IOWA MANUFACTURERS' DIRECTORY.

This is the second Directory of the Manufacturers of Iowa issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The first, issued two years ago, has had greater demand than was expected. The present directory has been compiled very carefully and the list fully revised, in order to furnish as up-to-date information as possible.

The arrangement of the lists and classifications are similar to the preceding directory, with more detail in the second section; first, the firms have been listed alphabetically by cities, giving address and kind of goods manufactured, and for cities and towns their respective population and county, also railroad facilities; second, the names and addresses of firms are listed according to product or industrial classification.

As first listed, there are 649 cities and towns included, with a total of 4,317 factories. We have endeavored to include all factories which employ one or more wage-earners. The United States census for 1914 reports 5,614 manufacturing establishments, but this number includes all plants with an output in excess of $500 and regardless of number of employees.

To indicate the volume of Iowa manufactures, the following table (No. 1 from Statistics of Manufactures issued for biennial period ending December 31, 1919, bulletin No. 2) gives as summary information:

Number of factories which reported for year 1919.....	3,206
Capital invested in these 3,206 manufacturing establishments.....	$409,282,755
Value of stocks and materials consumed in manufacturing during year 1919	497,572,107
Total value of products manufactured during 1919.....	698,035,251
Total amount of wages paid to factory employes.....	84,980,847
Average number of male wage earners employed in factories during year 1919	63,158
Average number of female wage earners employed in factories during year 1919	12,092
Average number of wage earners, including both sexes.....	75,250
Total wage earners during week of smallest employment for each plant during 1919	55,080
Total wage earners during week of greatest employment for each plant during 1919	100,048
Percentage of fluctuation from smallest to greatest employment	44.95%

This shows that with an average employment of 75,250 wage-earners in year 1919, with a fluctuation from a minimum of 55,080 to a maximum of 100,048 persons actually employed, that 3,206 Iowa factories produced $698,035,251 of manufactured goods. The table follows complete and gives similar information for 81 separate industrial classifications.

The size of Iowa factories may be judged from the number in each group of the following classifications, based on capital invested and value of product. The figures based on capital are of course more constant and dependable for use in making comparisons, the figures based on value of product being more or less affected by the trend of prices. Nevertheless, either grouping serves well to indicate the development of Iowa factories.

FIRST, ACCORDING TO CAPITAL INVESTED:

Amount of Capital Invested	Number of Establishments	Total Capital for Each Class
Over $1,000,000 capital	71	$216,133,716
$100,000 to $1,000,000	494	142,466,656
$20,000 to $100,000	814	38,034,044
$5,000 to $20,000	1,062	11,122,212
Less than $5,000	634	1,526,127

NOTE: In addition to the 3,075 plants classified above, there were 55 railway car repair shops that did not report capital invested and 76 factories that were branch concerns for which separate capital could not be given.

SECOND, ACCORDING TO VALUE OF PRODUCT:

Value of Product	Number of Establishments	Total Production for Each Class
Over $1,000,000 product	89	$445,849,134
$100,000 to $1,000,000	677	192,781,534
$20,000 to $100,000	1,008	48,545,186
$5,000 to $20,000	788	9,334,496
Less than $5,000	493	1,524,901

NOTE: In addition to the 3,055 factories classified above, there were 55 railway car repair shops that did not report value of product, and 96 plants that were branch concerns for which separate value of output could not be given.

Iowa is a state considered primarily as agricultural, but the manufacturing industries have grown in importance until they attract popular attention because of the number of factories and the total volume of their product. Iowa is known to have untold wealth in raw materials and natural resources (some of them featured on later pages), and it is especially important that a large part of the manufacture into finished products be carried on within the state. The leading manufacturing industries which are engaged precisely in such processes and which serve as pointed illustrations of Iowa's wealth of material, follow:

Industry	Number of Establishments Reporting for Year 1919	Total Value of Product, Year 1919
Slaughtering, meat packing	18	$221,692,868
Food preparations, cereals	13	80,583,382
Butter and cheese	366	49,201,934
Canning and preserving	55	8,599,892
Buttons, pearl	32	4,794,422
Brick and tile	95	7,851,977
Cement and lime	5	7,851,977
Wall plaster, gypsum, etc.	8	3,115,679
Crushed rock and stone	11	354,273
Poultry and produce packing	48	33,425,930

The above listed ten industries which include 651 factories reporting for year 1919, produced $416,686,156 of manufactured products from Iowa's own resources, which is 59 per cent of the total manufactures production of the state for that year, the latter aggregate being $698,035,251.

For those interested in the number of wage-earners employed in Iowa factories, we submit below the average number for each month of year 1919, as reported by 3,206 factories. The term "wage earners" here used includes only the persons working in mills, factories, shops, et cetera, actually engaged in manufacturing; salaried employes, such as manager, salesmen, bookkeepers, etc., are excluded.

It is to be expected that Iowa, situated near the center of the United States and with a climate which is continental in type, should have some industries and occupations which are more or less affected by seasonal changes. The better to illustrate this condition of seasonal employment, the following fifteen industries selected from the 1919 Manufactures Statistics issued by this department, are varied and represent all parts of the year:

Industry	Month of Greatest Average Employment	Average Employment in Greatest Month
Car repairs and construction.....	December	12,113
Slaughtering and meat packing.....	January	8,122
Foundry and machine shop products.....	February	7,271

The volume of manufactures for each county of the state is shown on the following map by means of the total value of product and the number of wage-earners employed in such production; and capitalization, stocks and materials, total product, wage-earners and wages paid, are shown on a separate tabulation for thirty (30) leading counties.

A glance at the preceding map and county tabulation shows that Iowa factories are not located in two or three largest cities or manufacturing centers, as is the case in a number of other states, but instead they are scattered over the state generally. Certain facts regarding some of the leading counties listed above will be of interest here to indicate the principal industries in each.

Woodbury leads all of the counties in production because of its great slaughtering and meat packing industry, which in year 1919 produced $119,452,360 of meat products; its next leading industry was butter and cheese, with $7,466,524 production.

Linn county, second in production rank, leads the state in cereal food preparations, producing $49,455,055 of oatmeal cereals. Several of these cereal factories are the largest in the United States.

Polk county stands third with a total production of $56,422,058. Located in Des Moines is a large meat packing plant and there are numerous other large factories, but the capital city does not stand out because of having a considerable number of large factories; the real condition is that besides a goodly number of fair sized establishments there are several hundred smaller ones producing a great variety of articles. Polk county naturally leads the state in the printing and publishing industry; the total value of products as reported for 1919 by 42 factories was $8,855,659. Polk county also has a large output of patent medicines and compounds, with total production of $2,931,720; bakery products, $2,478,570; butter and cheese, $2,210,208; and there are a dozen other industries with production from one to near two million dollars.

Scott county, which ranks fourth in production, holds first place in foundry and machine-shop products, with a total production of $20,033,118; one company in this group is the largest in the state in number of employes. This county's production of flour and grist mill products amounted to $5,652,030; and of lumber and timber products, $4,222,646.

Wapello county ranks fifth in production because one of the state's largest meat packing plants is located at Ottumwa.

Dubuque county, sixth in rank, leads the counties in lumber and timber products, with $5,036,880; its next industry is slaughtering and meat packing, $2,814,677; butter and cheese, $2,085,988; foundry and machine-shop products, $1,911,358; men's clothing, $1,609,455; brass and bronze products, $1,281,380.

Lee county produced $8,285,436 of food preparations (cereals), $3,524,468 of auto tires and tubes, $1,565,840 of patent medicines.

Clinton county produced $14,813,889 of food preparations, $2,484,932 of lumber and timber products, $2,060,421 of foundry and machine-shop products, $1,722,458 of butter and cheese, and $1,482,528 of bakery products.

Black Hawk county, in which the foundry industry leads, produced $3,616,178 of foundry and machine-shop products and $6,275,612 of agricultural implements.

Cerro Gordo county, which is seventh in production rank, has at Mason City among a number of important factories, two large cement plants whose total output for 1919 was $5,329,445; brick and tile production amounted to $1,862,166, and Mason City also has a large slaughtering and meat packing plant and a beet sugar plant, both of which produce up in the millions. Cerro Gordo leads all counties in cement production; however, Polk county has a cement plant with an annual output of several million dollars, and another cement plant has been established at Des Moines and will soon be in operation. Webster county is noted for its gypsum, the 1919 production of wall plaster therefrom being $2,934,243. In Cerro Gordo, Polk, Webster and Woodbury counties, the brick and tile industry has been developed to a large scale.

LEADING INDUSTRIES.

Showing the Natural Resources of the State, and Counties with Large Production in those Industries.

The following industries are engaged principally in manufacturing from raw materials produced by Iowa:

Slaughtering and meat packing—Woodbury, Dubuque, Scott, Black Hawk, Polk, Wapello, Cerro Gordo, Marshall and Des Moines counties. Total production for year 1919, $221,692,868.

Food preparations (cereals, etc.)—Linn, Webster, Lee and Clinton counties. In all there are 13 factories with a total production of $80,583,382 for the year 1919, but the large factories are the cereal plants at Cedar Rapids, Fort Dodge and Keokuk.

Butter, cheese and condensed milk—For 366 creameries, the total value of products for 1919 was reported to the Bureau of Labor as $49,201,934. Practically every county in the state produced dairy products to some extent, but the northern half and especially the northeastern quarter of the state, with Bremer and Butler counties as center of the district, lead in the industry.

Canning and preserving—There are 66 canning factories located in 59 different cities or towns, besides a dozen factories manufacturing pickles, condiments, and vinegar. Fifty-five factories operated during year 1919, total production being $8,599,892. The following eleven counties have more than one canning factory, with production ranging from $100,000 to over a million: Benton, Black Hawk, Bremer, Dallas, Lee, Linn, Marshall, Muscatine, Polk, Story and Winnebago counties.

Buttons, pearl—This industry depends mainly on the shell supply from the Mississippi and eastern rivers of the state. The counties along the Mississippi form one of the chief pearl button supply stations of the United States, and Muscatine is the button factory center of the middle west. In 1919, for 45 factories total production was $4,794,422. At Muscatine there are several large factories which turn out finished products, but most of the factories produce button blanks which are either shipped east or finished by other factories at Muscatine. Muscatine county leads in this industry, but Washington, Allamakee, Clayton, Jackson, Clinton, Scott, Louisa and Lee counties, or practically all along the Mississippi river, have extensive production. In order to not exhaust the supply of shells, propagating stations have been established by the government at Fairport, Iowa.

Brick and tile industry—For year 1919, the total production reported by 95 brick and tile factories located in all parts of the state was $7,851,977. The state has considerable quantities of materials for clay products. The western part of the state has limestone, chalk, shale and sand stone, but materials for brick and tile, also cement, are especially good in the territory north from Johnson county to Cerro Gordo county, in Polk, Marshall and Hardin counties, also over in Woodbury county; and all through the central portion of the state taken southeast and southwest from Webster and Hamilton counties, are beds of shale, sandstone, some limestone, and productive coal beds. The counties which lead in the brick and tile industry are Cerro Gordo, Polk, Woodbury, Keokuk, Wapello, Hamilton, Webster and Dallas counties.

Cement and lime—Though there are 5 factories with a total production of $7,065,799 of cement, the large cement factories are the two in Mason City (Cerro Gordo county) and one at Des Moines (Polk county), the latter factory securing its material from quarries at Earlham, Madison county. Another new cement factory which is now being constructed at Des Moines and will soon be in operation, will haul its raw material from Gilmore City, Pocahontas county.

Wall plaster and gypsum—Webster county is the only one containing gypsum to any quantity. The factories are located in the vicinity of Fort Dodge, and their total production for 1919 was $3,115,679. The gypsum beds in that locality are exceptionally good.

Quarries, crushed rock and stone—Dubuque, Scott, Webster, Madison, Cerro Gordo, Marshall, Allamakee, Black Hawk and Bremer counties.

Beet sugar factories—In Cerro Gordo, Bremer and Wright counties, consuming the product of 17,250 acres of sugar beets in 1920.

Improvements in scientific processes have made it possible to preserve more and more of perishable agricultural products for later consumption. Iowa, the chief agricultural state, with the greatest food crop to provide raw materials for its factories, is rapidly developing into a manufacturing state. Improved farming has increased Iowa's farm products, and factory products have increased in consequence due to large quantities of raw materials being prepared for consumption and placed through manufacturing processes within the state. The trend is from the soil to finished products, each step an Iowa industry. Eight leading food manufacturing industries produced 62.4% of the total manufactures for year 1919 (total $698,035,251). Though the greatest volume of manufactures is due to the value of food products, yet the greatest number of factories are engaged in a diversity of industries other than food production, as shown in manufactures table No. 1 already quoted on page (6).

Although this bulletin features the manufacturing industries of the state, while showing the natural resources in their relation to factory production it is well to consider the value of Iowa's corn and other grain crops and agricultural production. For better comparison with the volume of 1919 manufactures, the tabulated crop summary for the same year is submitted below:

The total value of crops produced in 1919 was $950,056,002, which is 27.7% more than the total value of manufactures for the same period ($698,035,251). Iowa in grain and animals used for food produces approximately one-tenth of all the food produced in the United States, and for the year 1919, of her manufactures 62.4% came from factories engaged in food production.

Economic conditions with relation to crop yield and total value changed so remarkably from 1919 to 1920 that we submit below a similar crop summary tabulated for year 1920. The total value of crops for 1920 was $560,460,638 as against the $950,056,002 of 1919. While there has been a slashing cut in the prices of the various products causing the decrease in value, there has been at the same time the biggest yield in the history of the state, noticeable particularly in corn, oats and potatoes. The increased production and decreased value, with average prices per unit, may be determined by comparing the 1919 table given just above with the 1920 tabulation which follows:

TABULATED CROP SUMMARY, 1920

While discussing agricultural production, the value of farm property should be of interest. The United States Census reports that in 1920 Iowa had 213,439 farms with an aggregate of 33,474,896 acres (28,606,951 improved and 4,867,945 acres unimproved), making an average of 156.8 acres to the farm. The percentage of farm land improved is 85.5%. The total value of farm property is as follows:

Value of all farm property	$8,525,270,956
Consisting of:
Land	6,679,020,577
Buildings	922,751,713

Another of Iowa's natural resources, and one of its greatest, is its bituminous coal. The United States Geological Survey has estimated that the Iowa coal field contains about 19,000 square miles, possibly two-thirds of which may in time become productive; the original coal supply was 29,160,000,000 tons; further, the same department estimated in 1907 that with a production of about 7,500,000 tons per year the supply will last 2,550 years.

During year 1920, 7,881,869 tons of coal were produced by Iowa mines. The table which follows shows the rank of twenty counties according to production of coal, and the accompanying map shows the location of those counties along the Des Moines river and its tributaries, with three counties with minor production which drain into the Missouri river.

The population statistics which follow have been specially adapted for this bulletin, from the 1920 Federal Census of Iowa. Table No. 4 shows population by counties, density per square mile, also urban and rural population, and is the foundation for the accompanying maps.

It should be explained that whereas the government figures on urban population included only cities and towns of over 2,500 persons, the table and maps as here compiled include all "incorporated" cities and towns regardless of size, which in our estimation represents better for our purpose the real urban population. Population statistics are included in this Directory to show the relation of urban to rural population of the various counties, and especially to indicate the localities of greatest density due to urban and manufacturing industries for which a large supply of labor is necessary.

The total population of Iowa is 2,404,021, with a density of 43.2 per square mile. The urban population is 1,322,710, and rural population 1,081,311; hence 55.02% is urban. Distribution between the counties, and the several centers of density, are easily determined by use of the maps which follow.

IOWA PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS, CLIMATE, ETC.

(From Census of Iowa, 1915.)

The state, which is rectangular in form, embraces 55,586 square miles of land area and 561 square miles of water surface, a total of 56,147 square miles.

Every county of the state is an agricultural county. The surface is largely prairie, broken by streams and ridges or hills. The streams are fringed with timber and many groves have been cultivated. The elevation of the zero of the river gauge at Keokuk is 478 feet and the highest point, in the vicinity of Ocheyedan, Osceola county, is a little over 1,600 feet. As the top of the bluff at Keokuk is 100 feet above the gauge the range in elevation is only 1,100 feet.

The soil is a rich and deep glacial deposit filled with plant food in most accessible form. The climate also favors production. The cold of winter, while not as severe as in the state farther north, is sufficient to disintegrate the soil, and the rains and heat of summer, not as intense as in states farther south, are sufficient to insure bounteous crops. Situated near the geographical center of the United States, the climate of Iowa is continental in type. This implies a wide range in temperature, winters of considerable severity, summers of almost tropical heat and a large percentage of sunshine. There being but little range in elevation of the various sections, the climate is similar with only such variations of temperature and rainfall as result from latitude and location with reference to the pathway of the cyclones which pass eastward over the continent.

The average annual temperature for the state is 47.4 degrees. By seasons the averages are as follows, viz.: winter, 20.8; spring, 47.5; summer, 71.7; autumn, 49.7. The highest temperature registered in Iowa by a standard thermometer is 113 degrees, occurring in July, 1901, and the lowest is 47 degrees below zero, occurring in 1912. These extremes in temperature are rendered more endurable to man and beast by the prevalent dryness of the air at the time of their occurrence.

The largest annual amount of rainfall is in the southeastern portion of the state, where the average for the year is about 37 inches. It decreases gradually toward the northwest where the average amount is 27 inches. The average for the state is 31.97 inches. During the six crop months, April to September, inclusive, more than 71 per cent of the annual precipitation occurs, and, during the four months of principal crop growth, May to August, inclusive, fully 52 per cent of the annual amount occurs.

From November to March the precipitation is light and only about 20 per cent of the annual amount. It comes, however, mostly in the form of snow, which is the best form possible for the protection of grasses and for preventing the washing and leaching of the soil in plowed fields.

The severe storms of winter, commonly known as "blizzards," are rare, and when they do occur do but little damage except in delaying railroad traffic for short periods of time.

During the winter months, the precipitation is considerably heavier over the eastern part of the state than it is in the western; but in the summer months conditions are reversed, the western part receiving a slightly larger amount. Much of the rainfall comes in the form of gentle showers, but occasionally, during the passage of a cyclonic area from the southwest to the lower lakes, heavy rainfall is general over a large part of the state and continues from one to two days. Many of the summer showers are attended by thunder and lightning, and a few by heavy downpours of rain, light to heavy hail and wind squalls, which do considerable damage to crops and buildings; but the area covered by such storms is small. Once in a great while a typical tornado strikes some small section of the state during May, June or July, but storms of that character are no more liable to occur in Iowa than in other portions of the mid-continent region.

From the middle of September to the middle of November, and occasionally to the middle of December, the weather is delightful. The sky is mostly clear, the days are warm and the nights just crisp enough to be a tonic and invigorator to man and beast.

Occasionally during the summer or early fall months short periods of drouthy weather prevail over all or part of the state, but there has been more damage done by an excess than by the absence of moisture. As the farming interests are so diversified, neither drouths nor the more destructive floods have ever caused an entire crop failure. During May and June, or the season of heaviest rainfall, it frequently happens that much of the flat prairie land in the north central part of the state and all the low bottom lands along the rivers become too wet or are flooded. These conditions offer a wide field of operations to the engineer in draining the flat and preventing floods on the bottom lands.

OTHER GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT IOWA.

According to the 1920 Statistical Abstract of the United States, Iowa's population in 1920 was 875,495 urban and 1,528,526 rural (these urban figures are taken from a different basis than the population statistics given herein on page —.) Since in 1900 the urban percentage was 25.6%, and in 1910 30.6%, with 36.4% in 1920 the trend towards Iowa cities is very marked, especially when Iowa's lead in agricultural pursuits is considered.

With relation to tenure of homes, the latest figures as given by the 1920 Abstract are for year 1910. With a population at that time of 2,224,771, Iowa had a total of 498,943 dwellings, and 512,515 families. This made 4.5 persons to a dwelling and 4.3 persons to a family. As to ownership, of the 512,515 families having homes, 186,763 families owned homes free from mortgage, 101,962 owned mortgaged homes, and there were 4,226 unknown as to mortgage, a total of 292,951 owning homes; 208,344 families rented homes; and for 11,220 families the tenure was unknown.

Regarding Labor Organizations in Iowa, at the close of year 1919 there were 72 craft organizations with a total of 975 locals in the state. Membership in these locals, reported for December 31, 1919, included 79,589 males and 1,815 females, a total of 81,404.

Out of 42,982 business concerns in Iowa in 1920, there were only 123 failures, or 0.29 of a per cent.

With an average of six persons per motor car, Iowa ranks first in the Union in number of autos per population.

Iowa leads in literacy; her percentage of illiteracy is the least of all states in the Union.

Iowa leads the Union in production of corn; her 1920 corn crop was 473,800,000 bushels; Illinois, which ranked second, produced 294,168,000 bushels of corn during the same year.

In oats, Iowa also ranks first, with 229,866,000 bushels, and Illinois second, with 161,960,000 bushels.

In production of hay, Iowa ranks second; the three leading states in this crop follow: New York, 5,482,000 tons; Iowa, 4,350,000 tons; and Indiana, 4,252,000 tons of hay.

Iowa also ranks first in number of horses; the three leading states follow: Iowa, 1,398,000 head of horses; Illinois, 1,394,000 head; and Texas, 1,199,000 head.

Iowa ranks second in number of cattle, with a total of 4,483,000 head of milk cows and all other cattle; Texas ranks first, with 5,596,000 head.

In hogs, Iowa is far in the lead of all the other states. Iowa had a total of 10,010,000 hogs in 1920, and Illinois which ranks second for the same period, had 5,152,000 hogs.

Iowa has 15 cities of the first class, 90 cities of the second class, and 788 incorporated towns. The 105 cities are located in 89 counties of the state, leaving 10 counties without any cities of first or second class. There are nine cities or towns for each county and one for every 51 square miles, and there is one for every 1,200 persons on adjacent farms.

The latest data available concerning the number of persons engaged in gainful occupations is the 1915 Iowa Census, from which we submit the following classification :

Industries	Male	Female	Total	Per Cent
Agricultural pursuits	281,978	4,495	286,473	36.3
Professional service	21,121	30,307	51,428	6.5

Laborers unclassified	76,750	403	77,153	9.8
Grand Total	678,569	110,115	788,684	100.0

For transportation facilities, Iowa has 104,027 miles of highways (this includes about 642,162 acres), and 10,493 miles of railroads, or one mile of railroad for each 224 persons and one mile for each 51.3 square miles. Iowa ranks fourth in the United States in railroad mileage. There has been only unimportant extension of railroads in the past ten years, generally to close up gaps and connect detached portions of systems, the net addition of track for the steam roads being only about 200 miles. However, every county seat has railroad facilities, as also has almost every town and village of a hundred or more inhabitants, and a fifteen-minute automobile journey connects every farm house in Iowa with a railroad station.

Iowa ranks first in per capita wealth.

Iowa is extreme in lowness of per capita debt, following only Kansas and Oregon, and Pennsylvania and West Virginia with no debt reported. The latest available statistics gives Iowa's per capita debt as $0.16, as against an average per capita debt of $3.57 for all of the states.

Iowa has an even distribution of natural resources and of population; unsurpassed fertility of soil; towns and small cities well placed; factories scattered over the state; ample railway facilities; schools, churches, newspapers, railroads, market centers, manufacturing areas all in close proximity; two navigable rivers on the east and west (the Mississippi and Missouri rivers) which may be developed to greater extent if needed by commerce; everything in the state works towards industrial, economic and social progress.
