Trust, which allows more Iowans to remain in an independent living setting for a longer period of time.

9. Fund other important programs like child and family health services, mental health community services, efforts to fight infectious disease, child health specialty clinics, and adoption services.

10. Provide significant funding for worthy health care related ideas being brought forth by legislators like Senator Hatch and Representatives Foege and Heaton, who are helping to drive this important discussion.

I know some legislators only want to increase the cigarette tax by 30 to 60 cents. But half-measures will only produce half the results. The fact is, we have hundreds of millions of dollars in health care related needs. I am not willing to ignore any of the important priorities I just outlined. We must find a responsible way to pay for all of them. Raiding our limited reserves is not possible. And severely underfunding health care and/or cutting necessary funding in other areas like education and energy are simply not viable options. I strongly believe the number needs to be one dollar, and I respectfully ask for it.

There is one more important step we need to take related to health care and saving lives. Today I am asking you to lift the ban on stem-cell research. The health care budget I have outlined will allow us to create the Center for Regenerative Medicine at the University of Iowa with a commitment of 12.5 million dollars. We are well positioned, as one of only 15 National Cancer Institute sites in the country, to forge ahead in the search for lifesaving cures for diseases like cardiovascular, diabetes, cancer, Parkinson's, and Alzheimer's. We have the chance to bring hope to thousands of Iowans suffering from these life-threatening illnesses. Let Iowa be known as a center for science research and technology, not only in energy but in the health sciences too.

As we work to lead Iowa forward, we must remember to honor the commitment of the veterans who have fought to defend our freedom, and those who are serving today. Our actions should show veterans the honor and respect they have earned. I believe we have an obligation to honor their sacrifices and those of their families.

As you know, Iowa suffered another tragic loss just ten days ago. Command Sergeant Major Marilyn Gabbard of Polk City, whose funeral is being held this morning, died January 20 while serving in Iraq. She was a committed and courageous wife, mother, and soldier who answered the call of duty. She was asked to make the ultimate sacrifice. Today, we mourn along with her family, friends, and her community. With my first executive order as Governor, I have ordered flags throughout the state to be flown at half staff on this day to honor Sergeant Major Gabbard.

Will you please join me now in a moment of silence for Sergeant Major Gabbard and the 49 other Iowans who have died in this conflict. Thank you.

In an effort to meet the needs of all of our returning veterans and their families, I am proposing 6.5 million dollars for the Enduring Freedom Support Program and for critically needed injury and housing assistance. They fought for us. Now it is time we fought for them.

All Iowa law enforcement officers and correctional officers also protect us every day by keeping our communities safe. They too deserve our gratitude. I am proposing to fund 130 unfilled positions at our corrections institutions in an effort to increase staffing levels. Unfortunately, we have some prisons in Iowa that are almost 50 percent above capacity. In an effort to reduce the strain caused by inadequate staffing levels, we have set aside $17.5 million dollars to significantly reduce the strain on the system and to operate the new facility at Oakdale.

This budget proposal also cuts taxes and saves taxpayers millions. We have found a way to close certain out-of-state corporate tax loopholes and use available new information technology methods to improve tax collections. These important steps will not only allow us to save millions but they will also allow us to offer up to $25 million in immediate commercial property tax relief.

Finally, there are some additional important priorities in this budget. They are:

— committing nearly $20 million for our water quality initiatives. This will allow us to better protect the land, lakes, rivers, and streams we all love.

— setting aside $9 million to improve our Mainstreet, Community Attractions and Tourism, and Great Places programs.

— providing resources to fund the CASAs, or Court Appointed Special Advocates, who often represent abused and neglected children in our court system.

— protecting and expanding access to shelter services for at-risk women, mothers, and children. I can tell you the First Lady will continue to be a real advocate on behalf of shelter service care providers and the vulnerable individuals who desperately need them.

In closing, this is our time. These are our priorities. We must take advantage of our unique opportunities and meet our unique challenges.

Let this 82nd legislative session be remembered as an historic one for the people of this great state. Let this session be remembered as the one in which Iowa turned the corner toward energy independence, protected its precious environment, led the way in job creation, recommitted itself to excellence in education, dramatically expanded health care access, and improved the quality of life for all of its people. I ask you to join me in this worthy effort.

I stand ready to work with you in good faith to get the job done. This budget is an opportunity to reach consensus and create One Iowa. Together I know we will succeed and we will lead Iowa forward.

May God bless you all, and may God bless the great state of Iowa.

Governor Chester J. Culver was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

On the motion of Representative McCarthy, the joint convention was dissolved.

Thank you very much. I am honored once again to stand before you representing the fine men and women of the Iowa National Guard team—a team drawn from throughout Iowa's communities, large and small, dedicated to excellence and committed to defending our state and nation, both here at home and around the world.

Speaker Murphy, President Kibbie—thank you for the invitation to present the Condition of the National Guard address before this joint convention of the Eighty-second General Assembly of the Iowa Legislature.

Governor Culver, Lieutenant Governor Judge, members of the General Assembly, distinguished guests, fellow Iowans:

I am pleased to report the Iowa National Guard is strong—quite possibly the strongest it has been in generations. During the first five months of this recruiting year, the Iowa Army National Guard set recruiting records by enlisting more new soldiers during that period than ever before. Both the Iowa Army and Air National Guard remain at over 100 percent strength—thanks in large part to members who have chosen to continue serving after their current enlistments expire.

The Iowa National Guard is a national leader, consistently ranking near the top among the 54 states and territories. Our ranks are filled with dedicated, skilled, and experienced combat and deployment veterans who remain ready and willing to serve when called. Our infrastructure and facilities programs have provided quality facilities where our service members can work and train. Our units continue to meet requirements to source, train, and equip soldiers and airmen for the Global War on Terrorism. Our employer and family support programs remain strong and vibrant. We continue to have sufficient resources to meet our homeland security requirements despite equipment challenges caused by the Global War on Terrorism and service transformation.

Our soldiers and airmen have built strong relationships and developed vital capabilities with local, state, and federal law enforcement and homeland security agencies. Our soldiers and airmen add vitality to our communities by serving as role models to young Iowans and by giving back with their time and talents. Our soldiers and airmen are proud of their military heritage, they are proud of their service and performance in the Global War on Terrorism, and they are proud to be part of America's national defense team. Simply put, the soldiers and airmen of the Iowa National Guard are strong—Iowa strong!

Some may ask, "How can this be?" After six years of war, multiple deployments, long and difficult mobilizations, hardship and loss—how can the Iowa National Guard be in such good shape? The answer is simple—it's people. We are blessed with remarkable and talented service members who are committed to and believe in what they are doing; who are supported by understanding families, employers, and communities; and who benefit greatly from the benefits and incentives provided by their state and nation.

A prime example of this is the veterans' supplemental appropriation passed by the legislature and signed into law by Governor Culver last week. The Home Ownership Assistance Program and the Injured Veteran Grant Program both received a much-needed infusion of cash—$2 million each. These are wonderful programs that keep the faith with those who have sacrificed to protect our state and defend our nation. The Injured Veteran Grant Program is a critical benefit that helps families cope during difficult and trying times. The Home Ownership Assistance Program, coupled with membership in the Iowa National Guard and participation in the Iowa National Guard Tuition Assistance Program, helps create powerful opportunities for our young soldiers, airmen, and their families to live, learn, and lead happy and fulfilling lives right here in Iowa. These young men and women join Iowa National Guard units, they attend Iowa colleges and universities, they are hired by Iowa employers, and they buy Iowa homes, all of which creates a solid foundation for maintaining Iowa roots. None of this would be possible without these significant investments made by the citizens of Iowa.

Additionally, your financial support of our capital and infrastructure programs enables us to leverage federal dollars to begin upgrading and refurbishing armories and maintenance facilities in critical locations around the state. This allows us to provide our soldiers and airmen with facilities that are on par with local school buildings, business facilities, and other community amenities. On behalf of the Iowa National Guard team, I want to publicly thank the legislature and all Iowans for their unmatched support of the infrastructure and quality of life programs for soldiers, airmen, and veterans. This support has truly made a difference.

Governor Culver, I also want to thank you for your strong support of the Iowa National Guard. During our very first meeting together, you said, "What more can we do to help the young men and women serving and sacrificing today?" We greatly appreciate your support of our programs. Your decision to issue proclamations lowering flags to half-staff is a fitting tribute in honor of our fallen comrades and a moving reminder to all Iowans of the cost and sacrifice of war. Governor, thank you for this truly remarkable gesture of respect and honor for Iowans who have given their lives in defense of our state and nation.

With us today is very special group of people. For them, sacrifice, honor, and hero are not words to be taken lightly. They are the families of our most recent Iowa National Guard soldiers lost in battle. At this time, I ask the family members to stand as I call the name of your fallen hero:

- Sergeant Daniel L. Sesker, April 6, 2006—Operation Iraqi Freedom
- Sergeant Kampha B. Sourivoung, September 30, 2006—Operation Iraqi Freedom
- Sergeant First Class Scott E. Nisely, September 30, 2006—Operation Iraqi Freedom
- Command Sergeant Major Marilyn L. Gabbard, January 20, 2007—Operation Iraqi Freedom

These three men and one woman will long be remembered as heroes, not because of how they died but because of how they lived. They lived in service to their state and nation, they lived to be part of something larger than themselves, and they lived to make a difference in the lives of others. These humble soldiers stepped forward so others wouldn't have to; they willingly put themselves in harm's way to defend our nation and bring freedom and liberty to an oppressed people.

To you, the families left behind, there are no words or deeds to offer that will take away your pain or fill the void left by the loss of your loved one. I only hope that you receive some small measure of comfort in knowing that millions of Iowans stand with you to honor the memory of your fallen hero. We are humbled by your presence with us today, we are eternally grateful for your sacrifice on behalf of our nation, and we are honored to have this opportunity to comfort and salute you.

As we gather here today, nearly 1100 Iowa National Guard soldiers and airmen are currently deployed or are preparing to deploy in support of the Global War on Terrorism. They are doing dangerous and important work—performing security, aviation, and support missions in Iraq and training the Afghan National Army. They are performing bravely and doing a superb job. I ask all Iowans to remember and pray for all our military members and their families.

The National Guard is a uniquely American organization with a proud military lineage and strong community ties. Despite recent attention focused on the National Guard resulting from its support and participation in the Global War on Terrorism, many Iowans do not fully understand or appreciate the role, mission, and responsibility the National Guard plays in securing the homeland and defending our national interest.

The National Guard is a community-based organization with global responsibilities. It plays a unique role in our national defense strategy. Because of its funding, structure, and constitutional origins, the National Guard spans the federal-state divide, provides balance between our active and reserve component military, and helps connect the American public to military operations conducted on their behalf. In an era when less than one percent of the American population serves in uniform or has any association to the military, this connection is critically important.

The National Guard is a vital element of the nation's all-volunteer force, a thirty-four-year-old concept that is being tested like never before. In the past six years, the reserve component has provided nearly half of the military forces required for the Global War on Terrorism. And as I've reported many times from this rostrum, the Iowa National Guard has been at the forefront of this effort, mobilizing and deploying more than 9,500 soldiers and airmen—more than 100 percent of our authorized strength.

Some wonder why so much reliance on the National Guard and whether this level of use is appropriate. Since the end of the Cold War, the National Guard has evolved from a strategic to an operational reserve of the active duty military. Cuts in the size of our active duty military following the end of the Cold War, coupled with federal mobilization and sourcing policies, have created a situation that when this nation goes to war it must necessarily rely on its reserve component forces. Many have realized that cuts in the size of the active component following the end of the Cold War were too great.

Congress and the Department of Defense are working to increase the number of military members serving on active duty. Replacing them will take time. And given current operational needs, it is clear demand for reserve component forces will continue.

Because we have a federal mission to provide combat-ready units in support of the national military strategy, more than 95 percent of our budget is provided by the federal government. That means this year alone more than $375 million in federal funding came into the state to pay our soldiers and airmen, fund our training and operations, procure our equipment, and support our infrastructure programs.

This funding results in an economic impact of more than a half billion dollars to the state of Iowa. This investment by the federal government enables us to meet our state mission requirements of providing units and equipment to protect life and property, coming to the aid of Iowans in time of need, preserving peace and order, and ensuring public safety for our fellow citizens.

Many of you have asked about the status of our equipment and whether we have sufficient equipment to perform our state mission requirements. Allow me to put your mind at ease: We have adequate equipment to perform our ten core capabilities for homeland security and homeland defense. That's not to say we don't have equipment shortfalls overall—clearly we do—but when it comes to having what we need to perform our state mission, I am confident we can get the job done.

The equipment issues of most concern to us deal with having what we need to train and prepare in support of the Global War on Terrorism. Transformation and mobilizations have left us short in a few critical areas. The Iowa National Guard is not alone. The National Guard Bureau has asked the U.S. Army for $21 billion in funding to modernize equipment; the Army has indicated that it will allocate those funds to be spent over a seven-year period. The Iowa National Guard will benefit from these equipment upgrades.

As an operational reserve of the active duty military, mobilizations and deployments of Iowa National Guard Army and Air units will continue for the foreseeable future. After six years of war, anyone joining our ranks today knows and understands this fact. Working through the National Guard Bureau and the Secretary of Defense, we have sought to establish some level of predictability for our service members, their families, and employers. As a result, the Department of Defense recently announced significant changes in its mobilization policy goals.

First and foremost is its desire to limit reserve component call-ups to 365 days, start to finish, including predeployment training and boots-on-the-ground time. This is a significant change to the 18- to 24-month call-ups we experienced in the past. Second, the new policy seeks to provide reserve component soldiers with a minimum of 60 months between mobilizations.

In order to accomplish these goals, the Iowa National Guard will play a larger role in training and validating service members prior to mobilizing. This will change the time commitments our traditional members typically make in support of their military duties in the months preceding deployments.

In order to facilitate the transition to this new policy, the Secretary of Defense has modified the cumulative limit of 24 months for involuntary mobilizations. This change effectively resets everyone's mobilization clock. Regardless of prior mobilizations in the past six years, all of our members are now eligible for immediate involuntary call-ups. While this could have adverse effects on some units and selected leadership personnel, we expect the majority of our soldiers and airmen to have a minimum of 48 months between deployments. However, in war nothing is certain. We understand and ask our members, families, and employers to recognize that the new mobilization strategy is a goal, not a set-in-stone policy.

Like we have seen in the past, most recently with the extension of the 1-133rd Infantry Battalion, sourcing requirements generated by the Global War on Terrorism may break stated policy goals. When this happens, the Iowa National Guard, working through family and soldier readiness programs, will do everything it can to help those most impacted by these events.

The recent alert of the 833rd Engineer Company from Ottumwa is clearly a break in the Department of Defense's mobilization policy goal. This company was previously deployed with the 224th Engineer Battalion in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom from October 2004 until December 2005. The soldiers from this company have been home for less than 14 months and are now preparing for another deployment. This unit is being alerted because it is the best of its kind in the U.S. Army. I know these soldiers will serve honorably and with distinction, just like they did before. Our thoughts and prayers go out to the families who must now prepare for another separation.

Because the Department of Defense is breaking its stated goals, the right and fair thing for it to do is provide an appropriate package of federal benefits and incentives to compensate for the additional burdens the department is placing on these soldiers and their families. I've asked Governor Culver to carry this issue forward to make sure it gets the attention it deserves.

The sacrifice made by the families of our deployed soldiers and airmen is an often unseen aspect of the Global War on Terrorism. In many respects, these noble Americans alone bear the home-front burden of fighting the Global War on Terrorism. While their loved ones go off to war, they remain behind in a nation where for the majority of the population, daily life remains unchanged. Each of them, in their own way, learns to cope with the separation, anxiety, and uncertainty that come with long deployments. They keep the "home fires" burning so their loved ones can remain focused on their mission. Although often overlooked, these brave Americans are an important part of the nation's defense team.

With me today are representatives from the family support groups of our current deployed Iowa National Guard soldiers. Please join me in honoring and thanking them for their strong support of their loved ones and the key role they play in contributing to successful deployments.

The vast majority of our citizen soldiers and airmen maintain full-time employment in addition to their military careers. Mobilizations and deployments have significant impacts on their employers. They must do without or hire replacement workers to fill the void. In spite of these hardships, many employers choose to continue providing compensation and benefits while their service members are deployed. They reach out and do what they can to help families cope with separation. They work with our service members to provide them with the flexibility they need to prepare and train for their deployments. We couldn't succeed without the tremendous help and support of our employers.

Barry Spear, the state chairman of the Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve, and his committees work to educate service members and their employers on the rights and obligations each have in this process. Like families, employers play an important role in the success of the Iowa National Guard. With Barry in the gallery today are Dennis McGuire from Allied Insurance, Kent Simmer from Des Moines Bolt and Supply Co., and Jim Leach from John Deere Des Moines Works. These gentlemen represent the hundreds of employers around this great state who employ and support our soldiers and airmen. Please join me in thanking them for being part of America's national defense team.

Community participation and support are other vital elements in the success of the Iowa National Guard. Our soldiers and airmen participate in community programs that add value to our communities, to Iowa, and to America. They work to be true role models and make our communities safer and better places to raise our families. In turn, our communities provide us with unbelievable support.

In light of the debate and rhetoric about the Global War on Terrorism, one of the greatest concerns our service members express is whether the American people continue to support them. We need look no further than the gallery for an answer. Here today are a number of community groups that are making a difference in the lives of our service members and their families. They represent but a few of the thousands of such individuals and groups throughout our state and nation.

The Patriot Guard Riders is full of noble Americans who have made it their mission to ensure our military members and their families receive the support and honor they deserve. They are there when we send our units off to war; they are there to help welcome them home; and on those sad occasions when we lay to rest those lost in battle, they are here to show the colors, protect the family, and honor the fallen.

Iowa's Bravest is another community group that is committed to standing with our service members. Formed shortly after the war began in 2003, this group wanted to ensure the men and women fighting this war were treated better than their Vietnam era counterparts. This group has grown immensely in the last few years and now includes many community members, schoolchildren, Boy and Girl Scout troops, veterans' organizations, churches, and businesses. To date, they have sent nearly 1,650 care packages containing over 27,000 pounds of items to deployed Iowa service members serving overseas.

The Iowa Cattlemen's Association raised more than $75,000 from hundreds of individual cattlemen and cattlemen's organizations to send over three and half tons of beef sticks to deployed Iowa National Guard and Iowa Reserve units. In addition, they donated more than $7,200 to help meet the emergency needs of deployed service members and their families. We thank Iowa's cattlemen and women for bringing a little taste of home to those deployed and helping those left behind. But most important, we thank them for standing with our soldiers and airmen as they sacrifice to protect our values and freedoms.

Over the years, the Iowa Cubs have shown great community support for our soldiers and airmen by sponsoring an Iowa National Guard Night at Principal Park.

They have given away thousands of tickets to our members and their families in appreciation for the sacrifices they make in protecting our state and nation.

The Des Moines Menace donated 100 soccer balls to the 1-133rd Infantry Battalion for them to provide to a youth soccer park in Baghdad. This donation helps our soldiers build goodwill while they patrol Iraqi streets.

Carl Jacob, the “Tootsie Roll Man,” is a Charles City Vietnam vet who wanted to do something for our soldiers. Remembering his days on patrol in Vietnam where he substituted Tootsie Roll pops for cigarettes, Carl knew what to do. He immediately went to the Tootsie Roll company and asked for their help, which has resulted in more than 100,000 Tootsie Rolls, Tootsie Roll pops, and other Tootsie Roll candy products being sent to our deployed Iowa National Guard soldiers.

Carol Duncan, the phone card lady, is a Camp Dodge institution. Carol has done more than any other Iowan to help our service members and their families stay connected by raising more than $70,000 in phone cards to send with our deployed units.

These are but a few of the millions of grateful Americans who stand with our soldiers and airmen. They didn’t wait idly by for someone to give them a role to play in the Global War on Terrorism. They looked around and said, “Here’s what I can do, these are my talents, this is what needs to be done, and this is what I can contribute on behalf of those on whom we have placed such a heavy burden.” These humble and caring citizens are an example to all of us of the generosity and gratitude of the American people. Please join me in showing our appreciation for all they have done.

As I wrap up my comments, I want to introduce you to a few of our citizen soldiers and airmen sitting in the gallery. They represent some of the significant accomplishments and contributions our members have made this past year.

The 2168th Transportation Company, Iowa Army National Guard, received the National Defense Transportation Association’s Transportation Unit of the Year Award for its distinguished service during its 2005 deployment to Iraq. While deployed to Iraq, the unit logged over 2 million miles and delivered more than 15 thousand pieces of equipment to support the war effort—all without accident, damage to equipment being delivered, or loss of a single soldier.

The 132nd Fighter Wing, Iowa Air National Guard, was selected as the recipient of the 2006 Air Force Outstanding Unit Award, a national honor, for exceptional meritorious service from September 1, 2004, to August 31, 2006. This is an extraordinary accomplishment by a truly outstanding unit.

The 185th Air Refueling Wing, Iowa Air National Guard, continued to support the Global War on Terrorism with individual and group deployments while completing a conversion. Their new mission has taken them to many locations across the globe—Europe, the Middle East, the Caribbean, the North Atlantic, the South Pacific, Asia, and various U.S. locations, including Alaska and Hawaii. Three weeks ago, the 185th participated in the Ability to Survive and Operate exercise to verify personnel would be ready to deploy at a moment’s notice to anywhere in the world, and survive. This was the unit’s first Operational Readiness Inspection since converting from F-16 fighters to KC-135 tankers in 2003. They received an “excellent” rating overall—almost unheard of the first time through this type of inspection—a truly remarkable accomplishment.

The 133rd Test Squadron is the only Command and Control Test Squadron in the United States Air Force. The unit is chartered with ensuring that Air Force and Joint military systems are thoroughly tested prior to delivery.

The 3655th Maintenance Company returned from Iraq last year where it established and enforced forward-operating base defenses, which helped protect thousands of coalition forces and civilians, and provided maintenance and training support for critical scout surveillance systems.

The 134th Medical Company returned from Iraq this fall, where its soldiers provided medical support to detainees at Abu Ghraib prison, operated troop medical clinics, provided medical and evacuation support, and trained and gave medical support to Iraqi Special Forces units.

The Joint Forces Headquarters Afghan National Army training team returned from Afghanistan last summer where they trained, mentored, and advised more than 2,000 Afghan National Army soldiers during more than 50 major combat operations and patrols.

Ladies and gentlemen, please join me in thanking these great soldiers and airmen for all they and their colleagues have done for our state and nation.

I want to end with an extraordinary story about a few dedicated members of Troop C, 1st Squadron, 113th Cavalry. This unit was deployed to Iraq last year. On May 20, 2006, these troopers were on mission in Baghdad when they heard a large explosion. The mission leader, Staff Sergeant Jeremy Koch, immediately ordered his squad to turn around and investigate. Arriving on scene they saw wounded U.S. personnel and civilians on the ground. Without regard for their own personal safety, they established security and began first aid.

As they began treating the injured, Staff Sergeant Koch came upon CBS reporter Kimberly Dozier. He immediately saw that her injuries were life-threatening and began first aid. Staff Sergeant Koch stayed with Ms. Dozier the entire time, treating her injuries and providing comfort. Staff Sergeant Koch, along with Staff Sergeant Mitchell Hall, Sergeant Patrick Flattery, and Specialist Corey Heaberlin, stayed on the ground providing security and critical first aid for 45 minutes while waiting for a MEDEVAC to arrive.

One U.S. service member, one U.S. local national interpreter, and two CBS crewman died in the explosion. Six U.S. service members and one U.S. civilian, Kimberly Dozier, the CBS reporter, were injured. Had these brave troopers not arrived on the scene when they did, the death toll surely would have been higher. In doing their job that day, these ordinary soldiers did something extraordinary. Someone needed help, and these humble soldiers from the heartland stepped forward without hesitation. They will insist they did nothing special or unique; they were just doing their duty.

Every day around the world thousands of brave Americans put their lives on the line to do their duty. We must never forget what they are doing for all of us. Please join me in thanking these outstanding soldiers for their service on behalf of our state and nation.

Ladies and gentlemen, thanks for allowing me to share my comments with you today, and thank you for your continued support of the Iowa National Guard and of the dedicated men and women in uniform who call Iowa home.

May God continue to bless you and your families, the great state of Iowa, and the United States of America! Thank you!

Major General Ron Dardis was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Governor Chester J. Culver was escorted from the House chamber by the committee previously appointed.

Senator Connolly presented Mike Glover, reporter for the Associated Press, who addressed the joint convention:

Thank you for that kind introduction—a rare moment of kindness between my profession and yours. Actually, it's not really all that rare, but more about that later.

I hope you will pardon me if I struggle a bit with this sort of role reversal. The concept of my speaking to the Iowa Legislature, and not the Iowa Legislature speaking to me and my colleagues, is enough to bring a journalist painfully close to hyperventilation. Like many of you, I come from an earlier generation where the rules were a bit clearer and things were a bit more black and white. I didn't do what you did and you didn't do what I did. Things are a bit more gray these days.

I'm often reminded by the character played by Holly Hunter in the movie "Broadcast News" when she accuses her romantic interest of violating ethical standards with the classic charge, "You crossed the line." To that charge he replies, "How do you know? They keep moving the sucker."

For the generations most of us come from it was simpler. But this isn't about me, this is about you and this institution which you have served and I have witnessed for more than a quarter of a century.

There's a lot of talk in these halls about how things have changed—how money and other factors have changed the character of this institution. There is, or course, some basis for those dire predictions, but let's not rush too far and let's think about some things which have not changed.

I bring to this discussion, after all, an outsider's view. Contrary to what has come to be the conventional wisdom, I was not installed in the press room during the run-up to the Civil War—it just seems that way.

As many of you know, I am a native of Illinois where the practice of politics is a much different creature. For instance, in that fair state we never hear the returns from Cook County until all the returns from downstate are complete. That's because Mayor Daley can't report returns until he knows what number he needs—and then he can go find it. We once had a secretary of state named Paul Powell who pushed through the legislature a minor measure changing the way you made out checks for license plates to include the name of the secretary of state. When he died they found scores of shoe boxes buried at this house stuffed with checks, and to this day no one knows how many he cashed.

With that background, we turn to Iowa. Is money changing the way business is conducted in this building? Without a doubt. But I would argue there is much more to the story. Politicians are, indeed, forced to spend more time raising and spending money, but most people I know in this room spend even more time dealing with the very real people they represent.

There's always considerable tension between your profession and mine on openness, and we won't relax on that front. I am often struck, however, how open this process is. I was walking through the halls just this week and passed by two lawmakers from opposite parties haggling over a bill and cutting the deal in a public hallway. To save their reputations, I won't name them.

And this can be one of the most partisan places in this very partisan environment. It isn't hard to get Republicans and Democrats shouting at each other. In fact it happens at a drop of a hat. What has struck me since the first day I walked into this place, however, is that the overwhelming bulk of the work done in this building happens because those exchanges take place. It doesn't make headlines because headlines are all about conflict.

Folks in this room are lucky to be part of that process, and there's another piece of luck you should ponder. We have lived in a state that has experienced one of the most remarkable political stretches in American political history. Since the 1970s, Iowa has lived at the center of the nation's political drama, and that's colored your political life and my professional career. The state, and I believe the nation's politics, are better for it.

Having said all that, the path has not always been smooth. There have been times when by all accounts things didn't go so well here. I'm fond of telling friends that I've seen more sunrises from this building than from any other spot in America.

I'd hate to try to count the number of shouting matches I've had with people, probably in almost every room of this very large building. Conflict is inevitable between my profession and yours, and it is equally inevitable within yours.

But the years sure have brought a whole bunch of memories, and I think it's important every now and then to stop and take stock of those memories. Those of us who don't learn from history are doomed to repeat it. I guess that means we'll all try again and maybe, just maybe, this time we'll get it, if not right, at least a little better.

Enjoy your time.

Thank you.

Representative McCarthy moved that the joint convention be dissolved.

The motion prevailed by a voice vote.

The Senate returned to the Senate chamber.

RECONVENED

The Senate reconvened at 3:10 p.m., Senator Dotzler presiding.

The Senate stood at ease at 3:11 p.m. until the fall of the gavel for the purpose of party caucuses.

The Senate resumed session at 3:40 p.m., President Kibbie presiding.

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE

April 11, 2007

The Honorable John P. Kibbie
President of the Senate
State Capitol

Dear President Kibbie:

“Our liberties we prize and our rights we will maintain.” This concise summary of our most basic and traditional values, set forth in our state’s motto, is inscribed on the Great Seal of the State of Iowa, pursuant to The Act of the First General Assembly of the State of Iowa, approved February 25, 1847. The motto is also inscribed on our state flag, a banner that greets legislators, visitors, and our citizens every day as they enter into and exit from our Capitol.

Because I am convinced that Senate File 139, an Act related to a criminal defendant filing an application for postconviction relief, is contrary to these values, I hereby disapprove and transmit to you that bill, without my signature, in accordance with Article III, Section 16, of the Constitution of the State of Iowa.

I have not taken this step—the first veto of my first term as Governor of this great state—lightly. I do so respectfully and with the full knowledge that this law was proposed by our distinguished Attorney General, supported by the County Attorneys Association, and received the unanimous vote of every House and Senate member present. However, I am firmly of the conviction that this Act, if allowed to become a part of the laws of our state, would erode some of those fundamental liberties that we prize and the rights that all of us, as public servants, have pledged to maintain.

Further, this Administration is appreciative of the public service rendered by the Attorney General, Assistant Attorneys General and the County Attorneys of Iowa, all of whom assume the difficult task of prosecuting crimes in this state using limited resources. I understand that the goal of Senate File 139 was to reduce frivolous lawsuits and thereby minimize the wasting of judicial resources, a goal that this Administration shares.

However, as public servants, we must be careful when seeking to obtain these particular aims that we do not inadvertently diminish citizens’ rights. I am convinced that, if codified, Senate File 139 would erode and diminish one of our most cherished legal rights: the right to challenge the legal basis for incarcerating citizens. Senate File 139 removes from Iowa Code chapter 822 the ability of a person convicted of a simple misdemeanor to later challenge that conviction using postconviction relief remedies historically allowed to all persons convicted for any criminal offense.

In addition, history teaches us it is not a good practice to tamper with our constitutional and legal rights. The constitutions of the United States and Iowa guarantee that the writ of habeas corpus will not be suspended, except in cases of rebellion or invasion. Sometimes known as “the Great Writ,” this common law precept allows a detained person to be brought before a court at a stated time and place to decide the legality of his or her detention or imprisonment.

More than thirty years ago, in 1970, Iowa lawmakers codified the common law writ of habeas corpus under the Uniform Postconviction Procedure Act by establishing a separate postconviction relief procedure for individuals who have been convicted of or sentenced for any public offense. That Act, currently found at Iowa Code chapter 822, has permitted “[a]ny person who has been convicted of, or sentenced for, a public offense” to seek postconviction relief since its enactment. Under chapter 822, the state’s power to incarcerate a citizen can be stopped if the conviction or sentence was for any reason unlawful or unconstitutional or if newly discovered evidence requires the vacation of the conviction or sentence in the interest of justice.

Senate File 139, if enacted, would eliminate the availability of postconviction relief for all simple misdemeanor convictions. Although the lowest level offense in our criminal code, a simple misdemeanor prosecution brings with it the potential for injustice and unforeseen collateral consequences—the very situation that postconviction relief procedures have been created to remedy.

The need to assure fair and just criminal prosecution outcomes on even the most minor offenses is no less important now than it was in 1970, when the General Assembly enacted chapter 822. Many citizens, particularly young adults, plead guilty to simple misdemeanor offenses without consulting an attorney or having a firm grounding in legal process. Sometimes those persons learn of adverse collateral consequences later, when they are denied the opportunity to obtain a professional license or other employment due to the uncounseled guilty plea. Such scenarios are likely to occur more frequently, not less often, in a future characterized by electronic criminal records databases that are accessible to potential employers at little cost. These employers may be deterred from hiring an otherwise qualified candidate when confronted by wrongful simple misdemeanor convictions that cannot be corrected under our postconviction relief statute. A simple misdemeanor also can result in deportation, or a permanent ban on a citizen’s ability to possess firearms. Given that such drastic consequences can follow from a simple misdemeanor conviction, those who govern must be certain that convictions that may have been imposed in error are allowed formal legal challenge.

For example, a citizen charged with a simple misdemeanor offense may have the unfortunate experience of being represented by incompetent legal counsel, resulting in an unjust conviction. In 2004, the General Assembly recognized that direct appeals were not a good place to raise complaints of ineffective assistance of counsel. For that reason, Iowa Code section 814.7 now permits a party to raise a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel during postconviction relief proceedings without having raised the matter first on direct appeal. Senate File 139 would deny this important right to those wrongfully convicted of simple misdemeanors.

Even if represented by competent legal counsel, there may be instances in which a magistrate judge—the venue where most simple misdemeanor cases are tried—commits legal error. Indeed, in our state formal legal training is not required for a person to preside in magistrate court.

The Culver-Judge Administration is committed to the prosecution and punishment of those who commit crimes. Similarly, the frivolous use of our judicial system will not be tolerated. Just as important, however, is the commitment to assure that people have recourse to all traditional procedures and remedies when, for whatever reason, they have been wrongfully convicted and sentenced.

Because Senate File 139 diminishes the liberties and rights that we, as office holders, both prize and feel duty-bound to maintain, I hereby respectfully disapprove Senate File 139.

Sincerely,
CHESTER J. CULVER
Governor
