ADJUTANT GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT

State Capitol
Des Moines, Iowa

1 July 1954

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR OF IOWA AND COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE IOWA NATIONAL GUARD (Army and Air):

The Biennial Report of the Adjutant General of Iowa, for the period 1 July, 1952 through 30 June, 1954, is respectfully submitted.

This report summarizes the major activities of the Iowa National Guard (Army and Air) for the indicated period. A discussion of subjects common to both Army and Air National Guard is followed by separate sections devoted to the activities of each.

For purposes of clarity, in this report the term "National Guard" will be used to denote the organized militia as a whole, both Army and Air, and the terms "Army National Guard" and "Air National Guard" used when specific reference is made to ground or air forces of the Iowa National Guard, respectively.

The Adjutant General's Department reviews the achievements of the indicated biennium with pride and satisfaction. Numerical strength increased appreciably, the status of training is excellent, and new missions have been capably undertaken. It is believed that the Nation and the State receive a tremendous return on every dollar invested in the National Guard.

As Annexes the Report includes all General Orders published during the period, a complete list of all Adjutant Generals who have served throughout the history of the State of Iowa, and a complete list of all retired officers.

INTRODUCTION

The National Guard of Iowa is an organization composed of individuals voluntarily serving the State and the Nation as members of military units. The tradition of the citizen-soldier goes back to colonial days when every adult male was assigned to a military company. Those companies which were active were called "Volunteer Militia" and were equipped and trained according to the needs of the time. The National Guard is the lineal descendant of the Volunteer Corps. The equipment of the Volunteers was meager and training was limited to drill—but regular drill was required. Then, as now, the emphasis was on training, on readiness for the emergency.

The National Guard of today is organized under the Army and Air Force tables of organization and equipment. There are 27 divisions in the Army National Guard of the United States and 27 Wings in the Air National Guard of the United States. In addition to these major organizations, there are regimental combat teams, artillery battalions, and numerous other combat support units, making a total in the United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Alaska and the District of Columbia of 5,612 units, with a federally recognized strength of 367,851. The major portions of one infantry division, the 34th Infantry Division, and one wing, the 132d Fighter-Bomber Wing are in the State of Iowa, the balance of each being in Nebraska. In addition Iowa has the 194th Field Artillery Battalion (155MM How.), two ordnance companies (DS) the 133d Aircraft control and Warning Flight.

The National Guard of the United States has the federal mission of providing units for the active Army and Air Force, adequately organized, trained and equipped, available for mobilization in the event of national emergency or war, in accordance with the deployment schedule, and capable of participating in combat operations in support of Department of Defense war plans.

The National Guard of Iowa has a dual status and mission. Each unit is simultaneously a part of the National Guard of the State of Iowa and of the National Guard of The United States. The National Guard of Iowa, in addition to its federal mission as explained above, has the state mission and responsibility for maintaining a force with strength adequate to protect life and property in the State and uphold the peace and quiet of the community when called upon by the Governor in times of emergency. Except when ordered into active military service, the National Guard is under the command of the Governor of the State.

This report deals with the achievements and the problems of the National Guard of Iowa in its progress toward its objectives.

POLICIES OF DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY AND DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE RELATING TO THE NATIONAL GUARD

I. GENERAL

The National Guard of the United States and the Air National Guard of the United States are integral parts and first line reserve components of the Army of the United States and the United States Air Force. The National Guard of the United States and territories continues to exist and, in time of national emergency, may be called or ordered into the Army of the United States and the United States Air Force through its National Guard of the United States status. All federally recognized units and elements of the active National Guard and the personnel of the Inactive National Guard of the several states, territories, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, together, constitutes the National Guard of The United States.

II. MISSIONS

A. Mission of the National Guard of the United States and the policy relative to its employment are set forth in the Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952 (Public Law 476, 82d Congress) as follows:

"Sec. 201. (a) The Congress hereby declares that the reserve components of the Armed Forces of the United States are maintained for the purpose of providing trained units and qualified individuals to be available for active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States in time of War or national emergency, and at such other times as the national security may require, to meet the requirements of the Armed Forces of the United States in excess of those of the Regular components thereof, during and after the period needed for procurement and training of additional trained units and qualified individuals to achieve the planned mobilization."

This law specifically defined and further clarified dictates that the mission of the National Guard of the United States is to provide a reserve component of the Army of the United States and the United States Air Force capable of immediate expansion to war strength, able to furnish units fit for service anywhere in the world, trained and equipped to: 1. Defend critical areas of the United States against land, seaborne or airborne invasion. 2. Assist in covering the mobilization and concentration of the remainder of the reserve forces. 3. Participate by units in all types of operations, including the offensive, either in the United States or overseas.

B. Mission of the National Guard of the Several States.

A dual mission is levied upon both the Army and Air National Guard. As stated above, both the Army and Air National Guard have the Federal mission of preparing their units and members for active military service in time of national emergency, however there is also an important mission to perform for the State of Iowa. The State mission, a peacetime one, is the traditional guardian of life and property and constitutes a State security Force, which provides sufficient organization in the State so trained and equipped as to enable them to function efficiently at existing strength in the protection of life and property and the preservation of peace, order and public safety under competent orders of State authorities. This mission also is being accomplished. (See "Active State Duty", hereafter, for incidents requiring use of State Troops during this biennium).

III. COMPOSITION OF THE IOWA NATIONAL GUARD

A. The organization and units allotted to the several States will be those which are required for the accomplishment of the mission of the National Guard and when taken with the units of the Regular Army, United States Air Force and their reserve components, will provide the essential forces required for early mobilization. Within the total allotment, organizations of the proper type will be allotted to each State to enable it to accomplish the Federal and State missions. (See "Troop Allocation," hereafter, for a listing of units allotted to the State of Iowa during this biennium.)

IV. FEDERAL AND STATE RESPONSIBILITY

A. General.

The National Guard is an integral part of the Army of the United States and the United States Air Force and its success depends upon mutual confidence between the Federal Government and the States and Territories. Such confidence is obtained only by the wholehearted efforts of all parties to maintain an effective National Guard.

B. The Federal Government is responsible for:

1. Providing the pay of federally recognized personnel for participation in authorized inactive duty training and active duty for training, including appropriate duty or duties and periods of equivalent duty or training, and Administrative pay.
2. The procurement and issue of uniforms, arms, equipment and supplies.
3. The supervision of training.
4. To appropriate a sum of money annually for the expense of providing ordnance stores, quartermaster stores, camp equipment and to contribute to State Funds an equitable share of the expense of construction and maintenance of certain training facilities, as are now or may later be authorized by law.
5. Audit and inspect National Guard Units, Army and Air, and accounts and records of the United States Property and Physical Officer.

C. The State Government is responsible for:

1. Subject to such qualifications for Federal recognition as may be established by the Secretary of the Army and Air Force, appoint, promote, transfer, assign and separate personnel of the National Guard, Army and Air.
2. Provide training and storage facilities, except as contributed to by the Federal Government.
3. To train officers, warrant officers and enlisted personnel of the National Guard, Army and Air.
4. To properly account for and maintain all Federal property and funds.

D. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment Iowa National Guard

Within each State there shall be an administrative staff to be designated as "State Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment" and which will be organized and federally recognized as a unit of the National Guard. The numbers and grades of officers, warrant officers and enlisted men within the State Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment will be based upon the strength of allotted National Guard units to the State and, in addition, will provide a suitable number of officers and enlisted men for duties in connection with selective Service and internal security.

E. Headquarters, Iowa Air National Guard

By direction of the Secretary of the Air Force through the Chief, National Guard Bureau the unit known as the Headquarters, Iowa Air National Guard is assigned to the office of the State Adjutant General. As the State Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, the strength of the Headquarters, Iowa Air National Guard is based upon the total personnel authorization of the Federally recognized Air National Guard units of the State. The responsibility of determining positions and titles for the grades authorized rests with the State Adjutant General. The Mission of Headquarters, Iowa Air National Guard is to advise and assist the Adjutant General in matters pertaining to administration, logistics and training of Air National Guard Units within the State.

F. Advisors

Under policies of the Department of the Army and Department of the Air Force, selection and assignment of qualified advisors is reserved as a function of the Air Force. The supervision of the training responsibility of the advisors is vested in the Chief, Army Field Forces and Chief of Reserve Forces, Headquarters, United States Air Force. Personnel on duty as advisors with the National Guard will have no command status with troops or units of the National Guard, nor will they be subject to orders of State military authorities. The primary duties of advisors will be to advise and assist responsible commanders in the attainment and maintenance of that state of efficiency of the National Guard units as is prescribed by Headquarters, Department of the Army and Headquarters, Department of the Air Force.

G. National Guard Bureau.

1. The National Guard Bureau is charged with:

- a. Administering approved joint Army and Air Force policies, other than those relative to training, when such policies are applicable to both the Army National Guard not in the Federal service and the Air National Guard not in the Federal service and with promulgating joint Army-Air Force directives applicable to both the Army and Air National Guard, including those relating to training.
- b. Functioning as the channel of communication between the Departments of the Army and Air Force and the State on all matters pertaining to the Army and Air National Guard.
- c. Maintaining an office of record of all Department of the Army and Air National Guard not in the Federal service.

H. National Guard Policy Making.

All policies affecting the National Guard are prepared by the General Staff Committee on National Guard Policy (known as the "Section Five Committee") for action by the Secretary of the Army and Secretary of the Air Force under normal Department of the Army and Department of the Air Force Procedure. All regulations to carry such policies into effect are reviewed by this committee.

1. Public Law 461.

During the Korean emergency, selected National Guard units of the several states were called to active duty for a period of five years, and upon termination of the emergency, Congress enacted Public Law 461, which authorized units to be reactivated at their home stations at reduced strength and yet keep the parent organization on active duty.

LEGISLATION

THE MILITARY CODE OF IOWA

Chapter 29, Code of Iowa, 1954

Chapter 29 of the Code of Iowa, 1954, is commonly referred to as the "Military Code of Iowa." This body of statute law provides the legal basis for the establishment, support and administration of the military forces of the State, as authorized by the Constitution of the United States, the State of Iowa, and pertinent federal rules and regulations. This statute further provides for the appointment, powers and duties of the Adjutant General, the Assistant Adjutant General, and the United States Property and Fiscal Officer, sets forth a Code of Military Justice for the State Military Forces, and charges the Adjutant General with responsibility for management and control of Camp Dodge Military Reservation as well as all other State Military facilities and installations.

The development of the statute law of Iowa pertaining to the Militia and the military forces of the state, from the first reference to the militia found in the "Laws of the Territory of Iowa, 1838-1839," has not kept pace with all the changes that have been taking place in the status of the National Guard as influenced by many federal laws and regulations. From time to time the Legislature of Iowa has acted to bring the Iowa laws relating to the Iowa National Guard into step with federal law, but the efforts have been piecemeal. The last serious effort to modernize the Military Code took place in 1934, when the 54th General Assembly repealed the prior Military Code, appearing in the Code of 1931 as Chapter 28, and endeavored to revise and modernize the military laws of the State. The revision of the National Defense Act, the passage of the Service Unification Act in 1947 and the Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952, have indicated the necessity for a further modernization and revision of the Iowa Statutes.

House File 141 and Senate File 155 were identical bills introduced in the 55th General Assembly of the Legislature of Iowa early in the calendar year of 1953. The bills proposed to repeal Chapter 29, Code of Iowa, 1950, and enact a new military code in lieu thereof. The bill passed the Senate on February 11, 1953, and the Senate Bill passed the House on March 26, 1953, without a dissenting vote, and was signed by the Governor on April 2, 1953.

The Law became effective as of 4 July, 1953.

Following is a brief explanation of certain revisions in the new law intended to make the statute a more usable Military Code.

a. The sections of the law were generally reorganized to provide continuity and logical organization.

b. Section I of the Code adds certain definitions.

c. Changes in terminology will be found that conform to the present organization, equipment and federal laws and regulations pertaining to the services. For instance the new Code refers to anti-aircraft and air units which are now integral and important parts of the Iowa National Guard, and eliminates reference to cavalry units which no longer exist.

d. Warrant officers are given the same powers and duties as officers, as provided by federal laws and regulations.

e. Section 29.27 provides for payment of an additional $3.00 a day to enlisted personnel, while in active state service in disaster or internal security duty. The previous law provided an additional $1.00 per day in this situation.

* Section 29.37 authorizes the Adjutant General to arrange for a blanket-type bond of all officers accountable for property, instead of individual bonds for each of such officers.

g. Sections 29.55 and 29.56 authorize the Adjutant General to provide personal liability insurance for guard personnel operating military vehicles and provides for the creation of a claims board for settlement of claims resulting from accidents involving the operation of military vehicles.

h. Sections 29.62 through 29.81 provide a manual for courts martial for the Iowa National Guard when not in federal service. These disciplinary and courts martial provisions conform to federal laws and regulations as contained in the Code of Military Justice as revised in 1951.

i. Sections 29.83 through 29.91 contain authority for the creation of an "Iowa State Guard" in the event the Iowa National Guard is inducted into federal service in a national emergency.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION

During fiscal year 1953 the 82nd Congress enacted the following legislative measures of concern to the National Guard.

1. P.L. 461, 7 July, 1952. This law amended the Universal Military Training and Service Act to authorize the retention in active Federal service, beyond the 24-month period formerly authorized, of National Guard and Reserve unit designations and equipment, exclusive of the individual members thereof, for a total period of 5 years. The act further provides for the organization of National Guard cadre units comparable in structure to those units retained in active federal service, and for the integration of the retained units with the corresponding cadre units upon the formers release from active duty. To facilitate reference to these cadre units and distinguish them from the parent unit on active duty, they have been referred to by the National Guard Bureau and the Department of the Army as "NGUS" units.

2. P.L. 476, 9 July, 1952, cited as "The Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1951" established a Ready Reserve, limited to an aggregate strength of 1.5 millions and a Standby Reserve. The Ready Reserve can be activated during an emergency declared by the President but only in such numbers as specifically authorized by the Congress. This Act places all Guard units in the Ready Reserve.

The Act further provides for common Federal appointments and enlistments in the National Guard and the Army or Air Force Reserves, provided, of course, that membership in the National Guard is subject to the approval of the Governor of the State concerned. Maximum strength of the National Guard is to be authorized by the Congress or, in the absence of such authorization, fixed by the President. The National Guard will continue to be subject to "call" by the President as distinguished from "Order."

The Act further provides for initial and maintenance uniform allowances for officers and for annual leave for all personnel on active duty for training in excess of 30 days.

3. P.L. 488, 10 July, 1952. This was the Department of Defense Appropriation Act, 1953. This Act authorized free transportation of official mail matter by units and headquarters of the National Guard of the United States whether or not they are in the active service of the United States.

4. P.L. 84, 29 June, 1953 amended the Universal Military Training and Service Act to provide for special registration, classification, and induction of certain medical, dental and allied specialist categories.

During fiscal year 1954, the 83rd Congress, passed no legislation of major concern to the National Guard with the exception of the Department of Defense Appropriation Act (P.L. 179). P.L. 477 authorizing an active-duty status for United States property and fiscal officers passed both Houses of Congress but was not signed by the President until 6 July 1954.

FACILITIES AND CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

IOWA NATIONAL GUARD, ARMY AND AIR

II. 1 JULY 1953 THROUGH 30 JUNE 1954:

A. Status of Federal Assistance to the Iowa National Guard During Fiscal Biennium 1952-1954:

39. Definite increase in the field of Federal assistance to the Iowa National Guard for armory and non-armory construction took place during the biennium beginning 1 July, 1952 and ending 30 June, 1954. As has been explained previously, the 81st Congress enacted Public Law 783 in 1951, which authorized Federal assistance for the construction and procurement of armories and other facilities for the Reserve components of the Armed Forces. The Congress appropriated funds for this purpose for the first time in the Department of Defense Appropriation Act for Fiscal Year 1952. Due to procedural difficulties, the funds appropriated for this purpose were not released by the Bureau of the Budget to the Chief of the National Guard Bureau until the summer 1952 and consequently the program was not implemented until early in fiscal year 1953.

40. Each State was advised as to the precise share of the FY 1953 funds which were made available for the armory construction program and each state was further advised to prepare and submit priority reports of desired projects and also submit plans in accordance with procedures outlined in current Army Facilities and Construction Bulletins published by the National Guard Bureau.

41. The National Guard Bureau developed standard plans for 1-unit, 2-unit, and Type 'Z' plans for small units armories but each State was permitted to develop its own individual plans, to meet its particular requirements, and these in turn were reviewed by the Bureau under the general criteria governing construction of armories with Federal assistance. This criteria provided specific limitations on the size of armories in terms of square footage, while the methods of construction, materials to be used and ornamentation and trimmings were worked out on a per case basis as plans were submitted to the Bureau.

42. The State of Iowa developed plans for 1, 2 and 3 unit armories which have proven acceptable to the National Guard Bureau, under the indicated criteria, and which it is believed offer the greatest utilitarian value, as armories, under the particular circumstances prevalent in the State.

43. 28 May 1952, the necessary agreement between the National Guard Bureau and the State of Iowa (DA-13-035-NG-13), was executed and duly approved by the Attorney General of Iowa. This agreement was designed as a Master Agreement to cover all funds contributed to the State for construction under the provisions of Sec. 3 (c) of P.L. 783, 81st Congress. Pursuant to this agreement the State of Iowa undertook responsibility for all engineering and construction.

44. Section 3 (c) of the Act specifically authorized contribution to the States of 75% of the cost of armories approved under the criteria, title to vest in the State upon acceptance. This particular authorization is premised upon the admitted obligation of the Federal Government to assist States in "acquisition, construction, expansion, rehabilitation, or conversion by the State of such additional facilities as (the Sec'y. of Defense) shall determine to have been made essential by any increase in strength of the National Guard of the United States of the Air National Guard of the United States." This authorization is to be distinguished from that in Section 3(b), wherein the justification is premised upon 'joint-utilization' by all components of the Armed Forces. It will be recalled that in formulating policies with reference to reorganization of the National Defense structure, following World War II, the War Department assigned the National Guard a mission as an integral part and a first line reserve component of the Army of the United States as set forth in "War Department Policies relating to Post War National Guard," approved by the Secretary of War on 13 October, 1945, and wherein the following assumption is set forth:

"(3) When the requirements for a balanced force in the Army of the United States necessitates the allocation to a State of troops or equipment, the housing or storage of which would impose an inequitable burden upon the State or Territory, such allocation will be made with the understanding that the Federal Government will contribute its equitable share of the Expense of constructing and maintaining the necessary facilities."

This assumed obligation is reflected in the following terms of the agreement:

CIVILIAN PERSONNEL PROGRAM

National Guard civilian personnel are employees authorized under the provisions of Section 90, National Defense Act, for administrative and accounting duties, maintenance and repair, inspection of materials armament, vehicles, and equipment provided for the National Guard and used solely for military purposes. The secretary of the Army and the Secretary of the Air Force has delegated to the Adjutant General the authority to employ, fix rates of pay, established duties and work hours (a minimum of 40 hours per week), supervise and discharge employees within the purview of appropriate regulations and such instructions as may be issued by the Chief, National Guard Bureau.

National Guard Civilian personnel are considered to be employees of the State although paid from federal funds appropriated for the National Guard, (21 Comp. Gen. Dec. 305). Such employees are, however, covered under the 'United States Employee's Compensation Law' for injuries or death sustained while in the performance of their prescribed duties.

National Guard Civilian Personnel are divided into the following categories:

Administrative Assistants are federally recognized officers, warrant officers or enlisted men employed as civilians to act as civilian administrative assistants to commanders or heads of activities in the performance of such duties, responsibilities and administrative matters for which the commanders or heads of activities are responsible or may be required to perform.

Accounting clerks are male or female civilian employees authorized by law for accounting and property custodial duties in the office of the United States Property and Fiscal Officer.

Maintenance personnel are federally recognized officers, warrant officers and enlisted men of the National Guard employed as civilian supervisors, mechanics, technicians and general maintenance personnel who work in or from fixed shops, concentration sites or service centers, to include the army aviation maintenance pool, under the supervision of shop or pool supervisors and under the general supervision of the State Maintenance Officer. They are responsible for the concentration, inspection, repair, and reconditioning of equipment pertaining to National Guard organizations.

Administrative, supply and maintenance technicians are warrant officers or enlisted men employed as civilians to assist company or battery commanders in the performance of all administrative, supply organizational matters for which the commander is responsible, or may be required to perform.

Air National Guard Civilian personnel are federally recognized officers or airmen of the Air National Guard employed to effect maximum efficiency in administration, supply, operations, training and maintenance of the Air National Guard.

The National Guard (Army & Air) Civilian Personnel Program in Iowa is established on the following pattern:

TRAINING

During Fiscal year 1953 and 1954, Army National Guard training continued to stress individual and small unit (Squad and platoon) tactics and operations. All training was conducted in accordance with National Guard Training Programs published by Army field forces and was evaluated by inspecting officers of the active army. Distribution of a new Army training program was begun in fiscal year 1954, scheduled for completion by Army field forces and is designed to fit the needs of the active army, the Army National Guard and other units of the Army Reserve. Subject schedules to support the new programs are in process of completion and distributions are scheduled over an approximate two year period. A revised and simplified version of National Guard Bureau Form 68 "Record of Individual Training" was distributed during fiscal year 1954 for use with the training program. The number of units rates satisfactory or better, by active Army inspectors, has been consistently increasing, and effectiveness of training is further reflected in continued upward trend in percentage of participation in both armory and field training.

ARMORY TRAINING

Armory training consists of 48 assemblies of a minimum duration of two hours each. During fiscal year 1954, however, a change was made in the normal conduct of armory drills, made necessary because of lack of funds to provide pay for supplementary week-end drills. Since subsistence at the rate of eighty cents per individual for each of eight hour periods, is provided authority was granted to utilize six of the regular armory drill periods for week-end outdoor training. Six additional drills would have been desirable, but good results were achieved through the furnishing of subsistence, to permit utilization of longer training periods.

Participation in armory drills continued at a high level.

FIELD TRAINING

Field Training is the culmination of the training year. Fifteen days, including travel time, authorizes and permits commanders, assembled with their staffs, to conduct training not possible in armory training.

The Army elements of the Iowa National Guard train at two field training sites. The 113th AAA Bn trained at Camp Haven, Wisconsin, where firing at aerial targets is possible at Camp Haven, Wisconsin, NG, the Ordnance Cos, and the 34th Division, less the 113th AAA Bn, trained at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin in 1953, and at Camp Ripley, Minnesota in 1954.

Field training inspections were conducted by teams of officers of the active army, detailed for this purpose by the Commanding General of Fifth Army. These instructors spent the entire fifteen day period with the troops and all units were rated on their performance. An increasingly greater number of units were rated Excellent and Superior.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD

Biennial Training Narrative for Period Ending 30 June 1954.132d Fighter Bomber Wing, Iowa ANG

This report including all of the Iowa units of this wing originates on 1 January 1953, the date the wing reverted to state status.

During the six month period ending 30 June 1953 all efforts were directed toward reorganization, conversion to jet aircraft and transitional training of pilots and ground crew alike.

Strength wise, as of 30 June 1953, there were 72 officers and 547 airmen assigned. Flying was limited to less than 200 hours per month with possessed tactical aircraft of 3 F-51's per squadron.

Formal service school training included 34 airmen attending the basic training course at Lackland AFB, Texas. Our first two Pilot Trainees reported for pilot training in Aug. 1953, which was the beginning of an aggressive pilot training program.

Progress paralleled the times during the next six month period. The wing received ten (10) F-80's per squadron, and, in spite of transitional problems, the wing participated in the Air National Guard aerial Gunnery meet at Boise, Idaho, in October, 1953.

As of 30 June, 1954, this period displayed further advances.

Even though the F-80's were returned to the depot for modification during this period, the wing was flying over 550 hours per month. Assigned strength increased to 97 officers and 751 airmen. By this time there were sixteen aviation cadets actually undergoing pilot training at different Air Force Bases throughout the country.

As an added incentive the wing was given a mobilization assignment with the Air Defense Command.

Plans were being made for the most successful Field Training Exercises in the history of the Iowa Air National Guard.

A total of twenty-one (21) officers and airmen attended Air Force Service School during this period.

From 1 January, 1953, to 30 June, 1954 was a period of reorganization of the wing starting from "scratch," included a period of transitional training of pilots and indoctrination of ground crews from reciprocal type aircraft to jets.

The difficulties involved with the F-80 aircraft included return to the Depot for modification because of materiel failures within their engines. In fact on 30 June, each tactical squadron had only four (4) F-80's in their possession.

HISTORY OF THE 133d AC&W FLIGHT

(1 June, 1952 to 1 July, 1954)

On 1 June, 1952, the 133d Aircraft Control and Warning Flight, composed of 300 personnel, was on Active Duty with the Regular Air Force. The Flight was ordered to Active Duty on 1 November, 1951, for a 24 month period. The unit was stationed at the Fort Dodge, Iowa, Municipal Airport (Eno Airport) on Highway 20, approximately 3 miles east of Fort Dodge, and Detachment "A" of the organization, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on 1 November, 1951. The unit was next stationed at Alexandria Air Force Base, Louisiana. The majority of the personnel were at Alexandria AFB by 15 December, 1951. Training of personnel at Alexandria was extremely limited, at the start, due to the shortage of Radar and Communications equipment. The Base was in need of housing, sidewalks, Storage Buildings, and many other items essential to a Military Base. The personnel of the unit were detailed to build the large Butler Buildings, sidewalks, and other units. In approximately 2 months the base was decidedly beginning to form, and military and technical training commenced. Various specialty schools were organized for the personnel of the 157th Tactical Control Group, of which this unit participated. Our Operations personnel worked short shifts of duty (one) CPS-6 site and (one) small TPS-1D located on the outskirts of the base. The time spent in this type of training was very limited due to the great number of operations personnel, not only in this unit, but in the 5 other Aircraft Control and Warning Squadrons which were located at Alexandria Air Force Base. By January 1954 there was only approximately one-tenth of the personnel that originally went on EAD with the unit, still remaining. Most of the men were assigned with Squadrons of the 507th Tactical Control Group, in New Mexico, North and South Carolina, where a great deal of operational training was received, due to organized sites being maintained. This was terminated suddenly as most of the personnel were released from EAD 4 to 6 months after this change. Many of our personnel were shipped out to oversea area and to other ZI bases within Tactical Air Command. A great percentage of the unit participated in "Exercise Longhorn," a joint maneuver in Texas, between the various Armed Forces. On 31 October, 1953, the unit was released from Active Duty and returned to the control of the State of Iowa. During the period of active duty many of our personnel were granted early releases, and on 1 July, 1953, the state organized the "8246th Air Base Squadron" which was composed of personnel of the unit who had received early releases from Active Duty. The 8246th AB Sq. was small in number of personnel, however, it was very well utilized as a receiving center for the personnel being released from EAD on and after 1 July, 1953. On 31 October, 1953, the 8246th Air Base Squadron, was discontinued and the 133d Aircraft Control and Warning Flight reorganized the next day. Detachment "A" of our unit, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was also reorganized, and individual specialty training began on a large scale. Many of the original personnel were lost from the organization. Some remained on Active Duty with the Air Force, some were lost to the service but remained in the state where last assigned, and only a very small minority returned to the unit. Recruiting was the main project as we had only 3 Officers and 39 Airmen as of 1 November 1953. Recruiting was hazardous at that time as most of the old personnel who had returned were very reluctant to return to military service be it reserve or other type, due to their last tour of EAD. However by 30 June, 1954, the recruiting seemed better and the organization was up to 9 Officers and 79 Airmen. The unit remained at the Eno Airport in Fort Dodge and was very much handicapped by the poor facilities offered there. However on 1 July, 1954, a new building, for the unit, was being built and the enthusiasm and morale of our personnel was very high.

ANNEX G

GRAVES REGISTRATION REPORT

1 July 1954

To: Major General Fred C. Tandy, The Adjutant General,
State of Iowa, State Capitol, Des Moines, Iowa.

Subject: Bi-Annual Report.

1. Transmitted herewith for your approval is the Bi-Annual Report of the Armed Forces Graves Registration Records.

This Report covers the period 1 July 1952 to 30 June 1954.

Records on file 1 July 1952	77,245
New records received	3,797

Total on file 1 July 1954	81,042
---------------------------	--------

Included in this report of increase of 3,797 new records of all Wars is the following distribution.

Revolutionary War	6	World War 2	967
Civil War	63	Korean War	236
War of 1812	1	Moro Campaign	3
Indian Wars	4	Peace Time	8
Spanish-American	342	World War 1 & 2	1
World War 1	2,164	World War 1 & Korean	1
Austria, Turkish	1

2. The making of this report included sub-dividing the last Bi-Annual Report as that Report was made for the period 1 July 1951 to 30 June 1953 but it is my belief that the division has been accurately made.

3. The Co-operation that I am receiving from the various State Veterans Commissions has been on the increase for quite some time, and I find that these States are always willing to furnish information on Veterans death and Service.

4. The other Veterans Organizations in the State are always willing to help in the compiling of Records, and several Posts have been quite active in compiling records for their own file.

Respectively submitted
